With the knowledge that 100% student support will give a real boost to the Fund Drive proceeding throughout the country, the committee of seventy will personally contact every man in college during the two days following the assembly. Donations will be made in the form of cash or check, pledges due May 20, or as an item on a man's house bill. The committee will urge each man to make some contribution, to put himself behind this effort which is of vital importance to the future of Williams College.

Prof. Praises Henry Wallace

Progressive Named Most Capable

Professor Frederick L. Schuman, Woodrow Wilson Professor of Government, called for the election of Henry Wallace in talks at Springfield and Pittsfield last week. Speaking before the Pittsfield branch of the Progressive Party of Massachusetts Friday night, Professor Schuman discussed the events which have precipitated the present world crisis and praised Henry Wallace as being the most capable presidential candidate to solve these problems.

State Meeting April 4

In a Record interview, Professor Schuman revealed the Progressive Party of Massachusetts will hold its first statewide meeting April 4. Meanwhile local groups are being organized throughout the state and petitions endorsing the candidacy of Henry Wallace and Glen Taylor are being circulated to place their names on the ballot.

Plans are underway to organize a Students-for-Wallace club. Williams has been represented at regional meetings of Wallace supporters and formal organization of the group will be completed within two or three weeks when interested students hold their next meeting. At this time they hope to present a well-known speaker, possibly Professor Schuman.

Hudson, Goodman Fill Lecture Posts

Competition To Begin After Spring Vacation

At a meeting of the Williams Lecture Committee on March 10 in Jesup Hall new officers were elected for the coming term and the announcement was made that a new faculty advisor will be appointed to fill the vacancy left by Prof. Halfdan Gregersen, who is on leave of absence.

The new officers are: Hubert R. Hudson F-'49, chairman; Richard A. Goodman '49, vice-chairman; Alexander M. Clement, Jr. '49, secretary; and Peter M. Gutman '49, treasurer. A vote of commendation was extended by the committee to Paul R. Barstow F-'48 retiring chairman, for his fine work during the previous year.

One of the first decisions made by the new committee was to reschedule the lectures planned for the Spring term so that they will not conflict with the athletic schedule. It was also announced that competitions for the lecture committee would begin after Spring Vacation.

Max Eastman Autobiography Described By Reviewer As 'Candid', Beautifully Written

A brilliant, liberal, aesthetic author and poet has written a self-psychanalytical autobiography. The cover of the book calls it "The Candid Story of an Exciting Life." Candid is the adjective which best characterizes the book. Mr. Eastman relates his complete thought processes, and all his exploits from childhood to what he calls the beginning of his life in 1917, when he had reached the age of thirty-three.

As a child, he was surrounded by an aura of religion and virtue. His father, Samuel Eastman, went to Oberlin College. There he was to be educated to follow in the footsteps of his father, Morgan Lewis Eastman, an itinerant minister who fiercely believed in God. There, also, he met Annis Bertha Ford, who became his wife. Samuel Eastman was a gentle, introspective man whose career as a minister was short-lived due to ill health.

Mrs. Eastman was a vivid, broad-minded, energetic woman, continually in search of knowledge. She became one of the first women ministers in the Congregational Church. A woman of ideas, she made each day in the Eastman family an exciting one. The diary she kept of her children's growth, physical and mental, is the source from which Mr. Eastman has obtained much data on his childhood.

A Melancholy Child

Max, born on January 4, 1883, was the youngest of four children. In his mother's diary, he is depicted as a melancholy child, full of fears. He says his trouble was having received at birth "an unstable and too sensitive nervous system." A frail youth, he decided that since he could never win recognition as an athlete, he would gain renown as a scholar. He was sent to Mercersburg Academy, where he received grades better than had ever been achieved by any student in the history of the school. While he was at Mercersburg, his brother was a student at Princeton. Max had his heart set upon joining his brother, but because the family was struggling financially, he was forced to accept a scholarship (offered by Mrs. F. F. Thompson) to Williams, a college which was totally unfamiliar to him. He went to Williams in 1900 with one goal: not to stand at the top of his class.

Mr. Thompson has been the founder of the Delta Psi fraternity, thus Max was recommended by his benefactor. He found the St. Anthony Club "far from ideal," and noted that the Williams chapter "was particularly renowned for wealth and sporty polish." Eastman's first reputation at Williams was that of being a heavy drinker. He, accompanied by a brother Saint, made "almost nightly" trips to bars, taprooms, dance halls and theaters of North Adams. It was at Williams, too, that he began a career as poet and author. He was a prolific contributor to the magazine, "Lit", and was editor of the "Gul." After a year's absence from the college, he returned as a senior to graduate Phi Beta Kappa. He then set out for New York City, where he shared an apartment with his sister.

Editor of "The Masses"

Shortly after his arrival, he had the good fortune to become an instructor in philosophy under John Dewey at Columbia University. While teaching there, he studied for his Ph. D. Eventually he resigned his position at Columbia to devote all his time to writing, but it was not long before a group of liberal-thinking artists and writers chose him to edit their cooperative magazine, "The Masses," a job without salary which he held until the beginning of his life, in 1917, at which point Mr. Eastman ends his confession. "The Masses" was a meeting ground for "revolutionary labor and radical intelligentsia," pleading for racial equality, women's rights, intelligent sex relations, and birth control.

During this period, Mr. Eastman was not only campaigning for women's suffrage and taking an active part in labor agitation, but was also writing books. He was a socialist, and believed in revolution. He thought the whole labor and radical movement needed to think "experimentally" without "anarchist impetuosity or Marxian dogma." Upon the outbreak of World War I he realized that "The Masses" and the radicals had formed their ideas in the golden age of this country, before international crisis had become more important than domestic ones.

Max Eastman

"Enjoyment of Living" is more than a chronological recalling of the events in a man's life. It is the study of the growth of a man's philosophy, showing the factors that influenced its development. Mr. Eastman grew up in a broad-minded, forward-thinking family. This, as well as his introspective nature, brought about his renunciation of God and the Church. He also renounced his country, believing himself to be a citizen of the world, and it was to the world that he pledged his allegiance.

Mr. Eastman's early indoctrination in Christian virtues came into conflict with his liberal thinking, creating in him, somehow, a pre-occupation with sex. He was never able to overcome his sexual frustration until 1917, when he met Florence Deshon, who understood his sexual and intellectual needs. In 1911, much against his wishes, he married Ida Raub. The ceremony was not ten days past when he felt himself completely disillusioned with his wife and with marriage. What he felt to be her inertia, her lack of buoyancy, and her lack of eagerness of "friendly delight in people" were unbearable, and her unwillingness to cope with his egocentric nature, unreasonable. Ida was a talented actress, author, and sculptress, but she did not have the will to pursue any of these talents. This was particularly distasteful to Eastman. Although his wife was, to him, a "charming, gentle, humorous, vivid-tongued and comprehending" person, his feeling that she did not attempt to adjust herself to his personality to the degree that he had altered himself to make her happy, brought about their separation.

In his notebook Mr. Eastman wrote, "My life began in January, 1917." At this time he felt that he had come to possess "one or two wisdoms. One, that most of the difficult virtues are essential to the full enjoyment of life." The other was that "a liberal mind is a mind that is able or willing to imagine itself believing anything. That is the only mind capable of judging beliefs or that can hold strong without bigotry to a belief of its own."

Hall To Devote Full Time To Fund Drive

George Cooper and Frank O'Hearn from the American City Bureau of Chicago, who have been professional advisers to the National Committee of the Building and Endowment Drive, have completed their assignment the President's office announced last week.

Charles B. Hall '15, National Chairman of the drive, recently resigned from the Bank of Manhattan to devote his time to the drive. He will be in Williamstown two days a week and is leaving for California Friday to initiate the Fund Drive there. Assisting Hall will be Frank R. Thoms, Jr. who will take charge of the office in Williamstown.

Second A D A Meeting Called

Henderson Instructs Committee Action

A telegram received from Leon Henderson, National Chairman of the Americans for Democratic Action, has instigated the second meeting of the Northern Berkshire Chapter of ADA which will be held in Griffin tonight at 8 p.m. Henderson wired Prof. Richard A. Newhall that it is necessary for local ADA chapters to take a stand for a presidential candidate and to choose a delegate to go to a national meeting in Pittsburgh on April 10 to express the chapter's feelings.

According to information received from Assistant Professor James M. Burns, the ADA is theoretically non-partisan, but has Democratic leanings and plans to work through either party if it is possible to get their liberal candidate the presidential nomination. Uppermost on the agenda is the status of President Truman. The committee must decide if they are to support Truman or to choose a replacement for him. Because of the rumored possibility that Eisenhower may run, the committee must also discuss the possibility of giving him their support.

Open To Students

ADA membership is eligible to all students who will reach the voting age by November. It is also open to all faculty members and at the present time it is composed solely of faculty of the College.

Meeting publicly for the first time last Wednesday when an open discussion was held between Dean R. R. Brooks and Professors Despres, Truman, Burns, and Johnson. The final action of the last meeting was the appointment of a committee to draft a letter to district congressman John W. Heslton telling him the various opinions expressed at the meeting.

Juniors Draw First Room Assignments

Rooms Held Except In Sage, Williams

The Dean's office has notified The Record that room assignments for next fall will be drawn up immediately after Spring vacation.

The first step in the process will be the appointment of next year's Junior Advisers from lists submitted by the Garfield Club and the fraternities. Any student may keep his present room if he desires, with the exception of those living in Sage and Williams Halls, who must change in order to make room for the incoming freshman class.

Any men who are not holding their rooms, or moving into a house, will draw for rooms with the class of '49 drawing first. There will be a notice in the Adviser telling the time that this will take place.

Baxter States Acad'micRight Of Schuman

Explains College Policy At Alumni Meetings In Washington, Pittsfield

by Seth Bidwell

During the past week, many students and Alumni have questioned the relation of Prof. Frederick L. Schuman to Williams and the extent that academic freedom should be pursued at Williams. Because of the number of letters the College has received suggesting the dismissal of Prof. Schuman and the number of times Pres. J. Phinney Baxter, 3rd, has been called upon to defend his views, the Record has interviewed Pres. Baxter as to the official College policy concerning Schuman.

Pres. Baxter said, "I disagree with Professor Schuman's evaluation of Secretary Byrnes' book and with his views as to our present diplomacy. But I am prepared to defend his right to express these unpopular views. Those who suggest, as some of my correspondents have, that he be dismissed because of his views are following not the American tradition of free speech but the Russian tradition of suppression. In Russia the scholar, the composer, the scientist enjoys no real freedom of expression; everything he does must be controlled by the prevailing ideology. To American scholars this idea is revolting, even when we see it abroad. They would regard its application here with abhorrence."

"Off With Their Heads"

Contrasting Russia and the U.S. Baxter went on to say, "Fortunately in American Colleges no official runs around like the character in Professor Schuman's favorite book, shouting, 'off with their heads.' This country's task, to my way of thinking, is to defend Europe from Russian conquest, by diplomacy and financial aid if we can, by armed force if we must. In that process, we must preserve those traditional liberties which make us different from the Russian. The best revenge on your enemy is not to be like him."

Following the publication of George Sokolsky's review of Prof. Schuman's article, "The Devil and Jimmy Byrnes," the professionals running the Fund Drive informed Baxter that unless Schuman was fired, the collections in Washington would be nil. Called to defend his view before what he termed an "indignation meeting" of Williams Alumni in Washington, Pres. Baxter re-affirmed Schuman's rights and said the Alumni had not evidenced the antagonism expected.

Academic Freedom

Friday night, Pres. Baxter was again called upon to clarify the College position before a group of Alumni in Pittsfield. He again declared that Schuman would not be fired because Schuman was a supporter of Wallace. Declaring that there are two ways for the president to lose his faculty, Baxter said, "One is not to pay a living salary and the other is to stifle academic freedom."

Speaking on the practical side, he noted that the Berkshire County Alumni had already subscribed $35,000 toward a county quota of $50,000. Simultaneously with Baxter's speech, Schuman was addressing a meeting of Wallace supporters in the adjoining room.

The Case Of Professor Schuman

As one English professor remarked last week on Spring Street, "Professor Schuman has been getting it from right and left," he might have added that it was mostly from the right. What has happened to our democratic rights?

Vacation

Are you wondering why you are only getting one page of news and one page of ads today? Do you feel that we are betraying the cause of the free press by not having a regular issue? Maybe you do, but we don't. To be quite frank, we just got tired of the whole shooting match, and decided that because vacation isn't nearly long enough, we would start ours somewhat earlier. We hope you don't mind because we don't in the least. If we had gone to Rollins or some difficult college, we would probably consider ourselves lucky to get any vacation.

With our reputation as a play-school, however, we thought it high time we got the kind of vacation we really deserve so we just knocked off publishing until April 17. Have you been smart enough to do the same? If you haven't, it's time you did.

Faison Shows Master Works

Presents Slides Of Famed Art Today

Prof. S. Lane Faison will present more than fifty of the slides of the 200 Kaiser Friedrich Museum paintings, which the Art Department recently acquired, in two hour-long sessions Wednesday afternoon and evening in Room 10 Lawrence Hall. The Italian paintings will be presented at 4:30 p.m., the Flemish, Dutch, French, and German paintings at 8:00 p.m.

Mr. Faison was overflowing with enthusiasm last week when he told The Record about his visit to the National Gallery in Washington over the Palm Sunday weekend. He said:

"I was one of 35,593 people who saw the paintings on Sunday. They were incredibly wonderful. Everything I have said previously about the collection was an understatement."

He urged any students or members of the faculty who would be in the vicinity of Washington during the Spring recess, make an effort to see the collection, and pointed out that after April 18 the only place they will be on view is in Berlin.

To the Editor of The Record:

I have been hearing a great deal in print and conversation about the activities of Professor Schuman, and I was greatly shocked to hear that there is a feeling prevalent among the alumni and other friends of Williams whose position it is to give financial help to Williams now at a time when the College stands in a most needy and deserving place that unless "communist elements" are gotten rid of there will be no money forth coming. Let us analyze this reasoning which seems to me to be representative of something less than educated gentlemen.

First, I don't know whether Mr. Schuman is a communist or not, frankly, I don't care, for I as well as other students at Williams attempt to use our heads in evaluating what Schuman or any other faculty member says, and we don't take anything that comes from any faculty member as gospel. Although I must admit I disagree heartily with most everything Schuman says, I am always interested to hear what opposing views are and thus am happier with my own ideas if I see the falseness of other principles. This is one of the bright spots of college education and Williams might as well throw in the towel if alumni are to dictate who shall teach and who shan't. That is what President Baxter gets paid to decide. So much for Schuman's presence on campus.

Now let us analyze alumni who say, "I won't give a cent unless you get rid of". These micrbrains probably haven't enough sense to realize what a college education is supposed to do, or else they probably didn't want to contribute anyway, and not having the guts to say so, look for a convenient reason which Schuman readily supplies. It seems a damn shame that as fine a school as Williams should lose the support of its friends and alumni over a question which is not rightly in their jurisdiction. Instead of giving a stump speech for academic freedom, I would just like to say that the college needs everyone's support in the fund drive and those who drag the red herring in and point to the horrors of the presence of those who disagree with us are doing a disservice to the very ideals which they claim to be supporting and are indeed giving credence to the very mollycoddle which they wish to get rid of by a "purge." A message to you from the Chief of Staff

"April 6 is Army Day. It is a day which will have a special meaning for college men. More than half of you are veterans of the last war. Many of you are members of the Organized Reserve. Many others belong to the R.O.T.C. or National Guard.

"All of you are making a vital contribution toward World Peace and the security of this nation.

"The U. S. Army is the finest army in the world and the only one of its kind among the major powers. It is 100% volunteer. It is composed entirely of civilian soldiers . . . men like yourselves who realize that a strong America is a peaceful America, and that the responsibility of making America strong rests in the hands of every American citizen.

"The U. S. Army is not a large army, as armies go. It is shouldering tasks far greater than any other army of like size has ever attempted.

Our occupation force in Japan is the smallest per capita of any modern occupation army. Our force in Europe is the smallest of the three major powers.

"But behind this Army stand you men of the Organized Reserve and the R.O.T.C. I have been with many of you personally. I have been with many of you in action. I know the fine type of men you are and the realism that leads you to equip yourselves with military training.

"Further, I know the valuable service you can render the nation in time of emergency. A great deal of the success of fast mobilization and the actual winning of the war was due to the 106,000 trained Reserve Officers and the top-notch National Guard units which were available for quick action.

"To you, on Army Day, I believe I speak for millions of Americans in offering commendation for the fine job you are doing."

The Trustees sheepishly dropped their action to abolish compulsory Chapel Monday, after receiving an overwhelming mandate from the student body to retain this sacred institution.

J. D. Bogg and former editor of Headsheet, The Toilet Paper of Williams College, conclusively demonstrated that a vast majority of the prudent body would rather spend Sunday night in Chapel than anywhere.

The Trustees rushed to Guillemopolis on the first NA express after "the Geek Farm" in last Saturday's issue of the "Wrecker" had reported rumors that compulsory Chapel was unpopular in certain quarters. Their decision to keep the students happy by abolishing the system was made tentatively, subject to the approval of the Undergraduate Security Council. The unprecedented reaction expressed through the Groper Poll was the result.

Pierre Intestine, Chairman of the Internal Relations Club, and Jim Shale, former midget auto racer, were Bogg's lieutenants on the project. "It should be noted," commented enthusiastic Lieutenant Shale, "that the Poll was conducted in Nick's and Grim Jim's and for this reason slight duplication and omissions in the final figures are to be expected."

O'Finian To Achieve Majority On Cold Damn Day In June

States 'They Always Said It Would Be A Cold Damn Day'

by John Nestle

Another consolidation of the happy little Guillemensian Family was assured this week with the announcement that Capt. Rainbow O'Finian '48, would become a major in the Regular Air Force after graduation and that he would be called here in the fall to head the AROTC.

The statement was made to a newspaperman at a press conference called by Public Relations Non-com M/Sgt. Eugenic Dratmer '48, old school chum of the major, who will serve as his aide-de-camp here next fall. It was announced at the same time that Col. Francisco Goya, a famous Spanish loyalist painter before the War, would be released for active duty with the armed forces as soon as Major O'Finian assumes command.

In an exclusive Wrecker interview, Major O'Finian stated:

"I am an easy guy to get along with. If the Reserve Officer Candidate Cadets play ball with me, I am prepared to go to bat for them."

Then turning to Sergeant Dratmer, in clipped, military language, he said:

"Take over, Sergeant." When asked his opinion of the sixty-three-cent daily "substinence allowance" allotted to the cadets, the major flushed slightly then roared:

"NO COMMENT & @($)*!" and that's NOT for publication!" and stormed out of the room.

75 Torn From Lav

Seventy-five members of the junior class were torn from the Lav Campus fence at midnight Sunday in the first-sem-annual tapping of the Argyle Society. The one remaining member of the class has been mercifully shot and interred in the place where they inter people, we think.

The Argyle Society has been re-organized recently. Its duties now are to think up things to do so that people won't ask what the Argyle Society does. Eugenic Dratmer, so-called president of the society is said to have a special interview, "Those guys who got in are real lucky, because we have secret meetings and everything." To qualify for Argyle, one must know how to take polls and be buddy-buddy with one of the more influential members.

Alert Federal Agents Anesthetize Ether

Campus radio station WMSY has been ordered by the Federal Communications Commission to cease transmission immediately. The station was served with a notice that they had violated the interstate radiation regulations set up by the Commission after a signal had been detected by a receiver in South Pownal, Vermont, last night.

The board of student directors has been placed on probation and ordered to appear in court on charges of broadcasting across state lines.

They are subject to a $10,000 fine or two years in jail, or both. An emergency meeting of the Board has been called with the College Authorities conferring.

Couchman Reveals All

"The offending radiations," stated Norman (NMI) Couchman, Chief of the WMSY Techniques Staff, "was caused by parasite oscillations in both the buffer amplifier and the final push pull amplifier. These oscillations caused multiple signals as a result of beating against the fundamental carrier." The signals menaced the entire broadcasting system in the intra radio zone. The offensive equipment has been consigned by the Federal Agents.

Flash Cops Frustration At 'Typical' Seminary

STRIFE magazine photographer Flash Heron has been here for the past three weeks to get glorious color pictures for a "photographic Kinsey Report" on strife and frustration at a typical New England seminary. The series will appear in the picture magazine sometime.

Balked in his hopes to find women around when he arrived, the STRIFE artist decided to use Bangtown College students as models. After trying for two weeks, he finally flew to California in disgust. Returning in the middle of the Winter Souseparty, Heron happily set to work.

To get the shots from unusual angles for which he is justly famous, Heron has attempted many daredevil feats. For one routine shot, he made a steeple jack ascent to a chandler in Alpha Delta Cholera Lodge. Once there, he planned to hang by his heels to get a picture of the entire dance floor.

A California Girl

but he dropped his flash bulbs, and had to come down.

Modesty

Thus far in the STRIFE artist's sojourn on campus, Argyle compet "Fig" Newton '48, is reputedly the only student not trying to have his picture taken. In an extensive Wrecker interview, Newton, who was confined to the infirmary recently with a bad case of acute beaveritis, quietly commented: "My innate modesty kept me from exposing myself to the cheap commercialism of the vulgar STRIFE venture. 'Anyway,' he modestly added, 'I didn't have a date.'"

Before starting to work for STRIFE, Heron spent nine years snapping colorful axe murders for the New York Mirror. He attributes his deep scorn for New England college women to his residence in California, where, according to his statement, "they really make females." Last Saturday, a quantity of Heron's pictures See STRIFE, page 6

Terror, Chaos Rain; Barnum Finds Suckers' On Bored of Trusties

Will Hit Grads Hard, Low

"I quit," shouted J. Phinneas Barnum (III) and cries of exuberance, joy and terror struck the calm of the College Trusties meeting Wednesday as Barnum applied for the rains of the Purple eleven. Concluding his speech with the prattle cry "Beat Hammers," Barnum seated himself. The Bored of Trusties immediately confirmed his appointment and that of Hip Waders as chief sparkplug of the FUN Drive and the other incidental duties of the Presidency.

When this news was announced, Barnum shouted, "There's a sucker." Barnum, long a campus character, has served the College well. He holds the Nobull Prize for his non-fiction best seller "Truman Against Time," and served with the SOS-Corps during the late war. Declaring that his energies had been expended as an educator, Barnum asserted his desire to try his hand at other methods of "Beating Hammers." "Hammers has long been a pain in the anvil," he said, "and I would like to iron out the situation."

Old-Fashioned

When asked about the coming football campaign, Barnum said he was a fundamentalist and old-fashioned. He fundamentally believes in Old-Fashions. "I am also a member of Argyle and believe that Old-Fashions and Argyles typify the College student. It should obviously make a good football team. Look at the experience they have had."

President Waders said the FUN Dribble would be continued and that all faculty, Alumni, and prudent who did not "pitch in with their perinies" would be bitched. He went on to shout, "Football will be de-emphasized until the FUN really Drives." "I am going to get new uniforms for all Fun-Drivers and really get them to hit hard, and after they are hit, they won't get up again quickly."

When The Wrecker questioned Pruxy Waders further concerning the FUN Drive, he said he hoped it would be completed by house-parties. "Think," he said, "of a See BARNUM, page 6

Blaizon Masterwork In Tin Acclaimed by Huge Turnout

This is the miraculous conception, "Horned Symphony", which won plaudits for its creator, M. Blaizon, last week. Smirchall Photo by Carl Western

According to a recent poll of the 8500 weekly visitors to the current exhibition at the Galleria Lorenzo, "Art Looms over Williams town," more than eighty per cent have selected "Horned Symphony" (reproduced above) as the most significant creative work on display. This work is found in Wing 263, which is devoted to Spontaneous Tin Sculpture.

News of this acclaim brought a warm response from the creator of "Horned Symphony," Prof. M. Blaizon, Thurman Arnold, Professor of Folklore and Capitalism, emeritus. In a statement to the Wrecker he stated "Although it is my first really inspired work," he said, "I do not see how it could be improved. I feel it is going to be considered my masterpiece. It expresses exactly the feelings I wished to convey: the tensions, the strain and counterstrain of this chaotic world; the ripping, flesh-rendering music of our convulsed spheres. Speaking of spheres, notice the three-dimensionality of my work. It looks just as well from one side as another. It is truly sculptural because the contour lines wind you around into the ultimate vortex of destruction."

Asked whether his work is modern art of contemporary art, Prof. Blaizon replied "It is both."

Western Toilets

Once we made a mistake. Once we said that the Western Field toilets were the most "disgusting" and "Disgraceful" "eyesores" on the Bilious Campus. We can see now that we were wrong.

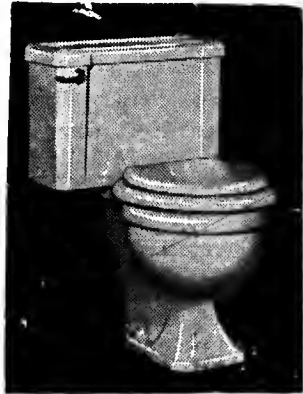

At the time we were torn between trying to get a head and maintaining the draughty ideals and nobull traditions of old Bilious. We can now see the Error of our Ways. "If it was good enough for '99 it's good enough for anytime." We also questioned the Good Taste of running the picture along with the editorial. Looking back now with a little prospective we can see that it was nothing if not Bad Taste.

LOOK

This monstrosity is what they have at Hammers Tech. We know you will agree with us that it just isn't Bilious. We love our ideals, draughty though they be. We don't want the crass commercialism of Hammers beating on our very doorstep.

If it was good enough for our grand-paperies and grand-mameries, it is good enough for us! We apologize to "Tweet" O'Shinian and "Jolly Cholly" Breakpiece for even considering such things. Beat Hammers!!

"Tweet" O'Shinian, Director of Athlete's Foot, in a statement to The Wrecker, said that something would be done about this deplorable situation "as soon as funds permit." We hope he takes that back. It takes a loot of pennies to make a pound—and 'pound' reminds us of Hammers—so please take that back, Mr. O'Shinian.

LOOK

This is Bilious for you. Isn't it Traditional? Of course it is because that is a rhetorical question. We like it just as it is. We really like old customs and we don't like the shoddy commercialism of Hammers. Beat Hammers, we say, and Beat Hammers we have. These are certified antiques. Certified antiques are valuable!

Inasmuch as it is now realized that this "old-fashioned 'hole-in-board' apparatus" is not a "poor excuse" as we heretofore stated, but actually valuable antiques, we can see that we were all wet. Especially since we learned to care for old-fashionedness since we wrote that darned edit.

We take our stand with the status commode ante bellum. Huzzah for our Nobull Traditions! Long Live our Draughty Ideals! Go Getum Maupve Mauraders! Beat Hammers!

WALLACE—MAN OF PRINCIPAL?

I doubt very much that Vladimir Wallace will run for the Presidency. He has never been on the losing side or the winning side, so it seems doubtful that he will risk all his reputations to run for the Presidency. As Dwight MacDunghill in his penetratingly analytic analysis entitled "Vladimir Wallace—Man or Myth?" says: "There is no recorded case of Vladimir Wallace's separating himself from a case." This is in essence true. Vladimir Wallace empties case after case, but he never separates himself from them until they are completely empty. This is commendable.

Wallace was to me, and to many of my many friends, a man. He was the articulator of articulations and objectives of the "Bull Moose" Party. He was a man of principal—of many principals. He had more money in the bank than any of us. And this is precisely my reason for being a friend of his. He had guts. Guts are vital. He had vision. Vision is vital.

He talked a good game. Once he talked his way into taking the pot when he held two fives. This last sentence means nothing, but it belies an inability to deal with reality, to fight when the chips are down, to fight when the chips are up, to fight at the drop of a hat—any hat. And that is precisely the reason why I do not think he will run for the Presidency.

He gets my vote—"no principal, but a hell of a lot of interest."

FACULTY FRUSTRATIONS ... They're still talking about the contest that was held in the wee hours after the latest faculty "meeting." Jolly Cholly Krullerwon—which seems to prove something. Classic remark of the losing profs was, "@&? (!@*$. The bigger they are, the more they can toss, Jolly Cholly!...

We were wondering who the pretty thing is that sneaks in and out of the office of J. Worley Fang of the Anthropology Department. She's certainly no example of plthancropus erectus. We'll bet that Mrs. Fang doesn't know about it—and remember who gave out the info first!

WE SNAP OUR GIRDLE TO ... Algy Redfield who managed to snooze thru the last frosh-soph scrap. It helps to be stoned, doesn't it, Algy? ... Algy Redfield who was scraped up from the middle of the freshman quad last Monday. Stoned again, Algy?... Algy Redfield who has been banned from the Taconic for shouting obscene things during the showing of "Down in the Gutter with Mable". Does your mother know you drink, Algy?

SPORTUOUSLY WENDING OUR WAY ... They're still talking about the new uniforms to be worn by the Team next fall. We bet they'll still be just talking about them next fall. Classic remark of the Coach was, "You won't recognize the Team in the new satin headgear and virgin wool pants." We hope so

If nobody else gets around to it, we'd like to congratulate Peter Schrud for throwing the squash match with Yale. Said one bright Yalie, "Schrud really threw the game. Too bad you Harvard men don't have more people like Schrud." The joke is that the bright Yalie didn't realize he was playing at Williams instead of Harvard!

SOCIAL NOTES ... Social life hit a new high Thursday with a huge brawl on the top floor of West College. Formal invitations carried the names of the various show-girls who would be present. A wheel promised attendance of Joan Coufield and sister Betsey, but they passed out before they got above the ground floor ... Two chaise lounges were moved into the carpeted shower for the relaxation of the hundred odd guests. The hundred other guests were relaxed by fifteen gallons of gin and formaldehyde. Incidental sportuous note was a pair of crossed billiard cues on the wall. Streamers from the rafters created an unmistakably effect, while two wire recorders blared the din of voices to liven up the joint ... Among the celebrities helping themselves to punch and everything else that wasn't bolted down was Sean O'Scanlon, who blandly asked the direction to the men's room ... A blter-ender from the English dept. found himself under a table conversing with nobody in particular two days later ... The drayma dept was represented by John Hooley Rupert who came attired in his famous Stork Club undies. Chief Royal had a hard time tearing him away from the party when he was arrested for indecent exposure ... Classic remark of the afternoon came from Prof. Nu-deall who kept screaming about the little creatures walking on the ceiling ... Lee Brumbaugh and two p-ladies claim to have been the only standees by eight o'clock. They collapsed at eight-oh-five.

MALES WONDERING ... Algy Redfield crashed into an iron deer on the lawn of a magistrate in South Pownal. His new Stutz Bearcat was completely demolished. The Dean hasn't found out about it yet, but don't forget who gave out the old info.

THEY CALL IT HUMOR ... One day this week, President Truman was stopped as he staggered out of Hopkins Hall by an excited freshman, who burst out:

'Oh, Mr. Makepeace—I want to thank you ...'

'But I'm not Mr. Makepeace.'

'Oh, you're Mr. Smedley, the keeper of the grounds ...'

'No ... I'm President Truman,' said President Truman and continued on his way. The freshman shot him, which is humorous.

New Society Instrumental To Up Ideals In Crepehung

Safety Society Secret Says Unknown Senior; Dark Lav Quad Rites

by Me

A senior honorary organization called the Safety Society has been formed on the campus according to information obtained by The Wrecker from an unusually reliable source.

Little is known about the group except its name, but there are indications that it has the Campus in its clutch. This much has been gleaned from the North Pownal Transcript which article reported Monday that "while the membership of the Safety Society is unknown, the members are said to wear a gold safety pin on the lower part of their tie. Since the members must keep their coats buttoned at all times, there is no way of identifying them."

The society is rumored to have been organized on the Lav Campus by a group of seniors whose objective was to maintain the lofty ideals of the loyal purple.

A member of the former senior society, Argyle, commented:

"We used to be a well knit organization, but this new society has us in tatters. This menace would be much easier to control if we could only pin it down."

The proprietor of a Sprung Street toggery would make no comment on the new organization except to say: "I'm all out of gold Safety Society pins, you may draw your own conclusions."

This Week In The USC

Biological Theme To Stir Females

Explosions shattered the calm of the Undergraduate Security Council in more ways than one Monday night as decisions were being made on future USC and nouseparty plans.

USC President Vehr E. Wett '48, opened the meeting by calling on Ralph Rupert '48, Chairman of the Student-Graduate-Faculty Discipline and Chastisement Committee, for a report on the Committee's activities. Rupert said that seventeen time-clocks had been installed in Ephraim and Grange Halls and that the freshmen had been instructed in their operation.

Limited Females

Rupert said that the purpose of this measure is to provide a check on the presence of female guests in undergraduates' rooms after the curfew hour. It was revealed that exceptions to the rule will be made in the cases of certified grandmothers, maiden aunts, and female dogs and other pets.

Flyrt O'Well, Evening Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, was present at the USC meeting to give his views on this latest S-G-FD&CC action O'Well said, "Those frosh sure are strong; three machines have been pulled from the walls. I think those fellows like the system but I wish they'd quit taking the things down to Easton Field. I think the team will win Saturday".

To Revise Constitutions

K. Queuelogg '48, brought up the subject of houseparties, and asked the Council for suggestions for a theme. The motifs suggested included: Indian tribes, historical novels, and bird calls. The USC finally adopted a natty nautical theme, and plans to have all social units decorate accordingly.

Zebinson Invoice '48, asked the USC if there were any constitutions or rules that needed rewording or revision. He said, "Since the USC will soon be in the hands of next year's seniors, I feel that we should see to it that there is no chance of there being any ambiguity in the wording of any rules. This will encourage sound student government next year."

Rob Boiler '48, agreed with Invoice, and as Chairman of the Steering Committee of the Committee on Committees, appointed a Committee to see to it that all College rules, regulations, and directives are burned, and that new ones are drawn up.

Missing Objects

Several social unit presidents stated that their houses had lost objects over the last houseparty weekend. The list included: four dog mats with fraternity coats of arms, the goat from the chapter room, nine Vassar dates, and two snow sculptures.

The purple-tape efficiency of the meeting was interrupted by an announcement that the Chemistry Laboratory had exploded. Tad Hammered '48, said, "I move that we adjourn." The Council Hastily adjourned.

TIRED?

We NEVER tire of this sort of thing.

Student Politicos Form Flotsam For President Club

In a surprise move, the heads of the Americans for Demonide Action, the Student Whigs, National Prudent Association, Students-for-HS, and Students-for-Alice announced that they would publicly back Governor Flotsam of Alabama in the 1948 presidential elections. The action came as a result of a secret caucus held in Jesup Auditorium last night.

Prof. Frederick L. Truman, formerly an Alice supporter, was bleary eyed after the night-long session in smoke-filled 3 Griffin. Removing his eye-shade he declared, "I can think of no more capable man to represent us than 'Kissin' Jim. He stands head and shoulders above all the other potential candidates whom I can see at this time."

"I've been interested in Civil Rights before, but this is the first time I've been civil to Rightists," snickered Karl Sparkel, leader of the Students for Alice.

Slashing Spearsmen Slit Navy Fencers; Remain Undeclared

College Bladesmen Now Sharpest Aggregation In Our Great Nation

by Stephen Blasphemy

The college bladesmen, unbeaten in eleven straight forays, climaxed an outstanding season last Saturday, when, before a packed house of screaming students in the LaSwill Gym, they humbled a highly-touted Navy team, 21-6.

For the victorious Purple team the victory proved that they had finally achieved the goal which they had pointed for. Even Stanley Goodword broke down and tearfully admitted, "The fencers from the dandy little college in the Berkshires can now claim undisputed supremacy among the spearsmen of the United States."

Only in the epee did the Navy boys give the fighting Ephmen a run for their money. However, even in this event the Middle trio-fresh from winning the intercollegiate championship—went down before the flashing swordplay of Nemo Williamson, Nemo Backstair, and Nemo Filler, 5-4.

In the foil Captain Joel Star, who has been a powerful driving influence behind his team all season, chalked up a perfect record with three wins. (It was the last match for Joel, who is going to change his name to Monty Arm-itage and head for Hollywood with the contract he received recently because of his recognized acting ability). Following his lead, Tim Clown and Burt Koa, the slim Hawaiian whirlwind, chalked up two wins apiece.

Gay Blades

The saber was even more one-sided, with the three Sons of Ephriam, Chick Pebber, Saul Itch, and Hedy Borsehtman, hacking and slashing their way to make a clean sweep of all nine matches.

With this season's record, it is almost a sure thing that the college squad will be invited to represent the United States in the Olympic Games this summer, as this Wrecker reporter learned in an exclusive interview with Coach Nemo Awol. Said Awol, "It is almost a sure thing that the college squad will be invited to represent the United States in the Olympic Games this Summer."

Drippings...the surprised look on Navymen Bill Ryan's face when he saw his severed hand twitching on the gym floor...the smile on the face of Asst. Coach Nemo Messing as he passed out bonus checks to his happy team...the carefree laughter as the rejoicing victors jokingly pitched Manager Nemo Jones and Asst. Pedsters To See Australia

Best Accommodations Procured For Boys

Now that Spring has finally slid into Billville, the Winter mile relay team is busy packing for an extended trip through Australia where the frigid part of the year is just beginning to set in. Explained coach Robber VanToboggan in an exclusive Wrecker interview, "What the hell did you expect? It's a winter relay team, aint it?"

During their travels Down Under, the milers have planned a full schedule, meeting a crack Maori quartet which has slaughtered every opposing team so far this year, and climaxed their tour by taking on the Kangaroo Breeders Division of the Australian Agricultural College. It is possible that the footsters may return by way of Siberia, meeting the Reactionary Capitalists from Camp No. 5, but this is still in the tentative stage, since professor Frederick L. Truman is still corresponding with Joe about it.

Stassen Gets Vote

"The performance of the relayers this year, especially in the Nights with Columbus Meet, certainly justifies the expense of the trip," commented Tweet Shinnian. "Yes, sir, nothing's too good for our boys! Besides, they'll be earning 50c an hour on the cattleboat."

The footsters will be at top strength for the tour, since the only man missing will be Bill Blarney, who fractured his leg when he went through the board track and had to be shot. However, the college has reimbursed George Rubberneck, owner of the track, and Blarney's place will be more than filled by Bill Schmaltz, freshman wonder boy. The rest of the team will be Dock Geek, Gorgon Meethe, Alphabet Delancy, (the flying frenchman) and Been Rollin'. It's even possible that manager Antony Petoskey, who is under suspicion for overcharging (continued on Page 10)

Order Smooth Suits For Gritiron Brutes

Making a drastic break with tradition, the Athletic Council has voted to purchase football uniforms for next year's gritmen. Explains Tweet Shinnian, "Since so many of the nicer schools are outfitting their boys now, we thought it would be dandy if we did too. Of course we'll change the name of our college to Pine Gobble, so we won't have to alter the lettering on the jerseys we've ordered."

New Cut Program Proposed To Council

Pending passage by the Athletic Council, a new program of cut allowances will be installed. In the future, double free cuts will be allotted for all athletic trips. In addition, training tables for all sports will be arranged for at the "Queen of North Adams" Diner. Furthermore, all men taking athletic trips will be given $10 per day to cover incidental expenses.

"Speaking of Sports"

by Bill Cured-ham

Shortly after brunch yesterday I picked up a copy of The North Pownal Transcript, and was amazed to read that President Waders had wholeheartedly decided to abolish swimming as an active sport here. I say amazed, but I must admit that my emotions were a peculiar mixture of surprise and pleasure augmented by an overwhelming sense of relief, for now I feel certain that the administration has at last begun to answer the crying need for organization and clear thinking so urgently required if our great nation is ever to survive the onslaught of international strife existing in the world today.

Brains, not brawn, are the solution! It is the sacred duty of every student in the college to prepare himself mentally for the forthcoming ordeal, and this can be done only, and I reiterate, only, if each and every one of us is willing to forget the fruitless athletic activities that are currently tolerated. Let this be our watchword — "Preparedness begins in the classroom."

Sports have no spot in the College curriculum. The Wrecker strongly recommends that the authorities quickly act to abolish all existing sports which act only as a deterrent to World Peace.

I refer specifically to the more active athletic activities, namely, football, lacrosse, and hockey, which so often result in unnecessary injuries and indirectly bring about 4-F classifications. This in itself has been contributory to the amazing fact that two out of every five men were rejected for military service in World War II. Any Dun-derhead can fathom the idea that our armed forces are deprived of physically fit manpower every time a fellow is permanently injured on the athletic field. So useless, so unnecessary! Furthermore, why encourage these youngsters, especially those bewildered members of the freshman and sophomore classes who are so anxiously anticipating the interesting part they will play in our great nation's defense program? You must agree, dear reader, that these boys deserve that training which correlates best with their interests, and you may rest assured that these interests are deeply imbedded in their country's welfare, and not on the field of sport. Hats off to the teen-agers, and may your academic life prosper!

Dr. Wader's action of yesterday is a sure indication that the college is rising to the pressing needs of our time, and as Professor Slokosky, Benjamin Harrison Professor of Romantic Languages, so ably put it, "Now is the hour!"

Before signing off, I must say that I have a frightfully busy week ahead, many luncheon dates and meetings with notables of the sports world. We'll probably chat a good deal about the coming season and perhaps reminisce a bit over last year's athletic achievements. Personally, I hope our boys on the fencing team foil all their opponents in the Olympics this summer, but if they fail, I am confident that all recognize the fundamental fact that it is easier to be a winner than a good loser, and I just know our boys will be good losers. Good luck, foilers! Win or lose, though, I do hope this summer's competition will mark the end of the sports era here at school, for you know as well as I that there is just no sense in subjecting our boys to the brutal rigors of the athletic field. Let our slogan be... "Preparedness begins in the classroom."

But to get back to my many activities for the coming week. Billy Stern and I have been exchanging notes about sports and things, and I do hope he will be on hand for the Sportswriters' get-together Wednesday afternoon. We have much in common and Billy should be so much help in assisting me to replace intercollegiate activity with an increased stress in higher learning. Well, anyway, even if Billy doesn't agree, he's a lot of fun. Last year a simply marvelous buffet luncheon was served to all who attended this annual affair.

Hockey rinks, new board tracks, and this new cage I've been hearing so much about. Oh, I do hope you intelligent readers will join forces with me in displacing these sporting menaces! Write Tweet Shinnian, contact Dr. Waders, or phone your nearest trustee, but by all means such fascist influences as Barnum and his accomplices must be stopped.

Lighter-Than-Air Club Formed

Two Dirigibles Bought By New Organization

Many students on campus have expressed the need for a Lighter-Than-Air Club which will take up a greater percentage of the college undergraduates. There is a feeling about the school that the clubs which are now in existence do not fully serve the entire student body. For this reason a Lighter-Than-Air club has been established, under the able direction of Cabe Mingle. The club will hold weekly meetings in the belfry of the Ronson Memorial Chapel.

Two Ships

The highlight of the club is the two dirigibles, recently purchased by "K" Queverlogg, President of the SAC. These dirigibles, secured from the Navy Department, will arrive in town tomorrow and will be moored at the Pine Gobble School flag pole.

Ohio Refuses Emblem To Freshman Star

In a statement to the WRECKER, Ohio Brawn explained why Clink Mallethead, ace frosh hammerthrower, will not receive his numerals. Said Brawn, "Mr. Mallethead, despite his athletic prowess and faculty drag will not be permitted to wear the coveted numerals on his lapel."

"No student can weigh on a $0.07 bill and get away with it, especially when he is charged with defacing the ceiling of South College dorm with Scotch" continued Brawn, "I hope other recalcitrant boys will make peace with me in the proper manner."

Trusties Hot For New Field House On Western Field Site

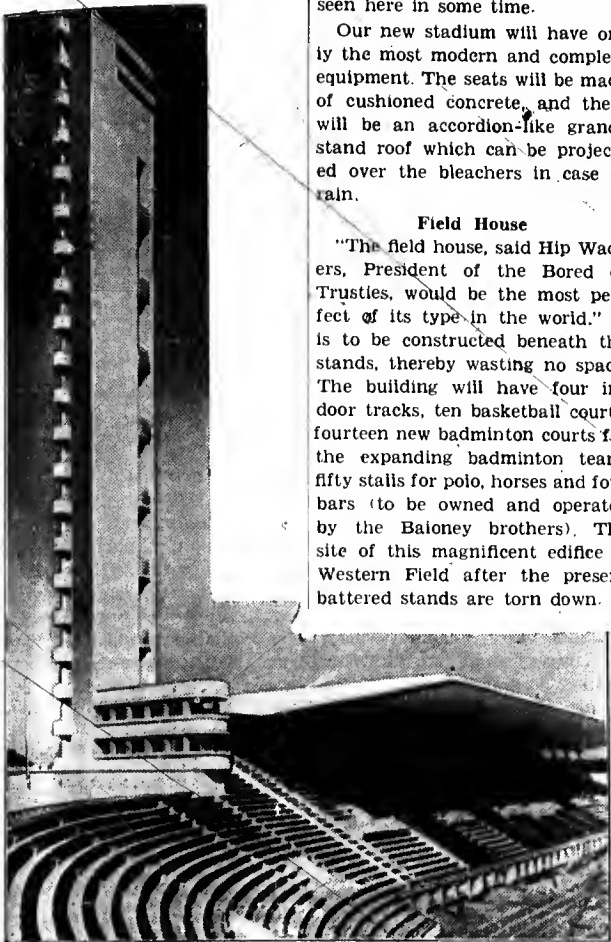

Old Bleachers Slated For Quick Demolition As Students Rebel

At a meeting last Monday afternoon, the Trusties voted to erect an adequate field house and football stadium, the latter seating about 45,000. The resolution was unanimously railroaded, despite the stiffest student opposition seen here in some time.

Our new stadium will have only the most modern and complete equipment. The seats will be made of cushioned concrete, and there will be an accordion-like grandstand roof which can be projected over the bleachers in case of rain.

Field House

"The field house, said Hip Waders, President of the Bored of Trusties, would be the most perfect of its type in the world." It is to be constructed beneath the stands, thereby wasting no space. The building will have four indoor tracks, ten basketball courts, fourteen new badminton courts for the expanding badminton team, fifty stalls for polo, horses and four bars (to be owned and operated by the Baloney brothers). The site of this magnificent edifice is Western Field after the present battered stands are torn down.

Team Enters National Intercollegiate Play

Resuming big-time competition after a fourteen-year layoff, the college will send a nine-man badminton team to the National Intercollegiate Playoffs to be held May 13-15 at Ann Arbor, Michigan.

The badmintoners will face some of the flashiest outfits in the country. Michigan, the favored Big-Nine and last year's winners are picked to successfully defend their title. Other leaders whom the college will have to face are Duke, Southern Conference Champions, SMU, the kingpins of the Southwest, and UCLA, Pacific Coast Champs.

If the badmintoners make a good showing in the forthcoming Championships, it is expected that the college will add several Big Nine teams to its next year's schedule, which already includes Tulane, Notre Dame, and Southern California.

A statement from the Athletic Office stated the reasons for the increased emphasis on badminton: "The primary purpose of a college education is to turn out a gentleman."

In line with this new policy, offers have been extended to several well-known badminton coaches throughout the East, in an attempt to bolster next year's team.

In addition, it is rumored that lucrative offers have been made to several promising high school stars by active alumni associations.

Quintet Picks Little Durnit As Captain

After completing their thirty-two games, undefeated, untied, and unscored upon, the freshman basketballers elected Bale Durnit, Jr. captain of the 1963 team. The sub frosh, who won the Petit Tres and Poison Ivy League championship, presented their captain with an untamed tiger cub in recognition of Bale's fighting spirit.

The yearling captain was congratulated by his father, diminutive varsity coach Bale Durnit, Sr., who taught young Bale all he knows by repeatedly throwing him through a fruitbasket in the back yard. Pres. Hip Waders presented the 6'-6", 185-pound athlete with a new silver plated basketball pump at Saturday's debut in Michael's Emporium.

Bale's record this season is the best compiled on this campus since Tweet Shinnian '34 scored 4567.3 points in a single season. The Waser game saw Bale set a new record by scoring 36 points against

Pool-Emptying Fires Dry Campus Opinion

Tumultuous Reactions Revealed By Wrecker

Sluggish campus opinion got a jolt last week, when President Hip Waders made his tumultuous announcement concerning the end of swimming. Aroused from its depths, has been little short of feverish since that memorial day in Burple history.

Coach Robot Mewer, whose teams have not lost a meet since 1865, was believed to have sighed with relief, as he spurted: "Thank God, Now I can get some sleep".

I. M. deWheels, president of the SAC, IRC, WOC, NSA, SF, ADA, WMS, CIO, XYZ, said, in an opinion which the Wrecker feels to be typical of an element of campus opinion, "It's a good move. There should be more of it."

Larry Screw, president of the UC, (deWheels protested against election methods), said, in speaking for the whole organization, "We have given it our full sanction."

Sloth M. Getwell, editor of the Wrecker, had the following to say on the timely subject, "It made good material for the Wrecker."

Jaun Furwin, head of the students for Vishinsky movement, stated, in one of the most profound remarks of the day, "Comes the revolution."

Bim Stoned, former lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Marines said that he thought the resolution See POOL, page 7

Trusties Have Six Unique Pool Uses

Expense Of $100 Felt To Be Excessive

by Steve Bleat

"Swimming must be abolished," said Hip Waders, president of the Bored of Trusties, at the annual meeting last Sunday. The motion was passed by a unanimous vote, and President Waders said afterwards, "Swimming has outlived its usefulness."

The suggestion was adopted as a part of the general purge which is disposing of all non-utilitarian positions and curricula. Waders said that "the swimming team was running at an annual loss of about $100, and therefore the Trusties felt that the college could not afford to maintain the team."

Pool Emptied

Following their meeting, the Trusties quickly evacuated to the pool to dispose of the water. Upon seeing the shape of the empty pool, Waders called an immediate meeting in the towel room to discuss what could be done with the glaring pit.

After a fourteen-hour meeting, the Trusties decided the following: (1) to lay boards over the pool and have indoor passing practice on rainy days during the football season; (2) to freeze the pool with artificial ice in order to give the hockey players early practice in late fall; (3) to lay flooring over the pool, erect board partitions, and divide the space into six squash courts in the winter; (4) to use the pool as infield practice for the baseball team in early spring; (5) to open the drain at the deep end and allow the golfers late putting practice in the early spring; (6) to fill the pool up one day a year, preferably Home-Coming Weekend, that the returning Alumni might enter the pool, gaze at it, and recall famous Burple teams of years gone by.

Expenses Axed

Just before President Waders made his earth-shaking announcement regarding the necessity of the abolishment of swimming, a special Sub-Sub-Committee on Athletic Expenses had presented an account of expenses to the Bored of Trusties. Items which were high on the list were: grass seed for Mold Field, $14.83; wax for La Swill gym floor, $12.69; disinfectant for gym men's room, $8.21; Toilet paper for Western Field, $18.

The highest article of all was that of $83.14 for water for the swimming pool. The committee estimated that with electricity and towel laundry bills, the swimming expenses would run to about $100. If swimming was eliminated, they stated, the money could pay for electricity to keep the library open for longer hours. By this (cont. back to page 5, col. 6)

Mauve Militiamen Pound Hammers Curbing Mutts In Victorious Triumph

Colonels Nose Out Opponent Snag Victory

Burple Boys Prevail Staging Late Rally, But Not Too Late

Finally hitting their stride in the closing minutes of play after a slow start, Coach P. T. Bullett's Purple squad rallied courageously to nose out a fighting Hammers Tech team at the Morgan Hall Field House Saturday evening, before a cheering crowd of 2400. Paced by Capt. Mike Huggins, who is responsible for every blonde the team has made in three years, and high-scorer Mat Burns, the Eph Colonels trilled by two pins at the seventh-inning stretch. It took an inspired rally to overcome the deficit and chalk up their second straight victory in a dozen or so games, but not before the Lord Mutt seven had brought the excited thousands of staunch athletic supporters to their respective feet with a dazzling display of foil-handling and air-and-water-tight end-zone play which cost them the contest.

Nip, Tuck Score
The Gullelmensian Red Coats drew first blood in the opening cantu, as anchor-man "Tank" Youze hung out a scintillating two-bagger and was immediately advanced ten yards on a razzle-dazzle back-court lob into the water hazard, but Hammers quickly regained possession of the dice and after a brief exchange of pawns shused into the far corner of the dugout for their initial tally, the Militia-men's omnipresent man-to-man zone defense failing to halt the hard-skating Duke Mutts. The Billett-boys refused to be outdone, however, and after Cocks'n Robert J. Greenell '48, a member of the Rho-Dammit Rho Lodge, hooped one from behind the bullpen on a tricky forward-and-go maneuver, to knot the count. He was credited with an assist. The right tackle for the Sledgemen then came up with an unbelievably stellar unassisted twin-killing to pull the Hammers octet out of that hole without further entries being made in the purple ledger.

Dean Damaging
The Northwestern Bay Staters' chances were considerably lessened, however, by the loss of little Bill Blarney, superb goalie and terrific all around weight lifter, who received a notice from the Dean's office and was forced to depart shortly before the termination of the inning. An unidentified Hammers ringer then proceeded to swish the nets with a well-aimed brassie shot from deep short, the prejudiced, unsportsmanlike officials having sent Lieutenant Huggins to the penalty box after a false start. It remained a nip-up-and-devil-take-the-hind-most battle for the remainder of the third chukker, Hammers beat out a small margin of difference on a field goal and a duo of foul tips just before the gun sounded, savoring the enthralled gathering of 1066 enthusiasts.

Coach Mullett came up with a remarkable bit of strategy at the outset of the final rubber, and each and every one of the 623 astonished spectators agreed that this was the turning point that clinched the verdict for the "Armigeri Et Liberati!" combo. The move worked to perfection, fading the opposition's offensive maneuvers, and the home heroes soon took a substantial lead, which they kept to the finish.

Our Boys Victorious
Sixteen errors and a broken bird in the closing minutes did not help the cause at all, but two or three superlative stem christies by goalie Jock stifled the Hammers clouting, despite a winning effort turned in by the Burnt Crimson's half-miller in the unlimited class. The encounter concluded with the winners out in front in the scoring column, to the delight of the 117 alumni and College officials who remained in the stands, defying the scorching sun.

The noble strivings of Our Boys are deserving of only the Highest Praise, and this Spectacular Victory over an Opponent which has not won a game this year, but still put up a Real Fight, undoubtedly portends of Unparalleled Success for Our Athletic Squads on Future Fields of Friendly Strife. HATS OFF, FELLOWS!

fessor Blaizon skirted the question by stating: "Horned Symphony" is 'present-day' in character. 'Utterly present-day.' Why, it even has space-time. You can tell because it takes time to see the space. This is no cheap Euclidean job, falsifying our world by making it seem simple."

The professor explained that the choice of tin as a medium of plastic expression originated from two considerations. "The extreme tensile strength of tin suggested the tenuousness of modern life. Natch, I went for it. Also I believe all modern ills date from the Beer Hall Putsch. In the very choice of medium I have created a symbol of Bavarian Gemutlichkeit; and by my treatment have transformed it into the sense of destructive Fascist Dynamism."

Corroborating evidence that Williamstown has turned up genius came early this week with the news that "Horned Symphony" would be included in the spring exhibition of the Durned-Rude Galleries, Inc., East 57th Street, New York City. This exhibition, in deference to the spirit of Easter, directs attention to a little known aspect of art, under the title, The Calla Lily Through the Ages. Professor Blaizon stated that the illy-forms were an unplanned secondary meaning. "That merely illustrates again the true complexity of my work. Doubtless still other dimensions of meaning will emerge. But," he modestly concluded, "Pabst not."

JEFFERSON'S ROUGH DRAFT OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

A Declaration by the Representatives of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in General Congress assembled

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's god entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation;

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness; that to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall appear most likely to promote their Safety and Happiness.

Part of the original manuscript of the Declaration of Independence, written by Thomas Jefferson. It is now on display aboard the "Freedom Train." The revisions shown were included in the document finally presented to the Continental Congress.

'Poe Excuse,' Belle Star Told; Do Not

Even 'Bell For Luciano' Alibi Won't Exonerate
'Ding, Dong, Dell' Stehlin

Hauled up before the Board of Trustees for the seventy-third time in two years, Prof. Cuspodre G. Stehlin experienced only a slight dingling of nerves when quizzed by ex-prex. J. Phineas Barnum III on the failure of College classroom bells to ring on time.

Stehlin, who returned to the Purple fold two years ago after notorious war service on the President's crystal-gazing commission, has been burdened with the Campus project of rid'ing the bell system of termites stemming from Mark Hopkins' recently dis-interred Log.

No ordinary termites, these," declared Stehlin, "Years of stagnancy have subjected them to extra-nuclear bombardment from radio-active minerals which permeate the ground beneath us," he told a Wrecker reporter.

Ordinary termites can be dealt with, he declared, but these radio-active termites have bugged up the bells to such an extent that he will not be able to deal with them until an exhaustive study has been completed.

The termites now give off their own hyper-cosmic radiations which have a supelectromagnetizing effect on the bell coils, retarding the mechanism in most cases and quite often stopping them entirely.

"Professor Flinch of the Physical Straining Department and I have been strying with the matter for weeks," he said. "Recently we secured the aid of Dr. Bombsight Metastable, his colleague, and we each feel that we will make the bells ring on time, or not at all."

Meanwhile, Ex-Prex. Barnum is storing material for his next tome, "Scientists Against Termites."

New Lease-On-Life For Bike Supporters In TO Contest

Twenty-five, English-made 'Relly' bicycles will be given away by the Treasurer's office in a Campus-wide essay contest starting today, Ass. Treas. Olo Brawn asserted Monday.

The bicycles offered as prizes are a part of those purchased with the extensive funds collected from lower classmen after the annual Freshman-Sophomore riot last fall.

Contestants must complete the statement "I like the billious College Treasurer's Office because..." in twenty-five words or less. Each entry must be accompanied by a top from a Cadillac convertible, or a reasonable facsimile thereof. All entries must be in the Treasurer's office not later than 4 p.m. March 31. A complete list of rules is posted on Tier X of the Ten Gallon Memorial Library. The winners will be announced in the February issue of the Purple Crow which is expected to be on the newsstands by May 24.

Judges for the contest will be Treas. Charles D. Breakpiece, Gnd-kpr. Hardley A. Smutty, and three as yet unnamed P-Ladies. "These persons command a great deal of respect on the campus, and I know their choices will be wise ones," asserted Mr. Brawn.

When informed of the contest, ex-prex. J. Phinneas Barnum (III) declared:

"May the best man win. It won't be easy to tell why you like the Treasurer's Office in only twenty-five words."

An administrative spokesman, questioned by the Wrecker, asserted:

As a matter of fact, those riot bills were sent out just as a joke, but you'd be surprised how many people fell for it."

American moral tone as low as it actually is.

Dr. Bell's religion teaches enlightened brotherhood, a concern for human welfare over and above individual self-interest. Therefore the church is committed to no economic system, no social solution. When Dr. Bell says that God does not beam on democracy alone, but on government conducted according to moral laws, he expresses practically what Emerson said one hundred years before; that governments have their origin in the moral identity of men.

Born in Dayton, Ohio, Dr. Bell went to the University of Chicago, where he did everything but study, except in the field of history. History drove him to political theory and then to philosophy and education.

As the new President, Hip Waders, former mentor, today assumed command of the $2,500,000 Bangtown and Environs FUN Drive, now being conducted to raise funds for the titanic Spring Houseparty, members of the Ephraim Yacht Club, under whose auspices the spectacular party will be given, revealed further plans for the gala occasion.

Details were ironed out rapidly this week for the romantic voyage from Boston to Bermuda aboard the organization's 22,500 ton diesel-driven schooner "Gulliemensian Viceroy" for the 1085 Sons of Ephraim and their dates and the sailing-date has been definitely set for May 8, Commodore "Poop-deck" Western announced last night.

Further plans released by the houseparty committee this week include a mink coat for each girl attending the two-week revelry, a champagne-filled swimming pool aboard the "vice," and a continuous day-and-night dance for the voyage out.

As The Wrecker went to press, Yaght Clum members were hard at work repairing "technical difficulties in the "Vice's" six powerful diesel engines, and adding a fresh coat of Royal Purple paint to the magnificent vessel. "I am confident that it will be a hull of a good party," declared Commodore Western.

CONTEST RULES... Mollé "What do you say?" Contest

1. Merely write, in the blank cartoon balloons above, your answers to the questions. Mail your entry to the address given elsewhere in this ad. Be sure to fill in your complete name and address in the space indicated.

2. Each contestant must be a registered male student of the college in whose paper this contest is published, and each contestant must compete in all ten sets of cartoons in order to be eligible for prizes. If you did not receive a copy of this newspaper, a reasonable facsimile of the cartoon or a written description of it will be accepted.

3. With Sets No. 3 and No. 8, the contestant must include a cartoon from a 25¢ or 50¢ tube—or from any size jar—of Mollé. Remember, only two cartoons (of any size) are required, but be sure you send one in with No. 3 and one in with No. 8 of the sets.

4. Only one entry will be accepted from each contestant in each set and all entries must be the original work of the contestants, submitted in their own names.

5. Entries will be judged by the Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation, an independent judging organization. All ten cartoons submitted by a single contestant will be considered as a unit in judging, and the judges' decisions will be based on the originality, spiciness and interest of each set. First prize winners of $50 from each school will be eligible for the Grand Prize of $500.00 to be awarded to the best series of entries from all the schools. The decision of the judges is final and duplicate prizes will be awarded in case of ties.

6. All entries become the property of Sterling Drug Inc., and no entries will be returned.

7. All ten sets of answers must be mailed before May 14, 1948, final date of the contest. Entries with inadequate postage will not be accepted. Prize winners will be announced here the week of May 24.

Nin-Culmell To Present Recital

First Concert This Season For Pianist

Associate Professor Joaquin Nin-Culmell, pianist, composer, and conductor, will give the final concert in the Thompson Concert Series with a program of compositions by Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, and contemporary Spanish composers, Monday evening, April 19, in Chapin Hall at 8:15.

Professor Nin-Culmell, founder and conductor of the Berkshire Community Orchestra, will be giving his first piano recital in Williamstown since his appearance on the Thompson Concert Series in 1945-48. Since then he has played as far north as Canada, as far west as California, and as far south as Texas and Florida. In Miami he was given the key to the city as guest conductor of the Miami Symphony Orchestra.

More recently, Prof. Nin-Culmell has given his services in special concerts for the Veterans Administration Hospital in Northampton. Last year, a music critic in Boston described his concert there as "one of the most interesting piano recitals of the season."

Report Given On Pittsburgh ADA Meeting

Truman Resignation Asked; Support For Eisenhower Declared

Dean Robert R. Brooks, chapter representative, reported on the national Americans for Democratic Action conference at a meeting of the local group Wednesday night. In discussing the various views expressed at last week's Pittsburgh gathering, Dean Brooks explained that there were five different opinions: 1-Support President Harry S. Truman in next fall's election; 2-Support General Dwight D. Eisenhower; 3-Support William O. Douglas; 4-Bring pressure to bear on President Truman so that he will withdraw and declare the Democratic Convention open; and 5-Draw up an ADA platform and submit it to the candidates mentioned for their approval.

Following a lengthy discussion, presiding chairman Leon Henderson, appointed a committee to draft a document incorporating these views. The committee's report stressed the most popular opinion and called for President Truman to bow out of the race gracefully, paving the way for an Eisenhower-Douglas ticket. But the 125 delegates present were told that each chapter was free to support any candidate.

Dean Brooks declared that the conference expressed vigorous disapproval over the Republican candidates, particularly Harold E. Stassen. While the Democratic Party was endorsed, ADA leaders made it clear that the group would support such liberal Republicans as Wayne Morse and Robert La Follette. The chapter unanimously accepted Dean Brooks' report.

Associate Professor David B. Truman suggested the possibility of ADA support for Independent delegates in the April 27 Massachusetts Democratic Primary. A motion was passed establishing a committee to look into the matter and report back at the next meeting of the group.

SAC Elects New Officers

Student Tax Explained By President Barney

Student Activities Council officers for '48-'49 elected March 30 are: William R. Barney, '49, president; Alan C. Harter, '49, secretary; and Andrew L. Goodrich, '49, treasurer. Peter F. B. Candler, '49, Alexander M. Clement, Jr., '49, and Charles E. Schaaf '50 were elected to the executive committee. Professor Charles R. Keller, Associate Professor Vincent M. Barnett, and Mr. Albert V. Osterhout will remain on the committee.

Hodton Kellogg '49 retires as president.

The membership of the SAC consists of the managers or treasurers of 23 non-athletic organizations on the Williams' campus. Non-profit organizations such as the Adelpic Union, Cap and Bells, and the Williams' Outing Club must present a budget for the coming year by May 15. All See SAC, page 6

Barzie To Be Carnival Band

Big Party To Feature Two Bands, Octets

The music of Dan Barzie's orchestra, a new band which won recent acclaim in a successful engagement at the Hotel New Yorker, will highlight the formal dance of the Spring Carnival on the weekend of May 8 declared Houseparty Chairman Barry Benepe '50.

Benepe emphasized that a greater variety of entertainment will be furnished during this houseparty with two bands and two octets supplying entertainment at the dance, and a four star athletic program on Friday and Saturday afternoons.

Quartet to Entertain

The Four Radiomen, an instrumental broadcasting quartet from Troy will supply music in the wrestling room for dancing and listening throughout the dance, and the octets of Williams and Bennington will entertain during the intermission.

Wally Davis '50, Commodore of the Yacht Club, has announced that the campus will be decorated in a "carnival" theme, with the houses decorated to resemble side shows such as "the Fun House" and "Tunnel of Love."

Beer, Scotch to be Awarded

The traditional keg of beer will be given for the cleverest house decoration in accordance with the theme. Davis also made known that a half case of Scotch will be awarded the house which has the largest subscription to the dance on a percentage basis before tickets go on sale at the door.

The Barzie band, Benepe said, is a group hailing from Pittsfield which gained favor on campus in past appearances in dances at Saint Anthony Hall and Delta Phi. Since then Barzie has enlarged and improved his orchestra, which used to consist entirely of Berkshire County musicians.

The band has fourteen members, he said, and has been hailed in New York and other eastern cities. This June the orchestra begins a See BARZIE, page 3

Assembly Pushes Drive; Introduces Len Watters

'51 Won't Finesse

Meeting Says, Frosh

A member of the Student Fund Drive Committee, a veteran senior already greying about the temples, asked a prominent member of the freshman class to spread the word among the freshmen about the Tuesday, April 20, College Assembly. The reply almost rejuvenated the veteran senior by calling up a nostalgic memory of the good old class-conscious days of '42. The youngster told him, "Don't worry about the freshmen. They won all their football games; they beat the varsity basketball team. Spend your time getting the dead wood in the upper classes to the assembly."

President James P. Baxter 3rd, who explained the needs for student cooperation in the fund drive.

Pres. Baxter To Fete Seventy-Man Group At Monday Dinner

New Football Coach Len Watters will be introduced to the Williams undergraduate body for the first time at the All-College Assembly Tuesday at 7:30 in Chapin Hall. On the same platform with Watters, President James P. Baxter, 3rd, Dean Robert R. Brooks, Frank Thoms, and Student Fund Drive Chairman Ed Spencer '48, will speak on the Building and Endowment Fund Drive and the student's effort therein.

The Student Fund Drive Committee organized the assembly in the belief that no group is closer to Williams and more interested in the progress of the college than the present student body. Ed Spencer, final speaker for the assembly, will outline the part students can play.

The campaign to line up the college behind the Drive will start when President and Mrs. Baxter entertain the seventy-man Student Committee at a dinner Monday night. This group consists of three men from each fraternity and the Garfield Club executive committee. President Baxter and Drive Chairman Charles Hall will outline the present status of the program in order that the Student Committee can answer any questions current among the undergraduates. It will then be up to the Student Committee to achieve the set goal—100% student support.

The nation-wide Williams Fund Drive has aroused occasional comment concerning the relative emphasis given to such items as faculty salaries, endowment, and new construction. President Baxter will explain these items and their position in the over-all future of Williams in the assembly Tuesday night.

Dean Brooks will say a few words about the part the faculty have played in the Drive. Frank Thoms, who heads the Williamstown office of the program, will explain some of the organizational aspects.

The Glee Club will appear for its first time in Williamstown this year, singing several numbers from Porgy and Bess."

Old Clothes Drive Launched By WCA

Needy Local Families To Receive Clothing

The annual clothing drive of the Williams Christian Association begins today. George Kuwamura, '48, chairman of the Welfare Committee of the WCA, has announced that more than one hundred fifty needy families are expected to benefit from the benevolence of Williams students.

Members of the committee have placed boxes in every dormitory entry and in every social unit to enable Williams undergraduates to give their old clothing. Pick-ups of the containers will be made at the end of the week-long drive.

Any contributions will be accepted regardless of how old or torn the clothes may be. The town welfare agency will make all repairs necessary to restore the clothes to usefulness, and will distribute the clothes received in the drive to needy families during the fall and winter.

'Radical Independent' To Give Religious Education Lecture

Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell, who will speak on "Education and the Common Man" on April 20 at 8:30 p.m. in Jesup Hall, under the auspices of the Williams Lecture Committee, calls himself a radical independent. Dr. Bell is the author of eighteen books, including "Beyond Agnosticism" and "The Church In Disrepute."

He stands for economic equality and the abolition of privilege; he wants economic opportunity to extend beyond our borders and give the less-favored nations as good a living as we have. But he is against the "me for me" policy that permeates American life, and calls this a moral issue that interests the church.

Moreover, he warns that there is nothing particularly noble about any form of government; nobility must reside in the people who administer it, and our government may not survive with the American moral tone as low as it actually is.

Dr. Bell's religion teaches enlightened brotherhood, a concern for human welfare over and above individual self-interest. Therefore the church is committed to no economic system, no social solution. When Dr. Bell says that God does not beam on democracy alone, but on government conducted according to moral laws, he expresses practically what Emerson said one hundred years before; that governments have their origin in the moral identity of men.

Born in Dayton, Ohio, Dr. Bell went to the University of Chicago, where he did everything but study, except in the field of history. History drove him to political theory and then to philosophy and education.

Williams Men Break Bennington Rules Hansen Tells

Complains Letter Dean Reads To UC Of Economy

Receipt of a letter of slight concern from President Frederick H. Burkhardt of Bennington College over the conduct of visitors from Williams, approval of new fines for traffic violations and property damages, and an earlier curfew hour during houseparties were the highlights of the March 29 and May 12 meetings of the Undergraduate Council.

The design for the college ring submitted by DeLancey Rochester, 3rd '49 was approved and the dates were announced for the freshman dance, a drive for blood donations, and the coming UC elections.

Unanimous UC approval was given for the following traffic regulations: 1. Parking violation fines will be $1. 2. All students having car permission must register new plates in the Dean's Office by Wednesday, March 31, or pay a $5 fine. 3. Ineligible freshmen and sophomores caught with cars will be turned over to the Student Discipline Committee for action.

Since increased hours for women in the dorms over Winter houseparty weekend did not work the UC decided to maintain the present 8:30 p.m. curfew for all future houseparty weekends.

A third ruling stated that when damage occurs in any college dormitory, and those responsible cannot be located, the costs will be split up among the rooms, floors, entries, or dormitory concerned, depending on the location of the damage.

Williams College has a quota of 75 pints in a blood drive that

Five Commandments Received By Brooks

1. All guests upon arrival at the campus report to the switchboard in the Commons. The telephone operator will announce them to the person they wish to see.

2. Men will be allowed in students' rooms only between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6:30 p.m.

3. All men must be out of living rooms and off campus by 1 a.m. except on Saturday when the hour is 2 a.m. Men may not escort their dates back to the houses after the above hours.

4. Any objectional conduct resulting from the use of liquor will not be tolerated.

5. The watchmen who patrol the campus and the night supervisor, who is on duty from 8:30 p.m. through the night, are responsible for the protection of the college. They are empowered to refuse admittance or to request the departure of any objectionable guests whether or not the guests are accompanied by a resident of the College.

Tuesday Is Deadline For Joining ROTC

Applications for admission to Williams Air-ROTC courses must be made by 4:30 p.m., April 20, since applications submitted after this date will not be considered.

The quotas allotted to Williams by the Air Defense Command for students in the first year advanced and second year basic courses are rapidly being reached according to the President's office.

Veterans with one year of service are eligible for enrollment in the advanced course. Other students who have received training in an educational institution with ROTC affiliations are eligible for enrollment and may receive credit for previous ROTC attainment.

Freshmen of the class of '51 are not eligible unless they are veterans or have had previous ROTC training.

President Ernest J. Mierzejewski '51 announced that the freshman class will sponsor an informal all-campus dance on Saturday, May 22 with an admission price of fifty cents. The announcement was also made that the UC elections would be held Monday, April 26.

Tax Drop, Military Cost Aid Inflation

Speaking on the subject, "Prices, Wages and Inflation in the American Economy," in Jesup Hall Tuesday night, Alvin Hansen, eminent Harvard economist, introduced his topic with a brief history of wage-price relations from 1840 up to the present time, in which he described the gradual six-fold increase in wages in this country during this period. He also showed how the price level of today has become greatly higher than that of the nineteenth century.

"Many factors influence the existing inflationary conditions in this country," said Hansen, "the two most recent and important being the sharp tax reduction and the plans being made for an increase in military expenditure." Although Hansen stated that these two conditions support inflation, he also pointed out various softening influences. "The increase in man-power productivity due to new technical and industrial improvements and a drop in agricultural prices due to a good crop would act to ease inflation."

War or Depression

Mr. Hansen stated that if things go on as they are now without another war, "we will have to look forward to a serious depression." He maintained, however, that there are some factors which will help to abate another depression. See HANSEN, page 3.

Student Support

The purpose of the Tuesday night College meeting is to initiate the Undergraduate Fund Drive. Superficially, the purpose of this Drive is to gather money for the Building and Endowment Fund Drive which is now taking place throughout the country. Fundamentally, the purpose of this meeting goes much deeper than mere money gathering. The basic desire of those conducting this Drive is to gain 100% student support for the Building and Endowment Drive. Such student support will be of a tremendous aid to the successful completion of the Fund Drive.

The complete student backing of the Drive will clearly demonstrate to our alumni the whole-hearted student support of the College and the Fund Drive. At a time when a certain faction on the campus has done much to deter the Drive, the value of such support is obvious.

Letters to the Editor

Think Hudson 'Good for Williams, Too'

Letter to the Editor of The Williams Record:

In your last issue was printed a letter written by Mr. Hubert Hudson in which he attacked an article of Professor F. L. Schuman. The substance of this letter is of interest and open to much speculation, but we, the undersigned, are much more concerned with its tenor or, if you will, spirit. We would like to remind Mr. Hudson that mature criticism is not enhanced by vituperation of such a nature as to be downright insulting. The debator unable to deliver an adequate rebuttal without recourse to vindication, is a poor one indeed. It may be argued that such is the case also with an undergraduate writer of lengthy letters.

Mr. Hudson pays lipservice to the fact that "Schuman represents a type of thinker that is good for the Williams student to hear." We think that Mr. Hudson is good for Williams, too. However, we wonder if Mr. Hudson, as well as many alumni, understand what is meant by the liberal tradition of a college such as ours. We need not quote the remark attributed to Voltaire. But we feel that attacking a man for his beliefs rather than attacking the beliefs of a liberal education—an education for which we are deeply grateful and much beholden to Williams.

The alumnus who believes he is helping Williams by demanding Schuman's removal, and who threatens to withhold donations to the fund drive if a resignation is not forthcoming, does irreparable harm to the college, the undergraduate body, and reflects upon himself as a product of that college. We hold no brief for Mr. Schuman's opinions. We wear no Wallace buttons, nor are we carried away on the crest of what we believe to be the wave of a misjudged liberal sentiment. However, we do not declare that because a man may hold these beliefs, he is a fit subject for psychiatric treatment, nor do we feel that heads must roll.

To paraphrase the words of Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., if a reasonable man may reasonably hold certain beliefs, it is his duty as an educator to expound those views, and our privilege as students to listen. No one is going to force these views down our throats—but to choke them off in the throat of Mr. Schuman is reprehensible, and debasing to the dignity of those men whose lives are devoted to teaching us to think.

Attacks on FLS Disgust Former Editor

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

I am only a young alumnus of Williams, so I suppose my words will have little effect. Wisdom in regard to campus activities is considered by many to accrue in direct proportion to the number of years one has been away from Williamstown.

The recent attacks on Professor Schuman's right of free expression coupled with open blackmail on the part of potential donors to the Fund Raising campaign leave me with a feeling of intense shame and disgust. It is a sad reflection on Williams that we have turned out alumni whose hatred of things which they consider evil has blinded them to the realities behind liberal education.

These alumni threaten Williams with a choice. Professor Schuman or new buildings! Professor Schuman or adequate faculty salaries! President Baxter's choice is completely obvious and he is to be congratulated for his stand thus far.

In regard to the faculty salaries, the first million dollars raised in the campaign should go for that purpose. This was the goal set for increased endowment and I understand it has already been met, our outraged alumni notwithstanding.

As for the new buildings, I would prefer studying under Professor Schuman in a mud hut than under some mediocre hack in a pretentious pile of outdated Georgian architecture. Those who would fire courageous professors in order to obtain new buildings will someday find themselves with new buildings but with no decent teachers and with no intelligent students.

I write also as a Garfield Club alumnus. If Williams is favored with the choice of abandoning the New Garfield Club Building or abandoning Professor Schuman, I say take the plans and the new structure and throw them in the faces of those who will have forced this choice upon us.

The most important stake any Garfield Club alumnus has in Williams is not in a new building for his social unit. It is in a faculty that is generating new ideas and thereby creating citizens with a broader outlook on life than some of our alumni have thus far achieved. The Garfield Club's strength lies in the strength of the Williams student body. If Williams follows the path of intellectual intolerance that some urge upon us, then maybe the Garfield Club will have a new home, but I am sure that if Williams reaches that level, the Garfield Club will also have a membership of socially unconscious morons.

The entire Williams Student body, the Board of Trustees, the Faculty, and President Baxter should answer our outraged alumni in the same way General McAuliffe answered the demand for surrender by the Germans at Bastogne.

"Nuts!"

And when the German messenger asked for an interpretation, the General replied, "It means 'Go to Hell!'"

Schuman Replies to Critics' Charges

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

As corpus delicti in "The Case of Professor Schuman," I trust I may be permitted to comment on the editorial and letter in your issue of March 27, even at the risk of further exposing readers of the Record to "insidious and subtle" propaganda.

Your statement of the case for "academic freedom" seems to me excellent, but open to two criticisms. The right of "free speech" is never absolute, but relative. In Schenck v. U.S., 249 US 47, Justice Holmes expounded the "clear and present danger" doctrine as a necessary limitation upon the 1st amendment, adding: "When a nation is at war many things that might be said in time of peace are such a hindrance to its effort that their utterance will not be endured so long as men fight and that no court could regard them as protected by any constitutional right." It may well be that we are approaching the point at which adverse criticism of Byrnes, Marshall, Truman, ERP, UMT, and the "bi-partisan" foreign policy cannot longer be endured, since it may impede the war effort against Russia. I have assumed, and I shall continue to assume until the courts or Congress declare otherwise, that we have not yet reached this point and that "free trade in ideas" is still permissible, within the limits of constitutional processes in peace-time democracy.

The second defect in your formulation, as I see it, is your statement that I "have deemed it necessary" during the Fund Drive "to publicly document distasteful political beliefs." I am sure you know that I have always deemed it necessary to document my political beliefs. This is the civic duty of all citizens, including professors. It is evidently assumed by some (though not by The Record or by the Administration of the College) that professors are non-citizens or comprise a partially disfranchised class of voters who are barred from expressing unpopular views, particularly during Fund Drives, lest donors be inhibited or encouraged to indulge in blackmail.

This view I emphatically repudiate. That the Fund Drive coincides with a world crisis is no fault of mine. I predicted the crisis a year ago. In such a crisis, all citizens have an imperative obligation to stand up and be counted, to express their views in speech and writing, to document those views, to invite dissent, and to promote the discovery of truth, the adoption of sound public policies and the rejection of unwise courses of action—all through rational debate in an open market for talk, without which democracy degenerates into totalitarianism. This obligation I believe I am discharging. I propose to continue discharging it to the best of my ability. For me not to do so would, in my judgment, be a disservice to the College, to my country and to mankind for graver than that committed by irate alumni who choose to use me as an excuse for withholding contributions.

My views will continue to be distasteful to those who believe that Communism can be halted or "contained" by the exclusive use of money and guns. This belief I regard as false and dangerous in the extreme. In the words of Justice William O. Douglas, March 22: "The choice is not between war and appeasement, for neither will solve the problem . . . A political program is not destroyed by military might. . . We must put an end to the shameful practice of branding every one a Communist who espouses a liberal reform . . . The political antidote to Communism is effective democracy. . . Our greatest error would be to fashion our foreign policy merely in terms of anti-Communism. We will fail miserably if we do no more than that. . . Our foreign policy must be designed to espouse and promote liberal, humanitarian programs for the masses of the people of the world."

As for the case of Hubert R. Hudson, his brilliant letter and his flattering comparison of Schuman with Shakespeare suffer from several lacunae. Apparently he has never learned that all use of words to influence attitudes and preferences on controversial issues is "propaganda"—admirable if the recipient approves the views suggested, but otherwise deplorable or odious. Evidently he has not read Mr. Byrnes' book, for he finds much of my treatment of it "irrelevant." Obviously he has learned nothing of the economics of war in 20th century America. Plainly, he would be incredulous if I assured him that all my favorable comments on Mr. Byrnes were written in the utmost sincerity—as, in truth, they were. And, clearly, he misses the whole point.

The problem posed by Mr. Byrnes is precisely the problem of how and why a good Christian patriot and genuine humanitarian arrives at what the London "Times" called a "simple recipe for war" through a formula for saving Prussia from the Russians and rehabilitating a Reich to be ruled by the monopolists and cartelers who put Hitler in power. This is truly a problem in demonology I am not sure that I have solved it. But I have done my best.

At least Mr. Hudson has read my article. So far as I can ascertain, none of the alumni demanding my dismissal has read either my article or the Byrnes book. All prefer to accept the opinions of the honorable George E. Sokolsky. This means that, in these instances, liberal education at Williams has failed. I believe these instances to be relatively few. I may be wrong. If they are a majority of our graduates, and if this is the way in which Williams students, past and present, arrive at judgments, then it does not in the least matter who teaches here or how much or little money is contributed to the Fund. Further evidence on this point should be welcomed by all.

Finally, Mr. Hudson's reason for wanting to keep me here—i.e. so that my students may learn how to detect similar diabolical devices in others—is wholly unsound. Professors Truman and Jenness (among others) do a far better job of analyzing and evaluating propaganda techniques than I can ever hope to do. If my function is merely that of a horrible example, I should be dismissed at once. Several other colleges have already dismissed faculty members supporting Wallace, Taylor and the Progressive Party. Such action at Williams, so far as I now know, would affect only one member of the faculty. It would, I rather think, gratify many members of the student body, alumni, faculty and trustees. It would have obvious pecuniary advantages. It seems to me that much is to be said in its favor.

Those desiring this outcome should be of good cheer. Ways can be found, if need be, to realize their heart's desire. I am confident, on the other hand, that President Baxter and the Board of Trustees will defend academic freedom as long as it is politically possible to do so. The future may thus be faced by all concerned with that equanimity of spirit which ancient wisdom enjoins upon us all in epochs of disintegrating civilizations.

Doubts FLS's Value As Williams Prof.

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

Free speech and academic freedom are great heritages and to be defended valiantly. But how these fine phrases are distorted when used as a screen for under-cover work.

For instance, in last Sunday's PM appeared a full-page advertisement which tried to lead people to believe that their freedom of speech was being endangered by the deportation proceedings against the four communists, including Gerhart Eisler, at Ellis Island. This is a typical party-line maneuver.

Nobody questions Professor Schuman's rights as a citizen under the First Amendment to speak as he chooses. But his rights as a citizen do not coincide with his obligations as a Williams professor. Your editorial of March 27th overlooks this.

As Dr. Conant recently said in defending academic freedom, the country has a right to demand of its educational institutions that teachers dealing with controversial subjects should be fearless seekers of the truth and careful scholars, rather than propagandists. Which is Prof. Schuman? Mr. Hudson says in his letter to you, "He has mastered the art of propaganda."

Freedom of speech permits the preaching of disloyalty. Academic freedom permits the indoctrination of Communism at schools which have been officially branded as subversive. Respect for both freedoms does not imply Williams must teach either disloyalty or Communism.

The publication which features Prof. Schuman's article, "Soviet Russia Today", works closely with the National Council of Soviet-American Friendship, which has been cited by the Attorney-General of the United States as the chief propaganda agency of the Reds in this country. Is it appropriate that a man who helps such a publication accomplish its mission should be teaching at Williams and preaching doctrines high and wide as a Williams professor, even though as a citizen he is free to talk and write as he pleases?

That many Williams alumni think not, is not "childish", as your editorial states. It is their considered opinion of what is in the best interest of our country and its freedoms at a time of great danger, as was of Williams College.

Dr. Hudson has done a masterly job of analyzing Prof. Schuman's semantics and his shrewd use of the slanted phrase. Prof. Schuman cleverly impresses with his knowledge of facts so that his reader's mind is receptively open he may slip in his innuendoes and insinuations. But if Prof. Schuman is, as Mr. Hudson intimates, a perverter of public policy and historical fact, is he not more appropriately an editor of "Soviet Russia Today", or a Columbus laborator, or a professor at some other school, or a private citizen with no conflicting duties, rather than a professor at Williams? And if Mr. Hudson is right, what is the position of Williams with respect to its responsibility to the country, in the light of Dr. Conant's statement?

Shot of Bitters With The Sweet

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

We here at Angostura have become intrigued with an apparently new practice in New York in the "name" mite spots, of college men taking a shot of Angostura aromatic bitters in each glass of beer.

This practice is of particular interest to us because, try as we may, we can't put our finger on how or who originated this idea. In any case, it has become so interesting that we're considering putting some money behind this apparent trend, to further popularize it.

However, before we do, we naturally want to make sure of our ground, and that's the reason we're writing you, along with other campus leaders in the top colleges of the country.

Will you do us a favor? Under separate cover, we're sending you a bottle of Angostura aromatic bitters. We would like you to try it when you drink beer and tell us what you think. We would appreciate it if you would get similar opinions from members of your fraternities, your roommates, etc.

The composite answers from you and the other molders of campus opinion to whom we're writing, will give us our answers . . .

Favors Humanities Conference Here

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

In the Record of March sixth, Professor Faison contended that the 1947 Spring Conference was too grandiose, too large, and too confused to be of much deep value; he further held that a Spring Conference at Williams in 1949 might well be devoted to the Humanities, rather than social science. As Co-chairman of the 1947 Conference, and as a student of social science, I would like to observe that he is correct on both counts. Modern social science teaches us that the Humanities, by crystallizing the value-patterns and affective states of the members of a society, play an integrative and essential role in that society—and this is done through those types of experience sometimes dismissed as "private" or "aesthetic."

Professor Faison's enthusiasm for the Vassar conference suggests that what really disturbs him is not the usurpation by the social sciences of the Humanities' alleged place as the core of a liberal education. The conference, as he described it, was more concerned with defining our common problems than with drawing academic boundary lines. Witness Matthiessen, the literary critic and historian, discussing the N. A. M. It is true that he who knows Keynes ignores Shakespeare at his own risk; it is equally true that he who appreciates Cezanne cannot disregard Freud or Malinowski. And both might profit by some hours in a laboratory. To be concerned with the fate of the Humanities is not to turn away from politics or economics; it is rather to approach the same problems in a different way. Professor Faison, in his course, annihilates the usual academic distinctions of subject matter with great skill and immense enthusiasm. What tires him in discussions of politics and economics is probably the participants' over-fascination with their own world of discourse. Even within social science, too many economists and students of government, not to mention historians, have been too slow to utilize the findings of social anthropology, sociology and social psychology. But all this is no reason to pronounce this or that approach more central than all others; what we need to do is join forces and battle for a clearer realization by man of his own nature. Seen from the perspective of a year's absence at a larger and less intimate place, the faculty and students at Williams are in an especially advantageous position for this enterprise.

Praises Baxter's Stand on FLS

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

I write you as:

- (1) an alumnus.
- (2) a more-or-less-typical American business man for 25 years.
- (3) a present student in the graduate school of Columbia in Political Science.

I mention the above only because the facts may serve to explain why I feel so strongly about the position President Baxter has taken in the Schuman matter.

Not in all the years since I received a degree from Williams have I been so proud of the college.

I disagree quite thoroughly with Prof. Schuman, although I am reading his books with great respect. And I agree even less with the Corn-fed Communist Millionaire from Iowa.

But he has the right, Sir, the unequivocal, unalterable right to support whom he pleases.

I hope that all undergraduates are as proud of Phinney Baxter as they should be!

pression. He affirmed that a sustaining aggregate demand has resulted from World War II and also that there has been an enormous increase in savings and liquid assets within our communities, which will tend to keep up our purchasing power. These two things together with the huge Federal budget are, according to Hansen, working to lessen the chances of another depression.

Creeping Inflation

Although "no galloping inflation is likely in the United States," Hansen remarked, a "creeping inflation," such as the one existing now, has several advantages and disadvantages. He stated that only a long period of full employment during an inflationary time would make it possible for the productive reserves and undeveloped areas in the United States to be utilized fully. On the other hand, he felt that inflation might well result in a distortion of the existing wage-income structure, thus contributing to a lasting social distortion.

Mermen Take Three Places In Nat'l A A U

See Lambert, Wineman, Reid As Possibilities For Olympic Berths

Only three Williams men competed in the National Amateur Athletic Union swimming championships in New Haven April 1-3, but all copped places in their respective events. For the first time in Williams athletic history three places were snared in a national championship meet as Captain Sandy Lambert flashed his way to second in the 1500-meter marathon, Bob Reid swam fourth in the 440, and Hank Wineman lunged to a fifth in the 150 yard backstroke.

Pitted against the best swimmers in the nation, the three men performed so ably that each of them is being considered for an Olympic berth.

Lambert Nips Mann

Captain Lambert won his heat in the time of 20:26.5, and although it was some eighteen seconds slower than the time of 17-year old Jack Taylor, former swimming mate of Andover's Jimmy McLane, it was good enough for a solid second. When McLane had decided not to swim in the race, Michigan's Matt Mann III had been regarded as the favorite among the twenty-seven entries. But Mann who finished second to Taylor in his heat was over four seconds slower than Lambert and had to be content with a third. Captain Lambert's time was three-tenths of a second slower than famed Dave MacLay's Williams record in the event.

Right after Iowa's Wally Ris beat former Yale star Alan Ford in one of the highlights of the meet, Hank Wineman earned his fifth in the backstroke. All the swimmers were bunched until the 140-yard mark, with Wineman having a slight grip on second place at the 160. But then, with

Southern Baseball Trip Highlighted By Tie With Temple, Heavy Hitting

Even though the first post-war spring trip ended in nothing more than a 4-4 tie with Temple and 9-8 and 5-2 defeats at the hands of Jpsala and Villanova, the Coombsmen have returned with a much improved infield, a star pitcher and the promise of a hard-hitting ballclub.

The opener was played against a strong Temple nine after the ten yards to go, the entrants fanned out, and Hank was just outtouched for fourth by Ohio State's Ralph Knight. Yale's Allen Stack won the event as usual, although his time was about two seconds slower than his world record of several weeks ago.

Hoogerhyde Upset

Out of the forty-four entrants in the 410, Bob Reid swam well enough to finish fourth. His performance in the time of 4:56.0 beat Michigan State's highly-touted George Hoogerhyde. The three men who topped Reid were Ohio State's wonder-man Bill Smith, who also won the 220, Gus Stager and Matt Mann of Michigan.

All three Williams swimmers have been sent Olympic applications and although the Olympic team has only three men per event, the officials are eyeing the Williams men as possibilities. Further trials will be held to determine the finalists in each event.

scheduled curtain-raiser with Rutgers had been rained out during batting practice on the previous day. George Ditmar started for the Purple and when he left the ball game at the end of the sixth he had given up just one hit, two walks and nary run. In the meantime a base on balls, a wild pitch and singles by LeSage and Owen had given the Ephmen a two run lead.

Slugfest

Chuck Goodell, who showed midseason form by not allowing a single stolen base throughout the trip, doubled in another run in the seventh, but in the home half of the seventh and eighth Temple picked up four runs on four hits and a couple of walks. In the ninth inning, however, a walk and big Bill Kaufman's hard baserunning gave us the tying run shortly before the game was called on account of darkness.

The Upsala game turned out to be an old-fashioned slugfest as the Coombsmen wiped out a 7-0 deficit with a ten hit attack featuring doubles by Captain Young, Brownell, LeSage and three hits by George Owen. Upsala scored again in their first half of the seventh but an Owen double in the eighth made it 8-8. An unearned run finally gave the Jersey men the ball game even.

Lacrossemen Win Four

Princeton Loss Mars Perfect Spring Trip

After suffering a decisive defeat at the hands of a strong and well-organized Princeton team, Coach Whoop Snively's lacrossemen bounced back and rolled over its four, remaining opponents on its trip south during the vacation.

Those teams bowing before the Purple aggregation were Lehigh, Rutgers, Stevens Institute, and West Chester State Teachers, the first-mentioned team losing under half-practice, half-game conditions. The experience gained in these encounters will be invaluable during the early games of the season, and more especially, in the opener with Harvard this afternoon.

Tigers Too Furlous

Princeton, which had soundly thumped a Virginia team, 13-8, had mishandled its own Alumni, 12-1, and had had practice games with Johns Hopkins, and U. of Maryland, was far too advanced in practice and organization for a close contest with the Ephmen on Monday. The Tigers scored four times in the first period and twice in the second period before Dick Whitney whistled a long shot into the nets for the Williams tally.

In the second period Princeton only outscored Williams 2-1, as the defense began to tighten up, and Mickey O'Connell made some nice saves in the goal. But Princeton poured on six more goals in the third period and then added three in the final stanza. Co-captain Pat Graney and Dick Meryman looked good on the attack for the Purple.

Lehigh Loses

Playing in Lehigh's football stadium on a gray overcast day, the Williams team notched its first victory of the trip. The first half was played under practice conditions, and the Ephmen outscored the home team, 5-2. Co-captain Graney scoring two of the goals.

The second half was played as a regular game, Williams winning, 4-3. Graney, co-captain Ed Maynard, Phil Van Dusen, and Whitney all dented the nets in this half. The brand of play was much improved over the previous day, as the Purple team started to

Purple Faces Tigers Today

Tennis Team Led By Scribner

The Williams tennis team will meet Princeton this afternoon at Princeton. As usual Princeton has a very powerful outfit, even stronger than last year's team which had a record of fifteen wins out of eighteen matches. So far this season Princeton has registered a 9-0 win over Temple and a 7-2 victory over a strong Haverford aggregation. During the past vacation they practiced in Bermuda.

For a tentative lineup, the Ephs have Stu Robinson at number one; his opponent will be Bill Vogt. Vogt boasts a high national ranking and beat Robinson last year 6-1, 6-3. At number two Charlie Schaaf will square off against Princeton's Dick Games in what should prove to be the best match of the day. Captain Fred Scribner meets Dean Mathey at third position. If past performances are any indication, this should be another close contest.

Tennis Team Goes South

Robinson Stars Against Top Southern Squads

pitted against the top teams in the south. Williams was unable to win a tennis match on its spring vacation jaunt. William and Mary, Duke, N. Carolina and Virginia downed the Purple.

In their initial contest Monday, April 5, William and Mary, US Intercollegiate Champs, trounced Williams 9-0. The Eph team did not win a single set. The W&M team boasted such stars as Bernie Bartzen, semi-finalist in last year's Intercollegiate, and the Macken brothers, who are Canada's Davis Cup team.

On Tuesday, April 6, Duke defeated Williams 9-6 in fifteen matches.

Williams' top three players, Stu Robinson, Charlie Schaaf, and Captain Fred Scribner had little trouble notching up three quick points for Williams against the Blue Devils. In the fourth, fifth, and sixth positions, however, Dick Palmer, Russ Platt, and Peter Thurber all lost in straight sets. In the doubles Schaaf and Scribner played at number one, along with the third team of Lou Lincoln and Ed Spencer both won in straight sets for Williams final two points.

Williams lost to N. Carolina twice on April 7, 14-1 and again on April 15-0. Stu Robinson was the shining light for Williams on both days. In the first match he lost a close 6-4, 6-4, decision to Vic Seixas, finalist in the National Intercollegiate last year, while on the second day, playing number two, he dropped a heartbreaker to Clark Taylor, New England's top though they were out hit 14-8 and had scored only four earned runs. Young Hits .500

The finale against a powerful Villanova club turned out to be the tightest played game of the trip as the Ephmen played errorless ball while Dittmar and Kaufman gave up only five hits between them. A gazelle-like outfielder named Litwa came up with a homer, a double and a single to drive in three runs which wiped out the two run lead provided by a Young double and singles by Brownell and Goodell. Dittmar was again outstanding in his stint on the mound as he gave up only three hits and a single run on a double by the irrepressible Mr. Litwa.

Captain Young is batting an even .500 while Owen has been clouting the ball at a .410 clip.

ranking player, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5.

The Williams team played its best tennis of the trip in losing to Virginia 6-3, on April 9. Again it was Robinson who starred as he triumphed at number one position over Don Rixey 4-6, 6-2, 8-6. Charlie Schaaf at number two, also took a three set decision 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 over Virginia's Wyche. Virginia annexed the remaining four singles matches by narrow margins. Thus as the doubles began, Virginia was leading 4-2.

Scribner and Schaaf won 6-2, 10-8 over Rixey and Horsley. Palmer and Robinson lost 6-4, 4-6, 7-5. Lincoln and Spencer bowed 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

iron out its early-season errors. Rutgers Rough

In the closest and roughest game of the trip, the Williams club edged Rutgers, 6-5, on Wednesday. The Purple worked its way into a three-goal lead, but with less than a minute to go in the first half, Rutgers' Delahunt scored to break the ice for the home team. Rutgers roared back in the third period to tie the score at 3-3, then 4-4.

Meryman tallied early in the fourth period, and Austy Taliaferro, on assist from Meryman, scored what proved to be the winning goal four minutes later. Rutgers' Fuller narrowed the gap to a goal with three-and-a-half minutes to go. The final minute of play was an hectic one for the Purple as they were two men short, and Rutgers had the ball some of the time. O'Connell once again played an outstanding game in the nets. Bob Donoho, looked good on defense. Van Dusen and Taliaferro, subbing for the injured Whitney, looked good at midfield, and the play of the entire attack was improved.

Numbers Three, Four

Attackman Dick Meryman had a field day at Stevens Institute in Hoboken on Thursday when he scored four goals to lead Williams to a 7-3 victory. The sole scare which Stevens threw into Williams came in the second period when three goals behind, the home team scored twice within ten seconds. The second half was Williams all the way, as the defense played a tight game, and the attack moved the ball around nicely. Van Dusen, Graney, and Maynard played well.

The Purple stickmen had no trouble with West Chester State Teachers' College, as they soundly thrashed them, 15-1.

Yachtsmen Sail In Providence

Also Compete In Conn. Valley Regatta

Starting its schedule of nine regattas, the Williams Yacht Club placed last in the Brown Hexagonal at Providence March 28, but came in third out of seven colleges racing in the Connecticut Valley Regatta at Coast Guard Academy April 11.

Very poor racing conditions with very light winds hampered the sailors at Brown, and the Williams racers, George Couch, Ted Helprin, John Uhlein, Oliver Bardes, Dave Barker, and Ronnie Moir managed to take one third place, one fourth, two fifths, in the seven races held. Brown University won the regatta with 76 points and Worcester Polytechnical Institute, Bowdoin, North Eastern, Rhode Island, and Williams followed in that order.

Edwards Wins Three

Although it was very windy, rainy, and cold at New London on April 11, Coast Guard ran twelve races that day for crews sent from seven colleges. In division A Bill Pinkham with Dave Helmle as his crew took one second for Williams, two thirds, and a sixth; while Pete Moore and Ted Helprin also in division A took 2 lasts. Phelps Edwards, skippering the division B boat for Williams with Gus Clarey as his crew, was high man for the WYC with three firsts, two fourths, and one last place. Averaging the results of the two divisions, Yale came in first with 70 points, Coast Guard totaled 69, Williams 57, Trinity 46, Wesleyan 45, Dartmouth 44, and Amherst 15.

Whitney Scores Hole-In-One

Kim Whitney and lost, but no one labored under the delusion that the trip afforded anything but sorely needed practice.

Top item of conservation among the teams as they returned to Williamstown last Sunday evening was Dick Whitney's "ace" made against Duke on the 155 yard fourteenth hole with a number five iron.

On Monday the team traveled south to the nation's capitol to engage Georgetown. The Hoyas had no trouble winning 7 1/2 to 1 1/2 but Buckey Marchese knocked off Georgetown's number one man, King, with a 74 while Dick Heuer shot a 78 in losing a close one up match to Mazur. Whitney, playing number four, halved his match with Rita.

The University of Virginia coasted to an easy 22-5 victory at Charlottesville. Loving and Roberts shut out Marchese and Ted Quinlan playing one and two. Heuer and Jerry Cole picked up one point at three, four, while Dick Wells and Bill Burke teamed well to garner four points in the last foursome.

Duke was next on the schedule and proved the toughest opposition of the trip, winning handily 25-2. Cole averted a shutout by turning in a 78 and winning his match against Mike Souhak. Here "Ace" Whitney accomplished his feat.

Next afternoon, Thursday, on the same Hope Valley Country Club links the University of North Carolina played host to Williams and very inhospitably whipped them 22-5. Marchese and Quinlan accounted for two points despite a 69 by Bucky's man; Cole and Whitney netted one and a half as did Wells and Burke.

On Friday afternoon Wake Forest handed the Ephs their fifth defeat 23-4. Marchese and Cole playing one, two, salvaged one and a half points as Marchese canned a 30 foot downhill birdie putt on the home green. Heuer and Whitney captured two and a half in the second foursome

William L. Butcher '28, Executive Vice President of The County Trust Company, White Plains, N. Y., and other prominent business representatives will be at Williams during the week beginning Monday, April 19, to recruit trainees in their respective fields.

Mr. Butcher will speak 7:30 Monday evening at the Zeta Psi House to any members of the student body interested in a career in banking. A graduate of the Rutgers Graduate School of Banking, Mr. Butcher was formerly a Vice President of the Central Trust Company of Cincinnati.

Alice O'Neil, Personnel Manager of W. T. Knott Co., Inc., New York, will arrive in Williamstown on Monday to interview seniors desiring positions in merchandising.

Employee Relations Manager, M. R. Grimaldi, of the U. S. Rubber Company, Woonsocket, R. I. will be seeking talent for the rubber production industry when he arrives at Williams on Tuesday.

Representing the U. S. Trust Company of New York, W. D. Ryan, Assistant Secretary, is to interview applicants for training in the commercial banking field.

James B. Crane, District Manager of Proctor and Gamble Distributing Company of Hartford, is interested in recruiting June graduates on Thursday for work in the sales department of his company.

A. Mosley Hopkins, General Agent for the Pennsylvania Mutual Life Insurance Company at the Albany office, will consult on Friday with those interested in life insurance sales.

organizations, including profit making groups such as the Glee Club, The Gul, and WMS, must present their books for auditing to the SAC by the same date. From these budget estimates and financial statements, the SAC determines its monetary needs for the coming year.

President Barney declared that a tax is levied each year by the Undergraduate Council to defray the expenses of student government and extra-curricular activities. The portion of the UC tax allotted to the SAC is used to support the non-profit activities on the campus, to provide a sinking fund from which loans can be made to profit making groups, and to cover administrative costs of the council. The remainder of the tax is used by the UC to pay its expenses for its administration and the Williams Chapter of the National Student Organization.

Lost Battalion Chief Honored In New York

Williams Club Unveils Whittlesey Picture

Years ago today, Lt. Col. Charles W. Whittlesey, Williams '05, a co-founder of the RECORD, died in France where he took command of the regiment "Lost Battalion," whose stand in the Argonne in 1918 has been termed "one of the most heroic incidents in American history."

Afternoon, at a meeting to be held by former War Secretary Robert P. Patterson and James Phinney Baxter, 3rd, for the great military leader will pay tribute to his memory with unveiling of a portrait of Colonel Whittlesey at the Williams Club in New York City.

Held Out For Five Days

The Lost Battalion, part of the 77th Infantry Division, held out against a vastly superior enemy for five days and four nights. Completely surrounded by the Germans, the Battalion had been cut off because other units, unable to keep up the advance, had failed to carry out their own missions.

Despite the depletion of their food and ammunition and the complete rupture of communication, Whittlesey and his men refused to surrender. Legend has it that his reply consisted of "a refusal, a malediction, a command and a prophecy, all contained in just three words."

Compared To Alamo

Record Editors Organize WRA

Alumni - Student Body Would Improve Paper

Plans are nearing completion for the formation of an alumni-student body Williams Record Association.

The next month letters will be sent to former members of The Record and its fore-runners, The fortnightly and The Williams Weekly, inviting them to attend the organizational meeting of the Association Sunday, May 9, the evening before the Memorial Day Williams-Amherst basketball game.

According to Record Editor Seth Bidwell '49 and Senior Associate Editor Charles Klensch '48, who are organizing the WRA, the purpose of the Association will be to improve and expand The Record with the assistance of alumni editors and business management, and to increase alumni contact with campus affairs.

President Baxter and TIME-Publisher James Linen are two former Record members who have already given their blessings to the organization.

The Record editors feel that through contacts with alumni in the fields of publishing, journalism, and advertising the undergraduates of The Record can gain experience which will be very valuable to them in their work on the paper as well as in their careers.

Plans call for future meetings of the organization during fall and winter alumni homecoming weekends.

Holyoke To Choose Summer Assistant

Civic Study Available To Williams Student

One Williams undergraduate will be chosen for a student assistantship at the Mount Holyoke College Institute on the United Nations, to be held on the college campus at South Hadley, Mass., from June 20 to July 17 this summer. Interested candidates should contact Professor Joseph E. Johnson of the History Department as soon as possible, the deadline being April 28.

Student assistants from sixteen colleges will be awarded positions, receiving free room and board, and free tuition, for the four weeks of the Institute. The assistantships will involve such tasks as table-setting, typing, keeping records of meetings, and various other administrative duties.

The Institute, not planned primarily for college undergraduates, is being inaugurated this year for the purpose of giving civic-minded men and women the opportunity for study and discussion with United Nations leaders, government officials, and specialists on international affairs. Trips to Lake Success to observe the United Nations at work, together with lectures and discussions held on the college campus, will be features of the Institute.

Student Scores Williams Curriculum As "Training" Rather Than "Education"

by George W. Smith, Jr.
(Ed. The author of this article was a student at Williams for one year before the war. He served as a Warrant Officer in the U.S. Army and spent two years in North Africa and Italy. Returning to Williams in 1946, he is now a senior, a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Phi.)
There has been considerable comment during the past year on the gradual deterioration of our public school system: "Think about it, talk about it, and do something about it," say the newspapers. Emphasis has been largely confined to the outward and surface conditions which are in need of repair and because Americans seem convinced that most problems can be solved by money, the low pay of teachers has been a principal topic in these discussions. But there are those who have noted more fundamental difficulties, "symptoms of a deeper unsoundness," difficulties that can only be solved by basic policy changes throughout our school system.

W's-VC Sing Here Saturday

First and Last G.C. Local Show In '48

The Williams Glee Club will make its first and only appearance this season in Williamstown on the evening of Saturday, April 24. The event will be a joint concert in Chapin Hall with the Vassar Glee Club. The Williams group is under the direction of Assoc. Music Prof. Robert G. Barrow. The conductor of the Vassar organization is John Peirce of the Vassar music department.

The combined groups, which will number over 140 voices, will be assisted by Norman Cazdan, pianist, also of the Vassar faculty, and Helen Merritt, soprano. Miss Merritt was formerly a resident of Williamstown and is now a voice student in New York.

The program of the combined groups will include works of Handel, two choral works of Brahms, and a composition by Clair Leonard, one-time member of the Vassar faculty and now at Bard.

Included in the music sung by the Vassar Glee Club will be a composition by a Vassar alumni and one written by a Vassar undergraduate. Of these, one is a series of humorous quotations taken from the Saturday Evening Post.

Among the works sung by the Williams group are a chorus "O Triumph All Ye Ransomed" by Beethoven and a work by Edward Elgar. Both of these are among the few compositions written for men's voices and a soprano soloist. The Glee Club will be assisted in these by Helen Merritt.

The highpoint of the Williams section of the program will be the singing of a setting of Walt Whitman's famous poem "Dirge for Two Veterans." For this work an accompaniment of piano, brass, and percussion is required.

Under the direction of Mr. Barrow, the Williams Glee Club has had a very successful season. After an early concert with Pembroke College in the fall, the season continued in February with a radio program on Station WGY. A concert was given in New York with a group of girls directed by Hugh Ross of the Julliard School. The most recent concert was the presentation of the Faure "Requiem" with the Elmira Glee Club in Elmira, New York. The

Stoddard Named Local Program Director

Professor of Fine Arts Whitney S. Stoddard, who doubles in brass as a Lieutenant in the USNR, was back on the bridge in Lawrence Hall last week after a six-day tour of duty at the headquarters of the Commandant of the First Naval District in Boston.

Mr. Stoddard spent most of the spring vacation studying various aspects of the Naval Reserve program. He was then ordered to Portsmouth, N. H., where he went through the Organized Reserve Submarine School and inspected one of the subs. As a result he has been appointed local representative of the Commandant of the First Naval District in the North Adams, Williamstown, and Bennington County area.

Reserve Meeting Called

A meeting of all local naval reservists has been called for Thursday night, April 22, at 7:30 p.m. in Jesup Hall to discuss the Naval Reserve program and opportunities for two weeks summer training, with pay and all travel expenses, which are open to men from the area.

The program will be conducted at shore stations and on fleet ships, and will cover nearly all branches of the service. Submarine training cruises will set out from New London all summer. In addition there will be cruises between June 20 and late October on the cruisers USS Albany and USS Rochester, the carrier USS Philippine Sea, and a number of destroyers. Liberty ports include Quebec, St. Johns, Bermuda, Haiti, and New York.

Men with aviation ratings can receive shore training at Squantum Naval Air Station. The program includes courses in engine, radio, and radar maintenance and other specialized fields.

season will be concluded in May with a concert at Hunter College in New York.

New Carnival Plan Disclosed

Pre-war Idea Again On Dance Agenda

Another instance of resurrected ante-bellum traditions will be observed at the approaching Spring Carnival with the establishment of sixteen "booths"—one for each social unit—in the wrestling room of Lasell Gymnasium at the formal dance on Friday, May 7.

Houseparty Chairman Barry Benepe '50, who made this announcement, said that "the booths" will be set up by the Carnival sponsors, but that the houses are being asked to supply furniture for their own booths.

Plan Well Received

"Everyone I've talked to seems to agree that the plan will greatly simplify the matter of finding and getting together with one's friends," Benepe told the Record.

The idea was very popular before the war, he said, but its success depends on the houses' supplying chairs and tables. The Yacht Club, which is sponsoring the weekend, will provide a soft drink bar as well as the "smooth and highly atmospheric" music of the Four Radio Clubmen.

Alcohol Taboo

Alcoholic beverages, however, will not be provided. "College rules," Benepe declared, "do not permit drinking in the building."

Dance decorations will be on a nautical theme, with boat riggings hanging from the rafters. "In fact," said Benepe, "We expect this to be the saltiest party in College history."

schools has at least opened the way for some superficial improvement there in recent months, but complacency still characterizes much of the thinking in regard to higher education in this country. Actually, conditions in most colleges today reflect many of the same ills that are present in the secondary school system. More important and more dangerous than any teacher shortage or lack of physical plant is the virus of compulsory mediocrity which is attacking the American schools at both secondary and higher levels. It is not a surface injury, but the decay of an internal disease which threatens, and until this is realized there is little hope for achievement of more than the production line methods of schooling which now produce a machine-made product trade-marked with the traditional "B.A." A change in policies, a change in attitudes, a change in the general American conception of education is what is needed, and needed badly, if our schools are to fill to the maximum their proper potentialities in the molding of character.

For those who feel that most national and world problems are basically problems in personal ethics, the role of education in the life of the individual is supremely important. It must be more than an assembly line process. In building a product which consists of inert materials, the assembly line method has proved highly satisfactory, but in dealing with mind, spirit, character, personality, it is more than inadequate. Unfortunately, this is seldom recognized by Americans, who are all too apt to consider the outward appearances of education without giving much thought to its real nature and purpose. Observing that these appearances may be achieved by similar methods to those employed in producing a new car, they are prone to adopt them with little change in creating their new product. When they are through, however, and the trademark has been applied, appearance only has been created; reality is nowhere to be found. Thus, instead of helping the student toward self-realization, American colleges are changing him into an indoctrinated educational robot.

Among the few who have recognized and properly diagnosed the disease which afflicts American education is Carter Davidson, president of Union College. In a commencement address at the University of Buffalo last spring President Davidson characterized the typical college graduate as "literate but ignorant." Quoted by Time magazine on June 23 were

Smoker Held For Awarding Team Letters

Bingham, Baxter Talk At Sports Gathering Winter Record Cited

The athletic smoker held at Lasell Gym on Friday evening before a gathering of 170 was the occasion for the awarding of 164 letters and numerals to members of the varsity and freshman winter sports teams, and featured a talk by Bill Bingham, Director of Athletics at Harvard.

New Ski Coach

President Baxter, in his talk before introducing Mr. Bingham, spoke of the records of the winter sports teams as the "best season in his experience at Williams" and thanked the teams in behalf of the trustees and alumni. Speaking of the skiing season, he remarked that next year Williams will have a new, full time skiing coach. He added that the college has bought the upper part of Sheep Hill, as well as procuring a five-year lease on the lower portion of the slope.

Of Mr. Bingham, President Baxter said that he had known Mr. Bingham ever since he had witnessed him set the interscholastic record in the half-mile to clinch a victory for Exeter over the Andover team, for which President Baxter was rooting.

Give Coach Break

In his address Mr. Bingham spoke of his long association with Harvard as a student, coach, and since 1926, its athletic director. Reminiscing about his experience as coach, he remarked that he "didn't want to make a career out of anything where he would be at the mercy of the alumni."

Expressing his view of the manner in which he thought a coach should be judged, Mr. Bingham said, "The coach must be assured of a fair break. The standard of how the team looks in defeat, in other words whether it has been well-coached in the fundamentals is a fair standard to go by."

Subsidizing Problem

Coming to the problem that most colleges are facing today, namely that of subsidizing athletic teams and beating the bushes for material, Mr. Bingham outlined the policy that Williams and Harvard follow. The undergraduates at these institutions, he said, "are students incidentally dealing with athletics, not athletes incidentally dealing with studies." To illustrate the latter of these points he told of the institution in the South where the local citizenry spent $114,000 in "procuring a team, truly a 'community project'." "Subsidizing and recruiting," he said, "have always been a problem. They are, however, nothing but a defensive measure. If one college does it, other colleges consider that they must also do it. There is no harm in attracting good boys. The evil comes when the boys are offered financial remuneration, for there is no such as a semi-pro; for there is no such thing as a semi-pro; an athlete is either an amateur or a pro."

In conclusion Mr. Bingham said, "Sport which keeps the flag of idealism flying is perhaps the most saving grace in the world at the moment with its spirit of sticking to the rules and maintaining respect of adversary whether the fight is going for or against."

Earlier on the program, the coaches of the winter teams were introduced by Purple Key president Danny Wheeler '48, and each coach spoke a few words about the season that has just been concluded.

Training or Education at Williams?

Elsewhere in this issue is an article by George Smith which concerns the curriculum, administration, and student attitude at Williams. Although it is rather lengthy, we recommend the perusal of this article. Mr. Smith and THE RECORD welcome all comment pro and con, and all such letters addressed to THE RECORD will be published. In order to clarify the situation for those readers who would criticize THE RECORD for printing an article which appears entirely out of context in a newspaper, we offer the following explanation.

The other agencies of publication on this campus have chosen not to run this article. It was presented to them, accepted, and finally rejected. Feeling it a most worthy article, THE RECORD offered to publish the article, journalistic procedure notwithstanding, in order to present the Williams' student with a penetrating analysis of education and Williams College.

Houseparties

And speaking of criticisms, THE RECORD has heard considerable criticism of the Yacht Club concerning the approaching houseparty dance. The center of this criticism has been the band which has been engaged to produce the music for the occasion. Many people desire a "name" band for the dance. THE RECORD does too. Because of the cost of such a band, however, the Yacht Club cannot afford to take the chance of not meeting costs. Therefore, it is necessary to hire the lower brackets. This does not preclude that the music will be poor. We hope the College will not pass judgement before the dance but will reserve judgement until they have attended and heard.

Letters To The Editor

Repudiates Gargoyle Oath, Resigns

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

This is my resignation from Gargoyle. The rejection, like the acceptance, must be made public. The acceptance was a mistake. In a society like Gargoyle, I am a heretic. For a heretic to be a member of the organization he neither believes in nor sympathizes with, is hypocrisy. Of that sin I have been guilty.

I had deluded myself into believing that I was only finding out what such an organization does, how it operates. But to find out I took an oath of loyalty which I here repudiate. I should never have taken it.

What is Gargoyle? In conception it is constructive—a frankly critical body aiming at improvement. In reality it is a servant: it is closely akin to the Soviet conception of self-criticism. If the individual does not accept the aims and values of the system involved, be it Communism or "Williams", his participation in the criticism is hypocritical and "disloyal".

But to specifics. Gargoyle unreservedly supports the fund drive. I hold reservations regarding the fund drive, making it impossible for me to view it as the most important thing for the college. A second example of my heretical views regards the criterion for selection of Gargoyle members. The criterion of "leaders" is to me a doubtful one, and to participate in choosing new members would be impossible for me. My third heresy involves Gargoyle's interest in promoting "loyalty to the college." I don't give a damn for loyalty to the college, in that sense. My values are not always the values of "Williams". The Gargoyle talk of gaining loyalty by providing "spirit" finds no sympathy from me. Spirit can be provided, opines Gargoyle, by singing school songs, by waving banners, by enforcing traditions. To me, spirit can come only from something far more basic,—waving banners and having living traditions are a result of spirit, they do not provide it.

There is enough here to indicate my feelings; my public penance is done. In closing, I wish to make it clear that I certainly harbor no ill-feeling toward Gargoyle as a society or as individuals. That its values are not mine indicates only a difference of opinion; I pass judgement only for myself.

some of his comments: "...We have been confused about education and training. (Training) is a process by which the pupil is taught to perform an act by imitating. (Education) should acquaint the student with ways of analyzing problems... he has never seen before... We teachers... assume that we established habits from which the graduate will not depart; and among these, we hope, is the habit of reading worthwhile books. The average college graduate is more likely to limit his reading to the newspaper, the comic books, a picture magazine, a magazine of condensations, and the book elections of a commercial literary club. If college men and women haven't learned to read the originals, to seek out the significant, they are literate but ignorant. Which is better, a nation of illiterate wise men, or of literate ignoramus? Must we have either?..."

The problem under discussion here, then, is the achievement of "education" as differentiated from "training". President Davidson's final questions may well be asked by any observer of the American scene, for it is obvious that our college graduates have been trained, not educated. Look around you; watch them on the street; observe their habits; see if you can discover any significance in their lives. These are the tests which will indicate whether American colleges are fulfilling their function. Have the highest potentialities of the man been brought out by his experience at school? In most cases, I fear we must answer "no".

Although the atmosphere of self-satisfaction and complacency in Williamstown would never lead one to suspect it, the situation described above is just as much in evidence here as elsewhere. Perhaps it is even more dangerous at Williams than in most other colleges, for the type of student who is attracted to Williams is often one who most needs something more than the artificial veneer of knowledge and sophistication which is to be applied in his four years of college life.

Examine the "Williams Man." Does he give any evidence of having attained the principal attribute of the educated man, intellectual humility? Is he concerned with the problems of western culture? Does he inquire into more than the what and how of material things? Has he come to know himself? Is his attitude one of tempered altruism or of selfish grasping for wealth and power? Does he, in his actions, stand for the dignity or degradation of man? If the answers to these questions be negative, then it is time that something be done to decrease rather than increase the out-put of Williams graduates.

Many fine men have passed through Williams, but there is also this type known as the "Williams Man". Perhaps a Natural History description would run as follows: "The species is readily recognized by its brilliant plumage and heavy epidermis. Its habitat is generally the bar rooms of our leading hotels, although it often frequents cocktail parties given by the more exclusive members of the 'Phylum'. It may be found in all parts of the United States, but seems to gravitate toward the New York City area. Open season: None. To be admired, not hunted." I am inclined to think that the "Williams Man" has been evolved through adaptation to his environment, and that the college is to be held responsible for much that is unfortunate in the breed. The lack of maturity, the perpetual adolescence of the "Williams Man", indicates a product of "training" rather than "education".

Those who achieve real education are always self-educated, in the sense that their own efforts have led to success, but if an attempt is to be made by an institution to aid in the self-educational process, there must be a basic change in teaching emphasis away from fact accumulation and toward thinking ability. We must teach, not train; we must reason, not rationalize; we must analyse, not memorize. If college is able to help in developing these abilities, then there is reason for its existence.

Among the particular factors which must be blamed for establishing a training program rather than an educational program, for creating a factory rather than a college at Williams, are attitudes and policies of the faculty and administration. The general disinterest of many students in either their studies or in extra-curricular activities is partially caused and certainly encouraged by administrative policy. That lack of interest is in fact a basic element in the post-war student's attitude toward college is easily evidenced. One need only note that about one-tenth of the student body turns up at college meetings, that athletic teams are ill-supported, that criticism of the school runs rampant among the students, and it becomes obvious that spirit and interest in the college are lacking. For my part, I feel that this situation proceeds in part from a feeling of hostility toward policies of the college administration; that it is partially a consequence of mechanical and unsympathetic attitudes on the part of that administration. The effects of formalities of discipline and apparently penurious financial tactics, for instance, are seen by many students as representing examples of a mild hostility on the part of the administration toward themselves. A corresponding hostility in the student has been engendered, which contributes to the feeling of disinterest and even bitterness toward the college and everything for which it stands. This feeling forms a part of the student's outlook and is one of the barriers which stand in the way of his development. As long as Williams exists psychologically for the student as a place to escape from rather than a center of his activity, as antagonistic rather than sympathetic, it must remain a factory or a training station; it can become nothing else. Lack of collegiate spirit seems to me symptomatic of a general disinterest which transfers to all college activities and forms a barrier to development of the educated man. I should like to see a revival of spirit at Williams and with it an active interest of all that goes on here. As it is, the only spirit at Williams today is purchased, bottled at the Square Deal!

Since the beginning of 1946, it has apparently been the sole aim of the college administration to get people through. The task, from the student viewpoint, centers on collecting enough credits to get out. Rather than emphasizing the truly remarkable opportunity for establishing a mature spirit of inquiry, which has existed here during the past two years, the attitude has been one of trying to get rid of veteran students with all possible speed. "Let's get over the bulge in enrollment," has been the war cry, and the faculty have answered in magnificent fashion. They have delivered themselves of their words of wisdom and left their class rooms each day with the feeling that the movement toward "normalcy" has been that much advanced. And it has. The result has been the stifling of what could have established a precedent as a splendid example of a mature student-teacher relationship, ideally suited to a small college. Students have done no more than was required of them, and from the burst of flame which symbolized the desire for education so evident in the spring of 1946 has come nothing but the burnt match of mediocrity, facts and figures, credits towards a degree. This rush to clear the decks, as it appears to the student, has been a specific manifestation of the general hostility of the administration mentioned in the preceding paragraph. It has been this attitude on the part of the administration which has helped to create the bitterness, the disinterest, the corresponding hostility, on the part of many students, which make for an utterly unwholesome relationship between these two factions on campus and preclude the development of an atmosphere in which education rather than training may be carried on.

In addition to the mechanical attitudes of the college administration, those of the faculty have done their bit in crushing any movement toward significant educational achievement at Williams. Mortimer J. Adler remarks that there are two kinds of teachers, living and dead. The dead teachers are books and the living are persons. Now, it would appear that living teachers should give to the student something more than he can obtain from the reading of books, else why bother with anything but books? This thought has apparently not occurred to many members of the Williams faculty, for they proceed on the assumption that a repetition in class of what the student has already read constitutes teaching. The central purpose of classroom activity in most courses, in fact, seems to be the accumulation of facts. Students write feverishly for fifty minutes during a lecture taking down facts which they later attempt to memorize and hand back to the professor on tests. That a professor should admit his purpose in conducting a class to be that of getting the students "as familiar as possible with this material" does not speak very favorably for his imaginative scope. This, to the minds of many, is a waste of time and breath, for facts and "familiarity" can be derived from reading, while interpretation, insight, feeling for the subject, logical arrangement and consequence in the broad picture are the proper subjects for classroom presentation. The opening of persons rather than books would represent a vast step forward on the Williams campus. Although this approach is admittedly not equally valid for all areas of the liberal arts curriculum, it could be effectively introduced in many departments. The mimeographing of lectures and spending of saved classroom time in discussion could be most profitable. As things now stand, however, we may apply to this college the statement of Harold Taylor, president of Sarah Lawrence, who recently observed that the U. S. educational system "...has become one massive quiz program, with the prizes and the honors going to the most...repulsively well-informed persons. The man with his hand up first wins the scholarship, is asked to make the commencement speech, is voted the boy most likely to succeed... Our educational system seems now designed to create a race of eager beavers."

What Mr. Taylor terms "the arithmetical approach," which values accuracy and correctness above imagination, is scoring a victory at Williams. The crime of it is that the small college, with a ratio of something like one instructor to every ten students, is so ideally suited to a more significant approach to education than that of fact accumulation. It would that seem here, rather than providing a machine made veneer, we could be helping to give the student a sensitivity to problems, a method of attaining values by which he could act with purpose in this world. That the faculty are at fault in not exerting themselves to provide the necessary inspiration and insight which constitute good teaching is more than unfortunate; it is tragic.

The tendency in some departments to "sell a bill of goods" to the student could also be added to an indictment against faculty members. Not just facts, but certain selected facts which lead inevitably to a particular orthodoxy, are accumulated by many Williams students. This selling of course content might with some justification be termed indoctrination. Trees do not grow straight, strong or deep-rooted in a rocky, hostile soil. Neither do reflective and analytical thinking techniques spring from controlled and unsympathetic intellectual atmospheres. The robot, not the "thinking man," is produced by indoctrination.

Even more basic to the problem of "training" versus "education" than sterile mechanical techniques in the class rooms is the lack of personal stimulation and inspiration from teachers at Williams. For those who believe that college education should be as much inspiration as information, the present situation is indeed deplorable. Contact with educated men, which must form the basis of learning, might so easily be provided, and yet it is for the most part denied. I would venture to guess that the average student goes through Williams without acquiring a speaking acquaintance with more than six men on the faculty. He nods to some others on the street, but seldom shares the thought of any. Those few professors who make an effort to know their students are so greatly outnumbered by their indifferent colleagues that the main connection between students and faculty throughout the college is merely visual.

The whole system is strangely reminiscent of the primary processing barracks at Fort Devens. The draftee walks through the building with a huge canvas barracks bag. He is handed various articles of equipment by people whom he never saw before and never will see again. These articles are thrown at him rapidly and in utter confusion. At last the new soldier emerges at the opposite end of the building totally submerged by his huge bag of equipment, but the proud possessor of a little gold insignia bearing the letters "U.S."

Not all the causes which contribute to the stamping out of a new batch of assembly line B.A.'s each and every June are to be laid at the doors of the faculty and administration. The students are also to blame for the policies and program, the teachers and their attitudes, at Williams. Perhaps an incident will illustrate. Last spring an old alumnus walked into Hart's Pharmacy. "The town looks deserted," he said. "Where is everybody? All gone to the ball game?" "No, no," said the clerk, "most of the students don't even know there is a ball game. Half of them are studying in their rooms and the other half left town at noon. It's like this every week end. Not like the old days. These vets are funny..." It struck me at that time that there was a perfect illustration of student outlooks. One part of the student body revolts at a system which makes them spend the whole week memorizing facts and gets out of town as quickly as possible on week-ends. The other group calmly submits and continues to memorize facts over Saturday and Sunday. (These are the "eager beavers" described by Mr. Taylor.) Neither of these attitudes is likely to produce any change for the better in a factory-like procedure. Rather, the people who run the factory must be made to see that the quality of their product is poor. Neither submission nor escape will remedy the situation. That students at Williams should cease trying to get genuine benefit from the institution they attend is a failing on their part, and until they press for change they will continue to form a part of the assembly line product.

In addition to those faults which can be traced to personalities of faculty members, students, and administration, there is much that might be improved at Williams by change in curriculum. Not only the approach to subjects, but the subjects themselves need review and revision. It is a pitiful sight indeed to watch a student in the process of selecting his electives during registration. The lack of an adequate number of courses in most fields requires choice of many courses merely because they come at non-conflicting hours. This situation, which forces students into fields in which they have neither interest nor aptitude, serves to aggravate an already serious attitude of hostility on the part of the student.

The lack of many courses which are offered at other liberal arts colleges points to a need for general broadening of the curriculum. That Italian, for instance, an important language in all the arts, should not be offered at Williams is inexcusable. A course in selected works of foreign literature should also be presented here. As the situation now stands, one must reach French 5-6 before reading any Mollere or Hugo; Spanish 9-10 before becoming acquainted with perhaps the greatest character in comic literature, Don Quixote; German 5-6 before reading any Goethe. Of course, Russian and Italian literature are entirely omitted, as are the writings in less familiar languages. To become acquainted with the achievement of Greece and Rome, one must take other separate year courses.

I have no doubt that much could be achieved in a single year's course which would take up representative works of foreign literature in translation. If such a course were placed in charge of one faculty member for purposes of correlation and unification of topics, but conducted to a large extent by specialists in each of the literatures undertaken, it could easily prove to be the most valuable course in literature at Williams. Not the least important aspect of such an approach would be the student's familiarity with a broader segment of the faculty. Add to this procedure the maximum use of visual education and recorded sound techniques and Williams could have a model course in effective teaching of liberal arts.

The idea of cooperation between the various departments in building up a unified picture of world culture in the mind of the student should be the ideal of achievement in the liberal arts college. Unity of curriculum to provide an integrated outlook would avert the situation of the overloaded and disorganized barracks bag mentioned above. Careful arrangement of the contents of the bag so that each article had its proper place and was readily available for use would make the whole less of a burden and more of a help to further progress.

In all of what has gone before, I have been complaining about the tendency to turn out at Williams College the trained rather than the educated man. What I have been objecting to are the factors which I believe are taking the spirit out of education and making it mechanical and therefore sterile. In assigning the blame for this condition, I admit the influence of many more factors than those mentioned. The only thing I wish to insist upon here is the recognition of the problem. For if the problem is recognized, its solution is begun.

To inject spirit once again into the education at Williams is a task which could be accomplished with but little change. Only a change in attitudes is required, but that this change will come about I am sincerely doubtful. The "Williams Man" will probably continue to appear in all his glory each and every June. If this is so, then many must agree with Episcopal Canon Bernard J. Bell who, in reference to Henry Wallace's "Century of the Common Man", last summer announced in the New York Times Magazine that "...ours is the century of the uneducated Common Man, of the perpetually adolescent Common Man, of the Common Man unskilled in the art of living. Those who have to do with educational policy-making... must rescue the Common Man. Otherwise... the Century of the Common Man will end in a worse enslavement... enslavement to a standardized vulgarity sold as the good life..."

For those who see moral evolution based upon the molding of character as a necessary prerequisite to any lasting peace in the world, this is a discouraging prospect indeed.

Does it need to be?

Chaffee Pilots Eleven Years

Little Three Wins Highlight Career

This is the first in a series of weekly articles on Williams athletic coaches.

by Kevin F. X. Delany
Clarence Church Chaffee arrived at Williams in the fall of 1937 and since that time has compiled an enviable record for himself as coach of tennis, squash and freshman soccer. Besides all these duties he manages to hold down an Assistant Professorship in Physical Education.

"Chafe", as he is known to a good portion of the college and townspeople is a graduate of Brown, class of 1924. While there he engaged in football, basketball and tennis, it being some ten years before he was to take up squash racquets. Just prior to his arrival in Williamstown in '37 he received an M.A. from Columbia. He first obtained coaching experience at Wilbraham and Riverdale Country School in the middle Thirties.

Strong In Little Three
Always stressing fundamentals, Chafe's coaching ability can be most clearly seen in his teams' Little Three endeavors. In tennis, though always strong at Williams, Amherst's varsity has beaten him but once while their freshman have yet to turn the trick. Last year was the first time in seven attempts that the Wesleyan varsity has topped a Chaffee-coached team. Their yearlings have likewise won only once. In other competition the story is almost as pleasing since the Purple has consistently fought it out with Dartmouth for third place honors behind Yale and Harvard for the mythical New England championship.

Turning to squash we find that Chaffee, as the only mentor Williams has had in the sport, has compiled records of four and two and five and one against the varsity squads of Amherst and Wesleyan respectively. The Little Three title has remained in Williamstown for the past three years and the outlook for the future is just as fine since Chafe feels that this year's unbeaten freshman team (Yale beaten 9-0) is the best he has ever had.

In freshman soccer Chafe's stranglehold on the Jeffs and Cards persists. His teams have beaten the rivals five times in seven seasons.

Skiing Enthusiast
Surprisingly enough, the sport that Chafe most prefers to coach is basketball. In the winter of 1945-46, returning to Williams after a three year lapse during which he served as a Major in the A.A.F., he did, in fact, coach a team in the absence of Dale Burnett. When it comes to participating in sports, Chaffee wards his vote to skiing by a narrow margin.

The nearest he can come to winning down his success at coaching is the statement that "there is no substitute for hard work and drill." In any sport he feels that you must start work early and practice constantly. On top of this there is a definite need for a "desire to play and win." To his tennis players Chafe advocates extensive summer playing to reach real form. His favorite method of pointing out mistakes in the ever important fundamentals to his tennis and squash pupils is by taking up his own racket and giving their weaknesses a heavy workout.

Varsity Nine Faces Bowdoin

Season Opens Today On Weston Diamond

George Dittmar or Bill Kaufman will be on the mound this afternoon when Bobby Coombs' varsity nine faces Bowdoin in the Home opener of the 1948 season. The Ephmen have a three game spring trip under their belt, whereas the Polar Bears have played only a single exhibition game against Colby.

According to reports, weather conditions in Maine have been even worse than the notorious Williamstown "spring", but this report is more than equalized by Coach Coombs' statement that "Bowdoin coach Danny MacFeyden was a very smart pitcher for the Braves and if he has any material at all he will field a well-coached and hard-hitting ball club." The Polar Bears are captained by first baseman Dick Burston, who is one of the eleven returning lettermen from the '47 state champion outfit.

Starting Line-up

Except for the uncertain pitching assignment the starting team will see Captain Jim Young at first and in the clean-up spot, while Bob Brownell and Don LeSage form the keystone combination. Stan DeLisser and Chuck Joodell are firmly ensconced in the hot corner and behind the plate respectively while Ralph Mason, lead-off man Chuck Schmidt, and slugging George Owen will be the tarring outfield trio. Bob Ray, who has shown great improvement this year, and Bob Johnston may see action in relief roles.

AD's Tie Psi U's In Intramural Swimming

The finals of the Intramural swimming meet held in the Lasell pool last Friday ended in a 19-19 tie between the Alpha Deltas and the Psi U's. Joe Janotta's victory in the Back stroke and Ed Spencer's free-style victory provided the highlights of the meet.

Tennis Loses To Princeton

In their initial match of the season the Williams tennis team was defeated 8-1 last Saturday by Princeton.

Williams lone victory was in the first doubles match where captain Fred Scribner and Charlie Schaaf won over Dean Mathey and Bill Schock, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4. The Eph duo exploited the comparatively weak overhead games of their opponents by lobbing at every opportunity. This strategy forced Princeton into many errors.

Robinson Loses

Stew Robinson at number one lost to Dick Gaines in straight sets; losing the first stanza 6-2 and dropping the next 7-5. Charlie Schaaf at the second position was unable to control his forehand drives or harness his overhead smashes. As a consequence he lost to Dean Mathey 6-2, 6-2. Fred Scribner at number three lost to Alan Watson in the only three set match on the afternoon, 6-10, 6-1, 6-3.

At the fourth spot Dick Palmer was shut out 6-0, 6-0 by Bill Schock. Pete Thurber at the fifth position dropped a 6-2, 6-3 decision to Princeton's Parmele, while at the sixth spot Russ Platt bowed to Joe Scheerer 6-1, 6-1.

The number two doubles team of Dick Palmer and Stew Robinson was defeated 6-2, 6-3 by Gaines and Scheerer; the third Eph pair, Ed Spencer and Pete Thurber lost a thriller 8-6, 6-4.

Mt. Hermon Downs Frosh Lacrosse 9-1

In the first game of the season last Saturday the yearling stickmen lost to Mt. Hermon, 9-1. A hard fought contest throughout, the experience and team-work of the prep schoolers proved too much for the Ephmen. Before the game Gordy McWilliams was chosen to lead the team this spring.

Mount Hermon started the scoring shortly after the game began by slipping one by goalie Herb Poole. This lead was short lived. See FROSH, page 4

Snively Ass't Coach For All-North Team

"Whoop" Snively, coach of the Williams lacrosse team, has been chosen by the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association to aid in coaching the All-North team for the annual North-South tilt in Baltimore in June.

The head coach for the squad is Princeton's Dick Colman, Williams '37. His other assistant is Bob Maddux of Harvard.

Frosh Ball Team Batters Kent 7-2

Finally finding their batting eyes in a big sixth inning, the freshman baseball team rallied to defeat a stubborn Kent School opponent, 7-2, in their opening game played on Cole Field Saturday afternoon.

Right-hander Bob Olsson went to the hill for the Williams nine and for five innings hooked up with the visitors' southpaw mound star Elliott Bates in a tight pitchers' duel. Kent tallied its only run off Olsson in the third, on a single, a sacrifice, and Djerf's long double to left field, while Bates was holding the frosh batters to a solitary safety and no runs in the first five frames, fanning eight men in the process.

Big Harry "Squid" Sheehy took over the Williams mound duties in the sixth, and except for a shaky seventh inning held the prep school nine in check the rest of the way, setting eight men down on strikes and receiving credit for the win. Kent's second run came in the seventh as pitcher Bates walked, stole second, and scampered home on Gallup's second hit.

With one away in the sixth, Mierzejewski's single, a walk, and an error loaded the sacks. One run tallied on pinch-hitter Jordan's infield roller, and the tie-breaking tally crossed the platter when Manning clubbed a hard-

Graney, Meryman Lead Scorers; Team Play, Defense Stronger

Coach Whoop Snively's stickmen pounded a slightly-favored Crimson team at Cambridge on Saturday by the score of 8-4. The Purple jumped off to an early lead and were never headed as they built up a four-goal margin at half-time.

Center Dick Whitney got the ball at the center draw, and the Purple whisked in its first goal as Co-captain Pat Graney came from behind the cage to score. Dick Meryman made the shot of the day early in the second period, as he jumped, caught Art Lewis' feed, and shot, in mid-air.

Less than a minute later Meayman fed to Graney, Graney to Austy Taliaferro, who fired in the third goal. Fifty-two seconds after that, Meryman scored his second goal, assisted by Taliaferro, when he dodged around from behind the cage.

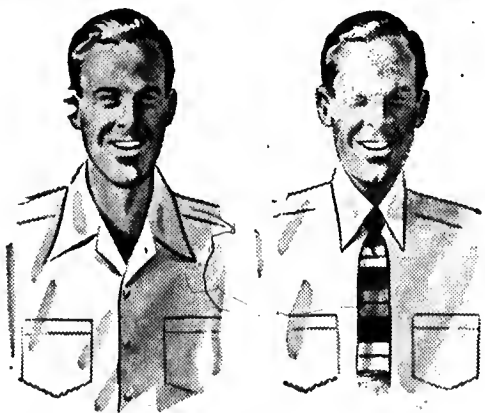

Harvard's Bezanson scored the first goal for the home team, but Williams more than made up for it, when Meryman's feed to Co-captain Ed Maynard provided a goal, and Ronnie Chute's long shot made it 6-1. Bezanson scored the second of his three goals just before the period's end.

Each team scored two goals in the final quarter, "Buz" Brumbaugh's and Graney's coming before Harvard's pair. Graney, Meryman, and Mickey O'Connell in the nets, looked good. The defense, especially in its clearing, looked better than at any time this season.

hit ball into center. Sheehy then poked one through the middle for two more markers, and the fifth run came in on Hoffer's safe dribbler in front of the plate.

Two more runs were added in the next frame off relief hurler Pelham, on a third straight single by Mierzejewski, who also starred defensively at third base. Lynch's double, which was the only extra-base blow of the game for the Williams nine, and Jordans one-baser.

Smith Radio Club Presents "Sophia Smitty" on WMS

Smith Radio Clubbers, friends, and WMS staffers as they appeared before the broadcast Friday night. That's Sophy with the pearls.

About thirty members of the Smith College Radio Club descended upon Station WMS Friday evening and presented their first radio broadcast, a Walter Mitty parody called "The Secret Life of Sophia Smitty."

Sophy, played by Phoebe Krug was a Smith Freshman with neurotic tendencies, who escaped from her frustrations with flights of daydreaming. It was pointed out that she not only dreamed in psychology, biology, philology, neurology, but, of all things, in house-meetings.

And, alors, the scene shifted to a housemeeting at which a Smith version of the Queen of Hearts presided.

Sophy, with the aid of appropriate dream-sequence music, subconsciously retired into her fancy and got elected president of the student body on a platform which included making Amherst a satellite of Smith, liquidating Bennington control of Williams, and establishing a free subway to Williams ("where all our men are").

In the next sequence, Sophy exclaims that she came to college to learn, that she was "on fire to learn" and in her dream is awarded a gold medal for "knowing everything." Even Einstein, appropriately read by Howard Erskine '49, prostrated himself before her.

The best gag of the show cropped up in the third scene as Sophy sat playing solitaire on Saturday afternoon while the lucky girls who had dates chatted about who was wearing what that evening: "Lorraine is going to wear her bare midriff evening dress this evening. She says she wants to be seen in all the right places."

Then one of the girls came in and announced that she was trying to get a blind date for Williams man "Shoulders" Van Courtland, captain of the football team. "Football team" was met by groans from the group, but when she added "...but he's on the swimming team, too!" the chorus changed to "ohs" and "ahs".

By a coincidence, all the other girls in the house were dated up for the evening, so Sophy was fixed up with "Shoulders."

After another shot of mood music, Sophy dreamed up a big weekend at Williams for herself during which the boys in Chi Alpha Delta (CAD) engineered her election as Miss Purple Cow of 1948.

Margie Bosselly, station manager of the Smith Radio Club, explained that they had planned to have their own station set up by this time, but that "technical difficulties" had forced them to move up their opening date until next fall.

"Whoops" commended the squad, saying that he "never had a better team that played together as a unit," and that he could teach this team more than any other hockey team that he coached here. Captain Charlie Huntington '49, who, with Tom Benson '50 will be co-captains next winter, helped "Whoops" distribute letters to nineteen varsity lettermen, after which Captain Mitch Fish '51, received the numerals for the freshman team.

Dale Burnett reviewed the past basketball season and spoke of an encounter with Yale next year as being one of the highlights of a schedule which already included home games with Fordham and

Other coaches who spoke and awarded letters and numerals to their teams, were Bobby Coombs, Jr., freshman basketball; Bob Muir for swimming; wrestling mentors "Uncle Ed" Bullock and Harv Potter; Tony Planaky for track and athletic director "Twit" Sheehan, who gave out the fencing letters.

Captains Announced

Captains for next year that were announced included Jack Mason '49, basketball; Charlie Huntington '49, and Tom Benson '50, co-captains of hockey; Pete Finlay '49, skiing, Ray Baldwin '50, and Hank Wineman '50 co-captains of swimming; and Bill Barney '49 and "Doc" Weeth '49, as co-captains of indoor track.

Ray Baldwin was announced as the winner of the Richardson trophy awarded annually to the swimmer scoring the most points during the regular season.

Letters To The Editor

Lauds Smith, Says Work With Faculty

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

Your editorial of April 21 states that you would welcome comment on the rather lengthy article on Education by G. W. Smith, Jr. '48; and so I should like to say a few words upon its content May I start by admitting Mr. Smith's much longer association with the problem at hand; nevertheless, I will attempt to add the whisperings of a Freshman to the thunderings of a Senior.

I agree with the main generalizations of the first five paragraphs as they bear on the whole of the educational scene in the United States: it is when the article turns to matters on this campus that I start to waver in allegiance. The whole tone of the piece from then on seems, to me, to blame too great a part of the trouble upon the administration, and tends to minimize the part of the students...

There are two modern miracles in our educational system: firstly, that our colleges continue to hold a large number... of men who are completely unsuited to pursue the knowledge which a good college can offer; and, secondly, that there are so many men who consider themselves able to pick up just exactly where they left off before joining the services... One can only admire the courage with which these veterans have returned to the academic life, applaud their results, and yet still wonder.

Now if one applies these twin miracles to Williams and adds to them the additional factors of financial strain and universal overcrowding one can commence to understand the headaches which face our own faculty and bring about the "attitude" which Mr. Smith lays mostly upon them. To teach is hard in the first instance; but to have to arrange things for the comprehension of one who was never meant to really appreciate what is offered to him at college is even harder. In addition, it usually results sooner or later in a lowering of the standard of the content of the course... This brings about the mediocrity in teaching which Mr. Smith very naturally deplors. Then too, if one is forced by the pressure of the times to undertake the education of larger classes... the inevitable result is a loss in the very beneficial tie between professor and student...

The answer to this situation is not to be found, as Mr. Smith hints, in the abolition of most of the lecture courses; but rather through the reduction of the numbers taught and admitted to the College, which is, to my mind, a sorry excuse for the present and yet a necessary trend for the future... We are all aware of the financial side of the picture and of its real bearing on just what the College can and can not undertake at the present moment. Yet just because this situation exists there is no reason to blame it upon the administration and to label them a bunch of Scrooges. Moreover it is interesting to note in the new registration booklet the recent inclusion of new courses which fill in old gaps and unite the whole structure as Mr. Smith wishes it.

There are... faults in our classrooms at the present which could be remedied irrespective of who is at fault, and in the face of our overcrowded conditions; and these Mr. Smith has very aptly described as "indoctrination" and "repetition". However let us work with the faculty and not against them, as I see so many do... together we can better the material undertaken and arouse more interest.

When speaking of "progress", remember that to be real it must both be a continuous process and include everyone in its sweep. I enjoyed Mr. Smith's article for its recognition of the problems which we are facing; and I do only wish that he could have assumed for himself some of the blame which he lays upon the administration.

The Lightning Rod

by Roger Ernst

The Board of Trustees of Williams runs the college from afar. To be sure two of its members live in Williamstown, but one of these is here less of the time than he is elsewhere. There are seventeen members on the board of whom eight graduated from Williams between the years 1889 and 1901. Only two members graduated after 1920. While it is true that the average age of the Board is somewhere in the fifties, it is also pertinent to note that of the seventeen members only two are under fifty.

This is no attack on age for obviously wisdom can be an appurtenance of age. Wisdom is, however, not the only quality required of a Trustee. Vigor, adventuresomeness, and enthusiasm are also requisite characteristics.

I believe that a large number of the Trustees should be younger men. Fifteen of the Trustees graduated prior to the first World War, and were brought up in a wholly different era, one which had problems other than those confronting young men today. At least half of the Trustees should be men who graduated from Williams after the first World War—men in their forties. This would mean that there would be more identity of experience between students and Trustees. A more sympathetic and intelligent approach would then be possible in dealing with current issues.

Trustee Lethargy

The Board is not merely a financial group, it considers questions of instruction, buildings and improvements. It has a creative role to play in determining the policies of the College. There are today several questions being discussed on campus—whether the Board has discussed them or not we students do not know. We are not informed for one reason or another.

One of these is the proposal to integrate the various courses of study such as has been done in the field of political economy. Similar integration seems to this writer necessary between the English and language departments, and the social science departments. Such an integrated course has been established in American History and Literature. More along this line are needed. Isolated bodies of information are relatively useless except for the specialist. What consideration have the Trustees given to this problem?

Another question of current interest is that of discrimination. It's decision to reassert its 1946 stand was reported to the Undergraduate Council by the President in January. The old formula said in essence that each Williams man should be judged as individuals. This is a fine, pious articulation, but nothing more. Many undergraduates, and in fact, many citizens, are today concerned with this issue. Is the Board taking any initiative? Has it deemed it important enough to warrant a special committee? NO!

Negative Public Relations

An item of sporadic, but deep concern to students is that of the public relations of the College. In two ways public relations are a problem. Externally, relatively little news of Williams is reported in the nation's press. Internally, the student-administration public relations are chaotic. College policies are fixed without student participation, sprung on the students, usually without prior release of information to explain the intended action. This behavior has engendered resentment.

Let me cite an example. The Building and Endowment Fund which we all wish to be successful, has not received the enthusiastic support of the students; they could be the best drum-beaters of all. Why is this? Because of the manner in which the Drive was presented as a fait accompli to the students.

Another source of irritation is, as always, the billing system. Students receive icy treatment in the mansion of high finance, receive bills for ridiculous sums as thirty-three cents, and so forth. Everyone is reluctant to dish out hard cash, but less antagonism could be the case, if the public relations aspect of that operation were attended to by those in power.

The Answers

Where does all this lead one? My answers are as follows:

The average age of the Board should be reduced. It should actively concern itself with problems of campus life, and keep the students fully informed of its activities.

Let us have student representation on its Board of Trustees, and on the various committees of the Board. This arrangement will permit the students to achieve an appreciation of the complex, vexious problems confronting the Board. Concomitantly it will mean that the student's experience of the here-and-now situation will figure in the final decisions of the Board. It will provide a continuous, effective means of disseminating to the Student body information on the questions considered by the Board.

The proposition of requesting student membership on the Board of Trustees should be seriously considered by the Undergraduate Council, the Trustees, and the administration. It would be beneficial for all parties, and mark a significant step in the growth of student leadership and acceptance of responsibility if student representation on the Board were an actuality.

"Champion Maker"Trackmen Nip Mass., 76 - '59 Clash With Middlebury Today

Fresh from a 75-59 victory over the University of Massachusetts last Tuesday, the Williams track team faces Middlebury College today at Middlebury.

This will be the first official meet for the Panthers, although they have had two practice meets with the University of Vermont on an indoor track.

Field Events Strong

The Mass. meet showed the Ephs to be notably strong in the field events and weak in the track events, especially the longer distances and the low hurdles. They scored 46 of their 75 points in the field events.

Bill Blanks, who took three firsts against Massachusetts, Tom Edwards, and Marty Detmer, who broke the Mass. State record in the shot-put, give the Ephs a trio of high scorers in the weights, javelin and discus. Ted Ferry, Steele Taylor and Ed Goulin lock tied easily at ten feet in the pole vault. The only apparent weakness in the field events seems to be the broad jump, where Williams was shut out.

Delany Returns

In the track events, Bill Barney and Scotty Brooks are a pair of capable sprinters, while Barney doubles as the number-one man in the quarter. Gordy Smith, with a 2:04 half looks set in the 880. The return of Kev Delany gives Williams added strength in the longer distances, where they were notably weak in their meet. A big sore spot still remains in the low hurdles, where Freddy Smith and John Hay have not shown top form as yet.

Middlebury Strong

Middlebury's strength seems to lie in the sprints and shorter running events, where they have a host of strong runners in football star Che Che Barquin, Chuck Morris, Irv Meeker, Jim Latimer, and Rufus Cushman. However, these men are unproven in competition so far this year.

In the field events, Irv Meeker has turned in some 20 foot broad jumps, while Fred Kracke and John Cook have shown good form in the shot put and high jump respectively. Jim Karney has turned in some excellent performances in the 35-lb. weight, while Middlebury's Captain, Dix Hemphill, has been up over eleven feet in the pole vault.

Bridge . . .

(Continued from page 1) had never played together before the initial college tournament. However, this is Jeffrey's second appearance in the finals, for he went to Chicago last year with Kiffin Y. Rockwell '47 to place thirteenth, two rungs beneath Amherst.

Adelphic Union Elects

Three new Adelphic Union officers were elected by members before spring vacation. Wallace Barnes '49 was elected president, Charles R. Alberti '50 vice-president, and Michael Luther '51 secretary.

Grid Candidates Meet Watters*Mentor Handles Line Tackle To Tackle

by Ted Jones

At a meeting of candidates for the 1948 football squad, held Tuesday evening in Griffin Hall, Coach Len Watters outlined plans for the coming season. The primary purpose of the preseason pow-wow was to give coaches Watters, Bell, and Potter an opportunity to meet and talk with the men they will work with next fall.

Watters told the prospective players that he will coach the line from tackle to tackle, leaving to recently appointed Assistant Coach Frank Bell the job of tutoring the ends. Harvey Potter, last year's Freshmen mentor, will be the new backfield coach.

Next fall's frosh staff is headed by former backfield Coach Dale Burnett. Bobby Coombs will again be on hand to coach, while the third member of the yearling staff is yet to be appointed.

Princeton in '50

The Ephmen open an eight game season against Norwich College and close with the traditional fray at Amherst. Sandwiched in between are contests with such annual Purple rivals as Trinity, Bowdoin, Union, and Wesleyan, plus games with new opponents Tufts.

Tennis Cancelled; Lacrosse Changed

Coach Chaffee was forced to permanently cancel the tennis match with Bowdoin, which was to have taken place last Wednesday afternoon. Threatening weather conditions, and soft courts were the cause of the cancellation. The match will not be played on another date, as Bowdoin was on its Spring trip, and will not visit Williams-town again this season.

The lacrosse game with Dartmouth has been changed from May 28th to Wednesday April 28th.

Rochester is included in the 1949 schedule and that, for the first time since the war, Princeton and Williams will meet in '50.

In line with his efforts to field a better equipped team in 1948, Coach Watters announced the purchase of fifty new game uniforms. He further added that photostatic copies of all plays will be furnished players.

Practice September 1st

Preseason practice is scheduled to begin September first with workouts twice daily until regular college classes begin later in the month. However, the six coaches plan to return earlier in August and hold a coaches clinic so that the two staffs may become familiar with the system of play to be used. A practice game has been scheduled with the University of Massachusetts, which will be played a week before regular season begins. Present plans call for a squad of about forty-five players.

Coach Watters strongly emphasized the importance of keeping in shape. He suggested that players begin training now and offered to supply anyone interested a program of roadwork for summer conditioning.

Stickmen Face
Springfield*Seek Second Win;
Prep For Big Green

This afternoon on Cole Field the Williams lacrosse team plays its first home game of the season as it faces a relatively inexperienced Springfield Maroon team at 2:30 p.m. With a week's practice since their strong victory over Harvard, the stickmen are rapidly preparing for the all-important clash with Dartmouth on Wednesday.

Little is known about the Springfield team. This is the first year of official lacrosse at Springfield since 1941. Last year there was enough interest in the game to warrant having an informal team. This spring there were fifty candidates for the team, among them a dozen or so returnees from last year's club. Having been practicing since early March, the team is trying to prove that lacrosse once again has a place in the athletic program.

Maroons Drop Opener

Springfield also opened its season last Saturday when it played MIT. The Engineers appeared to have too much lacrosse for the Maroons, as they dumped them, 8-4. MIT had little trouble as it led 2-0, 6-1, and 8-2 at the first, second, and third periods. But Springfield was said to be an aggressive, spirited team.

The Purple will start approximately the same team as last week, as it endeavors to make it two straight. Co-captains Pat Graney and Ed Maynard, and Dick Meryman lead the scoring punch as close attackmen. Dick Whitney, Phil Van Dusen, and Art Lewis bolster the team at midfield, and Howie Simpson, Bob Donoho, and Marc Reynolds, are at defense, and Mickey O'Connell is in the goal.

Muir Elected Olympic Coach

by John Golding

Coach Robert Muir, recently elected to the United States Olympic coaching staff, has revealed that while he will coach Olympic swimmers in the New York area, he will be unable to accompany the team to London. Said Muir, "It's a great honor to be asked to go with the staff, but the expenses are great, and I'm already committed to a position for the summer. Much as I'd like to make the trip, I'm afraid that I'll have to refuse."

During the vacation months, Muir is Beach Director of Athletics at the Laurence Beach Club at Atlantic Beach, Long Island. In this capacity he coaches the club's swimming team, which has remained undefeated for nineteen straight seasons, and directs the other athletic events. His leaving the position unexpectedly would place the club in a rather difficult situation.

Coaches Williams Trio

Muir is eager to do his best to aid Williams' three Olympic contenders, Captain Sandy Lambert, Hank Wineman, and Bob Reid, to gain positions on the United States squad. He plans to give the Ephmen instruction during the rest of the spring term, and hopes to be able to give them some last minute coaching with other Olympic hopefuls at the Laurence Beach Club during the weeks before the trials.

CONTEST RULES...Mollé "What do you say?" Contest

1. Merely write, in the blank cartoon balloons above, your answers to the questions. Mail your entry to the address given elsewhere in this ad. Be sure to fill in your complete name and address in the space indicated.

2. Each contestant must be a registered male student of the college in whose paper this contest is published, and each contestant must compete in all ten sets of cartoons in order to be eligible for prizes. If you did not receive a copy of this newspaper, a reasonable facsimile of the cartoon or a written description of it will be accepted.

3. With Sets No. 3 and No. 8, the contestant must include a carton from a 25¢ or 50¢ tube—or from any size jar—of Mollé. Remember, only two cartons (of any size) are required, but be sure you send one in with No. 3 and one in with No. 8 of the sets.

4. Only one entry will be accepted from each contestant in each set and all entries must be the original work of the contestants, submitted in their own names.

5. Entries will be judged by the Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation, an independent judging organization. All ten cartoons submitted by a single contestant will be considered as a unit in judging, and the judges' decisions will be based on the originality, aptness and interest of each set. First prize winners of $50 from each school will be eligible for the Grand Prize of $500.00 to be awarded to the best series of entries from all the schools. The decision of the judges is final and duplicate prizes will be awarded in case of ties.

6. All entries become the property of Sterling Drug Inc., and no entries will be returned.

7. All ten sets of answers must be mailed before May 14, 1948, final date of the contest. Entries with inadequate postage will not be accepted. Prize winners will be announced here the week of May 24.

Lacrossemen Face Indians Today In Expected Thriller: Trounce Springfield, 16 - 10

Dartmouth invades Williams-town this afternoon when the Big Green lacrosse team faces Coach Snively's forces at 4 p.m. on Cole Field. This game promises to be the toughest of the season for the purple club, and if they emerge victorious, they will then be the leading contender for the New England championship.

Last year's 11-9 loss at Hanover was a thrill-packed affair which had everything in the way of lacrosse. Dartmouth had crushed its earlier opponents with little difficulty, until it tangled with a spirited Williams team, which not only led by 5-4 at half-time, but also by 9-8, with only several minutes to go.

Dartmouth Favored

Because Dartmouth won the New England title last year, they have been favored to win again this year. The Big Green has played two games to date, decisively swamping both its opponents by landslide-like scores. The Hanoverites took measure of Union, 15-2, and while Williams was thumping Springfield on Saturday last, the Indians scalped a helpless MIT team, 21-2.

Dartmouth also had a spring trip, which was not overly successful from a win-loss standpoint. The Big Green tripped Manhasset Lacrosse Club in overtime, 12-10, but Navy dumped Dartmouth, 13-6, and Maryland played the inhospitable host by a 17-2 score. Dartmouth held a scrimmage with Johns Hopkins, the Notre Dame of lacrosse, and though no score was given, Dartmouth did tally two goals. The game was originally scheduled for May 26, but Dartmouth requested that the game be changed because it felt that one away game, Cornell at Ithaca, was enough for the week before exams.

Springfield Trounced

On Saturday afternoon the Williams stickmen pummelled a less-experienced Springfield team, 16-10. With the first team operating only one-third of the time, and Coach Snively using no less than thirty-five men, the Purple team marched in a scoring parade which

Rules Committee Suggests Penalties

Four to eight week periods on disciplinary warning have been recommended by the Student Committee on Discipline for infractions of college rules ranging from the use of a fire extinguisher in horse play to illegal use of cars, according to Dudley M. Irwin III '50, secretary of the organization.

Two students involved in hit and run accidents had their automobile permits revoked for the bad name given the college, and were placed on warnings for eight weeks, the normal punishment of illegal use of cars.

An undergraduate received a month of disciplinary warning for firing a revolver from his room. Another kept a book from the cage that was needed by others to study for an exam, and was given the same penalty.

The Discipline Committee consists of the four class presidents, the president and secretary of the Junior Advisers, and two faculty members. It has initial jurisdiction over all violations of "gentlemanly conduct" or college rules by undergraduates and can recommend action from disciplinary warning to dismissal.

Dance Theme To Be Salty

Units Competing In Scotch Contest

Remodelling an ancient adage, houseparty chairman Barry Benepe '50 warned last Sunday that "the early birds will get the Scotch."

In case of a tie for the largest per capita subscription to the Spring Carnival formal dance, Benepe stated, the first house to day of the dance. "The grand ticket purchases will win the coveted half case of heather juice. Tickets, which are now on sale, are being sold only through the houses.

Big Contest Planned

Benepe and his Yacht Club mates are also brewing another contest which they intend to spring on the unsuspecting Guillemensians and their drags the he said, "but as yet we are reze prize will be presented to the victors during dance intermission," he said, "but as yet we are reze prize will be presented to the victors during dance intermission."

The nautical dance decorations will include streamers of signal flags draped from the ceiling and meeting at a huge ship's wheel which will hang over the center of the floor. Wall drapes will picture white waves on a blue background, while life preservers will hang above the waves.

Dancing space is to be provided in the wrestling room directly in front of the small band stand which will be placed against the east wall of the room. Booths will be so positioned as to surround the stand. The soft drink bar will be against the west wall.

Designating the booths will be life preservers decorated with the various house letters.

Benepe also regretted to announce that the Bennington octet will be unable to appear, since its leader and two of its best members will be absent at that time. The Williams octet, however, will sing during intermission, after which floor prizes of liquor and other small gifts will be awarded.

Corsages will not be allowed at the dance, he added. A minimum number of stag tickets will be sold at the door.

WCA Clothes Drive Complete Success

Red Cross Blood Bank To Take Donations

"A smashing success" was the feeling expressed by Mrs. Helen Ferguson, agent for Williamstown Public Welfare, when she unofficially thanked the WCA in a Record interview for the sixth annual clothing drive which was conducted last week. After receiving clothes through contributions made in the dormitories and houses, George Kuwayama '48 chairman of the Welfare Committee of the WCA estimated that more than twice as many clothes were collected this year than last.

The clothes will be repaired and salvaged over the summer and will be distributed to those on relief and near relief. More than 150 needy persons and families were aided by last year's contributions.

The WCA is also sponsoring a campaign to collect blood to be distributed by the Red Cross to doctors and hospitals in this state. Friday, April 30, has been set as the date for the Mobile Unit of the Red Cross Blood Bank to visit Williamstown. Kuwayama stressed the need for blood at this time, explaining that the private sources of supply are insufficient to take care of the demand. Also, the expense is too great, the cost of one transfusion ranging from twenty-five to sixty dollars. After the Co-

Fund Drive Collection Misses 93 Students

$7995.54 has been contributed to the Undergraduate Endowment Fund Drive in its first six days by ninety-one percent of the student body, Charles W. Schmidt '48, Chairman of the Solicitation Committee, announced Monday.

The aims of the Drive were explained to undergraduates at the college meeting in Chapin Hall last week, and since that time $5154.54 has been received in the form of checks or cash. Pledges have amounted to the slightly smaller sum of $2791.00. $215.00 of the amount contributed to the Fund Drive consists of several special gifts made by undergraduates prior to the Drive.

Ninety-Three Left

Ninety-three of the 1085 students in college have not contributed as yet. These men are either unaffiliates or those who have not been contacted due to weekend conflicts. It is expected that a great many of these men will be contacted and will become contributors before the end of the week, increasing the percentage of student participation.

Schmidt said, regarding the results of the Student Endowment Fund Drive so far, "Not only has nearly one hundred percent of the student body contributed at an early date, but monetarily, the contributions have been large enough to be a sacrifice to almost every student. It is a reflection of the importance the undergraduates put on the Drive, and of their support of the College."

Pierson's Informal Art Class Experiments In Varied Fields

With the advent of spring's first glowing sun and nature's rapidly changing exterior, Assistant Professor William Pierson's Wednesday afternoon art classes grabbed their brushes and paints and headed out-doors this week to try their hands at water-color landscapes. These informal weekly classes offer an opportunity to aspiring artists to develop their talents in any phase of painting or the graphic arts.

The only requirement for this course is the artistic urge. Students, whether they take other art courses or not, can choose the medium in which they want to work and get instruction as far as the equipment in the Lawrence Hall studio will permit.

Wide Choice

There are facilities, according to Professor Pierson, who also conducts the Art 19-20 classes, for a wide variety of fields, including lithographing and etching. Most of the group's dozen members, however, confine their activities to paints, working indoors in oils during the winter months. Current prices prohibit the use of professional models but occasionally local models pose for the group.

The class has not produced any outstanding artists, but two, Bud Wolf '42 and Charles Ferguson '41, are continuing the studies. Another alumnus, Dave Jones '47, whose cartoons readers will remember in the Purple Cow, has had a comic strip accepted for trial by the New York Herald Tribune.

Sex Is Theme Of Satire On Williams Life

Strength through sex will be the theme of "Phinney's Rainbow," the student-written musical satire on life at Williams to be presented by Cap and Bells in the AMT at 8:30 p.m. this Friday and Saturday and also on houseparty weekend, May 7-8. Tunes for the musical were written by Stephen J. Sondheim '50 and the book and lyrics by Sondheim and Josiah T. S. Horton '48.

In a nutshell, the plot is this: when the curtain rises, the Alumnum is running the school while the president is abroad collecting money for the P. T. Fund Drive. The students object to the drive on the grounds that they can get their strength through sex, i.e. more houseparties. When the students submit a petition embodying their resolutions to the faculty, Olga Smolensk leads the Fumblington girls to disrupt the faculty so that they will pass the petition without knowing what they are doing.

Nine Leading Roles

The musical's cast of 52 students is the largest since "Marco Millions" celebrated the opening of the AMT in 1941. Nine students have lead roles of equal importance. Bernard Felch '48 and George Cherry '51 represent the love interest of John Strongheart and Yolanda Rappaport. Walter Oleson '49 plays Muscles, the athlete, Charles Jarrett '49 is the BWOC Errol, and Eugene Foley '51 is cast as Louis, a brain.

The administration is represented by H. Backland Roll '48 as The Alumnum and Theodore Lohrke '49 is a squirt called the JA. Two of the Fumblington girls, inciters of the revolt against the administration, are Olga Smolensk and Salome Schmerr, played by Martin Luthy '51 and Harold E. Williams '50.

Other members of the cast include Richard Chinman '51, Announcer; Martin Detmer '50, Killer; Robert Pihlcrantz '50, Dum-Dum; John Walthour '51, Tyrone; Russell Bourne '50, Clifton; Malcolm Frazier '51, Humphrey; Michael Robbins F-'49 plays Cecil; Dixon White '50, Mary; Donald Rackerby '49, Geraldine Schmalz; and Chinman is cast again as Adele Plotz.

Professors are played by Linsley Dodge '49, C'estlaguerra; Jask Hardman '50, Piller; Jeremy Dresser '50, Marrow; Donald Gregg '51, Schoemaker; Theodore Helprin '51, Books; and Adam Stovall '50, Lunt.

Andrew Heinman '50 plays Hedvige, Edward Gushee '50, Amanda; Jarvis Graham '51, Errol's date; and James McClements '49, Brother Moffet.

The box office in the AMT will be open for ticket sales every afternoon from 1:30-5, and before the performance this weekend. There is also a Cap and Bells representative in each social unit to take orders for tickets.

'Pappy' Presides Over Local Do-Ce-Doers In St. John's

"I got a man if there's a widow in the hall—he's good looking too," drawled Floyd "Pappy" Moon, "the best caller in these parts," in an attempt to get Newt Darling a partner for a set during last Friday's semi-annual square dance in St. John's church.

About forty undergraduates, twenty-two Bennington girls and a few College faculty and their wives were among the sweating devotees of the exhausting indoor sport we saw laboring through the intricacies of do-ce-dos, grand right-and-lefts, satchets, and promenades.

Despite their enthusiasm, it could readily be seen that our contemporaries just aren't as adept at the honored institution as were their grandfathers. "No dammit," one expert moaned to his partner in righteous rage, "you always al-lamande to the left."

To satisfy our intellectual curiosity, we decided to ask the venerable "Pappy" Moon just what the thing was you could never do right, so we sat down near him to watch the gyrations for a while.

"By The Nose"

"The same gent takes her by the nose, around the lady like a rose," Pappy crooned, "now for the sardines, get a full can, and this is the end of the second call."

Seeing that everyone stopped at this, we asked Pappy our question, "I square danced all my life, until I got too old for it," he informed us, "then I started calling. People are more interested in Singing Quadrilles, nowadays, than they are in the good old Contra Dances like the Virginia Reel and Money Musk," he bitterly commented.

"Well," he finally said, "an al-lamande is when you lock arms and go around the girl on your left, and then go into a grand right and left with your partner." Realizing that this could go on indefinitely, we decided to let the matter drop there.

Communications

Letters to the Editor are always appreciated and we thoroughly enjoy Reader opinion on any articles published. Because of the recent influx of letters, however, The Record has found it necessary to alter its policy concerning this department.

Because our Readers are such fluent writers, we have found it necessary to edit certain portions of letters, and we will continue this policy in the future. Attempting to cast aside all bias, we will endeavor to always maintain the thought and flavor of the letter to the best of our ability. If in the editing of future letters we should happen to change the intent of the letter in the writers' mind, we will print all criticism along this line in the form of another letter from the writer.

Combined with this innovation, The Record will also reserve the right to add what we consider an appropriate Editor's note when necessary. Record Readers Gleckner and Agger just got in under the wire, but this is a forewarning to future letters.

We do not want to discourage letters, but merely hope that all potential writers will be concise and positive of their accusations.

Questions Record Accuracy

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

In regard to the editorial entitled "Training or Education at Williams" in the April 21 issue of The Record, we of the staff of Comment offer the following corrections:

The journalistic history of George Smith's article is actually as follows:

1. Submitted to the Purple Cow, but because of lack of space in the issue then being planned, forwarded to Comment.
2. Accepted unanimously by the editors of Comment as in line with the magazine's policy of printing controversial material which meets Comment's editorial standards.
3. Comment chose at this time to run an article in the same issue with Smith's, presenting the other side of this subject. For this reason Smith refused to allow his article to be published by Comment in the forthcoming issue.

Thus, the article was accepted by both the Purple Cow and Comment, withdrawn from Comment, and never re-submitted to the Cow.

Connects Rupen Action - Smith Views

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

I would like to congratulate George Smith for giving us his opinions on the merit (or lack of merit) in the educational process as it exists at Williams. I would also like to congratulate The Record for publishing this forthright opinion.

It seems to me a very great coincidence that in the same edition, The Record published a letter by Bob Rupen in which he made public his resignation from the Gargoyle society. The two letters may at first glance seem entirely separate and unconnected. I believe that they are very closely connected. Smith labels the education received by the "Average Williams Man" simply "training." . . . He attacks the attitudes of both the administration and faculty and asserts that a change in their attitudes, plus a change in the course content and method of teaching are needed to ensure the education, and not simply the training of students so that they shall be rightfully called rational mature individuals.

I agree with 95% of Smith's statement of his beliefs. However, I fear that in his attack (and a very justifiable one indeed) on the attitudes of both the administration and many members of the faculty, he overlooks (or disregards) the responsibility of the student body for the results which he deplors. He quotes Bernard I. Bell as saying that "ours is the century of the uneducated Common Man, of the perpetually adolescent Common Man, of the Common Man unskilled in the art of living." I submit that these three characteristics of modern men, (the lack of education, adolescence, and the lack of skill in the art of living), are very interrelated and interacting. I further submit that the social set-up as it exists on the Williams campus is more than anachronistic and primitive as certain people have been heard to say. It is a very important cause of the results which Smith deplors, and contributes to the ineffectiveness of the educational process which Smith describes as "training."

The existence of the anti-democratic fraternity system on the Williams campus helps to preserve the adolescence that belongs to the entering freshmen. It also prevents "the art of living" from becoming of primary importance in the life of the undergraduate. The art of living cannot be separated from the art of living WITH. This "art of living with" takes the form within the fraternity of living with a select (or selected) group of people, and the ceremonies, hell weeks, etc., alleviates the necessity for learning how to live with a larger and more diverse group of people (including Negroes, Jews, Greeks, Yugoslavs, etc.) The trend towards standardization which Smith deplors is aided and abetted by the social structure accepted by the majority of the student body.

If Smith is correct, education is simply not the memorization of facts from either textbooks or lectures. Granted that a thinking man must have materials and tools to work with (as Smith does grant, I'm

by Josiah T. S. Horton

All sorts of people — from my mother to John Hawley Roberts (who is not my mother)—have been asking with tears in their voices and hope in their hearts, "What has happened to CUM GRANO SALIS?" The reappearance will answer that question, and the tears may fall and the hope may disappear from their hearts. It really isn't my fault that I was temporarily shoved off page two. I didn't ask that Hubert Hudson castigate Professor Schuman, nor did I demand that George Smith castigate the educational system at Williams. (Pardon me—the "training" system at Williams.) At any rate, now that the furor has subsided somewhat, we may return to the more serious things of life, and CUM GRANO SALIS may appear once more.

Speaking of more serious things, Bob Rupen's letter last week made me realize with shame that I have been neglecting my public duty. I have been doing all sorts of things without letting the editor of the RECORD know. I'm a martyr too, you know. And I think it's about time I wrote a letter to the editor.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear editor of the RECORD,

This is official notice of my intention to resign from something. This is my resignation from taking showers. Since my taking showers was public—inasmuch as my singing and splashing around could be heard for blocks—I feel that my rejection of the entire idea must be made public, too.

Taking a shower was a mistake in the first place. In such an institution as shower-taking, I am a heretic. I have been guilty of the sin of hypocrisy in making poor innocent wretches believe that I sympathized with the idea.

I had deluded myself into believing that I was only finding out what a shower does, how it operates. But to do so, I had to take a shower. I hereby repudiate that shower. I never should have taken it.

What is a shower? In conception it is constructive—a frankly cleansing contraption aimed at bodily improvement. In reality it is a servant: it is closely akin to the Soviet conception of something or other. If the shower-taker does not accept the dribbling valves, the scalding or freezing gushes of water, and the complete lack of mastery over the thing, his participation in it is hypocritical—he, too, has deluded himself into thinking he enjoys showers.

But to specifics. The shower makes one too clean. I hold reservations regarding being too clean, making it impossible for me to view it as the most important thing in life. A second of my heretical views regards the criterion for selection of shower-takers. This "first come, first served" attitude leaves me cold. It also leaves me standing in semi-nudity outside the bathroom door for hours on end.

My third heresy involves the shower's promotion of "cleanliness." I don't give a damn for "cleanliness." My "cleanliness" is not always the cleanliness of "Williams". To me, cleanliness can come only from something more basic than showers—soap. The shower only provides water. A bathtub also supplies water, and I have my own soap.

I have been a martyr to the shower too long. My public penance is now done. I withdraw any support I may have innocently given to showers. In closing, I wish to make it clear that I certainly harbor no ill-feeling toward showers as a group or individually. In fact, there was one shower once that I had a great time in. That shower's values are not mine, indicates only a difference of opinion; I pass judgment only for myself. I hate showers.

Josie Horton, '48

P. S.—I'm also going to stop smoking and going around with girls. If you're interested in my reasons, I can give you some dillies.

sure, is the educational process not in fact retarded by a social structure in which the accident of parentage and religious belief (or inheritance) rank foremost in the underlying scale of values of that structure? Are not these values accepted, consciously or unconsciously, by the person who joins the fraternity (which is the cornerstone of the Williams social structure)? . . . It is often said that the person who joins a fraternity is young, naive, etc., but that he learns as he becomes older. He then rejects the values upon which the system rests.

But this, I am convinced, is incorrect. It is very true that certain people learn with age, and that certain students reject the values implicit in the Williams College fraternity system by the time they graduate. These people, however, are in a minority. The many (or the "Average Williams Man") do not reject these values. They accept them, many times unconsciously, and they leave Williams as they entered: uneducated, adolescent, and unskilled in the art of living. . . . Smith asks certain rhetorical but important questions which he implies must be answered by the proverbial 'unbiased observer' in the negative. "Has he come to know himself? Is his attitude one of tempered altruism or of selfish grasping for wealth and power? Does he, in his actions, stand for the dignity or degradation of man?" I believe that the student body as well as the administration (here the faculty has very little guilt) because of its silent (and occasionally not-so-silent) approval of the fraternity system and the social structure built thereon at Williams must accept their share of the responsibility for the negative answer which must be given to the above questions.

As for Rupen's letter, little more has to be said. I admire Rupen for the courage of his conviction. But his letter is more important than that to me. Rupen has resigned from the Gargoyle society because he says he can not accept the prevalent belief he fostered by "singing school songs, by waving banners, by enforcing traditions, etc." . . . Rupen believes, as his actions in the past have shown, that the fraternity system and the social structure as they exist today on the Williams campus are definite impediments to the proclaimed purpose of the Williams administration, i. e., the education of the leaders of tomorrow.

I agree with Rupen's position, just as I agree with most of what Smith said. I believe that the attitudes of the administration and faculty will change in the direction Smith thinks is desirable just as I believe that at some time in the future the social structure at Williams will undergo far-reaching and basic changes. My only hope, as is Rupen's and Smith's, is that the changes will come sooner than present indications would lead one to believe.

Middlebury Downs Trackmen By Narrow Margin, 64 - 62

Blanks, Barney Score Eleven Points Apiece; Read Nears Six Feet

Middlebury squeezed out a 64-62 victory over the Williams track team last Saturday, in a meet that was close from the start at Middlebury.

Bill Barney and Bill Blanks led the scoring with eleven points apiece. Barney won the quarter in the excellent time of 51.3, and came up with two seconds in the sprints. Blanks won the discus and took seconds in the shotput and javelin.

Ben Read, who won the high hurdles, came back to take the high jump at 5 feet eleven inches, just missing the six foot mark. Ted Ferry tied for first in the pole vault with an eleven foot jump. Other firsts were taken by Gordy Smith in the half, Freddy Smith in the low hurdles, and Marty Detmer in the shotput.

Phil Collins annexed three points in the mile, covering the distance in the identical time he turned in against U. of Massachusetts, 4:48. Bill Kleinhandler, showing improved form was close on his heels for third place. In the dashes, Scotty Brooks scored, taking thirds in the 100 and 220. Trying the event for the first time, Tom Edwards copped third in the javelin.

Summary:

120-yard low hurdles—Won by Read (M); 2, Wemere (M); 3, Meeker (M). Time 17.1s.

100-yard dash—Won by Pearlstein (M); 2, Barney (W); 3, Brooks (W). Time, 10.4s.

One mile run—Won by Dale (M); 2, Collins (W); 3, Kleinhandler (W). Time, 4:43.5.

440-yard run—Won by Barney (W); 2, Meeker (M); 3, Donnellon (M). Time, 51.3s.

Two-mile run—Won by Newman (M); 2, Bates (M); 3, Chisolm (W). Time, 10:47.8s.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by F. Smith (W); 2, Donnellon (M); 3, Sellvonchik (M). Time, 28.3s.

880-yard run—Won by G. Smith (W); 2, Bangs (M); 3, Dragone (M). Time, 2:05.3.

220-yard run—Won by Pearlstein (M); 2, Barney (W); 3, Brooks (W). Time, 22.3s.

Broad Jump—Won by Meeker (M); 2, Lemere (M); 3, F. Smith (W); Distance 20 ft. 8 1/2 inches.

Pole Vault—Tie for first between Ferry (W) and Hemphill (M); 3, Gouinlock (W); Height, 11 feet.

Golfers Clip Bowdoin Iron Hofstra, 9 - 0

Displaying unusual form for the beginning of the season, the Williams golf team smothered its first two opponents at home. Bowdoin could do no better than halve one match and fell 8 1/2-0 on Wednesday. Hofstra was even less fortunate, losing 9-0 on Friday.

The Bowdoin results in order of play are: Bucky Marchese 5 & 4; Jerry Cole 5 & 4; best-ball 4 & 3; Dick Heuer 2 & 1; Kim Whitney 5 & 4; BB 3 & 2; Corky MacLeod 1 up, Dick Wells halved, BB 4 & 3.

The Hofstra results in order of play are: Marchese 2 & 1, Cole 2 & 1, BB 1 up; Heuer 5 & 4, Whitney 6 & 5, BB 7 & 6, MacLeod 5 & 3, Wells 5 & 3, BB 5 & 4.

"Tony"

Track Coach Has Brilliant Athletic Past

by Kevin F. X. Delany

Just about everyone at Williams has heard some of the many legends about Tony Plansky's athletic feats at one time or another. However amazing the stories may be, the actual facts concerning the cross-country, indoor and outdoor track coach are in most cases even more fabulous.

Tony is a 1926 graduate of Georgetown School of Foreign Service. While there he picked up varsity letters in track, football, baseball and golf. It is difficult to decide in which sport he had the most prowess, though he admits he preferred track to the others. Tipping the scales at two hundred pounds, Plansky was a ten second hundred man and a leading point-getter in the shotput, highjump, broad jump and discus. He captured the National Decathlon Championship in 1925, '26 and '28 and beat all three U. S. decathlon representatives in the '28 Olympics. During the spring he managed to pitch for the baseball team between track meets.

Played Rough

As Georgetown fullback Tony won considerable fame and made several All-American teams in 1926. Anyone caring to consult the old Times editions in the library stacks will come across an account of probably his most spectacular gridiron performance. "Led by Gargantuan Tony Plansky," a

Baseball Takes On Army

Ditmar Faces Cadets Today

Pitcher George Ditmar will be looking for his second straight win when he faces a powerful Army Nine on Doubleday Field this afternoon. The Cadets sport an impressive record of six victories, including an 8-1 win over the highly rated Penn team as against a single defeat. This sole setback was perpetrated by the same Temple ballclub which led the Purple 4-4 during the spring trip.

Ditmar has a score to settle with Army, as he was the victim of their extra-base outburst in last year's 6-2 loss. The cadets will field vir-

Williams' Captain Jim Young, who played on the last team to defeat the Army is still pounding the ball at a .500 clip in the clean-up position, while George Owen's extra base power may well give Army pitchers some uneasy moments. As tough as the Army game will be, it will be followed by an even tougher one against the undefeated Holy Cross Crusaders on Saturday.

Williams Nine Hammers RPI For 7 - 2 Win

Kaufman Goes Route, Delisser And Owen Pace Eph Sluggers

by Jack Schafer

With RPI supplying what opposition there was, the Williams baseball ensemble further cultivated its winning habit on West-on Field last Saturday afternoon by fashioning a 7 to 2 victory over the Engineers from Troy. It was the second straight win for the Ephs.

The Williams attack, which slammed three RPI hurlers for twelve hits and seventeen total bases, was led by Stan Delisser and George Owen. Delisser, exhibiting the same delight with the RPI offerings that he showed last year at Troy, garnered a double and two singles in four times at bat. And Owen drove in four runs with two impressive doubles to deep left-center field.

Kaufman Pitches

Bobby Coombs' pitching nomination was Bill Kaufman, and although the big sophomore gave up ten base knocks, he was able to pitch out of every hole he got into. The Engineers had him on the ropes in the first frame with two singles, a triple by Secrest, and a walk. He got out, however, by working the pick-off play on Kimball and encouraging Zeno to ground out to Lesage.

Although this was the most serious threat to the Kaufman won-lost record, hardly an inning went by that one of the visitors was not on base. But, except for a one-run seventh, he got out of every other frame unscathed.

After falling one run off the pace, the Williams club came back in the second to tie it up on successive singles by Brownell and Goodell and a double by Delisser.

They broke the while thing up in the fourth. Mason started it by drawing a walk. Kaufman checked in with a double to right, and Chuck Schmidt walked to fill the bases. Owen stepped up and drove a prodigious poke into left-center to clear the bases and leave him on second. Here Jim Young wafted a long, high drive — straight up in the air. The entire RPI infield contributed the fourth run of the inning by gathering around to watch the catcher fall flat on his face making a vain dive for the ball as it descended, unviolated, to the ground, while Owen was ambling in from second.

Brownell led off the fifth with a single over the shortstop's head,

Harvard Tennis Tops Frosh; Varsity Leads

The Williams tennis team emerged on the long end of an indecisive 4-3 score against Harvard at Cambridge last Friday. Darkness forced a halt with a pair of doubles matches unfinished. Both of these contests were tied 5-5 in the third and final sets. The match will not be entered in the record books as a victory for Williams, as five points are needed to register a win.

Meanwhile, the freshman tennis team was being trounced 6-1 by the Harvard frosh.

Garrard Bennett was the lone Williams victor, as he rallied to defeat Harvard's Reese 1-6, 8-6, 6-4. Bud Treman was outclassed 6-0, 6-2 by Robb, while John Frankheimer dropped a 6-2, 8-6, decision to Tobias. Tom Kent lost in straight sets 6-2, 6-3. George Muller and Rich Allen both dropped close three-set matches. In the first doubles Frankheimer and Kent lost 6-0, 6-3, while the second and third teams were unable to play because of darkness.

Williams Beckons

Not finding football too profitable, Tony went into spring training with the Boston Red Sox in 1930. After being sent to Scranton and hitting at a league-leading .376 clip there he advanced to the Buffalo Bisons in the International League and in '31 was about to be brought up to the Philadelphia Phillies. At this time, he tired of professional sports and accepted a job as assistant track coach at Williams. In 1936 he succeeded Doc Seeley as head coach.

In the main, Plansky's teams have stayed in their own league

Attackmen Dick Meryman led the scoring with six goals and an assist. Co-captain Pat Graney, Phil Van Dusen, "Tolly" Tallaferro, and "Frenchy" Oudin each contributed two more, with "Buz" Brumbaugh and "Shark" Mayshark accounting for the others.

The game offered little in the way of excitement to the average spectator, who, if he had never seen a game, certainly got a distorted picture of lacrosse. Two whistle-happy men in white called the amazing total of thirty-five penalties in what was considered neither a rough, nor a dirty game.

in that city. As a personal friend of Henry Wallace, Mr. Adams was called upon to answer many questions concerning Wallace policies.

Scoffs Criticism of Wallace

He declared that Wallace opposes policies tending toward aggression and advocates more foreign affairs work by the UN instead of the State Department. He scoffed at the prevalent criticism of Wallace's Russian policy, and emphasized that Wallace believes military power won't solve the Soviet problem.

Miss Sonia Rudikoff, temporary chairman of a similar Wallace organization at Bennington College, reported that her group had held one meeting and that they planned to work both on campus and in the town of Bennington.

Following a suggestion by Mrs. Frederick L. Schuman, Chairman Merwin announced that members of the organization would begin a canvass of Williamstown soon to get enough signatures to place Henry Wallace's name on the ballot. Membership cards were passed out and fifteen students signified intentions of joining the group. Mrs. Cornelia Parker, noted author who resides in Williamstown, outlined the technique which Wallace supporters have been using in New York City and pointed out that the sweeping victory of Representative Isaacson was evidence of a successful "doorbell" campaign.

and done well. In eight tries his cross-country squads have won the Little Three crown six times. He feels that his '47 team was his best balanced outfit. His 1941 relay mile team turned in a 3:22.2 clocking which almost took the IC4A title. In track the Purple has fared equally as well under Tony since he can't recall losing a dual meet from '36 to wartime. Last spring marked the first time he lost to both Amherst and Wesleyan in one season.

No Set Methods

Plansky claims no definite theories in coaching. He points out that freshman year is an "exploratory year" for his runners. The majority must get accustomed to Williams life and the study schedule. He has found that outstanding cinder-men in prep school usually don't do well in the first two years at college but if they stick at it eventually they do better than ever. Tony is quick to deny that track and field is on the decline but asserts that a greater variety of sports are now competing with them for popularity than twenty years ago.

CONTEST RULES... Mollé "What do you say?" Contest

1. Merely write, in the blank cartoon balloons above, your answers to the questions. Mail your entry to the address given elsewhere in this ad. Be sure to fill in your complete name and address in the space indicated.

2. Each contestant must be a registered male student of the college in whose paper this contest is published, and each contestant must compete in all ten sets of cartoons in order to be eligible for prizes. If you did not receive a copy of this newspaper, a reasonable facsimile of the cartoon or a written description of it will be accepted.

3. With Sets No. 3 and No. 8, the contestant must include a carton from a 25¢ or 50¢ tube—or from any size jar—of Mollé. Remember, only two cartons (of any size) are required, but be sure you send one in with No. 3 and one in with No. 8 of the sets.

4. Only one entry will be accepted from each contestant in each set and all entries must be the original work of the contestants, submitted in their own names.

5. Entries will be judged by the Reuben H. Donnelly Corporation, an independent judging organization. All ten cartoons submitted by a single contestant will be considered as a unit in judging, and the judges' decisions will be based on the originality, aptness and interest of each set. First prize winners of $50 from each school will be eligible for the Grand Prize of $500.00 to be awarded to the best series of entries from all the schools. The decision of the judges is final and duplicate prizes will be awarded in case of ties.

6. All entries become the property of Sterling Drug Inc., and no entries will be returned.

7. All ten sets of answers must be mailed before May 14, 1948, final date of the contest. Entries with inadequate postage will not be accepted. Prize winners will be announced here the week of May 24.

Williams Drops 4-2 Decision To Cadets

Barzie Ailing, Axes Date For Carnival

His Successor Soon To Sign Says Benepe

The illness of Dan Barzie threw a monkey wrench into Spring Carnival plans early last week when it was learned that the stricken leader's band would be unable to appear at the College formal dance on May 7.

However, Houseparty Chairman Barry Benepe '50 made it clear last Thursday that arrangements are nearly completed for one of two other bands to appear at the Friday night frolic.

Cassel or Chase?

Although the new band was not definitely decided upon, Benepe asserted that either Lee Cassel or Peter Chase would appear with their orchestras at the Yacht Club sponsored affair.

In bed at his Pittsfield home, Barzie is suffering from nervous exhaustion incurred from the health-wrecking pace he and his band have been keeping up during the past months.

Visited Ailing Musician

Benepe and Yacht Club Commodore Wally Davis '50 journeyed Wednesday to visit the ailing orchestra leader in Pittsfield. Barzie gave them to understand that he had been very anxious to play at Williams and was extremely disappointed over the fateful turn of events.

Benepe described the band leader as modestly asserting that he believed his band "to be the best in Massachusetts." The Berkshire musician who has made numerous appearances at Williams fraternity dances in the past went on to say that his band now consists of all new players, and has improved vastly since its last appearance here.

Also Scheduled at D. Phi

Barzie was also scheduled to appear at the Delta Phi house on Saturday evening of the weekend which chairman Benepe hails as "the biggest of the year."

Warning that time is drawing short, Benepe urged that students make haste in completing arrangement with their respective dates.

Remember the Scotch

The first house to poll the highest percentage of dance ticket sales, he reminded, will win a half case of Scotch. Other prizes will be awarded during the formal dance intermission which will include more spirits as well as other small but worthwhile gifts.

A grand prize will be given the house best decorated in accordance with the houseparty theme, "Carnival." Decorations on both the outside and main rooms of the houses' first floors will be judged by the impartial arbiters who are to be selected shortly from unbiased local stock.

To Spring Unique Contest

The afternoon before the dance Benepe and his staff plan to spring a new form of lottery which will be "unique in the annals of Williamsiana." Details will be announced next week.

He also urges those who attend the dance to save their ticket stubs after they arrive, for on each ticket is a number. A drawing is to be held at intermission, and the holder of the lucky number will win one of the floor prizes.

Gargoyle To Tap '49 Delegation May 31

The Gargoyle Society announced this week that the first tapping ceremony "completely free from wartime irregularities" will be held on the Lab campus after the Williams-Amherst baseball game, May 31.

Eugene T. Detmer '48, Gargoyle president, said that after seven years of war-born complications the society has approached its pre-war efficiency this year and that the goal for next year's delegation is to fully realize the Gargoyle pledge: "To promote the best interests of Williams College and endeavor to stimulate the moral, intellectual, physical, and social growth of the undergraduate of Williams College."

Beal Exposes Drinking Man

Freshman Wins $100 In WMS Contest

Thomas P. Beal '51 appeared over WMS's "Everything Goes Show," broadcast from Jesup Hall Auditorium on Wednesday, April 28, to accept over $100 in prizes which he had won the previous week by correctly identifying Richard A. Verney '50 as the imbibing in the "Drinking Man" contest.

The contest began over six weeks ago when a four-line jingle was first read over the air as the clue to the identity of the "Drinking Man" while he was heard quaffing a glass of Cal King's beer in the background. Each week several contestants were chosen at random and given one chance at unvelling the mystery drinker. During this time a dozen or more participants failed to give the right answer as they made guesses ranging from Dean Brooks and Col. Greco to Del Rochester, Mert O'Dell and Chief Royal.

22 Prizes Given

In the way of prizes Beal will receive 22 separate articles contributed by merchants in Williamstown and North Adams and by various college organizations. Among the many items are the See WMS Page 2

Ohly Presents Guidance Talk

Emphasizing the satisfaction to be gained from the "shaping of human events," John H. Ohly '33, special assistant to Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, reviewed the possibilities for a career in government service in a vocational lecture at the Chi Psi lodge, Monday evening, April 26.

Mr. Ohly, a member of Gargoyle and Phi Beta Kappa, and president of his class, told his audience that the "big difference in government service is that your work serves a public purpose rather than benefiting a purely private enterprise."

Starting salaries are high and promotions come earlier in the government, he stated, but after a level of about $5,500 has been reached "government salaries are at a great disadvantage." A good retirement system and liberal vacations help to counteract this fault.

Dean Brooks Mentions Need For Stronger Supervision Of Rules

Henry Strong '49, Robert D. Worley '49, and Richard W. Wells '49 were elected president, secretary, and treasurer respectively of the Undergraduate Council for the remainder of the spring term and the ensuing college year at a UC meeting Monday night.

Strong, President of Sigma Phi, succeeds Henry B. Dewey '48 as President, while Edson W. Spencer '48 and Robert J. Boyer '48 relinquished their positions as Secretary and Treasurer to Garfield Vice President Morley and Wells, President of Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Rule Enforcement

Dean Robert R. Brooks, speaking for the Disciplinary Committee, cited the need for increased supervision of the college regulations. "The number of students being placed on Disciplinary Warning due to infractions of the rules pertaining to the operation of automobiles, and the taking of books from the library without permission, indicates this need," he stated.

Dean Brooks continued by saying a special drive is being held this week to eliminate such violations. "Motorcycles, but not motorbikes and similar machines, are considered to be motor vehicles, and are, therefore, subject to the same college regulations as automobiles."

Discussion was conducted by outgoing President Dewey concerning the Bowdoin Plan. The Plan consists of each fraternity house admitting a foreign student in the fall for study at Williams with the provision that his board and room expenses be paid free of charge. The need was recognized for prompt action and the plan was turned over to National Student Association President Henry M. Halsted '48 for detail consideration.

Tabulating Machine Arrives For Public Opinion Analysis

Truman To Supervise Study Of 250,000 Roper Questionnaires

A tabulating machine which does "everything but scramble eggs for breakfast" arrived last month to enable the school to make use of data from a series of public opinion polls donated to Williams in 1943 by Elmo Roper, head of the Roper Poll survey group.

The results of over 250,000 interviews taken between May 1938 and Pearl Harbor for Fortune Magazine and commercial public opinion polls are punched on individual cards. Each question is designated by a column on a card, and each answer by one of twelve numbers in that column.

As the card goes through the machine, a small wire brush makes contact with a brass roller through the hole in the column being studied. This contact opens a definite slot which carries the card on a series of rollers to the individual answer. At the same time, the answer is registered on a counting device.

World Needs Atom Control Says Baxter

Peacetime Scientific Research, Training Desired By President

Addressing the Second Annual Forum of the National Association of Magazine Publishers, Tuesday at the Waldorf in New York City, President James P. Baxter, 3rd, emphasized the present need for basic scientific research and for the training of young scientists in time of peace as well as war. Considering science and the atomic bomb, Pres. Baxter expressed the belief that "unless true internationalization of atomic energy is achieved along the line suggested by the Acheson-Lilienthal report," the atomic bomb will inevitably be used in the next war, with disastrous results.

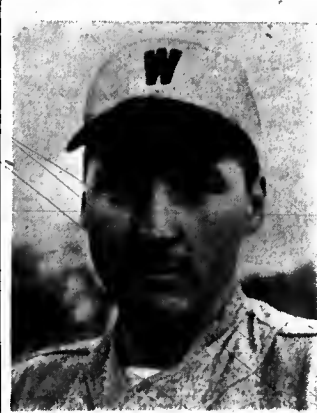

Bradley, Clark Speak

Top editors and publishers of leading national magazines attended the two-day meeting, April 27 and 28, for which the list of other prominent speakers included General Omar Bradley and Attorney-General Thomas Clark. President Baxter spoke in a morning session with Beardsley Ruml, chairman of the board of R. H. Macy & Co., and Massachusetts Congressman Christian Herter, on the influence of science in the group topic "Factors in a Shrinking World."

First explaining that he was speaking for himself and not for the College, Mr. Baxter declared that the recent advances in nuclear physics are no more dangerous than the great advances in the art of propaganda, whose power has been stepped up tremendously by revolutions in the fields of psychology and electrical communications. "But the press, the magazines, and the radio can combat falsehood with truth, and constitute themselves a shield for democracy," he asserted. "The best answer to a bad idea is a good idea."

He then presented two basic concepts: "first, that in peace and in war the scientist works against time; second, that he is more likely to succeed in a democracy than in a dictatorship."

'48 Plans Class Day

Gargoyle Head Upholds Ivy-Clad Traditions

About half of the 200 members of the senior class met in not-too-solemn conclave at Jesup auditorium Tuesday night to make preliminary arrangements for graduation week.

A plan for a $20,000 class endowment fund was presented to the group for consideration.

Class Marshals

J. Patton Humphreys and Eugene Murphy were elected Class Marshals after class president, John N. "Buddy" Wilson, explained that the only qualification for the positions was that those selected had to be "smart enough not to get lost on the way to Chapin Hall." Edson Spencer was chosen to speak for the class on Class Day. The Phi Beta Kappa speaker and the class valedictorian have not yet been named.

A suggestion that a class beer picnic be held between the end of the examination period and Class Day, June 18, met with thunderous approval.

Profs To Air World Gov't

Tuesday night at 8 p. m. North Adams radio station WMNB will present Professors Charles Cremeans and Joseph Johnson in the first of a series of four half-hour discussions by members of the faculty on a program entitled "World Government Forum." The programs will be sponsored by WMNB, in conjunction with the Williams chapter of the Student Federalists.

The Cremeans-Johnson discussion will deal with history of world government movement. On May 4 Professors David Gass and Kermit Gordon will discuss taxation and commerce under a world federal government. The tentative schedule for the two final programs lists Professors Charles Compton and Fredrick Schuman speaking on the cultural and scientific side of the world government problem, and Professors Vincent Barnett and Landon Rockwell dealing with the political aspect of the problem.

Robert Agger '48 will act as moderator in the discussions. Although it won't be a question and answer program, listeners will be able to call the station and ask questions of present problems to the speakers. If time allows, the discussion will be steered along the suggested line; if not, an attempt will be made to work it into the following week's program.

Ditmar Takes First Defeat; Owen Triples

by Jack Schafer

It took the Williams baseball team an assorted eight hours to make the trip down to Army last Wednesday, but only one hour and forty minutes to assume the short end of a 4 to 2 final score. It was the first Williams defeat against two wins.

George Ditmar pitched for Williams and turned in another fine performance. He gave up nine hits, five of which were of the infield, or "scratch" variety. He struck out four and gave up three walks.

No one on either team collected more than one hit, though everyone on the Army club, except the starting pitcher, came up with one. The two big blows were triples by George Owen and Jim Stuff, of Army.

Game Close Throughout

The game was close all the way and a tough one for Williams to drop. After Army assumed a one run lead in the third, the Ephs scored two in their half of the fourth to lead, 2 to 1. Army countered with two in their half of the same inning, and these proved to be enough to win the game. They picked up another in the eighth with somewhat flagrant help from a couple of Joes who were doing the officiating.

After the Cadets had gone down scoreless in the first two frames, they scored one in the third when Ditmar let up on an 0 and 2 pitch and Stuff pounded the ball into deep left-center field for three bases. He scored on a successful squeeze play initiated by Dolan, the Army shortstop.

Williams Counters With Two

Williams roared right back in the top of the fourth to register two scores, and go ahead by one run. After Bierer, the Army southpaw, had retired the thirteenth straight man to face him, Don Lesage opened up with a single to deep short.

Owen, the next man up, blasted one high and far into left-center field sending Lesage home with the tying run, and putting himself on third. After Young had fanned, Brownell lined a single into left field to score Owen and break the tie.

Army Scores Two

Ditmar got himself knee-deep in the pickle barrel in the bottom half of the fourth, but almost pitched out without getting hurt. Suttle opened up with a single and was followed with the same brand of safety by Metzger. With men on first and second catcher Irons grounded to short, but Lesage was unable to come up with the ball and the bases became fully populated.

With the pitcher up, Ditmar lost track of the count and threw what he intended to be the third ball. Turned out it was the fourth. This forced in a run, left the bases loaded, and there were still no outs.

Here Ditmar turned on the heat and fanned Stuff, Logan hit a short fly to center field and Chuck Schmidt uncorked a good throw which appeared to be heading off the runner trying to score from third. But the throw was inadvertently cut off and the second Army run of the inning came in uncontested. Ditmar then retired the third straight man, Galiffa, on a pop to the second baseman.

Fourth Army Run

Army picked up its fourth run in the rawest fashion imaginable. With runners on first and third, the Cadets tried the double steal. Goodell bluffed a throw to second and caught the runner on third flat on his feet, half way between nothing and nowhere. As the man tried to scramble back, Goodell's See BASEBALL Page 4

Spirit, Tradition, and Loyalty

Lately the Williams spirit has received several serious blows. George Smith believes that most of it is purchased in bottles which are dispensed at the Square Deal for a nominal fee. Bob Rupen finds that Gargoyle's flag-waving is of little value. At the Senior Class meeting it was suggested that many traditional commencement ceremonies could be eliminated. Fortunately, this last idea was rail-roaded into oblivion, however, the lack of belief in Williams traditions was there.

And thus we are faced with the question, "What is the value of college spirit?" Spirit is fundamentally a demonstration of loyalty and the depth of a man's loyalty shows the depth of a man's sincerity. Many claim that loyalty to a college is ridiculous. A man must, however, be capable of loyalty to something other than himself. Loyalty to Williams College is therefore, a demonstration of a Williams' man's sincerity.

If he cannot be loyal to the institution which is educating him, he can be loyal to nothing. If he cannot show his belief in the fundamental value of Williams by following Williams traditions, he is being a hypocrite in professing a Williams education.

It is a privilege to go to Williams. It is a privilege to follow Williams traditions—few have the opportunity. If a Williams man does not feel this way, he should not be here.

Letters To The Editor

Considers Gargoyle Important

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

The letter in your April 21 issue by Bob Rupen '48 has caused me to write this, my first letter to an editor. I do not know Mr. Rupen nor do I know anything of his college achievements but I presume that he has contributed much to the campus leadership to chosen for Gargoyle.

I am sorry that he has submitted his resignation to Gargoyle as a means of expressing his displeasure with it. It is strangely reminiscent of the Gromyko "take a walk" attitude if the majority do not agree with him. Would it be solving the present Schuman controversy if the esteemed professor resigned because certain people were in disagreement with him? Certainly not!

Gargoyle is an important factor in the Williams program. It needs to have free and frank discussion among its members before arriving at decisions regarding college matters, and it should never become a servant to special interests, if it is to achieve its full stature.

If it is not contributing its full share, Mr. Rupen can hardly feel that he is helping the situation by running away from it. His presence is needed far more within the organization where he should exert every effort to have his ideas accepted, but—and this is most important—he should accept the will of the majority when a final decision is made and then work with it in carrying out the tasks, although still expressing his own views energetically at the Gargoyle meetings.

Running away from situations is the immature approach. I hope that Mr. Rupen will reconsider his resignation and re-enter the folds of Gargoyle. He could then contribute his share to improving the organization and maintaining its high standing in the college. I'm sure that such a change in plan would prove beneficial both to him and to Gargoyle. There are too many American youths leaving college today who are leaving on the American system of free speech to criticize publicly though not necessarily constructively, if they are not in the majority rather than putting their shoulder to the wheel to help make the system work better by serving as an aggressive, but loyal minority, always keeping the necessary unity of their country foremost in their minds. That is an important value of the American system.

Another Record Error?

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

I would like to call attention to an error which appeared in a Record editorial of April 24. It was alleged that "a sample of campus opinions on Bob Rupen's resignation from Gargoyle on Tuesday indicates that the action has not been taken seriously by anyone but Rupen." This does not correspond to the facts. A number of undergraduates, including myself, consider Rupen's action to be a very serious matter. His resignation from Gargoyle represents to many people one of the first (and it is hoped not the last), moves in student emersion from their academic and social mire.

Bob Rupen's honest and forthright action, and the large body of campus opinion which reacted favorably to it, is an encouraging indication that many undergraduates reject loyalty to those institutionalized myths for their own sake, i. e., Gargoyle. It is hoped that the days of spine-tingling over the irrational nonsense which accompanies the Gargoyle tapping ceremony, are of the past.

Theoretically, Gargoyle represents an apex of students loyalty to Williams College. If that is the case, loyalty to Williams is based on mystical hog-wash. Loyalty to Williams College is a desirable thing. But this loyalty should be for the intellectual activity and fraternity which Williams should represent. Allegiance to Gargoyle is a mockery of this much higher loyalty.

Is Williams So Grim?

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

Only a Phi Beta, I suppose, has the prerogative to announce publicly that the Williams campus is divided between escapists and submissionists—the one group symbolized by the pursuit of liquor and comic books, the other characterized by the acceptance of "production-line methods of education." Mr. Smith's article in The Record might well have been entitled "the lost weekend," since it seems that regardless of whether the student spends his Saturdays and Sundays accumulating facts at his desk or raising whoopee out of town, the result is nonetheless "compulsory mediocrity" and "perpetual adolescence" after graduation. If things are really so grim as all that, I admire Mr. Smith's fine intellectual humility in concluding that the situation at Williams is hopeless.

Somehow I can't go along with the writer in his sweeping condemnation of the educational system. I'll hop on the bandwagon of reform and agree that a "change of attitudes" is necessary. What Mr. Smith lacks are concrete proposals.

How about a major at Williams called self-realization. All the faculty should join in presenting this new offering. Compulsory for freshmen would be Reason 1-2, which would train, sorry I mean "educate," them to accumulate ideas instead of facts. Insight 3-4 would go on from there to give the students the power of analysis. Mr. Smith would probably want to integrate Free Will 5-6 with lab work in the Political Science department, for this course would serve to harden young minds against indoctrination and robotization. For advanced students, advanced in the vice of escapism that is, the Dean would recommend Virute 7-8 wherein the evils of liquor, weekends, and comic books would be heavily scored. Spirit 9-10 would likewise be a valuable addition to the curriculum through the promotion of attendance at ball games, college meetings, and lectures. Finally, in senior year Wisdom 19-20 would correlate everything.

There is no doubt in my mind that Mr. Smith's article is a far greater contribution to the future of Williams than the above nonsense. But isn't one entitled to a little scepticism about brooding over educational methods that has gone on for centuries? What one "gets out of college" is what one puts into it. Can one honestly say that there is insufficient stimulus to learning at Williams when one considers the wide range of courses offered, the wide range of teaching methods, and the wide range of viewpoint?

Society is entitled to expect of Williams men as well as of the rest "from each according to his ability." The problem is not reform of the "system" but reform of the individual. Hell, that's what education is...

The Williams president strongly stressed the need for basic research as well as for that on specific projects, since we must now carry even more than our share of the load. "I can think of no better investment a nation can make, than to give a first-rate scientific education to promising youths of high aptitude for science, who might otherwise be debarred from the development of their skill... Were I a Congressman I would rather vote for the National Science Foundation Bill, with its liberal provision for the training of young scientists, than for any other measure of the last fifty years."

A-Bomb Pay-Off

Speaking of the atomic bomb, "the weapon of maximum pay-off, the weapon par excellence," Mr.

Baxter voiced the opinion that a treaty to prevent the military use of atomic power would be "a trap, not a safeguard, unless it provides for international inspection and control," and declared that "it seems to me utterly unlikely that, short of complete nationalization any belligerent in the next war will fail to use this terrible weapon."

"The failure of the Great Powers to reach agreement on the basis of the Acheson-Lilienthal report is one of the world's starkest tragedies. Writers of a later day may call this the greatest of all 'might-have-beens,'" asserted Mr. Baxter. In conclusion he drew an analogy to the pooling of the western lands for the good of the nation in the early days of our history, prior to the ratification of the Articles of Confederation, and offered the results of that action as living proof of what might be done today.

Although Beal admits that he picked Verney on a guess, Harry D. Baldwin '48, master of ceremonies, explained the riddle beginning "Ding, ding, ding, dong" by invoking the morse code for "V," the fourth stanza to Keats' "Ode to a Grecian Urn" and "dick" as slang for detective. Incidentally, Verney is the featured vocalist on the program and is expected to take it over when Baldwin graduates next year.

Sheehy Stops Foes With One-Hitter

'51 Golf Team Loses Match By 6-3 Score

Baseball

Big Harry Sheehy was only three outs away from a no-hitter when the little Hotchkiss shortstop lined a clean single to left field, giving the prep schoolers their sole bingle while the freshmen were putting nine hits together for a 4-0 triumph. The Hotchkiss nine was coached by Bill Fowle '32, considered by many to be one of the greatest Williams athletes of all time.

In racking up his second win of the season Sheehy walked only two while striking out six and collecting a single to aid his own cause.

The Burnetts took the lead in the third inning when Len Jacob lined the first hit of the ball game into center field. This was followed by Sheehy's and Zeller's infield hits and the Ephmen had a one run bulge.

Zeller Doubles

In the fourth Pete Fisher's base hit plus a walk, a base on balls, a passed ball and a fielder's choice led to two more runs. The fourth and final run of the ball game resulted from Fisher's second single and two Hotchkiss errors on Houston's ground ball. Fritz Zeller led the hitter's with two singles and a long double while Fisher and Len Jacobs came up with two hits apiece. The undefeated freshmen play their next ball game on Houseparty weekend May 8, when they face an undefeated Deerfield club which has four shutouts and a no-hitter to its credit.

Tennis

In their first match of the season the freshman tennis team defeated Hotchkiss nine to nothing last Wednesday afternoon. In the number one slot John Frankenheimer defeated Childs of Hotchkiss 7-5, 6-1. Bud Treman in the two position downed Magee 6-2, 6-1, and in the third spot Tom Kent had a close match with Hamilton winning 6-4, 10-8. Dropping one set, George Muller took the measure of Troy 6-1, 5-7, 6-3. Gerry Bennet halted Brent 6-2, 6-0, and in the sixth spot Rich Allen polished off Loeb 6-1, 6-4 to make a clean sweep of the singles.

In the doubles the number one Williams team of Frankenheimer and Kent defeated Childs and Magee 5-7, 6-0, 11-9 in one of the most exciting matches of the afternoon. The number two team of Muller and Reynolds had little trouble in defeating Hamilton and Brent 6-4, 6-1 and Dick Siegel and Ira Hawkins completed the rout defeating Troy and Loeb 2-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Golf

Hotchkiss proved effective in only one sport at their day at Williams when they defeated the frosh golfers 5 1-2 to 3 1-2. Smith playing in the one slot for Williams played Atkinson to a draw and combined with Rodie also broke even on the best ball. Rodie, however, dropped his match to Varnon 2 and 1 to give Hotchkiss an early lead. Jeffrey lost his match to North of Hotchkiss by a resounding 7 and 6, but Hemingway evening the match by dropping Rheinhardt 4 and 3. Hotchkiss took the best ball in this match to lengthen their lead.

Playing in the five spot Sziklas defeated Mills 4 and 3 but Wheeler dropped his match 5 and 4, and although the best ball was even, Hotchkiss had already sewed up the total match.

The Williams tennis team exploded with a blast of singles strength last Wednesday at West Point to trounce Army, 6-3.

Williams won all the singles matches with the exception of Stew Robinson's valiant but losing 6-6, 6-2 effort against the Army's great Charley Oliver. The sixth point was added when the third doubles team of Bill Riegle and Peter Thurber defeated cadets Calloway and Stillson 7-5, 3-6, 8-6.

Charlie Schaaf, at the number two spot won easily in straight sets, 6-0, 6-3, against Dougerty while Captain Fred Scribner playing number three experienced a little more trouble in disposing of Malhafer 6-4, 6-4. Both Scribner and Schaaf were continually at the net, hitting deep forcing shots that their opponents could not fathom.

Dick Palmer, at number four rallied to win a three set match 1-6, 8-4, 6-3 over Stillson. Pete Thurber at five turned a 5-4 deficit 7-5 victory and went on to win 6-4 in the second set. Russ Platt at number six triumphed 6-0, 6-4. The first doubles team of Scribner and Schaaf lost 6-4, 7-9, 6-3 to Oliver and McMullen while Robinson and Palmer at number two dropped a 9-7, 7-5 decision to Dougerty and Love.

Williams Polo Team Plays At Pittsfield

The first Williams College polo team will play its initial home game against Princeton on the Pittsfield Polo Grounds at 4 p. m. Sunday. Starting for Williams are: Josh Coste, Bill Huston, and Dan Pugh, at numbers one to three respectively. To reach the playing fields, follow the continuation of Route 7 called North Street and then First Street, as far as East Street. There take a left turn, and then a right turn two blocks further down, onto Pomeroy Avenue. This runs into Holmes Road, the polo grounds are located about a quarter-mile further south.

Captain Bob Merriam (1) and Hammy Gates (17) of Dartmouth and Williams' Ronnie Chute struggle for ball.

Lacrosse Ten Meets Tufts

Whoops Snively's lacrossemen travel to Medford today to take on an underrated Tufts team. This is the fourth game of the regular season for the Ephmen. The Williams team despite the crushing defeat at the hands of Dartmouth, go into the game with a record of six wins to two losses, including the four out of five victories they brought back from the spring trip.

Although a year ago the stickmen beat Tufts by a score of 12-0, today's game may be a different story, for a number of the men who helped the Jumbos win the New England League Championships in '45-46 have returned from the service. Sigler, Hayworth, and two or three other key men from the championship team are on hand to make it rough for the Williams boys. Dick Meryman, top scorer for the Purple, played with Sigler on the '46 Tufts team and says "He is one of the most dangerous men we will meet."

Whoops' Record

Since Whoops began coaching lacrosse here in '32 he has lost

Yacht Clubbers Sail In Consolation Race

Sailing for the Sharpe Trophy, the Williams Yacht Club was eliminated from competition for the New England Championship finals when it placed seventh out of the eight colleges racing at Brown on April 25.

MIT dominated the wind-swept regatta taking first place, and Brown, Yale, Coast Guard, Harvard, Rhode Island, Williams, and Dartmouth followed in that order. Commodore Wally Davis and Ward Mauck raced in division A for Williams, and Stan Bourne and John Greer sailed in division B. Although eliminated from the championship races to be held at Coast Guard, Williams will now participate in a consolation race at MIT on May 9.

only one game to Tufts and that was in '46. Although the Jumbos have played only two games, neither against Williams' opponents, Whoops feels that if his team plays heads-up lacrosse, they can take the game.

Dartmouth Wins

Sparked by Captain Bobby Merriam, Hammy Gates, Don Scully, and Bill Scott, Dartmouth's lacrosse team downed the Williams stickmen last Wednesday afternoon, 14-1. For the first three minutes the Purple kept the ball at its attacking end of the field, but after that it was Dartmouth all the way.

Scott and Scully chalked up four goals apiece, and Jim Ruch and Gates got a couple each. But the backbone of the Dartmouth team was in Merriam and Gates, who led the team to victory by their excellent stick-handling and lacrosse "know-how."

From the First

It was a hapless day for the Purple. After the early part of the game, with some exceptions, they could not seem to pick up ground balls, they charged the Dartmouth midfielders, and when they did shoot, the ball would be either off the pipes, or just outside. Dartmouth goalie Audie Knight, however, did a fine job of stopping those shots ticketed for the nets.

A third of the way through the first period, the Indians broke the scoring ice, when Scott outpivoted his defenseman, took Merriam's feed from behind the cage, and whipped it into the cage. Shortly before the first half ended, with the score 5-0, Co-captain Pat Graney got credit for the Williams score, which bounced off a mix-up of sticks in the air in front of the goal. In the second half Dartmouth scored with monotonous regularity, running the score into the double numbers.

Mickey O'Connell made some beautiful saves in the goal. Buz Brumbaugh played well in the midfield, and Graney played his usual aggressive game, in spite of a rib injury.

The Williams trackmen are gunning for their second win of the season today, as they challenge Wesleyan at Middletown. Though both teams have lost one of their meets, the Cardinals are slight favorites on the basis of the times they have chalked up so far this spring.

As usual the Ephmen will go into the meet handicapped by weakness in the two-mile and the broad jump. Coach Tony Plansky has been scouring the campus attempting to locate jumpers to round out the squad, but without much success.

Wes Sprint Ace

The main thorn in the side of the purple cow, apart from the preceding trouble, will be the presence of Bill Brooks, Wesleyan halfback-sprinter, whose brilliant run crushed the hopes of Williams to score an upset on the Cardinals in the Mud Bowl game last fall. Though the season is still young, Brooks has already broken the tape in 9.8 seconds in the 100-yard dash, and it is doubtful that he will run much slower today.

Though the Wesmen will take the long and short races, the Ephmen should run off with both the 440 and 880. Bill Barney, who ran a 51.3 in the Middlebury meet last Saturday, and Gordie Smith, whose 2:05.3 gave him a first in the half-mile, should do well against anything Wesleyan puts on the track in these events.

Weights May Win

Most of Williams strength is concentrated in the field events, and it is here that the Ephmen have a chance of tallying the points that they will need to win. With Bill Blanks, Marty and Gene Detmer, and Tom Edwards, the Purple should clean up in the javeline, shot put, hammer throw, and discus, while in the high jump Ben Read, who cleared 5 ft. 11 in. against Middlebury, will probably outlast Wesleyan's Jackson and Bowles. Ted Ferry should be able to nail down first place in the pole vault, and Ed Gouinlock and Steele Taylor should take vault points.

Darling Cops $35 Baseball --- In Speech Contest

Bilder Awarded $15 For Impromptu Talk

Newton Darling '48 polished up an old speech class talk Monday night and walked off with the $35. Ellzur Smith Impromptu Speaking Award. Richard Bilder F-'50 was awarded the $15 second prize.

Choosing Norman Cousin's statement "Modern man is obsolete" for the subject of his three minute talk, Darling declared that the trouble with modern man is that he wants more for less, and that modern man will be obsolete until he learns to love. Bilder took Edith Cavell's statement "Patriotism is not enough" for his subject.

The twelve entrants were presented one of three lists, were given one minute to choose one of the four subjects on the list, and were permitted three minutes to develop some phase of the subject.

Professors George Connelly, Kermit Gordon, and Freeman Foote judged the contest. Ralph Plano, instructor in romantic languages, who said that he just dropped in to watch, was drafted as timekeeper.

"Almost any trade or vocation can be found in the federal government," Mr. Ohly stated. "The problem is to get the right kind of people to come into government and make government a career."

throw caught him dead to rights about three feet from the bag, but somehow the umpire called him safe. This man then scored as Delsler threw Conover out at first for the third out of the inning. He also was called safe. It seemed the only way to get the Cadets out of there was to fan the next man, so this Ditmar proceeded to do.

Nothing Much

The Army guiding lights got a little worried about the Ephs propensity to hit as the game wore on and put in their ace, Roger Conover, for the last two innings...

Williams meets RPI at Worcester today... A Cleveland Indians scout in the stands took one look at Ditmar's servings and offered to keep George off government relief after he graduates by signing him up in the Cleveland chain.

American Politics Topic Of Spring Conference

Dean To Give Keynote Talk Friday Night

The College's sixth annual Spring Conference will open in the AMT a week from Friday night when Dean Robert R. Brooks will deliver a keynote speech on the Conference theme: "The Challenge to American Politics: 1948 and Beyond."

Frank W. Abrams, Chairman of the Board of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey), will follow Dean Brooks on the agenda for the opening session with another prepared address, concentrating on the domestic economic situation. He will also participate in the panel discussions which will follow on Saturday afternoon and evening.

The afternoon panel Saturday will include besides Abrams, Thomas E. Braniff of Braniff Airways, J. Kenneth Galbraith of Fortune, Joseph Glazer, educational director of the Textile Workers Union, CIO, and Henry Hazlitt, Newsweek economist. The panel, to be chaired by Prof. Emiles Despres, will consider the economic challenge at home and abroad and their relevance to political action.

Pulitzer Prize Winner
That evening a group consisting of Abrams, Paul Porter, last chief of OPA, James Reston of the N. Y. Times Washington bureau, and Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., of Harvard (author of the Pulitzer Prize winning "The Age of Jackson"), will discuss the capacity of our political machinery to evolve solutions to these problems. This panel will be chaired by Prof. Vincent M. Barnett.

A final panel Sunday morning will be concerned with pointing out the conditions prerequisite to integrating public support of political policy. Elmo Roper, public opinion analyst, will participate on this panel with Louis Hacker, economist and historian from Columbia, Ralph Barton Perry, Harvard philosopher, and Schlesinger. It is expected that Prof. David Truman will chair the final panel.

Two other men have indicated within the past few days that more imperative commitments will prevent their attendance. Former Gov. William H. Vanderbilt of Rhode Island will be busy campaigning for Harold Stassen, and Stacey May, chairman of the National Planning Association, expects to be busy in Cuba. It is hoped to add two or three further names to the agenda within the next week, the Conference Board members indicated.

Plans have been completed by the Sophomore Class to hold a picnic at the Tubs on Sunday, May 23rd. The picnic will run from 11 a. m.-3 p. m.; there will be beer aplenty and swimming available for the hearty members of the class.

Buses will be hired to take the Sophomores and their dates back and forth to the Tubs, which is about five-miles out of town, off the road to Bennington. This picnic is for Sophomores only, not for Freshmen and Sophomores, as previously announced by the RECORD. It will culminate a weekend which will include a Soph-Fresh softball game on Saturday and a Freshman-sponsored dance Saturday night. Class President Dud Irwin urges all members of the Class of '50 to get dates for this weekend.

Feature Articles To Appear Next Issue

"Cosmic" is what Charles Klensch '48 calls the current AMT production, "Phinney's Rainbow." Klensch's review of the musical will appear with other feature articles in Saturday's Spring Carnival edition of the Williams RECORD. Today's issue consists of only two pages in order that the RECORD board and staff may turn their time and talents to the production of Saturday's Carnival edition.

Baxter Speaks At Brown U.

Stresses Great Need For Good Teachers

Speaking at a conference of college and university officials at Brown University Saturday, May 1, President James P. Baxter, 3rd noted that the most important function of a college president still is to find high quality teachers. He also enumerated the most important qualifications of a good teacher, and suggested several ways in which the present system of graduate school teaching could be improved.

A college president must be primarily a "fisher of men," declared President Baxter. "As long as I am a fisherman I shall be much interested in the methods and the successes of the hatcheries..." he explained.

Competence Required

A thorough knowledge of his subject matter is the first requisite of a teacher, declared President Baxter, accusing graduate schools of over-emphasizing the theory and methods of teaching. "A man who knows his field may not be able to teach it," he asserted, "but he cannot teach it effectively unless he is competent in it." President Baxter also urged that broader fields be offered for graduate theses.

Desire To Teach

But the teacher must also have a "genuine desire to teach," he added. Teaching requires, moreover, the necessary personality and character for the job.

Competent and more interested teachers are one of the most pressing needs of graduate schools as well as colleges today, President Baxter concluded.

JA's Chosen From 100 Men

Walter F. Sheehan, Dean of Freshmen, announced recently the list of Junior Advisers for next year. The group was selected from a list of one hundred sophomores by a committee consisting of Undergraduate Council members and members of the administration.

Chosen on a basis of interest in the position, scholastic proficiency, and ability for responsibility and leadership, the group "promises to be a strong one and should do a fine job in the freshman dormitories," according to Dean Sheehan.

The list includes: H. Baker, R. Baldwin, S. Blaschke, R. Bourne, J. Bowen, C. Brashears, S. Cool, M. Detmer, L. Fitch, J. Gibson, T. Healy, A. Heineman, D. Irwin, C. Jensch, T. Lamot, W. Leitinger, D. MacDonald, V. Palmieri, J. Pugh, D. Pynchon, C. Stowers, T. Washburne, R. Williams, H. Wine-man, N. Wood.

Purple Hands 5 - 4 Clipping To Holy Cross

Young's Single Drives In Lesage's Winning Run In Ninth Inning

by Jack Schafer
Williams went down to Holy Cross last Saturday afternoon and knocked one of the biggest birds in the whole intercollegiate roost right off its lofty perch. The score was 5 to 4.

It was a hair-raising ball game all the way. The winning run was not scored until the ninth inning when Don Lesage, who had a whale of a good day, singled to left, moved to second on a fielder's choice, and scored on Jim Young's line single to right.

Ditmar's Win

Both coaches wanted to win this one, and both were forced to come in with everything they had. Jack Barry, of Holy Cross, led off with Shellenbach, but had to call on his ace, McEvoy in the fifth when George Owen knocked in two runs with a booming triple to right field.

Bobby Coombs started Bill Kaufman for Williams, but Bill tired in the sixth and had to be relieved by George Ditmar, who got credit for the win. It was Ditmar's second win against one defeat.

Ephs Lead By Four

After Williams scored one tally in the first on three walks and a fielder's choice, the team started attacking the problem in a more legitimate way in the fifth—with hits. Chuck Schmidt led off with his first hit of the year. Lesage followed with another single, and Owen came in with a towering 400-foot blast to right field which went for three bases and two runs.

This brought on McEvoy. After Young had been hit by a pitched ball, Bob Brownell knocked in the third run of the inning with a

First Federal ROTC Inspection Scheduled Today By Airforce

Local Group To Parade Before Review Party On Weston At 1:15

This afternoon the first and most important inspection of the Williams Air ROTC to take place this year will be conducted by the Department of the Air Force, and will include a parade and review to be held at Weston Field at 1:15 p. m., to which the public is invited.

Determines Efficiency

These inspections are designed to determine the efficiency of the instruction, the achievement in military education, the adequacy and condition of clothing, arms, and equipment, the thoroughness of the Unit's administration, and the manner in which the directives from the Department of the Air Force are carried out. The parade is a minor part of the inspection, for greater attention will be given to the elements in the program that are designed to develop the qualities and attributes necessary for sound efficient leadership.

Reviewing Party

In the reviewing party representing Williams College will be Mr. Nelson Bushnell, Professor of English, and Dean Robert R. Brooks. The United States Air Force officers will be Lt. Colonel Curran L. Jones, Lt. Colonel Joseph A. L. Greco, Major Robert T. Peel, 1st Lt. Robert J. O'Connor, and 1st Lt. George A. Bennett.

In case of rain the parade and review will be held in the Massachusetts State Armory, Ashland Street, North Adams.

Lee Castle Band Signs To Play Friday Night

Runners Face Sabrina Team

Jeffs Strong In Weights, Hurdles

The Williams track team will meet Amherst for the thirty-sixth time in a series that began in 1898, on Friday on Weston field before a houseparty crowd.

Of the thirty-five meetings held so far, Williams has won 25, lost 9, and tied one meet. Since 1938, the Ephs have lost only once to Amherst, that loss coming last year by a 74-50 score.

Lord Jeffs Swamped

Last Saturday, the Lord Jeffs were swamped by Springfield by a 90-45 score. They were able to take only three firsts, in the hurdles events and the quarter. The previous week, the Sabrinas trampled Boston University by a 82-53 score. Outstanding runner for the Lord Jeffs is hurdler Howie Teaf, who has taken a double win in every meet so far. Sprinter Herb Middleton, quarter-miler Bill Scott, and two-miler Kim Valentine have turned in good times in their events. Weightmen Rog Neuoff, Bill Parsons, Walt Flower, and Dick Mulroy all have scored heavily in meets this year.

Williams won its opener with Massachusetts University, but has dropped its last two meets to Middlebury and Wesleyan. In their meet with Wesleyan last Saturday, the Planskymen showed up well in the running events, but failed to come through in the weights, where they should have had their strength.

IRC Elects New Officers

Weber, Hudson Elected To Top Positions

Meeting in Griffin Hall last Thursday night, the International Relations Club elected new officers, heard a nine-point program proposed for next year's work, and listened to an invitation to all undergraduates to spend part of their summer vacation with the Lisle Fellowship.

Richard O. Weber '49 and Hubert R. Hudson F-'49 were elected President and Vice-President respectively, and Arthur E. Sprung '50 was made Secretary. John E. Belding '49 and A. Richard Goodman '49 became members at large.

Nine-Point Program

A nine-point program was proposed by Richard O. Weber as a means of stimulating undergraduate interest in the organization and promoting a more active IRC. Weber suggested that the IRC keep a file of important international problems, broadcast once a week over WMS, sponsor a conference each semester, keep a world affairs bulletin board, hold a freshman smoker next fall, arrange a discussion debate for next fall, and poll the undergraduates more frequently.

Peter M. Gutmann explained the workings of the Lisle Fellowship, Inc. During the summer months two groups of fifty persons are to meet for six weeks in camps near Watkins Glen, New York and Den-

Baxter Urges Men To Teach

Prexy, Sheehan Address Prospective Teachers

"There is always room for good men in teaching," declared President James Phinney Baxter III in a talk to prospective teachers at the Alpha Delta Phi House Thursday evening. In urging students to consider teaching as a profession, President Baxter said, "Teaching pays more in happiness than any other profession except medicine."

Speaking of teaching in the college ranks, he emphasized that at large universities capable undergraduate teachers are not as valuable as those who can do research work and instruct post-graduates.

In response to question concerning the value of a Ph. D. degree President Baxter replied that some college presidents still demand candidates to have their Ph. D. He praised the system here at Williams whereby students can select men, and not courses.

Following President Baxter's talk, Dean Walter F. Sheehan explained the methods of teaching at preparatory schools. "Character is very important," he said, "since so much of the work involves personal contact with boys." He pointed out that prep school teachers are expected to take an interest in all the boys' activities, thus limiting their spare time.

Sauers New Head Of Travel Bureau

Recently Reorganized After War Inactivity

The Williams Travel Bureau has recently been reorganized, following a period of inactivity during the war, and its new slate of officers include William W. Sauers '50, president; Frederick M. Peyser '50, vice-president; and Edward G. Stack '50, business manager.

As before, the bureau's purposes are to obtain reservations for Williams students and faculty on all forms of transportation and hotel accommodations, and to provide special forms of transportation by means of chartered buses, trains and planes for extra-curricular activities and vacations.

Passage On Freighters

Tours and summer trips have also been arranged through the agency, leaving from Seattle for Alaskan ports via the Alaskan Steamship Company, as well as cruises to Bermuda, the Bahamas, Europe, and South America. At present the bureau is attempting to arrange passage on freighters bound for Europe for students desiring to travel at lower rates than those existing on regular passenger liners. Williams people interested in this service should call 542MK.

Soft, Sweet Music Played By Trumpeter

Lee Castle, sweet-side trumpeter who got his start with a Salvation Army band ("Put a Nickle on the Drum, etc.") but went on to play with such greats as Glenn Miller and Benny Goodman before founding his own band a few years back, makes his initial Williams houseparty appearance at the formal dance in Lasell gym Friday night.

The Castle band is scheduled for a 10 p. m.-2 a. m. appearance, say authorities of the Yacht Club, Spring Carnival hosts, and the band will play continuously except for a half-hour intermission when the Williams Octet sounds off. Floor prizes will also be awarded at that time.

Radiomen Also to Play

The Four Radiomen, an instrumental quartet from Albany, will play for dancing and listening in the wrestling room from 10.30 a. m.

In a telephone conversation Thursday with Carnival Chairman Barry Benepe '50, Lee Castle related his musical biography. After basic training in the Salvation Army, he played with various bands until breaking in with Jimmy Dorsey. Since then he has been featured on the trumpet with Glenn Miller, Artie Shaw and Benny Goodman.

Benny Goodman Alumnus

Castle left Goodman to form his own band a while back, and made his first stop at the Meadowbrook in Cedar Grove, N. J. Since then he has been featured at the Hotels New Yorker, Edison and Lincoln.

The band holds engagements mostly on the east coast, but Castle himself occasionally travels to Hollywood to appear in movies with Goodman and Shaw as part of their original bands. At present the Lee Castle orchestra has a standing contract to appear for six months with the Hotel Lincoln in New York City.

Campus Experts Canvassed

The decision whether to contract Castle or Peter Chase for the formal dance after receiving the axe from Dan Barzle weighed heavily on the Yacht Club scions Davis, Benepe and Dave Barker '50, but after canvassing campus music experts, they decided upon Castle as having received the more votes.

Called Best in East

John Marvin '50, leader of the "52nd Streeters," termed Castle's orchestra "one of the best bands for dancing in the East."

Castle's band features a female vocalist, Natalie Kay, four saxes, two trumpets, a trombone, piano, bass and drums. One of the trum-

'50 '51 Rope Pull Set For Saturday

The relative strength of the Sophomore and Freshman classes will be tested this Saturday noon, as the Classes of '50 and '51 meet in a tug-of-war to the death.

The tug-of-war will be held on the Hoosac River, immediately below the Frosh ball field on Cole field. All members of both classes are urged to meet there shortly before noon for the tug-of-war. Both Dud Irwin, Sophomore President and Ernie Mierzejewski, Freshman-class President have declared that their class will put the other class into the river.

base-hit into center. McEvoy then retired three straight.

Holy Cross Scores Two

Holy Cross started tearing up the pea-patch in the fifth. McEvoy led off with a line single to center, and after Kaufman had gotten Coyle, shortstop Porter line a ball between Mason and Schmidt for three bases. Kaufman then struck out Galvin, but gave up a single to the clean-up batter, Polack, which knocked in the second Holy Cross run.

The home team tied it up in the sixth at four and four, and got Kaufman out of there. Lavery, first man up, started things with a prodigious 420-foot wallop which cleared the left field fence for a home run.

After Kaufman had gotten the next two batters, McEvoy got a moldy pop fly double into short right-center which no one seemed inclined to camp under. Kaufman then got himself into real trouble by filling the bases on two straight passes.

Ditmar Brought On

Coombs was forced to bring Ditmar on with Williams ahead by one run and the sacks full of Crusaders. The first thing the new pitcher did was to induce Galvin to lift a high pop along the third base line. But with the sun in his eyes, and McEvoy, who was coming in from third, getting in his way as much as was legally possible, Delisser was unable to handle the ball, and the fourth Holy Cross run came in. Ditmar then pitched out by getting Polack on a grounder to Lesage, who made a nice play on it.

The game then rocked along to the ninth with neither team being able to score. Williams threatened in the seventh and Holy Cross in the eighth, but nothing came of either threat. Lesage prevented a Crusader run in the eighth almost single-handedly when, with a man on second, Manicks hit a smash through the box and out over second which was ticketed to go into center field and drive in a fifth Holy Cross run. Lesage went deep behind second, however, and knocked the ball down, thus preventing the run from going in. Ditmar then retired the side on two fly balls.

Polack almost came up with something in the ninth when he drove a line drive deep into center field, but Schmidt gathered the ball in with a back-handed stab going away, to pretty much kill off the Holy Cross hopes.

last year, the panels this Spring will be restricted to four or five speakers. Present arrangements, Student Chairman Rhett Austell 48, said yesterday, call for an hour and a half of give and take on the platform for each panel followed by fifteen minutes intermission and then forty-five minutes of questioning. The latter will be conducted under a new system introduced at Middlebury: ushers will circulate through the theater several times during the course of each panel, distributing pads on which members of the audience will note their questions and the speaker to whom directed. The system will enable speakers to assemble questions directed to them at an earlier point and give them a longer time to formulate their answers.

Scheduled for Saturday afternoon at 4:30 will be a public reception at the Williams Inn. Many of the delegates are also expected to have Saturday meals at various social units to give students further opportunity to meet and talk with them.

The actual cost per student is $150, but each student contributes just what he is able to afford to a common fund, the remainder of the cost being borne by former Lisle students and other interested friends and organizations.

The big Mollé "What do you say?" contest is ending soon! But it is not too late to enter!

If you haven't entered as yet, dig out issues of this paper—all the previous Mollé sets are in them!

This is set #9! Fill in your answers to the questions asked in the balloons provided! Write your name, address, college. Then mail. That's all there is to it!

Here are some hints to help you fill in Balloon #9B:

Mollé is a heavier brushless cream. It treats tender skin kindly, and yet is rough on bristly whiskers.

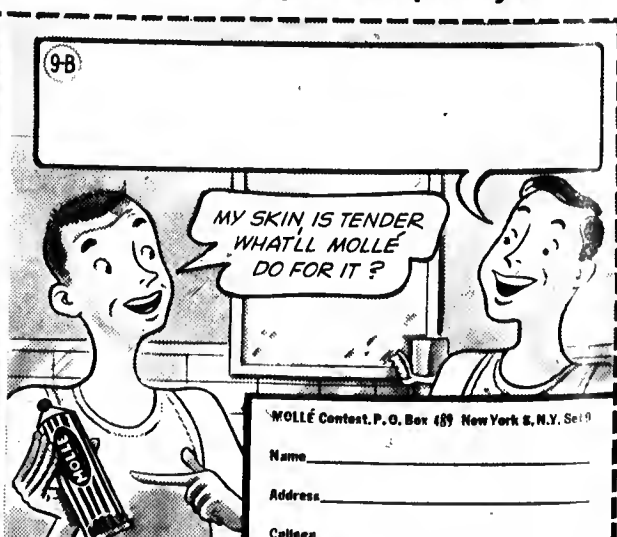

Because Mollé is heavier, it holds your whiskers out straight so your razor can glide right through 'em. With Mollé, you shave cleaner, closer, quicker, and more comfortably. Try a tube today!

And now for set #9:

What do you say when a gal says:

What do you say when a pal says:

O. K. There it is! Fill 'em in! Send 'em in! Read contest rules!

CONTEST RULES... Mollé "What do you say?" Contest

1. Merely write, in the blank cartoon balloons above, your answers to the questions. Mail your entry to the address given elsewhere in this ad. Be sure to fill in your complete name and address in the space indicated.

2. Each contestant must be a registered male student of the college in whose paper this contest is published, and each contestant must compete in all ten sets of cartoons in order to be eligible for prizes. If you did not receive a copy of this newspaper, a reasonable facsimile of the cartoon or a written description of it will be accepted.

3. With Sets No. 3 and No. 8, the contestant must include a carton from a 25¢ or 50¢ tube—or from any size jar—of Mollé. Remember, only two cartons (of any size) are required, but be sure you send one in with No. 3 and one in with No. 8 of the sets.

4. Only one entry will be accepted from each contestant in each set and all entries must be the original work of the contestants, submitted in their own names.

5. Entries will be judged by the Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation, an independent judging organization. All ten cartoons submitted by a single contestant will be considered as a unit in judging, and the judges' decisions will be based on the originality, aptness and interest of each set. First prize winners of $50 from each school will be eligible for the Grand Prize of $500.00 to be awarded to the best series of entries from all the schools. The decision of the judges is final and duplicate prizes will be awarded in case of ties.

6. All entries become the property of Sterling Drug Inc., and no entries will be returned.

7. All ten sets of answers must be mailed before May 14, 1948, final date of the contest. Entries with inadequate postage will not be accepted. Prize winners will be announced here the week of May 24.

Ditmar Flings; First Little Victory Sought

by Jack Schafer

Wesleyan comes into Weston Field tomorrow afternoon with a three won and four lost record and Williams won't do anything to even it up for them.

This is the first Little Three championship game for Williams this year, and Coach Bobby Coombs is going all out to win it. Up to the Trinity game of yesterday Williams had beaten Bowdoin, RPI and Holy Cross, and had lost to Army.

Ditmar To Pitch

Coombs has saved his ace, George Ditmar, for this game. Ditmar, who has worked in twenty-two innings this year, has been effective throughout. He sports a nifty 1.25 earned run average, and has given up thirteen hits and ten walks.

Ditmar opened the season by throwing a three-hitter at Bowdoin, dropped a close decision to Army, and held the mighty maulers of Holy Cross to one infield single in a four inning relief stint. All this adds up to a two won and one lost record.

In case unforeseen events start changing the course of Ditmar's pitching life, the Williams number two hurler, Bill Kaufman, will be on hand to apply the brakes. Kaufman has started two ball games so far this season. In beating RPI he gave up ten hits and two runs, and in the Holy Cross game he pitched one-hit ball for the first four innings before running into trouble in the fifth.

Bull Goes For Wesleyan

The big noise for Wesleyan is a fellow by the name of Cliff Bull who is quite proficient at throwing the ball past his opponents from the distance of 80 feet 8 inches. In the Amherst game, this left-hander had a two-hitter going for seven complete innings, only to lose out in the ninth when he was only one strike away from a three to two win.

And in the Arnold game he was ahead three to one going into the ninth, with a one-hitter working, when he tossed a home run ball with two on, to give Arnold a four to three decision. In both these games, Bull lost out when he had two out and no one on in the ninth.

Wesleyan Record

Besides the Amherst and Arnold games, Wesleyan has lost to Army, 10 to 2, and Trinity 5 to 3. The team has beaten Springfield. See BASEBALL, page 8

WMS Airs Wesleyan vs. Williams Today

You and your date can let the beer cans fall where they may, avoid run-ins with the UC and Weston Field grounds-keepers, and still enjoy the Williams-Wesleyan baseball game Saturday afternoon.

All you have to do is turn your radio dial to 850 where WMS will bring the entire game right into the privacy of your own cell. A telephone line direct from Weston Field to the studio has made possible this innovation which, according to George Thomason, WMS publicity chief, marks the beginning of a new era in campus broadcasting. So, get your afternoon's supplies from Cal King or the Square Deal, pile a few more pillows on the couch, and settle back to enjoy both sports.

Undergrad-Penned 'Rainbow' Gives Biz To Local Yokels

Q-Ladies Bill Windle, Charles Hollerinth, Pete Nielsen, and Ted Farrow kick up their heels to the tune of "The Q-Ladies Waltz."

—Birchall Photo

by Charles Klensch

"Phinney's Rainbow," the Sondheim and Horton musical comedy which pokes gentle fun at our dandy little school, thinly disguised as Swindhurst Prep, is the biggest thing that has hit the campus since the April Fool issue of The Record.

The cast of over fifty seemed to be having an hilarious time romping through their parts, especially the basom and bust impersonators, and enthusiastic full houses echoed the good humor.

The Horton and Sondheim book was properly not too concerned about plot and managed to bring a jibes at faculty, fraternities, Junior Advisors, houseparties, and the administration with a consistently high level of comedy.

"Strength Through Sex"

The thread of plot which slips in between Sondheim's very competent song-smithing runs somewhat like this:

Although the lass at exclusive Swindhurst are as neatly categorized in their interest in school activities as a George Smith monograph—the athletics supporters, the partyboys, and the grinds,—they stand united in their devotion to dear old Dogma Nu Frat lodge and in their passionate dislike for compulsory PT and Junior Advisors.

So, the bonded brothers decide to stage a revolution and to replace PT with a "Strength through Sex" program. All of this takes place in the first scene. From there the ball macabre dances through: 1) mass meetings, 2) bedroom scenes, 3) love on a pinball machine, 4) prexy's office, 5) faculty meeting, 6) Dogma Nu goatrooming, and 7) a clandestine house-party.

The subtle, but effective, "Strength through Sex" campaign finally carries the day and show See PHINNEY'S RAINBOW, p 8

Polit Clubs Form Plans

Eye Nat'l Conventions To Boost Stassen, HAW

With the approach of dominating conventions, students are beginning to display buttons, posters, and banners in an effort to elect their candidates. Students-for-Stassen, Students-for-Wallace, and Student Federalists are increasing their activities with an eye toward the June and July meetings in Philadelphia.

Chairman John Reid, '49, of Students-for-Stassen announced that members of his group will begin a canvass of the college next week to get signatures on petitions endorsing Harold Stassen as the Republican presidential candidate. These petitions, he explained, will be sent to the national Stassen organization which will present them at the convention. Reid also revealed plans for a meeting May 25 when former Rhode Island governor, William Vanderbilt, will discuss Stassen's chances with the group. Another meeting may be held before this date to distribute the petitions.

According to Don Merwin '50, Chairman of Students-for-Wallace, his organization is participating in the Progressive Party's campaign to secure enough signatures endorsing Henry Wallace to place his name on the Massachusetts ballot. Thus far the group has been working in North Adams, but the possibility of canvassing will be POLITICAL CLUBS, page 7

ADA's Split Ballots' Foul Up Counters

Williamstown ballot-counters worked far into the night tabulating returns from the Democratic state primary last week after local voters cast a number of split ballots.

According to The North Adams Transcript, Williamstown was the last in the county to report. At 11 p. m., the counters had sent for Town Clerk George Grundy, veteran of many elections, to help them straighten out their count and get their tables balanced.

Local Chapter

Meanwhile, members of the local chapter of Americans for Democratic Action were pointing to the primary as evidence of ADA strength since their split-ballot bloc of twenty-five votes was believed to be the cause of the tabulation confusion. After clever maneuvering by ADA secretary, Asst. Prof. James Burns, lists of the sixteen delegate candidates most favorable to the group were distributed to ADA members before voting began. Local ADAers split their ballots among the Curley slate, the Young-Democrat slate, and independents.

James Curley

These sixteen people were selected on the basis of their political records and agreement with liberal ADA policies. When asked if the ADA voters had supported Boston Mayor James Curley, Mr Burns replied that Curley was not considered a desirable candidate, but that House minority whip John McCormack was included on the list. A similar list was not submitted to Republican members of the group because there was no contest in the Republican primary.

In discussing future ADA plans, Mr. Burns expressed the hope that the local chapter will be able to meet with ADA members Paul Porter and Arthur Schlesinger when See ADA, page 8

Frosh-Soph Biceps Prep For River Pull

Lower classmen were flexing, grunting and groaning this week in preparation for today's revival of the freshman-sophomore tug-of-war across the Hoosac River near Cole Field at noon today.

"The freshman will get wet," prophesized soph president Dud Irwin, while Ernie Mierzejewski, freshman president, declared that, "we won't be billed for wetting 'em down this time!" Hank Strong, UC president, will be the starter and referee.

Mike Mulls Loan Shop As Post-HP Biz Fails

Attempting to keep a finger on the throbbing pulse of Billville, a last minute Record survey of Spring Street attitudes shows unanimous approval of Williams houseparties by everyone except Mike.

In his Greek brogue, the proprietor of the College Restaurant said, "In one way I like 'em, but in another way I don't. It's good to have all the nice girls around to give some pep to the Street, but fellows spend so much dough on them and on liquor that they are all broke when they come in here for two weeks afterward. They keep saying, 'Mike, gimme a dollar,' instead of, 'Mike, gimme something to eat.'" Reminded that he does a rushing breakfast business on weekends, Mike grinned and said that he was "only kidding."

Cal King of King's Package Store reflected the general opinion when he said, "I wish we had one of them every week." The characters that give the Street its local color are 100 per cent behind our most popular institution mainly because the influx of pretty See SPRING STREET, page 3

Bikerace, Moo Punch, Bromo Add To Gaiety

by John Shepardson

Lotteries, picnics, 480 girls, dances, Lee Castle, 480 dates, beer and 480 females have been supplanting the usual bookish occupations of the local specie studentia this weekend.

But because milk punch, Greylock sunrises and cocktail parties have not yet killed a Billyumsite or his date, all predictions and precedent point to continuation of this theme for the next twenty-four hours. God, the weather, UMT, the draft and Bromo-Seltzer willing.

The rioting started Friday with the influx of the 480 beaming baubles who poured out of trains, buses, P-84 jets, and paddy wagons from towns and institutions ranging as far as Mexico City. (See P.7 for facts and figures.)

"Rows Thru The Air . . ."

The girls had scarcely doffed their new looks when the "Flying Yachtsmen" appeared in their airborne rowboat and caused some confusion among those who had not expected snow by dropping leaflets.

But neither were the leaflets propaganda for Communism or free love, as those who were too busy to read them suspected. They were one of the Yacht Club sponsors' quasi-legal lotteries. On each leaflet was a number, and the lucky couple who took time out to pick up the lucky numbered leaflet won a set of cocktail glasses at the dance Friday night.

"Castle Sets Pace

The formal dance was highlighted by the saccharine trumpery of Lee Castle, the ex-Salvation Army buglist. Castle, however, has given up soul saving since then and now makes like Harry James, although his income does not yet permit him to dabble in sable and Grable.

Post-dance occupations were too humorous to mention, of course, but were performed under cover of darkness, in places where The Record, the news organ of Williams, does not reach. Sunrise, however, found many fagged drags and their hosts atop Mt. Greylock, just prior to returning to the houses for a dip in the milk punch bowl.

Frosh, Sophs to Tug

The rooster crows late around here on Saturday morning of a houseparty weekend, but sophs and frosh are scheduled to appear at the Hoosac River for the resurrection of an old College tradition, the Tug of War, at noon. One Class of '50 spokesman told The Record that his heavy date, who graduated from NATSC will substitute for him.

Many houses will be molesting the barnyard variety of cow this afternoon with picnics in townside fields and meadows—weather permitting. One eager meteorology major who is headwaiter in his social unit contracted the Albany weather bureau four weeks ago for a long range forecast of the possibility of rain on May 8. Grinning fiendishly, he told this newspaper that: "rain ain't gonna wet on our picnic!"

Flick Bound Bikers Pick Carni Queens As Midway Playmates

by Norm Wood

This picture was taken last summer. Those are seven Zetes: they are, from coaster brake to handlebars, Pete Geier '49, Bud Humphrey '48, Chuck Jarrett '49, Swede Suneson '48, Russ Platt '48, Dave Bennett '48, and Hank Flynt '47. That's a six-man bicycle. And thereby hangs a tale.

One Saturday night last summer the five regular members, one charter member, and one assistant member of the Berkshire County Wheelmen decided to tour to the "flicks" in North Adams. Feeling that their mode of transportation was perhaps slightly out of the ordinary, they notified The North Adams Transcript that there was an unusual opportunity to take some unique pictures.

"Dancing" Girls

Donning their seersucker coats, bow ties, and straw hats, and accompanied by a car with the necessary beer and repair equipment, they took off for the metropolis. After several stops for refreshments and repairs, the six-man team was about half-way to its destination when they were stopped by the Transcript photographer.

He was overly excited, and after taking several routine shots, announced that he had "real deal" lined up. There was a carnival in town, and he had made arrangements with the manager to take pictures of the bicycle with six of the carnival's "dancing" girls.

Posters in the Library?

The Zetes were warmly received. The car was parked in the Presidential parking space. They were given free passes to every ride and show at the carnival. All they had to do was smile and pose with their bicycle and six gorgeous girls—count 'em—SIX.

The carnival manager thought that the picture was so good that he had it made into a publicity poster. It is no wonder, then, that Williams men were surprised, about two weeks ago, to find this picture in a Stetson Library display of old Zete pictures, which included: "Houseparty - 1908," "First House-1900," and the typical scene on the front steps—black top hats, handle-bar mustaches, and that incomparable air of self-satisfaction and dignity.

Carni Breaks Allure

Amidst the confusion of blaring music, animal acts, freak shows, beer, and 960 gorgeous gams, we extend our apologies to The Billboard, the Variety of the Carni biz, for our blatant imitation of their inimitable trade mag. (And incidentally, this Hedda Hopper brunch was included only when we gleaned that James P. Baxter, 3rd, also didn't get the pitch.) Editorials always mull a moral somewhat on the heavy legit side, and we want to clear the air for any disk-jocks that think we make a habit of pulling gams. We only do when we get the chance.

Carni attracts don't SRO, however, and competing attracts with a strong Hooper rating pulled numerous of Barnum's suckers away from this power-packed HP. With an 11.4 slot on Hooper's board is the Woodsman's Weekend, which called customers back to nature, bleats hard-swallowing on any trooper. Nature formed like trees, birds, bees, and weather is jivy but its' draw drops compared to Nature's loveliest lovely, the lovely fem. And our heavy legit-moral on this pitch is, why commute with nature when nature commutes to Williamstown.

But for those unfortunates who lost their heads via the HP hatchet, The Record is operating a side-pitch which guarantees 100% supercolossal success — the Lonely HP Hearts Club. For those that got butchered, we offer the following luscious lovely. "Sweet Southern Belle, Widow. Age 16. Claims. 'I ain't Southern Corn but I am Fried—every Saturday night.' Claims $1,000,000 financial status. Former husband, souther oil tycoon, died of food poisoning. Excellent cook, sweet and understanding."

But back to the Carni trade. The Barker (Step right up—Girls, Girls, that's all we got) at Phinney's Rainbow only claims it's the world's best Big Tent attraction. This isn't a skin-show, literally speaking, for under the AMT canvas, shills, jills, housemen, and P-ladies dominate the Rube Attractor. "Hey Rube" glibbs the Bark and Josie Horton's date has it aces and spades over the Geek in third row aise because Josie wrote the dialog. Josie isn't so dumb because he jives that his Henretia isn't too starry and B. (for Broad Shoulders) Zootsuit '48, Gargoyle, Argyle, Sprung confab, HP-wrestler, and WOC (Williams Outcast Associates) isn't going to flick a glib prospect her way. (See Cols. 3 & 4 Page 2) But is Henretia safe from the FreKE (Fraternal Kappa Epsilon) HP boarders? We mull motives of Chipso the Dog Faced Boy.

And the glittering midway pulled the newest reet deal with the "Flying Yachtmen." A Flying Yacht is a new pitch but flying men is nothing new on the Carni circuit. The neatest deal added, however, is the semi-legit lottery fluttering from flying men. Who is to argue about 28 PICKWICK tumbler—there isn't enough on the circuit.

Faculty (oftimes tagged faulty) condescended to hold classes today. Why? Don't ask us because we sandbag them whenever legit but its been said they like the bountiful beauties. An Oakley to a jill-show, however, isn't legit excuse for three tours of duty on the Hopkins Parade-ground. Maybe ROTC likes P-duty but we Carni followers follow the camp.

And then there is the story of the Carni hand who hit Broadway to break the legit. With biz booming, except with Amber and the Beantown censors, all he got was SRO. So he broke the legit by pulling the curtain on the Old Howard. Beantown censors take note that immorality reigns.

The "Flying Yachtmen's" Carni has got everything but the queen. So we spot the top-notchers' qualties. She's got the Olive Oil physique with the Sally Keith desire and the Mary Worth disposition. What more could you ask for in a house-mother? Her mother is AA; her father a geek; and she is sweet. Wonder why so many Smith jills fight the battle of the Berkshire bulge when they have so many compets.

So the legit-moral of all this is just like the Soph-Frosh tug-o-war. It doesn't matter what happens, it's wet.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

With the demise of The Williamstown Playreaders at the end of last year, a definite need on the campus was left unfilled. There are many students and residents of the town who are interested in the drama but have not the requisite time for participation in full-scale productions. Their wants are satisfied by the existence on the campus of a playreading group.

I write to inform your readers that such a group has been formed, and will welcome their support and interest. At the beginning of this year, Mr. Charles E. Hill, Mr. Francis Michael Casey and myself, along with several others, dubbed ourselves The Globe Readers, and proceeded to caat for Romeo and Juliet. Cheered by the success of this production, we proceeded to present readings of The Wild Duck and Hamlet during the course of the year.

On Monday evening, May 10, we will present a semi-staged reading of Twelfth Night, at 8:00 in the parish house of St. John's Church, on Park Street. Any who would like to attend are most cordially invited, and those who would like to take parts in future readings are urged to contact one of the directors.

Cum Grano Salis

by Joelah T. S. Horton

Houseparties are upon us once more. Or should one say "we are upon houseparties once more?" Well, no matter. The fact still remains that the women have descended once more. Egypt had its locusts; medieval Europe had its Black Death; and Williamstown may profit by their example. If this be treason make the most of it.

Of this season's outlay, I have chosen five who appear as typical. First let us examine Specimen A on the left. Her real name is of no consequence. Suffice it to say that her friends call her Miss Close Shave of 1948. Her enemies also call her this. It isn't that she can't say "no", it's just that she doesn't want to. As a matter of fact, she does want to. And that is precisely her difficulty—she wants to all the time. Hence the winking eye and crooked finger. Just give her a manne in a Morris chair, etc. She arrives Thursday afternoon looking like this, and leaves Monday morning looking like this. And half the campus is left with shameful expressions.

Example B is somewhat different. She comes from a long and distinguished line of good New England stock. And when she came along, the stock market tumbled. "What do other girls have that I haven't?" she queries. But no one can say, because one can't get close enough to her to find out.

When one tries to kiss her, one isn't sure whether she's going to pucker up, say "Keep your distance, cad," or simply belch from that drop of elderberry cordial she had before dinner. ("We were taught to drink nothing else at Miss Snagglefang's Classes!") She wields a mean parasol, and prefers it greatly over the old-fashioned hat pin. She has a terrific personality and will make someone a dandy wife.

The third type is the athletic sort. She's muscular as all get out, and she's handy to have around in case of fire, earthquake, or similar catastrophe. She appears at the dance in gym shorts all set for a real workout. She takes those visits to the wrestling room literally, and if your fraternity colors aren't black and blue, just wait for a while. If your father owns fifty-one per cent of the Absorbine Jr. Company, she's just your type.

One thing nice—you'll save rail fare. She runs both ways, and she usually beats the train. I admit this isn't too unbelievable when one considers the B. and M., but she also does pushups at every station, which the B. and M. hasn't been too successful at.

The next number may be compared with Specimen A. If the latter is Miss Close Shave, this one is Miss Good Try But T. S. of 1948. When you have her on the dance floor, her favorite question is: "Why don't you wear a cum-bund like that simply delicious boy on the other side of the room?"

Her roving eye attracts all sorts of stags and other vermin, and she is always in need of a drink of water or something which will get you out of the way while she makes time. She can carry on conversations with at least seven men while she mentally tears apart all the other women in the place. This is easy because her vocabulary consists of two phrases: "Tell me all about yourself" and "Do go on and tell me all about yourself". She's loads of fun if you hadplanned doing Monday's homework anyway.

I love her with much passion, I think, because she's all mine. She's such a good sport about it when I tread on her tongue on the dance floor. And in the dark, she's just like any other woman—except that her nose lights up.

Mt. Holyoke Outers Tagged "Terrific Crew" By WOCers After Strenuous Greylock Tour

"Terrific crew of gals, sound as oak" was the comment of Jim Dorland '50 charge d'affairs of the Outing Club's joint gettogether with Mt. Holyoke last week-end at the Harris cabin on Mt. Greylock.

The girls, a mite anxious, arrived an hour ahead of time and caught the staunch members of the WOC in the process of flexing their muscles in preparation for their woodsmancraft duties. The Mt. Holyoke fresh air fans, who were soon hustled off to Greylock, found that the stalwart Ephmen had not planned to do all of the necessary work themselves. After spending Saturday afternoon cleaning the cabin, washing the windows, chopping and sawing wood, and other feminine chores the girls were generously provided with vittles by head chef George Fernald '50.

During supper noses were counted and there were found to be eleven Williams men present, ten Mt. Holyokes, two other couples, and chaperones "Doc" and Mrs. Curry, and "Uncle Ed" and Mrs. Bullock.

At dusk the outers fancies turned from outing to running of square dancing to the music of Pete Leake '50, his voice and his "geetar." Pete was joined between sets by Gus Klein '48 and Hank Hall '50.

At about 10 p. m. Franny Stokes '48 the head of the lighting crew had no trouble in turning down the gasoline lantern, much to the relief of all who were afraid that it might set the cabin on fire.

The party lasted until midnight, when the boys and girls hiked up to the top of Greylock where among other things they managed to rend "The Mountains." The members of the WOC present were in unanimous agreement that the girls were "impressed" by the moonlit country-side which they glimpsed from the summit.

On Sunday the Ephmen returned, having left the girls there overnight, guarded by that stalwart pair "Doc" and Mrs. Curry. Sunday morning saw the Williams and Mt. Holyoke sophomores arrayed against the rest of the party in a titanic baseball game on the summit. The game was so boisterous that Walt Pratt '51 and Bob Bergen '51 wound up in the infirmary after crashing into each other while running for a fly ball, according to the official explanation. Insiders say that it really happened because both were concentrating on Life Cover Girl Gail Sullivan rather than the ball.

girls pep up the whole town. But of course they do not take any business away from the local merchants either.

Cabe Prindle, dean of houseparty judges who estimated that he had weathered almost 150 houseparties in his forty-nine years on the Street, claims that the girls are "getting nicer every year." In spite of a few skeptical expressions by the writer, Cabe insisted that it is so. It took some prodding to make Cabe, who is usually full of Williams spirit to say that it "makes a little hick town like this very interesting to have so many nice girls—very interesting, that's what it is, very interesting."

Watch The Girls

Having houseparty dates around also appeals to Mrs. Hurd, in Bastien's, who likes to "park in the window and look at the girls as they go by." She says that it "gives a holiday atmosphere to the town." Mrs. Hurd said that just before the big weekend they do a rushing business in highball glasses, and that just after it, fixing broken watch crystals is the big item.

According to the Rudnick brothers from the cleaning establishment of the same name we "ought to have more of them because it's good to see the boys enjoying themselves and we enjoy seeing them well groomed." (To those few who consider them the infamous Rudnick brothers, they pointed out that they must keep enough skilled labor all year just to meet the demand of houseparties and other weekends.)

Len Knows

Frank Lancto, one of the high school students who jerks sodas in Hart's drug store after school, also approved of having the girls in town. "I like to look at the good-looking girls," he said with a grin, "but of course they don't do me much good." Fred added as an afterthought, "Of course the business in liquor and other items goes up."

The case for houseparties was aptly summed up by Len of the Gym Lunch when, while drawing a cup of coffee from the tap, he elled back over his shoulder, "The guy who wouldn't like a houseparty ought to be psychoanalyzed!"

Calls Birmingham Story Hot; 'Rack' and Art Dept Pax Kartoon Kix

by Phil Collins

With the appearance of its April houseparty issue, the Purple Cow returns to normal after a trip back into the files for the March collection of Jazz Age humor.

Zilch's cover is the first of the magazine's high points. His prefabricated date mask should prove a boon to all those who just cannot take it any longer. The artistic level remains high throughout, due principally to the efforts of Don "Rack" Rackerby, who makes his debut in this issue. His Baacharalian "Girle Parade," date caricatures, and voluptuous nymphs add a timely note to the pages. We want to see more of his work.

The best literary effort in this issue is Stephen Birmingham's "Bedtime Formula," a very amusing and well-written description of a colored mammy's attempts to make her young charge go to sleep. The dialog is particularly well done.

Jack Birchall's photographic essay on houseparties, "The Cow Goes to a Party," suffers from a rather unimaginative layout, but it is an excellent idea and one the Cow can well develop.

The lead story by Pete Peabody, "And Someday Our Sons," is a fairly amusing piece about Yalies and Old Eli, always good for a couple of yuks. There is a nice twist in the last paragraph.

Theodore F. Dunster Jr. enters his son at New Haven upon finding that it is a male. The boy's social development is satisfactory. He commits heresy by entertaining thoughts of Princeton, redeems himself by going to New Haven, comes to the conclusion that it's a Grand Old Place, and is last

'48 Gul To Break Precedent, Come Out On Time, Says Ed

Precedent has been broken with the announcement that the 1948 Gul will arrive on time this year, a world-shaking event which should rank second only to the presidential campaign. In spite of the various delays and disturbances which have plagued the staff during the year, the yearbook has been entirely printed and is now in the process of being bound. The exact date of delivery of the book is not definite now, but it will be some time during the last week of May or the first week in June.

The cover of this year's Gul is gray, with deep purple lettering, a combination which should prove attractive as well as durable and dirt-resistant. The material inside the cover is somewhat different from that of last year's book in that the number of pages has been reduced and the number of pictures increased. All color photography has been completely omitted, since it was felt that the expense which colored pictures entail did not warrant their use.

In the Societies section, an entire half-page was given to each social unit for a montage of candid shots. Each unit was asked to contribute as many informal snapshots as possible for its own page, since it was felt that the different houses would best be able to select the pictures they wanted on their page.

The theme of the '48 Gul is "Williams Through the Looking-Glass," a title suggested by Lewis Carroll's classic. The editors have tried to present a backward glance at Williams during the year, and in carrying out this theme, have taken quotes from the 'Alice' books as captions for the candid shots. The full-page section breaks have also been used in developing the theme, and the book has been laid out in the chess-board manner of "Through the Looking-Glass." In this way, a type of unity has been gained which binds together the various phases of college life.

It is hoped that everything pertaining to campus life for the past year has been included in this issue of the Gul, and that, in later years, the Gul will serve not only as a guide to the members of the senior class, but also as a recorder and reminder of Williams, '47-'48.

Lacrossemen Trounce Tufts At Medford Saturday, 16-5

Purple Comes To Life After Jumbos Score Two Quick Tallies

Bouncing back from their Dartmouth loss, Coach Whoop Snively's stickmen soundly thumped an undermanned Tufts team, 16-5, at Medford last Saturday.

For three minutes, the Purple team could not seem to find itself, and Tufts registered two quick goals. Both goals were notched while the Purple was a man short because of penalties. After this the Williams squad worked together and it was only a matter of time before they rolled out their scoring artillery.

Brumbaugh Paces Scorers

"Buz" Brumbaugh was the biggest noise in the scoring columns, with five goals and two assists. His first goal came late in the first period, when, backing up the attack's passes, he picked up a loose ball, and drilled in a long shot. A minute later he took a pass from Co-captain Ed Maynard, and fired a fairly long second goal.

After five minutes of play in the second period, Williams really started to move, flashing an eight-goal outburst, which cracked the game wide open. While this was happening, the Jumbos manufactured a third goal.

Tufts' Sigler Sharp

In spite of Tufts' Roy Sigler, who played both attack and mid-field, scored twice, assisted twice, and played a good game all over the field, the home club could not match the Purple. They racked up a pair of goals in the third period, and a pair of pairs in the fourth. A goal-a-period was the Jumbos' harvest in the second half.

Dick Meryman scored twice, and assisted four times. Phil Van Dusen, Co-captain Pat Graney, and Maynard had two goals, the latter two also garnering two assists. Art Lewis, "Tolly" Taliaferro, and "Frenchy" Oudin rounded out the scoring. Brumbaugh's game in the midfield was good, and Howie Simpson played some nice defense.

Yearling Lacrosse Tops N.E. College

Opening their home season last Saturday, the Frosh lacrosse team trounced an outclassed New England College team, 8-0. Captain Gordy McWilliams led the scoring parade with four goals and one assist. Fraser Moffat dented the nets twice, with "Bobby" Day and Mitch Fish scoring one apiece.

Slow Game

The game was played listlessly, with Williams on the attack most of the time. The visitors showed a complete lack of lacrosse experience, with only the goalie playing a good game. Williams led 2-0, 5-0, and 8-0 at the periods. No scoring was done in the final quarter. The Williams bench was cleared, with thirty men playing for the Purple.

This was the first victory in two starts for the freshmen. The opener was lost to Mt. Hermon, 9-1.

Muir Teaches Life Saving

Swimming Coach Gives Instruction To Forty

In spite of the fact that the swimming season has been over for a month, activity in the Lasell Gym has not fallen off.

Coach Bob Muir has begun his spring course in life-saving. Men who complete the course will be given either the American Red Cross Senior Life-saving or an instructor's rating which will qualify them for jobs as life guards or swimming instructors at any beach, club, or summer camp in the country.

Tests

Recently Bob gave the eligibility tests for the senior life-saving and instructors course. These trials included such events as: a 500 yard swim, a 100 yard back stroke with hands on chest, a 100 yard side stroke using only one hand, a 75 foot underwater swim, and three consecutive surface dives to retrieve a brick. After successfully mastering the above requirements the candidate is qualified to take the course provided he is over seventeen.

Upon completion of the course one automatically becomes an American Red Cross Senior Life-saver. Previously a senior life-saver who wished to become a qualified Red Cross instructor and examiner had to wait a year before he was eligible. Bob says that this year, in certain cases, it is possible to get a waiver on the one year requirement and so get both ratings by passing the course. An instructor is a qualified Red Cross examiner in both junior and senior life-saving.

Summer Jobs

Williams men in the past have found the course almost invaluable in getting summer jobs as life-guards or as swimming and life-saving instructors. This fact is borne out by the nineteen life-savers and twelve examiners who came out of last year's class. The enthusiasm this year is equally as great, as there are some forty fellows expected to take the course.

For more information see Bob Muir at the pool on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday from 4-5:30.

Purple Takes Singles; To Play Brown Today

In the first home match of the season the Williams tennis team downed hitherto undefeated Springfield College, 6-3, last Tuesday on the Sage Hall courts. The Eph team annexed all six singles contests, but handed Springfield three points by dropping the three doubles matches.

Robinson Wins

At the number one position, Eph Stew Robinson defeated Ed Crocker in three sets, 6-2, 4-6, 8-6. Crocker's driving cross-court forehands were too much for Stew in the second set, but in the final stanza he concentrated on Crocker's backhand, which, combined with his steady back-court play, enabled him to win the final set.

At number two Charlie Schaaf had little trouble with Springfield's Taylor. Schaaf was in the fore court at every opportunity and overpowered his opponent 6-1, 6-4. Captain Fred Scribner, playing in the third slot, also won easily 6-1, 6-3. At number four, Dick Palmer, the most improved player on the Eph squad, romped to a 6-0, 6-2 victory over Tatem.

Thurber, Platt Win

The fifth and sixth matches both went three sets, but these contests went to Williams as Pete Thurber at number five rallied to defeat Davis 2-6, 10-8, 6-3, while Russ Platt at number six came from behind to win over Don Bosworth 5-7, 6-3, 6-3. Thus in six singles matches Williams lost only three sets while winning twelve.

The doubles matches were a different story. Williams lost all three and could take only a single set out of a possible six. Scribner and Schaaf lost a close match to Crocker and Taylor 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. Bill Riegle and Joe Takamine at number two for Williams dropped a 7-5, 8-0 decision to Berger and Tatem, while at the third spot Lou Lincoln and Ed Spencer fell before Bosworth and Cartmill 6-3, 6-3.

Tomorrow the tennis team will meet Brown at Providence. Last spring the Eph team defeated Brown 7-2, and today's score should be about the same.

Golfers Club West Point

Army became the third victim in a row last Saturday as the Williams golf team registered a decisive 6-3 victory over the Cadets on their home course at Newburgh. The win was especially gratifying after rain and freezing weather had forced a halt to the Dartmouth match here on Friday afternoon with Williams leading in virtually every match.

Against Army Marchese and Cole had the unusual experience of winning their individual matches from Moran and Kierman, but dropping the best-ball to the West Pointers who dovetailed finely enough to nab the combination match. Bucky's 79 earned him a two up victory while Cole shot 77 to withstand a phenomenal putting streak by Kierman and win three and one. Army's margin of victory in the best-ball was three up and two to play.

When the second foursome came in the whole match stood at three points apiece. Chuck White playing number four defeated Szymczyk three and two with an 80, but two points went to Army as Heuer lost Williams' first individual match of the season six and four, and the best-ball was lost three and two.

It remained for Whitney and MacLeod to snap the deadlock and they did it conclusively, grabbing all three points at the five and six positions. Whitney shot a 79 in disposing of Sternberg two and two.

Barney Scores 11

Cardinals' Strength Surprises Weightmen

After making a strong bid for an upset in the running events, the Williams track team was downed by Wesleyan, 77-58, last Saturday, when expected strength in the field events failed to materialize. For the Ephmen the Middletown defeat was the second loss in three meets.

The Purple got off to an excellent start in the contest, when Ben Read broke the tape at 16.1, to win the 120-yard high hurdles. A clean sweep in the pole vault, which Ed Gouinlock, Ted Ferry, and Steele Taylor easily won at 10 ft., 6 in., Gordie Smith's victory in the 660 and Bill Barney's win in the 440, plus many seconds and thirds, put Williams in position to win the tilt if its entrants in the field events were up to past performances.

However, both Bill Blanks and Marty Detmer were having an off-day, and the Cardinals collected first and second in the hammer throw, first and third in the shot put, and first and second in the See WESLEYAN, page 5

Coach Coombs' Athletic Skill Outstanding

(This is the third in a series of articles on Williams Athletic Coaches.)

by Fred Wiseman

Reminiscing about his baseball career Bobby Coombs said that one of the things that a pitcher remembers most is not his won and lost record, but his batting average, for every hit is fondly remembered. As an example of his own hitting prowess he points to the time that he led the American League in batting, his two for five ranking him as one of the few men in baseball ever to hit the charmed 400.

Coach Coombs' athletic career in organized competition goes back to his days in Kennebunkport High School not far from his home town of Goodwin Mills, Maine. At Kennebunkport Bobby played Varsity football, basketball and baseball for four years captaining the baseball team for three, and the football team in his senior year.

All American

After graduating from Kennebunkport he continued his education at Exeter Academy where his outstanding athletic ability made him a mainstay of the football team for three years, and the baseball team for four. He again captained the gridmen in his senior year, and led the ball team for three seasons. In addition he found time to run on the winter relay team, and after baseball practice managed to take a few laps with the track team, which apparently were all he needed to win the 440 in the Andover meet, although Bobby claims he "ran the last forty yards on his belly."

Leaving Exeter Bobby went on to Duke University where his athletic prowess, so outstandingly proven in high and prep school, brought him further glory. After playing freshman football, basketball, baseball and track Bobby concentrated on baseball and basketball in his remaining years at college. He compiled a 19-2 in record, and led the league with three years of varsity pitching and

In those years was named to the All-American baseball team as well.

Joined Athletics

In his sophomore year at Duke he married, and the following year, 1931, his son was born.

After graduation in 1933 Bobby joined the Athletics and served as a relief pitcher in 23 games, being credited with no wins and one defeat. Like Lefty Joe Page of Yankee fame Bobby was "trouble shooter" stopping those big enemy rallies.

With Giants

Due to some deal that Connie Mack had cooking with another club Bobby was sent to Syracuse at the start of the '34 season on 24 hour option. In the course of the next few years he pitched for Birmingham, St. Paul, Shreveport and Jersey City while compiling an overall record of 108 wins and 96 defeats.

When Bobby had 19-11 record while pitching for Shreveport in the '40 season both the St. Louis Browns and on the recommendation of Roger Hornsby the Cleveland Indians tried to land him, but Jersey City had already drafted him for the '41 campaign. After completing a great year for Jersey City in '42 in which he had a 17-9 record, and led the league with an Earned Run average of 1.99,

'51 Tennis Squad Meets Kent Here

The Williams freshman Tennis team meets Kent school this afternoon on the Sage Hall courts. Kent is an unknown quantity and they will be forced to exhibit unexpected power if they contemplate a victory, for the Williams yearlings are fresh from a 9-0 win over Hotchkiss last week.

Javelin, while Blanks gained Williams only first by taking the discus at 128 ft., 10 in.

The individual star in the meet was Wesleyan's Bill Brooks, who ran off with the 100-yard dash in 0.9 sec., and the 220 in 22.4. However, Barney of Williams edged him out for scoring honors, with his win in the 440 and second places in both the 100 and 220.

the Giants called him up for the '43 season. Staying with the Giants for half the season he was optioned to Jersey City in July and finished up the year with a 10-8 record for the "Little Giants."

Appointed Wms. Coach

If Uncle Sam had not called he would have been with the Giants for the '44 season, but instead he went to the Physical Instructors school at Bainbridge where he had a record of 13-2 for the crackerjack station team, which played most of its games against major league opposition. After leaving this base Bobby was shipped out to Hawaii where he met Dale Burnett and the two became firm friends.

When he was discharged from the service on Nov. 2, 1945 Bobby decided that his best days of professional ball were behind him, and he began to look around for a coaching position. He heard of the Williams opening from an Exeter classmate who was also a Williams alumnus, applied for the job, and was appointed varsity baseball, freshman football and basketball coach in March 1946.

Instills Spirit in Team

His first season at Williams was spent in rebuilding the team after the wartime lapse. Last season the Ephmen won three out of four in Little Three competition only dropping a fourteen inning decision to Amherst, after having beaten them eight to seven in a previous encounter, thus making them co-Little Three champs.

This year everyone is rooting for Bobby to come home with the undisputed Little Three title. The chances are promising if the team continues to show the fine, aggressive, hustling, never say die spirit, which it revealed in stopping Holy Cross's win streak at fourteen. This kind of spirit is only natural in a Coombs coached team, as those who played on his undefeated freshman football and basketball teams will readily testify.

Yachters Sail In MIT Race

Seventeen Colleges To Enter Sunday Event

Racing on the waters of the Charles River at MIT tomorrow afternoon, the Williams Yacht Club will compete against sixteen other colleges in the annual Consolation Race.

Two weeks ago Williams became eligible for this race when, along with Harvard, Rhode Island, and Dartmouth, the Yacht Club was eliminated at Brown from the race for New England Championship to be held this week-end at Coast Guard. As the Consolation Race will not count in the final IYRA standings, it will be a free-for-all for most of the New England college yacht clubs not participating in the championship races.

Two crews are being sent to MIT by the Yacht Club. One Williams boat will be sailed by Bill Wesson and Bob Van Tubergen and the other by Tom Costikyan and Len Jacob.

Finishing a schedule of nine regattas, the Williams Yacht Club will sail in three more races this year. On May 15 Williams will race against Army on the Hudson River, and another dual meet is scheduled with Yale on the following week-end. The final race of the season will be the Freshman Octagonal at Brown on May 23 when Williams will sail against Brown, Dartmouth, Bowdoin, Wesleyan, Amherst, Middlebury, and Colby.

D Phis Lead Fraternity Bowling

Next week the interfraternity bowling league rolls into its final two rounds before the end of the term. The Delta Phi kegglers with an impressive 22 and 2 record are currently leading the league, although they should receive tough opposition from the Phi Gammas and the Phi Sigs.

Club Second

The Club, second with 18 and 6, lost their chance in several close matches. They dropped a point to the Phi Sigs by one pin, and lost a split with the league-leaders by only two pins. Owing to a late start, many matches have not been played and it is hoped that next term, there will be time enough to admit all sixteen units into the league, and also to schedule a challenge match with Amherst.

Elben Hits 622

Unless some remarkable bowling is done soon, the cup to be donated by proprietor Jerry Reid for the high triple will go to Saint, Bill Elben, for his 622. Ted Holsten of the D Phis leads all competition for the high single with a 233. Both high team game honors and high match will probably go to the D Phis with their 954 and 2633 respectively.

Opponents Boast One Win, Two Loses This Year; Purple Favored

Houseparty men and their dates will have a chance to see the Williams lacrosse team in action this afternoon, when it tangles with MIT on Cole Field at 2 p. m. The Purple will be in quest of its eighth win in ten starts.

MIT has accomplished nothing phenomenal in the lacrosse world this spring, capturing one win and suffering two losses. Their victim was Springfield, and the score was a not-too-strong 8-4. Williams took the measure of the Springfield team, 18-10, in a game which could have been more uneven, had not Coach Whoop Snively cleared the bench and substituted twenty-five men.

Two Drubbings

Only last Saturday RPI drubbed the Engineers, 14-1, and a couple of weeks back Dartmouth applied the shellacking brush, 21-2. MIT lost to the Boston Lacrosse Club, 4-3, in a practice game, and played Harvard in another practice clash.

Williams went south on a spring trip, played five games, and emerged winner four times. Lehigh, Rutgers, Stevens, and Westchester were conquered, but the Purple bowed to Princeton. In the regular season, Williams has beaten Harvard, Springfield, and Tufts, losing to Dartmouth.

Purple Lines Up

At the opening whistle the Williams line-up will be the same as it has been throughout the season. Co-captains Ed Maynard and Pat Graney, and Dick Meryman comprise the sloc attack; Art Lewis, Dick Whitney, and Phil Van Dusen are at midfield; Howie Simpson, Bob Donoho, and Marc Reynolds are the defensemen, and Mickey O'Connell is the goalie. The second midfield of "Buz" Brumbaugh, "Tolly" Taliaferro, and Polger Oudin should see plenty of service.

Freshmen Baseball Plays Away Today

The freshman baseball team will be looking for its third straight win of the season today, journeying to Deerfield Academy to meet the prep school's nine in its first away game. The frosh diamonders have handily trimmed Kent, 7-2, and Hotchkiss, 4-0, in their previous contests.

Same Team

Coach Dale Burnett plans to start pretty much the same team which opened the Hotchkiss game last week, with Manning at first, Ernie Mierzejewski at third, and Pete Fisher, Shay Lynch, and Bob Huston in the outfield. Chuck Hoffer has been moved over to second base to replace the sick Len Jacob, with Bob Jordan taking over the shortstop duties.

Zeller Behind Plate

Fritz Zeller will again be behind the bat for the Williams nine, and the pitching assignment will go to either big Harry "Squid" Sheehy, who twirled an impressive one-hitter against Hotchkiss, or Bob Olsson, who pitched creditable ball in the Kent game. Deerfield will probably counter with their ace moundsman Don Casagrande, author of a no-hitter and a two-hitter this year.

one. MacLeod shot the finest golf of the day, a 75, in beating Bates three and two. Corky fired fours on the first ten holes, and practically sealed Army's fate by canning a thirty foot birdie putt on the sixteenth green.

and an obscure professor. Some of the houses and their decorations are Alpha Delta, which is clad to resemble a side-show burly and Chi Psi which represents a midway, with shooting galleries, penny arcades and live barkers (the later whenever house members feel the urge).

More Beer

The Beta house has a slightly radical conception of Carnival theme, and is decorated as a beer garden with green checked table cloths, swinging doors and beer kegs strewn around the yard. A "beer running" contest will be held in which twenty members and their dates line up behind beer kegs, ten couples at each keg. They then run back and forth downing a stein of beer each time they arrive at a keg.

"Phinney's Rainbow" heads the list of this evening's activities with its fifth and final performance. After the show parties in the individual houses will be in full swing, and won't blow out until Sunday morning, when the next scheduled activity, a polo game with Harvard at Pittsfield, takes place.

Bromo

Aside from the polo match and a few bromo parties, Sunday will be spent in trying to reminisce about the past two days. A few diehards will attempt to squeeze the last drops of punch from the purple cow, and some of the girls will stay on to cut chapel with their dates.

But by Sunday morning students will have returned to thinking about studying, the cow will be turned out to pasture until next November, and Eph Williams' skeleton will have removed the plugs from his ears in his sepulcher under the TMC.

seen in the hospital waiting room, mentally enrolling his own son at the age of five minutes.

Turning the cover to "Ruminations," we have a repetitious one-pager about "Phinney's Rainbow" telling what a wonderful guy associate editor Stephen Sondheim is. We will wait to pass judgment until we have seen his "educational" production at the AMT.

In "Quick on the Uptake" Norden Van Horne wrestles rather unsuccessfully with the ever-popular Cow theme of the young row who spends the evening plotting some minor social bombshell. This time it is a first kiss. The hero breaks down at the last moment, but the reader has been amply prepared by Van Horne, who breaks down three pages earlier.

"Jimmy" is a noble, if rather short, stream-of-consciousness attempt by Joseph E. Dewey which falls short of the mark. Further development in a less objective vein would have made it more appealing.

The collected college humor is up to its usual standards, highlighted by an anthology of Girls' Dresses jokes culled from all over under the heading "How to be a Humorist." An anthology of house-party comments "According to the Masters" is funny enough to have been stolen from "The Tale Record" along with "What's the Point?"

Foggy Freshman Takes Date To Salty Carnival, His First

There is something about a sailor making his first liberty after matriculation from boot camp which is not unlike our hypothetical hero, Joe Frosh, when he drags a doll to his first house-party at Williams.

This houseparty, subdubbed euphemistically the "Spring Carnival," will have a formal dance theme of salty nauticality, and this theme should form an appropriate background for our gob-like Joe. For nautically speaking, Joe is in deep water from his first scan at the heaving horizon of lovely pulchries until the last "bon voyage" Sunday night.

Makes Big Cho ice

Joe's first tack is taken up choosing between the two main types of women available to him, namely the undesirable and the less undesirable. There is also a third type, which is blind—the same as casting one's sheets to the wind, when like as not an ill breeze brews.

But he really begins to sink when his chosen date writes giving strict directions to stock up on liquid refreshments in preparation for the week-end. He is befogged, for never in his prep or high school career was he led to believe that girls drink. Nevertheless he grossly misinterprets the object of houseparty week-end by seeking to please his date. He takes the advice of his JA and imports a case of Haig and Haig.

Ultimately the big moment arrives. His date pokes over the horizon, steams up the river and ties up to the case of Scotch and the JA like the Queen Mary to pier 53.

J. A. Good Buy

Luckily for Joe, his JA is magnanimous and spurns the prospect of being swamped by this Tug-Boat Fanny from Skidwash J. C. Messrs. Haig and Haig are not so magnanimous, however, and Joe spends the rest of the week-end woefully watching Fanny's scuppers overflow.

Joe's mistake is taking Fanny to the formal dance the first night of the week-end. With Haig and Haig tucked under both arms, she is needless to say the cause of some attraction.

Intimating to her curious dancing partners that "there's a lot more where this came from," she evades the hapless Joe, and like the pie-eyed piper, leads a thirst troop of A. A. fugitives to her date's Scotch.

Fanny Poops Out

Returning to his room, Joe finds Fanny's new pals draped over two dozen empty Scotch bottles, and Fanny herself asleep in the empty case. After rolling out the unwelcome guests and pouring Fanny back to her room at the "Creeping Pillows," where she is spending the night, he wakens the J. A. for an early morning conference.

But the J. A. suggests the purchase of another case of Scotch, which is carried out the following day. The events of the night before are, of course, repeated on the next night. Poor Joe Frosh gives up college girls but for good, without quite dispelling the afterthought, that it was a "helm of a good week-end."

INTERVIEWS

Job interviewers representing a New York merchandising firm and the Bell Telephone System will be at Williams Tuesday and Wednesday to recruit June graduates for positions with their respective companies.

Tuesday, George Skinner, Staff Assistant of the Personnel Department for Filene's, Boston, is seeking talent for store management, merchandising, and publicity and control work.

Wednesday, Horace Davis of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and two representatives from the New England T & T. Co. will seek students with leadership and administrative personalities for on-the-job training. Such training will lead to supervisory positions in revenue, disbursement accounting, statistical, and payroll work.

Literature on Filene's and the Bell System is on file at the Placement Bureau.

1942, the six charter members, headed by Hank Flynt, who owns the 1895-vintage machine, rode the miniature centipede around the campus all week-end to conserve gasoline and rubber.

Flynt and five new riders celebrated the bike's fifth anniversary last spring by riding it from Greenfield to Northampton, where they further celebrated with beer and a coed softball game. Williams men and dates got a look at the contraption in action during last spring houseparty when the group beerily maneuvered it around the track at the baseball game.

Mrs. Baxter Affiliated

The original riders are the charter members of the Berkshire County Wheelmen. The present team are regular members and those who drive the cars so necessary to the riders' welfare and morale are assistant members.

Mrs. J. Phinney Baxter 3rd is the only honorary member of this exclusive society. Last summer she gave a party for the Wheelmen and presented them with membership cards.

ends on the allegorical note that sex, like Phinney's Rainbow, is many-hued.

Mme. Whortle On Stage

The highpoint of the evening is the Q-Ladies' scene in Act II. Horton's Mme. Whortle, the gal who has become almost as familiar with Record readers as their very own P-Ladies, has sprung to life in all of her Pistolian glory. Ted Farrow, playing Daphne, the bath-tubbing-leader of the Q-Lady quartet steals the show with his wonderful mugging and chattering. He also manages to double as one of the bookish faction of Dogma Nu.

Martin Luthy turns in the best singing performance of the show with his solo of the title tune. Luthy plays the part of a fugitive from a Max Schulman communist cell by the name of Olga Smolenak, who, with sidekick Salome Schmerr (Elton Williams), injects the proper revolutionary spirit into the Swindlehurst revolt.

John Loves Yolanda

Bernie Felch and George Cherry fill in with the John loves Yolanda interest. Both sing well, but, unfortunately, the songs were not always properly tailored for their voices.

Back Roll gives a lofty portrayal of the Alumn who changes from the "um, a" to the "us, i" column in the course of the evening. Chuck Jarrett, Wally Olesen, Andy Heinemann, Don Rackerby, Ted Lohrke, Pete Nielsen, Charles Hollerith, Bill Windle, and Mike Robbins contribute notable supporting parts.

Music Is "Amazing"

Steve Sondheim, with help on the lyrics from Joe Horton, has done an amazing job on the music for "Rainbow." There are over twenty musical numbers. Two of the outstanding songs, "Phinney's Rainbow" and "How Do I Know," and "Still Got My Heart" have been published by Broadcast Music, Inc. (BMI).

Sondheim and Horton; Dave Bryant and Mike Casey, who did the directing; Jim McClements, Bill Leitzinger, Gerry O'Brien, Sheldon Ripley, Dick Marble, Pete Candler, Dick Williams, Ed Noyes, and the production and business crews; and the large cast have done a terrific job.

It has been argued that singing songs is not the way to achieve that elusive quality known as "school spirit," but "Phinney's Rainbow" has demonstrated that it damn sure helps.

Formal Dance, Saint Party Highlight H P

by John Shepardson

Rolling and the threat of a rain storm failed to dampen house party spirits last weekend as the Spring Carnival drew to a close Saturday night. Highlighting the festivities were the Friday formal and the observance of several house traditions Saturday at Saint Anthony Hall.

Following the Friday evening dance a round of applause and a doff of the collective hat are due the members of the Yacht Club, Lee Castle's Orchestra, the Radio Clubmen and the Williams Octet.

Backstage Men Praised

Both Yacht Club Commodore Wally Davis '50 and Houseparty Chairman Barry Benepe '50 emphasized the tireless efforts of the backstage men: Dave Barker '50, Finance; Bill Pinkham '51, Floor Committee; Pete Debevoise '51, publicity; Ronnie Molr '51, Pete Moore '51, and Tom Costikyan '51, mens. John Forster '50 and Phelps Edwards '51, Refreshments; Wyatt Uhleime '50, Invitations, and Gus Clarey '51, coat checks.

For the nearly 500 couples attending the dance, the biggest and most pleasant surprise was the music of the Radiomen, whose rhythmic harmonies evoked many inquiries of where they would be playing in the future.

Scotch To Dekes

The half case of scotch awarded at intermission went to the Dekes, who polled the highest per capita purchase of dance tickets. The traditional keg of beer for the most appropriate and original carnival decorations was awarded by judges Cal King and Al Trudell Saturday morning to Sigma Phi.

The Sigs' prize winning decoration was a cage on the porch roof containing cardboard giraffes, lions, monkeys, and other animals. Inside the house was a mural portraying various carnival personalities.

Customs Observed

Before an informal gathering of friends, members and dates Saturday, the observance of several hallowed traditions of Saint Anthony Hall brought the weekend to a high climax.

First and most hallowed of these was the Charge of Suribachi, held Saturday afternoon. The charge began as an innocent maypole dance but did not reach its high point until several members had removed the pole from the ground and charged through the crowd with it.

Tree Top Toppers Imbibe

Another custom, observed by a few members in the evening, consisted of drinking milk punch in the trees until arrival of the fire department enabled them to be carried down, scratching and yowling, at an early morning hour.

Unofficial prize for the most confused victim of the Carnival goes to the student who temporarily excused himself from his date Saturday night and went back to his room for a package of cigarettes. He sat down on his bed to tie his shoe, but fails to remember what happened afterwards.

The next thing he saw was the Sunday morning sun streaming through his window and still is wondering how his date returned to where she was staying for the night.

Sophs Victor Students Give Three Plays

A rope that broke three times and a post-pull battle royal in the Hoosie River highlighted the re-establishment of the traditional Freshman-Sophomore tug-of-war held at noon Saturday.

After the rope had broken for the third time, and neither class had succeeded in pulling the other in the river, although the Sophomores seemed to be winning on the last pull, the two classes ended the battle with a scrimmage in the icy waters of the Hoosie River, much to the enjoyment of onlooking houseparty dates and upperclassmen.

Freshmen Wade

The freshmen were given added incentive to defeat the Sophomores when they found that their rivals who had planned the event, had failed to provide means for them to get to the other side of the stream. After the freshmen had waded across, the tug-of-war was officially started by UC president Henry Strong '49. The rope, however, was not up to the enthusiasm and strength of the two classes, and broke three times, thus leaving the battle undecided.

After the third try, one freshman decided to return to the south bank of the river, but only succeeded in getting thoroughly ducked by the Sophomores. Other freshmen retaliated, and the mid-stream battle was on.

Chapin Library Marks 25th Year With Special Exhibit

The Chapin Library of Rare Books celebrates its twenty-fifth anniversary this month with a special exhibit "Shakespeare and his Age." This exhibit emphasizes the early editions of Shakespeare's plays, the sources which he drew upon for his plots, and the influences which affected the form and structure of his work.

A considerable portion of the exhibit is of wide general interest, being devoted to books published during Shakespeare's lifetime which illustrate the various social and cultural interests of the Elizabethans.

The display, which includes more than fifty books, will continue until June 4, and is open 9-12 a. m., and 2-4 p. m., Monday through Friday, and 9-12 a. m. on Saturday.

First Folio Featured

The exhibit features the famous First Folio, in which Shakespeare's plays were first published collectively in 1623, seven years after his death, and which has been called the "most important single work written in the English language." In addition to its great rarity, particular local interest is attached to the Chapin copy of the First Folio because of its dramatic theft and recovery eight months

To Present One-Acts At AMT Thursday

Three student directed one act plays, "Triumph Of The Egg" by Sherwood Anderson, "Hello Out There" by William Saroyan and "Augustus Does His Bit" by George Bernard Shaw will be presented by drama students Thursday night at 8.15 p. m. in the AMT.

The Anderson play, directed by Scott Wells, stars Betty Ann Dissell and Richard Verney '50. The play is concerned with a man's desire for self glory and is set in a mid-western lunch room.

"Hello Out There" is the story of a man in prison for rape about to be lynched by a mob. It is directed by Don McComb and stars John Lasell '50 and Bennington's Virginia Barnett.

Shaw's "Augustus Does His Bit" stars Helen Kelly and Lloyd Tweedy '49, and is directed by Adams, Stovall '50. The play is a satire directed at the efforts of the British War Ministry and English nobility during the first World War.

According to Dominick J. Dunne '49, production manager, the plays are being staged to give all Drama 2 students an insight into jobs with which they have had no previous experience. The one acts will be presented free of charge.

later in 1940. Three later Folios are also on display, together with early editions of Shakespeare's poems and individual plays.

Various plays by Shakespeare's predecessors which influenced his dramatic style and structure are exhibited, as are a number of books, in the original editions, read by Shakespeare, including the famous Geneva or Breeches Bible. Other aspects of Elizabethan life are well illustrated by works on such topics as falconry, duelling, pageantry, and manners and behavior, and other books reveal the educational and cultural standards of the period.

Presented in 1922

The Chapin Library, which includes more than 12,000 rare volumes, was presented to Williams in 1922 by the late Alfred Clark Chapin of the Class of 1869, and covers a wider variety of subject matter than any similar library of its size. Mr. Chapin, a trustee of the College for eighteen years, felt that a collection of rare books representing the various fields of knowledge was a proper and necessary part of a liberal arts education, and in 1915 started collecting such books with the express purpose of founding the library

Changes Made In Conference

Braniff, Hazlitt Unable To Attend Meetings

Last minute changes in the line-up for the Sixth Annual Spring Conference announced by Student Chairman Rhett Austell '48 disclosed that Henry Hazlitt, Newsweek economist, and Thomas E. Braniff of Braniff Airways will not attend the conference. Replacing these notables will be John W. Haynes, former Undersecretary of the Treasury and at present a member of the Hoover Committee for the reorganization of the executive branch of the government, and Amos J. Peaslee, a lawyer in the famous Black Tom case.

Haynes will speak on the first panel while it is undecided which panel Peaslee will attend. A further change in the agenda finds Elmo Roper, public opinion analyst, moved from the Sunday panel to the Saturday evening meeting.

Dean Robert R. R. Brooks will open the Conference this Friday with a keynote speech on the Conference Theme: "The Challenge to American Politics: 1948 And Beyond." On the Friday agenda with Dean Brooks will be Frank W. Abrams of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey).

Revised Poll On Discrimination

Beer Drinkers Present Problem At Ball Park

The announcement that a revised campus opinion poll on discrimination in the fraternities was ready for distribution and a discussion of beer drinking at baseball games highlighted the Monday evening meeting of the Undergraduate Council, May 3rd.

Completing the agenda were a UC membership discussion, the announcement of delegates to the NSA summer conference, and a request for council approval of a new plan for choosing cheerleaders.

Robert A. Rupen '48 chairman of the committee on Undergraduate Social Relations, reported that the poll on the feelings of the college towards fraternities and discrimination in general was ready for distribution. Unlike the last poll taken, Rupen said, this will not be given to every man in college. A selective system will be employed and every eighth man on the college list will be contacted. Rupen said that the results will be made public.

Harry Strong '49, UC president, brought up the subject of the organization of the Discipline Committee, which he felt needed more continuity from year to year. As it stands, the members are usually seniors and a completely new committee is formed each year.

It was decided that one of the two Junior Advisor officers who are now members of the committee would be chosen as a member for his senior year.

Jobs Overlap

Dudley Brown '49 asked the UC about the possibility of going outside of the Council for members of various committees. He said there is a great deal of overlapping of jobs in the UC at the present time. Dean Robert R. R. Brooks said, "The founding fathers of the Undergraduate Constitution intended it to be interpreted that non-UC men might be on committees. Their idea was to spread the task

Lerner Praises College Stand

Alumni, Baxter Record Noted

The Record and President J. Phinney Baxter 3rd were praised last week for their stand on academic freedom in an editorial in PM, liberal New York newspaper.

The editorial, written by Max Lerner, former professor of political science here, was entitled "The Professor as Political Eunuch." Lerner states that although he was not in sympathy with Henry Wallace and the party which he heads, he was distressed by the action of colleges which have censured professors for their activities in the Wallace "movement."

"And College Professors"

Explaining his title, Lerner wrote:

"H. L. Mencken once insisted that there are three sexes: male, female, and college professors. If some of the people who throw their weight around in the control of American colleges have their way, this will turn out to be true—at least politically. Judging from some of the recent episodes in the campaign of repression being waged against Wallace supporters on college faculties, the kind of a professor some of the college moguls want is a political eunuch."

He cited the cases of Dr. George Parker, professor of Bible and Philosophy at Evansville College, in Indiana, who was fired after he presided at a Wallace meeting in Evansville; and Prof. Curtis McDougall, of Northwestern University, who withdrew his candidacy for U. S. Senator after pressure from university authorities.

Schuman's Review

Next Lerner mentioned the recent alumni flare-up over Prof. Frederick L. Schuman's review of James Byrne's book, "Speaking Frankly." He praised the stand of President Baxter and The Record.

"These three episodes—of a professor fired, a professor who has been compelled to withdraw from a campaign, and a professor under intensive alumni attack, all because of their activity in the Wallace campaign—could probably be matched by dozens of other cases that do not reach the newspapers.

"They show up much of the hypocrisy of what is supposed to be the system of free higher education in the United States. One of the arguments always given against state control of colleges and universities is that it will mean political control, and largely that is true. But it comes as a weak argument from colleges and trustees and alumni bodies that are already exercising political control over their faculties.

"This is an issue that reaches far beyond the question of the Wallace campaign and its wrongness or rightness. I have my differences of opinion from the professors I have named, and I have had my quarrels with them. But the trouble with our colleges is not that there are professors for Wallace, but that the whole atmosphere is so tense and tight that very few of them dare to speak out their convictions. They know that if they do, they will in one way or another be victimized.

Freedom of Ideas

"American colleges are supposed to represent a competition of ideas. How can you teach students when one strain of political thinking is snuffed out on the campus whenever it appears? American teachers are supposed to teach social reality. How can you expect them to teach it when you frighten them

LeSage Drives Winning Runs Across In 8th

by Steve Blaschke

The first leg of the Little Three Crown is ours. The Purple had to overcome a one-run deficiency but Chuck Schmidt's single in the sixth, Don LeSage's tie-breaking single in the eighth plus George Ditmar's masterful six hit pitching combined to give the Ephmen a 4-2 victory over Wesleyan before a "soaked" house-party crowd at Weston Field Saturday.

The Cardinal lead-off man got a bloop double to start proceedings but this went for naught as LeSage caught him off base on the throw-in from Schmidt. When the next batter followed with a line single, Ditmar rared back and some nine pitches later the side was retired via the strike-out route. The Ephmen took the lead in the lower half of the first without benefit of a hit as southpaw Cliff Bull threw eleven balls before finding the strike zone. After Bull loaded the bases in this fashion Schmidt scampered home on Captain Young's long foul fly.

Wesleyan Takes Lead

Trouble came in the second when Oviatt led off with an infield single and advanced to second on Robertson's basehit. The scrappy Cardinal catcher then grounded to Young who pitched one over DeLisser's head in an attempted force at third and let in the first Wesleyan run. Bill's long fly to left scored the second run and put the Wesmen in the lead. Ditmar and Bull then hooked up in one of the tightest pitcher's duels seen at Williams in many a day as each pitcher allowed only two singles till the sixth. In fact, Ditmar pitched shutout ball for the last seven innings as only one man reached third while four were retired via the strike-out route.

Our half of the sixth turned out to be the crucial inning as DeLisser walked with one away, Mason popped up and Ditmar contributed to his own cause by lacing a single to center for his first basehit of the year. At this point Chuck Schmidt assumed the hero's mantle and tied up the ball game with a sharp line drive over second.

LeSage Singles

In the eighth the Coombsmen put on the finishing touches, again after the lead-off man had been retired. DeLisser laced a clothes-line single into center and Mason panicked the crowd by fouling out. However, Ditmar beat out a grounder for an infield hit and Bull walked Schmidt to fill the bases. It was at this point that LeSage, who had been playing a whale of a defensive game all afternoon, smashed a ground single past third to drive in the two deciding runs. This was all Ditmar needed and he disposed of three ninth inning pinchhitters with a strikeout, a pop-up and a routine ground ball.

The Coombsmen were not as fortunate at Trinity last Thursday where they came out on the short end of a 14-8 slugfest. Bob Ray started this ball game and was leading 5-3 when he left with two men on in the fourth. However, Whitey Kunkiewicz of football fame immediately blasted the first of his two homers off reliever Fred Lanes and the rout was on. Even George Owen's three-run homer in the eighth could not stem the tide as the Trinity maulers pounded Bob Johnston, Lanes and Ray Baldwin for seven hits and eleven runs. The Ephmen now

Lerner, Schuman, and Williams

Max Lerner, editor of the liberal New York tabloid PM, recently ground his axe about professors and political preferences. His editorial, which is otherwise extremely valid, presents the wrong aspect of the recent squabble at Williams over Professor Schuman. Lerner's editorial points out difficulties that certain professors have had because of political preference—specifically, Wallace backers. His statement of academic freedom is admirable. Connecting Wallace to Schuman as the reason for the attempted suppression of academic freedom here, however, is mistaken. The Record pointed this out to Mr. Lerner the night before the editorial was written.

To those who are still vague but interested in the facts, the Schuman squabble arose because of an article in the New York Sun by a certain George Sokolsky. It did not arise because of Schuman's participation in the Wallace campaign and if Sokolsky had not been so blatantly uninformed it would not have arisen at all.

Letters To The Editor

Suggests Gargoyles Tap Rupen

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

I write, in part, to vindicate the obvious. Assuming that principles which can't be applied are similar to opinions that don't get expressed, I must take issue with the younger Agger, who, in this column, has insisted that your criticism of the Rupen resignation was factually inaccurate. To the best of my knowledge you have received only three previous letters, two from Rupen supporters, and one from an alumnus. Apparently, then, the Campus is not taking the resignation seriously, and Rupen is. I have tried to decide why, and the following brochure contains my answer.

I think there are two major reasons why this business is not being taken seriously:

The first one is the attitude of the Gargoyle Society itself. By separating himself from it in this fashion Rupen has asked to be disregarded as a person. Consequently I can sympathize with Gargoyle, since their silence manifests only a determination not to dignify Rupen's actions with a reply which they are in no way obliged to give.

The reason for the general silence, however, is considerably more portentous. That the campus at large is ignoring the entire episode speaks ill for us all. Rupen's resignation, and the silence which has attended it, are symptoms of a general moral confusion and moral inertia which no thoughtful person can view with equanimity. Until this episode is properly understood, all efforts to improve "school spirit" are doomed to be sophomoric failures. Until we have collectively recognized that morale is a function of morality—and not of bottled or festooned gaiety—school spirit will remain an elusive will-o-the-wisp. And I say this without intending to make a grim terror out of that odious, or at least mysterious, word—morality.

In its simplest and truest form, a moral issue is involved in any question of a man's relation with his fellow men. What we look for in these relationships is something more than intellectual attainment—since this can and does vary in every individual. Merely being smart, or "right" in an abstract sense, has never purchased affection or loyalty. Furthermore, without some outward display of a man's capacity for loyalty to other men, he will never be able to arouse the motive power of personal feeling, which, in the end, is the power that gets things done.

This means that every organized body of men must make some specific emotional claim on its members, in other words, exact some earnest of that good faith without which a difference of opinion is meaningless. From an individual point of view this means that a man, to be effective, must give tangible evidence of his willingness to identify his own good name with that of the group he joins. It is upon this principle that oaths and initiation ceremonies are based, and it is for this reason that such deeds can never be permitted to be taken lightly. If to take such an oath or to go through such a ceremony requires some mortification of an individual's intellectual pride, a society is perfectly justified in exacting the sacrifice. In doing so it is not requiring of good faith, for a display, if you will, of the kind of moral courage of god faith, for a display, if you will, of the kind of moral courage which permits a man to risk his destiny in company with other men. If a man is unwilling to run such a risk, if he goes through such a ceremony without ever committing himself, both emotionally and intellectually, then we are not at liberty to believe any criticism he may have to offer with regard to the accomplishment or purposes of the group he has joined. Consequently when a man takes an oath, however inept the form in which that oath is couched, he is not merely affirming some weird, mystical gobbledygook; he is announcing his membership in a given community of men and his willingness to stand or fall with that group. Without this affirmation there could be no community; without community there can be no communication; and the man who repudiates the foundation principles of community is asking to be left to a world of his own fancies. He has no right to demand any form of recognition or allegiance, and for the very simple reason that he has himself refused to give any.

With these general principles in mind, then, let us look more closely at their application in the matter of Rupen's resignation from Gargoyle. I have heard his published explanations criticized as everything from stupid to meaningless. I hope that both of these epithets are correct, for I trust that no man really enjoys making his neighbors uncomfortable, and I can assure you that I do not cherish such an undertaking. Stupidity is forgivable. Bad faith is not.

Yet if we are to take Rupen at his published word, he is guilty of bad faith from beginning to end: first, in the manner of his entry into Gargoyle Society, and last in his use of this page as a vehicle of personal criticism directed not only at Gargoyle, but at this community whose values he has begun by repudiating.

The organization charged with responsibility for these values is the Gargoyle Society. Its purposes are and always have been public knowledge. Membership in it is not a prerequisite to understanding either its purpose or its function. This is obvious from the very manner in which its members are selected. They are drawn from every valedictorian from beginning to end: first, in the manner of his entry into

RECORD, the president of the U. C. and the outstanding athlete have in common is not their ideas or their opinions, but a sincere feeling for Williams College, or at least a willingness to pay for the honors they have gained here by a contribution of service. Only on such terms can they be trusted to work for its "best interests" or for its "moral, intellectual, physical and social growth." They are not men picked at random from names in a hat; but rather men who have already demonstrated their capacities for effective action along these lines. They bear the stamp of approval of the whole college, since it is WE—you and I—who have raised them to those posts of public responsibility from which Gargoyles are selected.

Furthermore, Gargoyle membership is the highest honor within the capacity of this community to bestow; and it is so, not for any reason of sentiment, but because WE have cut the honor to fit the responsibility. Because this honor is strictly incidental we disapprove of the "Gargoyle-compet," and for the same reason the activities of each Gargoyle class are kept anonymous. The work, not the glory, is what counts. Beyond this, and even more important, we show our respect for these men, both as individuals and as a group, by not demanding fresh demonstrations of their loyalty or their ability. This principle of anonymity is the life blood of Gargoyle, and has its moral basis in the same principle which motivates the Honor System. This moral principle is not subject to an abstract, rational justification because it is only a pure assumption, a myth. For no good REASON at all, and at our genuine peril, we begin by assuming that we can trust one another. Thus the principle which holds our whole community together is simply the Myth of Good Faith. To my knowledge no one has yet suggested that this principle, this myth, be abandoned. At Williams this is what we live for; it is the basis of our self-respect and of our personal integrity. Consequently we cannot permit the principle of anonymity, embodied in the Gargoyle Society, to be trepassed against.

What then are we to think of a man who openly treats Gargoyle as an object of his own curiosity, who accepts membership not in good faith but in order to make a personal experiment aimed at exposing his fellow members? And how can we possibly believe his conclusions when the experiment, to be conclusive, requires a loyalty which manifestly never was given. Even if he admits that he "had deluded" himself, what right has he now to express these conclusions? What did he intend to gain by a public confession of perjury?

Clearly we cannot believe that this so-called confession has any public purpose. To expect us to believe it is an insult to our intelligence. Since when, for example, has heresy been self-proclaimed? Does Rupen say this because he knows no better or because he thinks we won't? Is he just playing with words? Expulsion, death, excommunication, jail, the stake—these are the true stamps of heresy. And those who have paid such a price for their beliefs—Bruno, Trotsky, Martin Luther, Anne Hutchinson, Galileo—all went to the end convinced that they were NOT heretics. A crown of thorns and the scourge of martyrdom are gifts which only Society can bestow. Thus when Rupen uses the word heretic to describe himself, he cannot expect us to view his behavior as a manifestation of good faith. If indeed he were a heretic, the brand would have been placed upon him by his fellow Gargoyles. How can we believe, then, that his own efforts within the Gargoyle Society were in any way sincere? To begin with treachery and end with denunciation is hardly the mark of sincerity.

I have said before, and I say again, that I have no special taste for making my neighbors uncomfortable. But if the only reason for Rupen's resignation was a difference of opinion, his letter of resignation is not worth public consideration. Why, then, make it public? To resign from any group as a matter of policy (rather than of feeling) requires that some value, vital to the life of the community, has been called in question. Through his behavior, however, Rupen has given us no reason to feel that he really has the values of the community closest to heart. His attitude is more like that of a small boy who quits the game because he can't play according to his own rules. His resignation thus bears the full meaning of the word—that is, defeat.

But if this were the only meaning of his action, the community would be at liberty to take it lightly—to ignore it altogether. Unfortunately his own behavior is the best proof of his criticism that the criterion of leadership by which the Gargoyle Society selects its members is definitely out of focus. Rupen's history is not a story of leadership—which involves a willingness to work with people as well as to accept responsibility for their errors—but rather a history of dissociation. The IRC, the N.S.A., the U.C., and now Gargoyle have all been touched and then disdained by Mr. Rupen. He is, to judge by his actions, a divorcer rather than a leader.

There is another and even more important public lesson to be read from this event. Gargoyles get to be Gargoyles because of the honors previously bestowed upon them by the student body. We are therefore responsible for Gargoyle. We exercise a further control over it in so far as its policies must be carried out by men, through those channels of public action upon which we can—and do—bring our weight to bear. It is only because WE have ignored or forgotten, the elementary values which our traditions are intended to express that they have come to be so lightly treated. Rupen's error, then, is not his alone. If there is, as some claim, a large segment of the student body who support his action, then our whole outlook is in need of drastic revision. While he is still personally responsible for his actions, nonetheless we ought not to search too closely for the mote in his eye until we have removed the beam from our own.

In the near future the present Junior class will go to the fence, where its leading members will be tapped for Gargoyle. This ceremony as events have proved, is as serious and as important as any event in our college careers. When, last year, Rupen was tapped, he was tapped not simply because of the doubtful aspects of his record but because he had shown traces of ability, of imagination, and of a great deal of initiative. Gargoyle sought to give him a final chance to channel those energies toward the advancement of Williams College. In so doing they placed their faith in him. He has repudiated that faith; I think unjustifiably.

We should, however, be wreaking an excessive vengeance if he were refused an opportunity to affirm—this time unequivocally—his loyalty to Williams, not in spite of its faults but because of them. With institutions, as with men, limitations are the mark of humanity. Our limits, our imperfections, provide us with the opportunity to create. A man who is unwilling to accept an imperfect institution had better settle the matter, once for all, by resigning from the human race.

I do not believe—or will have to be shown—that Rupen is willing to deny the contributions which both Williams and Gargoyle have made to his career. Yet so long as he refuses his one opportunity to display his recognition of this contribution, he must stand condemned. Consequently I feel it would be fitting for Gargoyle to offer him readmission. Rupen, on the other hand, should be willing, publicly, to be readmitted, not for our sake, but for his own. This could be done most effectively when the new Gargoyle class is tapped. Gargoyle should devise a unique ceremony, a meaningful one, for Rupen alone. The whole ceremony should be witnessed, not in a cheap spirit of vindictiveness, nor one of hilarity, but solemnly, earnestly, as befits the Value—the Value of Good Faith—which this ceremony in part expresses. For the longer it is doctored upon as a mere formality, the quicker the value itself will lose its meaning.

The Williams polo team came through in the final chukkers to defeat the Harvard trio 9-7 on Crane Field last Sunday afternoon at Pittsfield.

Turning the tables from last week's up-set with Princeton, the Williams team, lined up with Gunther '50 at one, Hudson '50 at two, and Coste '48 playing back, displayed persistent hard riding and a man-to-man defense which tipped the balance of a four times tied score. In the final period Hudson, who was high scorer, replaced Gunther up front, Coste took two, and Pugh played back. This exchange was favorable for Hudson tallied two more quick goals which clinched the game.

Next week the team, having now hit its winning combination, will play host to Norwich University.

Undefeated Golf Team Whips Middlebury 5½-3½ Score

"We've passed the tough one—a Williams golf team might enjoy its first undefeated season," ventured coach Dick Baxter after his team had toppled the dangerous Middlebury squad 5½-3½ at Burlington on Thursday for its fourth straight victory.

The team continued to show good form and organization, and again four out of the sixman outfit were in the 70's. Jerry Cole was low for Williams with a one over par 72. Bob Boucher led Middlebury with a 74.

In the first foursome Bucky Marchese had one of his rare off days and lost to Rollo Boucher two and one when a back nine surge just fell short. Cole defeated Don Bates seven and six. Williams took the best-ball match five and three as Marchese and Cole shot combined 69.

In the second foursome Chuck

White's 78 earned him a five and four win over Bucky's brother, Jim Marchese. Dick Heuer bumped up against Bob Boucher's fine round and lost four and three. Middlebury grabbed best-ball two and one to make the score three-all.

But in a near repeat of the Army match, the last foursome was virtually swept by Williams. Whitney's 77 gained him a half with Ray Nihan and Corky MacLeod continued to assure the Purple of a point at the number six position by whipping Westlin six and five. Best-ball went to Williams five and four.

This Wednesday the squad will meet Siena away, and on Thursday will travel to Boston for the New England. On the day devoted to practice Williams and Dartmouth will replay their cancelled match.

Runners Bow To Jeff, 74-61 In Downpour

Ephs Sweep Shotput; Blanks, Barney Star

Amherst, in a meet held during a pouring rain on a water-drenched track, edged out Williams by a 74-61 score last Friday.

The Lord Jeffs held a small lead during most of the meet until the Planskymen pulled ahead by sweeping all three places in the shotput. Then Amherst took first and third places in the high jump and javelin, and followed this up by placing first and second in the broad jump and sweeping the hammer throw, to take the meet.

Barney, Blanks High

Bill Barney and Bill Blanks again led the scoring by taking eleven and ten points respectively. Barney placed third in the hundred and then came back with two first, running a 52.8 quarter and a 23.0 two-twenty on a very slow puddle-ridden track. Blanks took first in the shotput and discus.

Delany Runs

Other firsts were taken by Herb Chisholm in the two-mile, Gordy Smith in the half, and Ed Gouinlock and Ted Ferry, who finished in a three-way tie with the Amherst man for first in the pole-vault. In his first race of the year Ken Delany copped second in the mile. A twisted ankle has kept the distance star inactive.

The summaries:

RPI Favored In Track Tilt

This afternoon the Williams track team, with a record of one victory and three defeats, will attempt to upset a visiting RPI squad which is considerably stronger than the colleges that the Ephs have faced up to now.

The Trojans have been looking forward to the encounter with blood in their eyes, since they received their only setback in the last four years at the hands of the 1947 Purple tracksters. However, from all indications, the possibility that last year's dumping will be repeated are fairly remote.

The mainstay in the RPI lineup is their captain, John Bundschuh, who has fractured the RPI records in the 440, 220, and 100-yard dashes this year in times that are probably beyond the reach of Williams speedsters Bill Barney and Scotty Brooks. Furthermore, the Trojans boast two broad jumpers who can pass twenty feet, a duet that can vault to heights approaching twelve feet, and a pair of hurdlers who should be able to wrap up both the highs and the lows. Williams' Bill Blanks, Marty Detmer, and Tom Edwards are expected to lead the scoring in the field events.

Deerfield Tips Frosh Nine

Loose fielding nullified a fine pitching performance by Bob Olson and let the freshman baseball team present Deerfield Academy with a 5-2 victory Saturday afternoon in their first away game.

Olson went the route for the Williams nine, holding the prep school aggregation to four scattered hits and fanning seven men in the process, but his team-mates gave away five runs on half a dozen errors and misplays, and failed to make up the deficit against the left-handed offerings of Deerfield's ace twirler Tom Casagrande.

The freshmen took an early lead in the second inning when Ernie Mierzejewski reached on an error, stole second and went to third as the catcher's peg went astray, and scored on Casagrande's balk. The home team then evened it up in the fourth as two infield boots and a long fly ball let their first run in, but the top of the fifth saw Williams regain its lead when Bob Huston tripled to right and came home on the wild throw-in.

Coach Dale Burnett's ballhawks then fell completely apart in the bottom half of the inning. A dropped fly ball, two straight infield

Purple Spurts To 5-0 Lead In First Period Coasts To Victory

Off to a jack-rabbit start, the Williams lacrosse team flared into a 5-0 lead at the end of the first period, cooled off somewhat, but still coasted to an 11-9 victory over MIT on Cole Field Saturday afternoon.

Playing before a houseparty crowd which had taken to cars because of a cold drizzle and even more threatening weather, the Purple grabbed a lead which it never gave up, and never seriously allowed to be endangered. To down the Engineers Coach Whoops Snively used thirty-five men, only one less than twice the number of active opponents.

Only forty-nine seconds after the opening wheeze of the horn, Co-captain Ed Maynard faked and dodged his way around from behind the cage and slipped the first one by the bewildered goalie. For the next ten minutes Williams the period, the Purple team ignited a four-goal flame within two and a half minutes. Maynard dodged his way to the second goal, and nine seconds later, Howie Simpson, who was clearing the ball from his defense position, ran all the way down the field, and, boring in unchecked, scored on a long shot. Midfielder Ronnie Chute took a pass from attackman Dick Meryman and drilled in another long shot; Co-captain Pat Graney made it five by coming from behind the cage to score.

Action Cools Off

That was almost half the Williams scoring. The bleating of spectators' car horns which occurred after every Williams goal was to be heard only six times in the remaining forty-five minutes of play. Williams did not continue to play the game it had in the first quarter. Purple substitutes were plentiful, oftentimes six or more going in at once.

Messrs. Meryman and Taliaferro accounted for the other first-half scoring. In the third period it was Maynard again, "Tolly" Taliaferro notching his second, and "Frenchy" Oudin getting his first. In the fourth period Oudin scored on a medium long shot which was beautifully placed, just under the top pipe.

The Engineers scored five times in the fourth stanza, and although the lead was not really in danger, Snively put his first and second midfielders back in the game, just to make sure. Simpson at defense and Taliaferro at midfield both looked very good.

Eph Stickers Face Union Here Today

Team Seeks Revenge For Close 1947 Loss

This afternoon the Williams lacrosse team moves into the final phase of its schedule when it faces the Union Dutchmen at 4 p. m. on Cole Field. This, with the exception of the Alumni game on May 31, is to be the last home game of the season, the New Hampshire game being played away on May 22.

Coach Whoop Snively's men will be seeking revenge for last year's 5-4 decision at the hands of the Dutchmen. That game was played in Schenectady and was one of the two one-goal losses which the '47 team suffered. Harvard was the other team to turn the trick, and Williams beat them, 8-4, in its scheduled opener this year.

Union's Record Weak

Union's record this season has not been outstanding, but the Garnets are always likely to play over their heads when they tangle with a Williams team. Dartmouth trounced them, 15-2, Yale and Syracuse beat them by an identical score, 8-4, and Stevens tripped them, 6-4. The Dutchmen, however, did thrash Hamilton, 12-4.

The Williams lineup:

Clair Rublee '50, Cheerleader captain-elect, announced that the pre-war system of selecting cheerleaders would be put into effect. Cheerleaders used to be seniors, and were selected in the spring by the graduating leaders on the basis of competitive tryouts. Rublee said he hopes the position of cheerleaders will be reinstated as one of honor by having the UC approve selections made by the graduating members of the organization.

Henry M. Halsted '48, President of the Williams NSA, announced that Jim Finkle '50, Charles Miller '50, Peter Gutmann '49, and Harry Ess '50 have been nominated Williams representatives to the national NSA meeting at Madison, Wis. this summer.

Controlled Drinking

The UC felt that a separate section for beer drinkers at the baseball games would not be the best way of controlling drinking at Weston Field. Strong urged all social unit representatives to stress the point with their organizations that beer drinking at baseball games must be done in a gentlemanly manner.

LAST CHANCE TO WIN!

$1300 Cash Prizes! Get in!

Mollé "What do you say?" Contest!

Here is Set #10 of the Mollé "What do you say?" contest! It's the last of the series—but there is still time to enter—time to win!

Dig out the back issues of this newspaper. Fill in all ten sets of answer balloons. Mail them all in at once!

$500 to Grand Prize Winner! $50 each to winners at 16 different colleges! A cinch to win! Just fill in your answers in the balloon spaces indicated. Fill in name, address, college. Then mail. That's all there is to it! Here are some hints to help you with Balloon #10B: Mollé is brushless. Mollé is heavier... softens whiskers. Mollé is kind to tender skin, tames tough whiskers.

Mollé sets whiskers up straight so your razor can whack through 'em. With Mollé, you shave cleanly, quickly, smoothly, closely, more comfortably.

And now for #10. Fill 'em in! Mail 'em in!

What do you say when a gal says:

What do you say when a pal says:

O. K., fellows! This is the wind-up. Give it the gun!

CONTEST RULES...Mollé "What do you say?" Contest

1. Merely write, in the blank cartoon balloons above, your answers to the questions. Mail your entry to the address given elsewhere in this ad. Be sure to fill in your complete name and address in the space indicated.

2. Each contestant must be a registered male student of the college in whose paper this contest is published, and each contestant must complete in all ten sets of cartoons in order to be eligible for prizes. If you did not receive a copy of this newspaper, a reasonable facsimile of the cartoon or a written description of it will be accepted.

3. With Sets No. 3 and No. 8, the contestant must include a cartoon from a 25¢ or 50¢ tube—or from any size jar—of Mollé. Remember, only two cartoons (of any size) are required, but be sure you send one in with No. 3 and one in with No. 8 of the sets.

4. Only one entry will be accepted from each contestant in each set and all entries must be the original work of the contestants, submitted in their own names.

5. Entries will be judged by the Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation, an independent judging organization. All ten cartoons submitted by a single contestant will be considered as a unit in judging, and the judges' decisions will be based on the originality, aptness and interest of each set. First prize winners of $50 from each school will be eligible for the Grand Prize of $500.00 to be awarded to the best series of entries from all the schools. The decision of the judges is final and duplicate prizes will be awarded in case of ties.

6. All entries become the property of Sterling Drug Inc., and no entries will be returned.

7. All ten sets of answers must be mailed before May 14, 1948, final date of the contest. Entries with inadequate postage will not be accepted. Prize winners will be announced here the week of May 24.

Hall Appointed To New Post Of Alumni Fund

The president and trustees of the college announced at a meeting Saturday, the appointment of Charles B. Hall '15 to the newly created post of executive secretary of the Alumni Fund. Mr. Hall, who recently resigned as vice-president of the Bank of the Manhattan Company, will assist in the correlation of the regional alumni associations and direct the organization of college fund-raising. He is also president of the Society of Alumni and chairman of the current Building and Endowment Program.

The trustees approved the recommendation of the UC requesting the Board to adopt the principle of denying a diploma to students who have not fully paid up four annual SAC taxes. This will not apply to present seniors, but becomes effective with the class of 1949.

Bowdoin Plan

The Bowdoin Plan for foreign student aid, recommended by the NSA, was also approved. The trustees voted to remit tuition on five foreign students, in addition to other commitments to foreign students already undertaken by the college. The Bowdoin Plan is an arrangement whereby some of the fraternities may contribute to international understanding by providing room and board for foreign students, with the understanding that the college will help with the tuition.

The trustees also approved an increase of $5 in the student athletic tax, from $25 to $30, for the extension of skiing facilities and increased cost of medical care.

Weston Resigns

The trustees accepted the resignation of Karl E. Weston as Director of the Lawrence Art Museum. Mr. Weston was the Amos Law. See HALL, page 2

UC Committees Get New Men

Costs Of Bowdoin Plan Aid To Be Estimated

Undergraduate Council business Monday night dealt largely with the election of discipline, rushing, entertainment and scholastic committee members, and a discussion of the Bowdoin Plan.

Dud Brown '49, chairman of the nominations and rules committee, read the nominations for the various committees which contain both Council and non-Council men. For the discipline committee, the UC elected John Stillwell '49, and Ernie Mierzejewski '51 to continue as members next year to provide needed continuity. Jerry Page '49 and Gene Harling '49 were elected as new members. The president and secretary of next year's junior advisors will be on the committee, with this year's officers, Pete Geier '49, and Alan Harter '49 remaining as members for the rest of the year.

Rushing Committee

Next year's rushing committee will consist of Dick Baker '49, Alan Harter '49, Terry Bender '49, F. Bill Heineman '49, Bert Dean '49, and John Thoman '49. The entertainment committee, as selected by the UC, will be composed of Bill Barney '49, Dud Irwin '50, Andy Heineman '50, Dick Curley '49, Wally Oleson '49, and Wally Barnes '49. The scholastic committee will be composed of Bob Messimer '49, Loren Smith '49, Charles Canedy '49, and See UC, page 2

Bell Appointed To Grid Post

Illinois Star To Coach Ends Next Season

The Board of Trustees has confirmed the appointment of Frank E. Bell as assistant football coach and assistant professor of physical education. Mr. Bell will also become assistant basketball coach, and will assist in the spring, probably in baseball.

Bell, who will coach the ends on next year's squad, graduated from White Plains High School in 1929. While there, he played under Len Watters, new Williams head football coach.

Mr. Bell attended Princeton for one year, 1931-32, and then transferred to the University of Illinois to complete his college education. At Illinois he played end on the football team, performed on the basketball court, and captained the hockey team, winning the University's award as best scholar-athlete in his senior year. He received his B.S. from the University in 1938.

From 1938 through 1942 Mr. Bell taught mathematics and coached football, basketball, and baseball at Williston Academy in Easthampton, Mass. Entering the U. S. Navy in August, 1942, he served as a Lieutenant in the Navy's physical education program for Naval Aviators, and was aboard the ill-fated Princeton when it went down.

Since his discharge in October, 1945, Bell has been manager of the Illini Foundation, an institution somewhat analogous to the Williams Alumni Fund, at the University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.

Seven Houses Given Social Probation

The joint student-faculty Discipline Committee of the Undergraduate Council unanimously moved Wednesday night to place seven fraternities on "social probation" as a consequence of irregularities which occurred during the houseparty celebration last weekend. In the order in which they are listed in the resolution, they are: Phi Gamma Delta, Beta Theta Pi, Delta Psi, Alpha Delta Phi, Chi Psi, Kappa Alpha, and Zeta Psi.

Under the terms of "social probation," as defined by the committee, these houses may not participate as social units in any dance involving the use of an orchestra. The penalty will remain in effect until removed by the committee. Removal of the ban will be contingent on "good conduct in all Williams social relations." The houses will be permitted to hold record-dances and other social activities. On the basis of good conduct at these functions, the houses may appeal individually to the committee for the lifting of the restriction.

Drama Class Gives One-Acts Reviewer Praises Two Plays

by Paul R. Karslow

The Drama II class opened to the campus audience their instructive productions of three one act plays, on Thursday night at the A.M.T. The group of plays, introduced by remarks of Production Manager Dominick J. Dunne, got off to no start at all with Bernard Shaw's "Augustus Does His Bit," moved effectively through Sherwood Anderson's "The Triumph of the Egg," and finished with a forceful production of William Saroyan's "Hello, Out There."

Shaw Play Poor

The Shaw play is an example of his worst and most unsuited satire, as was graphically demonstrated by the thoroughly inept production given to it. The pace set by director Adam Stovall dragged, and the performances completely lacked the speed and zest necessary for Shaw's talky piece. The occasional funny lines lost all their humor by being dribbled out, especially by Lloyd F. Tweedy in the title role. The English accent gave great difficulty to all the players, who kept switching classes in mid-sentence, though Patrick C. Graney, Jr. as Beamish, was funny when he could be understood. Helen Burne Kelly was a very stagey villainess, until the event proved that she was only a rather charming practical joker. The set seemed a very shoddy representation of shoddiness.

Anderson Play Well Done

Fortunately, almost everyone stayed to see director H. Prescott Wells' skillful handling of Anderson's comic tragedy. Betty Dissell gave a highly realistic performance as the harassed and life-defeated mother who belittles and then comforts her momentarily ambitious husband, Richard A. Verney.

under Mr. Wells' direction gave rich humor and grim significance to the play aptly described by last week's Record as, "concerned with a man's desire for self glory and set in a mid-western lunch room." The Father's pathetic attempts to found the popularity of his restaurant on his excessive and oppressive affability to the single customer were skillfully projected by Mr. Verney, while the half-amused and half-terrified customer was unpretentiously portrayed by Llewellyn A. White. The set, designed by Richard Stuart, provided a shabby bed-room, and a lunch room in effective contrast with the "Dim Diner" and similar well-run and well-patronized establishments. With a finished production this play would have been a fine piece of work.

Lasell Tour de Force

"Hello, Out There," as directed by Donald McComb, was easily the finest production of the evening. John W. Lasell took the role of the young tramp accused of rape with great vitality, and made most moving his pathetic attempts to re-establish contact with an outraged society through the love of a girl who cleans out the jail. Alone on the stage for considerable periods, he kept a restless audience attentive with remarkable ease, while his thorough mastery of stage technique was demonstrated by his ability to slip out of character in order to prompt his partner, and return to his role without loss of pace or mood. His function in these instructive productions might well have been to teach by example. Virginia Barnett, as the girl, played to him effectively, while establishing a real and sympathetic stage personality. See ONE-ACTS, page 2

College Shocked By Death Of Ralph Scherer, Wednesday

Williams College was deeply shocked early Wednesday by the sudden death of Ralph Rockwood Scherer. The 25 year old physics instructor succumbed after a short illness in the North Adams hospital.

Geology instructor Paul Foster said of his friend, "his main keynote in life was his eagerness and high spirit. Ralph was sincere and intense in everything he did; his energy was boundless. He seemed to transmit his effervescent spirit to everyone with whom he came in contact."

Mr. Scherer was born in Boston, the son of Ralph and Frances Scherer. He received his education at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, graduating in 1945 with a bachelor of science degree. During the war, he was in the V12 program and served in the navy as an ensign.

Deeply Shocked

Following his graduation from

MIT, he taught at the Thomas Jefferson High School, Sappington, Mo., where he was in charge of the physics and mathematics departments. Mr. Scherer took charge of the atomic physics laboratory upon his arrival at Williams last fall.

Professor Ralph Winch said, "we were all deeply shocked that so charming and pleasant a person with such a promising future should pass so suddenly. Ralph was very well liked by both faculty and students."

His interests were extremely varied. He was on the track, tennis and squash teams at MIT and was also interested in camping and photography. He planned to start working for his masters degree next fall in the field of X-rays.

He was married last summer, and is survived by his wife, Joan Keir Scherer, and parents. His family resides in Worcester, Mass.

Future Politics Must Restrain Aggression

Dean Robert R. R. Brooks keynote the Sixth Annual Williams Spring Conference last night when he stated the two major problems the conference must consider are:

"...first — what are the economic imperatives facing America in both her domestic affairs and her international relations? And second — are our political institutions and ideas adequate to the challenge of these imperatives?"

Stating that his duties as moderator only entail "brushing away some cobwebs here and there which might tend to obscure the brilliant" Dean Brooks, however, did raise a "little dust" when he suggested that security and freedom were not incompatible because security always involved restraints. "Security for a person, a group or a nation has always involved, and always will involve restraints upon the actions of others," he stated.

Restrain Aggression

Continuing Dean Brooks said, "International security is obviously impossible in the modern world — even to the strongest and most isolated nation — without restraints which can be effectively policed against the aggressions of other nations our problem is not to make an impossible choice between freedom and security. It is to determine what restraints are necessary to preserve and extend both our freedom and our security."

Discussing the "revolutionary world" which American politics must meet, Dean Brooks divided the term into three simplified degrees. The first is freedom of government which has been contradicted by "dollar diplomacy" and the "white man's burden." It is an idea, however, which gave impetus to the destruction of the See Spring Conference, page 2

Lewis Speaks On Journalism

Discusses Newspaper, Magazine Differences

"Begin with the small town newspaper and work up to the big city dailies," advised R. Cragin Lewis '41 when he addressed a student group Monday night at the Theta Delta Chi House on the subject of journalism and writing as a career.

Mr. Lewis gave many pointers and continued by saying, "It is not what position or title you held on your college newspaper that is important to us, but how you write. Send several samples of your work, together with your letter of application, to the paper concerned. When applying for any job, particularly in the field of journalism, it is the makeup and style of your application letter that counts. Such a letter serves as an excellent judge of the applicant's character."

Conversational Writing

Lewis stressed the importance of conversational writing in both newspaper and magazine work. Time magazine and the Associated Press now employ this style. Speaking largely with regard to newspaper work, Lewis said, "One cannot write an article exactly as he wants it to be done, simply because a newspaper is a newspaper. An early deadline, combined with the rush and confusion of the newspaper, does not allow polish."

Only in the magazines can one create a perfect style, he stated. "Here the deadline is not so free- See LEWIS, page 2

Lamson Lauds New Magazine

Serious Articles Form Bulk Of First Issue

by Roy Lamson, Jr.

Readers, contributors, and staff can be proud of the first issue of Comment. "Williams College's newest magazine." The baby is in swaddling clothes, but it promises to be an interesting child. The title, Comment, although it sounds like something the Luce organization might have seized upon, is apparently a key word in the editorial policy of the magazine. The articles, which make up the bulk of the issue, are comment in varying degree, from Professor Miller's notes on existentialism to C. S. Williams' witty analysis of the politics of Friendship, Maine. Comment is lean on fiction, but the high quality of S. E. Dickerman's "Victory" helps to produce a balance. The space and presentation given to verse are suitable to its value and its variety. The general pertinence and skill of the art work are an effective contribution to the issue. Physically, Comment is an attractive, not flashy book, generally well laid out, and typographically pleasing. Comment should be a publication welcome to the Williams campus.

Professor Miller's article, "Motives in Existentialism" leads off the magazine. Here the reader should not try to exercise his top reading speed, for Mr. Miller's notes on selfhood are concentrated and require careful attention. The first and second parts review basic issues, ideas, and men involved in existentialist philosophy, and the third section is, among other things, Mr. Miller's suggestion that an explanation of the interest in existentialism may be found "largely in the fact of war," when men are alone with their resolution, their faith, their actions in the face of danger, misery, anxiety, and death. In the article Mr. Miller moves from often complex thought and style (in Parts I and II) to personal comment in a less concentrated vein (Part III). Perhaps philosophers find it difficult to comment on Sartre in the style of Sartre's own persuasive simplicity. Being no expert on existentialism, I am still baffled by what "hot identification" is in the following sentence in Part II, "There is an old western tradition for securing immunity to fortune by avoiding all hot identification with limit." I hope that "Motives in Existentialism" will be followed by other serious articles by faculty, students, alumni, people of Williamstown and by writers outside the Berkshires.

Paul Cubeta's "Politics at Williams-1800" is essentially a fine piece of well organized historical writing, and must deservedly have won the History 15 Book Prize last year. Its picture of the origin of the College and the Williamstown political community around 1800 should be required reading for all. See COMMENT, page 4

Ralph R. Scherer

With deepest sorrow, The Record extends its sympathy to the family of Ralph R. Scherer.

Houseparty "Behavior"

The axe has fallen. Houseparty week-end amply proved that a certain portion of the student body has not reached the maturity generally ascribed to college men. The fact that the student's conduct reflects upon the reputation of the College apparently has never occurred to many Williams men. Houseparties are a healthy Williams tradition. Common decency and good taste are also Williams traditions. Obviously, the necessary junction of the two ideas has been lost on parts of the Campus.

Williams authorities are completely justified in attempting to prevent a recurrence of this recent demonstration. We approve of the UC undertaking the needed restrictions before the College authorities decided they should. The question at stake is vital to the life of student government. Should the administration or students govern college life? If such an issue were decided in favor of the administration, the results could be far reaching.

We commend the Discipline Committee. Assuming the burden of this problem and dealing with it accordingly is indicative of the UC undertaking a job which it has carefully avoided in the past years—that of regulating the College.

We hate to see the occasion arise that necessitates the use of so heavy a weapon. The need for its use, however, is extremely obvious. The next step involved is the re-education of many Williams men.

Nazi regime and which has long been a part of our society, although considered revolutionary, he said.

Secondly, the extension of leadership, although decried by Hamiltonians, has also been extended in our revolutionary world. These are techniques which are down our alley, Dean Brooks stated. The third revolutionary characteristic is the redistribution of the vast "annual increments" of our economic power.

These have long been ideas in our policy and their collectivistic tendencies must be recognized as the basis and foundation of our future policy. This "collectivism" must eventually cast off the "gossamer veil of sovereignty" and a burly peace-loving policeman must take his place, he concluded.

Wendell Meade Included

The conference continues with two panels today and the closing panel Sunday morning. Student Chairman Rhett Austell '48 has announced that the final line-up also includes Wendell H. Meade, Republican Congressman from the 78th District of Kentucky and a backer of Harold Stassen. Amos J. Peaslee will not attend the conference as previously announced in The Record.

Each panel will consist of an hour and a half of running discussion on the platform, followed by fifteen minutes intermission and forty-five minutes of questioning from the audience. Lyn Austell and Audrey Barnes will distribute paper on which the audience may note their questions to the speaker during the discussion period. The questions will then be handed to each speaker during the question period.

The agenda for the conference with the panel speakers is:

SATURDAY

1:30-4 p.m. Panel I: The economic challenges at home and abroad and their relevance to political action. Chairman—Professor Despres. Participants—Messrs. Abrams, Galbraith, Porter, and Roper.

4:30 p.m. Public Reception, Williams Inn.

8-10:30 p.m. Panel II: The capacity of our political machinery to evolve solutions to these problems. Chairman—Professor Barnett. Participants—Messrs. Abrams, Meade, Hanes, Porter, Reston, and Schlesinger.

SUNDAY

Speaking of the free-lance writer, Lewis urged the beginner first to "obtain a newspaper position and then, on your own time, send your material to whatever magazines you wish. Writing for yourself does not pay in the large majority of cases—only if you show great talent and are lucky."

The council referred the Bowdoin Plan to the treasurers committee, which will draw up a plan to be presented to the UC, estimating the amount each social unit would have to contribute to the support of five foreign students. UC President Henry Strong '49, said that a plan such as this should have the support of the whole College.

The Council granted the request of the cheerleaders for new sweaters for next fall.

The Lightning Rod

by Roger Ernst

The European Recovery Program is now in its incubation period. The Congress has approved the Act. It is evident that the chief, Mr. Hoffman, will have to meet many serious problems of a procedural and administrative nature. On top of these, there will be substantive issues of great consequence to be solved. I should like to point out three possible pitfalls, any one of which will cause, in my estimation, the failure of our objectives in Europe. These three misconceptions already exist in the minds of certain people in both private and public life.

Not An Alternative to Defense

It is necessary that we realize that the ECA is not an alternative to an expanded military program. It is a separate, but coordinate measure designed to safeguard the interests of our country and to give Western Europe a chance to work out its own future. The failure of the ERP would obviously mean a much expanded military program on our part and would mean for the Western European nations the diversion of manpower and materials from civilian production to the development of war potential this reduction of the flow of consumer commodities and the curtailment of the development of consumer industries would have an effect which the communists in Western Europe would welcome. It would cause even more dissatisfaction with living conditions that exists at present.

In effect, our country should take the position that the Western European nations should expand their energies on the development of their economy for peace purposes, and we will provide such military power as is, unfortunately, necessary.

Danger of Pressure on European Nations

It has been suggested that a certain percentage of all aid granted to any particular country should be used by that country for the development of war potential. My objections to this proposal are identical with those enumerated in point one above. Such a provision would defeat our aims.

East-West Trade

There is a growing move to curtail trade between Eastern and Western Europe on the theory that items going to Eastern Europe are, in effect, going to the Soviet Union. It is important to bear in mind that one of the prime assumptions of the ERP necessary to its success is that there shall be expanded trade between Eastern and Western Europe. If the United States were to underwrite the difference which would result in a curtailment of East-West trade in Europe, the amount of United States aid required would be considerably greater than the amount of imports from Eastern Europe to Western Europe. Imports from Eastern to Western Europe will probably constitute about ten per cent of the requirements of Western Europe as envisioned by the Marshall plan nations. In the absence of these imports our contribution would probably have to be about three times greater. To this writer, the only feasible avenue of rapprochement with Eastern Europe lies in the realm of economic agreements mutually beneficial to such an extent that neither side, and particularly the Soviet side, will be inclined to deepen the rupture presently existing.

It is high time that our thinking with regard to the development of Western Europe shift from the negative to the positive. We should conceive of the ERP as a measure to insure the renewal of life in Western Europe and not primarily as anti-Soviet. To this end, we should lend our great weight to the formation of a Western European federation. Concurrently, we should indicate to the nations of Western Europe, separately and collectively, that the United States military power will stand behind them in their effort to revive their economy. The Joint United States-Canadian Defense Board might well serve as a model for the manner in which our military support should be extended to Western nations. Such a move will give clear purpose to the reestablishment of Selective Service in this country. While reassuring Western Europe of our total support, we should avoid any moves which will limit the areas of experiments for the Western European countries. We must recognize that virtually all of the political parties of Western Europe, with the exception of the extreme right and the monarchists, are pledged to a program of at least partial nationalization of the basic industries. This is a development we cannot stem even if we should want to. We should not attempt to stem it, for such an attempt will play directly into the hands of the communists. In short, Democratic Socialism is the thing of the future in England, France, and the other Western nations.

Finally, there must evolve out of the operations of the Economic Cooperation Administration a greater measure of intercourse between this country and Western Europe. They have much to learn from us and we from them and ultimately we can achieve lasting peace only through the use of the minds of all the peoples in the world who, as we do, hold that there are certain "unalienable Rights."

The trustees voted the appointment of Dr. H. Collier Wright as physician in the Health Center to succeed Dr. Kenneth R. McAlpin, whose retirement was accepted at the same meeting. Alfred M. Emslie was promoted to professor of physics.

In accordance with the introduction of regular courses in Russian, Edgar N. Mayer was appointed instructor in romantic languages and in Russian.

Bernard Kessler, a member of the Bennington faculty, was made visiting professor of art. He will give a course to honors students in architectural design. Richard O. Rouse was appointed assistant professor of psychology. Until recently he was an instructor in psychology at the University of Connecticut.

Other Appointments

Other new faculty appointments include the following: Robert P. Desch, graduate assistant in chemistry; David M. Sutherland, graduate assistant in chemistry; Paul Barstow '48, instructor in English; William Kent Rose, instructor in English; Ellsworth G. Mason, instructor in English; Roger G. Alexander, Jr., instructor in geology; Russell H. Bastert, instructor in history; Walter Sedlow, Jr., instructor in history; Henry W. Johnstone, Jr., instructor in philosophy; Charles H. Heuer '45, graduate assistant in physics; Elmer E. Cornwell '48, instructor in political science; and Frank E. Bell, assistant coach of football, basketball, and baseball and assistant professor of physical education.

Leaves of absence were granted to Alan Sweezy, professor of economics for one year, and to Joaquin Nin-Culmelli, associate professor of music for one year.

Trackmen Lose Close Meet To Favored RPI, 68 - 58

Capt'n Bundschuh Runs 49.3 Quarter

Blanks Scores Eleven Delany Captures Mile

by Wally Stern

The quarter-mile track record, which had stood for twenty-four years, was shattered on Wednesday afternoon by Captain John Bundschuh of RPI, as he led the Engineers to a 68-58 victory over Williams. RPI has lost only one meet in four years, to Williams in 1947.

The quarter-mile race saw Bundschuh, who is holder of four RPI track records, (the 100, 220, 440 and 880), and Bill Barney, Williams' top sprinter, battle it out for first. Bundschuh won by three yards in 49.3 seconds, when breaking by .1 second the old official track record of 49.4 set in 1924 by Clifford Stowers. Barney also bettered 50 seconds, battling out 49.8 quarter, the fastest he has ever run.

Blanks High

Bundschuh also swept the hundred and two-twenty dashes to account for fifteen points for the Engineers. Weightman Bill Blanks led the scoring for the Ephs with a first and two seconds, for eleven points. Barney countered nine points for Williams.

Key Delany, in his second race of the season, trailed for two laps, but finished strongly to edge out Phil Collins with a 4:40.3 mile. In an exciting half-mile, Gordy Smith, after trailing most of the way, passed two RPI men on the last turn and came on to win by eight yards in 2:04.5. Herb Chisolm won the awo mile in 10:21.4.

But Tom Edwards came through with a 162 foot heave in the javelin, to win the event by twenty feet. Johnny Hay getting his best broad jump of the year, 20 ft.5", took second place in this event.

RPI tied three men at 11 feet 3 inches shutting out the Purple. Williams scored heavily in the weight events, but this was not enough to overcome their weaknesses in the hurdles, pole-vault and broad jump.

The Summary:

100 Yard Dash—Won by Bundschuh (RPI); 2nd, Barney (W); 3rd, Brooks (W). Time 10.2 sec.

120 Yard High Hurdles—Won by Bray (RPI); 2nd, Read (W); 3rd Kirkland (RPI). Time 15.5 sec.

Mile Run—Won by Delany (W); 2nd Collins (W); 3rd, Hoffman (RPI). Time 4:40.3.

220 Yard Low Hurdles—Won by Bray (RPI); 2nd Kirkland (RPI); 3rd, King (W). Time 26.3 sec.

Two-mile Run—Won by Chisolm (W); 2nd Clapp (RPI); 3rd Oakley (RPI). Time 10:21.4.

880 Yard Run—Won by Smith (W); 2nd Weber (RPI); 3rd Edelman (RPI). Time 2:04.5.

220 Yard Dash—Won by Bundschuh (RPI); 2nd Barney (W); 3rd Brooks (W). Time 22.5 sec.

Pole-Vault—Tie for first place between Scott (RPI), Ruete (RPI), and Frankenfield (RPI). Height 11 feet 3 inches.

Shotput—Won by Neugold (RPI); 2nd Blanks (W); 3rd M. Detmer (W). Distance 45 feet 9 1/2 inches.

Discus—Won by Blanks (W); 2nd Nicolla (RPI); 3rd, Edwards (W). Distance 124 feet 10 1/2 inches.

High Jump—Won by Tholen (RPI); Tie for second between Read (W) and Roller (W). Height 5 feet 7 inches.

Javelin—Won by Edwards (W); 2nd Blanks (W); 3rd Baynes (RPI). Distance 162 feet 9 1/2 inches.

Broad Jump—Won by Loud (RPI); 2nd, Hay (W); 3rd, Bray (RPI). Distance 20 feet 5 1/2 inches.

Purple Golvers Eph Batmen Face Middlebury Today

Kaufman Scheduled To Seek Second Victory

This afternoon Captain Jim Young leads the Purple team against the Middlebury Panthers who have won only one of their first four contests. Bill Kaufman will take the hill against the Panthers shooting for his second win of the season.

The Middlebury nine fashioned their only win at the expense of St. Michaels, previously dropping games to Harvard, Tufts and B.U. who scored a total of 29 runs off the combined efforts of their pitching staff.

Seed Schaaf, Robinson, Scribner At Dartmouth

The New England tennis championships are being held May 14, 15, and 16 at Dartmouth. Twelve colleges and universities with 37 players are competing.

Yale and Williams are the teams to beat. Yale has its great Rolor Ray, champion in 1946, who stands head and shoulders above the rest of the field. Williams has captain Fred Scribner who lost last year in the finals to Henri Salaun of Wesleyan. The Ephs are also fortunate enough to possess two other strong contenders for the singles laurels in Stew Robinson and Charlie Schaaf.

Coach Named For Ski Team

Skiing Now Recognized As Official Sport

With a long-term rental of Sheep Hill, the purchase of an adjoining slope, and the hiring of a part-time coach, Al Trudel, the Athletic Department this week made great strides in shaping up the Williams skiing program. Although the next snowfall is a long way off, this action hails the recognition of the sport, both varsity and PT, as an established College activity.

The Outing Club, pioneer organizer of the sport, assumes duties in conjunction with the college in the operation of the slope and tow. Previously the OC leased the Sheep Hill area on a yearly basis; the college has now signed a more stable five-year lease. In addition, Bee Hill, a twenty-acre open slope directly above Sheep Hill, has been purchased. Clearing and tow construction on this upper hill is under way and will be completed by next winter, thus doubling the length of the present run.

Worked At Bromley

Al Trudel, the new coach, has been signed on a part-time basis and retains his present job with the House of Walsh. His afternoons will be devoted both to coaching the varsity squad and supervising the PT program.

A native of Claremont, New Hampshire, Al has had extensive experience in the sport. As a member of the National Ski Patrol, he worked at Bromley as Hill Supervisor and, in Williamstown, organized and instructed the Stony Ledge Ski Club. His other activities along this line include club racing and time trials.

Score 12 - 6 Win Over Garnet; Graney Stars

On Wednesday afternoon a Williams lacrosse team which played all brands of ball in one afternoon swept over a determined Union team, which fought all the way but succumbed, 12-6.

The Purple's play was, in a word, erratic. At times the Ephs could not pick up a stationary ground ball; then, a minute later, sound lacrosse sense and steady-stick handling would to another Williams tally.

Graney Pushes Off

Co-captain Pat Graney put Williams in the scoring column at a minute and a half by pulling one of his familiar dodges from behind the cage. And after Union had tied it up, Dick Meryman, high scorer with four, repeated Graney's performance. "Frenchy" Oudin countered on a long shot but a minute later a goal by Dutchman Markes tightened the margin to a single point.

Another unassisted goal by Meryman, and one of Ronnie Chute's burning long shots gave Williams a 5-2 lead at quarter-time. A well-executed play, combining Graney's second of five assists and Cy Mayshark's first of two goals, concluded first-half scoring.

The Garnets slipped in a third goal after six minutes of play in the third period. Williams was having trouble hitting the pay-off net; shots aimed for the corners of the cage were playing a dull tune on the pipes. Suddenly Oudin scored a second goal on a long shot, assisted by Coke Scofield. Co-Captains Graney and Ed Maynard teamed together nicely for a pretty score, Maynard converting.

Thirty-one seconds later, Oudin walked into the cage, and, while Maynard kept his defenseman on the crease by not moving, fired the eighth goal into the far upper corner. Mayshark opened the Williams fourth-period scoring by dodging his man, and whipping in a side-arm shot. The two last goals, scored by Meryman, assisted by Graney were beautiful. Both times Graney fed to Meryman, on the crease, who teasingly dropped the ball around the goalie's legs into the nets.

At times the clearing was tops; at times the ball seemed to be glued to Union's attacking zone. Williams almost looked like two different teams during the afternoon. On the whole, however, the play was improved, and the game turned out to be well-earned revenge for the 1947 5-4 loss.

G. D. Preston, Sales Personnel Manager for the Scott Paper Company, Chester, Pa., will be at Williams Monday to recruit seniors for an on-the-job training course in retail and industrial sales. Mr. Preston, according to the Placement Bureau, is particularly interested in scholastic standing, extra-curricular activities, and military career. He is offering $250 per month as a starting salary.

On Monday evening at eight o'clock the Van Vechten Prize speaking contest will be held at three Griffin Hall. Eight people have already signified their intention of participating in the contest and prizes will be awarded to the two men giving the best eight or ten minute extemporaneous speeches. Started in 1847 with funds provided by Mr. Van Vechten the contest will be judged by faculty members.

In a debate held between Williams and Vassar on Saturday, April 24, the subject was, Resolved: that the place of women is in the home. Harry C. McDaniel '49 and Henry M. Halsted, III '48 took the affirmative while Vassar's team, consisting of Betty Buddington and Betty Pratt, took the negative. The girls lost this debate to Williams' experienced team.

Williams men. It is unfortunate in a minor way that this splendid essay could not have been revised before publication in Comment, for it would have been improved by the removal of its term-paper machinery.

Richard Debevoise's "Laissez-Faire for Europe" combines fiction and direct criticism to attack Henry (Will Dollars Save the World?) Hazlitt's analysis of the causes of Europe's economic ills. The story of what happens in three weeks in Ruritania when its citizens operate under Hazlitt's laissez-faire plan has a Swiftian touch and is almost enough to demolish Hazlitt for the average reader.

Debevoise there adds an illustrative section of exposition, discussion and reply which is clear and convincing.

A nice vein of humor and wit runs through C. S. Williams' informative picture of politics in a Maine town of three hundred and fifty people. The article is pleasingly written and should be a very acceptable item to Comment readers.

Dickerman's "Victory" is an excellent first-person account of how V-J day came to a squad of American soldiers in the Philippines. It catches the personality of the soldiers, and the sense of death and war acutely and sensitively. Its narrative flow makes it, for me, an outstanding contribution to the issue. Joseph Dewey's "Carol" is almost too brief to accomplish its purpose, although it does produce a striking effect in understanding and pathos at the end.

The poems deserve special mention not only for their general quality and variety but their presentation. The range is from serious pieces like Bourne's "Spring, 1948" to J. C. Waugh's jazz ballad on "marge", who "could really shake that thing." Richard Weber's "Pragmatist's Discussion" is a good poem, especially in its first stanza and in its effective correspondence between form and idea. William Holt's "Museum Piece-Left Bank" shows considerable skill and control, and is a very promising bit. Hay's "Thomas Wolfe" is excellent concentrated poetic comment on the energy and intensity of Wolfe. (Line 3 is marred by a misprint: "walking the town" should read "waking the town") J. C. Waugh's "Two Poems," overconscious and yet sensitive, are surpassed in quality by Hopkins' decorative illustration.

The art work throughout is skillful and refreshing. Tuttle's designs for Cocteau's "Infernal Machine" are presented for themselves, and are interestingly done. They almost call for an article on their problems and use. Hopkins' "Spring Street," evidently a good piece of work in conception, appears muddy and clogged when reproduced.

I'd like to make two small editorial suggestions: first that Comment include a statement of the source of its publication, and perhaps some general announcement of editorial policy; second, more careful attention to proof-reading.

I'm looking forward to the next issue.

Youngsters Plan Gala Festivities

Plans for the informal College dance, sponsored by the freshman class on Saturday night, May 22, are progressing rapidly, according to Emile Mierzejewski, president of the class. The dance will highlight a weekend program of festivities which include a freshman-sophomore softball championship Saturday afternoon and a picnic at the lake on Sunday.

Lawrence's nine-piece orchestra, which played to an appreciative houseparty crowd at the Phi Kappa Psi house during the recent Spring Carnival, will provide music from 8-12 p. m. Admission will be fifty cents, "low enough for all," Mierzejewski said. He emphasized the fact that everyone is invited. Pointing out that refreshments will be provided, he urged all attending to leave their cars at home.

Keller to Ump

Professor Charles Keller has agreed to umpire the freshman-sophomore softball tilt, it was learned from Clair Rublee, sophomore chairman of the event. The game will take place Saturday at 2 p. m. on Cole Field in front of the field house. Professor Barnett and Deane Brooks and Sheehan have also been asked to serve as a second ump and two water-boys, one for each team. The faculty members will be appropriately costumed, although it is reported that Umpire Keller refused to officiate in shorts.

The teams will be made up of one freshman and one sophomore from each of the social units. The freshmen, determined to establish themselves as the superior class after the contested rope-pull decision, will be dressed as "ragamuffins." The sophomore uniform has not yet been decided upon, but it will be something equally bizarre. Beer is scheduled to flow freely from two kegs on either side of the diamond.

The weekend will be climaxed by more beer, and swimming for the hunder members, at the Tubs Sunday afternoon. It is planned to have bus service so that everyone can attend the picnic.

Perfumed Record Wows Journalist

Carnival Issue Gets 'Distinktion' Label

The Record is delighted to report that a confirmation was received this week from Robert Brown, editor of Editor & Publisher, that "The Newspaper of Williams College" is a school paper of distinktion.

In reply to a query, Brown wrote that the rose-scented Billboard-Carnival issue published last Saturday was indeed the first newspaper ever to be printed entirely in perfumed ink. He said:

"I think you can safely claim that 'stinkeroo beat' in more ways than one! Our 'screwy statistics department' reports that there have been many advertisements printed with perfumed ink, but so far as they can determine, yours is the first newspaper to use perfumed ink entirely and you may be interested to know that after several days in the mails, your issue arrived slightly soured. I mean it was really ripe and we took great pleasure in disposing of it in a hurry!"

"Congrats on a swell issue."

"Economic Challenges and Political Action"

Elmo Roper, Frank W. Abrams, Emile Despres, Paul Porter, and J. Kenneth Galbraith spoke Saturday afternoon in the first panel of the Spring Conference.

In the first panel, Saturday afternoon, chairman Emile Despres, economics professor, led experts Frank Abrams, Kenneth Galbraith, Paul Porter and Elmo Roper in a discussion of "The economic challenges to American democracy at home and abroad."

Public opinion analyst Roper said that the economic challenge is a corollary to the political challenge which consists of keeping our present way of life and convincing the rest of the world that we have a superior form of government. The economic issue, he explained, is a program of maintaining prosperity and extending it to an ever-increasing number of people and demonstrating our ability to manage our own internal affairs. The most important internal economic issue, he said, is the role of profits.

Profits For Expansion

Mr. Abrams, chairman of the board of Standard Oil of New Jersey stated that his company was typical of other forward-looking corporations which are currently putting not only a large percentage of their earnings, but also reserve and surplus funds, into expansion of their plants.

Mr. Galbraith, a member of the Fortune Magazine editorial board, said that there is no challenge to America that cannot be met in the field of management-labor relations, but that the real problem is in the relationship between management and society. The alarming prospect, he said, is the problem of what will happen to the economy after industrial expansion levels off, since deflation and unemployment would be even worse than inflation.

Mr. Roper, Mr. Porter, and Mr. Galbraith agreed that the real problem will be maintaining the economy after this levelling-off.

Mr. Abrams said that the impressions he had of industrial leaders, "chiefly of the larger companies," whom he knew, led him to believe that they were intelligent and patriotic men who had their plans laid for many years in the future. He declared that as soon as his company completed its current five-year expansion program, the public would benefit through reduced prices. He pointed out, however, that the oil industry was not typical of industry generally, since demands for petroleum products were fairly constant despite general economic conditions.

Would Broaden Capitalism

Mr. Roper then suggested a seven-point program for putting the free enterprise system on a broader foundation: 1. keep prices in line with wages, 2. increase man-hour productivity, 3. insure wage

"Is American Political Machinery Adequate?"

Arthur Schlesinger, John W. Hanes, Vincent M. Barnett, James B. Reston, Wendell H. Meade, and Paul Porter spoke on the second panel of the Spring Conference Saturday evening.

Saturday evening more than 400 persons, the largest number to attend any of the Spring Conference meetings, heard three government spokesmen, a college professor, and a newspaperman discuss "The capacity of our political machinery to evolve solutions to the economic and political problems challenging America."

Chairman Vincent M. Barnett, head of the political science department, started the session by outlining the topics that each of the experts would handle in his ten-minute informal talk.

Third Parties Valuable

Harvard history professor Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr. presented the historical background of the two-party system and of the function of third parties. Basically, he said, the Democratic Party, at its best, represents the forces united against government by business. He defined the Republican Party as the spokesman for the business community, which, at its best, has stood for the interests of the public against both the mob and business.

He said that legitimate third parties serve a valuable function as they compel the weaker of the two major parties to adopt their legitimate American aspirations. Among the non-legitimate third parties, Mr. Schlesinger cited the Prohibitionist Party, the Lemke-Coughlin Party, the American First Party, and the Wallace Party. He defended a bi-partisan foreign policy, under a two-party system, as a necessary part of any mature nation's policy.

Congressman Wendell Meade (R-Ky.), in discussing the legislative area of American politics, declared that the present organization of the U. S. Congress is adequate to solve any problem before that body. Denying that he was an old guard Republican, he said that the Republican Party is the party of progressive free enterprise, which is working to guarantee that the American people will have all the advantages that the country can afford. He declared his belief in the two-party system as long as there were recognizable differences, so that the electorate would have a choice.

Maverick, Not Monerel

As Paul Porter began to speak, a dog wandered onto the stage, which drew a ripple of laughter from the audience. Mr. Porter quipped: "I have often been classed as a political maverick, but never a political monerel."

The dog, apparently affronted by the remark, left the platform and Mr. Porter proceeded to state his views on the administrative side of American politics.

Experts See US Politics Challenged

by Charles Klensch and Charles Utley

An average of about 350 people, including a number of students, attended the four sessions of the annual Spring Conference at the Adams Memorial Theater last week-end and heard a distinguished group of representatives from government, business, education, and the press discuss the current and future challenges to American politics.

In introductory addresses at the opening meeting Friday night, Dean Robert Brooks and Frank Abrams, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, expressed their views on the present opportunity for United States world leadership.

Must Remove "Cobwebs"

Dean Brooks said that there are certain "cobwebs" attached to the thinking of some Americans which must be done away with if the country is not to give way to fear in treating domestic and foreign affairs. He declared that the belief that we are living in a revolutionary world "produces panicky absurdities," and that national sovereignty must give way to "world-wide justice, world-wide law, and a world-wide police force."

Mr. Abrams said that one of the major problems today is closer harmony between business and public policies, and that the problem of living together can be solved only by free men with mutual confidence and respect. "The real hope for lasting peace and prosperity in this now-small world of ours lies," he declared, "in an ever-increasing development of individual liberty and human freedom throughout the world."

Saturday Activities

In the first panel, Saturday afternoon, the experts agreed that the national economy was in no immediate danger, but that a real crisis was likely after the present period of great industrial expansion levels off. (See column two on this page.)

In discussing the capacity of our political machinery to evolve solutions to economic and political problems, the Saturday evening panel members concluded that American political machinery is in itself adequate, but that it needs implementation in the form of able leadership and proper use of the machinery. (See column four on this page.)

"Policy And Opinion"

Three college professors and a member of the fourth estate discussed "Policy and opinion: the integration of public support" in the final panel Sunday morning. The experts considered newspapers and other agencies of mass communication, but pointed out that capable and intelligent political leadership is the prerequisite to having an educated public. (See column two, page four.)

More than a dozen students from other colleges attended the conference. Those registered with the committee were: P. Cassimallis and J. Holmberg, Middlebury; P. Selizer, Radcliffe; S. Borenstein and C. Simons, Suffolk; G. Costin, A. Raphaelson, and R. Kaufman, Brown; C. Conteras and D. Carlson, RPI; B. Blankenhorn and E. Silver, Vassar; and M. Keeler and P. Crane, Mt. Holyoke.

The faculty committee for the conference included: Vincent M. Barnett (chairman), Robert J. Allen, Emile Despres, Joseph E. Johnson, and David B. Truman. The undergraduate committee included: R. Rhett Austell '48 (chairman), Wallace Barnes '49, Joel L. Carr '48, Henry M. Halsted '48, Hubert R. Hudson '48, and Robert A. Ripen '48.

Merwin Plugs Wallace Drive

Progressives Urged To Continue Work

Students-for-Wallace chairman Don Merwin '50 urged all members of the organization to participate in canvassing drives in their various communities this summer as he spoke to a gathering of the group Thursday night in Griffin Hall. "Whether you spend days, weeks, or even months working with the Progressive Party in your home states makes little difference," he declared, "just as long as you devote some time to the party."

Chairman Merwin praised the efforts of students who have been canvassing North Adams to secure enough signatures to place the name of Henry Wallace on the ballot in Massachusetts, but pointed out that less than 100 people have signed the petitions, a total which leaves the Williams chapter far behind its quota and other colleges in general, particularly Amherst. The possibility of working in Williamstown was discussed, but action was deferred until the group contacts Mrs. Frederick L. Schuman, local petition chairman.

Students-for-Wallace at Bennington has proposed that the two clubs hold joint meetings when either group secures the services of a noted speaker, while the Wallace organization at Smith has suggested an inter-college folk song program. Chairman Merwin mentioned the Wallace Youth meeting which will be held in Philadelphia on July 24 and 25, prior to the national convention of the Progressive Party.

Sensational Journalism Aids Worthwhile Social Project

by Seth Bidwell

Juvenile delinquency was the meat of the sensationalism in the New York City daily tabloids during 1941. Fortunately, a sincere account of the real story behind the crime wave by a Negro minister, the unselfish gift of a Quaker family, and the efforts of many collegians throughout New England started a great project to prevent recurrence of such a crime wave.

The principle behind the project, however, is much deeper than the prevention of crime. It is the humanitarian principle that, "Only by living together, can we speak of the brotherhood of man."

A Cherished Dream

The Reverend James H. Robinson, head of the Morningside Community Center in New York, wrote the original article and has since been the guiding spirit of the project. Monroe and Isabel Smith, directors of the American Youth Hostel in Northfield, Mass., relinquished their long cherished dream of eventually retiring to their 480 acre farm in Winchester, N. H., and donated this beautiful estate to the Community Center. College students from New England donated their time and labor to the building, development, and direction of the project.

The project is the formation of camps Rabbitt Hollow and Forest Lake near Winchester, N. H. These camps are inter-racial, non-sectarian, non-profit and devoted to offering a healthy vacation to the

Entering their seventh season, these camps have increased the number of campers from 87 in 1941 to 668 in 1947. The increase in facilities is entirely due to the untiring efforts of Rev. Robinson and the volunteer labor of college students. In six years more than 350 boys and girls have built cabins, enlarged the dining halls, painted buildings, roofed wash-up houses, built a dam, cleaned three thousand second-hand bricks for the foundation of the infirmary, and volunteered their services as counselors for the summer seasons.

Materially Poor

A materially poor camp, but rich in spirit, the estimated saving which these students have made is approximately $25,000. Officially adopted as the project of six Christian Associations of Amherst, U. of Mass., AIC, Springfield, Smith and Mt. Holyoke colleges, students that could not give their time have given their money. If these donations have not been outright individual gifts, they have been in the form of scholarships for children who cannot afford to pay. The cost for each child's two weeks stay is $32.50.

The camp needs student labor for the week following the close of college, or for any part of that week that volunteer students can afford to give. Those that are interested in helping this worthy organization should contact The Record or write directly to Rev. James H. Robinson, 360 West 122nd St., New York 27, N. Y.

Student Drive Well Supported

Donations From 98.6% Evidence Of Success

As the campaign to gain student support of the College Building and Endowment Fund Drive closed last week, Edson W. Spencer '48, chairman of the undergraduate campaign, announced that 98.6% of the total number of students enrolled had supported the drive.

In the breakdown of statistics, Spencer pointed out that of the 1076 men in college, 1061 had contributed an average $8.11, bringing the total amount to $8,604.04. The high percentage topped the faculty's 96%, thus falling in the gap which Dean Robert R. Brooks said at the campaign opening had been left sufficiently large to allow the students to beat them. The faculty, however, averaged $30 per member.

The objective of the three-week campaign, started April 20 at the college meeting, was to get as many students as possible to contribute. Its overall results were felt to be heartening, and the near-perfect participation by the student body was ample evidence of the drive's success.

Spencer praised the work of the seventy members of the committee, who approached each man in college personally, explaining the drive, and answering all questions. He also said that the "overwhelming results will do a great deal toward stimulating an increase in contributions from the alumni throughout the country."

Houseparty Behavior

Houses recently placed on social probation have received the penalty with varying reactions. Most have considered it an extremely light penalty and because of this feel THE RECORD reaction extremely peculiar. Then leniency of the penalty is obvious. Houses affected by the rule should take into careful consideration and do their utmost to abide by the requirements of the ruling. If they do not, the axe will really fall.

Social probation at most colleges means that the units affected are completely ruled out of all functions. If there is an infraction of the present ruling, social probation will mean the same at Williams. When considering the latest action, the social units should consider the potential of the ruling.

First, the probationary houses have only been inflicted with a token penalty which they may avoid by conducting future parties in the expected Williams manner. They should consider their position if the Disciplinary Committee had acted severally.

Secondly, all students should believe in the value of a student government in preference to faculty control and hence obey the ruling as a support of their student government. If they do not and the UC is considered a farce, incapable of proper action and control of the College, the UC will go by the boards.

Lastly, and a much longer range proposition, is the fact that fraternity irresponsibility will be conclusively proven by a future violation of the ruling. A recurrence of such actions could do much to damage the continued existence of fraternities at Williams.

THE RECORD, therefore, believes that the axe has really fallen. Not in actual practice but with a considerable potential. We hope that the students who scoff this action will see the light.

We Favor

On page one is a story of camps Rabbitt Hollow and Forest Lake. We cannot over-emphasize the obvious value of these camps. They have a basic democratic principle as their foundation and the welfare of many underprivileged children at heart. We sincerely hope that some Williams men will be able to contribute to this cause. Your labor is the most valuable contribution. The next contribution could be financial. Those that are able to contribute in either fashion are urged to contact THE RECORD or write directly to Rev. James H. Robinson.

Delta Upsilon is the second fraternity to adopt a war orphan. We understand that several other houses intend to adopt an orphan in the near future. We highly commend these actions and as previously suggested in THE RECORD will supply the necessary information to houses that wish to adopt an orphan.

We Question

The Bowdoin Plan as suggested by the Trustees and the NSA is an extremely worthwhile project. If the intention of these organizations, however, is to sponsor five students each year, in the course of four years each house would be sponsoring an individual student. We feel that the expense of this would be prohibitive for many students.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

Your article on the freshman-sophomore rope-pull was one of the most biased and prejudiced things we have ever read. This nefarious, yellow journalism must be stopped on the Williams campus. This is an insult to the integrity of the Class of 1951. We demand that a retraction of this sophomore plot to undermine the good name of our class be printed.

The true story was that the Class of 1951 was the victor of this contest. Not only were they winning the rope-pull before the undersized rope broke, but after the third break they took the initiative by crossing the river and throwing every available sophomore in the freezing water. There can be no doubt that the freshmen were the complete victors.

Please print this letter as a retraction of your article in the Record of May 12, 1948. We are certain that you have only overlooked this piece of bad journalism and that when it has been brought to your attention you will correct it. Thank you for your consideration of this gross injustice to the Class of 1951.

security, 4) insure old-age security, 5) insure the proper use of profits for expansion and distribution to the public, 6) maintain labor-management peace, 7) put government on a par with business, labor, and agriculture as the basis for the American capitalistic system.

Mr. Galbraith objected to Mr. Roper's last point, saying that he saw government as an integrating force operating on the other three factors, rather than as an equal partner.

James B. Reston, Washington correspondent for The New York Times, said that the faults in American politics are not in the

by Josiah T. S. Horton

Last weekend some people got together and held a Spring Conference at Williams. The topic under discussion was "The Challenge to American Politics: 1948 and Beyond." Many important things were decided—not among the least of which was that there would be another Spring Conference next year. This is to be called the Seventh Annual Spring Conference because this year's Spring Conference was called the Sixth Annual Spring Conference.

We take you now to the stage of the Adams Memorial Theater where we shall endeavor to give you a glimpse of some of the more noteworthy proceedings. We'll just elbow our way through here, Pardon us, madame. Excuse us please, sir. Ah, here we are—third row on the aisle. The silver curtain slowly rises revealing a charmingly mauve-tinted backdrop against which a lovely American flag is projected. A black and ominous hammer-and-sickle slowly moves toward it. A marvelous theatrical effect made possible through the facilities of Cap and Bells Inc.

The spotlight (blue) picks up five speakers who are sitting on the stage. There is also a chairman who is sitting on a chair. The main portion of the panel discussion is finished, and the question period has arrived. A hush falls over the throng—a hush broken only by the excited sobs of a female spectator who has sat upon an usher by mistake. The chairman rises majestically (the attached wires were furnished by Cap and Bells Inc.) Hark! he speaks.

CHAIRMAN: Well, (he takes a sip of water amidst loud applause and one or two catcalls) Well, it's time for the question period, I guess. So fire away. (He is lowered into his chair again while the audience laughs. They hadn't even thought of throwing things at the speakers, so this witticism on the part of the chairman is funny to them. The chairman regains his composure and speaks from a sitting position.)

CHAIRMAN: Are there any questions? (There is a flurry of excitement among the spectators, who hadn't really expected to be allowed any sort of voice at all in the goings on. Several hands are timidly raised.)

CHAIRMAN: Ah, there's a question. Will the man in the beige pin-stripe with chocolate accessories and yellow shoes please rise and state briefly his interrogation. (The aforementioned person rises.)

MAN: I'm glad to see that you folks are having this charming little get-together. Now I represent the Simmons Mattress people—(the chairman interrupts him.)

CHAIRMAN: (Interrupting him) Yes, but—(the man interrupts him.)

MAN: (Interrupting him) Isn't this the Spring Conference? (The First Speaker interrupts him.)

FIRST SPEAKER: (Interrupting him) Yes, but—(The man interrupts him.)

MAN: (Interrupting him) Well, I have the dandiest assortment of springs you'd ever want to see. (The Second Speaker interrupts him. In fact, from here on everybody interrupts everybody else, so we can dispense with stage directions.)

SECOND SPEAKER: Yes, but—

MAN: O. K., boys, bring them in. (The ushers and two husky stevedores struggle in with some bed springs.) Now then, I have a theory that everybody goes to bed sometimes—

THIRD SPEAKER: Yes, but—

MAN: Thank you, sir, your corroboration is highly appreciated. Now, here's a little model called the Dreamland Delight. Five hundred forty-two separate springs—count 'em—five hundred forty-two.

FOURTH SPEAKER: Yes, but—

MAN: You say you counted five hundred forty-three springs. That's odd. (He counts springs.) Aha! I thought so. That, sir, is what we in the trade call a Dividend Dreamland Delight. Think of it, folks. Five hundred and forty-three separate springs for the price of five hundred and forty-two.

FIFTH SPEAKER: Yes, but—

MAN: And here we have the Sleepy-bye Special. You'll notice that the springs are placed sideways. This allows for the natural curvature of the spine. Remember our slogan—"When You Get Up After Sleeping on One of Our Mattresses, You Won't Know You Have a Back." You won't have, as a matter of fact. (He waits for a laugh which is not forthcoming. One of the speakers says "Yes, but—")

MAN: Well, that's just a little joke I thought I'd throw in to get all you people in the right mood. (Somebody laughs, but he is almost immediately pounced upon by an usher.) Now, I've been saving the best for the last, good people, so now I want to present to you our deluxe family size model of the Happy-dreams Hair-stuffed Special. If you have trouble sleeping now, just wait until you've spent a night on this mattress. (The Fifth Speaker nudges the First Speaker, who hadn't realized that it was his turn.)

FIRST SPEAKER: Yes, but.

MAN: Thank you for the words of encouragement, doctor. Now, remember our motto—"No squeak. No squirm. No squish-around." As the little ladies pass among you, please sign your orders for this masterpiece. Remember our motto—"What Nature Couldn't Do Alone, the Simmons Mattress People Helped Her With." I thank you. (He sits down, and several scantily clad girls pass among the audience.)

SPEAKERS: (In chorus) Yes, but!

(The Chairman tries to maintain order, but it is a lost cause. The black and ominous hammer-and-sickle has completely blotted out the American flag on the charmingly mauve-tinted backdrop (furnished by Cap and Bells Inc.) except for one or two red stripes. The Challenger to American Politics has won. And when one thinks that it was the Simmons Mattress Company, it gives one a queer feeling in the small of the back. The curtain falls on the Sixth Annual Spring Conference leaving nothing but some rubble among which may be seen a crumpled leaflet saying in big black letters: "If You Can't Sleep, You May As Well Toss and Turn on a Simmons Mattress.")

From an administrative point of view, he made a sharp attack on Mr. Meade's statement that Congress could put a bill through both houses and have it on the President's desk within twenty-four hours, calling the 80th Congress a 19th century institution. He scored its timid, vacillating performances on vital issues, and what he termed the "elaborate saliva tests" for loyalty.

Urges Government Reforms

John W. Hanes declared the need for reform in government and described the work of the Hoover Executive Branch Reorganization Committee, of which he is a member. He pointed out that there are, at the present time, thirty-nine executive agencies, responsible only to the President, which the Hoover committee is seeking to reorganize in an effort to reduce costs and to increase the efficiency and responsibility of these bureaus.

James B. Reston, Washington correspondent for The New York Times, said that the faults in American politics are not in the institutions themselves, but in the manner in which they were being operated. He pointed out that there is now a comparatively strong cabinet, but that it is not functioning as a cabinet, since there are basic differences of opinion among the various departments as to where we stand on world issues.

Mr. Reston said that it was not surprising that there has been a certain amount of confusion in United States foreign policy. He pointed out that this country has had to move from an isolationist viewpoint to a position of world leadership within a decade and that United States diplomats are still amateurs.

Mr. Reston's statement concluded the exposition. In the free-for-all discussion that followed, Mr. Porter and Mr. Schlesinger tried to put Mr. Hanes on the spot for his views on cutting down the executive department, but Mr. Hanes steadfastly refused to be drawn into a wrangle, particularly when his assailants tried to pry a statement from him on the policies of Rep. John Tabor, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Williams Golfers Finish Fifth In New England Champ'nships

Marchese Only Purple Individual Qualifier, Loses Close Match

Fighting the elements and fifteen other colleges, the Williams golf team bettered more than half of the competing squads, but came out a poor second to the weather in the annual New England Championship held at Watertown (Boston) last weekend. Bucky Marchese was the only team member to qualify for the individual crown, but lost his first round match.

On Friday, under almost impossible playing conditions of cold, wind, and intermittent squalls, Bucky Marchese, Jerry Cole, Dick Heuer, Chuck White, Kim Whitney, and Corky MacLeod attempted to improve on last year's runner-up position, but instead dropped down to fifth. Marchese played a fine round of 76 despite three bogies on the last three holes as his hands became too cold to grip the club. Stretched out behind Bucky were Cole at 82, and White and Whitney with 86 apiece giving Williams a 330 total and a three-way tie for fifth. Boston College won with a remarkable 315, nosing out Wesleyan (the Forbes brothers that is) by one stroke.

On Saturday morning Bucky's putter failed him and he lost two and one to Vin Moran of Boston College. On the first hole they both had fifteen footers for birdies but Moran's dropped while Bucky's did not. Marchese grabbed back the second with a par, only to go one down again as Moran parred the difficult third. A bogie was good enough to win for Buck on the fourth. Five, six and seven were halved in par. The first of three three-putt greens and Bucky on number eight gave Moran a one-up lead for the third time.

Bucky bogied the twelfth to go two down, and lost an opportunity to make it one by taking four strokes to get from just off the thirteenth green to the cup. Both fired par three's on the fourteenth and fifteenth. On the sixteenth Bucky dropped a twenty-foot putt for a birdie to cut Moran's lead to one hole, but after a tremendous drive on the seventeenth Buck took three putts and lost the hole and match to the Boston College man.

Freshman Baseball Loses Two-Hitter

Last Saturday the freshman nine travelled to Amherst for their tilt with the University of Mass., only to be forced to beat a hasty retreat on the short end of a 8-1 score.

The scenic motor trip through the Berkshires was a little too much for Squid Sheehy, regular yearling hurler, who was put out of action by car sickness. Bob Olsson did a capable job in his absence, but he couldn't approach the crack pitching of Mass.'s Ed McCauly, who gave up only two hits, both of which went to center-fielder Shay Lynch.

Purple, Elis, Lead In NE Tennis Play

Sandwiched between rain storms last week-end at Dartmouth the New England Tennis Championships were dominated by Williams and Yale.

The semi-finals of the singles saw Charlie Schaaf of Williams lose to Jack Geller of Yale 6-3, 6-2, while Eli Rolor Ray defeated Ephman Stu Robinson 6-0, 6-1. Since it rained on Sunday, the singles finals will be played at Yale later this week.

The doubles portion of the tournament also is not yet completed. Rolor Ray and Bill Ford of Yale, seeded number one, are safely in the finals, having defeated Stu Robinson and Dick Palmer 6-1, 6-4 in straight sets in the quarter-final round. Their semi-final match against Bushman and Cowan of Wesleyan was played in the rain with Yale winning 6-4, 8-6.

Scribner-Schaaf in Semis
The Eph team of captain Scribner and Schaaf are in the semi-finals paired against Kaufman and Watters of MIT.

Trackmen Run In NE Meet

TRACKMEN m.
Quarter-miler Bill Barney and miler Kev Delany will represent Williams in the New England Track Championship Meet, to be held at Providence, Rhode Island next weekend, May 21 and 22. Twenty-eight colleges will be represented.

Barney, who was unbeaten in his first four races this season, ran his best race last week, in losing to RPI's captain and record-holder, John Bundschuh. Bundschuh beat out Barney by three yards, breaking the official track record, with a 49.3 quarter. Barney ran a 49.8 quarter himself. Of the group entering the New England, only two other men have broken 50 seconds this season, Reed of Holy Cross and Crimmins of Brown.

Delany, star of the winter mile-relay team, was out for the first three meets of this season with an ankle injury. Last week, without being pushed, he won easily with a 4:40.3 mile against RPI.

Weightmen Bill Blanks and Marty Detmer may participate in the meet. Detmer will probably compete in the shotput, while highpointman Blanks will limit himself to the discus.

Intramural Track Meet Next Week

Next week the Interfraternity track meet on Monday and Wednesday, and the Lehman Cup competition on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday will give all Williams athletes a chance to nail down honors in track.

The annual Intramural meet is a veritable hacker's paradise, since all crack athletes who have collected letters in track during the past, or who served the Purple on this year's freshman or varsity combines, are banned from competition. The only exception allowed to this edict is that a field event man can take a fling at the running events, and vice versa.

All the regular track events are on the schedule, with the exception of the high hurdles, the hammer throw, and the two-mile run, which is generally conceded to be a little too gruelling for those who are not in shape. Each social unit is permitted to enter two men in each event, and an individual is limited to competing in either two running and one field event, or one running and two field events.

The Lehman Cup competition, which determines the best individual trackman in Williams, is a lot tougher, since any Ephman is allowed to enter. The awards, presented to the college by Herbert H. Lehman, '99, go to the five men receiving the top scores in a meet judged on the decathlon method. On this basis, points are awarded on performance rather than place, so a man has a chance of winning even if he isn't a star in any one event. Formerly, a man could pick up a first or second in an event where there was little competition, and thus win the Cup, even though he was far from being the best all-around track man.

West Point Skippers Tip Purple, 87-76

Last Saturday the Williams Yacht Club was overcome by Army 87 to 76 in a very close and exciting regatta on the Hudson River at West Point.

The three boats being raced for Williams were skippered by Phelps Edwards, Steve Weyer, and Ward Mauck and crewed by Bart Bardes, Barry Benepe, and Ronny Moir. Due to a failing wind during the afternoon, only six of the eight triangular courses were completed.

Although Army finished ahead of Williams, the Cadets were unable to take the lead until the third race had been finished. In the first race Weyer copped first place and Mauck took second putting Williams three points ahead. Although Weyer took second place in the next race, the West Point sailors tied the score at 27-27 and then ran up an eleven point lead in the remaining four races.

Altogether Army took four firsts, two seconds, and five thirds, and Williams placed first twice, second four times, and third once. Weyer amassed 32 points for Williams. Edwards 23, and Mauck 21.

Varsity Nine Faces Arnold

Pitcher Today Either Kaufman Or Dittmar

Either Big Bill Kaufman or George Dittmar will be on the mound when Bobby Coombs' Varsity Nine faces Arnold College on Weston Field this afternoon.

Little is known about the Arnold ball club except that they have an outstanding righthanded pitcher and that they gave the same Upsala team which beat the Purple in the 8-7 heartbreaker during the spring trip a thorough trouncing.

The Dartmouth game which was rained out for the second time last weekend has been rescheduled for May 26, thus giving the Ephmen two tough ball games in two days since the varsity nine meets Villanova here on the 25th.

Yearling Lacrosse Slams Union, 24-4

The freshman stickmen won the second victory of their season Saturday by drubbing a helpless Union team, 24-4. Captain Gordy McWilliams, Bobby Day, and "Cubby" Snively accounted for ten of the Purple's goals.

Played on a wet field during intermittent showers, the game was ragged and loosely contested. It was Williams all the way, with the Purple leading 8-3, 12-3, and 18-4 at the end of the quarters. Day was high scorer for Williams with six goals and two assists. Snively scored five goals, with Chuck Hartel next with three goals and two assists. Co-Captain Greve, playing in the goal for Union, sparked the Union defense.

The freshmen now have a record of two wins against one defeat, having beaten New England College, 8-0, and lost to Mt. Hermon, 9-1. The final game of the season will be played here Saturday against a strong Deerfield team.

by Bill Barney

The rains came ... at least so far as Coaches Coombs and Chaffee are concerned Sportswise, last weekend was a total flop in the New England area save for ducks and swimmers, and speaking of swimming Bob Muir's aces, after a five week layoff, are taking daily workouts in preparation for the summer Olympics. Under Muir's inspiring tutelage, Sandy Lambert, Hank Wineman, and Bob Reid should be in top form for the final Olympic tryouts to be held in Detroit, July 8-9-10. The fact that all three placed in the Nationals gives fair indication that a free trip to Europe may be in the offing.

Thanks to the typical spring weather conditions, the varsity nine has been inactive since its 4-2 win over Wesleyan houseparty weekend. The Dartmouth tussle, originally slated for May 11, was rained up to the 14th and finally drowned out to Wednesday, May 26. The Wes rivals have lost out in their bid for Little Three laurels now that the young men from Amherst Institute have given them two solid shellackings, 7-3 and 7-2 respectively. Eph meets Jeff at home May 31 for the first time this season. Whether the remainder of the schedule is washed away in a torrential downpour or the Coombsmen fail to win another game, the 5-4 triumph over highly touted Holy Cross ... a Williams victory which snapped a 15 game streak from the Crusaders ... should provide the necessary chunk of satisfaction for this season.

Chaffee's racquetters have decisively lost to Princeton and the weather, having played only three of their eight matches scheduled to date. The New Englanders at Hanover last weekend were rained out on Friday and Sunday, leaving Saturday the only full day of competition and that on mushy courts. The doubles match with MIT will be played here on Friday. Should the Purple pull through, the number one duet of Scribner and Schaaf meet Yale here Sunday rather than at New Haven. Eli Rolor Ray lost the choice on a coin toss.

Seems as though the lacrosse men have a novel game on their hands the afternoon of the Amherst baseball tilt May 31. They take on the alumni in what may be a close contest, since the opponents include all time great, Harv Potter, and last year's captain, Howie Adams. Further opposition may be provided in the persons of Oil Lefferts, '46 and last year's mid-fielder, Jack Crawford.

Coach Tony Plansky's cindermen racked up 315 points this season to the opponents 342, but lost four of their five meets. Could be temporary shelving of Delany, Cook, Kelton, Wilson, Stabler, and Pinkerton had a little something to do with this.

Sardonic Stanley Woodward has left the New York Herald Tribune. Press releases state that the former sports editor of the Trib, Boston Herald, and Worcester Telegram could not go along with present policies of the metropolitan newspaper.

Veterans Offered Vocational Tests

RPI Guidance Center, Will Give Aptitudes

Williams College veterans, of all classes, who are still unsettled in their minds as to their vocational desires or aptitudes, are invited to take the vocational tests offered by the Department of Counseling and Testing at R. P. I. in Troy, N. Y., released recently by William O. Wyckoff, Director of Placement, according to a letter received from the Veterans Administration at Watervliet.)

Those veterans who wish advice must file a request for this service with the Chief, Advisement and Guidance Section, Veterans Administration, Boston Regional Office, 17 Court Street, Boston, Mass. In this letter the veteran should state whether the V. A. has previously provided him with any counseling under Public Law 346 or Public Law 16.

Upon receipt of this letter the Advisement and Guidance Section of the Boston Regional Office will prepare a folder containing any information pertinent to the case and immediately forward it to the Watervliet office for the scheduling of the veteran to appear at the R. P. I. Guidance Center. An inquiry by, or concerning an ex-service man should give the veteran's name and file number, whether C, XC, K, N, or V. If such file number is unknown, service or serial number should be given.

Written Exam Open For Foreign Service

The State Department has announced a competitive written examination for appointment as Foreign Service officer, Class 6, to be held September 27-30, 1948. This examination is open to men and women who are 21 years old and under 31 years of age, who are American citizens and who will have been such for ten years prior to July 1, 1948, and who are not married to aliens.

Candidates who pass the written examination will be given an oral and a physical examination in the early part of 1949.

Applications and additional information may be obtained from the Board of Examiners for the Foreign Service, Department of State, Washington 25, D. C., or from the Dean's office.

Panel III

Sunday morning, associate political science professor David Truman directed the discussion of participants Louis Hacker, Ralph Barton Perry, James B. Reston, and Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. through the third panel subject: "Policy and opinion: the integration of public support."

Commenting on the adequacy of our means for political and economic education, Mr. Perry, Harvard philosophy professor, said that since public opinion governs democracy, the manner of forming public opinion is vitally important and should entail some degree of intelligence and thoughtfulness. He questioned whether our agencies of mass communication are conducive to the creation of sound public opinion, stating that many of the factors of communication are mass-motivated to satisfy reader interest, and are not necessarily directed through the most thoughtful channels.

Non-Profit Motive

Mr. Hacker, professor of history and economics at Columbia University, argued that the publication business is not entirely concerned with monetary profits and gains. As an example, he pointed out that the labor press, which has reached great proportions, supplies a wealth of information to the public.

Mr. Reston, Washington correspondent for The New York Times, replied that the weaknesses of the press can be helped by getting out of the day-to-day ruts of production and studying the underlying causes of issues even though they may not be serious at the moment. He urged that we keep arguing for the presentation to the public of good newspapers. "Good news presentation need not be dull," he said.

Baxter Praised

Praise for President Baxter on his stand on academic freedom came from Mr. Schlesinger, author of The Age of Jackson, as he carried along Mr. Reston's thought, stating that the press must be free to publish not only ideas which we praise and think consistent, but also to those which we loathe. He said, "It is only in the area of unpopular ideas that free speech has any meaning." Mr. Schlesinger stated that in the problems of the press and the media of communication, one looks at the structure and not at the institutions of leadership. He maintained that the default lies in political leadership and not in machinery.

The mention of machinery prompted Mr. Reston "to talk shop." He said that the practice of the nation-wide news services is to put the most striking features of a story in the first paragraphs so that a long article may be cut to fit small papers. He said that this practice leads to unbalanced and improperly dramatized stories.

Newspapers Overemphasized

Mr. Schlesinger said that the importance of newspapers is overemphasized, whereas the stress should be placed upon the role of political leadership. He stated that the lack of the qualities for political leadership in the government has caused us to fall down in our public education responsibilities.

Turning to the formal side of education, as recommended by Mr. Truman, Mr. Hacker and Mr. Perry stressed the importance of colleges and other institutions as the developing spots for future leaders and discriminating consumers.

Mr. Hacker concluded the discussion by saying that positive values are needed in the world today and that we must preserve the worth of the individual on the assumption that he has integrity and rationality.

Correction

In Roger Ernst's column, "The Lightning Rod," in the May 15 issue of The Record, "In the absence of imports our contribution would probably have to be about three times greater" should be read as "about one third greater."

Americans Preparing For Role As "DP's"

Special to The Williams Record from the Boston Sunday Herald. The author of this article is W. E. Playfair. This may come as quite a shock, but thousands of Americans are hedging against an A-bomb war by converting their cast into precious stones.

It's an old story in Europe, of course, but the idea of men and women in the land of the free calmly getting ready to be "D.P.'s" takes some getting used to. And that is just what they are doing especially along the Atlantic seaboard. Out in Babson Park, Wellesley, a firm that normally deals in statistics is doing a rushing business in diamonds, to be used as "emergency currency" in the event of a new fighting war. Back of the movement is Roger W. Babson, who has taken the atom bomb threat so seriously that he founded Utopia College in Kansas to get away from it.

Scare Propaganda

"We have been accused of selling something on the basis of scare propaganda," says Charles J. McCullough, treasurer of the Babson-owned Business Statistics Organization, Inc. "That is the farthest from our minds. We always ask the public to look at the facts and tell our clients what the facts indicate to us." Here is what the facts indicate, according to the literature of the Wellesley concern:

"In an emergency, the great advantage of diamonds lies not only in their selling price and their universal marketability, but in their small size. When fleeing from cities which are being bombed, you must leave your land, furniture, and even works of art, furs, etc. Perhaps you can take along a few stock certificates and bonds upon which you might be able to borrow a small amount if fully negotiable.

Fine Jewelry

"Fine jewelry can be taken in a handbag or pockets. Diamonds are not only so small as to take almost no space whatever, but they can temporarily be secreted in many ways. In short, diamonds offer the most compact form of real values, negotiable in every part of the world at all times."

And Mr. Babson himself has this to say:

"Diamonds may go down to zero, which many stocks can do. They will always have some market value and always be worth something everywhere. Besides, they pay constant dividends in enjoyment. Everyone should have about 5% of his capital in diamonds, remembering that even real estate and mortgage can be completely wiped out by taxes."

Sold As Insurance

The statistics firm, now in the diamond business, emphasizes that the stones are not sold as an investment, but rather as insurance against the calamity of war.

"As to what you or your grandchildren can get for them in cash depends upon the value of cash at the time of sale," the prospectus says. "In a time of severe deflation, you probably would get considerably less than you now pay for a diamond, but in a time of radical inflation, you might get ten times or perhaps one hundred times what you now pay us. Germans in 1923 could have had in cash for diamonds 1,000,000 times what they paid for the stones only ten years previous."

World War III

"Mr. Babson gave a lot of thought to the problem facing our clients, should a third world war be thrust upon us suddenly, McCullough says. "If it comes, the United States is not going to be so fortunate as in the past in keeping fighting war from our shores. If our cities are attacked with atomic bombs or guided missiles, the people will have to move about. They will be unable to take their heavy assets along, so they must have some sort of emergency See JEWELRY, page 4

Student Store Plans Co-op

In conjunction with the celebration of its first postwar anniversary in June, the Student Book Store has announced a new cooperative plan open to all students except those graduating this June. The idea, conceived by Co-managers Daniel Mahoney '50, Clair Rublee '50, and Robert Mahoney '49, is a proposition somewhat similar to the sale of stock by a corporation.

The book store is planning a concentrated membership drive to be conducted from now till June 3. The aim is 100% subscription by the student body. Membership in the Coop costs two dollars and entitles the member to a 5% discount on all books, new or second hand, purchased at the Student Book Store. In an interview, Co-manager Dan Mahoney emphasized the point that "the initial investment of two dollars is refunded when the student leaves Williams." Thus, in joining the book store under the cooperative plan, the student takes no risk of losing any money.

The money received from memberships will provide working capital which the management plans to use for the purchase of larger stocks of books. As a class graduates each June, money will be refunded to the investors, the deficit being met by new subscriptions sold to incoming freshmen the next September. At present the book store is financed by the S. A. C., partly in the form of a loan and partly in the form of an underwritten note.

Increasing Success

Since joining the ranks of Spring Street businessmen almost a year ago, Student Book Store managers report progressively increasing success in competition with other local firms. However, "in many instances professors have forgotten that the student organization exists and have failed to notify the store on the selection of new books to be used." The book store managers believe that this trouble will be eliminated by the publicity resulting from wholehearted student support of the new coop membership plan.

In its year of operation the student firm has found that 90% of the market is for second hand books. Next year, according to Mahoney, the book store will be in a position to keep a larger stock of second hand books on hand.

Naval Flight Duty Offered

Commissions as ensign-pilots in Naval Aviation are being offered now to college graduates who can qualify for flight duty, Commander F. O. C. Fletcher, of the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, has announced.

College graduates, including those students now completing their senior year who have not reached their 25th birthday, are eligible to apply for commissions as ensign with direct assignment to Navy Flight Training.

This program calls for four years active service including a four-month indoctrination period followed by 18 months of flight training at Pensacola, Florida, and two years' duty as a naval aviator, with the opportunity of continuing in the navy as a career.

UC Considers Social Control

Rooms Sought For Foreign Students

Tentative plans for increased student government control over college social activities were considered by the Undergraduate Council and members of the discipline and entertainment committees at an informal meeting following the regular meeting, Monday evening, at the Alumni House.

The Council felt that it would be advisable to have a clearing house for plans made by any unit of the College in the way of group activities. The UC empowered the entertainment committee to draw up and submit to the Council a recommendation regarding the planned or subsidized activities of any unit of the College.

The entertainment committee will develop some sort of plan whereby a unit's schedule of planned events would be submitted to the committee for consideration a number of weeks in advance. The entertainment committee would decide whether any of the activities scheduled might be such that they would get out of hand or be detrimental to the best interests of the College.

Bowdoin Plan Discussed

At the regular UC meeting, Henry M. Halsted '48, NSA chapter president, reported on the progress of Bowdoin Plan considerations. He said that at the meeting of house treasurers the previous Thursday, the decision was for each man in college to pay $1.00 a year to cover the room rent of the five foreign students for two terms. The price of meals for the men would be absorbed by each social unit, in rotation, as its turn came up to play host to a foreign student.

The UC promised to make a decision next week on the entire Bowdoin Plan issue. The Council approved the recommendation of William Fawcett '50, Ray Baldwin '50, and Charles Brashears '50, to complete next year's group of cheer leaders.

D. U.'s Support French Girl By Penny-A-Day Donations

A penny a day keeps starvation away. Yes, this is the price which each of the 57 members of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity pays to support Agnes-Marie Biesse, a 9 year-old French girl whose mother has been forced to seek financial aid through Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, Inc. The D. U.'s are the second fraternity to adopt a "war child" since Sigma Phi adopted a little Belgian orphan earlier this term.

"Tatie"—as she is known—is the older of the two children of Pierre and Agnes—Therese Biesse—Jean-Pierre is seven. Her father, an officer in the French Colonial Army, was killed in action in April 1943. Meanwhile Mme. Biesse had returned with her children to France and settled in Auvergne.

Soon Mme. Biesse's home became an information center for the local Underground Resistance. A passionate patriot, Mme. Biesse used her journalistic skill to secure vital information and send it to the right place at the right time.

Since Liberation, Mme. Biesse has worked extremely hard to provide her children with the necessities of life, but her meagre journalistic income combined with an equally small government pension cannot meet her needs. Therefore Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, Inc., realizing her dire plight, agreed to seek aid for her.

Through the plan and the support of the D.U.'s, Tatie will receive food, clothing, medical and dental care, and additional schooling. Her mother also receives a small monthly allowance to cover other expenses.

Sondheim To Star In Murder Melodrama "Night Must Fall"

Cast Of Eight Enacts Final Cap And Bells Production Of Year

by Richard Heuer

Fresh from his thundering success as co-author of "Phinney's Rainbow", Stephen Sondheim '50 will play the lead role in Emlyn Williams' "Night Must Fall." The final Cap and Bells production of the year will open this Friday, May 28, and will also play Memorial Day, May 31.

First produced in 1935, the English playwright's murder melodrama features a small cast of only eight players. Sondheim is cast as Dan, a bellboy in an Essex, England, resort hotel. His totally disarming good humor and childlike unself-consciousness are essential to the deception and seduction that take place throughout the play.

Beer, Swim Highlight Sunday Tubs Picnic

Beer and swimming will be highlights of the Sophomore picnic to be held tomorrow at the Tubs from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. A bus starting at 11 a.m. will run back and forth between the Tubs and Jesup Hall to provide transportation for those without cars.

The Tubs is a small pond and glen in North Pownal, Vermont, about eight miles from Williams. To get there, go up Route 7 toward Bennington, turning left on Route 346; follow 346 for about three miles to the Tubs. There will be markers along the road to point out the way.

Berkshire Ork Gives Concert

Audience Enthusiastic; Nin-Culmell Praised

The fourth concert of the Berkshire Community Orchestra under the direction of Professor Nin-Culmell was enthusiastically received by an audience of more than 700 people last Monday evening in Chapin Hall.

Included in the program were works representing both classic and romantic composers, ranging from two suites for brass quintet of Johann Pezel to the romantic school of Tschalkowsky (Symphony No. 4) and Johann Strauss' the "Emperor" Waltz. The opening selection, Mozart's Symphony No. 25, was especially well done, in that conductor Nin-Culmell seemed to pay close attention to the clear statement and development of the theme in a successful effort to adhere to the classic form. Yet at the same time the lyric quality of these themes was not neglected. Likewise the seldom heard Overture to "L'Italiana in Algeri" of Rossini was played with a great deal of appealing freshness and vitality.

The Pezel Suites seemed to be a little too much for the quintet to perfect, keeping the latter part of the program from quite matching the performance of the first. However the Tschalkowsky and Strauss (the latter displaying a relieving change of tempo) were comparatively well done. That the concert as a whole was successful became apparent from the response of the audience after every selection and especially after the Rossini Overture encore.

The Committees organizing the freshman-sophomore softball championship which will be played this afternoon on Cole Field, changed plans for the game Thursday after a conflict developed with the freshman baseball game with Amherst.

The Amherst game was reset for Saturday after being rained out last week. As a result, the beer kegs will be tapped and the softballers will take the field at 1 p. m. and the freshman baseball team will tackle the Sabrinas at 3 p. m.

Faculty Line-up Revised

There was also a last-minute revision in the line-up of faculty umpires and waterboys. Professor Keller will remain as head umpire, with Professor Barnett as his assistant. Dean Copeland, however, has replaced Dean Sheehan as waterboy for the freshman squad. Dean Brooks will succeed any of the fighting sophomores who prefer water.

Mr. Barnett told The Record that he was looking forward eagerly to officiating the game. "I'm an eagle-eyed ump," he said, "and you can be sure I'll dispense justice without bias." When asked about the costumes which he and the other officials will wear, he replied that he had committed himself to the committee to wear one as long as it was not indecent, but that he had not yet been let in on the details.

College Dance

The indoor highlight of the week-end will be the College dance in the gym Saturday night from 8-12 p. m. Music will be provided by Bill Lawson's orchestra, featuring the lovely vocalist Barbara Carpenter. The band was formerly headed by Harry Noring. Bob Carrington '51, billed as "The Master of The Magic Wand," will perform his magic during the intermission. Reputedly the youngest member of the Society of American Magicians, he has appeared on the Jinx Falkenburg-Tex McCreary television show and in nightclub shows.

Standish Elected Official In USGA

James D. Standish '13, the unheralded Bobby Jones, will be the guest of honor at a "Jimmie" Standish day celebration to be held at the Country Club of Detroit May 26th in recognition "of the man who has done more for golf in Detroit than any other person" and his recent election as vice-president of the United States Golf Association.

A member of the Williams golf team during his undergraduate days, Standish captained the team in his Junior and Senior years and was president of the Inter-collegiate Golf Association as a Junior. Upon graduation, Standish entered Nicol, Ford and Co. in Detroit but continued to add to his collection of golf titles.

Undergraduate Laurels

Standish started gathering golf laurels at Williams when he won the North-South Amateur in 1909 and was a three time winner of the Michigan State Amateur while at Williams. After leaving college, Standish was runner-up in the Western Amateur in 1915-16 and won the district championship of Detroit in 1925. Following this with a victory in the Northern France Amateur in 1926, Standish also represented the district of Detroit association in the USGA tournaments from 1923-32.

He has also been governor of the Detroit District Golf Association from 1921-33 and 1937-47 and president of the Country Club of Detroit for ten years. An honorary member of the Michigan PGA from 1925-47, Standish has retired from these positions to assume his full-time job with the USGA.

We Despise

The most revolting un-American activity which has yet been accounted to the public was printed in Sunday's Boston Herald.
The story has been reprinted in columns one and two on page one.

In a world which is striving for peace, the endorsement of defeat by Roger W. Babson and his cohorts is a disgrace to the courage and enterprise which fostered the development of the United States. Aiding and abetting disbelief in the United States to the extent that people are preparing to become deported persons of war is, in our opinion, similar to an Army deserter.

Supposedly the United States is leading the way along the rough and rocky road to peace. For Americans to tell the world they do not believe in America is the most detrimental action they can take at this time.

Charles J. McCullough of the Babson organization has told his clients, "When fleeing from cities which are being bombed, you must leave your land, furniture, and even works of art, furs, etc." The material wealth of life appears to concern Babson and McCullough more than the welfare of the hard-gained American political freedoms. These men with little regard for the reputation of the United States have apparently over-looked the bad psychological and publicity reactions which their suggestion would cause the world over. They have forsaken the value of freedom for material security. They have ignorantly decided that the human dignity of the free man is worth less than the material well-being of man under a dictatorial state.

In a world which daily sees Frenchmen distrusting Frenchmen, Jews hating Arabs and Arabs hating Jews, and different nationalities fearing each other, the basis of any lasting peace is Americans believing in America and other Americans.

Regardless of criticisms of our foreign policy, we feel that the United States government is trying to secure lasting peace. All attempts to foster this feeling in the rest of the world will be defeated by Americans precluding the failure of these attempts.

This element could be the basis of a similar disaster to the catastrophe of France in 1939 and 1940. We hope that all Williams men are prepared to fight this element. We hope they despise it as we do.

Letters To The Editor

Plugs Probation Precautions

To The Editor of The Williams Record:

Without attempting to justify or condemn the recent action taken by the joint student faculty Discipline Committee of the Undergraduate Council, every one of us should look to the future social life at Williams so that the occasion can not arise placing houses on social probation. . . .

The important consideration for all of us now is NOT to make a mountain out of a mole hill. . . . let's all "take our medicine" like gentlemen, learn from our mistakes, and see that it doesn't happen again.
... The following suggestions are my personal suggestions, for which I will take full responsibility. They are not prompted by Gargoyles, or my house, which is on social probation. . . .

Houses have left themselves wide open to such rumors and gossip because they have been few, if any, responsible elder people on hand. . . .

Yale University met a similar situation, which obviated "irregularities" without the festivities which characterize any houseparty. . . .
Each house invited a young married faculty member with his wife. . . .
That way genuine houseparty happiness and spirit prevailed with a minimum of inconvenience from the minority of individuals who would mar it for the rest. If Williams were to take a page from Yale's book, I believe everyone would be the better. Also, more people would enjoy houseparties, and houses would not be embarrassed with "indefinite social probation."

"Chaperonage" has connotations of unfortunate nature to many people. Yet had the seven houses placed on social probation had some elder person present, enjoying their parties with them, all the ugly rumor, scandal, and gossip charging the atmosphere would be impossible.

The dichotomy between undergraduates and faculty is most regrettable anyway. Both groups are human, inside and outside of classes.
Williams would be better if both "knew" each other outside the classroom more. We have a good faculty. Many of the younger faculty are Williams graduates anyway. Invariably, they have a knack of marrying "real" women. . . . If we had invited some of the young faculty and their wives to our houses, we would have had a better time, so would our "chaperones." Most important of all, no house would have been on social probation today, and hard feelings would not be dampening the spirits of everyone, students and faculty. I suggest such a procedure at future houseparties.

Again, the entertainment, or social committees of each house ought to work more closely with each other in planning seasonal houseparties, and other social events such as winter carnival and ski meets. During dances, etc. in houses, they would be responsible for seeing that irregularities do not crop up. They would work with chaperones in the event of excessive drunkenness, rowdiness, etc. (and such will happen from time to time; we're not all supermen). . . . We have talked a lot about spirit and morale. Let's do something about it.
... The alternative to indiscriminate houseparties will be the social eight ball; social probation.

Thus Spake The Prophet

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

It has occurred to me that those who saw a certain news item on the front page of last Saturday's Record would be interested in some of the words of the prophet Isaiah. These comprise part of the vocal text of a modern composition which the Berkshire Chorus is rehearsing in preparation for its Chapin Hall concert on May 25th.

THE WILLIAMS RECORD, SATURDAY, MAY 22, 1948

I juxtapose the headline from The Record and the excerpts from Isaiah without further comment:

SEVEN HOUSES GIVEN SOCIAL PROBATION.

"Woe unto them that join house to house . . . Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning, that they may follow strong drink; that continue till night,—till wine inflame them . . . Woe to the multitude of many people, which make a noise like the noise of the seas. Woe!"

Says Editors 'Sincere'

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

My first reaction to The Record editorial of May 15 was one of mild amusement tinged with nausea; I interpreted it then as an obvious grease-job for the administration, disciplinary committee, and all others who hold that "common decency and good taste are also Williams traditions." My reasons for considering this editorial merely opportunistic bootlicking must be obvious. There periodically appears in The Record certain bits of clever writing which violate all concepts of good taste, if not common decency itself.

Specifically, I refer to such gems as "Capt. Mike Huggins—responsible for every blond the team has made in the past three years,"
"California where—they really make women," and other remarks of similar character in the April 1 issue of The Record. Moreover, Columnist Horton's efforts, while frequently humorous, often fall below the standards of good taste which The Record editors seem to think so necessary for the maintenance of a high reputation for Williams College.

Certainly the publishing of humorous material of this vein in the only periodical which can be said to represent Williams, or a part of the Williams undergraduate body, does as much to advertise and lower the reputation of the College as any wild milk-punch party.

To me the editorial indicated one of two things: either (1) The Record editors are completely opportunistic—supporting proponents of good and bad taste with equal facility, never committing the error of championing the unpopular cause, (2) the editors, despite their vague concept of the need for "good taste and common decency" do not have the strength of their convictions, and cater to that "certain portion of the student body (which) has not reached the maturity generally ascribed to college men."

However, after reading the editorial over again, I qualified these first impressions with a possible second interpretation. It occurred to me that The Record editors are sincere in their desire for "good taste and common decency," for a fine "reputation of the College." If that is true, as I hope it is, The Record must extend its principles to its own situation. Although a wild houseparty does not truly illustrate the spirit of Williams College, the casual observer will associate the two ideas; the reputation of Williams is thereby impaired. Similarly, although the poorest, most vulgar humor of The Record is neither representative of the editorial policy of the paper nor of the spirit of the College, it too impairs the College reputation and conflicts with its avowed standards of good taste.

I firmly believe that The Record is correct in stating that "the next step involved is the re-education of many Williams men." The Record can and should be an effective instrument in achieving this goal. But The Record must make sure that its own hands are clean before it reaches out to put a damning finger on others.

Gives Fuller Explanation

FULL INTERPRETATION

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

In view of the somewhat confused report of my speech at the opening of the Spring Conference in last Saturday's Record, may I ask that you print the following quotation from a section of the address?

"Collectivism is nothing but organized cooperation to secure some economic good which a group of people want—and can get only by group action. We've been doing it for years. The corporation is collective action to amass the amount of capital and assure the centralized management necessary for large scale production. The farm cooperative is collective action to assure economy in the purchase of farm supplies, efficiency in the distribution of farm products, or the availability of expensive equipment which few individual farmers can afford. The trade union is collective action to achieve a degree of control over wages, hours and working conditions—impossible to the individual worker or employer. The T. V. A. is collective action for flood control, navigation, power production and the economic and cultural elevation of a vast, undeveloped and potentially wealthy region of our country. So huge is this undertaking that it is beyond the power of any individual, any union, any state or even of Commonwealth and Southern! Old age and survivors insurance involves risks and responsibilities outside the limits of any institution but the federal government.

"With this rich tradition of cooperative action, it would not be surprising if the people of this country insisted that in the solution of our housing problem the highest necessary level of collective or cooperative action be undertaken. In the long run, we are not likely to be deterred from this course by the real estate lobbyists who draw the cobweb of "collectivism" over our need for shelter.

"By the same token, it will be surprising if we do not reject those political aspirants who would deny economic aid to the democratic countries of Europe which are taking equally realistic group action to meet their urgent economic needs.

"In our frontier days we held housing bees. It took several men to lift a log. Today we are heading toward federal support and coordination of housing construction. Apparently no agency short of the federal government can do for the inefficient and atomistic housing industry what Henry Ford did for mass production of automobiles.

"It is of great significance to the people of Europe that the name of one of our most conservative political leaders, Senator Robert Taft, is attached to a housing bill which would take carefully considered steps toward a federal housing program. In this symbol they may properly find support for efforts to meet their own far more critical problems by whatever degree of collective action proves necessary to do the job.

"It would be more than a pity if Europeans were misinformed about the real attitudes of Americans by political candidates who would reserve economic aid to those who regard Adam Smith's 'Wealth of Nations' as the latest word of economic wisdom. I should find it difficult to believe that the new administrator of E. C. A., Mr.
Paul Hoffman, with his excellent record of encouraging cooperative effort to meet problems of post-war reconversion, would reject any effective form of democratic group action—whether state or local—to meet the problems of European Recovery. The cobwebs and spiders of "collectivism" terrify only the Casper Milquetoasts of our political life."

Arnold College 13 Hit Attack Crushes Varsity Baseball 9-7

Ditmar Faces Wesmen In Little Three Tilt Out Of Town Today

by Steve Blaschke

Even a four-run ninth inning rally was not enough to offset a thirteen hit attack by Arnold College which outlasted the Ephs for a 9-7 victory in a twenty-seven hit slugfest on Weston Field last Wednesday. The Coombsmen had their hitting shoes on, collecting fourteen hits including five for extra bases, however, leaving ten runners stranded and some early inning pitching lapses gave Arnold a comfortable six run lead till the ninth.

The ballgame started off in fine fashion as starter Bill Kaufman breezed five strikes in a row past the Arnold lead-off batters and retired the side in order thanks to Ralph Mason's fine catch near the track in left field. Don LeSage contributed to this auspicious start by lining a triple to right in the lower half of the first and then scoring on George Owen's sliced single to right.

Johnston Takes Over

Trouble started with the Purple leading 1-0 in the third. The Arnold pitcher led off with an infield single and before the smoke had cleared another single, and an error and two long wind-blown doubles had given the Phys. Ed. boys from New Haven a 4-1 lead. They continued their savage onslaught in the fourth. Again the pitcher singled to start the rally, this was followed by a long triple by the diminutive Arnold captain and centerfielder. The right fielder then smacked another triple to left and that was all for Kaufman.

With Bob Johnston on the hill the fire was put out after one more run had scored on a single. Arnold picked up another single run on three hits in the fifth but Owen's shoestring catch saved any further trouble. Mason singled in the lower half of the inning and short singles by Chuck Schmidt and LeSage loaded the bases. Owen then hoisted one of his lofty doubles, driving in two runs and making the score 8-3. A triple added another Arnold run in the sixth but in the seventh Johnston held the Maroon Maulers scoreless with the help of Goodell's fine throw on an attempted steal.

Goodell Triples

George Ditmar took over the pitching in the eighth and the Arnold bats were permanently silenced as George faced only seven men, giving up one scratch hit and whiffing two. This set the stage for the ninth. Jim Waugh led off with a pinch hit single, LeSage walked and Captain Young's right field double drove in a run. Two more runs scored when Goodell lined a screaming triple into center and when DeLisser smashed a single past third the fourth run of the inning scored. With the tying run at the plate the Arnold lefty bore down and caught Mason looking at a third strike for the final out.

Since Amherst has beaten Wesleyan twice the Coombsmen must win their ballgame at Middletown this afternoon in order to stay in the thick of the Little Three race.

Stickers Face NH Wildcats

Traveling to Durham, N. H., Coach Whoop Snively's lacrosse men tangle with the New Hampshire Wildcats, this afternoon in what will be their last outside competition of the '48 season.

The team finishes up against the Alumni here on May 31.

Not a great deal is known about the Wildcats, but their record can not be taken to indicate a powerful team. They edged Springfield by a slim 7-6 margin. Williams crushed the same team, 16-10. Harvard hammered them, 10-1, and Dartmouth mistreated them, 29-0. The Purple trimmed the Crimson in their season's opener, 8-4, but lost to Dartmouth by a 14-1 count.

The Purple stickers should be at full, or near full, strength for the game. Midfielders Art Lewis, with bad ribs, and Phil Van Dusen, with an injured foot, ought to be ready to join center Dick Whitney in the first midfield. While these two have been convalescing, the second midfield of Tolly Taliaferro, Buz Brumbaugh, and Frenchy Oudin has been doing heavy duty.

In the attack co-captains Pat Graney and Ep Maynard, and Dick Meryman, aided by Cy Maywhile defensemen Howie Simpson, shark, lead the scoring punch. Bob Donoho, Marc Reynolds, and Dave Young thwart the opponents' attack. Mickey O'Connell tends the nets, seconded by Dave Maier. The practice game with Yale on Wednesday gave the team a real work-out before their last two games.

Jeff Frosh Take Little Three Meet

Though Wesleyan was an easy mark, the Freshman Track team didn't have quite enough depth to down Amherst in last Thursday's Little Three Meet at Middletown, the final score being Amherst 60, Williams 57, Wesleyan 37. Pete Maxwell, Andy Bacharach, and Walt Ziegenhals showed up very well in the running events.

100-yard Dash—Won by Neill (A); Bacharach (W) 2d; Kirkpatrick (A) 3d; Schultz (Wes) 4th. Time, 10.2 sec.

Golfers Crush Brown 8 1/2-1/2

The wind and Williams proved too much for Brown University last Wednesday at Taconic as the Purple golfers won their sixth straight victory 8 1/2-1/2. Brown, last year's Eastern Champs, never threatened as Williams took all of the best-ball matches, and all of the individual matches except one which was tied.

Bucky Marchese shone at the number one position with 76 to swamp Daggert seven and six and carry the best-ball by the same count. Jerry Cole afforded the only Williams letdown of the day in halving his match with Gresh, blowing a three hole lead.

Heuer and White Win

In the second foursome Dick Heuer won handily over Gibney five and four. Chuck White blasted Ross six and five, and Williams won the combination match by the overwhelming score of eight and seven.

At number five, Kim Whitney dropped a sidehill four foot putt on the eighteenth green to preserve his one up margin over Connors, Corky MacLeod, two down

Purple Key Elections, Held Last Tuesday

At a meeting of the Purple Key held last Tuesday night it was announced by President John Gibson that Oren Pollock '49 and Stefan Blaschke '50 had been appointed varsity basketball manager and assistant manager respectively while Frederick Pullman '50 and Harry Finke '50 had been appointed co-skiing managers.

The Purple Key Executive Committee for 1948-49 was elected at the same meeting. It will be composed of President John Gibson '50, Secretary Lawrence Fitch '50, Football Manager John Stephenson '50, assistant Wrestling Manager Merrill Behre '50, and assistant baseball manager Stefan Blaschke '50.

News Bureau Installs Teletype For Sports

Commencing September 20, 1948, the Williams News Bureau will operate a Western Union teletype machine in its office in Jesup Hall.

With the installation of the "Teleprinter," sports stories and summaries will be wired directly to all New England and New York newspapers. Under the present setup, many news releases fail to reach early editions due to delays in relaying and at the local Western Union office which is already overworked.

The apparatus is being installed at no expense to the college in order to facilitate transmissions from the News Bureau.

Tennis Beat Wesleyan, 8-1

Ephs Sweep Singles First Doubles Loss

The Williams tennis team garnered its first leg of the Little Three title by defeating Wesleyan 8-1 last Wednesday at Middletown. The Purple swept all the singles matches, however the Wesmen voided a shutout when their number one doubles team of Bushman and Cowan upset captain Fred Scribner and Charlie Schaaf 6-4, 6-4.

Robinson Wins

Stu Robinson at the number one spot for Williams played his usual steady, accurate game. He downed Cowan 6-4 in the initial set and held off the Wesmen's second set rally to win the final stanza, 7-5. Charlie Schaaf at number two dropped only a pair of games as he romped to a 6-1, 6-1 victory.

Fred Scribner, with his high-bounding American twist service and deep forehand drives standing him in good stead, overcame Lake 7-5, 6-4. However, his lack of play during this past rain-drenched week lowered the caliber of his backhand and net play, thus contributing to the close score.

Palmer Wins

Dick Palmer at number four eked out a 10-8, 6-4 decision over Wesleyan's Bruster. Bruster's errors off his backhand, combined with Palmer's strength on that side, provided the Williams player with his margin of victory.

Pete Thurber playing five defeated Soule 6-4, 6-4, while George Wright at six defeated Norton 6-1, 6-4. At the number two doubles position, Stu Robinson and Dick Palmer downed Lake and Norton 6-2, 6-4. Bill Riegel and Pete Thurber at the third spot defeated Brewster and Soule 6-3, 2-6, 6-3.

currency that they can pick up quickly and carry on their persons for long distances."

"It is easy to visualize that if such a catastrophe hit the country, the people in the seaboard areas who are fortunate enough to escape might find those in the interior unwilling to take their stocks for fear the assets behind them might be destroyed. But they could always negotiate precious stones.

"With a supply of diamonds they could obtain at least reasonable comfort—food, shelter, clothing, and other necessities. Also they might be able to carry through a part of their assets and be able to rehabilitate themselves later. This was done by innumerable people in Europe and elsewhere.

Diamond Department

Clients are advised to purchase their diamonds in varying "denominations," that is in several sizes and prices, so as to have an "emergency currency collection" for convenience when armageddon comes. Each stone is set, without charge, in a palladium scarf pin. This is to facilitate shipping, handling, and storing.

The firm emphasizes that it handles "only high quality diamonds," obtained direct from the Diamond Syndicate. So that is all you need to know if you wish, as the prospectus puts it, to "acquire a few carats as emergency currency."

Quite naturally, the jewelers have not approved of this enterprise, and several of their trade papers have borne down rather heavily on the Babson group.

Snively Appointed Maine Football Coach

Retained Here As Lacrosse, Hockey Coach

A Barr "Whoops" Snively, head football coach for the last two seasons at Williams, has been appointed as Assistant Football Coach at the University of Maine. Before assuming the position as Williams head coach in the fall of '46, "Whoops" was line mentor for eight seasons, from 1932 to 1939, under Charlie Caldwell, and from 1939 to 1943 was freshman coach. Coach Snively has served as varsity hockey and lacrosse coach during his years at Williams and will continue in these duties next winter and spring, according to Athletic Director Walter Sheehan.

"Whoops'" position at Maine will occupy his time from early in September to the first week in November, when the Maine team concludes its football season. He will then return to Williamstown to coach next year's hockey and lacrosse teams.

Coach Snively attended the U. S. Naval Academy and Princeton University where he was graduated in 1924, after starring as a blocking back and defensive end on both the Annapolis and Princeton elevens.

After serving as line coach at Williams during the 1928 season, "Whoops" went to Brown as an assistant to Tuss McLaughry, and served there until the end of the 1931 season when he returned to Williams. In the Spring of 1943 he entered the American Field Service. Upon his discharge in 1945 he went to Dartmouth as line coach under Tuss McLaughry, and in 1948 returned to Williams, this time as head football mentor, and hockey and lacrosse coach.

Wallaceites Hear Party Committeeman

"Henry Wallace is a mystic," Third Party committeeman Dr. Scott Buchanan told a meeting of Students for Wallace at Bennington Thursday night, "and like all mystics he is intensely curious—about agriculture, politics, economics, morals, religion and all knowledge fundamental to human life."

Donald Merwin '50 led a small group of Williams Students for Wallace to hear the philosopher-turned-politician and former Dean of St. John's College express the belief that Wallace can help the U. S. achieve true "collective freedom" and prepare ourselves to take part in a world federation which Dr. Buchanan feels is inevitable.

States Two Principles
Two principles, he said, are inherent in collective freedom. It implies first of all "the assurance that you can do what you ought to do and the assurance that you cannot be constrained to do what you ought not to do."

Collective freedom also demands a democracy where the compromise solution evolving from the political differences of a legislative body is ingenious and peculiar to the opposing policies. It is a democracy whose citizens are members of a "unified proletariat," united in their knowledge of what they "ought to do," and of what is humane and moral.

Applies Toynbee Theory
Dr. Buchanan applied the Arnold J. Toynbee theory of civilization growth and decay to the present and to Henry Wallace. Toynbee (See WALLACE, Page 4)

Zeta Centennial Held In AMT

200 Attend Zeta House Banquet

Threatening weather last Saturday afternoon forced Zeta Psi to move its Centennial celebration from its own back yard to Adams Memorial Theater. About 200 alumni, faculty and wives attended the short but appropriate commemorative exercises and the buffet banquet afterwards at the Zeta house.

Alan C. Harter '48, President of Zeta Psi, opened the program with a short greeting. David B. Mathias '26, President of the Zeta Chapter Trustees, echoed the greeting on behalf of the Zeta alumni and Trustees. The first speaker, Dr. Charles H. Stevens, President of the Zeta Psi Educational Foundation, explained the purposes of the Foundation.

Distler Presents Plaque
In short, said Stevens, the aims are twofold,—to further scholastic achievement and to develop better leadership. There are awards both for scholarship and for chapter and individual leadership. Stevens explained that these awards were not confined to Zetas alone, for at each college where a Zeta wins a scholarship award, there is awarded also a scholarship to a non-Zeta.

Soph Picnic Rained Out; Softball Next Friday

The Freshman-sponsored College dance Saturday night was the only weekend feature which survived the Berkshire weather. But those who danced to the music of Bill Lawson's orchestra agree that it went a long way toward making up for the outdoor gaiety dampened by three days of intermittent rain.

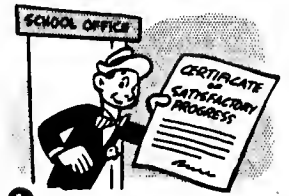

Freshman prexy Ernie Mierzejewski called the dance a "great social success." A crowd of around 400 applauded the intermission magic of Bob Carrington, "The Master of the Magic Wand," and the singing of vocalist Barbara Carpenter.

Air Force Recruits 400 Cadets From College Ranks

Immediate career opportunities in the challenging field of aeronautics are open to June graduates under the United States Air Force's expanding program of "Aviation Cadet pilot training. It was pointed out today by Lt. Col. J. A. L. Greco, Professor of Military Science and Tactics at Williams.

College men today have an exceptional opportunity to obtain free training in a field that will become increasingly significant as America and the world progress in the air age, Col. Greco said. Pilot training with the Air Force leads directly to an officer's commission and active flying duty, and presents an excellent opportunity for a career through commissions with the regular Air Force for top graduates of the course.

Men who want to fly still may qualify for the class which begins training on July 1, Col. Greco pointed out, if their applications are put in immediately. The Air Force still has room for approximately 400 more Aviation Cadet candidates in the July class, in which 1,040 men are scheduled to begin training at three USAF bases in Texas.

Flight training with the USAF is open to all unmarried male citizens between 20 and 26½ years old. Applicants must have had a minimum of two years of college or be able to pass an equivalent educational examination, and must be in excellent physical condition. Those who apply will be required to furnish transcripts of their college credits, pass a physical examination and successfully complete the Air Force qualifying test designed to measure their aptitude for flying.

Successful graduates of the 12-month pilot training program will receive their pilot's wings and commissions as Second Lieutenants of the Air Force Reserve, and will earn up to $336 a month to start. Up to five percent of each Aviation Cadet class will be offered regular Air Force commissions immediately upon graduation.

Information on the program is available at any USAF base, or at the nearest recruiting office, or may be obtained by writing directly to the Chief of Staff, USAF, Washington 25, D. C., attention Aviation Cadet Section.

DKE's Win Crooning Bout

Before a large and enthusiastic audience, the DKE's were crowned the "Singing Kings of Williams College" in the finals of the Inter-Fraternity Singing Contest which was broadcast over WMS Thursday night from the stage of Jesup Auditorium.

In an extremely close contest, the DKE octet avenged its defeat in last year's finals by downing the defending champions from St. Anthony Hall by a 3-2 count of the judges. The contest, which Wallace Barnes '49 had been running for several months over WMS, was concluded in a half-hour show in which the contestants alternated singing an ensemble of four songs each, interspersed with piano-vocal renditions of some jazz pieces by Robert A. Pihlcrantz '50.

The DKE's winning combination of ballads was: "Wake, Wake, Freshman, Wake", "Integer Vitae", "You Shall Be Free", and as their finale, "The Riff Song". The Saint delegation, led by Frederick J. Perry '49, came close with "Carolina in the Morning", "Are You From Dixie?", "Cocaine Bill and Morphine Sue", and "Coney Island Baby."

The DKE octet, led by Robert M. Blanchard '48, consists of 1st Tenors Arthur B. Treman, Jr. '51 and John K. Whitney '50; 2nd Tenors John H. Mortimer '48 and Peter H. Debevoise '51; 1st Basses Benjamin B. Foster, II, '48 and Earle F. Spencer, Jr., '51; and 2nd Basses Fred D. Salmon, Jr., '48 and Blanchard. The judges were Mr. and Mrs. John Frederick Ross, Mr. William O. Wyckoff, Professor Charles R. Keller, and A'sst. Professor James M. Burns.

AMT Group Set Program For '48 '49

The Committee for the Administration of the AMT, under the chairmanship of Professor John Hawley Roberts, has announced a tentative program of six productions for the coming year. In returning Cap and Bells to a subordinate position in the administration of the theatre, the Committee reached a compromise whereby one half of the theatrical bill of fare is to be sponsored by the AMT Committee while the remainder will be under the supervision of Cap and Bells.

The Committee-sponsored plays will be more specifically designed to integrate the theatre into the cultural life of the college, and, by keeping admission prices at a minimum to just cover costs, to bring the theatre within the range of a larger number of students. In this way, the theatre will become wider in scope than just an undergraduate, extra-curricular activity.

At present the Committee is negotiating to bring Margaret Webster's production of "Hamlet," which will go on tour to colleges and universities, to Williams. If the cost of this adventure proves prohibitive, a Shakespearean tragedy, probably "Julius Caesar" in modern dress, will take its place. In line with its task of more closely integrating the theatre with the curriculum, G. B. Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion" has been placed on the bill. This play will be used to illustrate work in the four different courses in which Shaw is studied.

Final choice of the third play on the Committee program awaits the arrival from Italy of the script of R. P. Warren's dramatization of "All the Kings Men." This was a (See AMT, Page 2)

Berkshire Quartet To Play In Chapin

Mrs. Coolidge Sponsors Concert Tomorrow

The Thompson Concert Committee has announced that a concert by the Berkshire Quartet will be held May 27 in Chapin Hall at 8:15 p. m. Sponsored by Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge, a distinguished patron of music, the concert is in honor of the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the series at South Mountain in the Berkshires.

Quartets by Mozart, Prokofiev and Beethoven will feature the program and the personnel of the Berkshire Quartet includes Urico Rossi, first violin, Julius Hegyi, second violin, David Dawson, viola, and Fritz Magg, 'cello.

There are no reserved seats for the concert and the admission is free.

Ditmar Allows Three Hits In Fourth Win

by Jack Schafer
What with George Ditmar pitching another three-hit shutout there wasn't much Williams could do but beat Wesleyan 4-0 on the loser's field last Saturday and go into a first-place tie with Amherst for the Little Three title.

It was a no score ball game for the first five innings, but, from the way Ditmar was going, the contest was never really in doubt. The biggest threat the Cardinals put on was in the fourth when the lead-off man singled and was sacrificed to second. That was the end of it. The next two men went down on fly balls.

Ephs Threaten

Wesleyan had Francis pitching and he turned in a fine ball game, holding Williams to one run for the first seven and two-thirds innings. He pitched out of a tough spot in the fourth when Lesage reached first on an error and Owen singled him to second. Young financed a trip to second and third with a sacrifice, and so with one out there were two men in scoring position. Brownell came up and grounded to the third baseman, and Lesage who had gotten a good lead off third was nailed at home on a good peg from first. Thus Wesleyan polished off the rally with a double-play to get Francis out of the hole.

Williams broke through for the first score of the game in the sixth, however, when George Owen authored a lengthy blast into centerfield which carried about 440 feet. George was able to make third on it, as it took three relays to get the ball in. He scored on an infield out a moment later to put Williams in the lead 1 to 0.

Two In Eighth

This was all Ditmar needed and for awhile it seemed as though it would be all he was going to get. But with one away in the eighth, Don Lesage lined a single to center and after Owen had fled high and deep to right, Jim Young came in with a single and took second on the throw to third which failed to nip Lesage. With two away, Brownell put the game on ice by driving in both these men with another single to center.

Ditmar got in on the offensive side of the festivities in the ninth by driving in Stan Delisser for the final run of the ball game. Delisser had walked and reached second on a wild pitch.

Lost to Middlebury

The Middlebury game, played last Friday at Middlebury, was something of an experiment. In his quest for another starting pitcher, Bobby Coombs started rightfielder George Owen in the hopes that the big outfielder could turn in a few wins in the future. Owen, who has been doing some pitching in batting practice, has a good fastball and a fair curve and change-up.

The effectiveness of all are subject, however, to control and in this department Owen was a little light last Friday. The home team scored four runs in the first inning on four walks, a wild pitch, and an infield single to put the game pretty much out of reach. After this bad frame Owen settled down and pitched good ball. He gave up an unearned run in the second and one in the third on two hits before retiring in favor of Bill Kaufman in the sixth.

The final score was 10 to 4, Williams scoring three runs in the eighth on three errors, a double by Brownell and a single by Delisser. Coombs could use another pitcher—he faces Villanova, Dartmouth (See BASEBALL, Page 3)

Committees - Why?

A mimeographed copy of the various organizations which are under the sanction of the SAC passed across the editorial desk the other day. We gave this a passing glance and were then stopped in our tracks. There are twelve non-profit organizations at Williams, approximately one for every ninety-one students. At first glance this is reasonable enough but a little investigation shows that most of these organizations have less than twenty-five members, several have six or less.

In this light, the population of committees at Williams appears ridiculously large. This is especially true when many carry on extremely similar functions. Because of the expense of supporting so many similar organizations and the confusion which arises simply because of number, we feel a portion of these should be combined.

The particular activities which overlap are in the field of lectures and debates. The Adelpic Union, the IRC, the Philosophical Union, the Lecture Committee, and the Spring Conference—all are the particular case in point. Last year, the Adelpic Union was allotted $523; the IRC, $300; the Phil Union, $290; the Lecture Committee, $600; and the Spring Conference, $700.

Their combined SAC budget was $2,413. Attendance at the activities sponsored by these organizations, with the possible exception of a few Lecture Committee speakers, is practically nil. The unofficial count on student attendance at any one session of the Spring Conference reached a high of seventy-four on Sunday morning. The Record has several photographs showing the vast audiences of empty seats at several other lectures and debates. a $2,400 expenditure for all these ill-attended lectures and debates, and in many cases the quality of the speaker merits the poor "house," is out of place.

At the present time, the SAC acts as the finance committee of the UC. The SAC sanctions the budgets and the UC punctiliously ratifies this budget. The time has come for cessation of this practice. We urge the UC and the SAC to make a combined effort to cut expenditures and consolidate committees.

Several suggestions as to the remedy of this situation have been offered. We feel that a combined committee, reduced in size and armed with the present budget, could bring valuable speakers to the College platforms. If these lectures were intelligently planned as an integrated series including all fields of education and interest, it would be a valuable addition to Williams.

If these lectures could be integrated with the curriculum and the students were presented with views on controversial subjects from outside of Williams, the addition would be invaluable. A similar plan is now functioning at Dartmouth. We suggest that the UC investigate this plan before endorsing the SAC budget for next year.

The Williams student is not an intellectual dumb-chuck. If a committee were formed which would bring men of background, reputation, and responsibility to Williams the speaker would be confronted with full seats and a receptive audience. This is a change which is well worth the efforts of the UC to acquire.

In other lines, it also appears that the cutting back of the Williams bureaucracy would aid in administration of College activities and reduce the current student tax. We further suggest that the UC consider the consolidation of several other organizations which apparently overlap. Obviously, the fields of interest at Williams merits many of these organizations, but hardly so many.

The 1948 Gul has made its appearance on the campus on time as promised early by its enterprising editors. We have only glimpsed at the new publication but it is very "picturey" and there is an old saying about one picture being worth ten thousand words. Having seen many of the early proofs, we are sure that the words can only be good. We heartily commend Editor Jerry O'Brien and Business Manager Bob Stalworth for giving us a good yearbook in the same year the senior class graduates.

Navy Offers College Seniors Flight Training At Pensacola

A limited number of college graduates are being offered the opportunity of being commissioned as ensigns in Naval Aviation this spring and of receiving flight training, the Navy has announced. In order to provide full information to those who are interested a flying team of Navy officers will visit Williams on Thursday and Friday, May 27-28.

This is a career program in which college men with degrees who are between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five will be taken into the Navy as commissioned officers.

Flight training will be at Pensacola, Florida, frequently referred to as the "Annapolis of the Air." This will take from eighteen to twenty-four months after which the officer-pilots will join regular naval aviation units, shorebased and on carriers. Minimum starting pay is $290 a month, it was stated.

Plans are now being made for a meeting of interested seniors at 1 p. m. in Jesup Hall on Friday, May 28. The Navy selection board will also be available to answer questions and provide assistance in filling out applications in the office of the Veterans Advisor, Hopkins Hall, both days.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

The other night while writing a paper entitled "The Fabulous Forties," it occurred to me to use the events of the week-end of May 8 to demonstrate a comparison of the social trend today with that of "The Fabulous Twenties." I quote:

"Three days prior to this lecture, four college social units joined our fraternity in a traditional milk punch party during the event of the Williams spring carnival houseparty week-end. The basic motif for social discourse was unvaried—liquor in the form of rum and milk thickened with ice cream and be-speckled with nutmeg. Yet, college society was struggling for new expression. The containers grew in size from punch bowls to wash tubs, and finally a large sized white porcelain bath tub appeared in an imposing position on our front lawn at the crest of the hill. Those imbibed participants on whom evolution had not performed the modern miracle of man, took to the trees, hoisting their beverage after them in buckets. The higher they got, the higher they got. On May 12th, those who still retained their faculties placed the five fraternities on social probation for an ostentatious disturbance of the peaceful community of Williamstown.

"Later on during the evening of that fateful Sunday, at the college chapel, Reverend Willard L. Sperry, DD, Dean of the Harvard Divinity School, made this remark: 'The terrifying thing about the Western World is that there is no common set of values upon which we can agree.'"

On the whole, I would say that the party had just the appearances that I have described above. Since I derive little or no social stimulation from the use of alcohol, and because I was entertaining a young lady who had been critically disgusted by a liquor party at a popular college southwest of here one week before, I observed the party from a rather unique viewpoint. Our reprimand has been superficial. The insidious danger lies in the complete abandon, the vulgarity, the indecency, and the weakening of the moral fiber which parties of such proportions invite. These dire results are not as widespread at Williams as in other schools of my acquaintance.

Many of our fraternities, our chapel, and our laboratories stand in memory of prominent alumni—a memory steeped in the tradition of Williams College—one of social, spiritual, and intellectual growth.

How many of us, and especially those of us who associate ourselves with these men collegiately and fraternally, agree with the values and love the traditions they stood by?

May I deliver a critique upon the various utterances which have been provoked by the matter of social probation?

Your initial editorial is praiseworthy for recognizing the need of our "reeducation" along the lines of "common decency and good taste." But first, we must agree sincerely that these are the ends to be sought. Paul Shorb, with his thesis that men who live in glass houses must not throw stones, is also to be commended for pointing out the need of greater breadth in the "reeducation" program. The buck passing rebuttal to his remarks was childish and irrelevant. Highest honour should go to Professors Beals and Avery for getting right down to this business of "reeducation." In the May 22nd Record, Mr. Beals has uncovered the prophet Isaiah to give us a philosophical lesson in social mathematics.

Numbers plus wine (rum) = woe.

Mr. Avery, lecturing on a less cultural aspect of classical civilization, compared the events of a recent week-end to "The Banquet of Trimalchio" (the famous nouveau riche of Roman Literature) by indicating with his characteristic eloquence that said events were done in "equally poor taste."

I can not agree that Newt Darling's method of "chaperonage" will work. To my mind it is little boyish and a half way measure. The tone of a party is set by the objectives the host has in view. If we set out with the thought of giving our date a more pleasant time than she has ever had elsewhere, always paying her the respect due a lady by a gentleman, we can't go wrong. As long as we are attentive in showing her a good time and endeavor to be conscious and sensitive of her feelings, the party will be a success. A prerequisite to this postulate is the necessity of watching our "P's and Q's" (an old contraction from Revolutionary Days meaning pints and quarts). I wonder how many girls really abide the imbibed host? In any event, Newt Darling, I've seen very fine young married couples on this campus fail to affect the tone of a party—especially when the participants are too far gone to recognize the bonds of holy wedlock.

I am neither a member of the Williams College Temperance League nor associated with Alcoholics Anonymous, but remain,

Respectfully yours,

Williamstown, Mass.

a fraternity and presented to Alan Harter the Foundation Plaque, upon which the names of winners are to be inscribed. The functions which a fraternity can perform are: 1) it has a positive responsibility in living together, 2) it should be more significant in serving Williams College than an unorganized group, 3) it has a responsibility to the community, and 4) it should have a larger perspective—a responsibility to the state, country and world. "It is in that spirit," concluded Distler, "that I present this Plaque to the Zeta chapter."

Baxter Speaks
President James P. Baxter, 3rd, spoke on "Williams and the Zeta Chapter." President Baxter said that one of the secrets of the success of America's rise to her role in the world today has been that "men have not been cogs," that they have owed their allegiance to not only the country and to states, but also to other societies,—among them fraternities. He pointed out "how great a contribution fraternities can make" to our life.

Stickmen Top NH Wildcats By 10-2 Tally

Outcome Not In Doubt Tho' Ephs Net Only One In First Period

Williams concluded its regular scheduled season Saturday afternoon by defeating an outclassed New Hampshire team, 10-2. The game was a slow-moving, rather drab affair, especially in the first period, when only one goal was scored.

The outcome was never in question though the Purple was slow to grab a lead. The Wildcats' zone defense bothered Coach Whoops Snively's men for a while, but since they had the ball most of the game, they were able to work an attack that squelched the defense.

Purple Begins to Roll

Midfielder Ronnie Chute finally gave the Purple a lead near the end of the first period, when he took a pass from Co-captain Ed Maynard, and rifled a goal from about fifteen yards out. Art Lewis scored in the second stanza on an assist by Phil Van Dusen, and the pace began to speed up. Co-captain Pat Graney converted on a short pass from Dave Van Alstyne. Coke Scofield did the same, taking a feed from attackmen Dick Meryman, stationed behind the goal.

The third period saw Williams running the score up to eight, with the Wildcats yet to tally. Meryman slipped in an underhand shot, and a few minutes later pulled a beautiful dodge to notch another marker. Sandwiched between these goals was one by Van Dusen. "Frenchy" Oudin provided the eighth goal, assisted by Maynard. In the fourth period "Shark" Mayshark dodged his way to the ninth goal.

Finally, Wildcat attackman Smith, who scored both goals, and received four of the home team's six penalties, prevented a white-washing at 3:23. He turned the trick again five minutes later on a long shot. A minute later Purple midfielder "Tolly" Tallafiero took a high feed from Mickey O'Connell, goalie playing attack, and slammed the final goal into the nets.

Sideline Prelims:

The Alumni, headed by freshman coach Harv Potter and '47 captain Howie Adams, are gathering forces for their clash with the varsity on May 31. The game should offer much color. This Tuesday, the freshman and sophomores tangle in a class struggle.

Frosh Downed By Deerfield; Lose Lacrosse Finale, 14 - 6

Six Deerfield goals in the third period broke the back of Harv Potter's freshmen as they lost 14-5 to the outstanding prep school club after jumping off to a 3-1 lead early in the game.

Ten Goals In Two Periods

The once-defeated Deerfield stickmen jumped off to a 1-0 lead but with ten minutes of the first period elapsed Allen Clarke knotted the count with an unassisted goal. Ollie Thomson and little Bobby Day then teamed up to put the freshmen in the lead while Cubby Snively scored unassisted early in the second period to make it 3-1. At this point the Deerfield attack, sparked by lacrosse star Phil Van Dusen's brother, Bruce, got rolling and they scored ten goals in the next two periods. Two goals by Deerfield Alumni Captain MacWilliams and Snively were not enough to stem the prep schoolers lightning attack which looked like a miniature edition of the vaunted Dartmouth offense.

This was the final game for the freshmen who dropped two games in prep school competition while remaining undefeated in their three games with college teams.

MacLeod Golf Capt.; Unbeaten This Year

Colin "Corky" MacLeod has been elected captain of this year's golf team by its members. Corky, a Zete who hails from the golfing center of Buffalo, is a pre-med senior and has been playing on Williams golf teams since 1945. This season Corky has won all of his individual matches, and virtually all of the best-ball matches with Kim Whitney at the number five and six positions.

Barney Cops Fourth In 440 At NE Inter-Collegiates

Quarter-miler Bill Barney was the only Williams athlete to gain a place in the New England Inter-collegiate Track and Field championships held in Providence, R. I., last weekend. Competing in a field where 21 colleges and universities were represented, Barney copped fourth place behind Royce Crimmin of Brown, Hal Ingraham of MIT, and Eastern Collegiate champion Ed Palmieri of Tufts. Crimmin covered the distance on a soggy track in the amazing time of 49 flat, while the other three place-winners all fractured 50 seconds.

In the qualifying heats Friday, Barney placed second to Ingraham who ran the fastest qualifying heat in 49.9. Saturday he lost out by inches to the highly-touted Palmieri for third place in the finals.

Blanks, Delany

As the sole Purple entrant in the field events, Weightman Bill Blanks qualified for the finals in the discus throw with a heave of 124 ft. 8 1/2 in. In Saturday's competition, he moved up to fifth position with a throw of 127 ft. 2 in, but failed to place since points were awarded only for the first four places. This event was won by Oallogly of Holy Cross who tossed the platter 138 ft. 6 1/2 in.

Distance runner Kev Delany, competing in his third meet this season, succeeded in running the best mile of his career in doing better than 4.33 for a sixth place.

Bob Black won by a large margin in 4.24.4. The Rhode Island ace had no trouble in completing the four laps ahead of Springfield's star Bobby Knowles, Kenyon of Northeastern, and Horne of Bates. Delany's best previous time this year was 4.40.6 in the RPI meet.

Slow Track

Track conditions at Brown were opposed to any possibility of record smashing as is illustrated by the fact that Wesleyan's Bill Brooks, last year's double dash winner and a consistent 9.8 man, won the century in the time of 10.2. The Cardinal star lost out to Gould of Holy Cross in the furlough. In winning the 220 crown Gould was able to do no better than 22.9 against a headwind and wet cinders. The first four men in the quarter did the first half of the race in less than 23 seconds on the same 220 straightaway.

In the process of winning the New England team title for the seventh time in the last eleven meetings, Rhode Island completely outdistanced Brown with 27 and New Hampshire with 20. Then in order came Wesleyan with 15, Holy Cross with 12, MIT with 11 5/6 and Springfield with 11 1/3 to account for the first seven positions. Maine took eighth place in the team totals with 10 points and then came Boston College with 3. Tufts, (2 1/3), Northeastern (2), Boston University, Williams, and Worcester Tech with one point each.

Two Records Fall In Track

Phi Delts' DU's, Dekes Tied In First Place

Two intramural track records were broken on Monday, as the intramural track meet got under way on Weston Field. Dave Pynchon bettered the mile record by some three seconds, while Pete Andrews lowered the mark for the quarter-mile by a second.

After the first day of competition, there was a three-way tie for first place, among the Phi Delts, the DU's and the Dekes, each house having 10 points apiece. These three houses were closely followed by the Kaps and Chi Psi's who have nine points each. So far, only the half-mile, mile, shotput, discus and pole-vault finals have been run off, with finals for the other events scheduled to take place this afternoon, starting at 4 p. m. on Weston Field.

Pynchon Batters Record

Dave Pynchon, a DU, broke a 23 year old record, in the mile, running the distance in 4:51.5, to eclipse the old mark of 4:54.6 held by F. J. Fessenden, '25. In the quarter-mile, Pete Andrews, also a DU, running in a qualifying heat, turned in a 52.8 quarter to break the old record of 53.5 set by Juan DeOnis last year. The finals in this event will be run today.

The half mile was won by Ollie Thompson, a Deke, in the time of 2:14.2. Frank Todd of the DU's won the shotput with a 35 foot heave, while Tom Benson, a Psi U, took the pole vault at 9 feet 3 inches. The discus was taken by Fred Logan, a Chi Psi, with a heave of 108 feet 1 inch.

Tennis Duo In NE Finals

Williams' first doubles team of captain Fred Scribner and Charlie Schaaf advanced to the finals of the New England Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament by defeating Kaufman and Watters of MIT, 10-8, 3-6, 8-2 last Saturday on the Lynde Lane courts.

Ephs to Meet Yale

This contest was a postponement of a match scheduled two weeks ago at Dartmouth during the tournament proper. The victors will face a strong Yale team of Rolor Ray and Bill Ford on the Sage Hall courts sometime this week.

The initial set saw MIT take an early 5-3 lead. Scribner was unable to win his first pair of service attempts, thus providing MIT with their two game margin. At the outset Scribner served to Kaufman's supposedly weak forehand. However, he soon realized that Kaufman's backhand was much weaker and capitalized on this defect with the result that he lost his serve only once in the remaining twenty-seven games.

MIT Wins Set

The Eph duo rallied to tie the count at 5-5. Williams was trailing 8-7 when Schaaf won his service and Kaufman dropped his. "Scrib" took his serve to win this set, 10-8. The second set saw MIT storm back with a 6-3 victory. Neither team played its best tennis in these two sets. Both sides created openings but were unable to take advantage of them as they committed numerous errors.

The third set was anticlimactic with Williams winning easily 6-2.

A JOB...an Education...and a FUTURE for the 35 RIGHT YOUNG MEN

First, let us tell you who we are, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane are brokers in securities and commodities, as well as underwriters and distributors of security issues.

We think it's pretty important what people do with the money they save — so important that the job of helping them with their investments should be handled only by men who are equipped for that work by character, intelligence, and thorough training. The same holds true for men who help move our great commodity crops to market. For qualified young men, we think there's a real opportunity in the investment and commodity business.

Three years ago, we organized the first class in the Merrill Lynch Training School for approximately 30 carefully selected young men. We hired them to go to school under top-flight teachers for six months. Then they took jobs in various of our 97 branch offices, most of them in or near their old home towns.

The Training School was a success. Six classes have now graduated, and a seventh is in session. Almost 200 men (and two women) have completed the course, and almost uniformly they have rolled up excellent selling records. Some of them have already advanced in the home or field offices.

Because they have made good, we are organizing an Eighth Training School Class.

In this class, beginning August 2 in New York City, we will give the course to the 35 best men (or women) we can find.

These people will be paid while they learn. The rates of pay are varied on the basis of marital status and working (or military) experience. (Average for current class: $270 per month).

On successful completion of the course, each of these people will have a good job and, we hope, a good future.

If you would like to be considered for admission to this course, we obviously have to know a good deal about you. For instance, as a starter, we want the following information:

1. Name, address, age, marital status
2. Experience, working and military
3. Educational record (degrees, courses of major interest, grades)
4. Extracurricular activities and interests
5. Why do you think you would be interested in a career in the securities business?
6. What do you consider would represent success when you have reached the halfway mark in your business career?

If you would like to apply formally for admission to the Eighth Merrill Lynch Training School Class, write down the answers to these questions, plus anything else you'd like to tell us about yourself, and bring them to me or mail them to me before July 9th.

Outing Club Plays Host To Faculty

Discuss Club Problems In Greylock Cabin

The Williams Outing Club was host to Dean and Mrs. Robert R. Brooks and a small group of other faculty members and their wives at a supper in the Norman Wait Harris Memorial Cabin on the top of Mount Greylock Sunday evening, May 16.

The faculty guests were picked to get a cross section of different interests and points of view as departments. Following a meal well as of the different scholastic prepared by WOC President James Dorland '50, and Peter Leake '50, the faculty and their hosts gathered around the big fireplace to consider Outing Club problems.

Student Participation

Dorland outlined the aims and problems of the WOC for next year, and then opened the floor for advice or suggestions from the faculty. The main problem discussed was that of reaching the Student body with information about the club so that participation could be extended to a larger portion of the college.

Receptions for incoming freshmen next fall were considered as a possible means of familiarizing new men with the purposes of the Outing Club. It was pointed out, however, that such a plan might conflict with the rushing agreement. WOC committee heads present were: Roger Potter '49, Sheep Hill Committee; Paul Mort '50, 1949 Winter Carnival Committee; Pete Leake '50, Programs Committee.

WRA Meeting Postponed

Eligible Members Sent Explanatory Letters

The Record regretfully announces that official organization of the Williams Record Association has been delayed because of administrative difficulties and the brevity of time before the Memorial Day Week-end.

Planning originally to hold the first meeting this week-end, the association founders have run into unpredicted obstacles in compiling the names and addresses of former Record members, and consequently have been unable to circulate the necessary information regarding the first meeting.

Form Letter

A form letter will be sent to all former Record members this week explaining the delay and asking for their indication as to the value of and interest in the association. If a favorable response is received, the first meeting will be held during the homecoming week-end next fall.

Have you made up your mind on what you'll do when you graduate this June? If not, consider the opportunity available to you in the Aviation Cadets.

Few jobs anywhere can match this offer. When you win your wings and a Second Lieutenant's commission, you're paid as high as $336 per month to start. The training you get before and after you're commissioned is recognized as the world's finest—and it equips you for a well-paid lifetime career in military or commercial aviation.

You're eligible for appointment to the Cadets if you're single, between 20 and 26½ years old, and have completed at least one-half the requirements for a degree from an accredited college or university (or pass an equivalent examination).

Talk the program over with men in your class who have been Aviation Cadets. And for full details, ask at your nearest U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station. Why not drop in today and discuss it?

Gargoyle Taps Juniors On Tuesday Evening

Ceremonies To Seniors Plan Take Place On For Class Day Lab Campus

In deference to the mass exodus from Williamstown which is expected to take place this weekend, Gargoyle, the senior honorary society, has postponed its annual tapping ceremony on the Lab Campus from Monday afternoon until Tuesday evening, June 1, at 7:15.

A recommendation that all social units move their Tuesday evening meals up to 8:15 was accepted by the UC at its session last Monday night. This will make it possible for all members of the college, including waiters, to attend the ceremony. In case of rain, the tapping will be held in Chapin Hall at the scheduled hour.

Juniors To Be Tapped

Members of two classes will be tapped: F-'49 and '49, but no announcement has been made as to whether or not a full delegation of 20 will be taken. The two classes will line up between Morgan and Jesup Halls, from where they will be led to the Lab fence.

The basis upon which tapping is made is best stated in a communication from the Secretary of Gargoyle to the Williams Weekly on May 30, 1895: "Those men shall be chosen each year who are considered to have the welfare and reputation of the college at heart, and who have shown in every way by their college life a desire and ability to promote the best interests of Williams."

Operates Outside Limelight

Amplification of Gargoyle aims and methods is contained in a statement given yesterday to The Record by Gargoyle President Gene Detmer '48. "Gargoyle has always tried to operate outside the limelight, the reasoning of its members being that more positive ends can be attained by quiet persuasion and the use of discretion than by high pressure methods and large amounts of publicity. But at the same time the current delegation acknowledges the fact that the majority of students do not know what Gargoyle actually does beyond holding its annual tapping."

"During the past year we have pressed for a comprehensive system of college athletic insurance. In the form of a recommendation containing a number of facts relevant to solution of the problem, this responsibility was accepted by the college trustees at their meeting earlier this month. Similarly, a specific recommendation that a large central bulletin board be erected in front of the Gym on which news and announcements of all college functions would be posted, was accepted by the trustees."

Pensions Recommended

"During the past few months Gargoyle has followed up recommendations made last year by The Record and by the previous delegation, to have the college institute a system of pensions for all non-faculty employees of the college. This was presented to the trustees and is now being considered by a committee of the Board."

"A poll conceived and taken under the auspices of Gargoyle during the early weeks of the present term was designed to reveal the attitude of the student body toward the extra-curricular activities on campus, including athletics. Primary result so far, with cross tabulations still under way, has been the realization that, although participation is on the whole very good, it might be improved if some of the organizations

First College Baseball Game Played 1859

Williams Dropped Initial Intercollegiate Tilt To Amherst Team

A first in sporting history was recorded eighty-nine years ago when Amherst and Williams met in the first intercollegiate baseball game ever played.

Thursday afternoon, July 1, 1859 Amherst sent thirteen men, picked by ballot from the student body to the huge square grounds of the Pittsfield Baseball Club where they were to play against thirteen ballot-chosen men from Williams in the first intercollegiate baseball game. The exciting battle lasted for four hours, and only after twenty-six "frames" of play were the stalwart youths from Amherst able to eke out a 72-32 victory.

"Round Ball" Rules

Although the pre-game arrangements, after the initial challenge had been accepted by Williams, were carried out in an atmosphere heavy with distrust and suspicion, a friendly settlement was finally arrived at after two weeks of negotiations by mail and an unsuccessful meeting of the two factions at Chester Factories. The rules to be followed were those of Massachusetts "round ball." Like cricket the men covered the entire field, front and rear; for there was no "foul ball" line, and "side strikes," "back knocks," and "ticked balls" were allowed. Each team was to bring its own ball which, from necessity, had to be soft, for a man wasn't out until hit by the ball or until a fly was caught.

According to The New York Sun, the whole of Williamstown migrated to Pittsfield on the day of the big game. "Soon the Williams boys began pouring into town until it seemed as if Williamstown must be deserted. Old men and women, young men and maidens, proprietors of female schools with their pupils—the great square of the ball ground was surrounded five or six deep."

The relative merits of the two teams is given to us by a criticism of the game which appeared in The Franklin and Hampshire Gazette. "In knocking Amherst had the advantage of side knocks and back strikes; in running Williams certainly excelled as far as speed was concerned, but lost at least eight or ten minutes by premature efforts, while the Amherst players ran only at the word of their captain. In fielding Williams made

UC Discusses Social Censure, Rushing, Honor Syst'm Changes

New Party Restrictions Approved By Group After Long Meeting

Adoption of a plan requiring Entertainment Committee approval of planned social unit activities, discussion of proposed changes in the rushing agreement, acceptance of a proposed change in freshman Honor System indoctrination highlighted the two-and-a-half hour Undergraduate Council meeting Monday night.

The plan proposed by Entertainment Committee Chairman William Barney '49 was accepted by the UC and states:

"The function of the Entertainment Committee of the Undergraduate Council shall be to supervise all planned entertainment on the Williams College Campus."

"(1) The Entertainment Committee shall be empowered to approve or disapprove all campus entertainment. a) Planned entertainment consists of: 1) Formal Houseparties, 2) Formal or informal inter-social unit parties or dances, 3) Individual social unit parties or dances, and 4) Any social activity subsidized by an undergraduate unit or activity."

"(b) All entertainment programs pertaining to the above shall be submitted to the chairman of the Undergraduate Council Entertainment Committee not less than one week prior to the date on which the particular entertainment is to take place."

"(2) The Entertainment Committee may use its discretion in regulating small parties within individual social units."

Major and Minor Changes

Bert Dean '49, Chairman of the Rushing Committee, proposed several changes to the Rushing Agreement for UC consideration and discussion. None of the proposals could be voted on until next Monday's meeting. The first recommendation was to eliminate the words "light snack" from the present clause referring to pre and sub-pref period refreshments.

The second change Dean mentioned stipulates that during rushing week, no non-freshman will be permitted to enter the Quad, except

by Jack Schafer

Maybe to err is human, but it doesn't do your won-lost record any good.

The Williams ball club found this out to their chagrin last Wednesday afternoon at Hanover when it handed Dartmouth six runs in the third inning and consequently booted a 7-5 decision to the Indians.

With George Ditmar going after his fifth win of the season the Purple figured to cop this game, but it reckoned without the dismal failures afield that gave the Big Green the ball game in the first three innings. After the third the team played good ball, but by then it was too late.

Seven Unearned Runs

Dartmouth picked up an unearned run in the 1st, but it was on the third that the roof fell in. With one away McNeil splashed an innocent single to center. Dick Desmond bounced a sure double-play ball down to short and it looked like the end of the inning Lesage came up, but as he started to throw he bobbled it and all hands were safe. Ditmar then fanned Durham, the clean-up batter, but issued a free ducat to Barr to load the bases.

Then came the key play of the game. With the count three and two and two out the base-runners naturally broke as Ditmar pitched to Scandore. The pitch was in and Scandore grounded down to Stan Delisser at third. Thinking he had a force on the runner at second, the third-baseman picked up the ball and touched third for what he thought was the final out. Actually the man at second had already passed third so there was no force at all. Two runs scored on the play and runners were still on first and second.

Now even Ditmar blew. The next man up got an infield single to reload the bases and then the number eight batter in the lineup cleared the sacks with a triple to the right-field corner. Quirk, the pitcher, then followed with a clean single to center to finish off the Dartmouth scoring for the day at six for the inning and seven for the game.

Williams Ahead In Third

In their half of the third, Williams had picked up three runs to go ahead 3 to 1. Chuck Schmidt started it with a walk, Lesage came in with a hit and run single to right, and George Owen blasted the ball to center to tally Schmidt. Young reached on a force-out, and Bob Brownell lined a single to center, putting Young on third and the Dartmouth starter, West, out of the ball game. Chuck Goodell greeted the new hurler, Quirk, with a single to drive in Young and end the scoring for the inning at three.

The fourth Williams run was picked up in the seventh when Goodell drew a walk with the bases loaded to force in Schmidt who had singled to open the inning. This inning presented a wonderful opportunity to close up the gap on Dartmouth, but one run was all the Ephs could pick up. The final run of the game was scored in the ninth when, with two away, Jim Young caught hold of one and sent it high and deep over the right field stands for his first home run of the season.

Ditmar's earned run average stands at the phenomenally low mark of .54... Desmond of Dartmouth played a whale of a game at third, handling six tough chances smoothly. Delisser's play in the third was, though costly, perfectly natural.

Oxford Students Desire US Homes In July

If they can find American families to take them in for a month this summer, five Oxford University students, ranging in age from 23 to 37, hope to come to the United States in July.

Remembering the hospitality he received here, Sir Edward Boyle, a member of the Oxford debating team which visited Williams in January, wrote Professor George Connelly for help. The men, who hope to offer return the hospitality another year, "don't want anything elaborate: merely a chance to make contacts," Boyle said.

Professor Connelly urged anyone able to take in any of the men to contact him.

Choral Society Holds Concert

Barrow - Led Group Thrills Listeners

by Dan Pugh

The Berkshire Choral Society, conducted by Mr. Robert Barrow, presented an extremely successful spring concert last Tuesday evening in Chapin Hall before a responsive gathering of 300 people.

The outstanding selection of the evening was Randall Thompson's "The Peaceable Kingdom", a sequence of eight sacred choruses, the text of which is taken from the Prophecy of Isaiah. The unaccompanied 135 mixed voices thrilled the listeners throughout this first half of the program, by their sharply defined entrances and thorough regard for the excellent conduction of Mr. Barrow. Although at the start the sopranos seemed somewhat uncollected and the tenors a bit strained, these fallacies were scarcely noticeable.

WCA Chest Fund Drive To Receive Proceeds

Eighteen local jazz-addicted musicians will hold the first post-war "Jazz Symposium" in Jesup auditorium at 9:00 p.m. on June 1 for the benefit of the WCA Chest Fund Drive, according to John Marvin '50 and Professor Roy Lamson, directors of the program. There will be a small admission charge.

Saxophonist Marvin and clarinetist Lamson have planned an informal two-part program. The first part consists of selections played by four separate bands, illustrating the four basic types of jazz style. These selections will be accompanied by short scripts explaining the fundamentals of each type. The second part of the symposium will be a jam session with all participating musicians improvising.

Educational Aspect

"More than just a jam session," Marvin stated, "the program will present the educational aspects of jazz forms prominent in the history of American music, jazz being the only true art form that has originated in this country."

The first of the four types to be played will be the Dixieland jazz style, the band being led by

Zetes Third House To 'Adopt' European Child Under Foster Parents Plan; Eleven Year Old Boy's Father Killed In Germany

Zeta Psi has become the third fraternity at Williams College to "adopt" a European child through the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children, Inc. Fifty-two Zetes will each provide about a penny a day as financial aid for Kornelis Schilder, an eleven-year old Dutch boy, whose father was shot by the Germans.

Kees, as he is known, and his nine-year old brother Hendrikus, are the sons of Aart and Dirkje Schilder. Aart was a carpenter, and when the Germans swept along through the Netherlands, they seized him, and sent him to Germany for forced-labor. What happened to him there will never be known, for after Liberation his family learned that he had been shot.

Struggling To Provide

Mrs. Schilder struggled on, through the remaining war years, trying to provide for her two sons, as best she could. Formerly theirs had been a modest home, but as the war wore on, it became more difficult for Mrs. Schilder. Finally, it became impossible for her to keep her two boys with her without outside aid.

Under the plan, Kees will receive food, clothing, (last winter he had no overcoat), medical and dental care, and will be able to attend school. His mother is given a small allowance for his home needs. He will remain under the Plan until his condition is improved and his mother is better able to provide for him.

"Quiet, Rather Shy"

According to a letter received by the Zetes from the Foster Parents' Plan, "Kees is a quiet, rather shy boy, is fond of reading, enjoys football," and is intrigued by anything mechanical. "He is well-liked by his fellows, and is making a good record at school."

Repeating action taken by Sigma Phi and Delta Upsilon, who adopted an eight-year old Belgian girl and nine-year old French girl respectively, Zeta Psi's fifty-two new "parents" give only a little more than a penny a day for the support of this Dutch war child. This aid will carry Mrs. Schilder over the rough spots until her household has reassumed, to some extent, a normal stability.

cept canvassers for laundries and publications with special permission from the Rushing Arbitrator or Rushing Committee Chairman.

Three major changes in the rushing system will result if the UC decides to adopt three proposals held over from last year's Council. The first change would require a house to accept a second choice man on a first bounce, if the college quota had not been met whereas under the present system, a house could refuse a first bounce. Second and third bounces would still be optional.

Talking Increased

A widening of the "no talking rule" is involved in the second proposal Dean made. He said that the Garfield members felt that they ought to have the right to explain their position in the Williams social structure, by being able to speak of the benefits of a non-selective organization. Explaining the viewpoint of the Club, Gene Harling '49 said, "This would give us a chance to build up Club spirit, and perhaps help some individuals, who might not be happy in a fraternity, to know more about the system."

The point was brought out that the fraternities should, in all fairness, have the same right to discuss the fraternity system as a whole, with no mention of specific houses or individuals. This suggestion was incorporated in the original proposal, and will be voted on next week.

Dean's third proposed change concerns post-season rushing, and would establish a three-week period in the middle of the year during which all post-season rushing would be done according to the same informal plan that exists now. Men and social units wishing to rush after this period had expired would be able to make arrangements for the following fall. Under such a plan, the Club would not be in the financially insecure position that it is at the present time, with men leaving the Club sporadically throughout the college year.

equally good catches, but in passing they threw too wildly, each where he pleased, and nothing is more injurious than bad outplay.

"Mr. Beecher (W) threw swift and strong, but was suffering from a lame shoulder. Many of his balls were too high to be caught, and so Amherst gained tallies. Mr. Hyde (A) threw every ball at the back of the catcher with a precision and a strength that was remarkable; more faultless and scientific throwing we have never seen."

A tremendous celebration took place at Amherst on the night of the victory after a special messenger dispatched from Pittsfield aroused the college with shouts of "Amherst wins, 73-32!" The students obtained special permission

Honor System Not Understood
 Buddy Wilson '48, Honor System Committee Chairman, said that more complete steps should be taken to familiarize incoming freshmen with the Honor System. Wilson observed that he wants to prevent those unfortunate violations which occur from carelessness in not understanding the system. The Council approved Wilson's suggestion that the Honor System Constitution and the pledge card be sent to prospective freshmen with the College information material, so that each freshman will have a complete understanding of the system on entering college.

UC President Henry Strong '49 stressed the importance of collecting the money due the SAC from the Student Tax. He said, "We cannot have a large percentage of our campus activities without the receipt of these funds, and therefore it is important for the students to know for what they are paying."

The UC favors the adoption of the Bowdoin Plan, with the majority of the members leaning toward the $1.00 per man method of payment. However, this decision on the manner of payment is not binding.

Dean Robert R. Brooks announced that a nation-wide radio network had invited Williams to enter an eight to twelve man singing group in an elimination contest with twenty-five other colleges. The contest is scheduled to be held next year, and a sponsor is being sought. The go-ahead sign was given Dean Brooks, who will contact the Octet to see if it wishes to accept the offer.

Frowns On Beer Drinking

UC feeling was against beer-drinking in the Taconic Theatre, and a letter is to be sent to the theatre manager explaining the Council's stand. John Stillwell '49, Junior Class President, announced that a three-game inter-class softball playoff has been scheduled for some time in the near future. Every social unit will send its best player in each class to make up the all-class teams which will battle it out for class softball supremacy.

for a general celebration. Bells were rung, bonfires lighted, and the entire night spent in cheering for the victorious players. Friday afternoon the players were driven through the streets of Amherst in a coach-and-four accompanied by their admiring comrades.

First "Modern" Game

Williams not only participated in this early game of "round ball" but also took part in the first intercollegiate baseball game to be played under modern rules. After being challenged to play against Harvard in 1884, the Ephemen travelled to Worcester where they downed the Crimson squad 12-9.

After Amherst won the initial contest over Williams, they declined numerous challenges for a return match. Finally another game under modern rules, was agreed upon, and the Williams team whipped the Lord Jeffs 10-4.

Letters To The Editor

Memorial Day

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

This coming Monday, May 31, will be celebrated as Memorial Day. We, of the American Legion, will again pay respect to our departed comrades on this day. We consider this a privilege, and not a duty. We feel that it is a small part for us to do, in light of what those who have gone before us have done.

Although we use a military procession, or, as you will, parade, we wish to impress upon the students at Williams that the observance is not intended to be a spectacle or band concert. On the contrary, we use the parade formation to achieve order on this occasion.

Our ritual over the grave of a departed comrade is symbolical in that, although we honor the grave of one veteran, we actually are honoring thousands of veterans who lie buried all over the world.

We ask that everyone thing of this day as one for the living to remember those who are dead, and to realize that the day is just what the name signifies: "Memorial Day."

We are asking every veteran in the community to take part on this occasion. We are going further and asking every veteran at Williams College to join us. It is not necessary to be in uniform.

The parade formation assembles at 10 a.m. Monday morning at the head of Water Street.

Won't you be with us?

Sincerely yours,

Williamstown, Mass.

Newton And God

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

During my four years at Williams, required chapel has been the subject of constant attacks from undergraduates, with little or no sound answer to charges from the Administration. In a recent report of a factual study of Radcliffe and Harvard undergraduates, 18% of the 86 Radcliffe women queried, and 32% of the 414 Harvard undergraduates queried said "they do not require any religious orientation or beliefs in order to achieve a mature philosophy of life." Of those who recognize need for religious orientation, one in four acknowledged belief in the Incarnation and Resurrection. Williams would be high in such a list.

The student apathy to chapel can be explained in part in the light of the above report, issued last January. A majority of the college students in the country are not Christian, in either belief or practice. The Incarnation and Resurrection are the foundation stones upon which the Christian Church was founded. It is apparent that students find these truths hard to believe. No one will deny that. The Christian, by faith, accepts these two cornerstones.

Does the Williams College administration believe this? Its silence would indicate doubt and skepticism among its own ranks. Can the College wonder at student apathy and disgust at required chapel when it ignores almost entirely what it tells the students is a necessary part of education? Or is the administration educated so that it, in terms of the report, does "not require any religious orientation or beliefs in order to achieve a mature philosophy of life?" If so, then chapel is a mockery to Almighty God, and the students at Williams also require no religious orientation.

The role of college chapel is to witness to Christ, as God, and to help a lost world to find their God, or it should be abolished. God never compelled men to worship him; "Behold, I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear My voice and open the door, I will come in unto him" (Rev. III, 20). God wants voluntary worship, or none at all.

Mr. Lamson, Sidney Werkman '49 and Horton Kellogg '48 will then lead the Purple Knights in pieces illustrating the Chicago jazz form, and Harry Hart's band will play selections in the modern jazz style. The 52nd Streeters will illustrate the most modern jazz style, Bebop, this group being led by John Marvin.

Scripts Explain Style

The accompanying scripts will explain the respective styles, stressing the changes in the use and variety of the instruments employed in each group. Dixieland jazz, originating in New Orleans, was the first real music of its type, according to Marvin, and was followed by Chicago jazz when "New Orleans jazz went up the river." The modern style originated in New York in the thirties progressive Bebop form which has gained popularity since the early forties, Marvin explained.

Commenting on the popularity of such programs before the war, Lamson stressed the informality of the session, and said that "the program will offer anyone at all interested in jazz the opportunity to see local musicians in action."

Lamson was leader of the "Gold Coast Orchestra", an undergraduate group at Harvard, and is now the curator of the Paul Whiteman record collection which contains many famous jazz numbers.

In addition to prominent Williamstown musician Harry Hart other town talent will include Harry Lewis, Eddie Pierson, and Johnny Davis. Other college enthusiasts who will be in the program are Walter Olsen '49, Frank Relche '51, Arthur Singer '50, J. Neil Bohlans '49, William Partington '50, Sanford Robinson '48, John Ferguson '50, Darcy Davis '48, Leonard Blumenshine '50, and Frank Piano.

Press Coverage Sought

"An effort to improve press coverage in metropolitan areas of events at Williams has been initiated during the last few weeks, with emphasis on getting papers to accept and print news sent out by the college News Bureau. In addition Gargoyle has taken an active part in helping further the success of the campus Fund Drive. "Several other projects are being considered at the present time, but it becomes evident that in some of the areas mentioned above widespread publicity at the time of consideration would do more harm than good in achieving the ends desired."

Library To Open Later

In addition to the advancement of meal time Tuesday evening, Coach Bobby Coombs has agreed to conclude varsity baseball practice at an early hour, and College Librarian Wyllis Wright has announced that the Library will not open its doors Tuesday night until 8 o'clock.

Members of both Junior classes (F-'49 and '49) are asked to assemble in line shortly after 7 o'clock to insure a prompt start for the ceremony. At the conclusion of the tapping the entire assembly will sing "The Moun-

DU Edges Phi Delt To Snare Interfraternity Track Crown

Benson Leads Scoring With 13 Points As Austin Tops Record

Led by Pete Andrews, who scored ten points, the DU's won the intramural track title on Wednesday afternoon, edging out the Phi Delt, 26½ to 23½. The Kaps finished third with 20 points, followed by the AD's and the Chi Psi's with 18½ and 18 respectively.

Andrews' double win in the quarter and hurdles, Dave Pynchon's record-breaking mile, and Frank Todd's shotput win accounted for the DU's heavy scoring. Don Gregg's first place in the javelin, and second places by Chuck Maloney in the 100, Norm Olson in the 880, and Milt Lester in the Mile run piled up the majority of the Phi Delt's points.

Benson High Scorer

Individual high scorer in the meet was Tom Benson of the Psi U's, who won the pole vault and took seconds in the hurdles and 220 yard dash, to score 13 points. Other high scorers were Andrews, Fred Logan, a Chi Psi, who piled up nine points in the shot and discus and Bud Dodge of the AD's who scored eight points in the dashes.

Jack Austin, a Phi Sig, won the high jump at 5' 3", and then went on to clear the bar at 5' 8", breaking the old intramural record by 2 inches.

Filley Wins Century

Derrick Filley of the Kaps won the 100 in 10.7 edging out Chuck Maloney, a Phi Delt. Bud Dodge won the 220 by three yards in 23.8. The 440 was taken by Andrews in 51.3, some two seconds slower than his record-breaking qualifying heat. Ollie Thomson, a Deke, won the half in 2:14.2.

In Wednesday's field events, Don Gregg, a Phi Delt, won the javelin with a 145' 3" toss. The broad jump was taken by Dave Bryan of the AD's, followed by Jim Brydon of the Club.

Yachters Drenched

Although small craft storm warnings were flown last Sunday over the Seekonk River at Brown and the Connecticut River at Wesleyan, two regattas, in which the Williams Yacht Club participated, were held until the number of drenched sailors, tipped over boats, and broken equipment made further racing impossible.

Sailing for Williams at Brown, Phelps Edwards and Gus Clarey came in third out of six colleges in the first race, and Pete Debevoise and Ronny Moir squeezed into fifth place by seconds in the next race. Edwards was first in the third race after strong squalls turned over the two boats ahead of him, but due to four damaged dingles and a broken down committee boat the regatta was called off at this point. The total score for the first two races was Colby 11, Brown 10, Amherst 10, Dartmouth 9, Williams 8, and Wesleyan 5.

At Wesleyan in a Little Three a pair of free passes and hits by boats competed, Mike Luther and Cy Merrell copped one fifth, and Ted Lichtenfels and Ward Mauck took a fourth and a fifth. After Luther lost his mast in the second race, however, the regatta was called, the final standing being Wesleyan first, Amherst second, and Williams third.

Freshman and sophomore lacrosse teams tangled with one another Tuesday afternoon on Cole Field, and when the mud had again fallen in place, the sophs had triumphed, 5-3. A rough-and-tumble affair, the game consisted of much trying to pick up ground balls, blocking, and not too much shooting.

Phil Van Dusen put the Sophs in the van two thirds of the way through the first ten-minute period. Two goals by "Cubby" Snively of the frosh put them out front, but another by Van Dusen, and one by "Buz" Brumbaugh, one by Dave Van Alstyne, and Van Dusen's third goal were too much for the yearlings. Mitch Fish scored their third goal.

Frosh Batter Amherst, 8 - 1

Backed by errorless defensive play and solid slugging on the part of his team-mates, big Harry "Squid" Sheehy twirled his way to an impressive 8 to 1 victory over Amherst on Weston Field Wednesday afternoon, as the freshman baseball team took the first leg of the mythical Little Three title in decisive fashion.

Coach Dale Burnett's nine played its best ball of the season, both at bat and afield, in trouncing their traditional rivals, as they broke a fourth-inning tie with one run, added two more in the fifth, and finally put the game on ice with four big tallies in the eighth. Each team connected for eight hits, but the Eph ball-hawks took full advantage of seven walks and three Amherst errors in scoring their eight tallies, while Sheehy effectively scattered the Jeff bingles over the nine stanzas, fanning seven men along the way.

Shay Lynch led the Williams attack on two Jeff hurlers by collecting three hits in four trips to the plate, scoring two runs, batting in another, and stealing a couple of bases, while Ernie Mierzejewski's stellar play at third base featured the frosh defense.

Williams chalked up a gift run in the second inning on Mierzejewski's single, a fly that fell untouched in right field, and a passed ball. After the visitors tied it up in the fourth, with a hit batsman, a walk, and Berquist's bingle, in the bottom half of the inning Lynch singled, stole second, and rode home on Bob Huston's long double to left-center. The Burnett-men then put together a pair of free passes and hits by Manning and Lynch to increase their lead by two runs in the fifth.

The eighth inning saw a pair of miscues by the Amherst infield sandwiched around another base on balls give the victors a fifth tally, and when the Jeff center-fielder misplayed Jacob's hard smash into a triple, another pair of runs scampered home. Jacob scored the final marker on Sheehy's safe blooper to left.

The freshmen journey to Wesleyan this afternoon to battle for Little Three honors, that club having knocked off the Amherst tossers by a 4 to 3 score four weeks ago. Bob Olsson is scheduled to take the mound for the Eph sluggers.

Golfers Lose First Match

The fast pace of the Williams golf team was finally slowed down last week as they tied Middlebury 4½-4½ on Monday at Taconic in a melodramatic thriller, and then lost their first match of the season to Wesleyan 8-3 on the Cardinal course on Wednesday.

The Middlebury match was close all the way. Bucky Marchese shot par golf to dispose of Bob Boucher nine and seven, and carry the best-ball five and four, while Jerry Cole was halving his match with Ray Nihan. This gave Williams two and one half points, but at the five and six positions Middlebury picked up two points as Jim Marchese whipped Kim Whitney five and three and pushed in the best-ball three and one. Corky MacLeod saved a point, beating Weston five and three.

Two points hung in the balance as White, Heuer, R. Boucher, and Bates reached the last green. Bates missed a six foot putt for an outright win. White sank a four footer to save a half point, and finally Heuer missed a three footer which would have meant a half point victory for Williams.

Blanks, Ziegenhals Lead '48 Runners

Trackmen Pick Barney '49 Varsity Captain

At track meetings held last week, Bill Blanks, '48, weightman and Walt Ziegenhals, '51, middle distance runner, were elected captains of the varsity and freshman track teams respectively, for the just completed season, while sprinter and quartermiler Bill Barney, '49, received the vote for captain of next spring's cinder squad.

Blanks, who hails from Saratoga, California was a mainstay of the team both as a V-12 in '45 and as a consistent pointgetter in his discus specialty as well as the shotput, javelin, and weight throw this year. Last fall he saw action as a football half back. A graduate of Walnut Hills H. S. in Cincinnati, Ziegenhals turned in impressive performances in both the 440 and the 880 for the yearlings. He is an Alpha Delt and was on the freshman soccer team.

Barney, also an AD, has been a standout runner in the 100, 220 and 440 events for the past three seasons and a member of the mile relay team for two winters. At the New Englands a week ago he finished fourth in a crack 440 field. Bill is a resident of Shaker Heights, Ohio and attended the University School.

Tennis Team Beats Green

The Williams tennis team squeezed out a 5-4 victory over Dartmouth last Wednesday at Hanover for its fifth straight win. The Eph doubles strength proved the deciding factor in this encounter. Each team took three singles matches, but Williams annexed two of the three doubles contests to gain its one point margin of victory.

Doubles Teams Win Match

With the score tied three-all, Pete Thurber and George Wright playing three doubles for the Purple dropped their match 6-4, 8-2 to the Dartmouth dou of Jordan and Tinker. However, Dick Palmer and Stu Robinson at number two spot evened the count with a straight set 6-0, 7-5 contest over Dey and Koeniger. Captain Fred Scribner and Charlie Schaaf provided the decisive fifth point by downing Campbell and Rodman 7-5, 6-2.

Robinson, Schaaf Triumph

At the number one singles spot Stu Robinson downed Dartmouth's Campbell 6-3, 7-5. Charlie Schaaf had a more difficult chore with Rodman but finally won 2-6, 6-1, 6-3. The third, fourth, and fifth singles contests went to Dartmouth. Fred Scribner dropped a nip-and-tuck battle to Dey in three close sets, 7-5, 7-9, 6-4. Dick Palmer, although losing the initial set 6-0, came back strongly in the second to win 6-2. However, his opponent, Kramer proved to have the stronger game in the third set and took the match by winning the third set 6-4. At the fifth spot Pete Thurber got off to a fast start by winning the first set 6-3, but his adversary, Kerr annexed the next two sets 6-1, 6-2 to score the third Dartmouth point.

George Wright playing number six easily as usual in straight sets, 6-3, 6-0. In the past two matches Wright has allowed his opponents only five games in four sets.

The final match of the season will be played against Amherst on Saturday.

approved by the Undergraduate Council as delegates, with William B. Falconer Jr. '49 and Harry Ess '50 as alternates.

"The Student in the University Community" is to be the theme of this initial congress at which specific programs will be determined to carry out the NSA's basic purpose of "helping the students to help themselves." About 300 colleges will participate in the August 23-28 Congress at the University of Wisconsin with each college sending from one to seven delegates, according to enrollment, plus alternates and observers.

In the Northern New England Region the NSA is set up so that each school undertakes a particular project on which it submits a final report to the national committee which, in turn, acts as a clearinghouse in making the findings available to all the other colleges. Williams has the unique project of publishing the regional Report, a bi-monthly newspaper still in the "embryo stage", but which already has a subscription of 500 copies among the 50-55 colleges in the region. All printing costs are paid by the regional treasury and the receipts from national advertising, planned for next year, will go to the Williams Committee.

The second purpose of the Williams unit is to get an active group to lead the individual projects next year. Besides the all-college projects, the NSA is furthering a wide range of tasks run on a personal basis within each college. The Bowdoin Plan is an example of this type of work and Williams is one of the first two schools to adopt it. The Committee hopes to evaluate the results of this experiment and, if possible, put it on a permanent basis.

Another project is that of arranging NSA tours to foreign countries at reduced rates. A number of students from Williams are traveling to Europe, Mexico, and South America this summer on ships and tours obtained through the NSA.

The numerous other projects undertaken include surveys and reports concerning student government, cost of living, cultural interchange between students, community church activity, exchange students and compulsory chapel.

and by the end of the first portion were entirely erased. The audience was moved especially by the brilliant crescendos, spectacularly performed, in "The noise of the multitude . . .", the third passage of the sequence. For the encore the chorus sang "The paper reads . . ." which in itself reflected the near-mastery of the whole difficult selection.

Folk Song Impressive

Balancing the religious-music half of the program were several secular pieces, including French and New England folk songs, Polovetzian Dances, and the Finale from "Die Meistersinger". Although in the folk songs it seemed a bit incongruous for a Doctor of Philosophy to be singing about a king with his trousers on backwards, the entire second part was executed with much freshness and animation characterizing the type of song represented. The quality of the concert was truly impressive.

Men and women from each community in Berkshire County are on the Berkshire Choral Society. The organization grew from a Bach Chorus of 60 voices which sang during the eight years before the present enlargement.

Gargoyle Society Taps Delegation From '49

Seventeen Of Junior Class Are Elected

Yesterday evening on the Lab campus the Gargoyle Society chose seventeen members of the Class of 1949 for its fifty-fifth delegation. Full quota for Gargoyle is twenty men, but those juniors tapped were those deemed by the Society "to have the welfare of the college at heart, and who had shown in every way by their college life a desire and ability to promote the best interests of Williams."

The traditional ceremony was not held on Memorial Day as usual because it was felt by the Society that due to the long weekend too few undergraduates would be present to insure the success of the ceremony. The tapping was therefore held at 7:15, a time considered most convenient for the majority of undergraduates.

Those men tapped were:

Seth Bidwell
Patrick Graney
John Mason
Paul Cook
Hubert Hudson
Dickson Whitney
Wallace Barnes
Jerome Page
Edwin Maynard
Alan Harter
Richard Wells
Henry Strong
Walter Geler
John Stillwell
William Barney
Robert Worley
Eugene Harling

The order of tapping was determined solely by lot as were the members of the Society who were to tap individual members of the new delegation. The ceremony was completed by the singing of "The Mountains" by all those present.

Bidwell

First tapped was Seth Bidwell by Gene Murphy. Bidwell is Editor-in-Chief of The Record, National Representative and Chairman of the NSA, Sports Editor of the News Bureau, Upperclass Adviser, member of the Houseparty Committee, and member of Sigma Phi.

Graney

Patrick Graney was tapped by Esty Foster. Graney is Co-captain of the Lacrosse team, former Treasurer and present Vice-President of the WCA, Chairman of the Chest Fund Drive, member of the College Choir, the Adelpic Union, Upperclass Advisers, and Chi Psi.

Mason

John Mason, tapped by Dave Maier, is Captain of Basketball, an Upperclass Adviser, and Vice-President of Alpha Delta Phi.

Cook

Paul Cook was tapped in absentia by Buddy Wilson. Cook is captain of three sports, wrestling, cross country, and spring track. He is a member of the Garfield Club.

Hudson

Tapped by Esty Foster was Hubert Hudson, former Business Manager of the Purple Cow, member of the Spring Conference Board, member of Phi Beta Kappa, President of Lecture Committee, member of the IRC, the Adelpic Union, the SAC, and the Outing Club. He is a Sigma Phi.

Whitney

Students Go To Turkey On Reserve Cruise

Whitney Stoddard, associate professor of art, and local representative of the Commandant of the First Naval District in Boston has announced that Charles Cook '50, and Hilbert Schenck '50, ETM 3rd Class, will leave on a six weeks cruise under the Naval Reserve Program on June 14th on the USS Palau (CVE-122).

The Palau will depart from and return to Norfolk, Virginia. The liberty port designated is Yesikloy, Turkey. Other naval reservists interested may see Professor Stoddard on Friday afternoons between 1-3 p.m. in Hopkins Hall.

New Lecture Group Formed As Clubs Unite

Financial Committee To Coordinate Activities; Conference Dropped

Following a joint conference of students and faculty members with President James Phinney Baxter III, Lecture Committee Chairman Hugh Hudson F.'49 today announced the formation of a new committee which will coordinate the financial management of the IRC, Phil Union, Lecture Committee, and Spring Conference. In revealing this change, he declared there will be no Spring Conference next year because sponsors felt that student participation was not great enough to warrant continuance of the Conference.

However, Hudson emphasized that this new committee would offset the abolishment of the Conference by pooling the financial resources of all four groups and securing the services of more capable speakers. In this manner they hope to present "name" speakers once a month.

Faculty Cooperation

Closer cooperation with the faculty was stressed and present plans call for the new committee to work with department heads in order to present lectures which will be beneficial to students, although compulsory student attendance will not be required at these lectures.

As yet the actual membership of the committee is not known, but See SPRING CONF., Page 3

'49 Eligible For Rhodes Elections

Service Scholarships Available To Vets

The committee on Rhodes Scholarship elections recently announced that members of this year's junior class are eligible for the 1948 fall elections. In addition to the regular scholarships, several new war service scholarships have recently been made available for men with at least one year in the armed forces. In the case of candidates for these war service scholarships, marriage does not preclude eligibility, as it does for regular applicants. Those chosen will begin residence at Oxford in See RHODES, Page 2

Revive Rituals On Class Day

Ceremonies Include Old Rites, Picnic

The Class of 1948 will revive some of the ancient traditions which disappeared from campus life during the war when they begin Class Day ceremonies on Friday, June 18.

Class president John H. Wilson will initiate the program by dropping a watch from the Chapel tower. Sandy Orr will briefly explain the significance of the custom, which augurs good for the class if the watch stops after its fall.

Pipe Oration

Class Day committee chairman Eugene T. Detmer will give a similar explanation of the pipe oration rite which will take place in front of the Chapel immediately afterwards. A peacepipe will be passed among the class as a symbol of their unity through college life, and the pipe, together with a scroll signed by the members, will be hung in the Alumni house.

President Baxter and Dean Brooks will descend from their academic chairs to give light ten-minute speeches during the pipe-smoking.

Class Picnic

The seniors and an estimated 400 guests will then adjourn to the in front of the Cole Field House for a picnic lunch, which will continue until the varsity baseball game with Harvard on Weston Field at 3:00 p. m.

The remainder of the week-end activities:

Saturday, June 19—Alumni Day. 10.15 a. m.—Phi Beta Kappa Society, Jesup Hall Auditorium.

11.00 a. m.—Annual Meeting of the Society of Alumni, Chapin Hall.

2.00 p. m.—Spontaneous Alumni softball.

4-6 p. m.—The President's Reception, Faculty House.

4.30 p. m.—Gargoyle Alumni Association, Jesup Hall Auditorium.

6.00 p. m.—Class dinners.

Sunday, June 20—Baccalaureate and Commencement.

10.30 a. m.—Baccalaureate Service, Thompson Memorial Chapel. Address by President James Phinney Baxter III.

2.00p. m. Commencement Procession, Campus.

2.30 p. m.—Commencement Exercises, Chapin Hall.

Scribner, Schaaf Down Yale; Win Doubles Title

by Russ Platt

The Williams doubles team of Charlie Schaaf and Captain Fred Scribner, unheralded and unseeded upset the top-ranking Yale duo of New England Intercollegiate singles champ, Rolar Ray, and Bill Ford to take the New England Doubles Championship on the Sage Hall courts last Monday.

The score was 2-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4. The first set saw Yale jump to a quick 4-0 lead which they maintained easily as both Scribner and Schaaf were slow in bringing their play up to the caliber of their opponents.

However, the Williams pair executed an abrupt about-face in the second set by exhibiting crisp volleys and unerring overheads that turned the Yale team back 6-3. The strategy of Scribner and Schaaf was evident as they concentrated their attack on Bill Ford and his comparatively weak backhand. Thus in trying to cover his partner's weak backhand the usually errorless Rolar Ray was forced into numerous miscues while attempting difficult shots that he otherwise wouldn't have undertaken.

The third set saw Williams behind 3-2 and 5-4 on successive occasions. However, the Ephmen tied the count both times with Charlie Schaaf winning his serve twice. With the score deadlocked at 5-5, the Williams pair broke through Ford's service to go ahead for the first time, 6-5. At this juncture Fred Scribner using his high-bounding American-twist serve to great advantage won the decisive seventh game which gave the Ephs a 1 set lead. The fourth and final set saw Williams in front all the way. At one point they enjoyed a 5-2 advantage, but this quickly was trimmed to a 5-4 lead when Scribner dropped his serve and Ray won his. But in the tenth game the Eph pair won four points in a row to close out the match.

'Night Must Fall' Ends Fine Season At AMT This Week

Direction By Bryant, Sondheim's Acting In Role Of Hero, Tops

by Paul R. Barstow

Cap and Bells, Inc. opened a three-night offering of Emlyn Williams' Night Must Fall on Friday, doing right by both melodrama and high comedy in a production which proved that the play has plenty of both. Mr. David Bryant's skilful and subtle direction, Steve Sondheim's highly successful characterization of the hero, and a cast which was, without exception, able, got out of the summer stock stand-by about all that is there.

Excellent Direction

Mr. Bryant was sure of what he wanted, and got it. His direction was full of those touches which make all the difference. Movement on the stage was unfailingly proper and natural, in progress, in starts and in stops. Entrances and exits were timed and paced exceptionally well. Stage business was handled with ease and assurance, from the movement of an article to the on-stage dressing of a character. In general the groupings capitalized on most of the dramatic possibilities and added force to the dialogue. Mr. Bryant gave a demonstration of what See PLAY, Page 3

Whatsa Time? -Ask Milham

Prof's Clocks Antique, But Every One Runs

Another chapter of the soon-ought to-be-published tome on Why Nothing Is On Time At Williams was unearthed Wednesday when a Record snoopster discovered a horde of nearly 100 clocks and watches in the home of Professor Emeritus Willis I. Milham.

Professor Milham, whose 60 clocks and 30 watches are all in running condition, also holds a monopoly on time at Williams as regards longevity; he has been a member of this community as student and teacher for 55 years, and his 40 year tenure from 1902 until 1942 constitutes the longest professorship at Williams with exception of Mark Hopkins.

Is Hobbyists Mainspring

Despite what he calls the "minuteness" of his collection, Professor Milham is one of the country's leading clock hobbyists. He is first Vice-President of the National Association of Watch and Clock Collectors and is the editor of the association's "Bulletin", published intermittently throughout the year.

He and Mrs. Milham have blanketed the globe in building their collection, but like the British Empire, many of the pieces have been dropped in their laps rather than acquired as the result of a concentrated search.

Wife Tailed In Innstanbul Case in point was the salesman in Innstanbul who shadowed Mrs. Milham for half a day trying to sell her a watch with four cases. The eager huckster's zeal paid off at sunset when Mrs. Milham's resistance shattered. She paid him five dollars for this quadruple cased watch, but the watch's value, asserts her husband, has tripled ten times since. It is now worth $150.

But if clocks and watches have not been a sufficient outlet for Professor Milham's squirrelous tendencies, he also has a collection of decorated whale ivory, rare flint enamelware made only for twenty years of the last century in Bennington and the twentieth largest mechanical puzzle collection in the nation.

Tie In Little Three Assured; Ditmar's Fifth

by Jack Schafer

The oldest baseball rivalry in the country was resumed last Monday on Weston Field and Williams won by dislodging Amherst from the happy circumstances of a three run lead with a four run blast in the eighth inning to win 4 to 3.

The victory, Ditmar's fifth, gives the Purple at least a tie for the Little Three championship. If Amherst wins the game of June 19th the race will be deadlocked, but right now Williams leads with three victories and no defeats. Ditmar has won all three.

Four Run Eighth

This ball game featured one of those Merriwell finishes that demonstrate the truth of the old baseball maxim that the game isn't over until the last man is out. Williams came up in the eighth without having scored a run and with Rainey, the Amherst hurler, going strong under three hit pitching.

The biggest threat Williams had been able to put on was in the fourth when they loaded the bases on three walks. They had gotten men on first and second in the sixth and seventh, but each time with two outs. And the team had hit only six balls into the outfield all afternoon, so it looked like Rainey had a shutout.

Lesage Starts Rally

But Don Lesage, first man up in the eighth, started the doings with a line drive into right center for two bases. Jim Young followed with a walk but when Goodell came up there were two away and nobody could get too excited. Chuck rapped a hard grounder to deep short, however, that went for an infield hit.

This loaded the bases and brought up Delisser with two outs. Stan brought the house down by driving in the first two runs in sixteen innings with a clean double down the third base-line to make the count 3 to 2. With men on second and third and still two outs, Ralph Mason came up and lined the ball into center field to drive in Goodell and Delisser and win the ball game by one run.

Three For Jeffs

George Ditmar was not at his sharpest and Amherst was able to work him for single runs in the first, third, and eighth. McNeish led off the ball game by drawing a walk and advancing to second on a sacrifice. With Genovese up, Ditmar had McNeish caught off second by a country mile but the throw was low and went through, the runner taking third from whence he scored on Genovese's single to center.

The Jeffs picked up another in the third on a single, sacrifice, and another single to go ahead two to nothing. They seemingly iced the game in the eighth when McKeon singled, went to second on a wild pitch, and scored on Jordan's double to left center. But Williams still had six more outs left, and only needed three of them.

Yale Today

Williams meets some more of the big boys when Yale comes into town today... Who's gonna pitch?... Amherst has a little rabbit in that McNeish fellow who plays second base... He almost had a sensational play in the seventh when he went behind second to knock down Ditmar's drive and scooped the ball to Rosendale trying for a force. Just missed it... The Williams club played its best defensive ball in many a moon. The infield was flawless. See BASEBALL, Page 6

What Next?

With the publication of the last Record for the current college year, we started thinking about the accomplishments of The Record since we dusted off the typewriter and went to work in March.

We have weathered a few storms, and an incidental battle. Social probation, Professor Schuman, and a few squabbles with our subscribers, have caused us some sleepless nights.

On the other hand, fraternity acceptance of the Foster Parents Plan and other Record suggestions has been encouraging. The suggestion for the consolidation of the Lecture Committee we understand has already been considered by the powers that be. Let's hope the issue is settled favorably before Williams closes the gates in June.

Our coverage of national news, however, has been light, the draft and economic hedging, being our only contributions in this line. With a presidential election coming, The Record will present the values of each candidate next fall when the political scene has cleared. We have refrained from any comment because we have considered it premature.

We have attempted to make The Record interesting to the College—even to the extent of an April Fool's issue and the redoubtable practice of perfumed ink. Our initial storm has been weathered but we are now faced with another. Graduation sees the loss of Messrs. Horton, Klensch, Ernst, and Platt. They have been a tremendous help and will be missed in the future.

What friends we have made in the past months, we hope will stick with us while we attempt to fill the gap these seniors leave. We will do our utmost to bring The Record to a satisfactory level for the majority of Williams. If you stick with us next year, we will fill our bill with our best ability.

once upon a time there was a dandy little school in the berkshires with 350 students. everyone knew almost everyone else. everyone walked the same direction at lunchtime. east. fraternities were more exclusive than gargyle tho not as active and the faculty was in a perfect rash of excitement because they had students who were eager to get the word.

of course there was the curriermess compulsory chapel compulsory summerterm and some of the profs were a little hardput by students who wanted the stuff straight.

the ex class of whataveyouys were discontented because the dandy little school wasnt Prewar in many respects. it was a period of reorientation of veterans (ala readersdigest et al) and renewing traditions and snafu and rogerover and transition back to the oldwhen extracurricular activities were determinedly being relaunched. beer was in short supply. but hindsightedly it seems that those were The days.

the berkshire quad was the center of the campus, baseball on the quad on spring and summer afternoons. even tho there were few cars and fewer motorcycles social life wasnt too much cramped and even without the houses there were very hightype houseparties. (this is no reflection on the recent houseparty which according to the current definition of hightype was also hightype. it might have gotten somewhat out of hand sunday but it was worth it.)

in speaking of the days when the voice of the halycon was heard in this land the group that comes to my mind is the gang in middlentry berkshire. the best damned entry on campus it was claimed w/o fear of contradiction. there were atkins barney bidwell austell ray jenkinson humphreys young conway dissell winter (klensch). three of the group were fraternity men but no missed the blood of the crab crap. middlentry berkshire was a club in itself.

no happy little group bound together by the belief that jackets must cover the posterior and that freshmen should belong to one two three four extracurricular activities. but the comradeship did thrive. and the group has since accumulated numerous chenilles four record editorships threetelepins five gibrides and the occasional chairmanship presidency starring role phibetekey captaincy.

but now the latelamented chaos is being emergedfrom. there are signs on every hand that Things are getting back to Normal. the onceager veterans have wisedup are now clutching at gentlemen's ccccc. and even tho the faculty is feeling somewhat letdown after a glimpse of what things might bein a pedagogical nirvana the record (and bybolly the cow) are running along rather well with councils committees &c too humorous to mention. we are getting back to the old system of mark hopkins on one end of the log and the taconic theater on the other.

hooray for progress says you.

hooray for the defunct class of 50-M says i and the glorious abnormal days of 46.

Two Williams Men

Two Williams men have qualified as Rhodes scholars since the resumption of elections in 1946. Bruce McClellan '47 is now studying at New College, and Edson W. Spencer of this year's graduating class will enter Balliol College late this summer.

Juniors interested in applying for these two year Rhodes Scholarships should confer with Professor R. J. Allen, institutional representative for Williams, before the end of the present semester.

Cum Grano Salis

by Joseph T. S. Horton

A moon or two ago, a friend of mine suggested that I make a detailed study of the "Typical Williams Man" and write a penetrating analysis of same. It seemed like a good idea at the time, so I didn't do it. It is only fitting and proper that I should have reserved this subject—with its magnitude and importance—for the last of these little masterpieces.

Here, then, is a rather brief but horribly interesting condensation of the penetrating analysis which I call

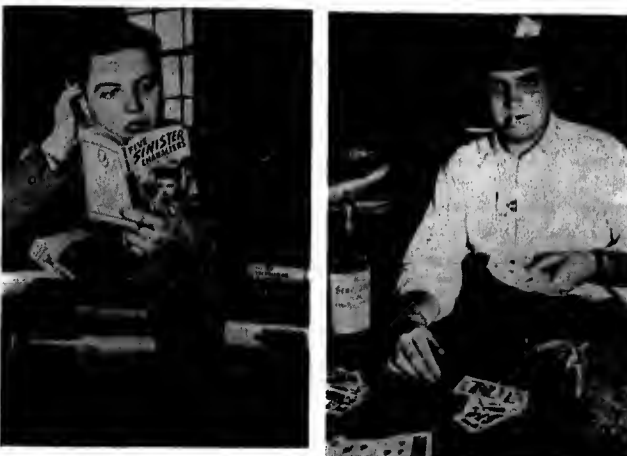

THROUGH DARKEST WILLIAMSTOWN WITH GUN AND CAMERA

Taking off our pith helmets and wiping our beaded-with-perspiration brows, we stand in wonder at our first view of homo guillemen-sis! Let us examine the sleeping habits of this strange creature. At any hour during the morning or afternoon can the Williams man be found in this dormant state. Although the bed (patols for "sack") is the usual place for the observance of this strange tribal custom—called "sacking in" by the natives—the Williams man has become quite adept at sleeping anywhere. Classes of study—which have been instituted to provide amusement for the Williams man during his waking hours—are made quaintly dull in order to offer no interference to the pursuit of sleeping. The native climate provides many days during which the Williams man may sleep outside. This ceremony of sacking in makes it possible for the natives to howl and give native chants in the late night and very early morning—thus providing a source of great amusement to the other natives who wish to sleep.

Another aspect of life among these aborigines of the Williams campus is the practice of studying (called in native parlance "fluffing off"). This is done in a strange tribal structure known as the "library". In a spirit of friendly fun, the native leaders and primitive architects have hidden the books carefully in a series of stacks. A communal attitude prevails among the lesser natives who, upon once locating the stack which contains the most interesting books, not only reveal the location to their buddies, but also turn down the corners of the good pages and underline the better sections, including appropriate marginal comments. The loveliest of the few females who have married into the tribe are employed in the library to induce the natives to join in this game of studying.

All is not work at Williams. A prominent place in tribal ritual is given to clean living and healthful sports. "Play the game fair and square" is the campus motto. A more literal translation of the native jargon is "Don't get caught cheating." A high code of honor is thus developed. Those who do not get caught cheating are mercifully spared their ignominy by being shot underneath the table in a friendly fashion. Clean living is practiced by the junior members of the tribe three times each week. By the time the members have become "upperclassmen" (native smalltalk for those who have paid the required amount into the tribal treasury) this has become so ingrained that sports like this one result.

All is not play at Williams. Working is also felt to be necessary to the attainment of a full-rounded life. Most natives combine this rather insignificant procedure with sleeping, which is all right since a mark of C in the tribal examinations marks one as a gentleman. Working is done at a desk surrounded by various publications of the wise men of the tribe who continually write books in order to keep the natives busy. The desk is also surrounded by trophies which display the ability of the individual native to steal. Working not only provides time for extra sleeping, it also permits students to get together to talk about the various bad and interesting qualities of the tribal wise ones. This invariably leads to a beer party, proving that—at least among this strange tribe—working can also be fun.

Having passed all the tribal tests by hook or by crook, the Williams undergraduate is allowed to rent a cap and gown and be spoken to by the Great Father. After an appropriate ceremony, the former member of the undergraduate section is tossed all unaware into the less important section of the tribe—the Williams Alumni. In this group he is allowed to return to the tribal haunts at specific times. He is permitted to give money, and if he gives enough he is also allowed to criticize mildly the running of the tribe.

He sets up tribal extensions in various large centers to which he may go when he requires a drink or loss of contact with the heartless outsiders who don't realize the importance of wearing purple under-drawers.

Goodbye all! You'll never know how grand you've been to raise a stink about these columns—a stink large enough to make the writing of them interesting, but not quite large enough to discourage me entirely. You'll never believe that it has actually been fun writing Cum Grano Salis for so many terms, but it actually has. And most of the fun has been gained because you were willing to read them and either chuckle or hold your noses.

The Lightning Rod

by Roger Ernst

Isolationism at Williams

Isolationism does not pay. Clearly most of us agree that cutting ourselves off from "foreign" influences limits the possibilities of adventure. Isolationism is a sign of weakness, an admission that we cannot cope with a given situation. We then behave like ostriches and hide behind the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, the atomic bomb, or the exclusive-inbred group to which we belong.

The state of mind which leads to the rejection of all but a limited area of experience and relationship is equal to a disease. It is like a wound; eventually it will fester and cause trouble.

No matter how much Messrs. Taft, Bricker, Martin, Halleck and their ilk would like to retire behind the American iron clad curtain consisting of the atomic bomb and an expanding air force, our nation's future is inexorably bound up with the future of the rest of the world.

Such is also the case at Williams.

Some of us here at Williams try to hide behind the traditions of Williams: "the Williams Man," the gentleman "C", and the ancient ivy-clad unreality of our campus.

Some of us hide behind the exclusivism which prevails in the college's admissions policy, and in the social structure on campus.

The future lies in another direction. Tradition will not get us by and neither will exclusivism. We evoke tradition for lack of anything more positive. We are exclusive—isolationist—in our social life because we fear new "foreign" influences. The very essence of exclusivism is repugnant to our way of life. This way means diversity and variety in our media of expression and information, in our social contacts. If we limit the ideas which can flow to us, if we prescribe the type of person with whom we may associate we do ourselves harm.

We believe that men grow through exposure to a variety of men and a contrary of opinion. This belief, the antithesis of exclusiveness, means we must actively search for new ideas and new human relationships. This is particularly true for college men for we gain more true knowledge from others than from books, and this is the era in which we are supposedly devoting ourselves to "learning."

It is evident to this observer that if we are to increase our experience we must initiate and follow an action on two broad fronts: the revision of the admissions policy and the revamping of our social system.

Williams College admission policy leaves much to be desired. At present candidates for entrance are viewed from a parochial, almost incestuous viewpoint. Sons of former students are given preference, so are boys from prep schools. Year after year the incoming class approximates all other incoming classes in background, geographical distribution, and income group.

If we are to broaden our area of experience we must have a conscious policy of diversification such as Dartmouth College has recently installed. We should take the offensive and look for boys not from the prep schools, not from the north-east, not sons of alumni. In our student body there should be sons of union leaders, farmers' sons, boys from the slum areas, from families in which both parents have to work, boys from the great plains, from the southwest, from foreign lands, from minority groups, especially colored and so on ad infinitum.

In our social structure we must eliminate the discrimination which bars persons with backgrounds and "morea" believed to be "alien" from most of the social units. The broader the racial, religious, and geographic background of the men in the social unit, the more the members thereof can learn and mature.

There are many among us who know that the absence of diversity is exceedingly unprofitable and shortsighted. These men must take the initiative and lead the way to a more democratic view.

During the year there has been progress on the second front. Many have thought deeply about the stupidity of a policy of discrimination. Followup is needed—will be needed—next year.

To my knowledge there has been no action taken with a view to the adoption of a policy of diversification in admissions, although this has been discussed by several faculty members. Student leadership through the undergraduate council in this field can be effective.

Isolationism, or call it exclusivism, is a disease. It indicates a lack of inner security, a lack of the faith needed to meet men and issues squarely and learn from all. Mass inner insecurity has again and again laid groups and whole nations open to the scourge of discipline imposed from the outside, authority exercised by a dictator. If our college adventure is to have real and lasting meaning, it must be instrumental in helping us to come closer to the desideratum of self-discipline. (The world crisis today can be viewed as a conflict between those who believe in the efficacy of self-discipline, and those who assert that discipline must be imposed!)

Some may not like an admissions policy of diversification, or having a greater variety of men in a social unit, but such policies will pay off handsomely in the years to come.

In these respects we must discipline ourselves and embark boldly on a programme of enriching our college community and our social units with a wider selection of men.

Exclusiveness must give way to the wholly democratic concept of diversity in our admissions policy and in our social structure.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

The Williamstown Board of Trade operated its information booth at the Greylock Corner last summer without a telephone. This past week when we requested a telephone for the summer, the telephone company advised us that no circuits were available. When we considered how important to the businessmen of Williamstown this information booth is, and how essential to its operation is the telephone, we asked the telephone company to make an effort to have someone share service with us.

Mr. Robert Messimer '49, president of Phi Sigma Kappa, very graciously authorized the telephone company to put in joint service between the fraternity and our information booth. We consider this a magnanimous gesture on the part of the fraternity and an indication of an appreciation of the mutual interests which the students and the businessmen have in Williamstown. That is why we want to express our appreciation to the students in general and to Phi Sigma Kappa in particular.

Very truly yours,

Purple Nine Succumbs To Visitors, 11-0

Pinch-hitter Kaufman, Brownell Garner Two Hits For Coombsmen

Apparently unable to regain their winning Holy Cross game form, Bobby Coombs' varsity nine absorbed their worst beating of the season last Saturday as a heretofore unimpressive St. Michael's outfit hung up a two hit, 1-0 triumph at their expense. The bleak afternoon at Weston Field was lightened only by Bill Kaufman's ninth inning pinch single and Bob Ray's classy one hit relief stint.

Rightfielder George Owen, who started the ball game, gave up a single and a sacrifice and then a run in the first on two short coated along until the fourth while two St. Mike's double plays were keeping the Purple in check.

The Fatal Fourth

A couple of walks and an error loaded the bases with two outs in the fourth for the Mikemen. This proved to be fatal as a single, a walk, a triple and another free ticket led to five runs and the arrival of Bob Johnston from the bullpen. He was greeted by another single before he retired the side after eleven men had batted and the Ephmen were seven runs down.

The Vermonters continued their onslaught in the fifth as the lead-off batter singled and moved to third while Johnston was heaving a sacrifice bunt over the first baseman's head. This resulted in three more runs as the next two men singled and walked and Bob Ray was called in to put out the fire. Relying chiefly on a sharply breaking slow curve Ray pitched beautiful ball for three and a third innings till he was removed for a pinch-hitter in the ninth. He walked two, struck out two and gave up a cheap bloop single, however, this was to no avail as Joe Pattison had only given up a solitary infield hit to Bob Brownell till the ninth.

nal run off Fred Lanes on a walk and a single in the ninth but this proved unnecessary as the Eph ninth inning rally failed to mature. After Kaufman blasted his single into center and LeSage walked Owen lined to center, Young popped up and Palmieri flied to center for the final out.

Coach Trudel Well Qualified Skiing Expert

by Fred Wiseman

With the interest in skiing that manifested itself in the student body during the past winter the college authorities decided to hire a ski coach. Their choice was no surprise to all who knew and have skied with Al Trudel. Director of Athletics Walter F. Sheehan had to look no farther than the middle of Spring Street, to the House of Walsh, to find Al, who has been employed in the local emporium since 1938.

Before coming to Williamstown Coach Trudel worked at Campions in Hanover, N. H. He was fortunate to be up in the Indian territory at a time when Dick and Jack Durrance were attending the local institution of learning, and were the mainstays of a Dartmouth ski team that was the nemesis of all the hickory runners in the country. Al attributes much of his skiing knowledge to the Durrance brothers with whom he spent many skiing week-ends going to the best slopes and trails in New England. Dick Durrance, incidentally, was the mainstay of the 1938 United States Olympic Ski team, which puts Al in the position of having mingled with the "upper crust" of skiing companions and teachers.

Instructor For Stony Ledge

The new ski coach has been skiing ever since he was "a little kid up in Claremont, New Hampshire." His interest in the sport was not dulled during his years at Stevens High, in his home town of Claremont, because the adjacent New Hampshire slopes made skiing a natural activity with all the healthy and energetic lads in the community.

When he came to Williamstown in 1938 Coach Trudel became interested in the activities of the Stony Ledge Ski Club, which had been dormant for some time. He took a leading part in activating the Club and became its instructor. During this period he became an Area Proficiency Test judge, in which capacity it was his duty to determine the ability of skiers before they were allowed to enter races.

Tennis Team Crushes Jeff

The Williams tennis team scored an overwhelming 8-1 victory over Amherst last Saturday on the Sage Hall courts. This triumph coupled with the 6-1 win over Wesleyan last week earned Coach Chaffee's aggregation the Little Three crown. Thus the team ended its season with a 5-1 record, losing only to Princeton.

Amherst Outclassed

Amherst was outclassed in every department. The Williams singles strength swept up the Jeff without losing a match or even a set. Amherst's lone point came at the number two doubles slot where the Eph duo of Dick Palmer and Bill Riegel dropped a 6-1, 6-4 decision to Keeyl and Graham. Coach Chaffee substituted freely, using his entire eleven man squad for the first time this season.

Stu Robinson at the first spot defeated Amherst's Rees easily by a 6-1, 6-2 count. At the number two slot Charlie Schaaf tripped Keeyl with a one aided 6-2, 6-1 shellacking.

Captain Fred Scribner, playing three, was forced to come from behind in both sets to win over Graham 6-3, 6-3. In the initial set Graham was leading 3-1 and in the second he was ahead 3-0, but on both occasions Scribner swept the remaining games.

Dick Palmer at four for the Ephs romped through Steketee with a 6-4, 6-1 victory, while Pete Thurbur playing five allowed his opponent, Soladay only three games in winning 6-2, 6-1. George Wright playing six downed Greene 6-4, 6-1.

Joe Takkamline and Ed Spencer played number one doubles and trounced their Amherst rivals 6-4, 6-1, while at the third position Russ Platt and Pat Humphreys needed three sets to win 5-7, 6-2, 6-2.

Rally For Tying Runs In Ninth, But Cards Triumph On Squeeze

Luck finally ran out on the freshman baseball team as they dropped a melodramatic thirteen-inning thriller to the Wesleyan frosh, 9-8, on the later's home field Saturday afternoon. Trailing 7-to-4 when they went to bat in the ninth, the Williams nine rallied to get three runs and tie it up, and then added a tie-breaking tally in the tenth, but the stubborn Cardinal club came back with a run in their half of the tenth and pushed across the winning run in the last of the thirteenth.

This victory gave the Wesleyan freshmen the Little Three championship and ended the Williams season at a record of three wins, all at home, and three losses, all on the road.

Relief pitcher Sheehy opened the Eph ninth-inning with a tremendous triple over the center-fielder's head, and with one out Captain Zellars singled to bring in the run, stole second, went to third on a passed ball, and tallied on Mierzejewski's poke through the middle. Shay Lynch then came up with his third hit, a triple to right, to tie it up.

After Wesleyan failed to score the Purple went ahead in the next inning as Tone singled and came around with the help of an error, and Williams was one out away from victory when Callahan's perfect peg from right field caught a Wesleyan run at the plate. But Demmers' long triple down the first-base line knotted the count again, and after a scoreless eleventh inning the Cardinals got a man to third with one out in the twelfth, whence he scored as Gavilgor popped a squeeze bunt over Sheehy's head to end the game.

Coach Addresses
Girdiron AspirantsFirst Practice Session
Begins September 1

"I didn't come here to get licked," were the words of Len Watters, new head coach of the varsity eleven, Friday night when he outlined his fall program to some eighty-odd inspired football candidates.

Returning to Williams for practice Sept. 21, the team will have over three weeks of closely integrated fundamentals and drill work before their first game with Norwich on Sept. 25. Watters, a great exponent of offensive ball, stated that the secret of an offensive team lies in knowing "what to do and how to do it, and that's the type of squad we're going to have."

All five of the football coaches, Watters; Frank Bell, end coach; Harvey Potter and Dale Burnett, backfield directors; and "Bobby" Coombs, line specialist, will concentrate on the varsity squad until the incoming freshmen report later in the month, when Coombs and Burnett will take over the yearlings.

Frosh Golf, Tennis
Defeat Jeff Teams

The freshman tennis team finished its season victoriously by downing Amherst 7-2. Amherst won the first two matches, but the Ephs took the remaining four singles contests and swept the three doubles matches.

The freshman golf team ended its season by overwhelming Amherst 6-1 at Taconic on Saturday. Smith lost Williams only point in losing two and one to a 74. Earlier in the season the Williams Frosh beat Hotchkiss 6-3, lost to Dartmouth 5-4, and outscored Taft 5 1-2-3 1-2. Other members of the team are Rodie, Reinhardt, Jeffrey, Sziklas, and Fagerburg.

Title Second Year In Row

With practically all the results of the year's intramural competitions recorded, the exceptions being the winners of the golf and tennis finals, the Phi Delt powerhouse has copped the interfraternity trophy for the second consecutive year. The KA's finishing a close second.

Champions of both league in touch football, the Phi Delts also snatched their league championship in basketball, while finishing second in track and baseball. Their consistently strong showing in all sports, as the figures below will indicate, accounts for their trophy winning performance.

The KA's were in the running right up to the last, their 96 points just falling short of the 103 total of the Phi Delts. The Kappa Alpha men won the basketball championship and took the league title in baseball, while winding up second in their circuit in volleyball.

Other houses that will be the recipients of trophies for winning individual championships are Beta Theta Pi, volleyball; Delta Psi, baseball; Delta Upsilon, track; Sigma Phi, squash; Alpha Delta Phi and Psi Upsilon co-recipients of the swimming cup.

by Bill Barney

The Williams Athletic Award

A year or so back, as the result of joint action by the Purple Key society and the Undergraduate Council, the Athletic Council approved the standard or major "W" as the award to be given to all athletes who successfully fulfilled the requirements of any sanctioned sport at Williams.

At first glance, it seemed to solve petty differences held by some in regard to that which constituted a major or minor sport. Theoretically, all sports are now on the same par. In fact, assistant managers, fifth man on the fencing team, and the football captain all wear the same emblem: It is all very well to say Williams sports are treated with the same degree of pride and admiration, but a little honest examination will show that this is definitely not the case. Granted, there is no way of comparing the degree of skill exercised in squash with that put forth in swimming, and since this cannot be achieved, there remains but one logical alternative . . . a distinguishing symbol should be inserted in the center of the "W" to designate the particular athletic activity in which the recipient has earned his award.

At negligible cost to the administration and in all fairness to our athletes, this could and should be accomplished. A miniature football, hockey stick, or letter of the alphabet could easily be woven into the chenille "W" and the problem would be solved.

Another weak point in the present award system, is the rather surprising fact that no distinction is made between managers and those who actually participate. Here again, a simple solution . . . merely insert in the center of the monogram "Mgr" to identify the manager of a team. It's as simple as all that!

If you haven't stopped reading this column by this time, you may at least think that the issue is too small to warrant this space, but the topic still continues to come up whenever the athletic awards are discussed. So long as letters are given out to over 300 men a year, for

" '48 Track Captain"

"Bill Blanks, weightman and recently elected captain of the '48 track team."

Maxwell Has Lead
In Lehman Meet

With only the 1500 meter run left to go in the Lehman Cup competition, Pete Maxwell was leading the field with 5456 points, his closest rivals being Bill Barney with 5388 and Bill Blanks with 5314. Herb Louis' 4804 points put him in fourth place, and Gene Detmer was in fifth with 4795.

To wipe out the 68 point margin that Maxwell, ace frosh hurdler, had set up, Barney would have in the 1500 meter race held Tuesday to beat him by at least 15 seconds day (after the Record had gone to press.)

Golfers Down
Amh'rst 6 1/2-2 1/2Team Ends Season
With Seventh Win

The Williams golf team concluded one of its most successful seasons last Saturday afternoon, whipping Amherst 6 1-2-2 1-2 on the Taconic links. The record for the year is seven wins, one loss, and one tie, and a fifth in the New England.

In the first foursome Williams took two points to one for the Jeffa. Bucky Marchese won over Don Hoesterey five and four. Jerry Cole lost his first match of the year to Graf Mouen three and two. Williams grabbed best-ball two up.

Three More Points

By virtue of his fine play, Dick Baxter started Chuck White at number three instead of the usual fourth position. Chuck had a narrow squeak, but pulled a neat birdie off on the last hole to win over Diver one up, and complete the season undefeated—the only Purple golfer to accomplish the feat. Dick Heuer was even par through the twelfth hole which was all he needed to finish off Daniels by a seven and six count. Williams took best-ball six and four.

Corky MacLeodd won again at the sixth position, downing Morley five and four. Kim Whitney bumped into a hot putter and lost three and one to Russell of Amherst. Best-ball was halved as Whitney scrambled out of a trap for a magnificent birdie on the eighteenth. Low scores of the day were made by Heur of Williams and Mouen of Amherst who each fired two over par 75's.

athletic achievements and managerial positions, we might as well do it right. The recent institution of the "one 'W' for all" was certainly an improvement over the old system, but each sport has its own particular distinctive qualifications and should be treated accordingly. Purple Key and Athletic Council, please consider.

Eisenhower Speaks To Grads

Baxter Gives Ike Degree

203 Receive Diplomas In June Exercises

The surprise appearance of General Dwight D. Eisenhower, one of six to receive honorary degrees at Williams' 159th commencement exercises, rewarded the hundreds of alumni who returned for the annual occasion. Although having no previous intention to speak at the exercises, a last minute plea for him to do so by President James P. Baxter 3rd had a telling effect, and the audience of 1200 in Chapin Hall gave a tremendous ovation as he rose to accept the honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

After stating that he never appears "on a public platform except as a representative of the G.I. who won the war in Europe and in the Pacific," the new President of Columbia University urged the 203 graduates to "go out into the world and take it over. Take it over now," he stressed, "for we of my generation haven't done too well with it so far."

Education Begets Freedom

General Eisenhower told the graduating class that, "there is no surer bulwark for future freedoms than the unified power that comes from education. No matter how great we may be as engineers, doctors, lawyers, teachers, nurses, etc., we are doing less than we should unless we are effective citizens."

Speaking at the end of the exercises, he said one thing he didn't hear mentioned on the platform was faith in opportunity. He emphasized "there must be some faith in opportunity or belief in our system of democracy will fail."

Rushing Races Record Clears For Finale Frosh Queries

Frankie Thoms Arbiter Activities of '52

Rushing of the 269 members of the class of 1952, which began with two nights of prowling, Sunday and Monday, September 19 and 20, moves into its second stage after today's holiday. The first period continued from Monday through Friday, and the second period will start Sunday, September 26, at 7:30 p.m.

The activities of the 280 men being rushed are under the supervision and guidance of Rushing Arbiter Frank R. Thoms '31, throughout the two sets of fifty minute periods.

Second Period Sunday

Second period bids may be picked up by freshmen and other rushees between 9 and 10 a.m. on Sunday, September 28, and must be returned by 1 p.m. with the preferred periods indicated.

The three dates Sunday night and the first date Monday night, are straight second period bids of equal value. The last date Monday is the preferential, with the sub-preferential the previous hour. Any of the dates may be interchanged or discarded to suit the See RUSHING, Page 3

Informal Rushing Data Given By Reporter

The purpose of rushing at Williams is to get each man located in one of the sixteen social units. Part of the Rushing Agreement that every entering freshmen (and all others) must sign forbids him from talking about the social units with any upperclassmen during the rushing period.

This policy of silence is to allow the rushee to make a free choice, to eliminate the "Barefoot Boy with Cheek" type of pledging. Kidnapping is probably no longer a real threat to the freshman; but persuasion on the basis of "this house is the only house which will give you a car, free board and a case of beer" is quite properly considered undesirable.

Because this rule of silence on rushing matters does not give an opportunity to ask some very pertinent questions, the Record here presents some points about the social units at Williams. The one man who can talk to the individual freshman on the subject of rushing is the arbiter. It is part of his See RECORD, Page 3

104 Frosh Swell AAF Unit; ROTC Group Draft Exempt

Enrollment of 104 freshmen in the Williams Air Reserve Officers Training Program increases more than four times the size of last year's squadron of thirty-six men. All of the new ROTC members were processed and issued uniforms by Wednesday after enrolling in a unit which in the last six months has proven itself of high calibre.

In a breakdown of the 163 man Group, which will be composed of three squadrons, the 104 freshmen will make up the first year basic class. Twenty-six men will be in the second year basic class, three of which are new to the program. All of the twenty-seven members of the first year advanced class are new to the program, while the six seniors in the second year advanced class are all members of the program from last year.

Draft Exemption

Lt Colonel Joseph A. L. Greco,

Commander of the Air ROTC Program, said that the majority of the freshmen enrolled in the program would be deferred from the draft for the four years they are in College as long as they remain in the ROTC. Col. Greco said, "All men starting ROTC, after performing one semester's work will be subject to a screening test and close scrutiny of their performance to determine which of them will be permitted to continue in the ROTC."

"Those selected to continue will sign a deferment agreement and will be permitted to finish their college education without danger of being inducted even in the event of a national emergency," Col. Greco added that such men will be subject to two years of service as officers after graduation.

WMS Installs Equipment

Programs To Start 5 P. M. Wednesday

With the installation of $2000 worth of new equipment in the past two weeks, WMS has become "one of the top ranking college radio stations of its type," said Norton Cushman '49, technical director. The station will illustrate its progress by opening on schedule next Wednesday.

Wallace Barnes '49, president of the station, announced Tuesday that the broadcasting schedule will be the same as last year—five days a week from 5 - 8:15 p. m. and 8 - 11 p. m.—with the possibility of expanding the broadcasting time later if enough new men come out for the staff to make that possible. A meeting for compets will be held this week.

The increased technical facilities will enable the production staff to put on programs of much greater scope. A new transmitter has been acquired and the studio equipment is now of the same type and quality as that used by the commercial broadcasting companies.

The few fraternities that were not hooked up to WMS reception last year will be this year and will get good reception.

No decision has been made as yet on who will broadcast the football games.

Key To Hold Dance Oct. 9

Affair To Feature Skip Towne Band

The first fall dance will be given by the Purple Key Society on Saturday the ninth of October after the football game with Champlain. This dance is an annual affair to aid the football training table.

Skip Towne and his band have been hired for this dance date. Skip was undefeated New England champion drummer for six years and is a college favorite. Though Skip has a reputation of having faster hands than Gene Krupa, college audiences have found that his band provides fine music for smooth dancing. Skip and his boys have played dates at Harvard, Simmons, Wellesley and at the Somerset Ballroom and the Commander and Continental hotels in Boston. Vocalist Joanne Dailey was formerly featured with Charlie Spivak and Jack Edwards.

Informal Dance

At intermission time there will be a drum solo by Skip. The number done with so-called "black light" so that the only visible light is a luminous material on the hands of the drummer and on the sticks. The main part of the intermission entertainment will be handled by the Bennington College Octet.

The Purple Key has definitely set informality as the rule for the dance which will run from eight to twelve. Tickets will be sold both at social units and at the door. The price will be $2.40 a couple while stags will be admitted for $1.80.

Steinbeck Hit Cap and Bells First Play

"Of Mice And Men" Inaugurates Campus Dramatic Season

On November 11th, 12th, and 13th Cap and Bells will offer its initial production of the season. The play, John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" was first presented by Sam Harris at the Music Box Theatre in New York on November 23, 1937. Adapted from Mr. Steinbeck's Pulitzer Prize winning novel this social drama has for its theme the search of the itinerant worker for a permanent home.

Adams Memorial Theatre Director David Bryant has announced that "acting parts for the production are wide open" and that all who are interested in trying out for a role in the production should consult the casting schedules that are posted in the AMT lobby. All who try out for a part will be given private interviews. The cast will consist of nine men and one woman, and four sets will be required for the production.

New Musical

When Cap and Bells held its election last June, Peter Candler '49 was picked to succeed Howard Erskine '49 as President of the organization. New members appointed to the Cap and Bells Council were Stephen Sondheim '50 and Tom Taylor '50, the former representing acting, the latter properties and scenery. These to the council. The other members were the only two new men added Peter Candler, lighting; Howard Erskine, acting; Bill Seibert '50, costumes; Jerry O'Brien '49, stage management; Theodore Lohrke '49, Business Manager — were holdovers from last year.

A hot rumor around the AMT has it that Steve Sondheim has written a new musical which will be produced later in the year.

Record Competition To Start Sept. 29

The first meeting for Record editorial and business staff compets will be held Wednesday, September 29, at 7:30 in the Record offices in Jesup Hall. Any freshman or sophomore is eligible.

The competitions will deal mainly with weekly stories and office duty, for editorial compets and advertising and subscription work for the business staff. Many positions are open on both staffs.

Watters Team To Operate Off Single-Wing

Capt. Whitney, Duffield Form Backbone of Soph, Junior Team

This afternoon at 2 p.m. a large and spirited Williams eleven will tangle with the Norwich University Horsemen in Northfield, Vermont. Purple rooters are anxiously awaiting this game and its outcome, for it is the curtain-raiser for both the 1948 season, and for new head-coach Len Watters.

Captain Dick Whitney leads this sophomore-junior cramed line-up against the Horsemen, who remain an unknown quantity until kick-off time. Coach Watters said that the three-man coaching staff of Frank Bell, Harv Potter, and himself, aided last Wednesday by freshman coaches Bobby Coombs and Dale Burnett, have prepared the Ephmen with every weapon they think necessary to combat Norwich.

Long Way To Go

The little that is known about Norwich is that they sported a not too impressive 2-6 record in 1947, and that chances are good See FOOTBALL, Page 4

Government Posts Given To Three Faculty Members

Three members of the Williams faculty, Professor Emile Despres, Professor Joseph Johnson and Professor Vincent Barnett, were appointed to government positions during the summer.

Professors Despres and Johnson have returned to Williamstown to resume their teaching this fall. Professor Barnett has been granted a year's leave of absence and is now working with the ECA, (Economic Cooperative Administration).

Despres in Paris

Professor Despres, a member of the Economics department, was appointed Economic consultant to the Office of the European Special Representative, Ambassador-at-large W. Averill Harriman, in the ECA. He flew to Paris at the end of July and spent most of the summer working there.

Before coming to Williams in 1946, Professor Despres was Advisor on German Economic Affairs to the Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs in the State Department. Prior to that, he was Chief of the Economics Division in the OSS. Before the war, he was economic advisor to the Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

Johnson with UN

Professor Johnson, a member of the Political Science department was appointed by President Truman to the position of Deputy Representative to the Interim Committee ("Little Assembly") of the General Assembly of the United Nations. As Deputy delegate for the United States on the UN Little Assembly, he succeeds Philip C. Jessup of the State Department. Professor Johnson served with the UN during its formative period.

Professor Barnett, a professor in the Political Science Department, was appointed Chief of the Division of Program Review of the United States Special Mission to Italy under the ECA. His headquarters are in Rome. He left late in the summer for Italy.

Mrs. Barnett and their three children left several weeks ago to join Professor Barnett in Italy.

WELCOME

The Williams Record extends a hearty handshake to the class of 1952 and in behalf of the entire upperclass student body wishes you the best of luck. Included today in this learned column are several facts of interest, we think, for the class of '52.

THE WILLIAMS RECORD

This Freshman Issue of The Williams Record is being given to the members of the class of 1952 not only as a preview of what awaits them this year at Williams, but also as a sample of The Newspaper of Williams College. The group of undergraduates who make up the editorial and business departments of The Record, along with the staffs of the other publications, are proud that Williams, although a small college, shows enough interest in the literary efforts of its undergraduates to support wholeheartedly these publications. It is fitting at this time to review the functions and objectives of The Record.

The primary function of The Record is to gather and present all the pertinent news that is of interest to the Williams College community, which comprises undergraduates, faculty, alumni, and friends of the college, including parents and relatives of undergraduates. Naturally, the main problem that faces the staff is how to make The Record interesting to such a diversified group. The Record attempts to solve this problem by stressing news that is of interest to all its readers, and presenting special articles designed for individual groups. The secondary function of this newspaper is to interpret and point the news in editorials, special columns, feature stories, and sports columns. Here the editors seek to mobilize opinion on important campus and national problems and to show the significance of events which might otherwise pass unnoticed.

To plan and shape the issues to come, to work in collaboration with associates of the same interests, to experiment in format and makeup, and finally to see the completed work—all this is to experience the unforgettable thrill that comes with accomplishment. A noted journalist has said that the quality of its publications is a true guide to the degree of civilization in a community. With this thought in mind, the staff of The Record hopes in the coming year both to reflect the excellence and to show the meaning of the liberal education available at Williams College.

We of The Record, therefore, sincerely urge that all freshmen interested in achieving a sixth course in accomplishment and journalism will enter competitions for positions on The Record.

A SMALL STEP

This week, perhaps for the first time in your life, you are making a fairly permanent decision almost exclusively on your own, under difficult conditions for exercising good judgement. Keep your eyes open during the second period especially, if you are to have a clear mind when the time for the final choice comes. Remember that the rushing agreement, which is more in your interest than in the interest of the houses, can be enforced only through your cooperation. If any fraternity begins cutting corners, you should have no qualms about reporting the matter to the proper authorities. Your own personal honor as well as the honor of the house is involved. Finally, we assure you in all sincerity that fraternity membership seems more important this week than it ever will again.

FOOTBALL FRENZY

'Tis a weird combination which even attends the opening of our institutions of learning; the frenzy of registration, the tang of football, the bewilderment of freshmen, and finally the genuine enthusiasm displayed over renewing old friendships tend to lay a patchwork covering over an effervescent campus. Whether the bubble bursts with an underclass scrap or with an overabundance of energy on the gridiron, it matters little; one instinctively feels that the pressure has accrued during the summer months to over 1000 youthful males.

Withal there is a note of optimism in the air, and nowhere is this better exhibited than on the football field, where coaches and players alike voice their enthusiasm for the coming season. Williams for the past two years, has been decidedly lacking in its recognition of the game of football as a sport, one which can be thoroughly enjoyed in spite of the known drudgery attendant upon it. We trust that our exuberance is not carrying us too far when we predict that these early signs of healthful enthusiasm are only harbingers of a sounder, steadier optimism which we may expect to pervade the campus throughout the coming year. But along with this note of conservatism we also hope that the '49 football team will enthusiastically kick the vim and vigor out of our hopeful opponents. We extend our best wishes and good luck to Coach Watters, Captain Whitney, and the entire football team for a terrific season. We urge the undergraduate body to get on the road this morning and head for Norwich and show them we support them now and forever until the final gun fires victory over our dandy friends down the valley.

HOUSEPARTIES

The upperclassmen of Williams know the whys and whatfors of social probation. To the Freshmen who don't know these facts, we merely say that social probation does exist, not to any houses in particular but to the entire student body because most Williams men became over-enthusiastic during the annual affair last spring. As a result, Dean Brooks has deemed it necessary to call a halt to any dances which would take place in the fraternities or the Garfield Club during houseparty week-end. Houseparties will consist of a college dance on Saturday night, and houseparties will not officially begin until Saturday instead of Friday night as has previously been the custom.

It is regrettable that this step is necessary—however, it is necessary. Dean Brooks and President Baxter will make a tour of the social units this week explaining the full details and the resulting regulations which have arisen because of this affair.

Students Evaluate Teachers At Brooklyn College, Rutgers

In a reversal of conventional procedure, Brooklyn College students have graded their teachers "A" in proficiency, but just about "D" in giving fair examinations. This was disclosed yesterday in a twelve-month survey of student evaluation of teaching at the college.

The teachers' rating for fairness in examinations was next to the lowest in the scores for ten attributes of teaching. The ratings for ability to explain and tolerance toward disagreement were tied for third-lowest place.

Apparently students want more than a "talking encyclopedia" for a teacher. They considered teacher's ability to stimulate thought the most desired attribute in the social sciences, but gave their teachers the lowest average score in that quality.

Some Good Points For Teachers

Instructors at Brooklyn College are enthusiastic and enjoy teaching—or at least that is what the students thought. Placing some importance on sympathetic professional attitudes and attractive personalities, students rated the staff highly on both counts.

Systematic organization of subject matter was regarded as an essential quality of good teaching. And the faculty scored once again when this attribute was rated third highest. Another high score was given to speaking ability.

More than 90 percent of the day session students, or 6,681, filled out questionnaires on themselves as well as on an average of four instructors. Almost 34,000 ratings were received on 384 teachers.

The Department of Sociology of Rutgers University conducted the survey in May, 1947. The venture was supported by a grant of $5,000 from the Carnegie Corporation of New York. Each teacher received last December the one copy of his rating as tabulated by the survey directors.

Prof. John W. Riley, chairman of the Sociology Department of Rutgers, and his staff studied the survey and reported on their findings. Professor Riley said it was one of the most extensive surveys of its type conducted on any American campus. "It is unique in that we got not only the actual ratings but the ideal ratings of students as well," he said.

Students have an affinity for young teachers. In most respects other than in knowledge of his subject, the younger teacher received higher ratings. "This point may be illustrated," the report said, "in the comment of one student on a full professor, 'He sure knows his stuff, but he's a lousy teacher'."

Professor Riley held that it did not matter whether a student could or could not judge accurately. He said the results "Provide a channel for the teacher to get an insight into what kind of a job he is doing: on that basis he can adjust his whole teaching philosophy."

Plans are now under way to conduct a similar survey on a different type of campus, Professor Riley said.

Your Billboard issue flattered us...but oh, that editorial crack about The Billboard's being the Variety of the carnal biz!

Where have you campus characters been the last five or six years, during which stretch we ran our good friends, Variety, ragged in the music business and have managed to make it extremely interesting for them in such show-business segments as radio and television, among others?

Get with it, fellas, but continue to have fun.

What Value NSA?

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

For one year Williams College has been a member of the National Student Association, as the result of a campus referendum favoring membership. A one-year assessment of the worth of NSA to Williams indicates that there is no value in remaining in the organization.

NSA has a bulletin board in Hopkins Hall, NSA has distributed information regarding foreign summer courses. The bulletin board is seldom read. The response to the foreign educational opportunities was disappointing, with most students planning their own summers abroad. The one other function NSA has performed is to serve as a repository for many letters received by the Undergraduate Council, that the Council does not wish to handle. The wastebasket would do just as well for most of these letters.

NSA has in one year brought no tangible benefits to anyone here at Williams, with the possible exception of the handful (now only six) of men who have been handling NSA affairs on this campus. The student body should not be asked to support the activities of these few men, who thus far have not brought the benefits promised by NSA to the college. Nor should the UC feel that delegates must be sent to the conferences merely because we are now members in the organization.

NSA had a great many high-minded ideals about the unity of American students. On the initial bandwagon, over 100 colleges and universities approved membership in student referendums. In the last three months, however, both Dartmouth and Princeton have rejected membership, and Smith is thinking of conducting another referendum to withdraw from the organization.

In addition to not approving NSA budget for next year, the UC should take another referendum to obtain student approval for withdrawal. NSA has not benefited this college. There are certainly weaknesses on this campus, but there are none that cannot be corrected from within. There is no need for other colleges to exert any influence on our problems, or for us to try to influence others through NSA. Any information about other colleges can be obtained, as it has in the past, by correspondence with the student councils of various campuses.

NSA has not helped Williams, and the student body should not be asked to support this organization. Another Referendum, if well publicized, would undoubtedly result in a rejection of the organization.

Graduation . . .

Manifesto", by Dickinson R. Debevoise, Alfred E. Driscoll '25, Governor of New Jersey, gave the commencement address. "We need men in government with objective points of view," the governor said, and urged the graduating class to "Join in the game, or if they couldn't get into the game, join the cheering section."

He said, "following hostilities we have gone from one emotional binge to another. It is time to have regard for our obligations. Our task as college men is to search for the truth and make it known." Governor Driscoll, who also received an honorary degree, told the graduates "freedom is to be found through the medium of knowing the truth."

Honorary Degrees Presented

President Baxter presented honorary degrees to four other outstanding men. John P. Sedgwick, whose war service prevented him from graduating from Williams in the Class of 1920, received a Master of Arts degree to honor his work as an outstanding analyst of investment and of business trends.

President Baxter bestowed the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters upon Edward S. Mason, Dean of the Graduate School of Public Administration at Harvard and top economist for the wartime OSS, and Lieutenant Colonel John M. Kemper, former Chief of the War Department's Historical Division, now headmaster-elect of Phillips Academy, School Minister of Phillips Academy. A. Graham Baldwin '25 received the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Baccalaureate By Baxter

In his baccalaureate address in Thompson Memorial Chapel, President Baxter said "one paradox of present-day life that disturbs me profoundly is the increasing demand for security in a world that has become increasingly insecure." He said this search for security in its exaggerated form affects our political thinking to our disadvantage if not to our peril, and it accounts for much of our sense of frustration. As a result of this craving for security have come most of the pressure groups so active in American politics.

"My conclusion from all this," he said, "is that if we, as individuals and as members of pressure groups, thought more about the best job we could do for our country, and less of our demand for security at the expense of others, the total of the national well-being would go up and the total national sense of frustration would go down."

In preparing the seniors for the world they will face upon graduation, President Baxter said, those "who will graduate today will live in a world where truth as well as security is harder to come at than before," and suggested that they "adjust themselves to the prospects of living in a hazardous and uncertain world and make the most of it." "I'm not saying 'relax and enjoy it,' but rather, 'learn to keep your feet and your head whatever happens.'" The greatest task of the next generation he said, "is to prove the Russians wrong, and show that we can make our system work better than any system worked before."

rushes' convenience, except that they may not be moved up to either of the last two hours.

Final Bids Tuesday

Final bids are to be picked up Tuesday in Jesup Hall at 11:30, and returned to the arbiter by 2:00 p.m. in the order of preference. The final invitations for the non-affiliates will be posted on the Jesup Hall bulletin board at 5:30 and all men will be at their social units for supper by 6:30.

No quota has been set for the number of men each fraternity may pledge, but fifty-seven unmarried affiliates is the maximum membership. This number was set by the Rushing Committee in accordance with the Interfraternity Rushing Agreement, which has been changed slightly this year.

Refreshments during the first period and the first four dates of the second period shall consist only of cigarettes, mints, and water. Refreshments during the last two dates of the second period, shall consist only of cigarettes, mints, soft drinks, cookies, doughnuts, and cup cakes, as stated in the Rushing Agreement.

Understand Machinery

Orville A. Dean '49, Chairman of the Rushing Committee, said that he hopes that all freshmen understand the machinery of the second and third periods and will do their best to make careful decisions.

The Rushing Arbiter and his assistants Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Foley will be in the Jesup Hall office continuously until the end of rushing to answer questions and to supervise the system.

Record . . .

job to assist any one going to him for advice.

There are few students at Williams who do not think that their society is the best one. Some have more Gargoyles than others, some more football players. The question that the social units asks about each man whom they meet is, "Would he fit at this house?" The same sort of test is the best one that an individual can apply. The best house is the one that has the largest number of men that the freshman would like to be friends with for the next few years.

Expenses are usually not mentioned until pledge night. Some units are slightly more expensive than others, but some rough averaging can be done. The fraternities' charges for a semester for board, dues, and other expenses average between $250 and $275. Room is between $75 and $90 a term. The initiation fee — paid only once, at initiation time — averages $75. It was estimated last year that the Garfield Club would cost a man about $100 less a term.

All houses and the Club offer waiting jobs to men who want to earn all or part of their board. In addition, there are one or two paying jobs such as treasurer or steward in most units.

The opportunity of living in the houses is restricted to juniors and seniors. Government within the units is up to the members, however, and the sophomore has a voice as well as the senior.

The opportunity of living in the houses is restricted to juniors and seniors. Government within the units is up to the members, however, and the sophomore has a voice as well as the senior.

Hazing and Hell Week have been modified or eliminated in most units. Physical violence is forbidden and the custom in most units is to require some work on the house, or in the dining-room. Initiation is held early in the second semester, usually, with a dignified ceremony being the order in most houses.

Rushing itself is confusing to most men who have seen only the individual's side. The best advice about it is to follow instructions as they are given. The important part is not the mechanics of selection but the choosing of the right group. Attention should be devoted to sizing up each place to which one is invited.

CAREERS AT GENERAL ELECTRIC

General Electric is not one business, but an organization of many businesses, offering opportunities in virtually all the professions. Here three G-E men brief opportunities offered the METALLURGIST . . . GAS TURBINE ENGINEER . . . NUCLEAR SPECIALIST

METALLURGIST

Dr. Zay Jeffries, G-E vice president and an eminent metallurgist: "One of the fields where metallurgists still have much to do is in permanent magnet engineering. Here are opportunities not only to pioneer new applications but also to develop better alloys and techniques. Many industrial applications await only the ingenuity of the design engineer."

GAS TURBINE ENGINEER

Alan Howard, directing gas-turbine development: "We are building the country's first gas-turbine for a utility . . . are testing a 4800 hp unit for locomotives. Developments like these are creating an ever greater demand for men who can handle tough problems in thermodynamics, combustion, control processes, and metallurgy."

NUCLEAR SPECIALIST

Dr. K. H. Kingdon, heading atomic power development in the Research Laboratory: "It is a mistake to think that atomic energy work has room only for nuclear physicists. The need is also for men who understand thermal conductivity, heat transfer, corrosion, hydrodynamics, and measurements of thermal conductivity."

Behind the one-hit pitching of Eph ace George Ditmar, Williams hung up its second victory of the season over Amherst in a game played at Amherst, June 19th. The win enabled the Coombsmen to cop undisputed possession of the Little Three crown, George, in turning in his great performance, pitched hitless ball for seven innings and, but for Bill Genovese would have hung up one of those rare feats of pitching, a no-hitter. mates pounded out seven hits off Lord Jeff aces Murphy and Rainey. The 3-1 win gave Ditmar a 6 and 2 record for the season.

Two hits were bunched by Williams in the third inning to mark the first scoring of the game. Ditmar slashed one through short and was advanced to second on Chuck Schmidt's base on balls. George Owen then delivered a long single to center field to plate Ditmar. Schmidt tried to score also but a fast relay from McKeen to Murphy to Forte cut him off.

The only way Amherst could get men on bases in the first six innings was through bases on balls. The Jeffs couldn't buy a hit, even when they loaded the bases with only one out in the fourth. Ditmar promptly went to work and retired the next two men on strikes.

Williams added two more runs in the seventh. With two down Schmidt walked and stole second. LeSage doubled into right field. Owens batted both runs in with a long single, his second of the day.

Teletype Installation Arrives October 2

In order to facilitate press service on sports events at Williams, the News Bureau has completed arrangements with Western Union authorities for the installation of a "teletprinter," a modern style teletype machine.

The new apparatus will be located in Jesup Hall and will be in working operation for the first home football game against Trinity. In the past news releases have often been delayed or have failed to make the early newspaper editions due to the overburdened local Williamstown Western Union Office. With the new setup, the college may secure a direct wire to any paper in the country.

Football Coaching Staff 1948

With a revised coaching staff, the Purple gridders take to the field today against Norwich University for the first time.

Len Watters comes to Williams from White Plains High School to assume the head coaching duties. He is aided by Frank Bell, former Williston Academy coach, and Harv Potter, the pilot of last year's undefeated freshman team. Coach Watters also has been helped during preseason drills by freshman coaches Dale Burnett, the varsity, and Bobby Coombs, varsity baseball mentor.

Len Watters comes to Williams after sixteen years at White Plains High School where he annually produced a high school team that ranked with the best in the country. Len was born in Dubuque, Iowa, and attended high school at South Bend, Indiana.

Watters captained the Springfield College football team in 1921 during his senior year and then played professional football with the Buffalo team in the National League where he was a teammate of Benny Boynton. '21. Watters also played professional basketball before he began his coaching career at Oneida, N. Y., High School and at Baldwin, Long Island High school. In 1929, he took over the coaching reigns at White Plains High, where he remained until this fall, except for a brief interruption during the war when he took over coaching duties at the Bunker Hill Naval Station. In 1944 Bunker Hill's record showed nine wins out of ten, the only loss being at the hands of the powerful Iowa Seahawks. At Williams Watters will assist basketball and baseball.

Frank Bell, line coach, serves this year under his former high school football coach, Len Watters, for whom he played in 1929 and 1930 at White Plains. Frank attended Princeton for a year and in 1934 transferred to the University of Illinois where he played varsity football and hockey, graduating from that institution in 1938. From 1938 until 1942 he coached and taught at Williston Academy, after which time he served the Navy for three years.

Called to Williams this fall, Bell is coaching the line, and will assume the job of Head Hockey coach this winter. In the spring he will coach freshman lacrosse.

Harv Potter coaches the backfield aspirants. Graduating from Williams in 1940, Harv starred in football, wrestling, and lacrosse during his three year career. After remaining at his Alma Mater for a year, he went to Duke University in 1942 where he coached football and lacrosse, at the same time handling head coaching duties in wrestling. Harv returned to Williams in 1946, working with the varsity football team and coaching wrestling and lacrosse in the freshman division. 1947 he and Bobby Coombs turned out an undefeated freshman football team. In addition to his football and wrestling responsibilities, Harv takes over the helm in varsity Lacrosse.

Dale Burnett will coach the freshman team this year. Dale is a graduate of Emporia Teachers College where he won twelve major letters. After his graduation in 1930 Dale went to the New York Giants football team and played in the pro circuit until 1940. In 1941 and 1942 Dale coached the Paterson Panthers. His service duties took him to Honolulu where his All-Stars boasted 16 All-Americans. He is coach of Varsity basketball during the winter and will see COACHING STAFF page 5 they will run from a single-wing formation. Williams also uses this formation, along with winged-T. The Ephmen scrimmaged with the University of Massachusetts on Friday, though the Purple capitalized on Massachusetts fumbles, the coaching staff felt that the team was not what it could be. Blocking and tackling were not crisp, the running attack stalled all too frequently, and only the passing game looked good.

Probable Line-up

The starting line will be a fairly large outfit, averaging about 190. The probable starting line-up will see either Mitch Fish or Bill Campbell at one end, and passing ace Bud Cool on the other. Marty Detmar, weighing 210, and Bob Geniesse, 190, are the tackles. Don Ratcliffe, a 205-pounder, and Ernie Mierzejewski, last year's frosh captain, man the guard slots, flanking 200-pound Dick Wallace at center.

In the backfield Captain Whitney is at quarter, Stew Duffield, who does much of the passing, and Whit Fiske, last year's freshman high scorer, are at the halves. Either Dunk McDonald or Pete Fisher will be the starting fullback. Another fullback, Bill Blanks who is out with an infection, and tackle Bron Fargo, with leg injury, are two men who will not see action this afternoon.

John Jay '38 Athletic Head

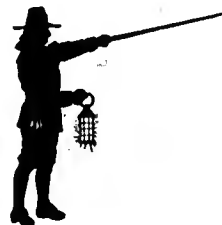

New Director Replaces Sheehan In February

John C. Jay '38 has been appointed to the post of Director of Athletics to replace Walter P. Sheehan who resigned to become Headmaster of the Canterbury School at New Milford, Connecticut. He will take over his new duties February 7, 1949.

A. V. Osterhout will take over the job until Jay's arrival in February. He brings long experience to his duties as he held the post of Graduate Manager of Athletics from 1930-45, before the arrival of Sheehan.

Jay is widely known in American ski circles for his lecture films on this sport, and was official photographer for the United States Olympic Team in the 1948 Winter Olympic Games at St. Moritz, Switzerland. He is the author of "Skiing the Americas", a volume covering the winter sports of both North and South America during the war he served as intelligence officer with the ski troops of the famed 10th Mountain Division.

While in Williams he won varsity letters in football and hockey and was captain of the Rowing Club. Upon graduation he received a Rhodes Scholarship to Oxford.

Soccer Team Faces Six Game Schedule; Practice Game Today

Seven Lettermen Head Large Squad; Opener At Union October 2

Facing its first test against outside competition today, the varsity soccer team journeys to Troy, N. Y., for a practice game with R.P.I. The team will open its six game schedule October 2 against Union at Schenectady, and then will meet in order, the University of Massachusetts, Connecticut State, Springfield, Wesleyan, and Amherst, some of the toughest teams in this area.

Seven letter-men, led by Captain Frank Donnelly from his right outside position, are returning this year to form the nucleus of Coach "Uncle Ed" Bullock's aggregation. Three veterans will be backed by a dozen members of last year's crackerjack freshman ball club, now striving for varsity positions.

Over twenty booters reported for practice two weeks ago, and with the start of rushing activities some thirty additional candidates turned out for the twice daily practices.

Veteran Line

Though Coach Bullock is quick to point out that no positions are definitely clinched, preliminary work-outs have seen a veteran line working well together. Captain Donnelly sparka the team from his right wing slot, and Johnny Bowen, first-string half-back last year, has been operating at left wing this season.

Lettermen Cy Mayshark and Bob Johnston are playing the insides, and Tom Kent, up from last year's frosh, is stationed at center forward.

Halfbacks Uncertain

The halfback line is indefinite this early in the season. Coach Bullock has been trying two of last year's freshmen, Dick Manning and Jim Crosby, at center-half, in an effort to replace Emmy Brown, last year's sparkplug center-half. Letterman George Kneass seems to have the right-halfback spot clinched, while Roger Dickinson and Ralph Gomory have been playing well at left half.

The fullbacks are not yet set, but letterman Jerry Page is almost assured of a starting berth at one of the positions. The other spot will probably be filled by Pete Geier, a member of the 1946 team, who did not play last year, and is still bothered by a broken nose suffered in the Amherst game two years ago.

probably assist with baseball in the spring.

Bobby Coombs was a varsity baseball and basketball player at Duke University. His fall duties are with freshman football and in the winter he will assist with basketball. In the spring he backs up his baseball coaching with experience gained from two years of major league pitching with the Giants and the A's and eight years of top minor league baseball. Bobby comes from a baseball family, being a nephew of Jack Coombs, the famous pitcher and Duke University coach.

Wineman, Lambert Place In Olymyic Tests At Detroit

Although the Summer Olympics are now history, Coach Bob Muir's swimming trio of Hank Wineman, Sandy Lambert, and Bob Reid proved themselves among the best in the tryouts last July 9 in Detroit. Wineman and Lambert forged through to the finals in the 100 meter backstroke and 1500 freestyle, respectively, while Reid had the misfortune of being pitted against Jimmy McLane and Bill Smith who went on to finish first and second in the 400 meter race in London.

Wineman Shines

In the trail heats of the back-

Unbeaten Harriers To Open Season In Two Weeks Against Springfield

stroke, Wineman splashed to a scorching 1 m. 9.5 second victory, edging Alan Ford of Yale and Howard Patterson of Michigan State. However, in the finals misfortune befell the Purple Ace, as he became fouled in the ropes. As a result Hank wound up in fourth place, while Patterson, his conquest of the day before, went abroad with the Olympic team. Lambert finished well in the finals, but lost out to Matt Mann of Michigan, whom he squelched in the National AAU.

Only two short weeks of practice remain before the varsity cross country squad takes on a strong Springfield College team, runnerup in last fall's New England Championships. Coach Tony Plansky has four of the first five varsity finishers from last year's Little Three champs, unbeaten in dual competition, plus some outstanding prospects from freshman squad of a year ago returning. His main problem is getting the harriers into winning shape again in that short time.

Among the experienced runners from the team that outdistanced six 1947 opponents with comparative ease and then took a surprisingly mediocre seventh place in the New Englands, are Captain Paul Cook, a steady performer for the past two seasons, Bill Kelton, who led the hill-and-dalers in most of last season's meets and Kev Delany, who snared a good tenth place in the New England Meet. Other lettermen are Phil Collins, number four man a year ago, Ernie May and Harry Ess.

The '47 yearling team is expected to provide added strength, with George Dorian, smasher of the Little Three freshman record last fall and George Hutton, the best material. After the Springfield contest at home, the harriers meet two more new additions to their schedule. Holy Cross and Middlebury on the 3.7 mile Williamstown course.

DOCTORS WERE AMAZED

They can hardly believe their microscopes says eminent PUBLIC HEALTH

authority

It's a FACT. Future Doctors, at one of the nation's large midwestern Universities, are required to study the importance of professional laundry service in maintaining public health!

"They can hardly believe their microscopes when they see that even such heavily soiled items as gauze bandages come out of the washwheel germ-free and sterile," said the director of the school.

We follow the recommendations of the American Institute of Laundering which places special emphasis on the bacteria-killing effectiveness of laundering formulas.

there are 2 BIG REASONS why RUDNICK-washed clothes are SAFE

1. We use 4.5 gallons of water per pound of clothes;
1.7 gallons average at home.

2. Water heat, sustained at 140° (or over) during numerous sudsings, kills microscopic germs.

How high can you go

IN THE U. S. AIR FORCE?

The ceiling's unlimited! Men who enter the Air Force as Aviation Cadets become 2nd Lieutenants within a year. From there on, they can climb as far and as fast as their ability and the needs of the service permit. Under the Air Force expansion program, there is plenty of room for advancement. 2nd Lieutenants automatically become 1st Lieutenants after three years of service; are eligible to become Captains, Majors and Lieutenant Colonels after 7, 14 and 21 years respectively. More rapid promotions are frequent. Never before has the opportunity for making the Air Force a permanent career been so favorable, especially to the men in Aviation Cadet Pilot Training.

Here are the requirements:

Appointment to the Aviation Cadets is open to single men, between 20 and 26½ years old, who have completed two years of college (or on pass an equivalent examination). Upon graduation, Cadets receive their wings and commission, a $250 uniform allowance, and three-year active duty assignment with pay up to $336 a month. A Man and his Pipe

A man may travel far and very pleasantly alone if he has his pipe with him. There is no feeling of loneliness with such a companion.

The pipe soothes and satisfies, aids thought, assists digestion, and gives one a good opinion of oneself.

Few things have that power.

We offer for your selection of fine briar pipes such well known makes as DUNHILL - COMOY - KAYWOODIE - SASIENI and MARKSMAN.

Houseparty Cancellation Spotlights "Key" Dance

Skip Towne's Band To Play; Dance On Air

With the cancellation of a full houseparty weekend, the football dance on October 9 is taking a large place in the social picture for this fall. This dance, given annually, is for the financial aid of the football training table. As was announced in The Williams Record Saturday, the Purple Key has assigned Skip Towne's orchestra for the date.

On Station WBEC
The Purple Key has also been able to obtain forty-five minutes of radio station WBEC in Pittsfield.

The complete intermission program, as well as some of the dance sets will be broadcast from 9 to 10:30 p.m. The intermission features the Bennington College Orchestra. Because of the radio commitments, there will be no break in the entertainment throughout the evening.

Two Drum Solos
Skip Towne's band has played for many popular dances in the Boston area at colleges and hotels. He has also performed a solo drum number called "Drum-solomania" at the RKO Boston Theatre. Unless otherwise requested Skip will play only two solo drum numbers at this dance, however.

Tickets for this dance will go on sale in the social units in the near future at the prices of $2.40 per couple and $1.80 stag.

Fund Drive Reports Gain

Contributions Reach Half-Way Mark

A special plea to follow up the building and endowment program of Williams College is being made by President James P. Baxter 3rd. In a report entitled "Half Tide", President Baxter explains that the total cash and pledges amount to $1,245,881, or less than half the goal. He also praised local efforts in the drive by saying, "If all areas had done so well as Pittsfield, Massachusetts, or the state of Michigan, we should have reached our goal of $2,500,000 already."

Failure to reach the goal is not to follow up contacts. President Baxter infers in his letter out of 7,800 living alumni, it was expected about 4500 would contribute. Actually, only 2371 alumni, or a little over 30 percent, have contributed. About 96 percent of the faculty and 98.6 percent of the student body contributed to the fund.

In the 1922 campaign, the drive was more successful. Out of 4000 living alumni, 3287 or 82 percent contributed for a total of $1,145,066. The present drive is also showing the 1929 drive when $1,200,000 was collected.

Obstacles to the drive are listed by President Baxter. The first is the mistaken notion that Williams, which looks prosperous to the casual onlooker, needs no funds. Added to that is a failure to realize what inflation has done to college finances. Just as big an obstacle is the belief that one or two wealthy men will solve the problem by large bequests. In refuting the last argument, President Baxter notes that only two gifts of $50,000 have been received, three of $25,000, and seven over $10,000.

He concludes his plea with the observation "Once the whole Williams family realizes that we cannot raise $2,500,000 with the support of a few, I am confident of a flood-tide of support that will carry us to success."

"Cow" Competitions To Start October 4

Competition for the staff of the Purple Cow magazine will open for freshmen October 4-6 at 1:00 p.m. on the third floor of Jesup Hall.

In an effort to set a time convenient for all of the freshmen who wish to work on the magazine, the Purple Cow board has announced that tryouts will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Anyone interested in working on the magazine is urged to apply on one of these days.

WCA Outlines Full Program

Many Openings In Varied Activities

The Williams Christian Association, whose 150 members form the largest college undergraduate organization, has many openings for students interested in any of the associations' various activities according to Edwin Maynard '49, WCA president. As a point of interest to entering freshmen, The Williams Record is publishing a summary of the work planned by the WCA's different committees.

Maynard set late November as the date for the annual Williams College Chest Fund, a drive conducted among students to obtain funds for the support of the organization, the Williamstown Boys' Club, and various local, national and world relief organizations.

Boys' Club

The Boys' club, one of the WCA's functions, was formed to give an organized athletic, recreational, and educational program to the boys of the surrounding area. The club needs freshmen to teach basketball, boxing, swimming and other sports one night a week, and also to help plan the annual Christmas party given by the club for local underprivileged children.

Plans for a freshman smoker are well underway according to Maynard. The smoker, an affair held annually to familiarize freshmen with the work of the Christian Association, will probably be held during the second week in October.

The Embassy Committee, which brings ministers and theological students to Williams to preside over informal discussions in the social units on religious topics, is considering the possibility of holding two embassies this year due to the unexpected success of the institution last Spring.

Sunday School

Prospective Sunday School teachers and men willing to conduct services in area churches which do not have ministers are needed by the Deputations Committee, Maynard said. He also commented that the Welfare Committee will conduct a clothing drive in the spring.

President Maynard emphasized that the Christian Association has no competitions, and that membership is open to anyone interested in the organization's aim to promote growth in Christian character among the students of Williams and to enlist them in Christian service, both in college and in other communities.

Road Comp'ny To Present "Hamlet" Here

Shakespeare Company With Margaret Webster Top Traveling Group

Scheduled for an engagement here November 4 is the Margaret Webster Shakespeare Company, which will present its production of "Hamlet," under the auspices of the Adams Memorial Theatre Committee.

The company, which opened its first transcontinental tour on September 26 in Buffalo, is booked for a seven month itinerary. The appearance of the Margaret Webster Shakespeare Company is a milestone in theatrical "road" history, as it is the first Broadway standard repertory to barnstorm the nation's colleges, universities, and public auditoria.

Abetting Miss Webster is a company of twenty-two young actors, veterans of her many productions, headed by Carol Goodner, Joseph Holland and Alfred Ryder. Miss Goodner played in "The Man Who Came To Dinner," "Blythe Spirit" and "Deep are the Roots." Mr. Holland last appeared on Broadway with Katherine Cornell in "Antony and Cleopatra." Last season, Mr. Ryder sandwiched Ibsen's "Ghosts" between movies for Paramount.

Redballing over the countryside in specially constructed bus and truck, complete with scenery, costumes, props, and electrical equipment, "Shakespeare on Wheels" will cover more than 40,000 miles by the end of its tour, which was arranged by S. Hurok and the National Concert and Artists Corporation. The Webster productions of "Hamlet" and "Macbeth" were designed by Wolfgang Roth, and the music arranged by Lehman Engel.

Mail orders for seats at $2.40 each will be filled in the order of their receipt until October 20. When ordering, a stamped self-addressed envelope must be enclosed, and checks should be made payable to the AMT Committee.

Positions Opened On Record Staff

Bidwell Urges Sophs Frosh To Compete

The first meeting for The Williams Record editorial and business staff competes will be held at 7:30 this evening on the first floor of Jesup Hall.

The competition for the editorial staff will be run for an indefinite period, and promotions and promotion will be made to the staff when the editorial board deems the competition to be satisfactory. Required work for the competition will include writing news stories, office duty, and initiative in uncovering news.

Seth Bidwell '49, editor of The Record stressed the fact that positions for sophomores, as well as freshmen, are open. During the course of the competition, particular emphasis will be made on journalistic style, in an effort to improve the caliber of writing in the newspaper.

'Purple Cow' 'Comment' Open Competitions During October

Contributions Wanted; Seek Editorial, Art, Business Compets

Competitions for the two college literary publications, "Purple Cow" and "Comment", will commence early in October, their editors revealed this week.

"The 'Cow'," described Russell Bourne '50, co-chairman of the magazine, "is to amuse, to read just before you go to bed; its purpose is entertainment." It wants all the best fiction that is written on campus and also seeks contributions of illustrations and comic art.

Cow Wants Group Writers

"For the lack of contributions," said Bourne, "the 'Cow' is turning into a 'board magazine'." Thus, the publication is also looking for freshmen competes who are interested in writing as a group.

It is a magazine of campus appeal, but "we realize there is a demand for serious writing on campus," Bourne declared.

Comment Seeks Mature Writing

"Comment", the magazine instituted last spring for that purpose, aims to publish the best mature short stories, articles, poetry and art work turned out in the college. Those who make the editorial board, however, do not have to submit writing, and contributors are not required to help edit the magazine.

"Freshmen who are interested," said John Hopkins '50, editor of "Comment", "are urged to contact any member of the editorial or business board." Among those on the board are Hopkins, William H. Tuttle '51, Russell Bourne '50, Terry J. Bender '49 as well as Clay Hunt, Fred Stocking and Paul Cubeta of the faculty.

The "Purple Cow" competition will commence after publication of the first issue which will appear during the first week in October. The magazine is short of board members at present, Bourne said, and freshmen who are elected at the end of competition in January will be eligible to become associate editors as they show more interest in the "Cow".

Contributions for the first issue of "Comment" must be submitted on or before November 5. The issue will be published the week of December 13. Material may be given to John Hopkins, 2 Morgan Hall or left at 1 Dewey House.

Cool, Fisher Score T.D.'s For Ephmen

Duffield's Passes, Line Play Highlight Game

by Fred Wiseman

Scoring in the second and fourth periods the Williams Ephmen kayoed the Norwich Kaydets 14-0 before a crowd of 2500 at Sabine Stadium Northfield Vermont last Saturday afternoon to inaugurate Williams' sixty-second football season and the beginning of a new football era for the Purple under coach Len Watters.

Captain Dick Whitney won the toss for the Ephs and elected to kick off. Right guard Ernie Mierzejewski's kick went careening to the twenty yard line of Norwich where O'Connor gathered it in and ran it back to the Cadet twenty-five before he was swarmed under by the Purple clad brigade. Most of the first period was spent in a kicking duel between Stu Duffield and the cadet quarterback Damon. In the closing minutes of the period Damon kicked from the Norwich thirty-two to Duffield on Williams thirty-seven. "Duff" ran the ball back to the forty-seven sidestepping a couple of would be Norwich tacklers on the way. As the period ended Dunc McDonald picked up a couple of yards bucking through the center of the line. On the first play of the second period Duffield threw a perfect strike to Fritz Zeller on the right flat which was good for twelve yards and the Purple's third first down of the game. "Duff" faded back again on the next play, and hit Bud Cool, cutting over from his right end position to the opposite flank, with a twenty yard bullet, and Bud one step ahead of the closest Cadet defender raced the remaining eighteen yards to cross the goal for the first Williams touchdown of the season. "Automatic" Ernie Mierzejewski with Bill Sperry holding split the uprights for the point that gave the gridmen a 7-0 lead.

Fisher Scores

In the fourth period the Ephmen's new single wing attack again struck for a T. D. when Pete Fisher bucked over from the one yard line to climax a drive that began on the Purple thirty. The push started with a thirty yard punt return by Pete Dellisser. Damon kicked from the Cadet thirty to the Purple thirty where Dellisser gathered in the ball and in a sparkling exhibition of twisting, turning and cutting legged his way up the sidelines to the Kaydet forty where he was finally downed. Fisher plunging from his full back slot made a yard on an off-tackle slant which made it second and nine on the Norwich thirty-nine yard line. A Duffield to Fish pass ate up eighteen of the necessary yards and gave the Ephs a first down on the Cavalymen's twenty-one. Dellisser made three on a right end sweep and Fisher smashed through the line for two to give the Purple a first down on the eleven. On the play, however, Norwich was penalized for unnecessary roughness and the ref placed the ball down on the Cadet one. On the next down, Fisher rammed the ball across the goal dragging two Norwich defenders over with him. Mierzejewski See NORWICH, page 3

Student Body Reaches Peak

Of 1127 Now Enrolled Only 39% Are Vets

With the enrollment of 269 freshmen last weekend, college ranks climbed to a new peak of 1127 students with no prospect of a significant decrease next fall.

Of these men 39% are veterans, while the college included 53% service men in 1947 and a preponderance of 73% the year before. There has been a corresponding decrease in married students, as there were sixty-nine married men on campus in 1946, with only thirty-one now enrolled. The total enrollment is composed of 269 freshmen, 274 sophomores, 372 Juniors, and 212 seniors.

In addition to the entering freshmen, twenty-nine ex-Williams men returned to the campus this fall. Also included are four foreign students studying here under the student-financed Bowdoin plan: They are: Borje Dannfelt from Sweden, Kaarlo Hintikka from Finland, Adolf Gessner from Germany and Leonidas Kyriazides from Greece.

Forty Alumni Sons

Forty sons of alumni are included in the smallest freshman class since the war. Only five percent of this class are veterans. There is the usual high percentage of prep school graduates, only 29% of the incoming men having come from high schools. Deerfield, the perennial leader, again predominates, placing sixteen men in the freshmen class followed by nine from the Hill School.

Glee Club To Hold Tryouts In AMT

The Williams College Glee Club has decided to hold additional tryouts, according to Alexander M. Clement '49, president of the club for upperclassmen and those freshmen who were unable to attend the tryouts last week. The competition will be held this evening in the practice room of the Adams Memorial Theatre from 4-6 p.m.

Clement also announced that the results of all the tryouts would be posted in the AMT sometime before Thursday evening, September 30.

In This Corner

With freshmen sporting shiny new pledge pins, upperclassmen catching up on lost sleep in classes, and pledge parties now a thing of the past, it is time to reconsider college life and some of the problems and situations that face the Williams student body as the college year begins. A question which all the newly aspiring fraternity men will find themselves faced with is the real value of fraternities. What are the real values of fraternities? In columns three and four of this page is one side of the question. The Williams Record does not advocate all that Mr. Williams says, but presents his article as food for thought. The reactions of any Williams student to his article addressed to the editor will be printed in forthcoming issues.

To incite the argument, The Record believes that fraternities are basically sound if certain corrections can be accomplished. These corrections are inherently a part of the fraternity, but, in our opinion, if made, would not weaken the fraternity system, but would actually enhance the prestige and value of any fraternity. The point in question is the basis of membership in fraternities. Should there or should there not be membership clauses concerning race, religion, and creed? We believe there should not.

Brother Crackpot

And in 1948, an election year we will be faced with the problems of politics and politicians, both radical and conservative. For many this will be a new experience. To meet a Communist, a Socialist, or Professor Schuman for the first time is undoubtedly an experience long remembered. The turtle firmly entrenched in his shell will blissfully ignore these people as crackpots, and although many of them are crackpots, do not dismiss every person who deviates from your political line as a crackpot. Sometimes such people will accost you with a pertinent thought that you cannot dismiss with a mere shrug of the shoulders. We say this in all sincerity but nevertheless firmly encourage our readers to vote for Tom Dewey.

Berlin Or Bust

Lastly, and the question which involves Williams students the most, is the result of the current international struggle for the upper hand in Berlin. This could result in another conflict, or at least be the basis of further incidents which would eventually end in conflict. Obviously, another war is the least desirable end we could arrive at. Russia today is accusing the United States of inciting an atomic war. We are accusing Russia of inciting war by the Berlin blockade. Which is correct? If both are wrong what is the answer?

These are questions which will be the topics of many a bull-session, and which will affect all of us. The Record will attempt to present all sides of the picture and editorialize on what we consider to be the correct opinion or action. We fully invite your opinions or letters on The Record's policy. As a fair warning, however, we often deem it necessary to edit some letters, because of their length, but in the process of editing the letters, we will do our utmost to maintain the content and spirit of the letters received.

Equality Or Fraternities

by Carey Williams

The Role of Secret Societies in Democratic Education

In the late 1920's the "Yale News" published an anonymous letter from a Jewish student criticizing the social discrimination practiced by the junior and senior societies. For the offense, the student was promptly taken to task by the editors of the "American Hebrew." "What is gained by setting up a howl for so called recognition?" demanded the editor rhetorically. "No one wishes to kick his boon companions at the wailing wall, and no one will tap into a desired fraternity the too-facile vocalizer of his sorrows and his self pity." Not only was the protest ill-advised, in the opinion of the "American Hebrew", it was also factually incorrect. "A very limited number of Jews" had been admitted to these societies and the reason for their selection was clear: "they were socially desirable Yale Men."

It must be said that many people, before and since, have not been so bloody about the American Fraternity system; and not only Jews. From its earliest days, it has been challenged as undemocratic, discriminatory, and a perversion of the educational aims that institutions of learning presumably exist to serve.

The college fraternity system is a unique American growth. The first American social fraternities, in the modern sense, were Kappa Alpha, Sigma Phi, and Delta Phi, all formed at Union College in New York State - the mother of the fraternity system, - between 1825 and 1827. In the first years of their existence, the fraternities had to follow a clandestine existence, for they ran contrary to the widespread Jeffersonian aversion to "secret societies" of any kind. Denouncing the fraternity system as "This great evil" the Michigan faculty in the late 1840's reflected the general attitude by demanding oaths from the incoming freshmen that they would not join secret societies.

The turning point in the fight for recognition came in the 1880's when President Emeritus E. White of Purdue University, who

Thompson Concert Committee Plans Five-Program Series

Alexander Clement '49 Treasurer of the Thompson Concert Committee, announced the schedule for the 1948-1949 season on Monday. The series of five programs is the most varied ever arranged by the Committee, headed this year by Samuel Graybill '49 with Congreve Quinby '50 as vice president.

The first concert will be given by Luboschutz and Nemenoff, duo-pianists, on November 11. On Sunday afternoon, December 12, Erich Leinsdorf will conduct the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra in Chapin Hall. The Griller String Quartet will play here on January 10, followed by Martial Singher, Metropolitan Opera baritone, on February 15. The final concert will be given on March 17 with guitarist Andres Segoula as soloist.

Series Tickets

Series tickets may be obtained from any committee member or by mail order from the Thompson Concert Committee, Adams Memorial Theatre. A standard series subscription to all five concerts is $6.00, including tax. All other seats for individual performances will be sold at $3.00, $2.40, and $1.80 depending upon their location.

had prohibited fraternities, was forced to resign after the Indiana Supreme Court ruled such prohibition invalid as discrimination against a "class of citizens." The date is significant. It was toward the close of the 80's, as Veblen points out, that American Colleges "definitively became leisure class establishments, either in actual achievement or aspiration." By 1885, the fraternity system was on its feet and publicly flexing its muscles.

At that time, not more than twenty-five "old line" social fraternities exercised an unchallenged social preeminence in those institutions where the system had taken root. After 1900, however, the number of colleges and the size of their student bodies increased enormously, and the equilibrium achieved in 1885 was seriously threatened. Dozens of "upstart" fraternities were formed, only to be denied recognition by the old-line organizations. A great deal of interfraternity rivalry was thus engendered. And despite the increase in the number of Greek-letter societies, fraternity membership lagged behind the increase in student population, thereby exacerbating friction between "barbs" and Greek-letter men.

In 1905 a strong movement arose to outlaw the fraternity system in the high schools, where they had multiplied rapidly, functioning in every respect like their collegiate counterparts. Most local school systems, enforced regulations expelling students for forming secret societies, with the result that there is scarcely a single school system in the nation where secret fraternities have not been outlawed.

Criticism of the high-school fraternities, outlined in a report of the National Education Association in 1905, can be summed up as follows: the fraternities stimulated selfishness and snobbery, they interfered with school discipline, they made for undemocratic standards at variance with the values emphasized in the curriculum. All these charges were, of course, equally applicable to the colleges. The distinction was excused, at that time, on the ground that the character of high-school students was "unformed," but could not the same be said of the character of the average college freshman? Actually the real basis for the distinction was that the public schools were much closer to the people than the colleges and were sensitive to the democratic temper in a sense in which the colleges, so many of which were "private" in character, were not.

Once fraternities had been barred in the high schools, the college fraternities felt it necessary to forestall the possibility of an organized attack against themselves.

As their chief defensive act they formed the National Inter-Fraternity Conference in 1908. The "Father" of the conference was Dr. William H. P. Faunce of Brown University. Always a staunch defender of the fraternity system, Dr. Faunce related its spread to the growth of the college population. It was impossible, he said, for a freshman to learn to love two thousand men at once; it was like "trying to be affectionate with the Atlantic Ocean." (But when Jewish students petitioned in the late 20's for permission to form a Jewish fraternity at Brown, Dr. Faunce strenuously opposed the application on the ground that such a fraternity would "Kindle the fires of racial antagonism.")

The National Inter-Fraternity Conference took steps to cut the ground away from its critics. At the first meeting of the conference, the old-line houses were compelled, for the good of the system, to accept the "upstart" post-1900 fraternities and to accord them full and equal status, thus putting an end to much inter-fraternity rivalry and, at the same time, consolidating the existing groups into a compact and broadened system. Local campus inter-fraternity councils were established which also served to improve fraternity-faculty relationships.

However, the conference has consistently defended the "racial" exclusionist policies of its affiliates, despite the fact that a few old-line Jewish fraternities have been admitted to membership over the years. And at the campus level, many inter-fraternity councils have excluded Jewish and Negro fraternities. For example, the council at the University of Chicago refused in 1937 to accord recognition to Kappa Alpha Psi, a Negro Fraternity. (It is an ironical fact that, in this situation as in others, American democracy has taken for granted extremes of social discrimination unknown in other countries.)

Despite the "reforms" of the National Inter-Fraternity Conference, a number of states continued their opposition to college Greek-letter societies. South Carolina barred fraternities by legislation from its state university in 1897, and the bar was not removed until 1929. Mississippi took similar action in 1912, with the prohibition remaining in force until 1928. Between 1912 and 1916 unsuccessful attempts to outlaw the fraternity system were organized in Ohio, Wisconsin, Missouri, Texas, and other states. Arkansas adopted an act which prohibited fraternity men from holding faculty positions and denied student honors to fraternity members. When the attorney general ruled the legislation unconstitutional, no attempt was made to enforce it, although the statute was never repealed.

Most of the criticism, it can be seen, came from the South, the Middle West, and the Far West. The basis for this sectional variation is clear; in the smaller Eastern colleges a much higher percentage of the student body was absorbed into an established fraternity system. In colleges like Bowdoin, for example, it is still not uncommon to find eighty-five percent of the students enrolled in fraternities. In the larger and more amorphous student bodies of the non-Eastern colleges, the fraternities were often until the 1920's—regarded as offspring of Eastern snobishness and exclusiveness but in the period after the first world war, the fraternities, by a combination of stubbornness and flexibility, "sold" themselves to the American Public as indigenous institutions.

Open Season At Union Saturday; Line-up Still Undecided

Rounding out the pre-term warm-up, the soccer team travelled to RPI last Saturday for a badly-needed practice game. Although the Troy aggregation is one of the top teams in the Eastern Soccer League, our 3-0 loss indicates that a hard week's practice will be needed before the official opener with Union at Schenectady this Saturday.

Team Outplayed
Throughout the four-period match, the Eph's chief weakness was lack of finesse in ball-handling. RPI constantly outplayed us in passing, trapping and dribbling. Also lacking was the necessary "scoring punch" when Williams did have the offensive.

The closest bid came in the first period with Captain Frank Donnelly's penalty kick missing by inches. Although the Eph's dominance in the first period, the Trojan's score came to life and tallied in the second third and fourth.

Simultaneously in a more informal scrimmage, the second team played the RPI Freshman and JV teams and emerged experienced victims with a 5-1 score. Both games did indicate, however, that the Eph booters have the competence and drive and need only the polish that concentrated practice can give.

Line-up Uncertain

Kneass, Ralph Gomory and Dick Manning started against RPI. Sam Gentles, Jim Crosby and Walt Sziklas all substituted in that position. Jerry Page and Rog Dickinson started at Fullback and were spelled by Pete Geier and Wally Stern. Jerry Palmieri filled in the goal for the first team.

Jayvees Planned

If another coach can be found, Uncle Ed plans to divide the squad into a varsity and jay-vee team. The latter, as last year, will have its own schedule culminating in the Little Three competition.

The freshmen, under Coach Chaffee, started practice last Monday in preparation for their opener with Mt. Hermon on October 16. Also on the yearling schedule are the Amherst and Wesleyan freshmen.

zejewski once again kicked the extra point, with Sperry holding, to give the Purple a 14-0 bulge.

Williams other scoring opportunity came in the third period when the Ephmen drove from their forty-eight to the Cadet sixteen with Whit Flake, Dunc McDonald, and Pete Dillisser doing the carrying. Flake's fifteen yard gallop off right tackle on a hand off from McDonald bringing the ball from the Norwich forty to the twenty-five and Delisser's nine yard scamper around end were the big gainers in a drive which brought the ball to the sixteen. Three plays failed to gain any ground and on the fourth down Ernie Mierzejewski dropped back to the twenty-five for a field goal attempt. His kick was wide of the uprights and Norwich took over on their twenty.

Line Performs Well

The outstanding feature of the game was the superlative play of the Eph forward wall which limited the hard running Norwich backs to a total of 54 yards. The big Purple forwards Marty Detmer, Ernie Mierzejewski, Dan Mahoney, Bob Genelsse and Don Ratcliffe fought their way continually into the Cadet backfield to all but stifle the Cavalrymen's running attack. Flankmen Mitch Fish, John Reynolds, and Bud Cool gave Cadet backfield aces Psalidas and O'Connor a very rough afternoon.

The longest run of the day was contributed by Cadet star Psalidas early in the third period when he ran from the Norwich thirty-seven to the Williams twenty-six. On the next play Captain Dick Whitney intercepted an O'Connor pass on the seventeen and ran it back to the forty-eight. Whitney's clutch catch halted whatever ambitions the Cadets may have had of crossing the Eph frontier.

Line Holds Norwich

Norwich's deepest penetration of Williams territory came in the final minutes of the game when a Duffield pass was intercepted by Merrit who carried the ball down to the Purple's eleven yard line before he was stopped by the last two Williams defenders that were in a position to catch him. The Purple line held at this point, and on fourth down a desperation end zone pass failed. Williams took over and Cliff Farmer ran the ball to the Eph twenty-nine as the game ended.

The Williams forward wall limited the opposition to a total of fifty-four yards in a strong show of defensive strength. Commenting after the game on the team's defensive play Coach Watters said, "Defensively we looked strong and I liked the way we took care of our assignments."

Referring to the team's offensive showing Coach Watters said, "We have a hard row ahead of us to get offense going the way it

Harriers Whip Into Condition

Planskymen Open With Veteran Springfield

Coach Tony Plansky will put his varsity cross-country squad through their first time trial on Friday after only a week of practice on the 3.7 mile home course. A veteran Springfield College team will be the thin-clads first test a week from Saturday at Williamstown.

With only a few practice sessions to date, Plansky has so far been unable to tell which seven men will start against the Gymnasts. As a result of their runner-up showing in last fall's New England, the Springfield runners, led by Bobby Knowlea who placed a brilliant second in that meet will be favored over last year's Little three champs. Adding to their position is the fact that they will gain the experience of a meet with the crack Rhode Island State squad, New England champions, this weekend.

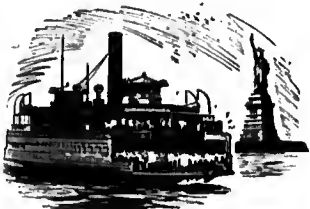

Difficult Course

An encouraging note for the Eph harriers is that their initial attempt will be on the tough though familiar home course. The route known to be one of the most gruelling in the Northeast starts on the lab campus and proceeds down fraternity row until it turns left at South Street. Then it leads onto the Taconic golf course and circles that twice before ending on the Weston Field track.

Equality . . .

The exclusionist policies of the fraternities were completely ignored in the barrage of criticism directed at them between 1900 and 1920. The general tendency of the social criticism characteristic of this period was a revolt, not so much against privilege, as against the monopolization of privilege, and in this atmosphere, criticism of the fraternity system took on an oblique character that preferred not to get down to bedrock. Those who were barred from the economic benefits of discrimination resented this fact and fought against it. They wanted to be cut in on a good thing.

Another reason why the exclusionist policies of the fraternities were ignored between 1900 and 1920 was that the groups excluded were busily imitating the social mode set by the fraternity system. A glance at the "National Jewish Blue Book": "An Elite Directory," issued in 1927, shows that Jewish students in American Colleges had, by 1920, erected a fraternity system of their own that ran parallel, at all points, to the non-Jewish organizations. The Jewish organizations had the same pyramidal structure, and the oldest and most prominent Jewish fraternity at one time followed an unstated policy of initiating only students of German-Jewish ancestry. Similarly, Negroes have erected a completely parallel structure that now includes some twenty-five thousand members, students and alumni. And there are also a few exclusively Catholic societies: Theta Phi Alpha, a sorority with seventeen chapters; and Phi Kappa, a fraternity. In the general system, certain organizations have always stressed a specific Christian faith; thus Alpha Chi Rho has strong Anglican leanings. On the other hand, Phi Omega Pi, admits only those whose fathers, brothers, grandfathers, husbands or uncles of blood relationship "are Masons in good standing."

Brooks Explains Houseparty Curfew

Not Aimed At Single Houses Or Incidents

Suspension of fall houseparties was necessary to call sharply to the attention of all the social units the need for more effective regulation of social events at Williams. Dean Robert R. Brooks said in a statement to The Williams Record early this week. The suspension is not an act against those houses on social probation nor is it an act in which all houses are penalized for the actions of a few.

Dean Brooks emphasized that the houseparty problem was not one which appeared suddenly last spring. Spring houseparty was merely the final explosion in a long chain which had been gathering momentum since the war.

From Bad To Worse

Dean Brooks distinguished three areas of student government at Williams. Under the Discipline Committee of the newly reorganized and co-ordinated Undergraduate Council individual cases of misconduct were handled quite well. The policing of regulations, however, was lax. Neither did the houses report violations to the Dean, nor did the houses police themselves. Finally, there appeared to be an "unwillingness or inability on the part of the UC to adopt minimum general rules of conduct."

Things grew progressively worse, and yet specific action could not be taken. One of the major hindrances was that there was no precise evidence as to the happenings in the houses. What came back to the administration drifted in through outside sources such as the parents of both Williams men and their dates.

Spring Explosion

Then came spring houseparties and social probation for seven of the fifteen houses on campus. The importance of the week end was that it blew the lid off the problem. The repercussions were extensive, and details about the general situation came in from many sources.

Reactions continued to be reported through the summer. It became evident to Dean Brooks that it would be unfair to place additional penalty on the seven houses when the fault lay in the entire system. It was this decision, then, that led the Administration to suspend houseparties this fall.

Curfews And Houseparties

Along with the suspension of houseparties, the Dean stated that some kind of a curfew will be imposed on the houses. The houses still indefinite, but whatever it is, it will be uniform throughout the campus. The policing of the curfew will be taken on by the houses, and should they fail, the house itself will be responsible.

The curfew raises the question: what will a Williams houseparty be like this fall? On Friday night, should dates have arrived by then the curfew will be in force. On Saturday night a dance will be held in the gym. This will be sponsored, in all probability, by some group on campus, as in the case of the weekend of October 9, by the Purple Key. Plans for the weekend of October 23 are still indefinite.

The Goal

Dean Brooks added that the ban on houseparties will last for one semester and may be remedied next February through the action of the UC and the fraternities. See BROOKS, page 4

352 Students Earn Money In 75 Ways

There are more than seventy-five ways in which students can earn money at Williams. "Waiting on," working in the library, running the student laundry, helping in science labs, printing football programs, and even baby sitting have netted students helpful assistance.

During the year 1947-1948 more than $77,000 was earned by 352 students, representing one-third of the student body. Students not only performed jobs on campus and in town, but many shared in the profits of student organizations such as the Williams Record, the Purple Cow, and the Purple Knights.

ADA Chapter Busy Locally

Attempts To Register Too Many In Town

Activities of the Williamstown Chapter of Americans for Democratic Action have kept pace with the increased campaigning in the national political field since last June.

Under the chairmanship of Professor Richard A. Newhall, the ADA recently sent out several hundred registration cards to people in the Williamstown area. This action by the local chapter was a follow-up of an intensive registration program carried on by Williamstown's League of Women Voters.

Chapter To Be Active

Local ADA work was carried on during the summer by the chapter's executive committee composed of Professor Newhall, Professor James M. Burns, Chapter Treasurer; Professor David L. Gass, Chapter Secretary; Dean Robert R. Brooks, and Professor Samuel A. Mathews.

Professor Burns said that local ADA Chapter meetings would be held soon and that the chapter will be active in the current political campaign. He said that the local activities will be influenced by the fact that National Headquarters for the ADA has voiced its support of President Truman.

NSA Outlines Future Plans At Congress

C. D. Miller Reports On Proposed World Student Exposition

Returning from the first annual congress of the National Students' Association held in Madison, Wisconsin from August 23-28, delegate Charles D. Miller '50 related his experiences there and reported on the congress' plans for the coming year.

More than 500 delegates from 150 schools arrived to take part in the eleven "workshops" where various phases of NSA activity were discussed. The finished workshop reports were read, approved and submitted to the subsequent plenary session at which the entire assemblage discussed them and adopted them for further action by the national officers.

First of these was the establishment of a "purchase card" set-up whereby students buying a $1 card are entitled to receive student necessities such as books and laundry service at stated discounts from stores entering the contract with the NSA.

Secondly, in view of the extremely meager living conditions found to exist in German schools by NSA observers the congress recommended action to help as many students as possible come to the United States to study, to hold summer seminars abroad with American professors in attendance, and in the particular case of students in displaced persons' camps to see that their full quota are brought here and placed in American colleges.

Preliminary plans were also approved for a World Student Exposition to be held in Detroit in 1950 at a cost of $2,000,000. Activities at the exposition would include educational seminars, dramatic presentations, athletic events, social affairs and study tours of colleges, commerce and industry.

Upon being asked his frank opinion of the NSA, delegate Miller stated, "the service NSA is doing in bringing foreign students to the United States and the encouraging of foreign seminars taught by American faculty is very valuable to the student community as a whole. Whether or not NSA is to become a valuable addition to the Williams campus depends entirely upon how worthwhile the students of Williams College consider these projects."

Purple Gridmen Face Strong Trinity Eleven

Record Gives Discussion Of Student Rule

Constitution Sanctions Standing Committees Operating Under UC

Continuing its policy of acquainting freshmen with the numerous activities on the campus, The Williams Record prints the following account of the organization and purpose of the student government.

Since James P. Baxter, 3rd, was elected chairman of the student committee to draft a constitution for a Student Council in 1914, the institution of self-government at Williams has undergone many changes. The present Constitution of the Undergraduate Council was adopted by two-thirds vote of the undergraduates a year ago.

According to this Constitution the UC handles "all matters concerning undergraduates, fraternities and faculty-student relations" and "shall coordinate and guide all student activity and matters relating to student government." Its membership includes the president of each fraternity, president of the Garfield Club and a number of representatives determined by the numerical strength of the Club, president of each class, and the president of the Student Activities Committee.

An independent body responsible to the UC, the SAC's function is to supervise the funds, management, and activities of the non-athletic organizations on campus. One representative from each of these organizations and three faculty members, nominated by the group, make up the SAC.

Standing committees of the UC include those on the Honor System, Discipline, and Rushing. The four class presidents, the secretaries of all but the freshman class and three elected members make up the 11 man committee.

Chapin Exhibit Shows 100 Influential Books

Organized by Custodian Mary L. Richmond, the Chapin Library is presenting until November 1 an exhibition of "One Hundred Influential American Books Printed Before 1900," featuring works bearing strongly on the life and culture of the American people.

Among the works being shown are copies of "The New England Primer," one of sixty copies of the first official edition of the Constitution originally belonging to George Mason, a Virginian delegate, bearing corrections in his handwriting and first editions of American classics including Cooper's "The Last of the Mohicans." The Library is open from 9-12 a.m. and 2-4 p.m. on week days, and 9-12 a.m. on Saturdays.

Stewart Named "Gul" Editor

Competitions Start For Edit Staff Positions

Sidney A. Stewart '50 will edit the 1949 Gulleimiansian, it was announced today by Gerald F. O'Brien, Jr. '49, who headed the yearbook staff last year. Assistant Stewart on the board will be Managing Editor Philip Collins '50 and Associate Editor Andrew D. Heineman '50.

Other appointments to the editorial staff include Herbert D. Mohring '50, Robert H. Hunt '51, Robert H. Jeffrey II '51, Richard W. Neff, Jr. '51, David S. Wilcox '51, John E. Cremins '51, and Edward P. Curtis, Jr. '51.

Business Board

Schuyler L. Brooks '50 succeeds Robert B. Stallworth, Jr., and John M. Reid as Business Manager. George F. Razook '50 will take over the office of Advertising Manager and John C. Griggs '50 will handle circulation. Other business staffers are Eugene F. Foley, Jr. '51, Merrill C. Behre '50, Arthur H. Lamborn III '51, John K. Greer '51, Richard B. Manning '51, and Herbert S. Williams Has Won Seven Of Ten Games

Hilltoppers Boast Top Passer In Kunkiewicz; Ephmen Set For Game

At two o'clock this afternoon on Weston Field, the Purple gridmen will face a powerful Trinity eleven which last year downed the Ephs 33-0. Almost the same Blue and Gold eleven which answered the opening whistle for last season's encounter will be back to face the Ephmen, in the eleventh game of a series which dates back to 1884. The results of the games between the two teams are as follows:

	Williams	Trinity
1914	20	14
1915	0	38
1946	7	19
1947	0	33
	248	104

Seven Williams Victories

This season the main spark in the Trinity attack will again be Tony Kunkiewicz who operates from the quarterback slot in the Blue and Gold's winged T attack. Purple fans who traveled to the game at Hartford last year will have no difficulty in remembering Tony, for it was his passing that set up two of the Hilltoppers touchdowns. Those whose memory extends to the 1946 game will recall that it was the same Tony who, almost single handed accounted for the Hilltoppers 19-7 victory. Trinity started the third period of that game trailing the Ephmen 7-0, but Kunkiewicz's passes quickly accounted for two touchdowns while setting up a third. He is the key man in the Blue and Gold's attack and the player the Purple will have to carefully watch during the game. His running mates in the backfield are Jack Corcoran at right-half, Frank Eblen at fullback, and Bob Barrows at left-half. Corcoran scored twice against the Ephmen last season, once on a short buck, and the other time ran thirty yards around end for the T.D. Corcoran is a scat back and a dangerous open field runner.

Co-Captains At Tackle

In the line for Trinity will be lettermen Ken Kochanski and Si Seymour. Kochanski is a converted back while Seymour was a reserve center on last season's eleven. The tackles for the Hilltoppers will be their co-captains, Mitch Holmgren and Joe Ponsalle. These two weighing 225 and 215 respectively are the key men in the Blue and Gold's forward wall. At the guard slots, Merlin Kolkowski and James McDonnell will hold forth. Both are veteran members of last year's eleven. At center, sophomore Lyndon Ratcliffe will start, but will be closely backed up by Lambert Oberg the second string center in 1947. Center is considered to be the weakest spot in the Blue and Gold's frontier.

The Hilltoppers are known to have depth in every position, particularly in the backfield where they have a number of good passers in addition to Kunkiewicz. The backfield reserves who are scheduled to see considerable action are as follows:

Fraternities Pledge 189 New Affiliates Tuesday Night; 70% Of Class In Houses; Club Takes 83 Freshmen

Grim Is The Word

Life can be grim.

It can be exceedingly grim at Williams if the student body decides to beat the rap of the houseparty curfew by any conceivable method that happens to enter their heads.

The case in point accounting for the houseparty curfew is not merely last spring's episode. It is, moreover, the culmination of fraternity activities for the last two years at Williams. We need not indulge in juicy details at this point -- they will be fully explained to you by the President and Dean of the college.

The administration feels that the summation of these incidents warrants the rules about to be imposed. We concur.

What then is the attitude that the Williams man should have in regard to the present situation. It is agreed that the desired end to achieve is to return to the "normal" houseparty routine. If the desired end is to postpone this "return to normal" the easiest way to facilitate that end is to get caught breaking the rules imposed. On the other hand, if we wish houseparties of yore to continue, the best solution is to recognize a tough situation and abide by it for the required time.

Individually, the case is considerably more severe. The Administration is prepared to give the boot to anyone that causes the College to become a target of adverse criticism because of an infraction of houseparty rules. This is not an idle threat -- for those who wish to test its reality, we merely suggest that you pull a stunt similar to that suggested above. Secondly, it is not merely being done to avoid any hindrance to the Fund Drive. The practice of booting wayward students is recognized and carried out throughout the country. And lastly during the present era of crowded college enrollment any person expelled for such a reason would find it impossible to enter any other college in the country.

Thus we are faced with an undesirable situation.

The Record feels that the situation will not be remedied until individual cases have been made cruel but hard examples. It is up to the fraternity system and The Undergraduate Council to impose these regulations and to do their utmost to see that they are fulfilled. Until the UC does this, the administration will continue to rule student social life which normally should be the function of the UC.

It is time the UC stop vacillating.

It is time the UC stepped on a few toes, those toes belonging to the habitual offenders, and the student grapevine knows who and which houses they are, and by being a strong student government control the students as they should.

We propose to the UC that they make a formal adoption of the rules that the Administration sets forth. In reality, these rules should have initially been made by the UC to cope with this situation. Secondly, we propose that the UC set up a code of punishment for violators of the rules, and thoroughly enforce this code.

If they do this, and carry it out to its utmost, undoubtedly the Administration will again turn the student government back to the UC where it is supposed to reside.

Equality Or Fraternities

by Carey McWilliams

(Editors note: This is the second part of an article printed in The Williams Record September 29.)

The sororities, never as influential as the fraternities, came into being somewhat later and arose, for the most part, in the small mid-western "female" colleges. The sororities were organized into a general system in 1902 when the National Pan-Hellenic Congress was formed. In effect, the sororities occupy the same satellite relationship to the fraternities that the women's auxiliaries do in fraternal orders. Anyone who has attended an American college or university will be able to testify to this pairing of certain fraternities with certain sororities, usually on the basis of "similarity of personal background" ---which more often than not means an identity of social class.

Despite its ups and downs, the fraternity system is still the most widespread and influential extra-curricular influence in our entire educational system. In 1943, sixty-five national fraternities had approximately 2,441 chapters, owned 1,815 chapter houses valued at eighty million dollars, and boasted a membership, student and alumni, of more than a million. In addition, there were some three hundred "local" unaffiliated groups with an unrecorded membership. Newsweek has estimated that 130 fraternities and sororities with nine thousand chapter organizations have a combined membership of one and a half million. However turbulent its early history, the fraternity system has now fully matured; today few higher educational institutions have withheld open recognition. Over the years, the Greek-letter societies have changed little in organization, structure, or function. They are monotonously alike. All have adopted much the same ceremony and ritual, and the same symbols: a badge, a coat-of-arms, a flag, certain colors, a flower, a motto, a grip, a password---the indispensable paraphernalia of secret membership organizations aiming at "exclusiveness."

Like the fraternal orders (Elks, Shriners, etc.), Greek-letter societies aim to produce superior "types," and it is to this end that they feel it necessary to exclude certain racial and ethnic

by D. Light de Moon

The hoarse breathing of backrow sleeping beauties buzzes thru eight o'clock classrooms. The pages flip faster as the 10:50 p.m. warning bell clangs in the Stetson Hall reading room. The heros of the Purple stagger up from Cole Field thru the gathering dusk, and the long road to Bennington is once again covered with burning rubber and shattered hopes.

It seems like a semester since we took our last free delicious breath of the smoke-and-exhaust-filled air of Little Old New York; threw a few socks and handkerchiefs over a half-empty bottle of Kinsey's in the back of our convertible, and headed for our dandy little school in the Berkshires.

It was an anti-climax when, three hours, one Westchester County cop, and four quarts of oil later, we slowed down at the THICKLY SETTLED sign and rolled into Guilfordopolis. Nothing seemed to have changed. All was quiet on the Saint House lawn. Main Street, with its convertible-lined driveways, lay peacefully in the afternoon sun. The mailbox was empty, and our room-mates had taken the two bedrooms and the thick mattresses. Down at the College Restaurant Mike flashed us a quick smile and a $10 credit card. Mert O'Dell was philosophical as he told us about the poor fishin' weather this summer.

But it wasn't long before we found there had been a few changes after all. The columns of Epsilon had a new point job, we navigated the driveway behind the health center without scraping an axle, and the Administration had just started a campaign to win friends and influence undergraduates by axing the fall houseparty. It was a dark day for the sons of Ephraim and their sisters from Poughkeepsie and Northampton, but Dean Brooks managed to laugh in the face of walls lamentations. Looks as if there'll be a lot of pneumonia on mountain tops, he commented brightly.

Then there was rushing, complete with tense freshmen, leering rushers, warm water, cigarettes and sixteen kinds of mints. A woman knocked at the Chi Psi Lodge door Wednesday and asked if this was the Haller Inn. If she had walked in during pre period two nights earlier, she might have been amazed at the similarity. There was also the freshman who asked, as he shook the last glad hand after a first-period session, "What happens now, initiations?"

Axes flew tempers flared and beautiful friendships tottered on. Thomas spent his evenings alone amid stacks of paper in the dim light of 2nd floor Jesup. Finally it was all over and tight nerves loosened up during a round of pledge parties. Bitter-enders were nostalgic as they climbed into their sacks. The fun was over and tomorrow would be here, too soon.

Purple Platters

by Frank Reiche

With houseparties only a dream we can now concentrate on music and particularly the record world. "Purple Platters" will endeavor to give "Record" readers unbiased reviews of the latest recordings along with other interesting bits of information on happenings in the music field. At present we plan to review recent recordings, but later we hope to include one jazz classic in each column. Perhaps we may wander into the semi-classical area. Meanwhile our thanks to Tom Walsh for letting us review these records in his store.

Rather than devise some elaborate rating system, we feel that everyone is familiar with the Williams grading process--"A" to "E"--therefore we will rate the records in this manner. Naturally all will not agree with our reviews, but just be patient. Who knows--we may say something you like. Anyway, if some readers think we're definitely on the wrong track, just drop a card to "Purple Platters," care of "The Record." We agree to read all mail, although we'll probably be just as convinced that "you" are wrong.

TEX BENEKE

Surprise Symphony B
 A Girl That I Remember D
 "Symphony" is a pleasant surprise. After a string introduction, the band jumps nicely with a soothing tenor solo serving as a reminder of the glorious Glenn Miller days. Most thrilling instrumental kicks are provided by Pete "Superman" Condoli and drummer Jack Sperling who departs from his usual loud beat. "Girl" is also a surprise, but not a pleasant one. Garry Stevens' vocal is passable, although a far cry from Ray Eberle. Again the strings and the full sax section lend a Millerish touch, but the band strains too hard. (Victor 20-2497)

EDDIE CONDON'S ALL-STARS

Carnegie Drag D
 Carnegie Jump C+
 "Drag" is just what the name implies. Following a typical Stacy barrelhouse intro, George Brunies comes through with an uninspiring tram chorus. Other solos include a record-saving eight measures by cornetist Bobby Hackett, a better-than-average Freeman tenor (although that isn't saying much), and the usual terrible Pee-Wee Russell trying his hardest to imitate a cow. The reverse side features an opening break by George Wettling, then some good section work by the group backed by Stacy's Basielike chords. Pee-Wee also spoils this disc. (Commodore 1500)

LES PAUL

The Man On The Flying Trapeze E
 By The Light Of The Silvery Moon D-

It's hard to believe that Les Paul could make two such poor sides as these after his earlier hits-- "Lover", etc. Artistically both tunes are skillfully done, but it's a shame to see a fine musician like Les wasting his time on this trash. "Man" even includes some talking while "Light" illustrates the simple style of 19th Century popular music. In describing these sides, the label says, "The New Sound," but let's have more of the old sound. (Capitol 15147)

BENNY GOODMAN

The Blues Jumped Up And Got Me C
 Have You Ever Been Told D+

The comments made about Les Paul apply to the King of Swing, although to a lesser extent. This typifies Benny's recent mediocre success on the Coast playing with studio groups. Two different vocalists are featured here as Emma Lou Welch handles "Blues" in a Peggy Lee style while Lillian Lane does the honors on "Have" True. Benny's clary saves both sides, but even he is not the Goodman of old (Capitol 15111)

STAN KENTON

How High The Moon B-
 Interlude A-

At last we have a record which all modern jazz fans should enjoy. Before you kind readers associate us with the fanatical Kenton followers, we hasten to assure you that we both applaud and criticize Kenton, but this time he deserves high praise. Except for a bad June Christy vocal which shows poor taste, "How High" is an excellent record. It departs from the usual stock arrangement of this standard jazz tune and features a tricky arranging job by Stan himself. Oh, yes, the brass section is quite subdued---too bad June Christy wasn't as subdued, particularly after her final bop chorus which we didn't appreciate. "Interlude" is another illustration of Pete Rugolo's genius as a composer and arranger. The theme, written in a minor key, is among the most beautiful we have ever heard. Stan's piano intro reveals his instrumental talent and reminds us of the Duke. Other highlights are the varying rhythms and an intricate ending. Our choice for "Record of the Week." (Capitol 15117)

Leg Injury Halts Higgins

Ex-Eph Ace Leaves Los Angeles Rams

After being plagued by a leg injury that kept him out of pre-season scrimmages for over a week, Pat Higgins, backfield ace of Williams' wartime football squads, was released from the Los Angeles Rams pro team by coach Bob Snyder. Pat found himself at great disadvantage after returning to action, both because of the practice he had missed and because he was competing against such men as passing ace Ben Waterfield and All-American Les Horvath.

His release came after he had been in camp a little over three weeks. The rival Detroit Lions offered him a tryout at their Michigan training camp, but he chose instead to take a job as personnel manager at the Danmo Pipe and Foundry Company.

A freshman at Williams, Higgins was a standout performer on the 1942 Eph team which ended the traditional Williams-Rinceton series by toppling the Ringers for the first time. After a wartime interruption of four years, Pat returned to spark Williams' first post-war squad. Last fall he spent most of the season on the injured list with bad ankles.

Sophs Capture Frosh Cap In Fierce Two-Hour Battle

by Phil Collins

"It sure is good to see the old college spirit back," chuckled Mike over a cup of coffee in the College Restaurant Friday morning.

But it was an entirely different Mike who watched, the night before, as the sophomorea drunk with victory, carried a thirty-foot greased pole which they had captured after a two-hour battle, into his eatery. He anxiously eyed his large glass display windows while the howling, shirtless, and often pantsless, mob halted inside, hesitated, and finally charged out again to carry their prize up fraternity row.

JA's Incite Riot

It all started late Thursday afternoon when peace-loving JA's in the freshman quad erected a tall greased pole in the center of the yard in preparation for the first organized lowerclass riot of the year.

As soon as dinner was over, the frosh drifted back and put up a guard around the pole, which was topped with a freshman cap. For hours, the only action consisted of false alarms which struck terror into the hearts of innocent bystanders, and a few scattered attempts by the sophs to burn the pole with gasoline. These were quickly blanketed by the vigilant freshmen and one arsonist retreated hastily to Lehman Hall.

Sophs Attack

At 10:05 p.m. it happened. While a decoy patrol marched bravely up Phinney's Phairway in the face of approaching risister, the two main soph divisions converged on the quad from behind, screaming like banshees.

Pandemonium broke loose. Two battling grapplers rolled into the smouldering remains of a frosh bonfire and jumped up shrieking. But their agonized cries were lost in the general frenzy of moans, walls, cheers, and inter-class namecalling.

Frosh Stand

The initial soph charge failed to carry the pole. From that point the battle surged to and fro as first one side and then the other gained possession of the prize. Individual struggles broke out all over the quad, as pairs of fighters broke away from the main melee and pounded each other into the turf, only to break up and roar back into the pile once again.

The sophs could make no more than a half-dozen unsuccessful attempts to climb the pole. Fierce

Outing Club's Initial Meeting October 5

The Williams Outing Club is holding its first meeting of the year on October 5 for the purpose of receiving new faculty and student members. The club is putting faculty members on the same status as undergraduate members this year.

The prospective members must work ten hours on Sheep Hill or the club's trails and cabins before becoming full members. PT credit is extended by the college for all such work done under the club's auspices. After the meeting movies will be shown of last year's football and baseball highlights.

Frosh resistance and a layer of grease half an inch thick kept them effectively grounded throughout the holocaust. Pillows were torn open and for a while the air was filled with feathers in a futile attempt to cover the pole with something that would make it climbable.

Midnight Mayhem

An enterprising group of sophs produced a rope and tried to pull the pole down, while a loudspeaker in the corner of Williams Hall announced that Steve Blaschke would lead the last desperate sophomore advance. Whistles screamed, a trumpet, evidently played by a beginner, blared momentarily, and exploding firecrackers filled the air. A freshman who flashed a knife in the center of the twisting, writhing, throng in an attempt to cut the rope was quickly dragged away.

Marchese Shoots 154

At the half-way point in the qualifying for the college golf championship, Bucky Marchese, star of the spring team that was so successful last year, paced the eleven linksmen who have pitted their skill against the par 73 Taconic course so far with a 36 hole total of 154. Jerry Cole, number two man on the spring squad, added a 77 to his Monday's round of 84 for a total of 161.

Dick Baxter, pro at the links, has set a total of 170 for the 36 holes as the score that must be equalled by Sunday in order to qualify for the match play championship. Ted Taylor with an 82 is the only freshman to be still in the running.

Arrangements are being made for the purchase of a permanent plaque upon which the names of future winners of the championship are to be engraved. The qualifiers will be asked to contribute for this purpose.

ers filled the air. A freshman who flashed a knife in the center of the twisting, writhing, throng in an attempt to cut the rope was quickly dragged away.

The end came at 11:55 p.m. The pole, weakened at its base by repeated sophomore attack, finally toppled over knocking out a weary

Warming Hut And Tow Addition Being Built

The Williams Outing Club is anticipating another full year of activity. Included in their present plans are a winter carnival, a warming hut and an extension to the ski tow at Sheep Hill and various joint outings with girl's schools.

The upper section of the ski tow construction on which was begun last winter, will be in operation by the time the skiing season begins. The college will finance the construction of the warming shelter which has been proposed by an Outing Club Committee.

The entertainment committee will sponsor a number of dances and parties with clubs in neighboring women's colleges. The Greylock cabin will not be immediately available for such activities, however, due to the closing of the mountain because of fire hazard. The Cabin and Trails Committee will be able to function as soon as a good rain removes this restriction.

fighter who could not escape in time. With an exultant roar the sophs lifted the trophy to their shoulders and the victory parade began.

Seven Lettermen To Spark Match

Today at Schenectady the soccer term inaugurates its season in a meet with Union. Seven returning lettermen will spark the Williams squad in this first of the six scheduled encounters. Particularly encouraging for the Ephs, however is the progress made in practice since the ragged display at RPI last Saturday.

In the starting line-up will be seven veterans of last year's team: Captain Frank Donnelly takes the outside right position, John Bowen will be at outside left while Bob Johnston and Cy Mayshark fill the forward insides. Larry Gourlay, also one of last year's lettermen, will alternate in this slot. George Kneass and Jerry Page start at halfback and fullback respectively.

Around this backbone will fit the other starters: Tom Kent at center-forward, Sam Gentiles and Ralph Gomery as Halfbacks, fullback Rog Dickinson and goal tender Jerry Palmieri. Bill Mikell will probably see action as forward as well as the three halfbacks, Dick Manning, Walt Sziklas, and Jim Crosby and two fullbacks Wally Stern and Pete Geier.

With experience gained in last week's practice match with RPI and the week's practice to iron out difficulties the Eph squad may hold more than even odds in the encounter.

nities. The Dean and President James P. Baxter 3rd are making a tour of the social units on campus explaining the administration's action and its goals. The general goal is good conduct; the hope is that houseparties may "add to, rather than detract from, the reputation of the college."

Equality or Fraternities - - -

strains. Experienced faculty members have always insisted that they can easily forecast which "houses" the eligible freshman will be pledged to. In campus parlance, Jane is "a Kappa type" and Bill is "a Beta type." (Similarly, as Dr. Noel P. Oist points out, the Elks appear to attract a type of membership rather different from that of the Masons.)

Both critics and apologists for the Greek-letter societies are in general agreement upon the criteria which determine eligibility for inclusion in the fraternity elite. Dr. Max McConn of Lehigh University has defined these criteria, in climatic order, as follows: money, family connections, the type of preparatory school attended, "personality." And apart from the question of which fraternity a freshman is likely to join, it is apparent that there is a general "fraternity type." One shrewd observer has written: "If they have one common quality it is that they do not have to be explained; they are so instantaneously attractive as to make the reason for their selection immediately evident."

Now the qualities that make a person "instantaneously attractive" are determined by the prevailing mores, crystallized around the lines of power. "Personality," in this sense, is a highly conventionalized concept. The fraternity, like the fraternal order, operates to minimize the change and conflict, particularly along social, economic and political lines. So far as the general fraternity type is concerned therefore, the prime characteristic is obviously conformity.

What the fraternity system does, in effect, is to sift out in the freshman year, the conformists from the non-conformists. The fraternities aim to recruit those students "most likely to succeed."

There are, of course, variations among conformists, just as there are various roads to "success". On the average American campus, the student body will be divided into two groups: "Greeks" and "barbs"—conformists and non-conformists. Within the Greek category, however, two divisions can be noted. There is, first of all, the general pyramidal order of fraternities in terms of socio-economic position or degree of exclusiveness. In the college I attended most students "rated" fraternities according to a neatly graduated scale, which was, in turn, reflected in the style of living and scale of expenditures of the various houses. One could also observe that each "house" tended to emphasize a particular quality and to select a particular type. Thus one house will be "political" (campus politics, of course), another will stress athletic ability, while a third will emphasize social life and the bottle, etc. But in each instance, the typing underscores a conventional means of attaining social acceptability via acceptance into a caste.

Strong Trinity Squad Takes Williams

Women Barred From Houses After 1 a.m. Sunday Mornings

Curfew hours for the fall term limiting the time which women may be in the social units were announced by Dean Robert R. Brooks at Monday night's Undergraduate Council meeting. The new rule sets the hour of 10:00 p.m. for Sunday through Friday evenings, and 1:00 a.m. for Saturdays.

The UC business dealt with the action of the Entertainment Committee at the present time, the upcoming College dance the weekend of October 23, and plans for a season rushing which began Monday.

President Henry Strong '49, in the light of the new curfew hours, reminded the Council of the fact that all plans for social unit activities are to be cleared through the Entertainment Committee a week before they are to be held. Dean Brooks said that he felt that during the interim until the next UC meeting when the whole campus problem will be the sole topic of consideration, each house president should take the responsibility of making proper plans for the weekend. The UC decided that Dean Brooks would be the final judge of what is to happen in the social units until the student government establishes its policy.

WCA To Sponsor Dance
Strong announced that there would be a college dance in Lathrop Gymnasium on October 23, the evening of the Williams-Trusts football game. Edwin P. Maynard '49, President of the Williams Christian Association, said that the WCA would like to sponsor the dance, and was granted permission by the UC to do so.

Bert Dean '49, Chairman of the Rushing Committee, said that the post-season rushing period for sophomores, juniors, and seniors started officially on Monday. He said that the period would last for three weeks during which time the name of any man a house desires to rush must be announced to the UC. Final bids will be set out at the end of the period. The Council decided that a list of eligible men and non-affiliates desiring to be rushed should be sent to the UC for the information of the social units.

Classes Moved
It was announced by Dean Brooks that the Saturdays of the Williams and Amherst football games would be free. He said that the Saturday morning classes would be held in the afternoon of the previous Fridays.

Election of officers of the top three classes will be held sometime within the next two weeks. Strong said that he will try to arrange convenient times as soon as possible. Freshman elections will be held later in the term. Phi Delta Theta announced that they had given a final bid to Reed Gerold.

Bullock Appointed Director By Baxter

James Edwin Bullock, Associate Professor of Physical Education and coach of soccer and wrestling, has been appointed Director of Athletics at Williams College, for the remainder of the term, President James P. Baxter, 3rd announced today. Mr. Bullock has taken over the duties of Mr. Albert V. Osterhout, who is relinquishing his post as director because of ill health.

Mr. Bullock will serve as Director of Athletics until February 7, 1949 when John C. Jay, whose appointment as Director was announced this summer, assumes his new duties.

Wyckoff Again Leads Vocational Guidance Of Williams Students

"It is the established procedure of the Placement Bureau to interview every Williams undergraduate in the fall of his junior year along the lines of vocational guidance and eventual placement," said Placement Director William O. Wyckoff in a recent letter to the members of the junior class.

Initial conferences with the Placement Director, to be completed by Thanksgiving, will be supplemented sometime during his senior year by a second interview for any man who is not already scheduled for definite employment (business, graduate school or otherwise) upon graduation.

Service To Williams Men

The Williams College Placement Bureau was established for the purpose of rendering service to any Williams men (alumni or seniors) who care to apply to it for assistance along the lines of either vocational guidance or actual placement. There is nothing compulsory about its use—its facilities are available to you if you wish to register with the bureau, and at no cost whatsoever to you.

A library is maintained describing numerous vocations, as well as pamphlets which portray the good and bad points of a half-hundred fields of endeavor, advising the reader as to what he should have in the way of educational, physical, social background in order to succeed in a given job and what he should expect in the way of financial or other reward when he does succeed. "For men who are not as yet certain in which of several fields their talents lie, reading can be very helpful," Wyckoff points out.

Williams Club Committee

A Vocational Guidance Committee, supervised by the Williams Club of New York, consisting of Williams alumni successful in their own fields in the metropolitan area will be glad to discuss their particular occupations with any Williams man who phones in advance and arranges an appointment. "The function of these men is not to get you a job," continues Wyckoff, "but rather to give you advice out of their own book of experience."

Cap And Bells Opens Season

First Production Is "Of Mice And Men"

Rehearsals of the initial production of Cap and Bells. Of Mice and Men, by John Steinbeck, began on October 4 with Martin Luthy '51, in the leading part and David C. Bryant, AMT head, directing the play. Dates upon which the drama will be produced have been moved back to November 18, 19, and 20.

Aiding Mr. Bryant in the directing job is James VanWart, a new faculty assistant at AMT. The production manager is Otto Siebert '50, and technical supervision is in the hands of Edgar W. Noyes, a member of the AMT Staff.

The complete cast for the play, the parts being still tentative, is as follows: George, Dominick Dunne '49; Lennie, Martin Luthy '51; Candy, Bryan Webb '49; The Boss, Robert Hellawell '50; Curley, James Dissell '49; Curley's Wife, Caroline Bidwell; Slim, John Lasell '50; Carlson, Thomas Brittingham '51; Whit, Arthur Levitt '52; Crooks, Llewellyn White '50.

Gerald O'Brien '49, has been selected as Stage Manager with Richmond Williams '50, assuming the position of Scenery Head. Cap and Bells president, Peter Candler '49, reports that many men are still in demand to work on the scenery since all the top scenery experts graduated last year.

The rest of the technical staff is composed of George Cherry '51, in charge of sound effects, and Candler, who is the Lighting Director. Positions for Make-up and Costume Heads are still open. Theodore Lohrke '49, holds the position of Business Manager, and Patrick Graney '49, is in charge of Publicity.

Glee Club Boasts 65

"The Williams Glee Club, because of the large number of veteran men in it, will probably be the best in Williams' history," predicts Associate Professor of Music Robert G. Barrow, director of the Glee Club.

With the tentative acceptance of twenty freshmen, the ranks of the musical organization have grown much larger than usual.

Approximately sixty-five men will participate in what Prof. Barrow terms "the most elaborate schedule" since he came to Williams.

Highlight of the Glee Club season will be a concert at Town Hall in New York City, on May 12, marking the first time in eight years that the Williams group has appeared there. Concert engagements with Smith, Vassar, Emma Willard, and Pembroke, an oratorio scheduled at Elmira, and a performance before the Adams Women's Club are all tentative parts of the schedule.

New Program Clarifies Policy; Prognosticates Coming Games

Last Monday night, The Williams Record aired its editorials via the medium of WMS in the first of a series of bi-weekly programs entitled "Record Headlines". The program will appear every Monday and Thursday night from 9:45-10 p.m. and will contain editorial comments on the past issues of The Record and a brief preview of the contents of the forth-coming issue.

The Record editors intend to make the Monday program an airing of the editorials as they have appeared during the preceding week and a brief resume of the athletic results of the past weekend. This program will also contain the highlights of the issue printed Wednesday morning.

Sports in Advance

William Barney '49, sports Editor of the Record, will handle the Thursday evening program which will highlight the pre-game dope, statistics, and prognostications for the next week's games. Barney, who is also president of the Williams News Bureau, has full facilities for obtaining information for accurate prognostications.

Monday's program was mainly concerned with a full explanation of Saturday's editorial, "Grim Is The Word." Speaking for the Record, Editor Seth Bidwell explained the concepts behind The Record's stand with the administration on the recent curfew.

Fisher Tallies Sole Eph TD

by Fred Wiseman

A hard-fighting, game Purple Team was defeated 33-6 by a power packed Trinity Eleven last Saturday afternoon before a near capacity crowd at Weston Field.

Sparked by Frank Eblen, "Whitey" Kunkiewicz and Jack Corcoran the Hilltoppers scored in each of the first two periods, twice in the third, and once again in the final stanza. The lone Williams T.D. came when Pete Fisher bucked over from two yards out midway in the last period to climax a drive that began on the Trinity 49.

French Defensive Standout

Stu Duffield received the opening kick off on the Eph 7 and ran it back to the 36. Duffield and Fisher were stopped at scrimmage on successive plays and on third down Whit Fiske booted to the Hilltoppers 38. The Trinity Gridders then began the drive that brought them their first touchdown of the game.

In four plays Eblen and Corcoran made two first downs and carried the ball to the Purple 40. On the next play Bob Barrows drove to the 21, but a Blue and Gold lineman was offside and the ball was brought back to the 45. A Kunkiewicz pass to right end Seymour was good for twelve yards, and Barrows quickly bucked through to the 39 and another first down for the Hilltoppers. Then Kunkiewicz faded to pass from his quarterback slot in the Blue and Gold's T attack, but his throw to left end Kochanski in the end zone was knocked down at the last second by Jack French, who was a pillar of defensive strength all afternoon for the Ephs from his line backing up position.

Kunkiewicz Avoids Tacklers

Eblen made to the eleven on an off tackle smash but a backfield in motion penalty called the ball back to the 31. On 4th down and 12 to go for the Hilltoppers the key play of the game occurred. Kunkiewicz faded back to the Purple 48 to pass, the Trinity line failed to hold the Billville forwards and they came pounding in at the Hilltoppers' quarterback. It appeared that Kunkiewicz would be swamped under by five Purple forwards each of whom had a clear shot at him, but somehow he managed to elude them and raced to the 19 yard line of the Ephs before he was finally stopped. If Kunkiewicz had been stopped it would have been the Purple ball on their own 48 and perhaps a different ball game. Six plays later after Eblen had brought the ball to the one on a series of bucks Corcoran slashed his way across the goal, fumbled, but Barrows recovered in the end zone for the first score of the game. DePaolis the Blue and Gold's kicking specialist converted to give the Hilltoppers a 7-0 edge.

In the second period Trinity's vaunted attack which has carried them to 10 victories in their last 13 games brought them another score as Jack Corcoran ran 64 yards on a right end sweep behind superb blocking by his teammates. DePaolis missed the extra point, but the Ephs were offside on the play, and given another chance the burly tackle split the uprights to make it 14-0.

Rho Upsilon Delta To Blackball Traitorous Charlie Morton

The Record takes this opportunity to rebut an article published in The Atlantic Monthly (and which, incidentally, is a good descriptive term for it) which was written by one Charles W. Morton, a member of some fraternity here in 1919, and supposedly giving an unbiased if somewhat incoherent account of life in such organizations at that time.

We feel that Mr. Morton never had an opportunity to experience the real joys of Greek brotherhood. This is undoubtedly because Rho Upsilon Delta, to which he had the dubious honor of belonging, and which is now happily defunct, never was a very bohemian house, as those who attended their rally in aught eight (it was scheduled for aught nine) can testify. The house never recovered from that blow, since it was their final effort anyway. The story is not very clear now, but the records which remain show that after the catnap consumption fell off, the red-blooded boyishness of the teen-agers lapsed, and the situation rapidly reached the point where those still able to shake hands had forgotten the secret grip. To make things worse, none of the other "frats", who possessed the same secrets, would leap to the rescue (it being a 40 fathom drop) as this would have sent the Interfraternity Shaking Agreement the way of all Sears Roebuck catalogs. With the advent of plumbing just around the corner, those boys weren't going to let go of a good thing.

But to get back to the story, Old Charlie advanced upon an unsuspecting world (he had to, since train service home had been discontinued) armed with a satchel full of secrets and a stomach made so strong through continued consumption of swill, that he let it (instead of his conscience) be his guide. He should have used a road map, because instead of getting the Executive Secretary's position, which was his heart's desire, he wound up as editor and bow-tie fancier. After a bout with hypochondria, it seems that he decided his heart would have been a better guide after all, but he just couldn't get the Rho Upsilon Delta in him to disappear, and it plagued him with visions of shoddy jewelry and 1.27 empty ketchup bottles.

Recently, no one in particular told him that it was his very blandness which was the cause of it all, and we understand that he is now taking a p.g. at the Wingding School of Mines, in a vague effort to lose his identity through a rather crude brotherhood outside bonds. This sort of thing may replace Nietzsche, but never the pin-ball machine. Personally, if I were he, I'd be a college president so that I could turn resolutely away from the whole thing.

However, let it be said here that Charlie never did make a very good scorpion out of himself at college, and that's probably why no one ever gave him a break (kindness pays off) in later life,

Equality Or Fraternities

Once the conformists have been selected from the non-conformists, the fraternity system functions as a mold to fix these "types". First, the sheep are kept apart from the goats and thus tend to become more sheep-like; second, the sheep are trained and disciplined to produce what Veblen calls "a facility in subservience." The first aspect is so obvious as to require little comment. The sorority, as Edith Rickert critically remarks, aims at the elimination of those "incongruous and hostile elements" in the life of a girl which are often "conductive to growth." The girl is "cultivated instead of being allowed to grow;" she is crippled by the fact that "she is not allowed to come to grips with all sorts of conditions of people." By forcing her to associate with other conformists, the sorority buttresses her conventionality. To make this initial screening process as airtight as possible, the Greek-letter societies confer an absolute power on each individual member to exclude "undesirable" types by "black-balling", a practice universally followed.

The second aspect of the typing process is more complex but no less clearly defined. First of all, the "pledge" of neophyte undergoes a period of probation during which he is closely observed, disciplined, whipped into line, and freely criticized. His intimate friends, the girls he meets, and, to a degree, the clothes he wears and the mannerisms he affects, are all determined for him. Through an intricate system of rushing, pledging, and initiation, he is disciplined, counseled, criticized, and shaped to type. Since the Greek-letter societies are made up of students from the four classes of the college, the influence of the upper-classes and of the alumni is brought to bear directly upon the lower-classes, with the newly pledged freshman feeling the fullest weight of this influence in a most impressionable period of his life. At a time when he should be eager for new ideas and experiences, to deepen his knowledge of himself and the world about him—is not that the ultimate end of education?—the fraternity initiate has his personality flattened and standardized.

The fraternity alumni have come to exercise an increasingly dominant role in the affairs of the local chapters. In many cities, the alumni have formed large and often extremely influential clubs or associations, with either their own city club or a regularly reserved meeting place in the local university club. Today most chapter houses are owned by corporations, the shares of which are in turn owned by rich alumni. The alumni also provide committees to manage the properties, to supervise the affairs of the locals, and to regulate, to some extent, the conduct of the members of the local. This tendency is looked upon with great favor by many clever college administrators, since it ties the wealthier element among the alumni to the college with an intimacy of interest that is often lacking in the general alumni. But it is obvious that this form of remote control of college life by older men whose only qualification is financial cannot be happily regarded by the conscientious educator.

Given the dynamic quality of American life, on and off the campus, it is extremely doubtful that conformists could be effectively organized as conformists unless membership in a fraternal order or a Greek-letter fraternities has always been recognized as a valuable practical asset. A certificate of social acceptability, it is also an aid to employment. Many of the large fraternities have revolving funds for scholarships, loans, and other direct aids (much as the fraternal orders offer insurance at low rates and other "benefits" of one kind or another). "The fraternity," writes Edith Rickert, "is frankly a social privilege which may become an invaluable business asset in after life."

In appraising the value of this privilege, it must be kept in mind that there are also some thirty large professional fraternities with one thousand chapters and about two hundred fifty thousand members. The professional fraternities have gained great strength in some professions, notably in law, medicine, and dentistry. These fraternities rigorously exclude Jews and Negroes, and have, in almost every profession, their Jewish and Negro counterparts. Of the members of my class in law school who belonged to my legal fraternity, at least fifty per cent were placed in various law offices after graduation through their fraternity connection. These legal fraternities also play an important role in advancing various "brothers" to the bench.

On the undergraduate level, the control exercised over the economic and social "plums" of our society can be enormous. A statistical breakdown of the opportunities in the industrial, financial, medical

Rushing?

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

Rushing is over. The smoke has cleared away, but the smoldering embers remain in the minds of the freshmen who were rebuffed by the fraternity system. Let us hope that these embers also will cool and drift away as harmless smoke.

The heartbreak and damaged morale of those who did not make the grade is tragically apparent to another freshman like myself, who cannot help but observe the varied reactions of his new friends who failed to get final bids.

Jones, a tough football player, crying himself to sleep. Johnny, a friendly little guy, shaking his head and looking down when you ask him if he was accepted by the house of his choice. Seeing him drop out of the lunch line a minute later, head still down, and walk quietly back to the dorm. Only then do you realize that he was not accepted by any house.

Joe, one of the boys in the next entry, a swell fellow, got a preferential bid from a certain fraternity, accepted it, and put that fraternity down as his first choice when he got a final bid from them. The shock must have been pretty terrific when he went to the Jesup Hall bulletin board and discovered that he was going to the Garfield Club for dinner that night.

I was one of the lucky ones. I am now pledged to what I consider the finest fraternity on the campus, and my life here will be greatly enriched as a result of this. But if either Jones, Johnny, or Joe feels that he is a social outcast and crawls into a shell from which he may never completely emerge, then I shall seriously ask myself if the advantages which I am enjoying as a member of a fraternity are sufficient to overbalance the damage which the system as a whole will have inflicted. I wish I could be certain that my three friends will make the necessary adjustments, so that I shall not have to ask myself that question.

Boom - Ta, Bah

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

One of the most colorful organizations of any educational institution, large or small, is (or should be) its instrumental band. Today, at Williams, the majority of the supposedly spirited student body ignores this point and reflects no more about it until it has an opportunity to mock its size as the vaillant musicians attempt to spur both the team and supporters to greater heights.

Here again, the reader may chuckle because the word musician is included. Many of the band's members have had a minimum of experience, realize the profound need for a larger band, and they therefore deserve a maximum of credit. A football band can be one of the most impressive parts of a football game, but it must have size, as well as intensity and quality, to take part in a program of marching routines.

During the past week a group of approximately 25 players showed up for rehearsal, all of which means that Williams College will once again allow the opposition's marching assemblage to monopolize the vital between-halves program with demonstrations that will certainly enhance the morale of the rival student body and thus give their team more encouraging support. Nobody can blame poor publicity as the cause of such a poor turnout which is a disgrace to us all, for notices were posted throughout the college. In other words, fellow Williamsmen, we can help a team which, along with its new coach, deserves a great ovation for its splendid performances that lead many of us to visions of a successful season.

There is no excuse for a college of over 1100 men to equip a band of only 25 pieces. Many high-school outfits of twice as many men have come from schools half our size. In many schools, it is an honor to be able to play with a musical organization. There is a large percentage of men at Williams today that do, or have played instruments. It matters little whether one is expert or not. We should have a marching band of three times the present group's size — a band that should literally "bow! its spectators over" with both voice and instrumental arrangements. It is no shame to be a band member. One can meet fellows he never knew before and have a good time in playing with them and forming a distinguished outfit. To show his interest, Mr. Shainman, just recently arrived at Williamstown to teach music history, is willing to bolster the band with his trumpet playing and musical knowledge. Freshmen can get in on the ground work of a unit that promises to be pretty lively with undergraduate support. Every fellow who can play at all should give the brass cheering squad a hand.

Two hours of rehearsal a week are no hardship. With your girls beside you free-of-charge, you can blast the ears off Amherst and Wesleyan. If we let the team know we're behind them all the way, they'll scatter the rest of them to the winds!

Who Is At Fault?

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

Dean Brooks recently talked to the social units in order to present justification for his action concerning houseparties on the Williams Campus. His point to soften the blow of penalty to those houses who did not actually participate in the indiscretions of last spring was that the mere belonging of a fraternity to a system of fraternities assumes responsibility for actions of any of the components. With this the "innocents" seemed somewhat mollified. The Dean further contended the soundness of the penalty since none of the houses showed promise of self-handling—they imputed no specific individuals; nor did the UC present any convincing defense for the social groups. This has been done, it is fact. But why was the offense committed? And moreover, who is at fault?

It also became apparent in the Dean's talk that there was an impending danger and threat to the survival of the fraternity system, which had been growing during the post-war years by means of outside pressure to quite serious proportions. It would seem that we haven't been doing too awfully well in taking care of ourselves and the jolly alumni resent it. But the point is that this fact was never made clear to the UC, or so its president informs me. This is the fault of the administration and the Dean should be scolded for it. Had the UC known, would it have been careful in making it common knowledge? That is somewhat of a conjecture-raising poser, for the UC itself hasn't been too much on the ball of recent months in this respect: it doesn't seem to make much effort at contacting the general student body. In fact the conjunction of these two elements is damn high negligible. Since the average student will react much better to a proposition from the UC than it will to "auto-suggesting", it is the fault of the UC for not keeping in closer touch. This condition mentioned above is a natural one only in the initial stages of indoctrination of students to the ways of self government. They should be the ones to present questions when they realize their position. True, the UC tells the incoming class that its function is to govern democratically the student body. But how alien and distant this seems to the incoming Frosh who finds himself in entirely new surroundings and feels, perhaps, a bit unsure of himself. This point of the position of the UC should be driven home later during the Freshman's stay at Williams.

But the most basic source of fault lies within the individual Joe College Doaks. It is the lack of respect of self that allows such actions to take place as characterized the recent houseparty... and it is the lack of respect for any form of unity within the college. This unity being that horrible term "spirit." This uninterest in respect, either for self or for the social order come from many things—losses on the football field to intolerance between societies on the campus. These are supplemented by the feeling of many vets that this is the place to have a hell of a good time after their spree in the forces—"nuts to any semblance of authority or lines of control," they say. This feeling sways many of the younger members of the classes who ordinarily would not feel this. Likewise it is due to laziness on the part of many in assuming their roles as "active citizens in a working community." Furthermore, any competition on the campus is solely selfish—for the individual's benefit alone and not for the good of anything outside of his own self. These are reasons for the lack of self respect on the part of many. This results in 1948 Spring Houseparties. And it is their fault.

But there is a solution which is simple and depends only on the cooperation of the student body. We are now fully aware that the administration means business; we should be in a receptive mood for amendment. Let us accept the penalty gracefully and at the same time may we begin adjustment.

First: the administration must have confidence in the UC and in the student body.

Second: The UC must keep in closer contact with the undergraduates by means of house meeting reports from the UC representative. These should be frequent and detailed.

Third: The individual must reorganize some self-respect and social respect. Those who would say to hell with lines of authority should realize that they are qualified to maintain these lines. Those who are lazy must stir themselves to a point of active interest. Competition among individuals should become selfless—for the good of the college and not for their own egos.

These steps will not take place in that order. Rather, let the UC prod, let the students respond; then will the administration have confidence in both, and justifiably so. Williams will become a finer place because of this and the question "who is at fault" will be a thing of the past.

Eph Soccer Team Snatches Opener From Dutchmen, 3-1

Purple Completely Outclasses Union

Donnelly, Mikell, Kent Tally; Palmieri Stars

Scoring all three goals in the first half, the Williams soccer team won its opening game of the season over Union at Schenectady on Saturday by a 3-1 score.

Although Williams dominated the play throughout the game, it took two nice saves on penalty kicks by goalie Jerry Palmieri to seal the victory.

Williams Scores First

Captain Frank Donnelly opened the scoring seven minutes after the game had begun, with a shot from thirty feet out, after a center by Dick Manning and a head by Mayshark, to put Williams in the front. Right before the end of the first quarter, Bob Johnston scored as he got a beautiful kick off after a center by Manning, but his shot bounced off the goal.

Kent made the score 2-0 midway through the second period, scoring from in close after a center by Ted Prescott. A minute later, Union had a chance to get back in the ball game, as they were awarded a penalty kick. George Palmieri made a nice save on the shot and Williams held a 2-0 lead.

Mikell Scores

Seven minutes later, Ted Prescott got in another nice center, which Bill Mikell converted for a score, to put Williams ahead 3-0. A minute and a half before the end of the first half, Union's center-forward, Les Canez, who sparked the Union offense throughout the game, picked up a center and drilled a shot home, to make the score 3-1, and end the scoring for the day.

Throughout the second half neither side could dent the nets, but again, it took another save by goalie Palmieri on a second penalty kick midway through the third quarter to protect the two goal lead.

Donnelly Shines

Throughout the game, Captain Donnelly, who played center-half most of the way, shifting to center-forward near the end, sparked the play. Playing a tremendous game on both offense and defense, he was all over the field, keeping Williams rolling.

Aside from Donnelly's outstanding game, the play of George Kneass at right half, Rog Dickinson at fullback, and Cy Mayshark on the forward line stood out, providing the margin of difference between the two teams.

Fast Start

Following the pattern of the previous week's practice game, Williams again started fast at the beginning of the game, but slowed down as the game progressed. The Ephs dominated the play and were never seriously threatened, but their passing still lacked accuracy and the play was often very ragged.

For Union, this was their first intercollegiate game, since they just started soccer formally this year, although they had an informal team last year. The Garnets were sparked throughout by center forward Les Canez and half-back Cy Hopkins.

Massachusetts Next

Williams will face the University of Massachusetts next Saturday on Cole Field. They lost to this team a year ago by a 3-2 score, and this year's game ought to be one of the toughest for the Ephs.

Varsity Coach Bell Reveals Athletic Past

To Len Watters' hardworking linemen the voice and figure of big, red-headed Frank Bell have become familiar Cole Field landmarks in the past month. To the rest of the college, however, the new assistant football coach is still pretty much of an unknown quantity and it took some persistent prodding by a Record reporter to come up with the record of his remarkable athletic background.

Holding the lead he took early in the week, Bucky Marchese's 154 took medalist honors in the annual fall golf championship. Bill Rodie added a sparkling sub-par round of 72 to his first round of 88 for a 36 hole total of 158. Rodie's second round was four strokes lower than any single round shot during the qualifying.

In the third and fourth slots were Tom Hodgman and defending champion Dick Heuer, both at 160. Fourteen men qualified for the match play part of the tournament and the two remaining places in the flight of sixteen will be filled out with byes. All first round matches must be played by Sunday.

The scores of the fourteen qualifiers are as follows:

his father forced him to leave college after his freshman year and he worked until 1934 when he entered the University of Illinois. In '36 and '37 he played first string end for Illinois' great coach Bob Zuppke. The '37 team held Notre Dame to a scoreless tie which is quite an accomplishment for any ball club. Illinois starred a hockey team in Frank's senior year and again he was a first stringer, this time under the present Illinois football coach, Ray Elliot. Among his athletically inclined classmates at the University, Frank recalls a baseball and basketball player named Lou Boudreau who has done rather well for himself since graduation.

Frank returned to the east in 1938 and became baseball, basketball and football coach at Williston Academy which is pretty good going for a guy just out of college. He was appointed athletic director in '42 but joined the Navy instead.

Ten Battlestars

After being trained in ex-Navy Coach Tom Hamilton's athletic program for naval aviators he went abroad the U.S.S. Princeton as athletic officer. He later became assistant navigator and senior watch officer and by the time the Princeton went down in the latter stages of the war he had collected ten battlestars for major engagements in the Pacific.

Frank returned to Illinois in '45 to manage the Illinois Foundation and remained there until he was called to Williams last spring to coach football, varsity hockey and freshman lacrosse.

On the more personal side, Frank was married in '45 and is now the proud father of a potential end for another undefeated Len Watters' team.

Football - - -

Midway in the third chapter the Hilltoppers made their third T.D. of the afternoon when Eblen slithered off tackle at the Williams 41, was set free by some thunderous Trinity blocks and raced untouched to pay dirt. DePaolis' attempted conversion was wide of the crossbars but the Blue and Gold held a 20-0 margin. At the close of the third stanza the Hilltoppers again crossed the Eph frontier. Kunkiewicz kicked from the Trinity 40 over the Purple's goal line. On the Purple's first play Duffield was stopped for no gain by the Blue and Gold's line. A Duffield pass to Winky Smythe was good for 8 yards but as Kunkiewicz made the tackle he stole the ball from Smythe. Kunkiewicz got the ball from center on the next play lateraled to Carroll in motion to the right who threw a pass to Pitkin in the end zone for the fourth Hilltopper touchdown. DePaolis' kick was wide of the mark and the score stood 26-0.

The final Trinity touchdown came when Ratcliffe the center of the Blue and Gold aggregation intercepted a Duffield pass, that was meant for Fritzle Zeller, on the Hilltopper 15. Eblen broke off tackle on the next play and raced eighty-five yards for the score. Sharp and decisive Trinity blocking was again the big factor in breaking loose this high stepping speedster. DePaolis made his boot good for the Hilltopper's thirty-third point.

Fisher Scores

The Billville Bruisers came storming back and the Purple attack which had been gaining ground around midfield but seemed to sputter inside Trinity territory came to life as the Ephs marched from their five to cross the Trinity goal. Delisser took Noonan's kick off and raced from the Williams five to the thirty-six before he was downed. A penalty on the Hilltoppers for unnecessary roughness moved the ball inside Trinity territory to the forty-nine. Bob Hunt made a first down on the thirty two as he raced around left end. Pete Delisser made three off right end, then Hunt cut off end for nine more and another first down on the Twenty yard line. Delisser picked up another yard as he smashed off tackle and then Pete Fisher took over. Carrying the ball on four consecutive plays Pete bulled his way across the goal for the Ephs only score.

Rockwood Cup Play Begins

78 Enter Tournament; Robinson Top-Seeded

With 78 men entered, the 1948 Rockwood Cup tennis tournament got under way last week in the Sage Hall courts.

Last year the cup was won by Stuart Robinson '50, who is top-seeded this year. Other seeded players include Charles E. Schaaf '50, Fred Scribner '49, Richard M. Palmer '50, Peter P. Thurber '50, George Wright '49, Joseph Takamine '49, and Dudley M. Irwin '50.

The cup was donated in 1920 by Mrs. R. L. Rockwood in memory of her son, Richard Rockwood '18. A fund of $1000 was established to provide a cup for the winner of the singles championship of the fall tennis tournament. Rockwood was a member of the college tennis team for three years and in 1916 was on the team that won the Intercollegiate championship. He was killed in France in September, 1918.

There has been some difficulty in recent years in obtaining the cups, because the company that manufactures them has stopped production of the particular model.

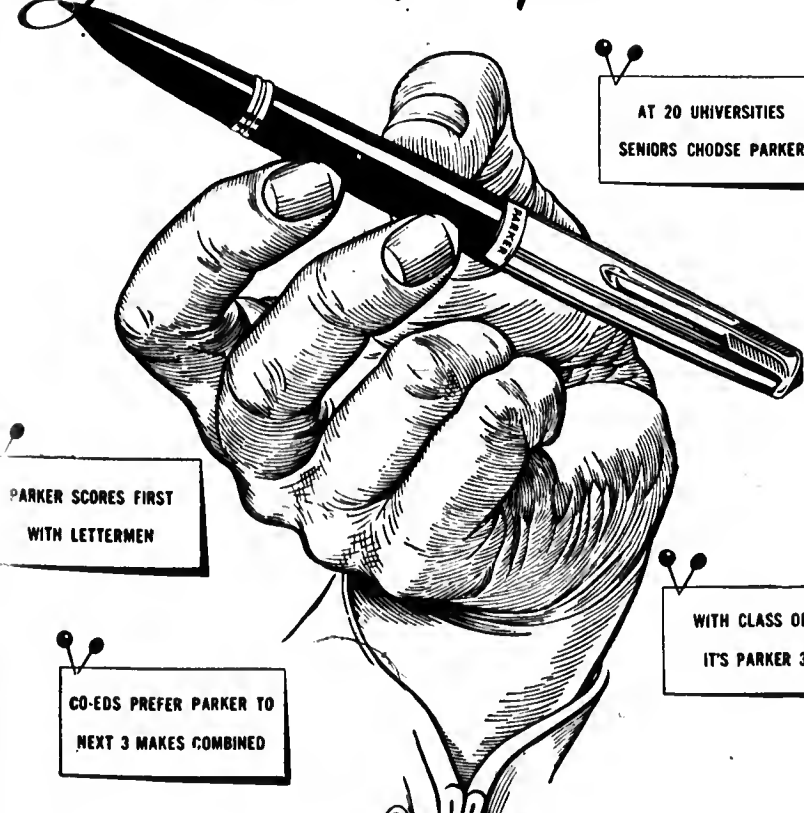

The second round matches are to be completed by 6:00 p.m. Wednesday, October 6. The finals will be held Monday, Oct. 19.

The Ephmen were beaten by an older more experienced team. It is to the Purple's credit however, that they never knew they were licked until the final whistle but kept fighting back with a spirit that all Williams men can be justly proud. The Trinity eleven showed superior reserve strength substituting backs and linemen that were almost as capable as their first team. The Ephmen missed Captain Dick Whitney who was out with a bad knee as well as linemen Ed Green and Bronnie Fargo who figured to be important cogs in the Purple frontier once they recover from leg injuries.

ical and legal, advertising, and journalistic fields afforded to the highly selected individuals "tapped" over the years by the three top secret Yale honorary societies, Skull and Bones, Scroll and Keys, and Wolf's Head, would tell an amazing story. Add now the fact that only one Jew has been admitted to these societies in a history of decades, although in the past twenty years Yale's enrollment of Jews has been around fifteen per cent—many obviously of high talent. The picture among the honorary societies in other major colleges is not markedly different. The relation of fraternity exclusiveness to economic privilege needs little further spelling out. That this relationship is an open secret to every undergraduate is obvious; and it is just as obvious that the system plays a crucial role in reinforcing the connection between social and business success and discrimination which runs like an ugly pattern through American life. In a thousand subtle and not-so-subtle ways the fraternity house is a training school in undemocratic doctrine and practice.

Nor should it be overlooked that the fraternity privilege tends to be hereditary. In my own acquaintance, I know of many cases in which three generations of the same family have belonged to the same social fraternity. And though the line of family succession may be often broken, the social class succession is firm and far-reaching. Graduation from certain preparatory schools will insure a pledge from certain fraternities, and membership in these fraternities will subsequently insure a pledge from certain professional fraternities.

"Herald" Fabricates HP Story Face-Saving Action Backfires

Williams' Damper Put On 'Wet' Parties

A special dispatch to the Herald from Williamstown, Oct. 4—Because it looks like a "wet weekend," Oct. 23, fall house parties at Williams College have been cancelled and a curfew has been imposed on dances to be held instead, Dean R. R. Brooks announced today in a statement to the college newspaper.

Brooks explained that the house party problem had been developing since the war and that fraternities had not only failed to regulate their own activities but the student government failed to adopt "minimum rules of general conduct". Because of what the dean termed a "particularly wet weekend," seven fraternities were placed on social probation after the house party last spring.

This "special dispatch" appeared in bold-face type in a box at the top of page 1 of the "Boston Herald" last Tuesday. The story from which it was fabricated appeared one day earlier in the "North Adams Transcript," and subsequently in the "Springfield Union" and the "New York Times." It was sent to the latter on the wires of Associated Press.

This may be only a partial list of the papers which have carried the story. The news has been aired over at least one radio station.

Misquotes Record

The story is decidedly a concoction by someone who stood to profit by space obtained in the "Herald's." It not only misquotes Dean Brooks and the record, but misrepresents the whole purpose of the curfew and house party ban. Attempts to trace the story to the original source of its release have been unsuccessful.

In the first place, Dean Brooks made it clear that the regulations were the result of a series of incidents which have occurred over the last two years, not, as the opening paragraph of the "Herald" item would indicate, because of a "wet weekend" was anticipated this fall.

No "Wet Weekend"

Secondly, at no time, last spring when seven houses were put on social probation or in the latest announcement, did the Dean ever use the term "a particularly wet weekend" in a statement for publication in the Record. Nor did the Record itself coin such a term.

It is too bad that an action directed toward saving the reputation of the college should have exactly the opposite effect, due to such flagrant misquoting of authority and misrepresentation of facts.

Bowdoin Plan Now Operating

Student Tax Lower Than Initial Estimate

Three European students are, or will be studying at Williams as a result of adoption of the so called Bowdoin Plan by the Undergraduate Council and administration. Both Borje Dannfelt of Sweden and Adolph Gessner of Germany are at Williams already, and a Finnish student, Kaarlo Huittikka, is expected to arrive this week.

Although the original plan provided that the school would take in five foreign students this year, Professor Robert J. Allen, foreign students' adviser at Williams, Director of Admissions Frederick C. Copeland, and Dean Robert R. Brooks were able to select only three undergraduates through the Institute of International Education. The IIE places and handles the applications of most exchange students in both America and Europe.

Tax

As adopted by the college last year, the Bowdoin Plan provides the college will waive tuition for the students. Each of them will eat for periods of about two weeks in each of the fraternities and the Garfield Club, and the social units will absorb the cost of board.

Although it was planned that dormitory expenses would be paid by an undergraduate tax of one dollar, it probably will not be necessary to charge that much, according to Harry James Finke, '50 acting chairman of the college chapter of the National Student Association which is undertaking the indoctrination of the foreign students at Williams.

At present Dannfelt, is eating and sleeping at the Phi Sig house, while Gessner, is living at Currier Hall and eating at Delta Psi. When Huittikka arrives, he will room in Greylock Hall, and eat at the AD house.

Lecture Program Under New Group

Committee Anticipates Increased Attendance

The merger of the Spring Conference Committee with the Lecture Committee, saving the student body approximately $1000, has been announced by Hubert R. Hudson F-49, acting chairman of the newly formed committee.

"The two committees were merged as a result of the poor student attendance at the seventh annual Spring Conference last year," Hudson said. Under the present system fewer and better lecturers will appear at the college speaking on subjects directly integrated with college courses. It is hoped that undergraduates will take a more active participation in the lecture program this year.

"Undergraduates are invited to send in any suggestions as to the lecturers they would prefer to hear," continued Hudson. "We will also welcome any members of the freshman, sophomore, and junior classes who would care to join the committee." At present the members consist of those who belonged to either of the two committees last year, plus faculty advisers S. Lane Faison, Emile Despres, Freeman Foote, Joseph E. Johnson, and Roy Lamson.

What Price Discipline?

The answer: The loss of student government.

Last spring, The Williams Record followed the administration and a view prevalent among Williams students that repetition of the houseparty incident would be most undesirable. We agreed that something must be done and something was done via the medium of student government.

Returning to the campus this fall, the students and The Record learned that the administration deemed a stricter ruling necessary. Because we felt the cause of this ruling was student irresponsibility, we followed the party line and suggested that the ruling be accepted in good faith and followed to the letter as just recompense for our misconduct.

The line must be drawn here.

When we learned that such rulings were not going to follow the law-making procedure of student government, the fallacy became evident. Initially agreeing with the ruling, we also felt that such matters would eventually be placed in the hands of the Undergraduate Council. It now appears that such is not the case in practice although much emphasis is being laid on the fact that we still maintain student government.

Two committees, the heart of the UC, are now virtually non-functional.

The constitution of the UC reads:

Article VI--Standing Committees

Section 2. On Discipline.

a. This committee shall recommend rules and execute necessary action arising from any infringement of rules laid down by the Council, and shall recommend action to the College administration, on matters rising from infringement of college rules.

Section 6. Entertainment.

a. This committee shall supervise all college and social unit entertainment activities.

Obviously the value of these committees is now almost nil. And of what value is the UC when these powers have been revoked? We feel there is none.

This is the region where the real gripe of the students exists. It is not a question of "discipline or not," but from where should the discipline emanate.

It has been repeated in many newspapers throughout the east that the ban was laid because present rules of conduct are inadequate and because the student government has failed to meet an undesirable situation. In the main this is true. There are, however, several major points of discrepancy.

Primarily, the social probation laid down by the discipline committee last year was never given the opportunity to prove either adequate or inadequate. Secondly, a ruling that the entertainment committee should have control over all social activities and that all social units would have to report to the entertainment committee before giving an organized party was never given the opportunity to function.

If the rule existed and was practiced whereby all social units must report their activities before they are held and are either given sanction or disapproval by the UC, then any individual misdemeanor could be punished by the discipline committee. This procedure would then distinguish between the guilty and the innocent. The examples made of the guilty under such proceedings would carry considerably more weight than the present law whereby the innocent are guilty until proven innocent. That principle of law is not practiced in the United States.

Obviously, under such a set-up, the UC would have to be comprised of men who would be willing to act when the situation demanded action--regardless of how stringent the punishment must be. During the past few years, the UC has been unwilling to assume such responsibility. If we are to save student government, they must be willing to act now.

Fundamentally, however, the administration must be willing to delegate the power to the UC now.

Key Presents Towne Tonight

First Fall Ball Starts At 8 p. m. In Lasell

Presenting Skip Towne, his drums and his seven mad music makers as the feature attraction, the Purple Key Society will kick off with the biggest ball of the fall social season, the annual Football Dance, at 8 p.m. tonight in the Lasell Gymnasium.

The dance is sponsored by the Williams managerial group in an attempt to partially finance the football training table, otherwise paid for by the players themselves. Tickets are currently on sale at the social units, and will be sold at the door tonight at the prevailing price of $1.80 stag, $2.40 a couple, tax and a grand time for all included.

Strictly Informal

A strictly informal affair, the program of dancing and entertainment will be continuous from 8-12 p.m., due to radio commitments. Station WBEC in Pittsfield will broadcast the entire intermission program as well as many of the dance numbers.

Featured performers with the seven-piece band, a young group skyrocketing to widespread popularity in the Boston area, are Skip Towne himself, New England champion drummer for six straight years, and vocalist Joanne Dailey, who formerly sang with the bands of Charlie Spivak and Jack Edwards.

Bennington, Too

Backing up this solid line of entertainers will be the star-studded Bennington Octet, making its first appearance on Williams fields this year as a special between-the-halves feature. Also during intermission, Skip will present a unique solo drum number done with ultra-violet light so that the only visible illumination is on the hands of the drummer and his sticks.

Although Skip's reputation is largely based on his work with the drums, his band is expected to supply an abundance of smooth music for dancing, and has made See DANCE, Page 4

Bureau Receives New Equipment

Competitions Closed At Present Time

The Williams News Bureau has acquired a new, modernized teletype machine which can transmit and receive messages, according to News Bureau president William Barney '49.

By using this machine, the News Bureau will have a direct wire to any newspaper in the country. Due to difficulties in arrangements with Western Union and with the telephone company, there will be about a week delay before the teletypewriter will be installed.

The News Bureau, the official public relations organ of the college, "released more news last year than in any previous year in college history," said Barney. "We hope to do even better this year."

Positions on the News Bureau staff are limited to eighteen men. They report all phases of campus activities, including those of individuals as well as group activities of general interest. Due to the unusual number of men remaining from last year's staff there will be no competition for the News Bureau this fall. One or two places may be open later in the year.

Bluejays' Line Heavy; Backs Fleet, Shifty

Heavy Practices Mark Purple's Preparation For Today's Tussle

Determined to bounce back from last Saturday's defeat at the hands of a speedy Trinity team, Coach Len Watters' gridmen square off at 2 p.m. today against Champlain College.

It will be the Purple's second attempt to win a game on Weston Field this year. Also, it could turn into quite a scrap, for although Champlain dropped its opener to Clarkson, 19-13, the Bluejays demonstrated that they also know how to win games by edging St. Michaels last Saturday, 7-6.

Big Bluejay Forward Wall

The Champlain eleven is big and rough; the line averages about 200 pounds. The Bluejays use a T-formation, with a slight variation in a winged-T. Last Saturday they ground their single touchdown by making a 70-yard march to paydirt, without throwing a pass. Fullback Hal Dragan doing most of the ball-carrying. When they reached the four-yard line, quarterback Don McIntyre stepped back and flipped a short pass to right end Mario Santangelo in the end zone.

Aside from this, little is known about the Bluejays. Dragan is a hard runner, a halfback named Alex Lodge is quite fast, and a negro, named Gance, is fast and very shifty. They have a good team, and should give the Purple plenty of opposition this afternoon.

Ephmen Prepare

Here in the Purple camp, Coach Watters continues to put the team through busy sessions, ironing out the mistakes of last Saturday's play, and stressing, as always, blocking and tackling. Plenty of hard work looms as the prescription for future victories. The Purple is doing just that—hard work.

Starters for this afternoon's clash will be much the same as last week's combination. Mitch Fish or Dave Jackson will start at left end, and Bud Cool or John Reynolds, depending on whether Williams starts the game offensively or defensively, will be the right wingman. Tackle slots will be manned by bulwarks Marty Detmer and Bob Genlesse. It will be either Ernie Mierzejewski or Hank Strong at running guard and big Don Ratcliffe at short-side guard. Either Dan Mahoney or Dick Wallace will handle the pivot post.

Purple Ball-Toters

In the backfield either Fritz Zeller or Whit Fiske will start at right half, and Stu Duffield, ably backed up by Pete DeLisser, at left half. Jack French and Howie Smith will share quarterback duties in the absence of Captain Dick Whitney. Pete Fisher is on the program at fullback.

For the Bluejays it will be Ron Smith and Santangelo at the ends, Hoover and Pete Ginesi at the tackles, Puopolo and Frank Yodice, the guards, and Larry Chamberlain at center. In their backfield, McIntyre and Dragan are quarterback and fullback, respectively, with the halfback berths being filled by Lodge and Bill Powell.

Letters To The Editor

Good Publicity

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

There is no doubt that the acute problem of student conduct and general behavior must be solved.

We feel that the steps being taken do not serve this purpose.

The ultimate goal is the clearing of the college's name. President Baxter has repeatedly stressed this point. However, the action taken by the administration seems to have overlooked it.

Our basis for making this statement lies in the following assertions:

(1) The surest way to do further damage to the college's reputation is through publicity. The rules laid down by the administration have already caused such bad publicity and left us open to public ridicule. This has done more harm than any social errors committed by the student body.

(2) The reputation of Williams College does not arise solely from conduct on the campus. The good name of the College depends largely upon the character traits displayed by Williams' graduates throughout their lives. Responsibility, individuality, and integrity should be developed at the educational institution. We feel that the administration's action will deprive the undergraduate of the opportunity to acquire these traits. Living in an atmosphere of arbitrary rules and regulations necessarily produces immaturity in the individual.

It is our opinion, therefore, that if the administration is desirous of protecting the reputation of Williams College it has taken an unrealistic point of view.

The only manner in which this problem can be solved is through a mature appeal to the student body, AS INDIVIDUALS. We feel sure that there will be quite a different attitude towards social conduct now that the seriousness of the matter has been demonstrated.

If certain individuals or social units remain delinquent they can be punished in exactly the same manner without the rules that have been laid down.

There is no doubt that the student body will abide by these curfew regulations; however, we are firmly convinced that they are neither a proper nor adequate solution.

Chaste?

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

The die perhaps is cast, but I feel sufficiently strong on the subject to wish to bring to mind a few implications imbedded in the recent houseparty ruling.

Granted the present ruling will bring cheers from certain sectors and probably will help to restoring the good name of the college in the eyes of the unimaginative few who fail to take a realistic view of the future. But I must ask a question. Which is more important; the immediate restoration of the college name, or the future well-being of the students.

Perhaps the answer to this question is that the students should look to their studies and forget the rather base and frivolous past-time of playing host to the young ladies of Smith, Vassar, Bennington, or Wellesley. But this, I think you will agree, is an opinion held by an astounding few.

To look at the situation realistically, it seems to me that if it is no longer possible to entertain at the social units beyond the chaste hour of ten, a student has no alternative but to seek out one of the spots in the surrounding country designed to do this for him.

Agreed there is no excuse for drinking one's self into oblivion, but the state surveys show that two drinks are enough to impair one's reactions, and it is to this situation that I wish to draw attention without being too melodramatic.

It seems to me that in driving the students off campus the college is creating a situation far more dangerous, and in the long run far more detrimental to its name than has heretofore arisen. Drinking and driving do not mix, and it seems to me a rather grave step to force the two together. Is it not far better to drink at home and eliminate this obvious pitfall? Houseparties are not a drinking orgy, and I do not wish to convey that impression, but drinking is involved, and it is best to remain cognizant of that fact.

The recent fraternity talks by Dean Brooks and President Baxter came to many of the students as quite a surprise. We were, on the whole, unaware that the college considered the situation in such a desperate state. The blame for this lack of knowledge may be laid at several door steps, but that is a thing of the past. I think that if the Dean and the President had come to the students, explained the situation, and asked their cooperation they would have received unanimous support. We would all rather have the situation resting on our own shoulders, be responsible for our brethren, and as a social unit be answerable to the dean than be victims of a ruling designed to frustrate the action of a lascivious few.

Although it would be distasteful to all concerned, it would seem far better to me to have a chaporone in the social units to watch over the good name of the college, than to have the students scattered about the three states.

To me the freedom surrounding various social activities on campus has always been a point of which I was exceedingly proud, and indeed boastful. I think the members of most houses feel the same way. We have nothing to be ashamed of; if the college deems it necessary, let them send responsible people to check.

Now that the student body realizes the situation let's give every house a chance to look after itself, instead of taking the negative stand and saying you are impairing our good name and "Get off the campus."

I realize that if the Record published an article proving the world was round, the following issue would contain at least one rebuttal. I have not tried to cover every aspect of the situation but merely to point out one flaw in the present regulations. The college to my mind has taken a negative point of view. It is protecting its own name at the expense of the students. Either of the two aforementioned solutions, it seems to me, are preferable.

You Didn't Stand Alone

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

I was one of many alumni and others who wondered how in the world it was possible to mess things up so completely in selling tickets for the Trinity game on Saturday afternoon.

There was only one person selling tickets despite the fact that there are three windows at the gate house and it certainly is not good publicity for the college to have such a barrage of unfavorable comment as I heard. There must be some way of speeding up the sale of tickets.

Uncle Eph's Worm Farm

D Lighto de Moon

It looks as if Dean Brooks' noble attempt to save the reputation of Williams has backfired. No houseparty since the war ever made page 1 of the Boston Herald. Not to mention the Transcript, the Springfield Union, the Berkshire Eagle and the New York Times. The public relations department could use a good man.

TIP TO THE DEAN: If the curfew doesn't work out, the Dean might try the idea of a group on medical students in London, Ontario, who built a machine to test kiss intensity. If any "specialized" type of kissing goes on, the machine hoists a red flag and a sign saying "tilt."

He could install one in every house connected to a central control panel. If things got too hot he could easily rush over to the offending party and slap a padlock on the door.

The dean in London banned the machine, which might be a clue for any med school applicants who want a change of social climate.

OLD, ESTABLISHED FIRM: A football pool currently being peddled on campus, carries this legend: This card is to be used as news matter only, and as a trade stimulator. The proprietor advertises business "Since 1940."

COMPETITION: The North Adams Transcript ran this headline last week:

NORTH ADAMS WETTEST PLACE IN BERKSHIRES

Seems they never drove up Route 2 on a houseparty weekend. Or it might be that Williams boys aren't so nasty after all.

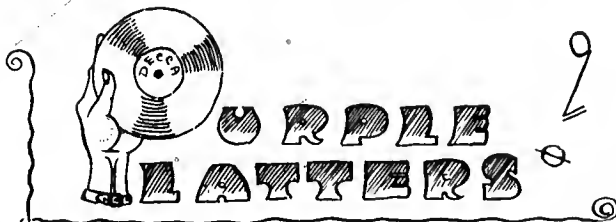

The same paper ran a prelude on the Williams - Trinity game which opened: "With Drury playing away, it is expected that a good sized delegation of grid enthusiasts from this city will attend the contest to get a look at the Purple eleven performing under Len Walters, it's new coach."

We bet that most of the grid enthusiasts ran right back to "the city" when they saw what the Williams AA was charging for a look at their new uniforms.

COLLEGE YOUTH: It's good to see that old school spirit back on the Williams campus. The little prank which occurred the night of the frosh-soph riot is an example of what we mean. A bunch of the boys in a long black convertible hitched a rope to the former airplane behind the power plant and towed it onto Weston Field. But Mr. Mills' boys had it dragged off by game time.

Bob Mahoney did his bit after the game was over. He even had Dean Brooks in there pitching.

TURNABOUT: Tired of spending their time sitting on hard seats and taking notes, six World Federalists recently tried dishing it out for a day in Troy high schools. Giles Kelly, Hal Reynolds, Gilbert Mason, Howard Cadmus, Arthur Strong, and Richard Goodman taught classes and showed flicks to boost the movement.

We can truthfully say that "Purple Platters" is off to a controversial start since last week's initial column evoked almost as much comment as the newly-announced houseparty ban.

And, like our rival news scoop, the comment was divided into the usual categories of praise and criticism. From some record fans we heard, "Say, it's a good idea, that record column," while from others came a few well-deserved critical remarks. With all due regard to Stan Kenton's ability as an arranger, the credit for a fine arranging job on "How High The Moon" should have gone to Neal Hefti, former Herman Trumpeter, and not to Kenton as we erroneously stated. This fact we learned from a reader, so continue to write in and give us your opinions along with any useful disc information.

You'll probably notice that we're concentrating on jazz platters, waxed by leading figures in the jazz field. This week's session at Walsh's was discouraging, but keep your hopes up for better records.

ERSKINE HAWKINS

Gabriel's Heater C-
I'd Love To Make Love To You C

"Heater" is a rather feeble attempt at big-band swing. The tune, written by Russ Case of NBC fame, is a simple riff featuring the brass section. None of the solos are outstanding with the exception of Erskine's final trumpet chorus which precedes a poor rhythm ending. The reverse side provides a showcase for Laura Washington's voice. Although she's no potential wonder, her cute style is satisfying. A bad tram chorus is offset once again by Erskine's fine horn. (Victor 20-2836)

COUNT BASIE

It's Monday Every Day D+
I've Only Myself To Blame C

This definitely is not the Basie band of a decade ago. Minus his All-American rhythm section, the Count's band is just another band. Both sides are handled amateurishly by Jeanne Taylor, who is evidently the Count's latest find; that is if she can be considered a find. The brass has been toned down and departs from the jump style which popularized Basie. Fortunately the saxes are well balanced and provide a good background for a fair tenor solo on "Blame." Still this is not the kind of music which Basie is noted for. Perhaps we were too good-natured in our rating. (Victor 20-2850)

SARAH VAUGHAN

It's Magic B-
It's You Or No One B-

Both of these discs are worth listening to since Sarah has one of the best female voices we've heard in a long time. Here she is backed up by Richard Maltby and his orchestra which features a mellow string section. "Magic", and for that matter, "You", both show why Sarah has become a consistent poll winner. Her rich tone is particularly good on two modulated endings. However, we wish she would remain in her own range which seems to be confined to a low scale rather than try to reach for high tones which sound too squealish. (Musicraft 557)

FRANKIE CARLE

Moondust Rhapsody C+
Sunrise Boogie C+

"Rhapsody" is one of Carle's more recent hits so his fans will doubtless disagree with our criticism which centers about the lack of any drive at all. Frankie comes in with a nice piano intro and is followed by a pleasing tenor chorus, but still the best that can be said here is that the band is a poor imitation of Glenn Miller or Claude Thornhill.

"Boogie" could be compared to Hawkins' "Heater" which we reviewed above because it is typical big-band swing except for an unexciting arrangement. Frankie displays his versatility and the rhythm section finally comes to life, but we find nothing to rave about. (Columbia 38175)

COLEMAN HAWKINS

On The Sunny Side Of The Street B+
Louise B-

The Hawk assembled a fine group for this session, but the results could be improved. "Sunny" features good tenor solos by the leader and Don Byas. Also Johnny Guarneri plays very fine piano with a Tatum touch, but Harry Carney's bary chorus is still in the rough stage. "Louise," an old standard, highlights the group more and is sparked by a terrific rhythm quartet although acoustics over accentuate Sid Catlett's drumming. Once again the Hawk takes a few interesting measures along with Tab Smith, great alto man, but Guarneri is not up to par. (Keynote 1308)

Booters Seek Second Win

Face Strong U. Mass. Squad At 1 Today

Fresh from their 3-1 victory over Union last week, the Williams soccer team will take the field against a strong University of Massachusetts team this afternoon at 2 on Cole Field.

Although the Purple booters were quite easily over Union last week, Coach Bullock has stressed that the opposition will be much tougher this Saturday and has warned the team against overconfidence.

Eleven Lettermen
There will be eleven lettermen from last year's University of Massachusetts squad, which led out the 1947 Eph team by a 2-0 score. Heading these veterans is one of the best goalies in New England, Ed McGrath.

Each Larry Brigg's Massachusetts aggregation has played one game this season, losing last week to Dartmouth by a 2-0 score. The Indians, however, have one of the strongest teams in this area and were played even by Massachusetts except for two goals in the third quarter.

Revised Line-up
In practice this week, Coach Bullock has been working with a revised line-up, with Ted Prescott moving up from the reserves to the right wing position, and Manning shifting to an inside position. Tom Kent remains at center, Cy Mayshark on the other inside and Rick Fowle holding down the left wing. Bob Johnston, Larry Gourley and Bill McKel will spell these linesmen.

George Kneass, Frank Donnelly, John Bowen, Jim Crosby and Rolo Palmredo all will see action at halfback, while Rog Dickinson, Jerry Page, Wally Stern and Ralph Gomery will hold down the full-back posts. Jerry Palmieri and Milt Lester will alternate in the goal.

Passing Stressed
In an attempt to remedy the weaknesses that showed up in last week's victory over Union, Coach Bullock has been working on improving the team's passing. The passing in last Saturday's game was ragged even though the team won.

Football Tickets On Sale Monday

Student tickets for Union football game at Union on October 30 will be on sale at the gym office Monday, October 11 from 10-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. There are 300 seats available and will be sold out at this time.

Unsold tickets will be returned to Union. They are $2.00 each, tax included, and are in the Williams cheering section. Alumni who attend at Union makes this return of all unsold tickets and only one day of sales necessary.

Tickets for the Bowdoin game, October 16, will be on sale at the same time and place. In order to purchase one of these, however, you must bring with you your student athletic ticket and have it added to the Bowdoin ticket. This is necessary because the student tickets are cheaper than general admission.

Harriers Open Tough Slate Against Springfield College

With but two weeks of intensive practice, the varsity cross-country squad opens its season Saturday against a tough Springfield College team, runner-up in last fall's New England meet. The pack will start at 12:15 p.m. from the Lab Campus.

Coach Tony Plansky's forces will not be at full strength for the initial meet since Bill Kelton, who has been pacing the team since practice started may not compete because of serious foot trouble. Expected to be ready for

Golf Course 20 Years Old

This fall marks the twentieth anniversary of the Taconic Golf Club as an eighteen hole course operated under the jurisdiction of the college and the 53rd year in the entire history of the local links.

The course is one of the oldest in this part of the country as it appears to have had its beginnings in the distant year of 1895 when Edward Gale, James Ide, and William H. Doughty '98 laid out three holes, using tomato cans for cups, on what is now Weston field.

In the following year a new nine hole course was laid out which began by the present Alpha Delta Phi house and meandered out to near the present eleventh tee and back again. This course proved unsatisfactory, however, and in 1897 a longer nine holes were laid out on the western half of the land now used for the eighteen hole course and a farmhouse was remodeled into the present clubhouse.

The present 6515 yard layout, which is one of the best in this area, opened Labor Day, 1928, as a result of efforts of alumni and local residents intimately connected with the college. In 1927 the land was donated to the college by Mrs. W. Howard Doughty and Dr. Dennison.

Construction of the second nine holes was begun that August, largely through the effort of George Chett '96, president of the golf club, who underwrote the reconstruction project for $60,000. The funds were subsequently subscribed by Williams alumni in order to further the student's interest in the game and provide the golf team with a course on which to play home matches.

The Gymnasts are Captain Paul Cook at number two position, Kev Delany in the third slot with Phil Collins and George Dorion rounding out the first five.

Big Problem
Should Kelton be on the sidelines, Plansky will look for his fifth finisher to be either Ernie May, Pete Sylvester, or George Hutton. Since a team score is not tabulated until their fifth man has crossed the line, it is very necessary that all their scorers follow each other in fairly close fashion.

This will be Springfield's second meet, the Maroons having lost by a lop-sided margin to the powerful Rhode Island State Rams, New England champs. Leading Springfield will be Bobby Knowles, who finished a brilliant third in last season's New Englands.

Route of Pack
After the Lab Campus start, the course leads down Fraternity Row to South Street, where it turns left at the Zete house. The Harriers then stream onto the Taconic Golf Course and circle it twice before ending one of the East's toughest courses on the Weston Field track. The complete circuit covers a distance of 3.7 miles.

Tennis Tourn'ment In Third Round

All eight of the seeded players have advanced to the third round of the 1948 Rockwood Cup tennis tournament which is being held on the Sage Hall courts. In the second round top-seeded Stu Robinson '50 won by default from R. Rich '52. Second seeded Charlie Schaaf '50 downed R. E. Jones '52, 6-0, 6-4. Fred Scribner number three on the listings won by default from Hugh Hudson '49. The other seeded players who advanced were: Dick Palmer '50 over P. Mezey '52 6-1, 6-2; P. Thurber '50 defeated K. Morin '51, 3-6, 6-1, 6-0. George Wright '49 downed H. Kahn '52, 6-1, 6-0; Joe Takamine '49 won from Dick Cattell '51, 6-0, 6-1; Dud Irwin '50 defeated F. Geir '49, 6-0, 6-3.

Stu Robinson, who heads the listings, won the trophy last fall by defeating Charlie Schaaf in the final round. This year's final match will be played on Monday, October 19.

Jayvee Soccer Plays First Game Today

With soccer the only junior varsity sport in its fall program, the athletic department has arranged a three game schedule for this jayvee group which runs as follows:

Oct. 9	R.P.I.	home
Oct. 22	Wesleyan	away

Oct. 30 Amherst home
Coach Bob Muir announced that there is the possibility of a return match with R.P.I., but as yet no definite plans have been made. Approximately thirty men have been participating in daily workouts on Cole Field along with the varsity booters. Muir's jayvee contingent copped the Little Three crown in their league last year.

WMS To Broadcast Many New "Live" Programs Soon

Building toward a bigger and better future, WMS. Williams radio voice, has come up with several new productions designed to entertain and inform. Up in studio A production manager Howie Erskine, president Wally Barnes, and the WMS staff are hard at work on a variety of new programs soon to be aired over the local station. Not to be outdone, Chief Technical Director Nort Cushman reports that the control room also sports many new improvements.

The tentative schedule lists "live shows" Monday thru Thursday nights from 10 till 11. Last year's popular "Interfraternity Quiz" will take over the 10 p.m. spot on Mondays. Ray Baldwin and Alex Peabody will conduct. A new feature, "Hints to the Wolfpack", soon to be aired Tues. evenings at 10, boasts an anonymous lady named the "Huntress" as MC. The Huntress will give advice concerning love, women, and social problems to Williams students. Anyone desiring such advice can communicate with Williamstown's Mr. Anthony by dropping a postcard to WMS.

Coffee At Mike's

Bill Pinkham will follow up at 10:30 the same evening with the "Campus Hit Parade", an accurate survey of college record preferences, tabulated by juke box requests and record sales in Williamstown. Wednesday night Dick Vernie, star of last year's "Drinking Man" show, will return to the air with an all new program. The "Interfraternity Sing" is scheduled for the 10 o'clock spot on Thursdays, and a brand new program will make its debut at 10:30. The new feature "Coffeetime at Mike's", is billed as a variety show. Paul Williams will MC direct from Mike's College Restaurant and plans call for student interviews with free beer and coffee offered those interviewed. Undergrad record requests will intermingle with the interviews and WMS hopes to secure a band for the program later in the year.

In addition to new programs WMS will continue such popular '47-'48 shows as the "Concert Hour" (8:00-9:00, Monday thru Friday), complete news and sports coverage from the wires of the New York Times (9-9:15, Monday thru Friday), and the "Band of the Night" program, to be heard every evening at 9:15. Late evening semi-classical music will again be broadcast Mondays and Fridays from 10:30 till 11.

Record Headlines

The Record is sponsoring a new program, "Record Headlines," Mondays and Thursdays, 9:45 till 10. Record editors will discuss editorials and news stories and the comment they have aroused. A "Faculty Forum" and an interview program with campus activity heads are both scheduled for production in the near future.

Technically WMS will be markedly improved over last year. Two thousand dollars have been spent on new equipment, according to Pete Bigler, WMS assistant technician. The majority of this went for a new RCA console of the type used in FM stations throughout the country.

Dance - - -

a big hit in recent appearances at Harvard, Simmons, Wellesley, and several Boston hotels.

The dance is expected to assume the role of a victory celebration following the Williams-Champlain football game this afternoon. It is hoped that a great number of undergraduates and their dates will take time out to support the team by attending and thus giving the training table a helping hand in exchange for a full evening of entertainment.

Williams Romps 42-0 In Champlain Tilt

Death Of Charles Brock '50 Shocks College Community

Tragedy struck the Williams community early last Sunday morning when Charles Brock '50 was killed in an automobile accident while returning to Williams from North Adams with four companions.

Charles Randall Brock entered Williams with the class of 1948 after completing his freshman year. He entered the merchant marine and was on sea duty for two years. Upon leaving the merchant marine he was commissioned an ensign in the Naval Reserve. He returned to Williams in the fall of 1947 and started his junior year two weeks ago.

His father was graduated from Williams in 1915 and an elder brother Randlett Brock Jr. was graduated from Williams in 1946. Mr. Brock and his sons were members of Theta Delta Chi fraternity while at Williams, and Mr. Brock is now a trustee of the local chapter.

Charles was on the football team last season and was a reserve fullback on the present squad. He played a good part of the game with Champlain on Saturday afternoon.

President James Phinney Baxter 3rd said, "Twice in twelve years, in 1937 and again Saturday night, an automobile accident has deprived Williams of one of its most promising students. Charlie Brock was a delightful companion, a fine sportsman, whose sudden loss at a time when our valley is at its lowliest comes as a cruel blow. On behalf of the Trustees and Faculty of Williams College I am expressing to the family and to the members of Iota Deuteron Chapter of Theta Delta Chi our deep sympathy."

Funeral services were held for Charles Brock at Saint Andrew's Episcopal Church, Wellesley, Mass. Tuesday afternoon, and the burial was in Woodlawn cemetery, Wellesley.

Student Ad Contest Under Way

Rogers Peet To Give Winners Cash Prizes

Money and merchandise awaits the Williams undergraduate who writes a winning advertisement in the annual Rogers Peet Inter-School-and-College Advertising Contest which is now under way.

The Rogers Peet Co. Contest provides the chance for a student with the ability to think up a top-notch advertising idea to win up to $210. The first prize is $200 in cash, with the other top five awards scaling down to ten dollars a sixth prize. Fifty ten dollar merchandise certificates will be awarded, one to the best advertisement submitted by each student body, twenty honorable mention prizes, each a five dollar merchandise certificate, will also be distributed to the runners-up in the various schools.

Budding advertising men have a fine opportunity to test their talents in this contest which stresses the importance of the "copy idea" and headline. Rogers Peet's cartoonist will handle the illustrating of all winning advertisements.

Test Your Ability
This is a practical test of an individual's ability to express his ideas. Rogers Peet suggests that people enter the contest even though they may never have won. See STUDENT, Page 4

Small Crowd Hears Towne

Band, Bennington Octet Applauded At Dance

"Skip's Vocalist is Lee Sherman... the lovely Lee Sherman... Now you can say this about her."

The voice paused for a moment. We seized the opportunity to shift to a more comfortable seat on the edge of the band platform and get a better grip on our pencil. For fifteen minutes Dick Mascott, Music Corporation of America's publicity man from their newly opened Boston office, had been chewing our ear about the merits of MCA, its clients, and Skip Towne in particular.

Up on the stage, Skip minus tux coat and bow tie, was zipping his drums into small canvass bags after the evening's work. He was the first combo signed by the MCA in Boston, we learned, and this was his first college date.

A Vibrant Kid

Dick waxed progressively more enthusiastic about his client, a short, goodlooking character with a collegiate crew cut. He is, we were informed, a sincere, hard-working kid, something rare in the music business, loaded with talent and good dance music, and MCA expects big things from him.

The surprising thing was that the moderate crowd who swayed to his rhythms and gasped at his drumming exploits Saturday night in the gym agreed. Several we talked to went so far as to call it the best dance music they had heard at Williams.

Intermission Aired

The Purple Key - sponsored affair, the first of the year, ran from 8:00 until 12:00p.m. Forty-five minutes of the program, including intermission work by Skip, his drums, and the Bennington Octet, were aired by WBEC in Pittsfield from 9:45 until 10:30.

The broadcast started with Skip's theme, "Talk of the Town". Other numbers included "In My Solitude," "Ain't Misbehavin'," "Just for Now," and "You Call Everybody Darlin'," with vocals on the last two by the abovementioned lovely Lee Sherman.

Skip's intermission presentation of his sensational "Drumomania," an original drum solo done under blue stroboscopic light, was enthusiastically applauded by the boys and girls who crowded around the stand. The light illuminated only Skip's hands and drum sticks, and exaggerated the speed of his antics.

Octet Solid

The Bennington aggregation was equally well received, especially in their rendition of "Mood Indigo" and "St. James Infirmary". Solo work for the group was handled by Sally Pickells and Dusty Hutton.

We were skeptical when Dick told us that MCA plans to provide top entertainment to fit fraternity and college budgets. We checked with a couple of Purple Keyers, and found that this statement was also gospel. Large bookings, we were told, greatly reduce costs. Bands like Tommy Dorsey and Harry James can be hired for comparatively reasonable prices. Though they may never appear in Lasell Gymnasium, the whole setup looks like a good thing if Saturday night's dance is any indication.

Dean Director Of Concessions

Campus Concession Requires Permit

Under a revised concessions arrangement this year, all undergraduates wishing to operate a profit-making business on the Williams campus must obtain written permits from Dean Robert R. R. Brooks. Dean Brooks, aided by instructor Paul Cubeta, has taken over the supervision of all college concessions at the request of President Baxter.

Nineteen students attended the concessions meeting held by Dean Brooks in Jesup Hall last week. Included in the concessions applied for at that time were those for laundry and dry-cleaning services, the rights for sale of food and drinks, newspapers, magazines, firewood, and biotens in the dormitories, and for the sale of food at athletic contests.

Permits Issued Soon

Mr. Brooks said that permits probably will be issued to successful applicants within a week or ten days. Those recognized concessions now operating on the campus will be permitted to continue until further notice as long as their standards conform with those set up by college authorities. SAC activities, such as the Record, Gul, and Purple Cow, do not come under the jurisdiction of the Dean.

After discussion with the Undergraduate Council and the Student Activities Council, Dean Brooks has determined three criteria by which concessions will be judged: financial need of the applicant, his responsibility and ability to carry on the activities of the business, and the need on the campus for the business or service. The College feels that it must protect both dormitory residents and local businessmen from an excessive number of enterprising undergraduates, the Dean pointed out. The SAC will have the power to decide whether or not a particular service is useful, and, in the case of duplicate or overlapping applications, if there is room for two such concessions on the campus.

"Cow" To Hit Stands Oct. 18

Satirically Explains Nature Of Freshmen

By Ed Gouinlock

The first issue of the Purple Cow, which is to be available by October 18, has broken sharply with Cow tradition and made its first offering of the year a non-freshmen issue. The intention of this issue of the magazine is to explain satirically the nature of the campus newcomers to the upperclassmen.

Having welcomed the non-freshmen in the column entitled Ruminations, a well illustrated edition of the Cow proceeds to explain what the freshmen "will be thinking about" and what they'll be thinking about. There follows a fairly successful lampoon of college life in general and freshmen life in particular.

With humor as the sole intent the issue is composed mainly of features outlining in broad detail a number of phases of freshman existence. There is, in addition, a play and a couple of small features designed to orient the yearling to Williams life.

The play, written by Stephen See COW, Page 2

Program For Year Outlined At WCA Freshman Smoker

Sixty-five undergraduates devoured cider and doughnuts as they listened to the heads of the seven committees which make up the Williams Christian Association explain the functions of their organizations during the WCA's annual Freshman Smoker and membership drive Thursday night in the Currier Hall lounge.

After presenting college chaplain and WCA advisor A. Grant Noble, Edwin P. Maynard '49, president of the Christian Association, introduced Charles W. Brashears '50, chairman of the Williamstown Boy's Club. On Mondays-Thursdays the club, Brashears said, needs undergraduates to supervise various activities and to teach basketball and swimming to boys from seven years old and up.

William W. Sauers '50, head of the Activities Committee, after appealing to everyone present to support the WCA dance October 23, explained that in addition to social events such as the dance and the successful jazz concert last spring, his committee has painted the garage of the local Baptist Church and will give similar help to any church in the vicinity.

Chest Fund

The first week in December was set as the date for the annual Williams College Chest Fund Drive, the only charity appeal made on the Williams campus, by Peter W. Stites '49, chairman of the drive. In addition to collecting Thanksgiving baskets for the town's underprivileged from the social units, Geoffrey R. Bennett '50 explained, the Welfare Committee conducted a clothing drive for two weeks during the Spring.

The Deputations Committee needs several undergraduates to teach Sunday School and help in youth fellowship organizations in the vicinity. Robert D. Worley stated. Active Sunday school teachers, he pointed out, do not have to go to chapel. In addition to these activities, the committee conducts Easter and Christmas services in the chapel and helps conduct religious services over the North Adams radio stations.

Arthur L. Singer of the Student Christian Movement explained that his organization was the main source of contact between the WCA and other college Christian associations throughout the East. The main event of the year for his group, he said, is the annual Northfield Conference, a gathering of New England college students to discuss general Christian problems each Spring.

Because of the unexpected success of the institution last Spring, the Embassy Committee, which brings ministers and divinity students to Williams to preside over informal discussion groups in the houses each year, has decided to hold two of the forums this year, chairman John L. Prescott disclosed.

UWF Hears Rockwell Talk; Goodman Will Show Movies

United World Federalists at Williams met in Griffin Hall on Monday, October 4, to hear a short talk by Professor Landon G. Rockwell on the political feasibility of establishing world government and to view the movies which Chairman Richard A. Goodman '49 will exhibit at high schools in the surrounding area in a drive for new members.

In Prof. Rockwell's estimation three prerequisites to world federation are: common agreement on fundamentals such as peace and security, conviction of the futility of universal pursuit of national interests, and a psychological attitude reaching beyond the emotional allegiance to symbols of nationalism. Modern developments in the fields of atomic warfare and guided missiles have convinced most of us with regard to the first two conditions, as shown by a poll last May in which 43% of those polled favored world government.

"Stumbling Block"

But when we consider the third condition, we find that political loyalties to the symbols of nationalism such as civil liberties and the Constitution are so deeply entrenched that they pose a "psychological stumbling block" which probably accounts for the 20% of those polled who were undecided.

If these symbols represent merely a "smug, isolationist attitude" then there is little chance of success. However, if Americans are correct in believing that they stem from a "relatively satisfactory ordering of social relationships," there is great hope for world federalism. For if the voters can see that their loyalties are of this substance they can learn to transfer them to new symbols on a universal scale.

Six Players Share Scoring

42 Players Participate; Team Looks Better

by Fred Wiseman

Rolling up a 42-0 score, the largest point out put since they downed Middlebury 41-0 in 1942, the Purple badly outclassed an undermanned Champlain eleven last Saturday afternoon on Weston Field.

The Wattersmen scored twice in the first period, three times in the second stanza and once in the last period. The Eph reserves played throughout the second half.

Pete Fisher bucked over from the three yard line to climax an eighty yard first period drive which gave the Purple their initial score. Ernie Mierzejewski, with Bill Sperry holding then kicked the first of his six conversions. In the closing minutes of the first stanza the Eph's struck again when Fritz Zeller ran around left end for twelve yards and the second Purple T.D. Zeller's run finished off a drive that began on the Williams twenty.

Ephs Intercept Passes

In the second period after a Champlain kick had been blocked by Dan Mahoney and Marty Detmer on the Bluejay forty-six the Ephmen again crossed their rival's frontier when Stu Duffield hit Mitch Fish with a pass from thirteen yards out. Fish made a nice catch as he gathered in the ball for the third Williams score. With seven minutes left to play in the second chapter the Eph's added to their total when Pete Fisher intercepted Waller's pass on the Champlain forty-five and ran unmolested to cross the Bluejays' goal. Just as the first half was about to end the Purple attack clicked for another T.D. when Pete Delisser romped around right end from thirteen yards out. The whistle blew and the Purple had a 35-0 lead at halftime. Stu Duffield

Wallace Support's Now 'Progressives'

Obtaining Charter In New Liberal Group

by Dick Heuer

Out of the impending death of the Students' for Wallace movement will soon be born another speech-making, petition-signing, membership-seeking organization, the Young Progressives of America. Although this new group has no formal ties with Wallace's Progressive Party, it was organized at that party's convention in Philadelphia in order to channel the passion for political rabble-rousing so common among high school and college "liberals."

The local Wallacites are now in the process of obtaining a charter from the Young Progressives so that they may continue to follow their leader after his original goal vanishes in November. Almost half of last year's membership of seventeen have graduated, but, with the expected support of a number of new freshmen, Henry's supporters plan to launch into full scale program of campaigning shortly. The group's first meeting of the year will probably be held Thursday night.

Last year the Wallacites secured close to 1000 signatures on the petition to put Wallace's name on the Massachusetts ballot, and, together with some 30-odd Bennington girls, they did door-to-door canvassing in North Adams.

Boycott

It has been rumored that a few houses have made organized attempts to picket college dances in the hope that they will be flops. By some stretch of the imagination, this appears to be a way of getting even for the enactment of the curfew. What these people apparently do not realize is that the administration cares little about the success or failure of any student sponsored dance and that an organized boycott only hurts the students who would like to attend dances, but can't because it isn't financially feasible for any organization to sponsor a dance.

The story has been circulated that this happened to the dance that was sponsored to support the football training table. We feel that is an admirable attitude and demonstrates tremendous consideration and support for the team.

However, if this story isn't true, and let's hope it isn't, there are very definitely planned house functions for the next dance night during the so-called houseparty week-end. We feel these plans should be changed for much the same reason the boycott of the Purple Key dance was wrong. We hope a few will see the light and support a college dance instead of childishly staying home.

Letters To The Editor

The Lamp Of Knowledge

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

For some time now I have been wondering whether or not there couldn't be something done about lighting the drive-way leading from the back of the library up to about the college chapel. After 10 p.m. the upper part of the library is closed off and the only means of escape is through the back way. This, in turn, necessitates a very spooky and treacherous ascent through the unknown until Hopkins gets in your way or a shin is scraped on one of the chapel projections.

I would suggest that in order to remedy the situation that street or flood lights be placed in strategic positions along the way and that they could be turned off from inside the library as 11:15 p.m.

October 7, 1948

Don Miller '50

Cow - - -

Sondheim '50, is a horror drama purporting to be the best of what AMT will have to offer during the coming year. "The Mummy Limps at Midnight", though hardly exemplary of AMT presentations, has a humorous array of 1000 ghouls, bats and the like, as well as Sondheim's whimsical style, to make it well worth reading.

For the edification of non-freshmen there is a wittily pointed article entitled In Explanation, by Russell Bourne '50. Bourne has placed himself in the position of the Junior Advisor concerned with the problem of the too-eager freshmen.

The JA in this case is nearly swept off his feet by a naive ambition of the freshmen to found a college science magazine, but eventually regains his equilibrium. Fortunately, the first year man also loses his passion for joining organizations and seeking the JA's advice, and a very hopeless situation is resolved in the end.

There is a perennial article in the Williams Handbook intended to instill in the newcomers the "essential flavor" of Spring Street. Alexander Peabody '50, has given the subject a much less sympathetic treatment in an article on the Williamstown business street. In a parody of the Handbook article Peabody deals none too delicately with the street's merchants, and an amusing feature is the result.

In line with the overall theme of the magazine Thomas Peterson '49, has written a revealing article on What the Freshman Will Wear, which outlines the new campus "bold look". There seems to be no little amount of protest registered concerning current female fashions in this feature.

Peterson also gives vivid descriptions, well supplemented with illustrations by Hilbert Schenck '50, of various items of highly functional garb which will undoubtedly be cropping out all over the campus shortly.

Continuing in the same tone there is a description, very imaginative in nature, of the Freshman's Design for Living, by Donald Hughes '49, who characterizes frosh furniture as embodying the twin benefits of "simplicity and utility."

Featured is a revolving wall equipped on one side with a bar and on the other with a recess guaranteed to keep the yearling out of the reach of selective service for a prolonged period of time. Although the utility of the paraphernalia described can hardly be questioned, the accompanying illustration somewhat belies its simplicity.

Last in the series is What the Freshman Will Read, by Francis Lynch '49. Lynch ascribes to the first year men an interest in little other than pulp magazines, ghastly comic books and the labels on liquor bottles, which is a very dim view indeed.

Familiar Figures on Campus and How to Deal with Them, by Stephen Birmingham '50, offers a concise account of the "creeps" and "hot men" which the new man will encounter. It develops into a facetious analysis of such campus characters as the veteran, the party boy, and the "arty" type and should make the freshman run-ins with these types much smoother.

The illustrators are: Schenck, Charles Parker '51, Donald Rackery '49, and Dixon White '50. The magazine, as a whole, can be commended for its unique theme, which is well developed throughout the issue. The satirical humor, dealing with nothing to which the authors are not intimately familiar, is good enough to make this a much-appreciated issue of the Cow.

Uncle Eph's Worm Farm

by D. Light de Moon

Every once in a while last year a play used to appear in this column. This year the Record is six issues old and we think it is about time for another play to carry on this old tradition. We believe in old traditions, and we believe in the future of the drama here at Williams and want to do our part.

We have chosen a theme that is at once fundamental and current in that it is close to the heart of every Williams man. Namely—

HOUSEPARTIES: 1948

SCENE:

The boiler room down in the heating plant which has been taken over by the boys of Old Alfalfa Mu Frat for the Big Week-end. The Brothers really have the place fixed up nice and comfy. There are a few strands of crepe paper hanging from the ceiling and a picture of Bob Rupen on the far wall. The Brothers are scattered about this cheery nest participating in the usual houseparty activities. Some drink cokes and eat ice-cream with ketchup sauce, while others sing songs from "Oklahoma" to the accompaniment of a harmonica. A number are sitting around on the concrete floor playing double Canfield, and a pair of seniors and their dates have started a bridge game. One Brother sits on the janitor's stool in front of the door and looks through a peep-hole to identify the arriving guests. Every once in a while someone gets up to shovel a little coal on the fire. The time is about two o'clock in the morning. The boiler room buzzes with the usual house-party chit-chat.

BROTHER RHO:

Do have another glass of coke. Another spot of ketchup?

MAHITABEL:

(Brother Rho's date) I think I've had enough, thank you just the same. Our house mother at Bennington told us to be careful with you Williams boys. She says you're naughty.

BROTHER SIGMA:

Let's start a square dance, gang!

ALL:

Hooray!

(The harmonica takes up the strain of "Birdie in the Cage". They choose partners and begin to dos-a-dos around the boiler room in wild abandon.)

MAHITABEL:

Let's sit this one out.

RHO:

Okay, Mahitabel. Say, how do you like it up at Bennington?

MAHITABEL:

Oh, I like it fine, but I wish it was a little closer to Williams.

RHO:

Gee, so do I.

MAHITABEL:

It's swell to go out with Williams boys, especially you fellows from Old Alfalfa Mu.

RHO:

You're sweet Mahitabel.

MAHITABEL:

I think you're pretty sw-----!

(The night is suddenly filled with the scream of police whistles and the wail of sirens. There is a tremendous crash as the boiler room door is torn from its hinges and smashed to the floor. In rush DEAN BROOKS, A STUDENT G-MAN, CHIEF ROYAL AND FIVE OR SIX GORILLAS handpicked by the Dean. The student G-man wears a big shiny badge. He is a Gargoyle and Political Science major who has been bribed by the Dean to serve in his loathsome Secret JA Police Force and spy on his buddies.)

BROTHERS:

It's a raid!

GIRLS:

What will our mothers say?

G-MAN:

Okay fellows! We've caught you!

DEAN:

Get their names, G-man!

G-MAN:

Check, Boss!

(Meanwhile the Dean's toughs have started molesting the dates, who resist. Brother Rho scrambles for the light switch in the corner, but Chief Royal fires from the hip and Brother Rho slumps to the floor in a pool of blood. Girls scream. Mahitabel swoons.)

DEAN:

Nice shot, Chief!

ROYAL:

(In ecstasy.) Thanka, Boss! Heh! Heh! Heh!

(His gun jams, and another Brother seizes the opportunity to smash the lights with a ketchup bottle.)

DEAN:

(Thrilling to the chase.) After them boys! Where's the searchlight? Shoot to kill, Chief!

ROYAL:

Thanks, Boss! Heh! Heh! Heh!

(Royal's gun blazes away in the dark. There are several agonized groans amid the trample of escaping feet and the swearing of the Dean's mugs. A roar of highpowered engines is heard as the remaining Brothers speed away in long, black, sedans with drawn curtains. One car misses a turn and smashes into a row of FACULTY PARKING ONLY signs which line both sides of the street.)

ROYAL:

(With glee.) Put a parking ticket on that car!

DEAN:

(With authority.) Better confiscate that coke, boys. We'll need it at the trial.

G-MAN:

Check, Boss!

THE GORILLAS:

(With lust.) Com'on, youse broads!

DEAN:

(Rubbing his hands in exultation.) Throw those bodies in the furnace before you leave. It'll cut fuel costs. I'll show the little sinners! Most of them were veterans, too.

"Speaking of Sports"

by Bill Barney

A current topic of conversation among campus grippers has been that of the price of football tickets, especially for Little Three games where the damage runs as much as $4.50 for those couples that can afford reserved seats.

At first glance this seems an exorbitant tax to levy on those who want to see a winning Williams team in action. There is a validity to this arrangement, and here is why:

In the first place, the price scale for Amherst, Wesleyan, Williams football games has long been a standardized policy among the rivals, and there has been no change in the prices since the ruling was first put into effect several years ago. One half of the total receipts of the Wesleyan game automatically go to the till in Middletown, and that is after the government has helped itself to a sizeable 20%. Only $1.80 gets back to the athletic office. Incidentally, all students are admitted free to all games under general admission.

Contrary to popular belief, the money which the Athletic Department is able to salvage from gate receipts does not go directly to the maintenance of the football team. Rather this sum goes into a general fund which supports ALL ATHLETICS, not just one individual sport, all of which leads to one of two alternatives.

Either the college begins to cut down its schedules, or it continues to charge the same rates for tickets in the hopes of coming out more nearly even. As it is now costs of operating the present athletic system are such that the college athletics still operate on a deficit.

It is not one to go along with college policy just because it is college policy. That in itself does not make the situation right, but in a particular case, since athletics are vital and necessary to all the Williams, the athletic office is quite justified in doing what is necessary to keep the sports plane as high as possible.

There is a possibility for improvement in the present system. In order to distribute the burden more evenly, the athletic department might change their tactics and make an additional increase to the current athletic tax. No matter what the method, however, the situation remains the same.

Soccer Team Clips U. Mass.

Kent, Johnston Score As Team Wins, 3-0

Two goals by Tom Kent in the fourth quarter and a score by Bob Johnston in the first period provided the margin of victory as the Williams soccer team won its second game in a row last Saturday, defeating the University of Massachusetts by a 3-0 score on Cole Field.

Although the Purple booters won by three goals, the game was closely fought all the way, since the score stood at 1-0 until the end of the last quarter, when center-forward Kent's two goals put the game on ice.

Williams Scores

The Ephmen started fast, with Bob Johnston scoring on a pass from Tom Kent four minutes after the game had begun. Williams continued to dominate the play all through the first quarter, and although they didn't score again, it looked as though the game would be a run-away victory.

With the start of the second quarter, however, things changed completely. The Ephs could not get rolling, and the Massachusetts Redmen had the ball on the offensive practically the whole time.

One Goal Lead

The second half began with Williams hanging on to their one-goal lead. A raggedly played third quarter followed, during which the play was pretty evenly divided between the Purples and the Redmen, and the game went into the last period with Williams still ahead 1-0.

The Redmen almost tied the game up in the last quarter, as the left inside got past the Purple defenses, but a last minute tackle by Jerry Page saved the 1-0 lead for Williams.

Kent Scores Two

Williams led the game nine minutes set Delisser in the clear and he was never headed as he sped down the right side-line. Williams was penalized on the play for illegal use of hands and Delisser's run went for naught.

The Ephmen looked much better than they did in their outing against Trinity. The blocking and tackling showed considerable improvement a reflection of an additional week of hard practice and the patience of Head Coach Len Watters. Backfield Tutor Harvey Potter and Line mentor Frank Bell.

The Ephmen again played without the services of Captain Dick Whitney who was giving his injured leg additional rest.

minutes from the end, when on a fast break, Tom Kent blasted home a center from Dick Manning, to make the score 2-0. Kent scored again some three seconds before the end of the game, converting a beautiful center by Ted Prescott to put the final count at 3-0.

Outstanding for Williams was light halfback George Kneass, who, throughout the afternoon played a fine defensive and offensive game. Frank Donnelly, operating from both center-half and center-forward, turned in his usual good performance. Tom Kent with two goals and an assist, also helped the Purples' victory, while Jerry Page stood out at fullback.

Dickinson Hurt

Williams suffered a setback in the first period, when fullback Rog Dickinson got a head injury, and had to stay out of the game until the last period. It was also a hard day on the University of Massachusetts, however, as three of their players were helped from the field with injuries.

Burnett Eleven Plays St. Mike's; "Using 'T'"

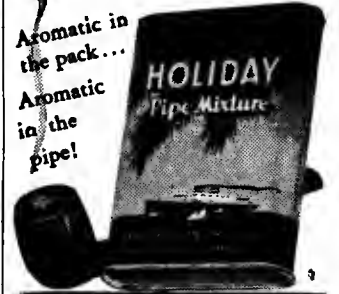

Dale Burnett's freshman football team opens its four game schedule when they meet the St. Michaels' yearlings here this Saturday in hopes of continuing the undefeated streak of last year's standout freshman eleven.

The team received a severe blow last week when Jerry Olsen, an outstanding T-Quarterback, ruptured his kidney and is probably lost for the balance of the season. However, Coach Burnett seems to have uncovered a fine replacement in Jack Morrison. Early scrimmages have indicated that although the team does not have last year's depth, it has some promising varsity material. In the line, center Dick Kraft looks like a sound backer-up while guard Chuck Salmon is doing a stellar job.

Linecoach Bobby Coombs has uncovered six good ends among the twenty-seven who originally reported. These flankmen will play an important part in a pass-conscious T-attack. Among the backs George MacAleenan and Pete Smith are fast and shifty while the Purple may have found an ace break-away runner in ex-Deerfield star Paul Cramer. John Kolar is another promising prospect from Buffalo, the birthplace of so many Williams gridiron standouts. From Coach Watters hometown, White Plains, comes Kim Cameron, a hard-driving and experienced back.

set up the fifth touchdown when he intercepted Dragan's pass on the Eph forty-five and ran it back to the twenty-six yard line of the Bluejay's before he was downed.

The final Eph score came in the last period when a thirty yard pass from Bill Sperry to end Stu Templeton was good for a T.D. A pass interception set up this score when Pete Delisser plucked a Perna pass out of the air on the Williams thirty-five and ran it back to the Champlain forty-five before he was downed.

Penalties called back one Eph score and halted a drive which might have resulted in another. Stu Duffield threw a pass from the Williams thirty-three to Bud Cool on the forty-five. Bud raced across the midfield stripe and down to the Champlain twenty-four before he was finally stopped by the last man that was in a position to grab him. A penalty for backfield in motion on the play called the ball back to the Purple twenty-eight and the pass and long run were nullified. Four plays later on fourth down with a yard to go for first down and the ball on the Eph forty-two. Pete Delisser, ran from kick formation, fifty-eight yards around right end for a T.D. CAREERS AT GENERAL ELECTRIC

General Electric is not one business, but an organization of many businesses, offering opportunities in virtually all the professions. Here three G-E men brief opportunities offered the mechanisms expert, the vacuum-tube specialist, and the engineer.

MECHANISMS EXPERT

John Payne (Cornell), who developed the mechanical hands for atomic research: Radioactive isotopes create problems to delight the heart and fire the imagination of any engineer with a bent toward mechanisms. Developing pile "service" mechanisms and manipulating devices offers a real challenge—and a real opportunity.

VACUUM-TUBE SPECIALIST

Dr. Albert W. Hull (Yale), assistant director of the Research Laboratory: The use of vacuum tubes for controlling industrial processes is only beginning. One new tube, for example, that can take signals from "electrical brains" and apply them to apparatus of any desired size is sure to promote wider use of these engineering tools.

STUDENT ENGINEER

Bob Charlton (Texas), graduate of the G-E Advanced Engineering Program: I am winding up three years of intensive study in General Electric engineering courses—study that has required twenty after-work hours a week, and I'm not sorry for an hour of it. Baxter, Aspinwall To Receive Merit Award From President

Dr. James P. Baxter, III President of Williams College, and Dr. Samuel R. Aspinall, assistant professor of chemistry, will be presented with the President's Certificate of Merit in a joint Army and Navy ceremony in Alumnae Hall on the Smith College campus, Northampton, Mass., on Tuesday afternoon, October 19th.

They will receive the award, the second highest granted to civilians by the President of the United States, in recognition of their services as members of the wartime Office of Scientific Research and Development. President Baxter, Dr. Aspinall, and Professor Gladys Amelis Anslow, a distinguished member of the Smith College faculty, are being cited, by direction of the President, for "outstanding services to their country."

OSRD Historian

President Baxter served as historian in the OSRD from 1943 to 1946, and was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in History in 1947 for his book "Scientists Against Time", a history of the mobilization of civilian science for war. Professor Aspinall was a technical aide in the OSRD from 1941-1946, coming to Williams in 1947.

The ceremony Tuesday afternoon is part of a nationwide program honoring scientists and engineers who contributed to the successful prosecution of World War II. Similar ceremonies have been held recently at Harvard, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Yale.

Major General Frank A. Keating, commanding general of the First Service Command, and Rear Admiral Morton L. Deyo, commandant of the First Naval District, will participate in the presentations.

Record Interviews Campus On Curfew

The following remarks by seven students, representing a cross section of campus opinion, were elicited in response to the question, "What do you think of the curfew?" From the answers that were received by the Inquiring Reporter it would seem as though the question was really, "What don't you like about the curfew?" This was not the case, however. Although every attempt was made to uncover opinions in support of the administration's action they were found to be virtually nonexistent.

I Duval '52 (S-O), Phi Gamma Delta. I think it is definitely a mistake. I like telling a joke. I can't joke. Nine out of ten will go behind the barn just to see what it is like.

any rate, there will be just as many repercussions from actions that go on off campus as there have been from those which have happened on campus. The fact that the college has done all they can to prevent this illicit behavior, and, in so doing has just forced it off campus, will do little to pacify the outraged feelings of parents and townspeople. Furthermore, it will just spread any bad reputation further into the surrounding area where men will henceforth be spending their evenings. I think the roots of the problem could be attacked much better if every effort was made to localize it to the campus.

I don't think the conduct problem is as serious as the administration makes out. Events like that which happened last spring aren't necessarily an indication that the situation is getting worse, but rather are the climax of frustrations and inhibitions that have been accumulating during the year. Williams doesn't have a Smith or Holyoke very close by where the partying instinct can be worked off in small doses. We can grind for just so long, and then the lid has to blow off. That is what happened at the spring houseparty and now things will be normal again for a while.

Bob Donoho '50 Beta Theta Phi. I think all the publicity that has arisen from the administration's action has done more harm than good as regards the reputation of the college. It has made it a target for scoundrelism and gossip-lovers. For example, when I was seeing my date off at the station last weekend the conductor stuck his head out of the window and said, "I thought you weren't allowed to have any more houseparties here." When I looked as though I didn't understand, he said, "I thought you had done away with all the houseparties." Not only was he misinformed, but it was none of his damn business anyway. It's a fact that he wouldn't have known anything one way or the other about Williams' reputation if the administration's action had not been so well publicized. The same goes for many of the Alumni.

The administration shouldn't try to hide what has happened here. But neither should they advertise to those who don't already know that Williams students have acted so poorly as to necessitate the restrictions.

Tom Mitchell '50, St. Anthony. It is a dirty shame for the incoming freshman class as they are in no way responsible. As a result, they may feel undue enmity towards the administration. It is in many ways unfair to punish them for what was done by the other classes. It won't seem like Williams to me without the customary frivolities that usually take place on houseparty weekend. Especially so since I went to Cornell last weekend and saw what good parties can be really like.

John Herndon '49, married vet. DKE. In the light of the talk Dean Brooks gave it is evident that some action was necessary. But the curfew punishes everybody, where as it would be better to sort out the punishment to individuals or groups who are responsible. The curfew should stand as at present until the UC can get together with the Dean to set up a system whereby punishment can be meted out in this manner. It seems to me that this can be done very shortly.

The curfew was good in that it did impress on everyone for the first time the seriousness of the situation. This has already been accomplished, however, and the blanket punishment of everyone can be of no more use.

As a married man the curfew doesn't restrict my activities to any large extent.

Mrs. Helen Kelley, student wife. If the majority of students outside of the UC realized that there was a serious moral problem that had to be solved in the near future, and, knowing that, failed to regulate their actions accordingly, then the punishment is justified. But from what I hear, this knowledge did not become general until after the spring houseparty, and the students have had no time to show any change in their behavior since that time. Whether it is the UC's the student's or the administration's fault that this knowledge was not disseminated when the problem first came to be recognized long ago, I have no way of knowing.

Alexander Clement '48, Sigma Phi. I am opposed to the curfew. I don't believe the student government has been given a fair chance to work. I don't feel students are as irresponsible as many people claim them to be. If the students had been made aware of the seriousness of the situation and if the houses had been made fully aware that they, and only they, had the responsibility to correct it, we would not have the present problem. I'm confident that the UC, given time to publicize the problem and mold student opinion, would have passed regulations whereby in the future individual houses would be held responsible for any conduct detrimental to the campus.

UC Discusses Regulation Of Student Life

Combined Committees To Form Tentative Rules For Conduct

Suggestions for increasing the effectiveness of the Undergraduate Council in its legislation and administration of proposed regulations covering student conduct were aired by members of the Council at Monday night's meeting.

The UC is trying to draw up something in the way of rules of conduct for the undergraduate body that will be an improvement on the action taken by the administration, but which will still cover the ground that is felt to be necessary.

UC President Henry Strong '49 opened the floor to suggestions and ideas following comments by Dean Brooks. A few reactions among Council members favored taking some action right away to show that corrective measures were coming from the students themselves.

There was some sentiment among individuals that the rule passed last spring giving the Entertainment Committee power to approve or disapprove party plans submitted to them had not been tested, and that it was not just to condemn the UC for not carrying out its executive function. Andy Heineman '50 countered with the suggestion that an amendment to the rule placing the responsibility of a house member's action on the social unit president would be a good test of the ability of the student body to govern itself.

This matter was discussed but action was postponed by the UC. Strong emphasized the fact that it must be made clear to the student body that it will be action by the UC in cases of offenders of any rules, or it will be action by the Dean's Office.

Alan Harter '49 recommended that a start be made at forming rules for houses for every-day behavior. The Council found that it was difficult to be specific in naming the times and places activities such as drinking should be carried on in all social units.

The UC decided to let the combined Discipline and Entertainment Committees draw up a tentative set of rules for conduct in the light of what had been said, and to have them presented to the Council for consideration later this week.

Purple Knights Anticipating Season Of Great Activity

Group To Feature Nine Piece Band

The Purple Knights are anticipating one of their greatest seasons in history, according to Wally Olesen '49. The band has already held three rehearsals with others planned on a weekly basis. Bolstered by some fine talent from the class of '52, the Purple Knights will offer an eight or nine piece band featuring four saxes, one trumpet, and a three or four man rhythm section. This increase in instruments over last year's group has been made possible not only by the influx of freshmen, but also by the merger of the Knights and 52nd Streeters.

Tenor man John Marvin '50, former leader of the 52nd Streeters, and his pianist, Bill Partington '50, have joined the Knights. These two musicians along with Olesen Art Singer '50, Marty Luthy '51, and Frank Reiche '51 of last year's Knights, form the nucleus of the new band.

Williams Faces Tough Bowdoin Eleven Today

Class Officers To Campaign For Election

Five To Be Nominated From Each Class Under New System

Campus-wide political activity will return to Williams this week as a result of a new plan for class elections, announced by Henry Strong '49, president of the Undergraduate Council. Under the new arrangements a week will elapse between nomination meetings on Tuesday, October 19 and final elections of officers.

Five candidates will be nominated by each of the three upper classes at the first meeting. Each of the chosen five will then appoint managers to handle their campaigns. "Anything goes this week," Strong declared. "I hope that the system will make class elections mean something more than they have in the past."

The politician receiving the largest number of votes will be elected president; the second highest vote-getter will be named secretary. Each class will be represented by its president on the UC, which, according to Strong, will be taking a much "more forceful role in student activities" in an effort to prevent recurrence of the circumstances leading up to the recent disciplinary action by the dean.

Membership in the Honor System Committee of the UC will be held by the president of each class. Immediately after elections for officers, three seniors, two juniors, and one sophomore will also be elected as representatives to the committee which judges violations of the honor system.

Strong expressed the hope that the elections would stimulate class spirit so that more activities would take place similar to last year's tug-of-war, and the dance held by the class of '51 last spring.

The times and places of the class meetings will be announced. Freshman elections will take place sometime in the spring term.

Gibson To Present First WMNB Talk

Professor William Gibson will give the first Williams faculty radio talk over station WMNB Thursday evening, October 14, at 7:30. Professor Gibson's subject will be "100 Books That Made America." The discussion will include the book exhibition in the Chapin Library at Williams College. This program is a resumption of the faculty radio talks which were heard last year over the same station. They will originate from the WMS studios on campus.

WMS Huntress Wise Female

Drama Workshop Weekly Program

The "Huntress" a new type of live show was aired for the first time over WMS on Tuesday evening at 10:30. The first installment of this program consisted of opinions and views on a Williams weekend as given by the mysterious, deep throated "Huntress". Most of the opinions given were of a negative quality in that they told what not to do when the opposite sex arrives on campus. The two pieces of advice that were stressed by the "Huntress" were, that even dates have to eat, and a drink helps the morale when things get dull. Also high on the list of advice was the fact that you can't bring the full possibilities of your date to the surface if most of your time is spent wolfing your roommate's companion.

There has already been considerable interest shown by various under graduates as to just who this hooded, worldly wise female might be, however this is to remain a secret throughout the series of programs. The main part of the programs to follow will be of the "Mr. Anthony" type, with the "Huntress" answering any questions or giving advice on specific problems as sent in by letters from the male element of Williams College.

Norman Corwin's "Decent Of The Gods" was the radio play selected by the Dramatic Workshop for its first presentation of the WMS broadcasting year. A play every other week which, was the Dramatic Workshop schedule for last year has been expanded so that there will be a presentation every Thursday night at 10:00. "The Decent Of The Gods" was directed by Peggy Lampson and produced by Bud Tweedy. From the manner in which the first program went over it certainly seems that future productions will be well worth listening in to. While there are a central group of last years members the expansion to a weekly program has doubled the potential number of actors to be used. Tryouts are held for each production so that there is a possibility for anybody interested in this type of dramatics to get parts in forthcoming productions.

These two programs along with the twice weekly comments by Seth Bidwell and Bill Barney on highlights in campus news are among the important gains made by WMS in its efforts to put more live shows on the air and get away from canned music as much as possible.

Ephmen Hope To Skin Polar Bears' Hide

Amherst And Wesleyan Have Already Beaten Team From Maine

This afternoon on Whittier Field, Brunswick, Maine, the Ephmen will tackle the Bowdoin Polar Bears. Last season the "down Maine" eleven took the Williams team by a 14-0 score.

Adam Walsh's Bowdoin eleven have one victory and two defeats as their record going into the Williams game. The Polar Bears downed Tufts in their season opener by a 28-6 score. In their next two outings they came home on the short end of the score as William's Little Three rivals, Wesleyan and Amherst were both victorious. The Wesmen won by a 13-0 count and the Lord Jeffs 27-19.

Use T Operating from a T formation attack, the Bowdoin team will be pressing hard to end their losing streak and to snap the Little Three jinx.

Adam Walsh will probably stick to the same starting line-up that he used in the Amherst game last Saturday. Marty Lee and Wally Finnegan will be at the wing posts, John Taussig and Jim Sibson at the tackle slots, Captain Charlie Lovejoy and Jim Fife at the guard positions, and Jim Draper at center. The backfield quartet will be Dave Burke at quarter, Dick Beckler and Dick Rosse at the halves and Bob McAvoy at full.

Whitney Out The Ephmen have been working diligently all week in preparation for what they know will be a hard Saturday afternoon. Captain Dick Whitney will probably not play much, his injured knee preventing him from taking part in any heavy contact work. Whit Fiske, Jack French, and Bronnie Fargo, all of whom sat out last Saturday's encounter with Champlain, will be ready to swing into action again against the Polar Bears.

Organize Club For Dewey, Warren

House Representatives To Plug Membership

A group of interested students have planned and organized a Dewey-Warren Club on campus to function until the November elections. The organization has been granted a charter by the Republican National Committee.

At a recent meeting, Lyndon Wells '49 was elected Chairman of the club and Charles Halleck '51 was elected secretary-treasurer. Representatives in each social unit have been contacted, and a membership drive is soon to get underway. Plans are being made to have Senator Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts or Governor Bradford speak to students and voters in this area.

George Ditmar Wins Champagne At King's

Guessing wrong in only the Missouri-S.M.U. and the T.C.U. Indiana contests, George Ditmar won a bottle of champagne in Cal King's weekly pool. Although two entries missed only two out of the ten games, Ditmar was the first to return his ballot to Cal.

Class Elections

Henry Strong, the president of the UC, has initiated a new plan for class elections. The plan as proposed is an innovation, and indeed a welcome one, to the Williams campus. In lieu of the fracas which have occurred during the elections in the past years, we feel that the new plan presents the possibility of electing officers to fulfill jobs which could be of considerable value to Williams.

In the past, a few candidates almost achieved a majority because of the whim of a slightly mellow crowd which had gathered to make as big a farce as possible of the affair. This is not a condemnation of the candidates or the whimsical voters because in the past the office meant little or nothing, and election time was merely a burlesque of the system.

An effort, however, has now been made to turn the tide. Strong proposes to instigate better student administration by presenting an election method which should produce men who were elected after some rational thought could be given to the matter. Secondly, the officers elected will be given positions carrying more responsibility in an attempt to bolster the student government at a time when it must needs all the aid and assistance it can acquire.

Regardless of the system, however, no system can work successfully unless the constituent parts work together. In the case of the election, they will again be unsatisfactory unless the classes endeavor to nominate men that will do the job entrusted to them. We urge all undergraduates to attend both the nominating and election meetings, and make this a successful election.

Let's elect the best men! Get out and vote!

Bowdoin Broadcast

The indicator game of Williams comparative strength to our Little Three opponents will be broadcast this afternoon over the facilities of WMS. Williams vs. Bowdoin will be broadcast over the college radio station this afternoon at 1:45 p.m.

Although comparative scores mean little in Little Three football, the fact that Wesleyan beat Bowdoin by thirteen points and Amherst by seven, makes the outcome of this game of vital interest to most Williams men. Along with the fact that Bowdoin is a six hour drive from Williamstown, WMS and The Record felt that this game would be of great enough interest to Williams fans to merit the broadcast. Thus through the efforts of these organizations, the game will be aired today.

WBN, the Portland station, is going to pipe their regular broadcast of the game directly to Williamstown, and the reception of the game will be available in any college dorm or through a radio which will be set up on the steps of Jesup Hall. If there is inclement weather, the radio will be placed in Jesup auditorium instead of on the porch.

Wallace Barnes and Norton Cushman, directors of WMS, have made arrangements with the telephone company to run a direct circuit from the Portland station, and thus rain or shine, the reception of the game should not be impaired.

This is the first of three broadcasts which will bring the away games back to the campus. Arrangements have been made with local advertisers to air the Union and Amherst games, but because of the expense of the Bowdoin broadcasts, it was doubtful if this particular game could be carried over WMS. Last minute preparations for this broadcast proved successful, however, and so the game will hit the air. We hope you enjoy it.

Truman Interview Regarding Town Author Writes Play

By John Shepardson '50

The sober opinion in favor of a candidate for re-election President Harry S. Truman is not considering personality as it goes to the ballot box this November.

This inference we drew after talking to two Williams political science professors, David B. Truman and James Burns.

"I am not much concerned with personalities," declared the president's campus name sake who instructs the course in public opinion at college. Professor Truman, in addition to holding a position on the Democratic Town Committee, is also a member of Americans for Democratic Action.

"Rather I am interested in what kinds of groups are backing the candidates," Professor Truman's sympathies lie with the labor groups, and he feels that the President and his party are backed by labor as well as a large share of the New Deal remnants.

On the other hand, the professor said, the Republicans would be more receptive to pressure applied by big business groups such as the National Association of Manufacturers. However, he admitted, the President's accusations in recent speeches that the Republican Party is a tool of the NAM is an exaggeration. "The NAM is pretty much of a 'Boogey man'."

But it was such groups as these which conducted the campaign to kill OPA. Before the campaign, declared Professor Truman, public opinion polls clearly indicated that the majority of individuals in the U. S. were in favor of price controls.

The business groups that advertised and heckled Congress into removing controls were highly organized, he said. The labor groups which represented a greater number of individuals lacked the unity to defend OPA.

To the accusation that the President has been equivocal, has failed to stick to a definite policy and has straddled every issue that has faced him during the past four years, the Professor retorted that any man occupying that office since the war would have been in a dilemma.

"Yes, Harry Truman has been equivocal," he said, "but the decisions were difficult."

On balance, however, he doesn't think it has been a hopelessly weak administration. "As a matter of fact, there has been less bickering in the Truman administration, with the exception of the Wallace episode, than in that of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

The Professor pointed to many instances of courageous stands made by the President during his term. His position on labor legislation has been sound, he declared, citing the President's hostility to bad aspects of the Taft-Hartley act, which he vetoed.

"Actually the Democrats will not repeal the entire act if they are elected," he asserted parenthetically, despite the President's campaign declarations to the contrary.

Harry Truman's insistence on maintaining income taxes and his vetoing of the tax bills in an election year required courage. It is insane to cut taxes at a time when the country is facing inflation, Professor Truman asserted.

The President was profoundly correct when he called the Thomas Committee investigations a "red herring" and demanded that no executive department documents be turned over to the committee without his approval.

The Republicans claim they will balance the budget, but the Professor is "willing to bet that the budget presented by Truman in January will not be reduced five per cent by the Republicans should they be elected." Actually, he said, the net cut of the President's 1948 budget was negligible.

Dewey has assured us that he will reduce the number of bureaucrats in the government. Professor Truman does not believe he will carry out any sizeable reduction because most of these persons are necessary to the operation of a modern government. Moreover, a cut in personnel will not reduce the budget noticeably. The government payroll is but a small fraction of the annual budget.

The foreign policy programs of the two parties do not differ greatly, and Professor Truman does not see that there will be any less bipartisanship in the future than there has been in the past. "And remember," he said, "that the bipartisan foreign policy was initiated during Harry Truman's administration."

"The particular kind of man in the White House isn't going to affect the future of the world," Professor Truman declared. "There will be no disaster if Dewey is elected."

The President has allowed himself to be swayed by his advisers, but in doing so he has shown that he is willing to listen to the advice of men prepared to do so. "I am more interested in who is going to help him make the decisions," Professor Truman declared.

Professor James Burns, who likewise is a member of the Williamstown Republican Committee and ADA, gave the following statement of his reasons why the President should be re-elected:

"I am in favor of President Truman. I support the program of the Democratic Party which Truman has generally tried to put into effect. That program, as I see it, consists essentially of three parts: economic aid to the peoples of other nations; a fight against inflation at home and governmental assistance to the less privileged people of our country."

"I hear that Mr. Dewey is a competent administrator. That may be true, but I would prefer a president who does the right things awkwardly to a president who does the wrong things well."

Town Author Writes Play

McNett's First Play Historical Drama

Playwright Marie McNett, who has been a resident of Williamstown for four years and is employed in the Dean's office, saw her first play, "Cradle of Glory", produced last August in the Barnum Summer Theatre in Indiana.

This historical drama, written by Indiana-born Mrs. McNett, traces the character development of Lincoln through the early, formative years when he lived in Indiana. "I consider it more than a play," asserted Mrs. McNett, "it is of historical significance."

Drama Reaches Finals

The drama reached the finals of the John Hopkins University Playshop prize contest recently. A copy of the work was requested by Dr. Byrd of Indiana University for their Lincoln collection.

Commenting on the play, Mrs. McNett stated that she believed it was important to the understanding of Lincoln's life and character to realize what his early influences were. "There is no play concerning this particular period in Lincoln's life," Mrs. McNett said, "and no Lincoln cycle is complete without this period, during which his character was established."

Purpose Of Play

Mrs. McNett's professed purpose in writing the play was to delegate to Indiana its rightful place in the life of Lincoln. Louise French, who directed the play in its initial production this summer, has stated that "I am convinced she (Mrs. McNett) has a wonderful play and eventually will have it in films."

The theatre where it was produced is near Michigan City and is controlled by Norman N. Barnum. Mrs. McNett commented that it was Mr. Barnum's first unproduced play and was given last

Unbeaten Booters Seek Third Win

Coach Bullock's undefeated Williams soccer team attempts to make it three in a row this afternoon, facing the University of Connecticut at 2 p.m. on Cole Field.

With a 3-0 victory over Union and a 3-1 win over the University of Massachusetts, the Purples face one of the best teams in the East in the "Huskies," who also sport an unbeaten record.

Beat Yale

Far this year, the Blue and White team has beaten Yale by a 3-0 score, and swamped Dartmouth, 6-0. Last year, Connecticut dumped Williams by a 5-2 in a game at Storrs. With a win of last year's varsity back year, the "Huskies" will prove to be one of the toughest teams the Ephrims will meet.

Coach Bullock has been working on conditioning, trapping and heading all week in to get his team in shape. He stressed the fact that the team will have to drive hard for full eighty-eight minutes if they are to stand up against Connecticut.

Cup Play In Final Rounds

Tennis Champ To Be Decided Soon

With two players already in the semi-finals, the Rockwood Cup Tournament, annually staged to determine the College tennis championship, is in its final week. According to Tournament Manager Clarence Chaffee, who is varsity tennis coach, the winner will be decided Monday, October 18. The results and seedings have coincided so far, with the exception of George Muller's victory over Dud Irwin in the fourth round.

Stu Robinson '50 is the favorite to win the cup again this year. Having defeated Treman and Rich in the initial rounds, he downed Stuart, 6-2, 6-6, to reach the quarter-finals. Seeded number two is Charlie Schaaf '50, who beat Joe Takamine, 6-0, 6-1, in the quarter-finals.

Palmer Semi-Finalist

Also in the semi-finals is Dick Palmer, seeded number four. Palmer won over George Muller, 6-1, 6-2, in the quarter-final round. Fred Scribner, seeded number three, reached the quarter-finals by defeating Tom Kent, 8-6, 6-2.

The other players seeded for the cup match were George Thurber, number five, and George Wright, Joe Takamine, and Dud Irwin, following in that order. Muller's victory over Irwin has reversed this listing, however.

All quarter and semi-final matches will be completed this week, according to Coach Chaffee's schedule, and next Monday the final match will be held. This is expected to be between Robinson and Schaaf, who were last year's finalists for the cup.

JV Soccer Team Downs Engineers

Outclassing their opponents throughout the contest, the Williams J. V. Soccer team trounced the R. P. I. Jayvees by a score of 4-1 last Saturday afternoon on Cole Field. John Sziklas booted in the first Purple goal in the opening quarter and followed up with another in the third period. Jim Davis made it 3-0 on a solo jaunt in the closing minutes of the period, and the Williams scoring ended early in the final canto as Frank Reiche tallied. Sam Gentiles, Walt Ziegenhals, and Bob Van Tubergen starred at the half-back slots and were ably backed up by goalie Merrill "Bugs" Behre.

Mrs. McNett was a student at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and graduated from the university of Wisconsin. She plans to leave Williamstown to discuss her play before a prominent women's club in Indianapolis, this January.

Two Frosh Teams Face Mt. Hermon

With an ever capable Mt. Hermon squad as their opponent, the freshmen cross-country team opens its three meet schedule today at home. The teams start the 2.2 mile jaunt from the lab campus at 12:30 p.m.

Coach Tony Planaky banks on eight men who have been practicing steadily for the past two weeks. The best time 12m40s, thus far has been turned in by Jim Haskell. Supporting him are Kim Hodgman, Fred Pew, Cooper Smith, Perk Bass, Frank Olmstead, John Freese, and Charley Clark.

Soccer Triumphs

Boasting a 3-0 win over the Darrow School of New Lebanon, N. Y., on Wednesday, Coach Clarence Chaffee's 1952 soccer team is looking for its second victory in a game with Mt. Hermon this afternoon at Cole Field. Chaffee's probable line-up includes Ellicker, Up de Graff, James, scorer of two goals against Darrow, Hollis, and McManus, who tallied the other score on Wednesday at the forward positions. In the half back slots are: Tillinghast, Heilman, and Holquin, with Bickford and Hunt holding down fullback jobs. Warren is the likely goal-tender.

Cole Defeats Marchese, 1-up

Four Golfers Remain In Fall Championship

Jerry Cole upset the apple cart of all those venturesome souls who tried to predict the winner in the fall golf championship by shooting a sparkling 74 to upset medalist and favorite Bucky Marchese by a 1-up margin last Monday. As a result of this victory, Cole, a senior who has played on the spring team for the past three years, becomes the favorite to depose defending champion Dick Heuer in his next match.

Heuer moved into the semi-final round by toppling Kim Whitney 2-up and Dewey Fagerburg 2 and 1 in the opener. In the lower bracket, Bill Rodie and Bill Burke are the only two of the original fourteen contenders still in the race. Rodie received a bye his first round and proceeded to down Doug Coleman 5 and 4 in the second. Coleman defeated Bill Ward 5 and 4 in his first match.

Before beating Bill Kaufman 5 and 4, Burke eked out an extra-hole 1-up victory over Tom Hodgman when the latter three putted the 19th and 20th holes. Kaufman had previously knocked off Ed Young 2 and 1. Cole beat freshman Ted Taylor by a 3 and 2 margin in his first match.

Freshman Eleven Braced For Tilt With St. Michael's

Striving for an opening victory in the initial contest of their four game schedule, the yearling eleven meets an untried St. Michael's team at 2 p.m. on Weston Field.

Dale Burnett's frosh contingent received a severe blow last week when Jerry Olsen, an outstanding T-Quarterback, ruptured a kidney and is expected to be out of commission for the rest of the season. Coach Burnett seems to have uncovered a fine replacement in Jack Morrison. Early scrimmages have indicated that although the team does not have last year's depth, it has some promising material. In the line, center Dick Kraft has all the makings of a good backer-up, while guard Chuck Salmon is doing a stand-out job in that position.

Linecoach Bobby Coombs has uncovered six good ends among the twenty-seven who originally reported. These flankmen will play an important part in a pass-conscious T-attack. Among the backfield aspirants, George MacAleenan and Pete Smith are fast and shifty while the freshmen may have found an ace break-away runner in Paul Cramer. John Kolar is another promising prospect from Buffalo, the home of so many Williams gridiron stars. From Coach Watter's hometown, White Plains, comes Kim Cameron, a hard driving and experienced back.

The next game for the youngsters will be with Wesleyan in Middletown, October 22, followed by Amherst here October 30. November 6 will wind up the season when the Union freshmen play the Purple here.

Points at which the administration may be criticized are endless, but have no practical value now that the action had been taken. We must set about to remedy the situation as quickly as possible. What must be done immediately is that the enforcement of the present regulations should be turned over to the UC. This body should then rescind them at the end of this term and form a new student government capable of passing and enforcing a new set of rules. These rules would be enforced against the offenders only, whether they be individuals or houses, and not against the student body as a whole. If this is not done, among other consequences, the college spirit that has been slowly growing during the past two years will be quite completely throttled.

Kingsley Rice '52, Sigma Phi. Although I realize that Charlie Brock's unfortunate death can in no way be connected to the curfew, it should serve as a vivid reminder of how easy it is for such accidents to happen and make the administration think twice before it forces men off campus at night to do their drinking. The publicity that will arise from this accident will be bad enough. Imagine the publicity that would arise if some serious accident in the future could be shown to be the direct result of the curfew forcing men off campus. It would be much more devastating to the name of the college than any of the acts the curfew was designed to prevent.

Mobile X Ray Unit Coming

Touring Unit To X-Ray 1500 In This Area

"Under the state anti-tuberculosis program, a mobile x-ray unit will be at the Health Center Oct. 18-22 to x-ray the students and people of Williamstown. Dr. Thomas V. O. Urmey, director of health, disclosed this week. Equipped with small x-ray units transported by trailer truck, the group is one of many touring the state under the auspices of the United States Public Health Service and local anti-tuberculosis leagues. "Williams students," Dr. Urmey continued, "will be advised by post card as to what time they are to report to the health center. The process takes approximately one minute and it will be necessary to remove outer garments only."

Should an individual's plate register positive, he will be contacted in order that a more complete examination may be given."

An anti-tuberculosis program has been operating in the state of Massachusetts since the end of World War II. Because the armed services combatted the disease so well through the process of x-raying and examining all inductees, it is the ultimate goal of the program to x-ray the entire civilian population. Doctor Urmey judged that between 1400-1500 people of the Williamstown area will be examined here.

Council Approves Regulations Controlling Students' Conduct

To Discuss Rules With Faculty Next Monday

Regulations regarding proper undergraduate social conduct, methods of student control, and penalties for violations of the new code were approved by the Undergraduate Council Monday night at a four-hour point by point consideration of the rules recommended by the Entertainment and Discipline Committee.

Drew Heineman '50, joint chairman of the Entertainment and Discipline Committee, presented a set of regulations concerning drinking and general conduct to a special meeting of the council Thursday night, October 14. The committee's regulations were passed with minor alterations Monday night by the UC.

Unprecedented Action

Prepared to assume unprecedented responsibility for student action, the UC has extended the scope of its regulations to cover the student conduct in all cases where there is any possibility of the name of the college being impaired. Basically, these rules place the responsibility for self-government upon the individual student. In event of individual infraction of the rules, the UC will hold the social unit president responsible.

Fundamentally, these rules contend with the problem of drinking and women in the social units. They will establish a general standard of behavior concerning the above in regard to specific occasions. All cases of action by the social unit president in regard to infringement of the rules will be submitted to the Discipline Committee of the UC for approval. In the case of insufficient action by the social unit president, the Discipline Committee will recommend more stringent measures.

Faculty Meets Thursday

Copies of the regulations are to be prepared and will be sent to Dean Robert R. R. Brooks and to members of the Faculty Discipline Committee. Dean Brooks said he would meet with the faculty on Thursday to hear the member's reactions to the Council's new rules of conduct.

The Faculty Discipline Committee will meet with the UC Monday night for a final consideration of the new regulations and the new problem.

As a part of regular UC business the Council appointed William Bailey '49 and Frank Donnelly '49 to the two vacant positions on the Athletic Council. John B. Gibson '50, President of the Purple Key Society, is automatically a member and is the third student representative on the Council.

Long Receives Whitney German Professorship

At their meeting on October 9 the trustees of the college designated a new chair, the Brown Professorship of History, to Professor Richard A. Newhall whose Whitney Professorship was transferred to the William Dwight Whitney Professorship of German with Orle W. Long receiving the position.

Professor Newhall is chairman "pro tempore" of the Faculty and was in charge of the College at several periods during President Baxter's absence in Washington during the war. Since 1944 he has been chairman of the Advisory Committee of the Army Air Force.

Professor Long came to Williams in 1916 as assistant professor of German and in 1932 was appointed professor. His new chair See TRUSTEES, page 4

WCA Dance Sat. In Gym

Purple Knights, Bill Lawson Featured

Highlighting the Tufts football weekend, the WCA will feature Bill Lawson's popular orchestra at the houseparty dance Saturday evening 8-12 in Lasell Gymnasium.

Sponsored by the Christian Association, the dance is informal and is designed more as a service to the college than as an attempt to aid WCA finances. The popular prices initiated at the Purple Key dance, October 9th, will again prevail. These are $2.40 per couple and $1.80 stag. tax included. Tickets are on sale at the various social units and may be procured either there or at Lasell Gym Saturday night.

Lawson Here Before

The Lawson band hails from North Adams and has played for Williams parties several times in the past. The popular young maestro and his nine piece orchestra made a big hit last Spring when they played at the Frosh dance. Upperclassmen will also remember the band from the summer houseparty of 1947 when it played here under the name of Harry Noring. Beautiful Barbara Carpenter is the featured vocalist with Lawson.

Purple Knights, Octet Featured

More star-studded entertainment will be offered by the Purple Knights Sextet. This popular campus orchestral group will hold forth during intermission in the wrestling room, making merry with a jazz concert. Building further towards a gala evening, the WCA will offer the Williams Octet as an additional feature. The Octet made several appearances last year at college dances and received solid ovations on every occasion.

This, the second of the fall football dances, promises top entertainment at a minimum price and should provide an enjoyable evening, worthy of undergrad support.

NSA Gathers At Radcliffe

Group Hopes To Join Purchase Card Plan

"Although too many persons at the conference were content with generalities, surveys, and platitudes, we did discuss some things of interest to Williams men," stated H. James Flnke, '50, local committee chairman of the National Student Association, in regard to a conference of the twenty-nine northern New England NSA member colleges at Radcliffe last weekend.

Savings of 10-30% on anything from books to night clubs are now being made by students at colleges participating in the NSA purchase card system. Students holding the cards will be able to get discounts anywhere in the United States, Flnke explained.

Williams will soon be included in the plan which has been in successful operation in Buffalo for over a year and which will soon be established in New York, Boston, Northampton and other cities.

As a result of the Williams committee's success in publishing an experimental newspaper last year, it will carry on this project on a permanent basis, it was announced. The Radcliffe con-

Campus Opinion Poll Finds Dewey Paces Slow Field; Truman Virtually Scratched

Compiled by John Shephardson

Eight of the nine students who replied to the question, "Whom do you favor in the impending national election and why?" declared their preference for Governor Thomas E. Dewey. There was no attempt on the part of the interviewer to seek opinions backing The Williams Record editorial point of view on the matter. While the following opinions were taken at random from student patrons in the College Restaurant and in campus dormitories, the interviewer actually knocked on the doors of two students who are known to oppose the Republican candidate. They were, however, not available.

Dwight Rockwell, Jr. '51, Delta Psi, New York City. I favor Dewey on evidence of his action as district attorney in New York City, and because if anyone is for World Federalism, he would be. His tendencies are more liberal towards a thing like that. Nobody has supported it outright except Wallace, but he has no chance of being elected. I don't favor Truman because of his inactivity.

T. W. Evans '52, DU, Garden City, New York. I am in favor of Tom Dewey. The American people showed in 1946 that they were tired of Democratic bungling and red tape. By electing a Republican congress they realized an awakening from a fourteen year sleep. Now under a Republican president, they will experience the American dream. While the Democratic Party is all wet, the Republicans are Dewey.

William G. Degnan '49, Garfield Club, Hartford, Conn. I intend to vote the straight Republican ticket. Dewey. I feel has more brains than Truman; Truman is an opportunist rather than a statesman. While Truman does have good advisors, he does not have the brains to analyze a situation carefully and from the analysis to make a broad plan from which to make decisions. On the domestic scene whoever gets in will have to stop inflation. Any party will do it because it's simply a matter of holding the country together.

Charles Hallock '51, Beta Theta Pi, Rensselaer, Indiana. Dewey and the Republican party offer the best ticket. They offer the most plausible and effective policies to be found in any of the present party platforms. Above all they promise to rid our government of communists and needless bureaucrats, a job which has needed doing for the past decade. The Eightieth Congress has given the nation a fine job of legislating, and with a Republican president who will aid rather than obstruct its further commendable provisions, the Eighty First Congress will do an even better job. Vote Republican!

Jerry Palmieri '50, Kappa Alpha, Darien, Conn. We need a change. I don't like Truman; I don't like Wallace. Tom Dewey, I believe, is a very strong administrator and I don't think he is anything of a puppet. I hear he does what he feels should be done. He's more for free enterprise and will give the businessman a chance, reduce government expenditures and get rid of an overloaded bureaucracy.

Tom Gamble

'50, Delta Phi, Albany, N.Y., recently finessed an opportunity to go home and register as a voter in the forthcoming election. His reasons: I can't see Dewey, and obviously not Truman. My parents are Democrats who voted for Roosevelt and I would have voted for FDR had I been eligible. I have met Tom Dewey, and personally was impressed by him. But while he is not a reactionary, he is certainly not liberal. I am definitely not for Wallace.

George B. Kneass '50, Delta Phi Berwyn, Pa. I favor Dewey. I object to Truman's wandering foreign policy. Dewey is a much more capable administrator and will get along with congress more than Harry S. Truman. I expect a more or less conservative foreign policy on the order of Truman's, but more consistent. I think he will leave inflation alone, and I feel this will be beneficial.

Fred Peyser

'50, Delta Phi, Great Neck, N.Y. I like Dewey because he is liberal and at the same time is a good administrator. He will be able to control his party as Truman is unable to and in the same manner that FDR controlled the Democrats. The Dewey administration will be consistent and won't be an administration of expediency.

Edward B. Fox '50, Garfield club Cazenovia, N. Y. Having been born and bred a staunch Republican, and firmly believing that the Republicans are putting up a better ticket than the Democrats, I could not vote for Harry S. Truman. Nevertheless... I will give the reasons I would vote the major Democratic ticket if I were going to do so.

1. Truman has promised to repeal the Taft-Hartley act, which, if I were a democrat, I would believe as a sagacious move. Although the act has obviously done much to clarify the position of labor with regard to the rest of the country and is apparently proving to be one of the largest steps toward untangling the economic difficulties that have harried the country since 1932. I would firmly believe that there was either nothing to untangle, or that the same results would have come about more quickly in some miraculous way without the unpleasantness and hard feelings caused by the malicious congress which is obviously trying to discredit our president.

2. Harry Truman has had more than three year's experience in See OPINION, page 4

Bowdoin Tops Ephmen, 34-0 Duffield Stars In Away Game

Unit Organizes Rifle Team

Officer Hopeful Of Big Things

The din of exploding fire arms, currently emanating from the former baseball cage, is evidence of the ROTC's present ambition to develop some crack rifle teams in connection with the unit's course on weapons and marksmanship.

Competition is now under way among ROTC men in all four years for positions on the teams. Coach of the marksmen is Major John A. Cosgrove who has previously coached championship teams in the Hawaiian Islands. "We have good material and hope to have one of the sixteen best teams in the country," Sgt. C. P. Smith, in charge of public relations, revealed to The Record.

Modern Equipment

Sgt. Smith described the indoor firing range, which has recently been supplied with the most modern equipment, as being as good as any in New England. The range is now provided with target carriers for the seven fifty foot lanes.

The unit plans to enter two teams in the William Randolph Hearst Trophy competition and to fire a number of dual meets with colleges and universities. All matches are fired on the local range with 22 cal. rifles, and scores are compared by mail, Sgt. Smith said.

"We are hoping for big things," Colonel Joseph A. L. Greco remarked, referring to the marksmen now in training. The unit's CO also stated that the ROTC looks forward to organizing a college rifle team sometime in the indefinite future.

Weapons Experience

The range is primarily for the purpose of giving all ROTC men some familiarity with firing arms. Sgt. Smith said, in order that no one put on active duty in the future would be entirely lacking in experience with personal weapons.

Men learn not only how to fire one piece, but they get acquainted with all weapons such as the 45 cal. sub-machine gun, the Browning Automatic rifle and rifle grenades. At the North Adams Armory ROTC men are shown every type of weapon now in use by the army.

Competition for the first of the many teams has been intensified by the fact that the eight best men will acquire new rifles, recently obtained for use by the ROTC.

Eph Freshmen Tie St. Mike

Fumble On Four Yd. Line Cost Williams Victory

With time running out in the third quarter, Jack Morrison threw a touchdown pass to George McAleenan, kicked the extra point and gave Dale Burnett's freshman football team a 13-13 tie with a bigger and more experienced St. Michael's team in their opener on Weston Field last Saturday.

St. Mike's scored early in the first period on an eight yard buck which climaxed a sustained fifty-eight yard drive but their drop kicking specialist Art Coggio failed as they led 6-0. The Ephmen came back in the second period when John Kolsar and Paul Cramer spearheaded a thirty yard drive which ended when See FROSH, page 3

Rosse, Siroy, Burke Shine For Victors

Penalties, Fumbles Help Polar Bear Cause

by Blair Perry

Scoring midway through the first quarter and adding to that lead throughout the contest, Bowdoin's heavier and faster Polar Bears trampled the Royal Purple colors into the turf of Whittier Stadium in Brunswick, Maine, by a score of 34-0 Saturday afternoon.

With a few breaks on their side of the ledger, Coach Len Watters boys might have made it a very different story, but after Bowdoin speedster Dick Rosse broke away for the third touchdown on the fourth play of the second half it was strictly no contest. The home team's T-formation attack, featuring the ball-carrying of Rosse, 157 pounds of lightning, and hard driving Jules Siroy, ran wild on the Eph eleven all afternoon, while the deadly accurate passing of quarterback Dave Burke directly accounted for two touchdowns and helped to set up two others.

Offensively, the Purple grid-ders looked like champions in their own backyard, but just couldn't seem to click on the other side of the midfield stripe. Only twice did the Ephmen penetrate inside the Bowdoin 25-yard line, once on a desperation pass as time ran out in the first half. The steadily brilliant running, passing, and punting of tailback Stu Duffield was about the only bright spot in a dismal day for the visitors.

Penalty Hurts

It was a fifteen yard penalty for roughing the kicker that opened the door for the first score, handing Bowdoin a first down on the Williams 30. Rosse and Siroy carried the pigskin to the 19, and two Burke-to-Lee passes put it on the four, from where fullback Bob McAvoy bucked over. Jim Draper kicked the extra-point, his first of four in a perfect day.

Bowdoin's second touchdown came as the climax of an uninterrupted seventy-yard drive in the second period. A Rosse-to-Lee toss advanced the ball to the Williams 40, and after Rosse and Siroy carried to the three, Burke passed to Lee for the six-pointer. A bad pass from center prevented adding a seventh.

Williams threatened twice in the last five minutes of the half as the Duffield-Fish aerial combination started to click momentarily, but Bowdoin intercepted behind their own goal line to destroy one opportunity. In the final minute of play Duffield intercepted a Polar Bear pass at midfield and ran it back to the 28, and time ran out before the Purple could cash in on their scoring chance.

Rosse Shines

On the first play of the second half, Rosse scooted sixty yards off-tackle to score, only to have it nullified by a clipping penalty, but a moment later he added injury to insult by repeating on a thirty-five yard sprint. The fourth Bowdoin tally was recorded on a fourteen-yard pass from Burke to Graff after the Polar Bears had moved from their own 38 against the tiring Ephmen, with the unstoppable Rosse again doing the bulk of the work.

In the final period the home team's reserves added another score for good measure after recovering a fumble on the Williams 27. Veale bucked over from three with the clincher and Draper split the uprights once more to end the scoring.

Advice to Williams men: When you go to Skidmore or Wesleyan don't profess the fact that you go to Williams!

Miss Phyllis Dye, editor of the "Skidmore News" lately informed the readers of "The News" that, "The general trend of harsh and satiric criticism directed toward Williams, concerning the individual fraternity and college conduct during social affairs—which were carried on morning, noon, and night throughout the week—are well-founded and justified. Williams men exploited their social privileges; and consequently, they deservedly received the well-known 'ax' by the administration and received a 'black mark' for their college."

Mr. Duncan Fraser, editor of "The Wesleyan Argus" after quoting the stock phrase about 'minimum rules of conduct', goes on to state, "It is to be hoped and confidently expected, that if ever circumstances even remotely paralleled those at Williams the Wesleyan College Body, and the CB Senate, representing the fraternities, would take immediate steps to make things wholesome again. This is to say, it is our considered opinion that what happened at Williams, with the college administration 'laying down the law' will never happen at Wesleyan, because our fraternities and our Student government have enough good sense to prevent such a state of affairs from ever coming about."

In reality, this is an open letter to the principals mentioned above, and secondly, a point to be made to the pro-curfewites. We are flattered that Skidmore and Wesleyan should take such interest in Williams domestic difficulties, however, for such interested parties we would like to set them straight on certain facts. In the case of Miss Dye, we question her knowledge of the facts of the situation. We wonder where the journalistic Miss acquired such first hand information for her tirade.

Mr. Fraser's account, has a definite purpose behind it and as a colleague who is trying to bolster the Williams student government, we see his point. Wesleyan is still in the throes of deciding the merit of a fraternity Hell Week. Apparently, the Wesleyan student government cannot arrive at a decision, and because the administration is hot on the necks of the fraternities to do something about it, the student government is on the spot. Mr. Fraser is merely trying to bolster the Wesleyan government by pointing out the faults of Williams, i.e., just how bad it can really be and thus give a backhanded pat to the Wesleyan CB. His is an admirable crusade.

For the information of these two editors, however, we request them to peruse the columns of the October 9 issue of The Williams Record. In column one page one, is an article concerning the fictitious origin of the famous Williams phrase, 'a particularly wet week-end.' Secondly, we honestly believe that the front page editorial of the same issue is not only a statement of our opinion but also a factual account of Williams student opinion and the ill-fate of the student government. As a warning to Mr. Fraser, the Wesleyan administration can easily imitate Williams if they are so inclined.

To the home front the moral of this explanation to our worthy components at Skidmore and Wesleyan is to merely suggest that the Williams man really loves the 'bad boy' tag which has been played up throughout national and collegiate newspapers—just like we love a hole in the head. Incidentally, we don't make a practice of punching holes in our own head.

Letters To The Editor

Curfew Comment

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

I am writing this letter regarding the "Curfew" at Williams, because I hope that undergraduates will be interested in the reactions of an alumnus, albeit as recent as June 1948.

First, may I congratulate Wheaton B. Byers '50 for his very thought-provoking letter of the fifth instant. I take liberty to quote two sections which all undergraduates and graduates alike should ponder over.

It seems to me that in driving the students off the campus the college is creating a situation far more dangerous, and in the long run far more detrimental to its name than has heretofore arisen.

To look at the situation realistically, it seems to me that if it is no longer possible to entertain at the social units beyond the chaste hour of ten, a student has no alternative but to seek out one of the spots in the surrounding country resigned to do this for him.

When we consider the manner and circumstance under which Charles R. Brock, late of the Junior class, met his death after the football game with Champlain College, the above quotations are fraught with danger. Man after all is a social animal, and any arbitrary regulations, imposed without the consent or consideration of the student body, the UC, and the Discipline Committee, will be violated. The Administration should look to its conscience to see whether its rulings helped create the "dangerous and detrimental situation" which brought on Charley's untimely death. The other members of his house who were in the accident, plus Miss Bennett, were fortunate to have lived to tell of it.

Second, Dan Pugh, in his letter of October 1st, and printed in the Record of the 6th says, "But the most basic source of fault lies within the individual Joe College Doaks." Could be! BUT, since last Spring, neither the Houses nor the UC and Discipline Committee have been given the opportunity to prove their ability to regulate themselves. By its action it is difficult to escape the belief that the Administration has no confidence in the students as being responsible citizens. They have reduced the UC and the Discipline Committee to impotent groups of students. The Administration disregarding the students. THAT IS GOVERNMENT WITHOUT CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED. President Baxter believes in Civil Liberties, but denies it on his own campus.

Third, NOW is the time for the Administration to delegate to the UC and Discipline Committee authority and power to initiate what action seems necessary. Failure to do so is contrary to the Constitution of the United States.

Dewey Administration Faces Stern Congressional Struggle

According to the nation's pollsters, one of Caesar Petillo's right hand men will be looking for a new job next January, for if we can believe Messrs. Gallup, Roper, and their associates, pianist Harry Truman's 45-month lease on "1800 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C." will expire next January 20th as Governor Thomas E. Dewey becomes the country's thirty-third president.

Assuming this to be true, Mr. John Q. Public is now asking himself, "What kind of a president will Tom Dewey be?" If Dewey's past political and administrative record is considered a criterion, then we can safely say that Dewey's term or terms in the White House will be highly successful and of great value to the American people. But many voters realize the innumerable obstacles confronting any president of the United States and pose the more vital question, "Will Tom Dewey be able to organize such a united, efficient government as he has in New York State when faced by problems of lesser importance?" Political analysts such as Elmer Davis, former OWI chieftain, believe that the answer to this query may be the answer to our international future as a nation during the next four or eight years.

Therefore, what about this Dewey? The "man on the corner" knows the obvious facts of Dewey's career—beginning with his birth in Owosso, Michigan, some forty-six years ago, continuing with his collegiate days both as an undergraduate and as an astute law school student, and followed by his meteoric political rise to fame as New York City District Attorney and two-term governor of New York State. This information sounds encouraging enough, but translated into action, what will the election of Dewey mean to the average citizen?

His supporters usually reply to this by a "Look at his record in New York" or "Listen to his campaign speeches." After following this advice for a few weeks, we have produced these answers:

Foreign Policy—Dewey obviously will continue the bipartisan policy which he claims to have founded in 1944. The dominating personality in the foreign field will undoubtedly be John Foster Dulles, Dewey's personal U. N. representative who is destined to become Secretary of State in the Dewey Administration. Senator Arthur Vandenberg is also slated for a major role in the formulation of U. S. foreign policy. Dewey has pledged himself to work for a "get-tough" policy toward Russia. He believes that we should not compromise our principles in the critical Berlin situation and has called for more faith in the United Nations. Referring to the Russians as "Strong equals," Dewey hinted at a federated Europe as a possible solution, but favors a united, heavily-armed U. S. in the meantime. He is a strong supporter of the Marshall Plan and has proposed further extension of the Plan to include greater aid for China. Despite bitter opposition from members of his own party, Dewey will urge the continuation of Reciprocal Trade Agreements. In general Dewey thinks "the best defense is a good offense" and will demand the expansion of the armed forces.

Labor—While agreeing with the major provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act, Dewey has advocated a higher minimum wage, increased social security benefits for more people, greater wage equalization, a better and more powerful Department of Labor, and stricter enforcement of anti-trust laws. His labor policy will follow a middle-of-the-road trend.

Taxation—Here Dewey will rely upon his New York fiscal experts, mainly Elliott Bell, John Burton, and Al Chapman. As Dewey has said, "There must be a revision in taxes to encourage savings and stimulate production." He has repeated the "politicians' oath" proposing to ease the tax burden, chiefly by less government spending. Also he plans to reduce the federal debt, but both of these political dreams seem inconsistent with other policies of his advocating more financial aid to European countries and increased armed forces' expenditures. However, if not stymied by the interference of John Taber, Dewey will follow sound fiscal policies.

Farm and Business—His principle appeal for the farm vote has been in the form of promises for a new soil conservation program along with increased reclamation and irrigation projects. Dewey favors the further development of hydroelectric power and will continue the government support of farm prices through subsidies. In the business area, he has emphasized his intention to help small business. Look for a conservative program here.

Housing and Inflation—Dewey has called for "decent housing at a reasonable cost" and plans to achieve this goal by the use of federal funds if necessary. On several occasions he has emphatically stated, "Inflation can be licked!" His solution to this problem lies in the reduction of government spending, something which observers feel he may find difficulty in accomplishing.

Civil Rights—This fundamental issue which has been Truman's "Waterloo," might well prove disastrous for Dewey if he has to depend upon conservative Southern support in Congress, because his program as seen in New York, stresses the breaking down of racial and religious barriers. His stand on the Communist "Red-Herring" controversy was well received after his Oregon debate with Harold Stassen in which Dewey wished to expose communists so that they could be watched.

Atomic control ranks high with other campaign issues. As long as the United States is in any danger Dewey favors government control of atomic secrets, but eventually, he hopes to abolish the present governmental monopoly. The Republican standard bearer has expressed concern over the confusion in the unification of the armed services and will take steps to iron out these problems. Dewey is known to favor extension of government aid in education as is shown by his post-war veterans' colleges in upstate New York.

Throughout the campaign Dewey's opponents have been attempting to draw him out of his shell, but thus far, Dewey has been too smart, realizing that he is far in the lead in the presidential race and must merely maintain a portion of this advantage during the last two weeks of the campaign to be elected president. Therefore Dewey has let his opponents discuss the controversial issues which arouse tempers, while he campaigns on a unity platform. Although Dewey is not very popular personally, not even his rivals doubt his ability to organize, for his strength lies not in his own ability to perform governmental tasks, but rather in his ability to surround himself with men who will do the job. Often he has lured outstanding men away from $100,000 a year jobs, to work for the comparatively small sum of $10,000. These men form what is known as the "Dewey team."

But here we are faced by the $64 question—will Dewey be able to lure such competent men as Paul Lockwood, Herbert Brownell, Harold Talbott, Elliott Bell, Roger Straus, or John Burton into positions of importance in the federal government where they will not be allowed the freedom of action they were in New York? In Washington these efficiency-plus experts will encounter such political sharpshooters as Joe Grundy, Wayne Morse, and Colonel Robert McCormick. Also they will be subject to continual Congressional investigation, particularly by the reactionary House of Representatives. Old Guard stalwarts Joe Martin, Charlie Halleck, Leslie Arends, Harold Knutson, John Taber, Leo Allen, and Jesse Wolcott won't be content to sit idly by and watch any Dewey steamroller legislation—remember—these men are in a position to do a little dictating of policy themselves. Traditionally the Republican Party has been run by the so-called Old Guard ultra-conservative element of the party, not by

Holy Cross Swamped 21-34 By Eph Cross Country Squad

Kelton Leads Pack To Set Probable Mark; Meet Middlebury Next

With the Holy Cross Crusaders as their victim, the varsity cross country squad raced to a one-sided 21-34 win Friday on the Taconic course. Bill Kelton, junior ace, led the Purple over the 3.7 mile route and turned in the best effort of his career by winning in an unofficial record time for the home course of 20:56 minutes. Due to a lack of complete files the former record holder and his exact time have not been uncovered although there is good evidence that Kelton's clocking is the lowest for the distance.

On the whole Plansky's harriers showed marked improvement over last week's losing performance to Springfield. Kelton, who hit the halfway point in 10:16, led the pack all the way though dogged by Dick Ahern of Holy Cross until the last mile. At the Weston field tape Bill had almost a hundred yards on his opponent who was timed in 21:13. Closely following the entire distance was Williams' Captain Paul Cook who clocked 21:17 for his best clocking.

Collins, Dorian Surprise
In fourth position about a hundred yards behind Cook was Kevin Collins in 21:36. A visitor grabbed fifth place but Phil Collins and George Dorian were right after him in the good times of 22:10 and 22:12 to complete Williams' morning and the decisive triumph. Holy Cross took the next three places in order. Then came Ephemen George Hutton in 23:50, Pete Sylvester in 24:12 and Ernie May in 24:22. The Crusaders had previously lost to Tufts and beaten Harvard in a Triangular meet.

Meet With Middlebury
With experience of two meets behind them, the hilland dalers should be well prepared to face Middlebury on Friday in what will be the last contest at Williamstown this season. Middlebury is pretty much of an unknown quantity since this is the first time since 1942 that Plansky's charges have met the Panthers. However, it is known that the Vermonters edged Amherst, third in last fall's Little Three meet by a tight 27-28 margin and that they have six lettermen from last season.

Booters Lose To U Conn 4-1

Visitors Scored Upon First Time In '48

Connecticut's unbeaten and previously unscored-upon soccer team exploded three goals in the first quarter to give them a 4-1 victory over Williams last Saturday on Cole Field.

Except for the disastrous first quarter, the Ephemen held the Huskies to one goal, and scored one themselves to mar the unblemished record of the Connecticut booters. Connecticut had previously downed Yale 3-0, Dartmouth 6-0, and Tufts 5-0.

Manning Scores

Williams sole tally came seven minutes from the end of the game, when outside-left Dick Manning picked up a long kick by Jerry Page, broke through the defense, and blasted a shot past the U Conn goalie, who had not been scored upon this year.

Connecticut started fast, with outside-left Baldwin scoring the first of his two goals four minutes after the game had begun. Three minutes later, inside-left Pratt took a center from his wing and scored again. Four minutes from the end of the period, Baldwin scored his second goal after a long center and pile-up in the goal mouth. A scoreless second quarter followed. The half ended with the Blue and White Connecticut team ahead 3-0.

Halfback Paul Cramer of Williams successfully eludes would-be St. Michaels tacklers on his way to pay dirt in the second quarter of Saturday's freshman game.

that almost split the nets. After playing themselves back into the ball game, the Purple eased up, and Connecticut racked up its fourth and last score of the day, eight minutes before the end of the third quarter, when inside-left Pratt scored his second goal of the day on a long shot.

Back In Game

Williams got back in the ball game in the third quarter, playing aggressive ball which kept Connecticut backed into their own territory. Although they didn't score in this period, they looked more like a team. In the last quarter, they continued to play some aggressive soccer, with Dick Manning finally converting a shot to spoil Connecticut's unscored-upon record.

Connecticut outclassed Williams most of the way. They continually beat the home team to the ball, and showed fine passing among the halfbacks and forwards. Williams never could seem to get their offense rolling, playing a defensive game most of the way. The Ephs were unsuccessful at working the ball in. Their only scoring opportunities came on fast breaks.

Kneass Out

The home team was handicapped by the absence of George Kneass, star halfback who was hurt in mid-week scrimmage, although his replacement, Rollo Palmedo got off some fine kicks. Captain Frank Donnelly again came through with his aggressive game, at times doing more than a half of the work for the Purples.

The forward line never could break through the Huskies defense with any consistency. Thus, the Purple halfbacks had to play defensive ball most of the way. Johnny Bowen stood out on defense, while Fullbacks Rog Dickinson and Jerry Page, who had their hands full all afternoon, time and again turned the play away from the Williams' goal.

In the opening period, Connecticut had the play all their own way, constantly beating the Ephs to the ball and giving a fine exhibition of passing with which the Purple could not cope. In the second quarter, Williams found little life, and the play was not as lopsided, although it was still dominated by the Blue and White.

Frosh . . .

Cramer almost literally slid over from the seven. Quarterback Morrison's kick was blocked and it was a tie ball game. However, only five minutes later, a wobbly St. Mike's pass handcuffed the weak Purple pass defense and the Michaelsmen had a first down on the Williams seventeen.

McAleenan Scores

Two plays later the big St. Mike fullback plunged over for the score and this time the drop-kicker Coggio converted successfully to make the score 13-6 as the half ended. Dale Burnett's halftime talk seems to have had magical effects as a series of pitchouts to Kolsar and endruns by Cramer kept the ball deep in St. Mike territory throughout the third quarter. The pay-off play came late in the quarter when Jack Morrison hit George McAleenan with a twenty-one yard pass as McAleenan was crossing the goal-line. It was the prettiest pass play seen at Weston in many a day.

The fourth quarter was a defensive duel which was climaxed by a Williams fumble on the St. Mike four yard line. The game ended with St. Mike's attempting to drive out of their own territory. The game's most noteworthy feature was probably the hard and decisive tackling by the yearlings but several individual performances cannot be ignored. Paul Cramer ran, kicked and passed like a veteran while John Kolsar looked like a great broken field runner as well as an outstanding defensive ballplayer.

the activities of this and all other campus groups very fair and impartial treatment in your reporting of them. I sincerely hope that this extremely biased and unfair report does not represent a permanent policy of departure from The Record's high standard of objectivity.

Although it is impossible to repair all the damage done by the original article, I should like to set The Record straight on a few points. The death of the Students for Wallace movement is not impending. Like the Young Republicans and Young Democrats we have been concentrating upon the election of our presidential candidate during this election year. After elections we will continue as Young Progressives. Like our counterparts in the other two parties we will not call ourselves Students for Wallace any more than they call themselves Students for Truman or Dewey.

Contrary to Mr. Heuer's statement, we have no "passion for rabble rousing." We are organized for the purpose of intelligent political action and discussion.

If The Record is to continue to enjoy the high esteem of the faculty and students which it has held in the past, as I am sure it will, it will have to continue to keep opinion in the editorial columns.

'49 Chooses Five Nominees

Small Number Present at Tuesday Meeting

More than thirty per cent of the class gathered in the Ballroom Tuesday evening to nominate five men for next week's elections.

William P. Maynard, Richard P. Jerome, Page, Alan Harter, William Heineman were chosen by the sixty men present at the meeting. Heineman received the largest number of votes but was selected to replace John A. Howell who declined the nomination.

Presiding over the meeting was Henry Strong '49 Undergraduate Council president. Strong reminded the gathering of the new election procedure whereby campaign managers must be chosen by the five nominees before the election. His remark that campaigning is expected to increase "class spirit" was greeted by a slight chuckle.

Gargoyle President Edwin Maynard of Brooklyn, N.Y., was co-captain of lacrosse last year, is president of the Williams Christian Association this year and is vice president of Chi Psi. He has been a member of the Student Activities Council, U.C., the Glee Club, the Adelpic Union and last year was a junior advisor. He was secretary of his class 1946-47.

Alan Harter, who hails from Westfield, N.Y., is president of Zeta Psi, treasurer of Gargoyle, secretary of the SAC, manager of the Glee Club and is a member of the discipline committee of the U.C. A member of the choir since he has been at college. Harter has also worked on WCA and WMS. He was a junior advisor last year.

Edwin Page of Columbus, Ohio is a member of Gargoyle and is president of Chi Psi. He serves on the U.C., the honor system committee and the discipline committee. Page is also on the baseball and soccer teams and was on the track team his freshman and sophomore years. He has been a member of WCA and last year was a junior advisor.

Adelpic Union Holds Try-Outs

First Debate To Be Held With Dartmouth

Last Monday evening the Adelpic Union will hold try-outs for men interested in participating in a debating tournament with Dartmouth College November 19. The subject of this debate will be "Resolved; that the Federal Government should adopt a policy of equalizing educational opportunity in tax supported schools by means of annual grants." Material for this subject has been put on reserve in the Library cage. The time of these try-outs is 7:30 p.m. Monday, October 25 in 2 Griffin Hall.

Students intending to qualify for this debate should be prepared to speak for four minutes on either side of the question. At a future date try-outs will be held on other subjects for members of the freshman class.

Williams Republicans will have a chance to actively support their party Tuesday evening, October 26, by joining a "caravan" of cars driving to North Adams to take part in a parade and rally to be held there.

A prize will be awarded to the social unit having the best decorated car in the caravan. Lyndon Wells '49, president of the Dewey-Warren Club announced at a meeting of fraternity Republican leaders Tuesday evening, October 19. Because of the North Adams meeting, the club has cancelled plans for a speaker this week.

Wells also announced that a dance will be given by the Williamstown Women's Republican Club tonight at the grammar school cafeteria. Refreshments will be served and everyone is welcome.

Membership in the Dewey-Warren Club is open to anyone interested. Each social unit has a representative who can enroll new members.

Juniors Pick Candidates

Last Session Reopens Tuesday Nominations

The Junior Class, following a Tuesday night nominating session which was judged unfair by UC officials, reopened the slate last Wednesday night and selected Stuart H. Cool, John C. Griggs, Raymond E. Baldwin, John S. Prescott, Dudley M. Irwin and Henry E. Wineman as their candidates for class office. William R. Barney, Jr., '49 presided over the nominations.

A minority in the class requested Tuesday night that the nominations be reopened in order that they might propose additional candidates for the final selection. Approximately 180 juniors met the next night to choose the final slate from a list of twenty-four nominated men. The election of class president and secretary will be held Tuesday, October 26.

Stuart H. Cool, a member of Sigma Phi, is a Junior Advisor this year. He has been on the football squad the last two years and is a regular starter at end position this fall. Cool was captain of the freshman basketball team and played on the varsity last winter.

Ramond Baldwin, a Chi Psi, has been on the swimming team for three years and was elected co-captain for the '48-'49 season. Baldwin has also been on the baseball squad for his two years at college and has been active on WMS and the Williams Christian Association. He is also an Upper Class Advisor.

John C. Griggs, who is treasurer of the Kappa Alpha fraternity, has played hockey and lacrosse and been active in soccer. He captained the freshman soccer team, was co-captain of JV

'51 Nominates Five Men

Mierzejewski, Geneisse, Selly, Speary & Smythe

At a meeting of the class of '51 last Tuesday evening in Goodrich Hall five men were nominated to run for the two class offices. Last year Ernie Mierzejewski was President and Bill Sperry was Secretary-Treasurer. They were nominated to run for office again along with George Selly, Bob Geneisse, and Winky Smythe.

Mierzejewski, a member of Sigma Phi, was Captain and regular guard of last year's undefeated freshman football team, and is a first string guard on the Varsity this season. He also played freshman baseball and was the regular third baseman of the freshmen; Ernie prepped for Williams at Tabor Academy.

Bill Sperry, a member of Phi Gamma Delta, came to Williams from Scarsdale High School. He was first string quarterback on the freshman football team last year and is at present a reserve quarterback on the Varsity squad. He also won his numerals in freshman swimming and baseball.

George Selly prepared for Williams at Trinity School in New York City. He was a member of last winter's undefeated freshman wrestling team, and is on the staff of WMS. He is a member of the Garfield Club and was on both the Freshman Honor Roll and the Dean's List.

Bob Geneisse, a member of Alpha Delta Phi came to Williams from New Trier High School in Winnetka, Illinois. He played freshman football and is a first string tackle on the Varsity. In his freshman year he was on the Freshman Honor Roll and Dean's List.

Truman Talks To Federalists

Group Plans Extensive Membership Drive

Meeting Monday night in Griffin Hall, the United World Federalists heard Professor David B. Truman speak on "Influencing Public Opinion", and began the organization of members who will travel to nearby communities, schools, and homes to tell interested people about their doctrines and enlist their support.

Truman Outlines Problems

Introduced by President A. Richard Goodman '49, Mr. Truman outlined the problems facing World Federalists in putting their program over to the public. In facing audiences, speakers in general face individuals with already established prejudices which are not always logical. Mr. Truman stated. It is the aim of the speaker to convince his audience that his cause is the one to support. While preparing his speech, the speaker must find out what people are thinking about prior to his appearance before them, so that he will be prepared to answer their questions, added Mr. Truman.

Groups such as the World Federalists should not restrict their audiences to members of Kiwanis, Lions, and Rotary Clubs and similar civic organizations, said Prof. Truman, for the composition of such organizations is on the whole made of the same enterprising individuals. Speakers should strive to make contact with the people both above and below that level.

Summarizes Talk

Summarizing his talk, Prof. Truman said that any speaker must convince his audience that his cause is worthy of supporting. Once that is done he should make it clear what, when, and how to do the desired action.

Plans were made for the organization of student groups covering college and nearby communities. Underway now is the drive to familiarize undergraduates with the aims and purposes of the United World Federalists movement through the presentation of a film in each social unit followed by a period of discussion. Expanding this system, groups will travel to Albany, Troy, Pittsfield, and North Adams to talk to students and adults in those communities. It is hoped by the group that within the month a series of radio programs to be broadcast by Station WMNB in North Adams will be launched.

"Color Storm" Will Highlight Entire Affair

Williams Octet, Jazz Sextet To Lighten Intermission Tonite

The WCA football dance, which will be held from 8-12 tonight in the Lasell gymnasium, will feature Bill Lawson's orchestra, the Purple Knights' Jazz Sextet, and the Williams Octet.

Unlike dances of the past, this will have no connection with houseparties. It is strictly a football dance, and is informal. The WCA is presenting it primarily as a service to the college, not to aid its own finances.

Spectacular Setting

The decorations for the dance will consist of an electrical display called "A Storm of Colors". This brilliant effect is achieved through the use of twenty-eight different color combinations. No white lights are used.

Lawson's orchestra is the same one which played at the frosh dance last spring under the name of Harry Noring. Barbara Carpenter will be the vocalist, and the Williams Octet will present a program of choral numbers. In addition, the Purple Knights' Jazz Sextet will entertain during the intermission, giving a jazz concert in the wrestling room.

Tickets At Low Prices

Tickets for the dance may be obtained through the WCA representatives in the various social units, or they may be purchased at the door. The price will be the same as those which were in effect at the Purple Key dance, $2.40 per couple and $1.60 for stags, tax included.

Paragraphs In The News

Among the eminent scientists attending the first meeting of the Committee on Plans for Mobilizing Science in Washington, October 13, was President James P. Baxter 3rd. The committee is studying the problem of organization of scientific resources in event of a national emergency. President Baxter, served in the office of Scientific Research and Development during the war.

Currently on exhibit in the Lawrence Art Museum is an unfinished oil painting by Paul Cezanne, "Landscape at la Roche-Guyon." On loan from Smith College Museum of Art, the unfinished original has been placed on display among reproductions of other Cezanne masterpieces.

Mr. William O. Wycoff, head of the Placement Bureau has requested that all juniors fill out their placement blanks and return them as soon as possible.

At a recent meeting of the Faculty, it was voted to raise the requirements for the Special Cut List from 3 B's over 2 C's to straight B's. The standard for the Special Cut List is therefore the same as that for the Dean's List. This policy will become effective in the second semester of this academic year.

'Teleprinter' Allows News Bureau To Send Spot Stories To Any Newspaper In Nation

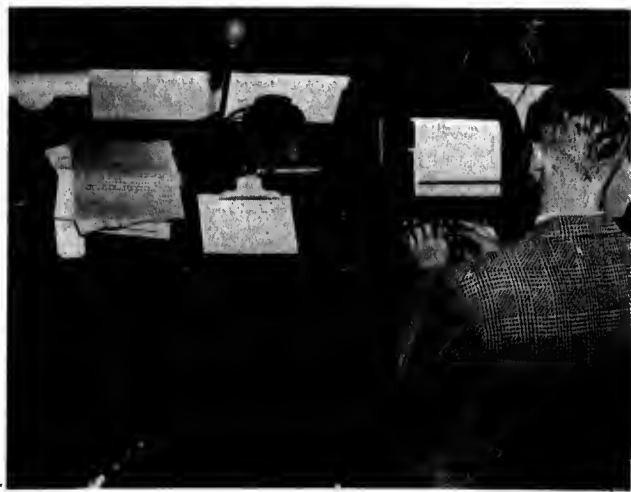

A western Union messenger interrupted our interview with News Bureau President Bill Barney '49, Thursday, as he was describing the "teleprinter" his organization has newly acquired that gives direct contact with any newspaper in the country.

"Here's evidence of the advantage the teleprinter has given us," said Barney, reading the contents of the wire. It was from The New York Times, requesting the coverage for Saturday's football game with Tufts.

The Times' interest, Barney declared, is a direct result of the News Bureau's ability to send out football news to the big city newspapers directly as it happens. Heretofore Williams scores and stories could not reach New York in time for the early editions which are printed Saturday evening. This explains why local Times and Herald Tribune subscribers have rarely seen Williams football news on their Sunday morning sports pages.

"But with the new teletype machine," Barney asserted, "we now even make quarterly reports on the progress of local games in addition to sending out a detailed report immediately at the end."

The acquisition of the teleprinter marks the latest move in the reorganization of the News

Above is the new "teleprinter" in operation which has added to the facilities of the revolutionized setup in Williams publicity.

Bureau which was begun last year. Previously housed in the Williams Record offices, the Bureau now has its own facilities in a room on the second floor of Jesup Hall.

The upstairs office houses the teleprinter, telephone, desks, files, a bulletin board exhibiting clippings from out of town newspapers and a card catalogue containing publicity information on every student in college.

When the Bureau sends a story on the teleprinter, the Pittsfield clearing house for stories is first reached by pressing the letter "J" repeatedly on the machine's keyboard. The name of the newspaper to receive the story is then typed out and the News Bureau line is plugged into the recipient's wire. Then follows the story, typed out as on a regular typewriter with a few exceptions. Messages can be sent as well as received.

The Bureau keeps contact with thirty newspapers in the East, the

Explanation

(ED: It has been the practice of The Williams Record not to publish anonymous letters. We intend to continue this practice. We do not particularly mind criticism but it soothes the conscience when we know from what quarter it comes. To the irate anonymous Reader who teed off on us for the series of articles entitled "Equality or Fraternities?", we refer him to the editorial column of the September 29th issue of The Record. Please dear Readers read before you criticize; know of what you speak before you speak.)

We And The Worker

To The Editor Of the Williams Record:

In reply to my letter protesting bias in its news pages, The Record has sunk even lower than the Daily Worker. This is indeed a feat.

October 21, 1948

Donald J. Merwin

ED: We wonder if Reader Merwin's conception of politics is as correct as his mis-interpretation of the printed word.

Again The Worker

To The Editor of The Williams Record:

Your malicious, unwarranted dig at Reader Merwin in the Letters to The Editor column in the issue of October 20 was typical of the journalistic depths and ethical nadir to which The Williams Record has sunk. Reader Merwin, complaining of an opinionated account of the activities of the local Wallace group, with which he is affiliated, was extremely courteous and gentlemanly-like in his letter. He flattered The Record for its commendable journalistic policies in the past (God only knows why) and expressed the hope that The Record would readopt its traditions of unbiased and fair news-writing. That his hopes were false was borne out a few lines later by your spiteful and uncalled for Editor's note.

You justified the printing of the opinionated article by the fact that it was by-line'd. You further condoned your action by stating that The Daily Worker does the same thing. We are happy that you have placed yourself in the same category with The Daily Worker. This is one of the few examples of honest, objective reporting found in The Record this year. Let's have more of the same!

Question

To The Editor of the Williams Record:

Is the administration satisfied?

October 21, 1948

Henry P. Wickham

ED: Possibly like betting on the horses—who ran, who placed and what a show.

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

In today's issue you refer to me as a member of the Williamstown Republican committee.

I would appreciate your informing me when this appointment took place. Since I am also a member of the Williamstown Democratic committee. I am beginning to wonder whether the Republicans are not carrying this unity business a bit too far.

Sincerely yours,

Williamstown, October 16, 1948

James M. Burns

ED: Governor Warren did it in California.

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

In the September 25 Record was a letter written by Edson Spencer '48 urging that Williams discontinue its membership in the National Student Association. The purpose of this letter is not to answer Mr. Spencer's objections to NSA, most of which we think are justified, but to correct a false statement made in Mr. Spencer's letter.

Dartmouth College has not rejected membership, but is actively interested in the NSA, although not yet a member. Representatives from Dartmouth were present at the regional conference at Radcliffe last weekend, taking an enthusiastic yet critical part in the proceedings, but naturally were not allowed to vote. Smith College, which Mr. Spencer misrepresents as about to leave the NSA is on the contrary one of the most active participants in the New England Region.

Mr. Spencer also says that Princeton has rejected the NSA. We do not know what the facts are in this particular case, and would be interested in having accurate information.

This is blast-Williams week among the editors.

Angelic college journalists in self-righteous colleges everywhere are rolling up their sleeves and declaring an open season on the Royal Purple. Every haloed editor with a typewriter and half a wit is getting in line behind the Boston Herald and the New York Journal American in a smear campaign which started with the houseparty ax.

Williams has been made the scape-goat for every drunk, every molested date, every social sin on every campus in New England. "Look at the nice fellows here at Podunk U." they snicker. "Not at all like those nasty Williams boys who don't know how to behave."

Last Wednesday an editorial appeared on this page, quoting another edit by one Miss Phyllis Dye who heads a WCTU-front newspaper at a place called Skidmore. Miss Dye adjusted her eye-shade, bit the top off a bottle of 7-up, gulped down the contents without batting a removeable eyelash, and savagely penned a "nyaaa! nyaaa! it serves you right" editorial in the Skidmore News.

It seems she had witnessed the horrors of a Williams house-party weekend at the Beta House. But it remained for one of her fellow-cherubim to report the most horrifying atrocity against human decency. This poor little girl, just returned to her senses after hours of shock treatment, gasped a description of the awful scene that met her eyes as she left the Chapel last Easter morning.

There, in the very shadows of the Thompson Memorial Chapel and Old Greylock was a (pardon the expression) Williams man, "openly carrying a bottle of whiskey while his date was toting several glasses."

Every Williams man worthy of the name should hide his face under the lash of Miss Dye's biting words, and firmly resolve never to do such an awful thing again.

The edit continues: "We consider Williams men as fine and admirable persons." (Aw gee whiz, Phyllis. "But their conduct is greatly dependent on the conduct and the character of the girls with whom they associate. Contributing to the degradation of another college is a 'black mark' for Skidmore as well.")

Now we're getting somewhere. It seems to us that Miss Dye put her back-space finger squarely on the reason for evil on our campus.

The answer to the problem of sin here at Williams is not house-party bans or drinking restrictions, ourfew or social pro.

Think, Williams Men! Who are the real characters with whom you associate? Whose conduct has contributed to the degradation of your college? What is the difference between a drunken, sinful house-party and any other peaceful weekend among these Purple Hills? Who, indeed, was "toting" those glasses and plying her unsuspecting date with filthy booze when Miss Dye's little friend walked out of the Chapel?

The answer is women!

We hate to say it, fellows, but there it is. If we are to keep our college nice, if we are to maintain the kind of campus where a Williams man can bring his own mother without shame, there is but one road open to us. We must get rid of all these women who have overrun our Dear Alma Mater. Never again must they darken the doorstep of the Chapel with their unsightly martini glasses!

Yes, fellows, it's up to us! Send them back to Skidmore!

Purple Platters

This time the weekly record report is encouraging to all Williams jazz fans. Naturally not all the discs reviewed are tops musically, but the results of this week's trip to Walsh's have revived our interest in music. We've received many favorable comments since our last column, but don't forget that we're also open to criticism. Anyway, let us know your opinions on PURPLE PLATTERS.

BILLY BUTTERFIELD

Flip-Flop B+
I Can't Get Started B-
FLIP is a medium-tempo riff opening with a piano-trumpet chorus featuring Billy himself playing fine muted horn. The band is sparked by a driving rhythm quartet which is the best such unit we've heard in a long time. Both the sax and brass sections play well, particularly the saxes which are a good imitation of the Duke's group. START-ED, the perennial Vernon Duke-Ira Gershwin favorite made popular by Bunny Berigan, is somewhat of a disappointment, but perhaps our expectations were too great. Billy's band sounds better than on FLIP, but Billy's tone is off. However, anyone listening to this tune is bound to compare this with Bunny's version, which, in our opinion, hasn't been equalled. (Capitol 15047.)

JAZZ AT THE PHILHARMONIC

Lester Leaps In B
Blues A-

These two sides were recorded a while ago during one of Norman Granz's "Jazz at the Philharmonic" concerts. LESTER was written by Lester Young for Lester Young, but features here Illinois Jacquet in one of his more sober moods. Even more exciting than Jacquet is the one and only Bil Harris whose tram solo saves the arrangement (if there is any during one of these sessions) from being labled "confusing." BLUES is a very interesting disc highlighted by Les Paul's great technique. Also featured are bassist Johnny Miller of King Cole fame and pianist "Shorty" Nadine, otherwise known as Nat Cole. The final unison chorus is nothing short of terrific as these all-stars improvise on a riff. (Disc 6025.)

LOUIS ARMSTRONG

I Can't Give You Anything But Love B-

Black And Blue B

Both of these sides were waxed back in 1929 and typify the jazz of that period. LOVE is supposed to show off Louis' great voice, but we find his technique strained here. However, he combines with J. C. Higginbotham to produce some thrilling instrumental moments with their respective trumpet and tram solos. Higgy's fine tram is at its best along with Charlie Holmes' few alto bars. Louis' voice is greatly improved on BLACK as he sings in his own inimitable style. Fred Robinson's trombone solo is passable, but falls short of Higgy's. Congratulations to Columbia for reissuing this classic. How about a few more? (Columbia 38052.)

HARRY JAMES

You Can't Run Away From Love C-

Nina B-

This record is another in the long line of James' disappointments. On LOVE Marion Morgan's vocal shows promise of better things to come. Too bad she is backed by such a poor band. Even Harry sounds uninspired. The reverse is better although it does have its limitations, as do most big-band attempts at jazz. Willie Smith's alto and Harry's trumpet are the bright spots. (Columbia 38152.)

GENE KRUPA

Dark Eyes (Trilo) B+

After You've Gone A

Hats off to Columbia again for a reissue. The Krupa Jazz Trio really sparkles on EYES. Charlie Ventura's tenor reaches new musical heights here while Teddy Napoleon's piano, though not the greatest, is more than adequate. Luckily their boss displays the fine drumming taste for which he was noted in the old Benny Goodman days. AFTER is sensational! Incidentally, this is the first side which we felt deserved an "A", but Roy Eldridge's great trumpet should not go unnoticed. Not only is his range wide, but the high notes do not lose any of that rare Eldridge tone. For Roy at his greatest, get this disc. (Columbia 38147.)

Soccer Team Meets Maroons At Springfield This Morning

Strong Opposition Sure As Eph Booters Seek Third Win

With two wins and a loss under their belt, Coach Bullock's soccer team travels to Springfield today to meet Springfield College, last year's National Champions and one of the best collegiate teams in the country this year.

The game, starting at 11 this morning, will pit Williams against a team which went unbeaten last year in collegiate play gaining top national ranking, and is so far undefeated this year.

New Coach

Playing under a new coach, but with many veterans back from their crackerjack 1947 team which downed the Ephs 6-0 in a very one-sided affair, the Maroon and White have so far this year beaten Harvard 1-0, Cortland 2-1, and Clark 8-0.

The scores, however, do not give a true indication of Springfield's strength. In the Harvard tussel, Springfield had the Crimson backed against their goal the entire game. Cortland is a so-called "soccer school" which also turns out top teams; in this game Springfield again dominated the play. Their easy win over Clark gives a better indication of their true power.

Potential Power

Although the Ephmen took a 4-1 beating at the hands of the University of Connecticut last week, they showed that potentially they have the power to give Springfield a good fight, since they held the Huskies to a 1-1 tie during the last three quarters of the game, playing them even throughout the last half.

Even though Springfield is rated better than Connecticut, the Huskies have one of the best teams in the East, and the last-half play of Williams against Connecticut shows promise for the Ephmen in the Springfield contest.

Kneass Uncertain

The showing that the Ephs make will depend to a great extent on whether half-back George Kneass is able to play at top form. Out of last week's game with an injured ankle, he is an uncertain starter in today's game. In the event that he cannot play, Rollo Palmado will fill in at his half-back spot.

Aside from this position, Coach Bullock will start with the same line-up that has appeared in the first three games, with Manning, Mayshark, Kent, Johnston and Prescott on the line, Bowen and Donnelly at halfbacks, Page and Dickinson at fullbacks, and Palmieri in the goal.

Sailors Take Little Three

Frosh Tie For Second In Wesleyan Regatta

Capturing four firsts out of six races, the Williams Yacht Club, annexed the Little Three sailing championship at Wesleyan last Sunday, October 17. The winner was determined only after a protest in the last race against Williams' skipper, Bill MacLay '52, had been denied.

Two Penguin class dinghies were entered by Amherst, Wesleyan, and Williams in the regatta. MacLay and Bart Barden '50 were skipper and crew respectively of one boat, while Prat Whitney '50 and Tom Costikyan '51 interchanged positions in the other. Strong winds and a completely dark final race marked the affair at the Middletown Yacht Club. The host club, Wesleyan, added incentive for victory by offering a trophy to be kept for a year by the winner.

Five freshmen, including MacLay, sailed in morning elimination races, gaining a second place tie with Yale, behind the Brown freshmen. Amherst placed last in the four school event.

Yacht Club plans, according to Commodore Wally Davis '50, include the proposed purchase of two Penguin dinghies to be made available for the use of members on Lake Pontussac, near Pittsfield. It is hoped that the present membership of fifty-eight will be swelled even further because of the opportunity offered for practice in handling the small sailboats.

In a statement to The Williams Record, Davis declared that the Yacht Club prospects had definitely improved. "One of the hopes that we have is the freshmen, we have some very good sailors in the freshman class."

Purple Looks For Upset Over Favored Tufts Here To-day

Betes Undefeated In League Football

Saints, Psi U's, Dekes Tied In League B

The interfraternity football league rolled on this week undaunted by Autumn snows and sub freezing temperatures. The only casualties of the week's inclement weather were two games played in League A. The contests were supposed to have been on Monday between the Phi Deltas and Phi Sigs and between the Zetes and Theta Deltas, but cold weather forced the postponement of both.

Meanwhile, the highflying Betes continued to set the pace in League A by smothering the Phi Gams under a 42-0 avalanche of touchdowns. The Betes now number the Zetes, Phi Deltas, A.D.'s and Phi Gams among their victims. Right behind are the Kaps with a three and one record. Victory number three came for the K.A.'s at the expense of an A.D. outfit, 32-0.

Upsets marked the play in League B, both the undefeated Psi U's and Saints being knocked off. The Chi Psis turned the tables on the powerful Psi U's with a stunning 18-12 upset. The Dekes knocked Saint Anthony out of the unblemished class with a 12-6 win. The Saints, Psi U's, and Dekes are now involved in a triple tie for the lead in League B.

Other action this week engaged Sigma Phi and D. Phi with the Sigs coming out on top, 6-2. The Garfield Club hung defeat number three on the D.U.'s in the only other game played by an 18-6 score.

In the opening play of the Bowdoin game last Saturday, Marty Detmer '50, received a serious kidney injury which will put him out of action for two or three weeks. Although still in the infirmary, it is expected that Detmer, first-string tackle for the Williams squad, will be back in shape for the Wesleyan game on November 6.

Twice - Beaten Purple Seeks Third Victory

Dick Whitney's Return To Action Uncertain, Fiske Ready To Play

Ready to rebound into the win column after a disastrous scrubbing at the hands of Bowdoin last week, Coach Len Watts' Williams football team meets Tufts College's Jumbos at 2:00 p.m. today on Weston Field. A "houseparty" crowd of considerable proportions will be on hand to back the Ephmen in hopes of seeing a repetition of the 42-0 win over Champlain in the last home game two weeks ago.

Tufts must be rated a slight favorite on the basis of the past performances of the two clubs but the home forces can easily upset the pre-game dope if they play their best football this afternoon. Coach Watters and his assistants have put together a team that may well surprise a lot of people, including themselves, before November 14.

Having lost only to Bowdoin in their opening contest, the visitors will be looking for their fourth straight win, while the Ephmen have broken even in a quartet of encounters. After dropping the opener, Tufts has chalked up easy victories at the expense of Colby, Bates, and the University of Rochester in that order. The Williams eleven won its opening game at Norwich, lost to a high-class Trinity outfit in its home debut, rolled over Champlain to the tune of 42-0 at home, and last week took a 34-0 beating at Brunswick, Maine.

Injured Return

However, the Ephmen will be strengthened for today's clash by the return from the injury list of wingback Whit Fiske, tackle Bronny Fargo, and blocking back Jack French. These valuable performers will be back in the lineup for the Tufts game.

and was never able to overcome the deficit.

Dick matched Rodie's mistake by three putting for a halve on the third, but made up for it by sinking a 20 foot birdie putt on the next hole. Bill came back into the game, however, when Heuer blew to a double bogie six on the fifth hole and cut his opponent's lead back to only one up. Heuer recovered quickly though and took the sixth and seventh with a par and bogey, respectively. From that point on Bill never had a chance, as Dick shot even par golf around to the 14th where the match ended.

formers should help to atone for the loss of first-string tackle Marty Detmer and Pete Fisher. Captain Dick Whitney is still in the doubtful category, nursing a knee injury, but may see limited service in the backfield.

Williams will probably start a team with Mitch Fish and Bud Cool at the ends, Bob Geneisse and Bronson Fargo at tackles, place-kicker Ernie Mierzejewski and big John Sullwell in the guard positions, and Dan Mahoney at the center slot. The backfield will consist of Howie Smith at blocking back, Triple-threat Stu Duffield at tailback.

Farmer will be in the full-back post, and Whit Fiske or Fritz Zeiler as wingback.

Defensively Stu Templeton and John Reynolds will take over at the ends, while John Zebryk, Hank Strong, and Don Ratcliffe should see plenty of action in the line. Speedsters Pete Delisser and Pete Smythe will be on hand to help out with the ball-carrying chores, and Dave Jackson at end and Tim Conway as a line-backer have also shown up well in the last two games.

Fast Jumbo Backs

If Tufts coach Fred Ellis follows his strategy of the past week end, he will start a fairly light backfield, behind a line that averages 193 lbs. from end to end, a five-pound advantage on the Williams forward wall. Ellis is fortunate in having a host of speedy backs who can really eat up yardage with the pigskin.

Operating from variations of the single-wing formation, the Jumbo attack is built around the ball-carrying ability of rapid Johnny Calagione and shifty Julie Dollner, a pair of breakaway runners who will bear watching. Dollner, who doubles as a placekicking specialist with ten conversions in a dozen tries this fall, is the team's leading scorer. Sophomore Danny Bennett is another backfield threat who may give Williams men and their dates a few uneasy moments, while Rudy Foberg at right end a defensive demon and a dangerous pass receiver. Incidentally, the Jumbos have not been scored on via a running play in their last three games.

3-up lead and a medal score of 39, Hauer added the 11th hole to his credit with a birdie four. Regulation pars secured him the 12th and 14th when Bill's irons to the green landed in sand traps. That finished the match and Rodie became Heuer's fourth victim of the tourney.

Dick displayed strictly average golf in his previous matches and came out on the top side of three close contests. He won four consecutive holes to come from behind and beat Dewey Fagerburg 2 and 1 and then took Kim Whitney by a 2-up margin. He was lucky in his semifinal match and caught Jerry Cole on an off day. Coming up from behind again, he upset the veteran senior 1-up.

It was just the opposite case with Rodie, however, as he played fine golf until the final round. He received a bye his first match and then proceeded to lick Doug Coleman 5 and 4 and Bill Burke 7 and 5.

by Bill Barney

Although the Williams Cross Country team has been shunted to the background this fall to make room for football and soccer, which have more "spectator appeal", it is this writer's belief that Coach Tony Plansky's current harrier squad is the best in Williams history. Further I predict that Bill Kelton, junior sensation, will break his own course record at least twice before the year is out. Captain Paul Cook, Key Delaney, a three season runner, and Phil Collins add depth to the contingent as do George Dorian, George Hutton and Pete Sylvester. It will be a monumental upset if the Purple group fails to walk away with the Little Three or misses a respectable place in the New Englands. Watch Kelton!

Congratulations to Dick Heuer and Stu Robinson who came out on top in the college golf and tennis championships. Surprisingly enough, both men have taken the laurels for two consecutive years.

Bill Lauder, New York Herald Tribune sports writer, made the statement last week that "Williams is also a member of the Little Three," a backhanded inference that the local gridmen are beyond the grasp of a win over either Amherst or Wesleyan. What Mr. Lauder loses sight of is the fact that in small college competition, anything can happen. He possibly forgets that two years ago, the Cardinals were a six touchdown favorite over the Purple—final score, Wesleyan 6 - Williams 0. Last year the Wesmen were heavy favorites—final score, Wesleyan 12 - Williams 6. Williams is a definite underdog, but comparative scores, past records mean nothing in the Little Three and never have. All concerned, don't forget this, Coach Watters, the football team, or the student body.

Robinson Wins Rockwood Cup For 2nd Consecutive Year

On the Sage Hall courts Tuesday afternoon, Stu Robinson '50, won the Rockwood Tennis Trophy for the second consecutive year defeating Fred Scribner '49 in the finals by a score of 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 6-6. Last fall Robinson defeated Charlie Schaaf in the final match.

This was the second time Scribner held runner-up laurels, being defeated by Dick Hole for the 1946 championship. Robinson was complete master of the play in the first two sets. In the third Scribner's American Twist service clicked effectively and he took the set 6-4. In the last set, Scribner was leading 2-0, but Robinson volleyed with deadly accuracy and, rushing the net, passed Scribner with well-angled drives from the baseline. This took the deciding set 6-6.

Robinson had reached the final round with a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Dick Palmer '50 in the semi-finals by downing Charlie Schaaf '50 7-5, 7-5, in the semi-final round.

Scribner was captain of last year's tennis team. This year's court chieftan is Schaaf who lost to Scribner in the finals in a mild upset as their former was seeded number two and the latter number three.

Improvement Of Local Canine Conduct Seen As Probable Result Of Weekly Instruction

by Dick Heuer

Possibly it is a manifestation of the Puritan tradition of New England, but more probably it is a mark of our present troubled times that this peaceful New England town is beset with the problem of regulating conduct. Following the example of the Administration, a group of local citizens have now banded together to give lessons in conduct to the dogs of our community.

This taming of the natural impulses of dog-nature is the result of the work of Mrs. Ruth Sanford who holds a dog training class in the baseball cage every Wednesday evening. At last week's meeting persons ranging from small children to old men and consisting of students, faculty, and townspeople brought 23 dogs of every kind from Russian Wolfhounds to Boston Terriers to class.

Qualified Instructor

Mrs. Sanford is well qualified for the job, having spent the war years working with Bert Turnquist who had charge of training all the war dogs.

After completing the series of six classes, most of the dogs will be trained well enough to pass the American Kennel Club's test for a Companion Dog. To reach this achievement the dog must be able to do the long sit (3 minutes), long down (5 minutes), heel on and off the leash, and straight recall. Mrs. Sanford emphasized, however, that her main interest in class is not to train the dogs. Most of that must be done at home. She said, "What I do is train the handlers and make them aware of what is expected of them."

Mehlin Assists

The classes started principally at the instigation of Prof. Theodore Mehlin who had a problem dog that seemed beyond hope. After inviting Mrs. Sanford to try her hand with the dog and noting her success, he became intrigued with the problems involved in training a dog. When a number of other dog owners expressed interest it was realized that such training was a need of the community as a whole. Mr. Mehlin is now assisting in the instruction.

Training of this sort can be done independently but it has several drawbacks. Most important is that it is training with other dogs around. The hardest time to control a dog is in the presence of other dogs, and it is only in group classes that this environment can be found.

A well trained dog gives much more pleasure than an uncontrollable mut because it can be taken into so many places. For example, housewives taking the course will agree that shopping can be much less harrowing when you know your dog isn't going to wet on the grocer's vegetables.

Council Adopts Rules; Curfew Lifted

Duffield Stars In Purple Win Before 4000

Undergraduate Council approval of the proposed regulations regarding conduct within the social units became a fact at Monday night's Council meeting, and was followed by a prepared statement of acceptance on behalf of the administration by Dean Robert R. R. Brooks. Individual social units are required to submit their own rules regarding conduct, drinking and entertaining women to a member of the UC Discipline Committee by 8:00 p.m. Friday, October 29. The following are the rules approved by the Undergraduate Council:

- I. Minimum Standards of Conduct within the Social Units
 - A. Drinking is prohibited in the halls; on the first floor in the public rooms; on the porch; and on the lawn of any social unit.
 - B. Drinking to such a degree that the drinker behaves obnoxiously so as to impair the good name of the social unit or of the College or causes willful destruction of property is regarded as ungentlemanly conduct and is prohibited.
 - C. Gentlemanly and moral conduct with women is expected.
 - D. Additional rules supplementing A, B, and C, above regarding drinking, hours during which women may visit the social units, and overall conduct will be developed by the individual social units and annually approved by the Discipline Committee of the Undergraduate Council. Copies of these rules will be kept on file with the Discipline Committee.

Disciplinary Procedure

- A. If an individual breaks any of the above rules, the president of the social unit is held responsible for the disciplinary action against the individual.
1. If the social unit president does not know of the offense and is informed by the UC Discipline Committee of the details and the evidence, he will be given one week in which to take disciplinary action.
2. If the social unit president knows of the offense and nevertheless fails to take action, the UC Discipline Committee will impose a penalty both upon the social unit and the guilty individual.
- B. The UC Discipline Committee shall not penalize an offender already sufficiently penalized by his social unit, but all disciplinary actions by a social unit president must be brought to the Discipline Committee in a written statement of the offense and of the penalty imposed together with the name of the offending individual. If the Discipline Committee regards the penalty as insufficient, it may require more severe punishment.
- C. If there is disorderly conduct at any social unit party and the guilty individual is a member of another social unit, the president of the social unit in which the infraction occurs will take the following steps:

After requiring the individual to leave the premises, the social unit president will give all the details to the UC Discipline Committee and to the president of the offending individual's social unit. The president of the offending individual's social unit may himself take disciplinary action or refer the case to the Discipline Committee.

- D. At any party held off social unit premises but subsidized by a social unit, the president of the social unit is held responsible for the maintenance of the code of conduct applying within the social unit premises.
- E. Misconduct by an individual not on social unit premises and not occurring during a party subsidized by a social unit is subject to the direct jurisdiction of the Discipline Committee.

Powers of the Entertainment Committee

The function of the UC Entertainment Committee shall be to supervise all planned entertainment at Williams.

- A. The Entertainment Committee is empowered to approve or disapprove all planned campus entertainment, i.e., formal house parties; formal or informal inter-social unit parties or dances; individual social unit parties or dances; any social unit activity subsidized by an undergraduate unit or activity.
- B. Plans of all entertainment programs described above shall be submitted to the Chairman of the UC Entertainment Committee in written form not less than one week before the date on which the entertainment is to take place.
- C. The Entertainment Committee is empowered to waive, at its discretion, rule I. A. for a party formally sponsored and subsidized by a social unit.

Penalties Against Individuals

- A. The penalty for a flagrant infraction of rule I. A. shall be at the discretion of the social unit president.
- B. The penalty for excessive drinking as described under I. B. shall be at the discretion of the social unit president.
- C. The minimum penalty for infractions of gentlemanly and moral conduct with women shall be three weeks suspension of the offending individual from all the activities of the social unit including the right to eat and sleep in the social unit. Any individuals thus suspended shall not participate in the activities of any other social unit.

- D. The penalty against an individual who violates a penalty against a social unit levied by the Discipline Committee (i.e., the forfeit of the privilege of entertaining women) shall be suspension of the guilty individual for not less than two semesters.

Penalties Against Social Units

- A. If a social unit president fails to take action within one week after being notified by the Discipline Committee of an offense by a member of his social unit, the social unit as a whole shall forfeit the privilege of entertaining women for not less than four weeks.
- B. If the social unit president knows of an offense by a member of his social unit against the minimum code of conduct but fails to take action, his social unit shall forfeit the privilege of entertaining women for not less than five weeks and the penalty against the guilty individual will be at the discretion of the Discipline Committee.
- C. If a social unit fails to present its plans for a party as defined in III, A, the offending social unit shall forfeit the privilege of entertaining women for not less than one full semester.
- D. If a social unit persists in giving a party which the Entertainment Committee has already disapproved, the social unit shall

300 Sway In Half Light

WCA Nets $300 From Lasell Dance

Three hundred couples danced in the half light of Lasell Gym Saturday evening under the careful surveillance of the Williams Christian Association. It was the social highpoint of what one observer termed "a particularly dry weekend."

The only light was provided by two revolving globes, allegedly rented from Roseland for the evening, which reflected spots of mottled colors on the swaying couples.

Bill Lawson's band—eight local boys and a gorgeous vocalist—provided music for the dance.

During the intermission, Martin Luthy and the rejuvenated octet sang six of their special arrangements and the new Purple Knights jazz sextet roared through "Lady be Good", "What is This Thing Called Love" and "Once in a While."

The octet selections were: "Dixie," "Carolina," "Olive My Regards to Broadway," "Ida," "She Had to Go and Lose It at the Astor," and "Little Willie" and, for an encore, the first verse of "Katie Malone."

WCA chairman Bill Sauer reported after the dance that the association netted over $300.

Cezanne Original Exhibited In Lawrence Art Museum

"Landscape at La Roche-Guyon", an oil painting by Paul Cezanne, is currently on exhibit in the Lawrence Art Museum in the south gallery. The unsigned work, painted in 1885, is on loan from the Smith College Museum of Art. In order that visitors may better appreciate the beauty of an original, reproductions of some of Cezanne's other works have also been placed on display.

Many may feel that the painting given by the artist to Renoir is unfinished and no doubt this is true. For Cezanne, however, a painting "grew" equally in all its parts; and in a sense at any stage of execution his work has a degree of completeness. The unpainted portions are not merely negative but help form planes in the construction of the picture.

Cezanne, a master of color harmony, here uses muted blue-greys, low valued greens and ivory, colors which are ordinarily considered in the vein of his watercolors, rather than his oils. In composition, as well as color, he brings to life his own theory that each square inch of canvas must be a positive contribution to the whole; there must be no waste space. Beneath the painting, observers will note a photograph of the original scene; by comparing the two, they will be able to discern exactly how the great impressionist was able to organize a chaotic tableau into a balanced, unified setting. And almost everyone will enjoy in the oil Cezanne's clear, fresh sense of space and air; there is a strong "tension", or relationship, between the distant mountains and the stone buildings in the foreground.

The Paul Cezanne original and reproductions will be on exhibit from 9-12 and 2-4, weekdays, and

WMS Ditches Hoxey Street

Broadcast Range Reaches Fraternity

Hoxsey Street was the scene of intense physical activity Friday afternoon as WMS engineers excavated a ditch eighteen inches deep across the road in a project to increase the stations broadcasting range.

Station President Wally Barnes '49 explained to The Williams Record that the ditch, which actually ran from West College to the Chi Psi Lodge, was to cradle a wire feeding the power lines of a large portion of fraternity row.

The new line will enable five or six fraternities on the west side of Hoxsey Street to hear WMS, and Barnes conjectured that the signal might reach several more houses, although he refused to guess how many.

Previously these houses have received only weak radiation from electric lines elsewhere on campus, but the new project will bring clear reception to DKE, Phi Delt, Alpha Delt, Zeta Psi and Greylock Hall as well as Chi Psi.

Station Hands Turn To

The digging and line stringing was completed by a group of ardent WMSters and sympathetic passers-by led by Barnes and North Cushman '49. "Cushman is the brain of the outfit," Barnes said.

Of invaluable assistance and inspiration to engineer Cushman was Professor Freeman Foote of the Geology department, "who gave extensive information concerning the soil," asserted the WMS president, brandishing a shovel.

Hero

One of the lesser-sung heroes of the day was the modest wizard who took charge when there seemed to be some doubt as to the procedure for marking a straight chalk-line for the pick welders to follow across the pavement.

Asserting his confident and indisputably superior know-how, the chap rubbed a string with the piece of chalk, gave two assistants either end of the string and had them stretch the line across the pavement where the ditch was to be dug.

Skeptics watched in morose incredulity, but the hero, without flourish or fanfare, gave the string a snap and lo! a razor-straight chalk line appeared on the macadam.

Farmer Blocks Jumbo Place-Kick In Final Seconds of Contest

by Blair Perry

Ernie Mierzejewski's name may be a typesetter's nightmare, but it's a coach's dream. Two perfect conversions by the reliable place-kicker provided the margin of victory as the hard fighting Ephmen bounced back to nose out Tufts' favored Jumbos, 14-13, before a loud and appreciative houseparty crowd of over 4000 on Weston Field Saturday afternoon.

By blocking the place-kick try for the point-after-touchdown after the visitors had scored in the final minute of play, Coach Len Watters' eleven clinched a well-earned victory, having come from behind to score on long drives in the second and fourth quarters. It was the third win for the Williams aggregation in five starts this fall, while Tufts, after dropping its opener, previously had racked up three straight triumphs.

Revised Backfield Great

Coach Watters reached deep into the bag of gridiron strategy Saturday and came up with a revised backfield that worked together with eye-opening effectiveness behind a greatly improved line. Pete DeLisser was shifted to wingback in a surprise move to put more speed and ball-carrying ability into the Williams attack, and the little scatback responded with a great performance. Cliff Farmer took over at fullback in place of the injured Pete Fisher and Howie Smith did his usual good job at blocking back.

Stu Duffield was again the outstanding player on the field, quarterbacking the team, doing all of the Ephmen's punting and passing, and carrying the ball for plenty of yardage and both Williams touchdowns.

But despite the individual brilliance of these men, it was clearly a team victory, as the home club blocked and tackled with new vigor and looked weak only at the ends.

Tufts Scores First

With the ball on the midfield stripe halfway through the first period, the Jumbos took to the air, Julie Doliner tossing a pair of completed passes over center, and then carrying himself for a first down on the Williams 22. A series of short gains moved the ball to the 11, and a play later Johnny Calagione scampered around his left end to score. Doliner's placement for the extra-point was good.

In the second quarter the Ephmen took over the ball on their 28 and put together the longest sustained drive of the game to equalize the score. Duffield carried to the Williams 36 for a first down, passed to Cool for a twenty-three yard gain, and then ran the pigskin to the Tufts 26 and 8 on successive plays. Farmer plunged to the 2, and after two plays were stopped dead, Duffield hit off-tackle for the touchdown. Mierzejewski's place-kick was perfect, and at half-time the score stood at 7-7.

Ephmen Break Tie

Two long drives, neither of which resulted in a score, took up most of the third period. The Jumbos marched from their 25 to the Williams 12, but there the Purple line held and an attempted field goal fell short. Late in the period the Ephmen drove to the Tufts 6, only to lose the ball on a fumble.

Letters To The Editor

Darling Contradiction

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

Despite letters to the contrary, my letter, Record, Oct. 20, was not a rash or impulsive move. Nor was there anger or bitterness in me when it was written. Inasmuch as that was the impression conveyed, my personal integrity demands reconciliation.

The misunderstanding concerns that part of my letter regarding Charley Brock's untimely death. I quote one reaction, which I am indebted to for calling to my attention the reception in which my statements were received: "If you have any manhood and any sense of justice... you will inquire carefully into the facts attendant upon the death of Charles Brock, and then you will as publicly retract your vicious insinuation that the Administration or any regulation imposed by the 'Curfew' had the slightest influence on any event leading up to this most unfortunate tragedy."

All I know is what I have read in the National and Williams' Newspapers. I have followed quite carefully the material on the Curfew, et al., and the letters (rather comments) by the Poll on campus. The tenor of certain letters and comments, as well as the accident struck me as possible more than coincidental. It upset me to read what I did.

Apparently the paper at Williams has not supplied its off-campus readers the full information regarding the "Curfew." BUT, it is with the deepest of joy and pleasure to retract any "vicious insinuation" on my part. There is a lot of bitter feeling in this area about the Curfew. As it does not affect the death of Charley, I want all to know how sorry I am that my letter of the 13th caused such misunderstanding and resentment. My faith in Williams is larger than my person; I willingly acknowledge that the concurrence of the death and Curfew was only circumstance.

October 23, 1948 Newton P. Darling, Jr. '48

Curfew

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

I am writing in reply to one part of Newt Darling's letter, printed in the Oct. 21 Record. In that letter he tried to identify the death of Charles R. Brock with the recent curfew regulations. Although I disagree with many aspects of the restrictions, it is only fair to the Administration to say that in this instance the one o'clock curfew had no bearing on the accident. The dates for the evening were from the State Teacher's College which has a twelve o'clock dead line for women students; the accident happened in returning from North Adams.

Dick Williams '50

Wallace, Us And Comment

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

Personally I saw no particular harm in Dick Heuer's liberal expending of his bile upon the local chapter of Students for Wallace in your issue of Oct. 16. On the other hand I fail to see the object of that attack or of the cutting editorial comment which followed politico Merwin's prompt protest. As noted by the editor, in big-league journalism a by-lined writer is frequently permitted to slant the news as he sees fit. Why the Record, however, chooses this least desirable characteristic of the big time for imitation is beyond me. From the purely ethical standpoint, the fact that certain newspapers habitually slant the news scarcely excuses the Record from following their bad example. From the practical standpoint, said slanting makes even less sense. I doubt if the ardent convictions of the local Wallaceites were shaken by Mr. Heuer's poison pen, and the distaste of the average student toward the Progressive Party can hardly have been increased. The only conclusion that I find handy at the time is that the writers concerned were dreaming happily of capacious desks in the news room of the Chicago Tribune as they sharpened their pencils prior to scalping our local subversives. Inasmuch as my subscription is paid up for the rest of the year, I sincerely hope they switch their allegiance to the New York Times in the near future. In any case, while the political views of the Record staff undoubtedly afford their owners much material for introspection, a plea is hereby submitted that they be no longer inflicted on the suffering reader.

E. If a social unit refuses to impose upon a guilty individual any penalty prescribed above or levied by the Discipline Committee, the social unit and its members will be declared ineligible to participate in student government or in any student activity for not less than a year or until the prescribed action is taken.

In his six-point statement to the Undergraduate Council, Dean Brooks said:

1. I am very gratified with the Undergraduate Council's prompt and vigorous action in expanding and implementing undergraduate responsibility for conduct at Williams.

2. No code of conduct or machinery for implementing it is any better than the attitude and intent of those who apply it. I am deeply impressed by the vigor and sincerity with which the UC has acted.

3. It is significant, moreover, that although the individual social units are the locus of enforcement and initial responsibility, it is the UC which has established a uniform basic code within the social units. It is the Discipline Committee of the UC which will enforce it. And it is the UC which will pass upon the supplementary rules within each house relating to drinking, hours during which women may visit and overall conduct.

4. I am convinced, therefore, that the UC's new code and new sanctions supplemented by the rules of the individual social units and applied with the Council's evident vigor and sincerity will prove more effective in achieving the common goal of the College and the Council than the continued prescription by the College of hours during which women may visit the social units.

5. Consequently, the limitation imposed by the College upon the hours during which women may visit the social units is suspended as of October 26th for as long a period as the UC's assumption of responsibility proves effective.

6. It will be a source of great gratification to me if the facts make possible the repeated renewal of the privilege of self-government and the responsibilities which attend it. Such a renewal will justify not only the Administration's faith that student self-government is more effective than College regulation, but that is an invaluable aspect of the education process in a liberal arts college.

In the course of regular UC business, Dean Brooks asked the Council members to make it clear to all their social units that there is to be no inter-student body conflict between the students of Williams and Amherst or Wesleyan prior to their respective football games. He said that the three colleges are in agreement over this matter as a result of the incidents occurring two years ago, and that the friendly rivalry between the schools might be terminated if any such pre-game conflict reoccurs.

Turn Out d'Lights!
D. Lighio de Moon and date on a particularly houseparty weekend.

A friend of ours walked into the Physics Lab the other day to ask if he could use the shop in the basement for a few afternoons. He wanted to supplement the pitiful lack of furniture in his dormitory room with a set of shelves to hold books and papers.

The College had generously provided him with a small table, without drawers, to serve as a desk, bookcase, and a place to store all his notes and other impedimenta. Since they couldn't provide the furniture, it seemed logical that they should encourage students to build their own.

On his first trip into the depths of the Physics building he was amazed at the beautifully equipped carpenter shop and the machine shop for metal work. Planers, lathes, drill presses, table saws, and band saws stood in impressive and costly array. The College, he thought, has been hiding their light under a bushel. Here is one place on campus which is adequately equipped.

There didn't seem to be anyone in the shop at first, but he looked around and finally discovered an old gent loitering behind the band saw. This person said that students could use the hand tools, but that permission from higher sources was necessary for using the power tools.

Accordingly, our friend returned a few days later with the wood. This time a scene of bustling activity greeted him. The two occupants of the shop were busy as beavers. One was employed in using a mitre box to saw long strips of wood into short ones, while his companion listened attentively to the radio. The sawyer also took an occasional time out to keep up with the program.

Our friend promptly asked if he were a student or an instructor. Though a sophomore who should have known better, he nevertheless was caught off guard for a moment and was unable to recover his presence of mind before admitting sadly that he was not of the master race. He was immediately informed that the carpenter shop was off limits; he must work in the machine shop.

...Dolefully he carried his wood into the labyrinth of metal-working tools. There was not so much as a vice to hold a board. Returning for a few of the hand tools, he found that most of them were not for student use. Somewhere around the shop, he was told, there might be a rusty rip saw for students, too, but the cross-cut had disappeared some time ago.

Permission to use the power tools was theoretically obtainable, he learned, but it hadn't been granted in so long that the possibilities were negligible. Anyway, the person in authority was in Albany at the moment. Too bad son, but you see how it is.

Our friend decided to mark his name on the boards and come back after contacting the elusive official.

When he returned several days later, the wood was gone.

PLANE FUN: The Dekes experienced something of the same feeling Sunday morning when they found Williamstown's perennial yellow semi-airplane parked on their front lawn. A character was seen in front of the Theta Delta House some time later repairing the rear bumper of his Rolls-Royce convertible. A small dent from an accident, a bystander was told. The lounge noticed a few spots of yellow paint on the body behind the bumper. Car used to be painted yellow, explained the owner. Just the old paint showing through.

The plane has now made trips to Weston Field and Fraternity Row. In the future it might just possibly be easier on the bumpers of yellow Rolls-Royces and on fraternity lawns if it stayed behind the heating plant.

Freshman Gridders Vanquish Betes Annex Wesleyan Yearlings By 14-0 Fifth Straight

Last Period Tallies By Smith, Cramer Bring Eph Victory

Catching fire in the second half, the freshman football team scored twice in the last period to beat Wesleyan 14-0 and to gain the first half of the Little Three title. A victory over Amherst here next Saturday will clinch the crown for the second straight year and will allow the class of '52 to throw off its beanies forevermore.

The long bus-ride to Middletown seemed to have affected the yearlings as they were unable to penetrate the relatively weak Wesleyan defense in the first half. Meanwhile, however, the impotent Cardinals were unable to penetrate past the Purple thirty-five yard line all afternoon.

Smith Scores

Quarterback Jack Morrison was injured in the second period, and backs "Diz" Cramer and Dick Harris took over the signal calling duties. Late in the third period, a Cramer-to-Pete aerial put the ball deep in Wesleyan territory, and shortly after the final quarter began, Smith took off around end and scored from the six. The injured Morrison converted and the Ephs men led 7-0. With but three minutes remaining in the game Cramer took a Cardinal punt near the sidelines, out back behind Billy Callahan's tremendous key block and raced fifty yards for the second Williams touchdown.

Cramer then proceeded to illustrate his versatility by kicking the extra point, making the final score 14-0. Even though the team did not repeat its great St. Mike's game form it looked good as George McAleenan again blocked like a demon, while Dick Kraft stood out as a linebacker and Chuck Salmon and Dave Mills plugged up hole after hole from their guard positions.

Ephs Fall, 3-0 To Springfield

Hardfought Game Lost To Nation's Top Team

Scoring in each of the first two periods and again in the fourth the Maroons downed the Williams soccer team 3-0 last Saturday at Springfield. In the face of such strong opposition the Ephs turned in a creditable performance in a well-fought match.

The Springfield booters, rated number one in the country for the last two years, are again a top contender this year and nothing short of an upset was hoped for by the Ephs. Last year's team took a decisive 6-0 defeat from the Maroons.

Two minutes and fourteen seconds after the start, Springfield made a clean tally on a shot by their center forward, Hogan, one of last year's All American players. Following this, the Ephs started to work and the offense shifted alternately between the teams.

In the second period, Simos, the left outside, hooked the ball in a melee outside the cage and made the second score. This period followed the same pattern as the first. The Williams halfbacks, Frank Donnelly, Rollo Palmedo, John Bowen, and Jim Crosby performed well and although the Ephs were outplayed, they were not outfought.

Saints, Dekes In Tie For League B Lead

by Ted Jones

With only two weeks of play remaining in intramural football competition, the Betes hold a commanding lead in League A, while the Dekes and Saints are deadlocked for first place in the B division with 4-1 records.

The Betes proved Wednesday that they are going to be a hard combine to beat this season. They marched to their fifth straight win in convincing fashion, trouncing a battling Theta Delta squad, 38-12. For a few minutes in the first half it looked as if the league leaders might go down to the most stunning defeat of the season. In fact, it took two Theta Delta touchdowns by Overton and Dorland to get the Betes started. Behind 12-6, the leaders, led by Chuck and Brad Pusey, caught fire, and when the final gun sounded the Theta Deltas found themselves behind by four touchdowns. It was practically an all Pusey show as the two between themselves accounted for five out of the six Bete scores.

The second place Kaps kept right on the trail of the pace-setters by scuttling the Phi Sigs, 24-0. The South Street team never got started as Irwin, Armstrong, O'Connell, and Ridall all accounted for K. A. touchdowns. The game of the year seems to be on October 27 when the Kaps meet the undefeated Betes. The Phi Deltas kept themselves in the running by mangling the A. D.'s, 32-0, behind the passing and running. Cardinals Conquer Frosh Soccer, 2-1

Tally In Final Seconds Decides Close Game

A goal by Wesleyan in the last forty-five seconds of play, broke a 1-1 tie and gave the Cardinal freshmen a 2-1 victory over the Williams frosh in a Little Three soccer game at Middletown last Friday.

Wesleyan had scored first in the second period to give them a 1-0 lead, but a goal by center-forward Thad UpdeGraf, two minutes from the end of the game, tied it up, until the Wes goal in the last minute of play broke the deadlock.

Wes Goals

The game was comparatively even, as the score indicates, but it took a spectacular game by the Cardinal goalie, who made numerous saves all afternoon, to thwart the Chaffemen. Time and again he turned back scoring threats.

Outstanding for the Williams team was center-half Ben Heilman, who was elected team-captain before the game. Todd Tollinghast, at left-half, also turned in a good performance.

One-Point Margin Gives Win As Harriers Top Middlebury

Football - - -

With their backs to the wall, the Jumbos punted out at the start of the final quarter, and DeLisser ran it back to the Tufts 43. Duffield threw to Cool to put the ball on the 38, and then broke through off his right-tackle to the 18. A timely off-side penalty helped move the pigskin to the 4, and from there Duffield pounded over to break the deadlock. Mierzejewski, with Sperry holding again booted the extra-point, to give Len Watters' boys a 14-7 edge.

Jumbos Bounce Back

Fighting desperately to get back in the game, the visitors completed a pass to the Eph 28 with time rapidly running out in the last period. Fullback Hank Coz then started hammering at the Purple line and never stopped until he had bucked over from the 2 with less than a minute remaining, bringing the Jumbos up to within one point of a tie. But half the Williams team, led by Cliff Farmer, broke through the Tufts forward wall to block Doliner's placement and practically clinch matters.

Kelton Breaks Record For Course To Pace Eph Triumph, 27-28

Though weakened by ailments, the varsity cross country squad edged a well balanced and previously unbeaten Middlebury College aggregation by a tight 27-28 score on the Taconic course Friday. For the second week in a row Bill Kelton led Tony Plansky's harriers to the finish in record smashing time as he covered the 3.7 mile distance in the amazing time of 20:37 minutes.

Neither Kelton's nor William's victory came easily however. The slim hill and daler was closely trailed the entire way by hitherto undefeated Jim Newman of Middlebury, before grabbing first by a fifty yard margin. Newman finished in 20:45 and also broke Kelton's mark of 20:56 set a week ago.

Fine Support from Cook, Delany Overshadowed by their teammate's performance but still worthy of note are the races turned in by Captain Cook and Kevin Delany to cop third and fourth positions respectively. Their times of 20:59 and 21:13 along with Kelton's clocking marked the first time that a Williams team has had three finishers under 21:15 minutes.

With all the Purple early strength the outcome still remained in doubt since the Panthers swept the next four places. Plansky's charges missed the presence of number four man Phil Collins, sidelined with an ankle injury. On top of that, George Dorian was See HARRIERS, page 4

Outers Publish Club Newspaper

First WOC 'Yodler' Appears Next Month

Outing clubbers will publish the first issue of the WOC Yodler, a newspaper for the outdoor-conscious, on Nov. 2, according to Peter Leake, '50 Outing Club publicity man.

The WOC Yodler, Leake says, will be "to serve as the official publicity organ of the Outing Club and give members a full coverage of our activities." Copies will be circulated free of charge to club members and others who are interested in WOC activities.

Leake also announced plans for an outing at Lake George, N.Y., and a series of square dances.

Paddling across Lake George to Turtle Island, eight members of the WOC took part in a canoe trip under the auspices of the RPI Outing Club on the weekend of October 16, 17. About eighty members of eastern college outing clubs took part in square dancing, singing, and hiking during the two-day affair.

Springfield will be the scene of the second of a series of square dances sponsored by the Amherst, Connecticut, Mass. State, Mt. Holyoke, Smith, Springfield, and Williams Outing Clubs. A bus will transport WOC members to Springfield for the November 5 event. Present plans will bring a similar dance to Williams sometime next spring.

The Outing Club is open to all interested parties including faculty members.

By the fourth round, however, Williams was again on the defensive. A bounce shot off Hogan accounted for Springfield's third goal near the end of the game. The defense trio of fullbacks Jerry Page and Rog Dickinson and goal-tender Jerry Palmieri, working hard and well, broke up numerous attempts by the Maroons in this period.

Purple Expects Hard Battle In Union Tilt

Garnets Have Won Four Out Of Five Games

By Fred Wiseman

This afternoon at two o'clock on Alexander Field, Schenectady, N. Y., the Williams eleven met the Union College in the first game of a rivalry which started in 1887. The Ephraim hold a commanding bulge in the series having captured twenty-seven of the contests while losing eight and tying four. The last time that a Williams team defeated the Garnets, however, was in 1942 when they won by a 41-15 score. After that there were no games played until 1946 when the Union team captured the contest by a 14-0 count. Last season the Garnets were again victorious by a 14-0 total. The Purple will be on the warpath this afternoon to regain their supremacy over the Dutchman.

The Union team is guided by John J. McLaughry, the son of Tuss McLaughry of Dartmouth and Brown coaching fame. McLaughry who is in his second full season at Union is a graduate of Brown, where he captained the football team in his senior year. In 1940 he played in the East-West game on New Year's Day and was co-captain of the Eastern All stars team. In 1941 he coached the Providence Steam Rollers in the American Association and after coming out of the service in 1946 served as backfield coach and Assistant Track coach at the University of Connecticut for one year.

Eph Sailors Take Second

Trail Yale Yachtsmen By Narrow Margin

Sailing in easily capsizable Dyer Dinghies, Williams sailors garnered a second in a triangular invitational sailing regatta held last Sunday at Yale.

The meet, originally billed as a quadrangular affair with six races scheduled, was reduced to a triangular meet when Dartmouth did not appear and to three races when inclement weather and high winds caused a late start.

Williams sailors Field, Bardes, Mark, and Van Tubergen scored nine points, only two short of Yale's winning total in the abbreviated regatta. Bowdoin trailed with eleven. The host team put together two firsts and a second for their winning total, while the Eph skippers were copping a first, a second and a third in the three races. Skipper Bart Bardes and Crew Bill Field took Williams' only first, topping the field in the third and last trip around the windward-leeward course.

Six to Shell Trophy

The highlight of the fall racing season will be the competition for the coveted Shell Trophy, November 6th and 7th at M.I.T. Commodore Wally Davis reports that Williams will send down six sailors, representing the most formidable group of skipper-crew combinations to sail for the Purple since 1940. Maelay, Hellman, Dinkley, Ingersoll, Bardes, and Collins have been selected to represent the W.Y.C. in this all important event.

Preliminary to the Shell Trophy races, a quadrangular regatta is scheduled for tomorrow at Rhode Island State College.

School Names Four Rhodes Competitors

Hudson, Worley, Bilder, Armstrong Endorsed For Coveted Awards

Four members of the senior class, Hubert R. Hudson, Robert D. Worley, Kenneth G. Armstrong, and Richard D. Bilder, have been endorsed by the college as candidates for Rhodes Scholarships. If they are among the thirty-two scholars who will be selected December 11, they will begin study at Oxford University next October.

Before the final selection is made, the Williams candidates will be interviewed by selection boards either in their home states or in Massachusetts, and if successful there, will also be interviewed by regional boards. Each of the eight regional boards will select four men for the scholarships. Professor Robert J. Allen, institutional representative for Rhodes Scholarships, explained.

Hudson

Hudson, a member of Sigma Phi, Phi Beta Kappa and Gargoyle, is a former business manager of the Purple Cow, and was president of the Lecture Committee. He is a member of the International Relations Club, the Adelphe Union, the Student Activities Council and the Williams Outing Club.

Vice-president of the Garfield Club, Worley is also secretary of the Undergraduate Council, a member of Gargoyle, and the Honor System Committee, and was an upperclass adviser. Armstrong, a member of the Garfield Club, is a member of the Record editorial staff, the Yacht Club, and has played JV basketball.

Bilder, also a member of the Garfield Club, has played JV soccer, and freshman and JV wrestling, and is a member of the Outing Club.

Two Williams graduates, H. Bruce McClellan '47 and Edson W. Spencer '48, are currently studying at Oxford under the scholarships. Since the plan was instituted, fourteen Williams men have received Rhodes Scholarships.

Baxter Debates With Newhall

Three Faculty, Student Give Political Views

Three faculty members and one student participated in the Democratic-Republican debate at the local high school Wednesday night as more than 200 people gathered to hear the relative merits of rival presidential and gubernatorial candidates discussed. President James Phinney Baxter, III, Professor Richard A. Newhall, Professor James M. Burns, and Record reporter Frank P. Reiche '51 all emphasized that they were not representing the college. Others taking part included Moderator Walter W. McLaren, local attorney John L. Hawkins, and Republican Town Chairman George W. Schryver.

Professor Newhall opened the discussion by praising President Truman's stand on civil rights. He also mentioned the strife within the GOP and opined that Governor Dewey, if elected, would find it extremely difficult to unite his party. President Baxter agreed that Truman's civil rights' program was courageous, but pointed out that Dewey's anti-discrimination legislation in New York has been just as vigorous. Dr. Baxter also called for the election of a Republican Congress to fix the responsibility for future action.

Attorney Hawkins declared that he was a Democrat because he believed that the Democratic Party offered the most to the greatest number of people. He attacked Dewey's "me-too" campaign. Reiche then defended Dewey by noting the striking similarity between his campaign and that waged by FDR in 1932. After an outline of Dewey's record as governor, Reiche concluded with a plea for unity.

Both Burns and Schryver devoted their remarks to state issues with Professor Burns favoring the WMS Plans Election Coverage From N.Y.

If all that WMS plans, goes through election night, the station will present a special broadcast direct from Republican Party Headquarters in the Roosevelt Hotel in New York.

The station is uncertain as to whether permission to set up its remote broadcasting equipment in the Roosevelt will be forthcoming, but there seems to be a strong likelihood that a special WMS team will be in New York to report trends as they materialize, and bring Williams up-to-the-minute results and statements from the party leaders and, possibly Governor Dewey. The team would broadcast by direct wire to Williamstown. For confirmation and broadcast times, see next week's Advisor.

Pay SAC Tax Barney Urges

Half Of Student Body Has Not Contributed

SAC President William R. Barney, Jr. '49 urged all undergraduates to give immediate support to the current Undergraduate Council drive for $2530, a cut of one-fourth from last year's budget, by remitting their $3 tax before November 1.

"Unless all students are prompt in sending in their tax payment most of the non-athletic organizations on the campus, excluding concessions will be unable to continue their functions," Barney pointed out. As yet, less than half of the student body have paid the tax. Seniors were reminded that payment is compulsory for graduation.

If the organizations supported by the UC do not use up their allotments, the remaining money goes into a general fund. In addition, 5% of any profits of student organizations is placed in that fund.

The tentative budget for this year includes:

Adelphe Union	$400
Band	300
SAC	250
UC	480
IRC, Lecture Committee and Phil Union	1000
Total	$2530

If the National Student Association remains on the campus an additional $250 will be allotted to the budget for their work.

Repairs To Organ Voted By Trustees

Chapel Instrument Will Match Best In Nation

In their last meeting, the trustees voted money for much-needed additions, repairs, and improvements on the chapel organ. The multiple changes that will be made will bring the organ up to par with the best instruments in other colleges.

In planning for the changes, Professor Robert Barrow said he had in mind three prime necessities: (1) to make the organ absolutely reliable mechanically; (2) to enlarge it so as to give sufficient volume for accompanying choir and congregation acceptably; (3) to improve it tonally so that the quality of performance on it will be in keeping with the musical standards of our service.

For tonal improvements, the Class Spirit Little Better Than In Past

Sophs Select Geneisse; Heineman '49

Alan Harter '49, John Griggs '50 and Bob Geneisse '51 were chosen presidents of their respective classes Tuesday evening in an election notable for a lack of the campaigning suggested by the Undergraduate Council.

A scant sixty members of the senior class was present to cast their ballots at the Biology lab where Bill Heineman was chosen vice president and Ed Maynard Honor System Committeeman. Bob Worley was reinstated as the other Honor System Committee representative by a voice vote.

The juniors named John Prescott class secretary, and by virtue of their election, both Griggs and Prescott became members of the Honor System Committee. Ernie Mierzejewski was named sophomore class secretary and, with Bob Geneisse, also became automatically a member of the committee.

In both the senior and junior elections, there was a modicum of confusion. Both required two ballots in the selection of officers. A motion from the floor before the senior balloting suggested that only one name be written on a ballot, but presiding officer Henry Strong '49 of the UC explained that if "you vote once you're going to get house blocks." The motion was dropped with no further objection.

The spirited and hotly contested sophomore election ran to three ballots before the other three nominees were eliminated. Original plans called for a single two-name ballot with the two highest candidates receiving the presidency and secretaryship, but violent opposition from the floor demanded a series of elimination ballots, with the three lowest candidates dropping out on the first two ballots.

Only one of the fifteen nominees took advantage of the pre-election "lull" to campaign for his cause. He lost. It was Pete Smythe '51, who had his slogans chalked on several classroom blackboards and had a horse and wagon led onto Weston Field during the Tufts game half. The wagon advertised the slogan, "Wine, Women and Smythe."

Retiring class president Dud Irwin '50 remarked to a Williams Record reporter that campaigning "has no purpose on a small campus like this where everyone knows the candidates and there are no real issues involved." Many of the candidates felt it would have been a creditable idea if everyone had campaigned, but that there really would not have been much point to it.

Newly elected junior class secretary John Prescott told the Record that the "political situation on this campus would do a candidate more harm than good as the position is more honorary than anything else." He did, however, suggest a possible remedy in adapting the Wesleyan election system to Williams needs. On that campus a candidate is presented with a number of controversial questions of college policy on which he must take a stand. The campaign then centers around debating these concrete issues.

Three Fraternity Foster Children Doing Well, Parent Houses Report

Foster Parent Plans for war children have been successful, according to reports received by the three Williams fraternities which have sponsored a war orphan in Europe since last spring.

A first hand report delivered to the Sigma Phi's, first Williams foster parents, by Wheaton Byers '50 stressed the good quality of the home life which a Belgium woman, Mme. Bogaert, was providing for the eighty war orphans under her care in a Foster Parents Home in the Brabant district of Belgium. "It would be a wonderful thing if every house on campus would do something about the Foster Parent Plan," he said.

Although Byers was unable to see Micheline Remy the Sigma Phi's nine year old adopted daughter, during his summer travel in Europe, he has been corresponding with her regularly. He reports that Micheline writes from the Foster Home in very affectionate terms expressing much love and thanks. Speaking for the Sigma house, Byers said that her letters "evoke a feeling of regret that we are not doing more."

Marie Biesse, the nine year old French girl supported by the DU's, wrote two letters to them this summer, according to DU correspondent Charles Cropsey '50. "Tatie," the second war orphan to be adopted here, has spent the summer with her family at the home of her uncle in the Ardennes. Her mother, an ardent underground patriot during the war, had been forced to seek aid following the death, in 1943, of her husband, who was in the French army.

Norman Wood '50, secretary of Zeta Psi, reports that Kornelis Schilder, third of the foster children, has kept in touch with his fifty-four Zeta "parents" by a series of highly descriptive letters. The twelve year old Dutch boy lives with his mother and brother in Kampen, Holland.

In a letter which expressed the hope that someday he might come to this country, Kornelis expressed the hope that "perhaps I am getting a millionaire." He went into detail concerning the food, shirts, shoes and trousers that he and his brother were able, through the aid they were receiving, to provide themselves with. A football enthusiast, he threw out a general invitation to the Williams team to come to Holland to play the local team at Kampen, although he revealed much doubt as to whether or not the team at his "parent's" college could measure up to the calibre of the local heroes.

A donation of $180 a year is made by each of the three houses acting under the Foster Plan. This amount, which averages a little over a cent a day for each member of the three social units, is distributed by the Foster Parents Plan to the children in the form of food, clothing, medical and dental care, and school aid. The plan is now supporting agencies in almost every European country where home for orphans have been established and where needy people can appeal for aid.

In his report, Byers gave a vivid example of Mme. Bogaert's success at the Foster Home in Belgium. When all the orphans were taken to the shore for a week this summer, two girls preferred to stay with the group rather than visit relatives nearby.

It is a common sight, he said, to see the children, who receive all their clothes from America, running around in jerseys with U. S. high school emblems on them.

WMS TO BROADCAST WILLIAMS VS. UNION TODAY AT 2 P.M.

five games, the Union team will be shooting for win number five against the Ephmen. The Dutchmen defeated Rochester and St. Lawrence before they were downed by Vermont 7-6. The Garnets bounced back against R.P.I. and defeated their bitter rivals 35-14. Last Saturday they trounced Hobart 35-0.

Most of the players who will start for the Union team saw service against the Ephmen last year. Tony Coppola, and Armand Busino will be at the ends; George Martin, and Carlyle Sherman at the tackles; Harold Shaffer and Pete Ten Eyck at the guard slots; and Ken Whalen at center. In the backfield George Best will be at left half. Best is the player who scored both the Union touchdowns, against the Ephmen last year, one on a forty yard run.

Dave Strauss will be at Quarterback, Al Wade at right half and Hal Lundstrum at fullback for the Dutchmen.

Coach Len Watters has prepared the Ephmen for another hard game this afternoon. The Purple are hopeful of giving Union the same treatment that Tuft's received last Saturday afternoon. Captain Dick Whitney took part in the scrimmages this week and See FOOTBALL, Page 4

Harriers Meet Union To-Day Frosh Football Team Clashes With Amherst Eleven To-Day

Injuries Hurt Chances In Run With Garnets

With a respectable record of two victories and one defeat to date, the varsity cross country team faces the reputedly strong Union College harriers this afternoon in Schenectady. Although Tony Plansky's harriers would have been more than a match for their opponents two weeks ago, a number of recent injuries give the Purple only an even chance of winning.

At this writing the starting lineup against the Garnets is not definite but it is very doubtful whether Bill Kelton and Phil Collins will be among the pack. Kelton, who led last year's unbeaten squad to a 23-32 decision over Union, is once again hampered by foot trouble which has kept him from practice sessions. Number four man consistently, Collins is still out with a bad ankle and won't be in action until the Little Three meet, if at all.

Long Run

Plansky is hoping to win this afternoon with Paul Cook, Kev Delany, George Dorian, Ernie May, George Hutton and Pete Sylvester. These men have run long distances all week on the roads around town in preparation for the 4.7 mile Garnet course. The strange route involves a goodly distance on asphalt roads and open fields. At sometime during the football game the meet will end on the stadium grounds.

Bob Muir Calls Out Varsity Swim Team

Bob Muir's varsity swimmers, New England champions for the past five years, will hold their first practice session of the season Monday afternoon in the La-sell gym pool at 4:00 p.m., Coach Muir announced.

Highlights of the season will include meets with Dartmouth, Army, Brown, Springfield, and Little Three rivals, Wesleyan and Amherst, as well as the New England Intercollegiate, to be held this year at Amherst.

Bob requested that all men interested in trying for berths on the varsity squad attend the first practice and urged all freshman swimmers to report to the pool at 3:00 p.m. Monday for the freshman squad's first practice.

Football Poll Winners Pick Seven Games

By picking seven out of ten games correctly last Saturday, Bob Kimbrough '51 and George Bush '50 won the football polls sponsored by Cal King and by Hart's Drug Store. Kimbrough received a bottle of champagne from King's, while Bush was given a pipe by Hart's.

No one called the Penn State—Michigan State tie, while only four chose Princeton over Columbia. Out of the forty-six entrants at King's only five picked as many as six games correctly.

Win Today Will Mean Little Three Crown For Burnett's Team

Dale Burnett's undefeated freshman football team will attempt to clinch the Little Three Crown when it faces the Amherst yearlings on Weston Field this afternoon. After tying a strong St. Michael's club, the freshman beat Wesleyan 14-0 and are going into this game at full strength.

The starting line-up will probably see Bill Missimer and Dick Somerby at the offensive ends while the two Callahans Bill and Pete, are slated to handle the defensive assignment. Bob Weil and Chuck Clark, the team's only two hundred pounder, are the starting tackles but Bob Huddleston is also slated to see plenty of action. Defensive standout Chuck Salmon and Dave Mills, a converted end, seem to be firmly entrenched in the guard positions.

Kraft At Center

Dick Kraft, the starting center, has been backing up the line in a style reminiscent of Jim Lyons and Charly Bidgood and is rapidly developing into a 60 minute man. Quarterback Jack Morrison was injured at Wesleyan but is ready to resume his signal calling duties. John Kolsar, the shifty back from Buffalo will start at left half and at right half it will be scabbard and highscorer Paul Cramer. On the defense Pete Smith takes over Cramer's slot.

Linebacker George McKeenan, who scored the tying touchdown in the St. Mike's game is slated to fill the fullback spot. A win over Amherst would leave only a reportedly weak Union club in the way of the second straight undefeated season for the frosh gridman, as well as bringing the beanle wearing period of the class of '52 to an end.

Yearling Booters Meet Lord Jeffs

Chaffemen Out To Win Season's Finale

This afternoon on Cole Field, the freshman soccer team goes into its last match of the season meeting the Amherst yearlings. The indications are that it will be a tough game for the Ephs, who are out to avenge their last-minute loss to Wesleyan last week-end.

So far, the freshman booters have taken a 3-1 win from both Darrow and Mt. Hermon, and in a practice game they trampled enox 6-1.

The starting line-up has been set by Coach Chaffee and will include: Bob Simpson and Frank MacManus as outside left and right respectively, Hank James and Ned Collins fill the insides with Thad Up de Graf center forward. The halfback line consists of Todd Tillinghast, Captain Ben Heilman, and Manny Holguin. The defense is made up of fullbacks Rog Hunt and Jim North with Ned Warren in the goal.

Local, State Candidates Speak At Republican Rally In N.A.

Pittsfield Sees Dewey, Party To Organize Dance Election Eve

A large turnout of local Deweyites paraded through the streets of North Adams and attended the Republican rally in the Richmond Hotel ballroom Tuesday night. All the Republicans on the local ticket and all of the state ticket except Governor Bradford were present and spoke to the crowd.

Only six cars of Williams students joined the motor cavalcade to the rally. Senators Saltonstall and Lodge and Congressman Heseltin of this district were the name speakers and the Williams Octet was an additional attraction that met with great success.

Dewey In Pittsfield

The members of the Republican slate boarded the Dewey train in Pittsfield Thursday when the presidential candidate stopped to make a short platform speech. They then proceeded to Boston for a major rally.

Tuesday night's rally was a shuttle rally between North Adams and Pittsfield. Half of the speakers started in each city and immediately after talking left to repeat their speech in the other town.

Dance Election Eve

The local party organization will sponsor a street dance in North Adams election eve, its main purpose being to get out the vote. The college Dewey-Warren group will help get out the vote on election day by assisting in the provision of transportation of housewives to the polls. Cars will be kept on hand at the party organization's headquarters so that taxi service can be maintained.

In League A's top game of the day, Beta Theta Pi again emerged the winner, 18-0. The boys from Stetson Ct. encountered little difficulty in bringing home the bacon for the sixth straight time. Wally Oleson was the big gun for the victors, scoring twice. Shay Lynch scored T.D. number three.

The Theta Deltis, meanwhile, moved up to fourth place by taking the measure of the A.D.'s, 18-12. The game may well be called the first "night" game in Williams history, for while it began on time, three overtime periods necessitated finishing in pitch dark. Your reporter was on hand, but due to the noticeable absence of arc lights plus the fact that the moon shines on the other side of the earth was unable to discern the hero who scored the winning T.D. Wright and Garfield scored for the A.D.'s, while Pritchard's arm and the receiving finesse of Coale and Ward provided Theta Delt scores.

The Phi Deltis and Kaps both remained in the chase for top honors by topping the Phi Gams and Zetes respectively. The Phi Deltis won on a pass to Joe Mason in a closely contested game. The Kaps, however, found little difficulty in handing the Zetes defeat number six. Riddall, Baker, and Fay all scored for the K.A.'s.

Professor Johnson, Grimm, Schuman Argue Foreign Policy

Speakers Point Out Influence Of 1948 Elections On Policy

By Norm Weed

About 300 people gathered in Jesup Hall last Thursday night to hear Professors Joseph E. Johnson, Charles Grimm, and Frederick L. Schuman debate the influence of the 1948 elections on foreign policy. Each speaker defended one candidate and showed how the foreign policy would be run if his nominee were elected.

Professor Johnson led off with a discussion of the desirability and probable duration of our bipartisan foreign policy, and closed with a presentation of the major issues of foreign policy, indicating on which issues the two major parties differed.

Grimm Stresses Consistency

Professor Grimm discussed foreign policy in western Europe, eastern Europe and Russia, China, and the Americas. Grimm emphasized throughout that no matter what Dewey's foreign policy will be, it will be far stronger than the present one because it will be more consistent.

Professor Schuman resolved all the issues of foreign policy into one — our relations with Russia. He listed five possible courses of policy, eliminated two as impractical, and then showed that the present policy, if continued, will lead to a final policy which will be similar to foreign policy proposals made by Progressive candidate Henry Wallace.

Paradox Of Foreign Policy

Our bipartisan foreign policy, said Johnson, has probably made war less likely. The paradox of foreign policy, however, is to assume that this bipartisan policy will last forever, that it does not have certain limitations. The "accident of personalities", as Johnson termed it — that is, the fact that such men as Secretary of State Marshall and Chairman of Senate Foreign Affairs Committee Vandenberg have been, by and large, above party interests — may not, last, and if it does not, we may be driven to a new policy, similar to Britain's, with agreement on basic principles, but disagreement on the means of administration.

Johnson then cited the Republican PROFESSORS, Page 2

'Hamlet' Opens AMT Season

Webster Road Troupe Plays Tomorrow

Tomorrow night will mark the opening of the current drama season here at Williams, when the Adams Memorial Theatre curtain is raised on the Margaret Webster Shakespeare Company's production of "Hamlet." This eagerly awaited event is being presented under the auspices of the Adams Memorial Theatre Committee.

Miss Webster's company, which is booked for a seven month road tour, is performing Shakespeare at its best on many stages from coast to coast, and has included in its itinerary visits to many of the nation's leading colleges and universities. Among those abetting Miss Webster in the group's productions are Carol Goodner, Joseph Holland and Alfred Ryder, each of whom has appeared on Broadway in recent years.

The popular appeal of this event has been attested to by the fact that the house has been sold out for a number of weeks.

UC Abandons NSA Chapter

Frosh, Sophs To Battle Over Push-Ball Sat.

Abandonment of the Williams chapter of the National Students Association, announcement of a Freshman-Sophomore push-ball contest this Saturday, and a decision to take action against individuals in organized pre-game raids to Middletown or Amherst were a part of the activities of the Undergraduate Council at Monday night's meeting.

William Falconer '49, Treasurer of the local NSA chapter, presented the UC with a list of the organization's expenses since last spring, and said that he and the members of the NSA did not feel that the chapter was doing what it should. He said that this was probably due to lack of interest in the NSA by the student body, and that a spokesman for the organization, he recommended abolishing the Williams chapter. After approving the expenses of the group to date, the Council voted as Falconer had recommended.

Jerry Page '49 announced that an old Williams custom would be revived at 1:00 p.m. Saturday afternoon in the form of a Freshman-Sophomore push-ball contest. Page said that it had been a very successful event in the pre-war years, and that a new pushball six feet in diameter had been purchased recently for the contest. The two classes will line up at either end of the field to be marked off behind the Weston grandstands, and at the sound of the whistle the two classes will rush the ball in the center of the field. The first side to push the ball over their opponent's goal will be the winner. Page requested that all the social units eat earlier than usual Saturday noon so that all Freshmen and Sophomores will be able to do battle.

The UC decided that the Discipline Committee should take action against anyone involved in a pre-game raid on Middletown or Amherst in as much as the continuation of Little Three games depends upon the maintenance of good feeling between the schools.

Billtown Hallows'ners Run Wild By Light Of Spring St. Fires

Spring Street blazed with new and brighter lights Saturday night as enterprising groups of Halloween pranksters kindled half a dozen bonfires in the middle of Williamstown's main thoroughfare, turned loose a fire hose in Morgan Hall, and generally rained confusion upon the campus and surrounding areas.

A howling, torchbearing mob of pigmy pyromaniacs and demonic delinquents of all shapes and sizes took over the street at the fall of darkness and continued their activities long into the night, with a display of vigor and enthusiasm that made freshman-sophomore riots of the past seem tame by comparison.

Spring Street Burns

Local business establishments contributed an apparently inexhaustible supply of combustible material for the several conflagrations, that appeared with amazing regularity, with Cabe Prindle's renowned pool and billiard parlor emitting several years' accumulation of fuel before the grand old man of Spring Street locked his doors at an early hour. Rev. Cleland Guest Speaker

Duke Chaplain Gives Inspiring Message

In a tremendously effective sermon at the Thompson Memorial Chapel services last Sunday evening, the Reverend James T. Cleland, chaplain at Duke University, cited the fact that human beings are gregarious, and as such must work out an effective method of living together.

Fleet Of Ships

Beginning with a metaphor drawn by C. S. Lewis, a British writer, comparing human beings to a fleet of ships at sea, the Reverend Cleland dug down deeper into this analogy. He stated that there are three specific conditions which are necessary for a convoy of ships to successfully reach its destination, and which are also figuratively necessary for successful human living.

Three Requirements

The speaker pointed out that for a convoy to reach port unharmed, the following are necessary: First, each ship must be in good condition. Second, each ship must bear a conscious relation to every other ship. Third, each ship must obey the commodore.

Do We Meet Them?

Then Reverend Cleland looked at these requirements in application. See SPEAKER, page 2

Travel Topic Of Discussion

Talks Tackle Problem Of Touring Abroad

Seven experienced European travelers, speaking in Jesup last Monday evening under the auspices of the Adelpic Union, each commented on a phase of the topic: "So You'd Like To Go To Europe." Harry McDaniel '49, presided over this panel, which spoke informally to a small group of students and faculty members.

The first speaker was James Finke '50, who discussed the problem of how to get to Europe. Finke embarked from Quebec on a student ship with a mixed group of 750 students on-board. He illustrated on the many pleasant aspects of getting to Europe by this method, mentioning the advantages of language classes.

Mrs. Giles Kelly then presented the feminine angle on Youth Hostels. They are located in every European country, from fifteen to twenty miles apart. Although Mrs. Kelly said the living conditions were uncertain, she stated that it was the most inexpensive way to travel.

Giles Kelly '49, then presented a few more of the financial aspects of European travel. To travel by bicycle or on foot on the Youth Hostels plan costs from $450 to $650, Kelly explained. He said that round trip transportation can be obtained by boat for $300.

Donald Rackerby '49, discussed Youth Hostels travel in Italy. He advised travelers to restrict their travels to the more prosperous north and not to miss the cities of Venice, Florence, and Rome. He said that they found food to be plentiful and also mentioned that the elections had permanently settled the communist problem.

Edward Curtis '51, who worked in the Paris branch of the J. P. Morgan bank, talked about jobs in Europe. He said it was impossible to earn all expenses required, but that the $40 to $60 average wage in France at least would help. A job, he stressed, makes boredom impossible, is good experience, and exposes an American to the point of view of a European worker.

Working conditions in Europe were then discussed by James Geier '51, who spent the summer working in Paris machine shops. He mentioned the poverty of the French worker, the poor technical development in industry, and the important role being played by ERP in France. He said communism was being accepted by the French worker as the only possible alternative.

Ed Gessner, a German exchange student now at Williams, concluded the talks with a discussion of this exchange program. He said that many German students want to study in this country, and finances are their major problem.

Duffield Stars; Smith Scores On Pass Play

Whalen's Punts Keep Ephmen Bottled Up In Own Territory

by Fred Wiseman

A spirited, aggressive Union team defeated the Williams eleven 19-7 last Saturday afternoon at Alexander Field, Schenectady, New York. The outcome of the game was decided in the first half as the Garnets scored twice, while the Ephmen were not able to move against the Union forward wall. In the second half the Purple came to life and played the Dutchmen on an even basis, but by that time the damage was done and the game was out of their reach. The biggest thorn in the side of the Williams team was the punting of Union center Ken Whalen, who kept the Purple bottled up effectively in the first and second periods by kicking the ball out of bounds on the 1, 3, 4, and 9 yard line.

Duffield Stars

Stu Duffield was the individual star of the game. Playing all sixty minutes of the contest Duffield was a pillar of strength for the Ephmen. In addition to handling the ball on almost every offensive play and performing all of the punting duties, Duffield also excelled on defense, making many key tackles. At the start of the second half he ran back the Union kick-off from the Williams 12 to the Union 31 before the last Garnet defender pushed him out of bounds. The Ephmen, however, were not able to score after this sensational run. A Duffield to Delisser pass brought the ball down to the 13, but that was as far as the Ephmen advanced. An apparent T.D. pass Duffield to Cool was not allowed, as Bud was just outside the end zone.

Union scored in the first period when fullback Hal Lundstrom climaxed a drive that started on the Garnet 30 by scampering off tackle at the Williams 18 and running for the T.D. Al Wade's conversion was good and Union led 7-0.

T Attack

In the second period the Dutchmen's fast breaking "T" attack clicked for another score. Dick Spidel and Scotty Jackson alternated in carrying the ball to the Williams six, from which position Jackson scored on a left end sweep.

A poor pass from center went past Wade and he was unable to make the try for the extra-point.

Union's final touchdown came early in the fourth period when Strauss, the Garnet quarterback, threw a pass to his left end Busino in the end zone. It was a six yard toss and capped a twenty-six yard scoring drive for the Dutchmen.

Smith Scores

The lone Williams T.D. came in the fourth period when the score stood 19-0 against the Ephmen. Starting on their own fifteen when Duffield ran the Union kick off to the 28, the Williams eleven marched the length of the field to register their score. A Duffield to Cool pass moved the ball from the 28 to the 39. Pete Delisser made four yards around left end, and then Duffield went to the Union 49 on a hand off from Fisher. Pete Smythe advanced the ball to the 47 on an off tackle smash, and a Duffield to Cool pass brought the ball to the forty yard line of Union. Pete Fisher made another first down as he moved the ball to the 36, ramming his way through the Garnet line. Duffield then completed another pass to Cool, who was downed on the 29, and then

Inspection

Batting the breeze is relatively easy for most college men. It is practiced around the clock and generally although little is ever decided, one and all agree that it is a great part of their college education. Now undoubtedly the greatest exponents of this fine art are the characters which haunt the offices of The Record, the most guilty parties being the edit-board members themselves.

And during the sessions that go on, the question which always arises is, "What is wrong with Williams?" Usually, the answers vary from the fact that Williams is a post-grad school instead of a college, to the fact that the only toilet in Hopkins Hall is on the fourth floor. Considerable inspection goes on and finally after airing numerous gripes, we generally arrive at the crux of the situation.

Introspection

Instead of inspection, we proceed to do a little introspection. Here we find the basic question which is bothering all colleges today. What happened to the "old college try"? what has happened to our attitude? Here the sledding gets considerably tougher and as a consequence, the answers are considerably vaguer and not near as vehement as they were when we commenced. As one of our correspondents said, "Possibly we are a bunch of lounge-lizards." Not particularly caring for the analogy to a lizard, we were quick to defend ourselves. Upon close examination, a lounge-lizard is defined as one who is bored with cheers, spirit, tradition, and in many cases, down-right manliness, and is greatly concerned with vintage of the wine and the social standing of women. Unfortunately, most of us cannot escape a part, or all, of this description.

Today, it appears that the ones that do not fit the description are the athletes who go and knock their brains out, and after a loss, continue playing when the rooters merely shrug their respective shoulders, and say, "So what!"

And Spirit

All is not well—but it isn't as bad as we have pictured it. A month ago, we felt it was. The spirit, however, has risen and everyone of us should keep it on the rise. Another demonstration such as the spontaneous football rally after the Tufts victory is clearly in order before the Wesleyan game. The sophomores and freshman should get on Weston Field and push that ball to beat all hell Saturday afternoon. Instead of being boring, it might be fun.

The Record in its own way is attempting to add to the spirit by printing a ten-page Saturday issue, the theme of which is "Beat Wesleyan." Let's start the Cardinals defeat now. Let's drum up the spirit now. It is possible to beat a team that is the favorite—it is done every week, and this week, let's make it Williams turn to pull the hat trick.

cation to our lives. "Are we in good condition?" The speaker stated that we have the facilities to keep in good physical condition, and that we should be able, with a little effort and realization of the individual's responsibility, to stay in good mental condition. The second requirement is not so easily dealt with. Reverend Cleland pointed out that many of us fail to realize that "we gain our personalities through contact with other people." What we must strive to attain is a society of cooperating specialists, as characterized by the "blocking back", who does his individual job, and at the same time is working for the team as a whole. Then we must ask ourselves—Are we obeying the commodore? The speaker emphasized at this point that each of us is free to choose his own commodore. Many of us try to sail under our own guidance; others take a pet organization as their loyalty, others choose their country. However, all of these "leave out too many ships we want to sail with."

Reverend Cleland noted that to find the all-inclusive commodore we desire, we must look to the concept of "one God, who created, sustains and redeems." To sail under his leadership there is only one condition—"that we sail under a flag of goodwill."

tirelessly and well until his death. Elbert C. Cole, Samuel Fessenden Clarke, Professor of Biology, has written for the magazine an article entitled "Biology in Retrospect and Prospect," telling of the work of the Biology Department during the wartime expansion of Williams, and of the plans and needs for the future. He tells an interesting tale of the conversion of biologists into aircraft experts and back again. The planned expansion of the lab is necessary in view of the enlarged scope of the department, according to Professor Cole.

Noticeable in this issue is a large amount of material on what is happening in the College itself. Three of the football games are viewed, and details of the opening of the fall semester are given. Included in this is a reprint of a Record write-up of the Freshman-Sophomore riot, and pictures of football games and the riot.

PURPLE PLATTERS

As you can see by a quick glance at the discs reviewed in this issue, PURPLE PLATTERS is specializing more and more in the jazz field. Since most recent recordings of this style seem to be an improvement over past performances, we're eliminating our "E" classification, but this merely means more critical reviews. Last this week's column be interpreted as a paid advertisement for Columbia Records Inc., we wish to assure you that our choice of discs does not guarantee us personally of any Columbia releases.

JOHNNY HODGES

Rendezvous With Rhythm B+
Jeep's Blues B-

In reality the band is a small Ellington unit under altoist Johnny Hodges' name and features all the Duke's standbys including Cootie Williams, Lawrence Brown, Otto Hardwick, Harry Carney, Billy Taylor, Fred Guy and Sonny Greer along with the Duke himself and Hodges. RENDEZVOUS is easily the better side of this Columbia reissue. Solo spots are shared here by Cootie, Johnny, and the Duke who perform in their usual brilliant way, combining for one final jam chorus. However, we've heard this group play better. The reverse, set to a sly, blues tempo, lacks the drive of the first side. Again Johnny and Cootie shine, but the sax section fails to blend well together. (Columbia 37837)

LES BROWN

Sentimental Rhapsody B-
Jumpy Stumpy B-

RHAPSODY, a beautiful theme from "Street Scene," catches Les and his boys at their best instrumentally, but Eileen Wilton's vocal is a far cry from Doris Day. Eileen possesses a fair tone despite poor acoustics and sings in a wide range, but hasn't learned to relax. Fortunately the excellent arrangement offsets this vocal. JUMPY is a Brown original which showcases the sax section. Of particular note here is the medium tempo which is held up well by a great rhythm quartet.

However, there are few new big-band ideas in the arrangement. (Columbia 37830)

CLAUDE THORNHILL

Robin's Nest B+
Just About This Time Last Night C+

NEST, a bop melody by Lucky Thompson and Illinois Jacquet, moves at a slow bounce pace and confirms our belief that the Thornhill group plays the tops in danceable music. Here the band is very subdued, particularly the mellow saxes. Danny Polo's clarinet provides the top musical thrill and at the same time fills in a few of the too-numerous dull moments. Fran Warren's strained vocal on NIGHT is in direct contrast with the relaxed mood on NEST. Her limited range is evident as she attempts to reach several high notes with a squealing result. Luckily the band saves the day again. (Columbia 38138)

CHU BERRY

Chuberry Jam B-
Maelstrom B-

Both sides rate B—'s only because of Chu's fine tenor work, which completely overshadows the average musicianship displayed by the mediocre men surrounding him here. This disc was waxed in 1937, but has been released only recently by Columbia. JAM is ruined by poor rhythm backup while MAELSTROM suffers from a bad tram solo. Still Berry is terrific! (Columbia 37571)

WOODY HERMAN

I've Got News For You C
Keen and Peachy B+

The Herd is definitely on the upswing again. True, this disc isn't in the same class with some former Herman recordings, but the band is improving. NEWS is slightly sad news thanks to an uninspired vocal by Woody coupled with some equally uninspired trombone by Earl Swope. However, we can't say enough about Shorty Rogers' great trumpet. He is also featured on KEEN, which he wrote in collaboration with Ralph Burns. This fast bop number reminds us of the 1945 Herman Herd. (Columbia 38213) licans' and Democrats' stand on the major issues. On Russia and the UN, there is a very similar attitude. On economic foreign policy, the military question, and the Trade Agreements Program, Johnson expressed some doubts as to what the Republicans might do. On China there is disagreement; on Palestine, while Johnson admitted that Truman and the Democrats had followed a "wavy line", he doubted whether any administration could have done better in an election year.

Unity Within ERP

Grimm commenced by reading a quotation from one of Dewey's campaign speeches, in which Dewey took a stand on the major issues of foreign affairs today. Grimm then turned to some of the areas of conflict. In western Europe, Grimm felt that when Dewey is elected, he will require that the sixteen countries of ERP work together to eventually form a United States of Europe. He pointed out that it was very important for such a union that England enter into it.

On other issues Grimm was not so explicit, but maintained that whatever policy the Republicans adopt, it will be more consistent than the Democrats', and that everyone will know exactly what to expect. The Republicans have been accused of being isolationist, stated Grimm. He doubted if this was any longer true, explaining that Dewey was a young leader of a new wing of the party, breaking away from the Old Guard. A change, said Grimm, will be good for the country.

Russia The Issue

After quoting from his omnipresent "Alice in Wonderland",

Schuman pointed out that after all, Progressives are not very much different from everyone else. Their aims and aspirations are the same as those of the two major parties, but they feel that the election should be resolved around certain issues.

The central problem, stated Schuman, is our relations with Russia. For the answer to the problem, Schuman presented five possibilities: (1) yield to Moscow on all controversies and accept all proposals of the Soviet Union; (2) "strive for the restoration of, and promotion of, wartime collaboration with Russia," making treaties and agreements; (3) "agree to disagree" on every Russian proposal, withdraw forces, separate antagonists, and set up a buffer zone which both countries would agree not to use; (4) "reject Soviet demands and proposals," support anti-Communist movements, increase our armaments and decrease those of western Europe, and in general, challenge Russia at every move; (5) have a preventive atomic war now.

Number Two Or Number Four? Dismissing the first and last as both impractical and undesirable, Schuman then explained why Russia is probably not displeased with our present course of rejecting Soviet demands and proposals. The Soviet Union will induce us to continue our policy on the grounds that it must eventually fall, and in failure, will weaken the United States, and promote militarism and fascism. This will lead to war, although there will not be shooting war soon. When it comes, Russians will have so rigged circumstances that they can convince much of the world that it is a war of American aggression. See PROFESSORS, page 4

Harriers Drop Close Meet To Union For Second Loss

Planskymen Favored In Little Three Race At Middletown Today

On the difficult 4.7 mile Schenectady course the varsity harriers were downed 24-33 by the Union cross country squad Saturday, in their last meet before the Little Three Championships. Tough opposition plus a few bad breaks resulted in the thin-clad's second loss against the same number of wins.

At Middletown, Connecticut this afternoon Tony Planaky's runners are attempting to carry off their third straight Little Three cross country title on Wesleyan's 4.6 mile road course. By virtue of their 28-27 triumph over Middlebury who conquered Amherst by the same margin and their romp in the Little Three last fall, the Ephmen rate as slight favorites to repeat once more. However past years have shown that comparative records count little in this tight rivalry. The Lord Jeffs have already posted a 21-36 win over Wesleyan.

Tough Break

Last Saturday, Union's Belanger took first place by a scant ten yards due to a costly misjudgment by Bill Kelton, Purple Star. After a nip and tuck battle most of the way, Kelton pulled away from his rival in the final mile and built up a safe fifty yard lead. Then in the last two hundred yards Bill turned at the wrong gate and lost so much ground that he was just edged at the tape. The winners' time of 26:17 minutes was only two seconds off the Union record so Kelton would undoubtedly have smashed the mark.

Close behind the two leaders was Garlock of Union followed by Kev Delany of Williams who ran a fast 26:47. A garnet then snared fifth place by a few yards from Captain Paul Cook who cramped up near the end and was clocked in 26:57. Union filled the next two slots before George Dorian, bothered by a stitch at the half way mark took ninth in 28:32. The fifth Williams man to finish was George Hutton in 29:32.

Yearlings Beaten

The freshman harriers fell by an identical 24-33 score to the Union freshman. Bright spot of the race for the Purple was Jim Haskell's victory over the pack in a fast 16:03 for three miles. Other Williams' places were Cooper Smith fifth in 16:49 Perk Bass, seventh in 16:56 John McAloon eighth in 17:04 and Tex Freese twelfth in 18:39.

Golf Team Elects Cole '49 Captain

At their annual golf dinner at the Springs, the five returning lettermen of last spring's golf squad elected Jerry Cole captain for the 1949 season. Cole, a senior, has been one of the mainstays of the Williams for the past thr years and will play his fourth year of varsity golf this spring.

The usual practice of electing an honorary captain at the end of each season was dispensed with this year so that the captain can be of material assistance in planning the spring trip and in working out other details during the course of the season.

Betes And Saints Win Intramurals; Meet This Week For Championship

The Betes and Saints jumped in to the campus limelight this past week by clinching undisputed possession of championships in the A and B divisions, respectively, of the Interfraternity Football League.

The two champs will meet this week to determine the college championship and also to determine who will represent the Purple in a round robin series of games to be played at Amherst on the morning of November 13th between teams from Williams, Amherst, and Bowdoin. The Lord Jeffs are offering a trophy to the winner of the round robin competition.

Betes Extended In Win

The Betes ran up against what proved to be the toughest opposition of the season in their last tussle with the KA's, emerging a 12-6 victor only after a hard fought game. Kappa Alpha really turned on the heat in an attempt to dislodge the unbeaten pace-setters, but the passing of Bete quarterback Burt Dean proved too great an obstacle to hurdle. Dean threw a spot pass to Shay Lynch in the end zone to culminate a sustained drive and net the Stet-

Frosh Soccer Team Downed By Amherst

The combination of an off-day and a strong opponent was too much for the Freshman soccer team last Saturday. The Amherst yearlings downed the Eph team 9-1 in a one sided bout.

Trailing 2-0 in the first period, Don Martin hooked in the lone tally. Shortly after, the Jeffs matched this and scored an additional two in the following three periods. Aside from occasional spurts, the Amherst squad was in complete control and capitalized on the Eph's ragged play. The final count was 9-1 as the frosh wound up their season losing to both of their Little Three rivals.

Yearlings Snare Little Three Grid Title As Cramer Stars

Halfback Paul Cramer paced the undefeated freshman football team to a 39-19 win over Amherst last Saturday, giving them the Little Three Crown and preserving the frosh gridmen's eight game winning streak. Cramer passed for the first touchdown, scored three personally and kicked two extra points in the Weston Field rout. The Lord Jeffs were only in the game for five minutes. At that point Cramer flipped a seventeen yard pass to little Bill Callaghan for a T.D. and when Jack Morrison's conversion made it 7-0, the rout was on. Cramer cut off tackle for a twenty-four yard touchdown play at the end of the first quarter and took up where he left off in the second stanza by sliding over from the four, making the score 19-0.

Buffalo Boy Makes Good

John Kolsar, who gave the Amherst Safety man trouble all afternoon, got into the act at this point by bucking straight up the middle for fifteen yards and the fourth Purple tally. Amherst scored on a desperation pass as the half ended with the Burnetmen on the right end of a 25-7 score. George McAleenan, the game's tackling star, opened the second half by driving his way to the Amherst twenty on a thirty yard end-sweep, thus setting the stage which came on a seven yard run around the Lord Jeff flank. Cramer's conversion made it 32-7. The Jeffs came back to score on a pass interception good for sixty yards and a TD and then tightened the score to 32-19 with a pass for another touchdown.

Callaghan And Callahan

Two Irishmen handled the final Williams touchdown as Pete Callahan blocked a kick and Bill Callaghan fell on it in the end zone for his second touchdown of the afternoon.

The Burnetmen had control of the ball most of the game and were only forced to punt once. Dave Mills' downfield blocks were a standout feature while Chuck Harris handled his first start as a signal caller like a veteran. Only the Union freshman now stand between the yearlings and an undefeated season for Dale Burnett's first freshman team.

gue. Psi Upsilon and DKE both disposed of cellar tenants by identical scores, 12-6. D.U. and D Phi were the luckless victims. Como and Huston took Psi U scoring honors while Debevoise and Roberts provided the Deke fireworks. Charley Huntington's three T.D.'s brought Chi Psi its fifth win this time over the Garfield Club, 18-12.

In League A Phi Delta Theta hung on to the second spot by trouncing the Theta Deltis, 28-12. Stan Roller scored twice. Joe Mason and Don LeSage each once in the season finale for both teams. The A.D.'s meanwhile throttled Phi Gam, 12-6, behind the fancy running and passing of the Bell brothers and the fine catch of a Jack Mason pass by end Fred Thexton. The Phi Sigs also came out on top, pushing a luckless Zeta eleven farther into the cellar in another 12-6 game. The standings:

Baxter, Aspinall Receive Citation

Outstanding Service Award Given By Navy

At a joint Army-Navy ceremony on October 19, in the Alumnae House at Smith College, Dr. James P. Baxter, III, president of Williams College, was one of four who received the president's certificate of merit for distinguished wartime work. The recipients were cited for "outstanding services to their country" for their wartime work with the Office of Scientific Research and Development. Dr. Baxter was official historian for the OSRD.

Others who received certificates were Miss Gladys A. Anslow, professor of physics and director of graduate study at Smith; Dr. Samuel R. Aspinall, assistant professor of chemistry at Williams, and Major General Frank A. Keating.

Miss Anslow, the only woman in New England to receive the presidential certificate of merit for her work with the OSRD, was head of the Information and Communications Section of the Office of Field Service of that organization. Dr. Aspinall was technical aide of the explosives division of the National Defense Research Committee of the OSRD.

The Communists feel that our bipartisan policy is actually helping the spread of Communism by rejecting Soviet demands and proposals.

To avoid this war, which Schuman claimed can not be won if it should occur, the only thing that the United States can do is change policy. The change would be in the general direction of answer number three — "agree to disagree." Eventually, however, if we are to reach a "modus vivendi" with the passing of the years, we must strive for the restoration of a collaboration with Russia. This is Wallace' foreign policy platform, and while it is not practical in 1948, nor perhaps in 1949, and maybe even in 1950, it is probably the best possible course if we are to avoid war.

Football . . .

two line bucks brought the ball to the 20. A right end sweep by Duffield took the Ephmen to the 15, and then Fisher bulled his way to the four. The Eph attack sputtered at this point, but when the referee ruled that a Union player had interfered with Cool's attempt to catch a fourth down pass from Duffield, the Purple were given another chance to try for the T.D. from the Union 1 yard line. A penalty for too much time in huddle moved them back to the six, but on the next play Duffield stepped back and rifled a pass to Howie Smith in the end zone and the Ephmen had scored. Ernie Mierzejewski booted the placement, his eleventh in twelve attempts.

The Williams line-up:

Ends-Fish, Cool, Reynolds, Jackson.
Tackles-Genelase, Fargo, Zebryk.
Guards-Mierzejewski, Ratcliffe, Strong, Green.
Centers-Mahoney, Roach.
Backs-Smith, Dellasser, Fisher, Farmer, French, Smythe, Sperry, Duffield.

Present

Somebody made the crack. "If Truman can do it, so can we." Now the We this modern Confucius was referring to is Williams, and recently having his faith in up-sets restored, the mighty sage is convinced that we can do it to Wesleyan. So are we—this we refers to the editorial we.

It is the consensus that the game will either be a rout, or, and this is by far the most important, a closely contested battle. Such has been the case in the last two Wesleyan games. The Cardinals have taken the field odds-on favorites, as they are this time, and for two years narrowly squeaked through by a narrow one touch-down margin.

Past

In the '46 game, it was scoreless ball for fifty-six minutes of play. Last year, the score was deadlocked 6-6 at half-time. Wesleyan scoring late in the fourth quarter to edge the Ephs for a 12-6 win. The maxim that you never know what is going to happen in a Little Three football game, is of course, generally true. For the last two years, however, everything has run true to the pollsters form—Wesleyan did win just as predicted. They did not win by any margin predicted. It has been close.

The pollsters again predict a Wesleyan victory. After last Tuesday's accurate prediction, it would appear that it is just so much stuff-and-nonsense. The haberdashers did it, and although we don't claim any relationships to haberdashers, it is the logical deduction that we can do it.

Let's Do It

Now this phrase Let's Do It doesn't refer to that ridiculous romantic song so popular a few years back. On the contrary, romance should be the vaguest thing about Saturday's game. The only romance we care to see is that nostalgic idea of the underdog taking the favorite to the cleaners. A completely satisfactory cleaning this week would only have to be one point.

Let's Win

Unhappily, the predictsters are occasionally right. And the only thing that makes them wrong is the spirit of the occasion. We strongly feel that the spirit of this occasion will again be the turning point. The team has got it. In the lingo of the coaching profession, the team is "up for this one." The student body should also be up for this one. Up on their feet, up on their cheers, and up on their enthusiasm. With the combination of a spirited team and a spirited crowd, we probably have an unbeatable combination. Let's Combine. Let's win.

of ranting rhetoric. Ryder's skillful portrayal of Hamlet's realization, after thirty-four lines of this, that he is making a fool of himself and accomplishing nothing, was excellently done. None of the soliloquies, fortunately, were declaimed as from a po-

Uncle Eph's Worm Farm

by D. Light de Moon

We were glancing through some Williamsiana over in the Library the other day, and happened to run across a small pamphlet with a red leather binding up on the top shelf. Stamped in gold letters across the back was the title "Laws of Williams College — 1795."

The pages were brown and dry, and most of the edges were crumbling. This little booklet, we learned, was given to all freshmen who first gazed on the Purple Hills from the windows of the Albany stage one hundred and fifty-three years ago. Signed by the President, it became a sort of passport to Williams, which consisted then of a single building known today as West College.

We read with awe the slim volume upon which is based the consequent codes of moral conduct which have brought such fame to our School. With a houseparty in the offing, the volume was particularly apropos. We hope all Williams Men and their dates read this column before the festivities get under way this weekend. President Baxter might also find a few ideas to help his limping Fund Drive over the top.

The "Laws" bring to mind a few things which seem to have been lost in the recent shuffle involving the Dean, the UC, the student body, The Record and other papers, and, upon occasion, this column. Human nature in the college male hasn't changed much since Uncle Eph shot his last Indian on the shores of Lake Champlain. And, as we've said right along, it was better in the good old days.

"Of Mice and Men" Scheduled As Cap and Bells' 1st Presentation

Bryant R'ports Polls' Purpose Seasonal Plan

According to Adams Memorial Theatre Director David Bryant, preparations are now being completed for Cap and Bells' first performance of the year, "Of Mice and Men," which will be presented at the AMT on November 18, 19, and 20. The choice of "Of Mice and Men" was in keeping with Cap and Bells' policy of attempting to please and educate the student body simultaneously.

"New York Times" drama critic, Brooks Atkinson, described "Of Mice and Men" as a "masterpiece," while other critics were equally enthusiastic. The play itself deals with an itinerant worker's search for a home and of his continual beating at the hands of the more wealthy and educated.

In discussing the cast, Director Bryant pointed to the fact that three of the nine students participating have never previously appeared on the stage. Included in the cast are: Dominick Dunne '49 as George; Martin Luthy '51 as Lennie; Dixon White '49 as Candy; Richard Chinnman '51 as The Boss; James Dissell '49 as Curley; Caroline Bidwell as Curley's wife; John Lasell '50 as Slim; Thomas Brittingham '51 as Carlson; Arthur Levitt '52 as Whit; and Llewellyn White '50 as Crooks. Among those involved in the actual production of the play are: Production Manager Otto Siebert, II '50; Scenery and Designing Director John Hopkins '50; Stage Manager W. Gilbert Spencer '50; Assistant Stage Manager Howard Cadmus '50; and Prompter George Sumner '52.

Poll
Meanwhile the results of this week's Cap and Bells poll are still being tabulated under the direction of "Tony" Wimpfheimer F-'49. He reported that over 750 questionnaires have already been returned to him and that of these, approximately one of every fifteen is proving to be very useful as a guide to student opinion. The final tabulations are expected to be made public sometime next week.

In commenting on the poll, Director Bryant explained Cap and Bells' position concerning its productions. While the organization feels that it has a definite educational responsibility to the college, it is also fully aware that it "lives" on box office receipts and must therefore cater in some degree to popular sentiment. This situation paves the way for a middle way-of-the-road policy which ultimately governs their choice of plays. However, Bryant mentioned the possibility of levying a higher SAC tax which would guarantee students' admission to all productions, and at the same time, would allow Cap and Bells more digression in selecting material for presentation.

New Subscriptions

Season tickets for six productions in the AMT are now available at the box office. These tickets are selling at $4.80, a reduction over last year's price and not only offer the ticket-holder reduced rates, but also provide him a seat for all Cap and Bells and Adams Memorial Theatre productions. Interviews Optimistic On Wesleyan Game Disappointed Republicans found some consolation Wednesday morning in the thought that "if Truman can upset Dewey, Williams can certainly upset Wesleyan." Stu Duffield reflected this philosophy when he said, "If Harry can win, why can't we?" and Uncle Ed Bullock made the same comment.

When asked by a Record reporter what he thought of our chances to win, Cliff Farmer declared that "A team that won't be beaten, can't be beaten." Bron Fargo said "Spirit will tell" and Marty Detmer "A little 'raz-mataz' and Wesleyan has had it."

While several of the local merchants refused comment, Cobe Prindle brought some infallible logic out of his bottle and stated "I haven't missed a home game in forty years, and therefore I predict that Williams has a good chance of upsetting Wesleyan." Ray Washburne made the subtle comment that "According to Gallup's latest figures, Wesleyan will win," while the official statement of the Co-op was "It is going to rain!"

The sage comments of "We'll scare 'em" and "We are closing up holes" came from Dan Mahoney and Ernie Mierzejewski, respectively. Manager Larry Fitch predicted either a 7-0 Williams upset or a 27-0 Wesleyan victory. Coach Bob Muir was pessimistic about the outcome and predicted a 13-7 Wesleyan victory. It is interesting to note that no one of those asked who ventured to predict a score thought that Mierzejewski's magic toe wouldn't turn in a perfect performance in the conversion column.

Dean Keep Inaugurates Series Of Meetings Explaining Courses

Freshmen Hear Baxter For First Of Talks Tomorrow Night

Sunday night at 8:30 in Jesup Auditorium, the first of a series of meetings will be held for the members of the freshman class. These meetings, which have been inaugurated by Freshman Dean Albert Keep, are designed to orient the freshman in regard to possible choice of courses, and to give them a better understanding as to what they are accomplishing at Williams and what Williams is trying to achieve for them.

At each of these meetings a member, or several members of the faculty will talk about the purposes, traditions and opportunities offered by Williams.

Baxter Speaks
Tomorrow night President Baxter

will speak on the place of a liberal arts college in the present day world, and the overall picture of Williams in relation to the economic and social framework of the country.

Although the first talk will be on Sunday night the subsequent meetings will be held whenever possible, on the first Tuesday of every month.

Traditions of College

On Tuesday Dec. 7 the traditions of Williams College will be discussed, and on Jan. 11, the educational factors of student government and the problems of student government in relation to the student will be the topic of the lecture.

Two speakers will address the freshman class at each meeting after Jan. 11. They will take up the different fields of study. See MEETINGS, Page 7

Problem: To hold down costs, and speed the extension of telephone service.

Solution: High-strength wire whose use allows the span between poles to be increased from 150 feet to more than 300. One pole now does the work of two.

The problem, of course, is a continuing one for telephone people. High-strength wire with required electrical qualities is only one of many things they have developed to help solve the problem in these days of high construction costs.

In total, their developments are the reason why telephone service here is the best in the world—the reason why a telephone call costs only a few pennies.

Eph Booters Battle Today With Wesmen

Salaun Heads Cardinals Against Bullockmen In Little Three Tilt

Williams' soccer team will open its drive for the Little Three Championship this afternoon when the Bullockmen tackle the Wesleyan booters on Cole Field at 12:30 p.m. It will be the opening Little Three tilt for the Ephmen.

The Purple will be in search of their third win of the season. So far this year, they have dumped Union and the University of Massachusetts and lost to Connecticut and Springfield. Connecticut and Springfield, however, are two of the top teams in the country.

Wes Has 2-3 Record

Wesleyan comes to town with two wins and three losses. They opened the season with an 8-0 win over Clark. In their second encounter they lost 2-0 to RPI, to whom Williams also lost a close practice game in a pre-season scrimmage. The Cardinals swamped Bridgeport 14-0, but then dropped their next two games to Amherst 2-1 and Yale 2-1.

Last year, the Ephmen beat a highly-touted Wesleyan team 2-1 on a rain-soaked field with a heavy wind blowing. The Cardinals, however, have lost their entire half-back line from this team and their main strength now is in the center of their forward line.

Wesleyan's forward line is led by Co-Captain Hank Salaun at inside-left, who scored seven goals in one game this year, and was a candidate for the Olympic squad last year. Salaun, along with center-forward Dan Taylor, Wes frosh star last year and inside-right Crickets Powell, give the Cardinals a strong forward line. In an attempt to bolster his half-back line, Coach McCurdy has moved Co-Captain George Forbes, a star fullback last year up to halfback. Sophomore Dave Jores and Joe Bauer fill in at the other halves.

Kneass Still Out

The Ephmen will not be at full strength for this game, since star halfback George Kneass is still out with a bad ankle. Aside from his position, the Purple line-up will probably remain unchanged, with Dick Manning and Ted Prescott at the wings. Bob Johnston and Cy Maysbark at the insides, and Tom Kent at center-forward. Rollo Palmedo, Captain Frank Donnelly and Johnny Bowen will form the half-back line, while Rog Dickinson and Gerry Page will back them up at fullback. Gerry Palmieri will be in the nets.

Donnelly will probably play part of the game at center-forward to give the line more scoring punch, with Sophomore Jim Crosby, who showed up very well in the Springfield tussel, filling in at halfback. The Ephmen have been forced to practice with a depleted squad all week because of hour tests.

tions. Season tickets permit their holders to apply for extra seats in advance of the regular box office sale.

Bryant announced that several advanced drama students would present scenes from various plays in arena style next Thursday at the AMT. He declared that invitations to this performance had already been sent to a representative cross-section of the college.

Saints, Betes Postpone Tilt

Due to adverse playing conditions, the playoff between the Saint Anthony fraternity and Beta Theta Pi for the fall intramural football championship has been postponed until Tuesday, November 9. In League A the Betes won seven and lost none, while in league B the Saints dropped one and took six.

Cub Gridmen Meet Union

Injuries Dim Chances For Victory Today

An undefeated but injury-riddled freshman football team looks for its third win and an unblemished season's record as they face the Union yearlings on Cole Field at 10:45 this morning. Last year's unbeaten frosh team defeated the Garnets by a 21-0 count as current varsity stars Pete Fisher and Pete DeLisser ran a weak Union line ragged.

The only available information on the Union team shows that they tied their traditional rivals from R.P.I. 12-12 but even if they are not a standout club they will have a decided edge if four of Dale Burnett's keymen do not get off the injured list. Triple-threat Paul Cramer, who has scored thirty-three points as well as throwing two touchdown passes so far, is a very doubtful starter. Fullback George McAleenan and quarterback Jack Morrison are still injured as is 215 pound tackle Jerry Clarke, who sprained his ankle in the Amherst game.

Revised Line-up

A revamped line would see Bill Callaghan and Pete Callahan at the ends, Bob Well at one tackle and Bob Huddleston or Ed Chasteny at the other while the powerful center of the line would again be composed of guards Chuck Salmon and Dave Mills with Dick Kraft at center.

In the backfield, Chuck Harris takes over the quarterback slot. Pete Smith slips into Cramer's left half position and ex-Andover star "Duke" Curtis assumes McAleenan's fullback duties. Mr. Inside John Kulsar thus being the only remaining regular in the backfield.

Athletic Council Will Convene After Game

A meeting of the Athletic Council has been called immediately following the Wesleyan Game Saturday afternoon. The meeting is scheduled for 5:00 p.m. in the council room in Lasell Gymnasium.

The Council is made up of three components. Three of the members are alumni, three are from the faculty, and three are undergraduate representatives. (See story on page one.)

Stern, Wear Top Record Grid Poll

Six Entries Choose Nine Out Of Ten

Last week Wally Stern '50 and John Wear '51 emerged on lucky end of things as they wound up prize winners in the weekly Record football poll.

Stern won a Purple Cow pin at Irene's Gift Shop by picking nine out of ten and Wear garnered a pipe from Hart's Drug Store. The former missed one game by unwisely choosing Texas Christian over Baylor. Three people were 90% right, but Stern was the first to turn in his entry.

In the Hart selections, Wear also picked nine out of ten, and his error also occurred in the TCU-Baylor contest. In this poll, three stalwart individuals were all that picked Williams to beat Trinity.

Jeffs Finish Close At Middletown

In a very tightly contested meet the varsity cross country squad ran off with their most important win of the season Wednesday by copping their third successive Little Three harrier title with 34 points as against runnerup Amherst's 37 marker. Wesleyan, running on their 4.6 mile home course was a distant third with 55 points.

Although the victory was not nearly as decisive as last fall's Little Three rout, it proved highly satisfactory to a PT naky team that has done remarkably well all season on little depth or reserve strength. They will attempt to better last year's seventh place performance at the New England's in Boston on Monday.

Kelton Second

Since the pack finished in fairly close order fashion Wednesday the outcome was in doubt until the last thinclads completed the flat course that ended on the Cardinal's cinder track. Though well-chased all the distance, last year's victor Frank Johnson of Wesleyan finally shook off the Purple's Bill Kelton to win by sixty yards in record Wesleyan time of 23:53.3 minutes. Kelton turned in a notable 24:06 clocking. Not too far behind him were Valentine and Bozarth of Amherst.

Then Kev Delany and Captain Paul Cook who have taken turns beating each other all season placed fifth and sixth respectively in 24:37 and 24:42. Following the second Card scorer was George Dorian of Williams in 25:31, his finest performance of the year. None too soon in thirteenth position the Ephs found their fifth finisher, Ernie May who was clocked in 26:35. He was followed by George Hutton in 26:39 and Pete Sylvester in 27:03.

Freshmen Lose

Just prior to the varsity triumph, the Purple freshman squad were downed by the Wesleyan and Amherst yearlings. The hosts tallied a low of 31 as against the Jeffs total of 39 and Williams 54. The Middletowners produced the individual winner in this race also as Tom Soukup covered the 2.6 mile route in 14:22.7.

Eph standout, Jim Haskell, took a good second in 14:43 while Cooper Smith in seventh, John McAloon in twelfth, Perk Bass in fourteenth and John Freese in nineteenth rounded out the Williams scoring.

Williams Boasts Nine Game Edge Over Wesleyan Rival Since 1881 Grid Inaugural

by Dick Duffield

When the gridiron elevens of Williams and Wesleyan clash this afternoon on Weston Field, it will be the fifty-fourth game of an ancient rivalry, which antedates even the classic Amherst-Williams struggles. Throughout the course of the series, which started in November, 1881, and which has continued unbroken since 1896, the Ephmen have captured 29 victories, while the Cardinals have returned the winner 20 times. There have also been four tie games — all of which attest to the closeness of the battles, everyone hard fought from beginning to end, and often undecided until the final whistle is blown.

But today's strife will be a far cry from the inaugural conflict of November, 1881, which was also Williams' first intercollegiate football contest. The game was new then, and only a few gentlemen bewhiskered in the prevalent fashion and possibly a few ladies with bustles were there to watch a team of young huskies from down Connecticut way hand the Purple eleven a decisive trouncing, 10-0. Many years have passed since then and the game has changed considerably, so that only the names of the rivals and the hills are the same.

First Game In Rain

Two years after football was introduced in the Berkshires, Captain Kendall's outfit journeyed to Springfield to play Wesleyan. Picturesque old Hampden Park was chosen as the site of the initial encounter, and the Ephmen entered the field of battle with the odds all in their favor, for the referee was Williams' own Seymour '82. Together with Pierce '82, who served in the unique capacity of "Umpire for Williams", Seymour gave the Purple a two-to-one superiority over the lone "Umpire for Wesleyan."

Posterity is indebted to the Williams Gul of 1893, which gives the following graphic account of the scene of the fray: "The day was a nasty one, and pools of water covered the field; the wind blew cold from the north, and the halves whistled on their fingers between runs to keep warm. Quite a prominence had been given to the game in the papers, but there was not more than a score of spectators, no students, only an unappreciative Springfield audience." Perhaps, many readers will recall a similarity between this match and last year's submerged battle.

In spite of the fact that they controlled the officials, the Williams' team could not resist the onslaught of the Red and Black. During the first three quarters they held their own, but in the second "inning", as they used to call them, Captain Kendall's team found that enthusiasm could not make up for experience and succumbed by the margin of 10-0. It is curious to note that for many years, Williams men firmly believed they had won the original tilt.

Purple Victorious In 1896

Wesleyan extended its supremacy through four contests until 1899, when the Purple strategists informed the Cardinal authorities that they would like time out to learn a few more plays. Evidently they learned their plays well, for when relations were resumed in 1896, the Ephmen shut out Wesleyan 6-0. After the Cherry and Black triumph in 1887, the Williams Weekly editorially censured Wesleyan's unfairness "in tackling below the hips."

Following the Williams' victory in 1896, the series progressed at a rapid pace. High spots along the line were the 50-14 Williams' triumph in 1920 by the fabulous Benny Boynton and his teammates, and Eddie Monjo's three long placements in the 40-0 rout the following year. Last season's 12-6 loss by a scrappy, under-dog Williams' eleven was only one of the many intense and thrill-packed exhibitions which this ancient rivalry has produced.

Soccer Seeks Win To Even Series That Began In 1924

When Williams meets Wesleyan today in soccer, a real test will be evidenced, as shown by the fact that both teams recognized as being among the top elevens in the country, and have similar records. Since the inception of the classic in 1924, Williams has had to come from behind in games won to tie for the over-all championship which will be attained by victory today.

Although Williams is on the off-part of a 22 game series, with a record of 8 won, 9 lost, and 5 ties, they have scored more goals (36-35) and have lost more close decisions than Wesleyan. The average of approximately three goals made a game by both sides since '24 should be enough to convince the reader that the contests have been hard-fought and hard-won.

It all started in 1924 when the Wesleyan soccer team in its first season narrowly edged Williams 1-0, due to the possession of a fine goalie who repeatedly turned back the Ephmen's advances on his net. Williams also lost to Amherst that year by the slim margin of 4-3 and ended with a season's record of one win, 4 losses and a tie. As Wesleyan copped the first three games, the Ephmen did not catch up until 1931, and were three games to the rear again in '36. Wesleyan managed to establish a preponderance of victories with 8 won, 4 lost, and 4 tied by 1940. It was then that inspired Purple teams showed their ability to come from behind and have allowed the Wesmen but one victory while taking four since.

The dominance of the Bullockmen during the past few years over Wesleyan will most likely come to a head when a strong Williams team tries to even the series against an equally strong opponent today. Last year, a favored Wes team lost out by 2-1 in a driving rain. In 1946, the men from Middletown gained their first triumph in six years with a goal in the last minute resulting from a penalty kick, which broke a 2-2 tie.

It is to be noted that the most goals ever scored in one game by either team were Wesleyan's five in 1926 when a 35 minute half was used instead of the present 22 minute quarter. A false note to be corrected is introduced by the fact that booters have won but three games from Wesleyan at home on Cole Field where thirteen contests have taken place!

4 Foreign Exchange Students See First American Football

Four foreign exchange students, members of the freshman class at Williams, saw their first American football game last Saturday afternoon, as the freshman eleven defeated Amherst's frosh to take the Little Three championship.

Three students, Borje Dannfelt from Sweden, Adolph Gessner of Germany, and Kaarlo Hintikka from Finland are studying at Williams under the Bowdoin plan, while Leonides Kyriazes comes from Greece.

A fourth foreign student, Demetrius Bekeros, also from Greece, has already completed a year at Williams.

Dannfelt

Dannfelt is a native of Stockholm and has traveled extensively in Europe. He plans to become a journalist and wished to come to the United States in order to acquire an American point of view in world affairs. He plans to do military service and then continue his studies at a Swedish University after leaving Williams.

Gessner was drafted into the German Luftwaffe in 1944 and served with an anti-aircraft unit near Frankfurt. Released in 1945 with orders to report to Berlin to be drafted into the infantry, he instead hid in that city until its fall, meanwhile learning Russian, so that he was able to act as an interpreter during the first months

Hintikka

Hintikka was educated in Helsinki and studied at the University of Helsinki for a year. He is of Russian occupation. When American forces entered the city, he got a job with the AMG and worked there for a year and a half. At Williams Gessner plans to major in chemistry and physics.

particularly interested in science and philosophy.

Kyriazes is a graduate of the Experimental School of the University of Athens, and lived through the enemy occupation of Greece. He is interested in economics and sociology, and hopes to help out in the reconstruction of his country, where he feels that economics will be very useful in building for the future.

Athletic Council

Charles L. Beckwith '25 and Douglas B. Stearns '38 are the alumni members. Of these, one is chosen to be the President of the Athletic Council.

Three Members

James E. Bullock, in his capacity as the acting Director of Athletics, Dr. Thomas V. Urmy, Director of Health, and Bertrand Fox, who is currently on leave, are the three faculty representatives holding office at this date, the third member is yet to be appointed. John Jay succeeds Mr. Bullock in February, at which time he will assume his position as Athletic Director. Mr. Jay is a former outstanding Williams athlete and member of the Athletic Council.

Athletic Dept Established

From 1935 until after the war, the health and athletic departments were combined under the direction of Dr. Edwin A. Locke, Director of Health and Athletics. Upon the retirement of Dr. Locke in '45, it was decided to split the two into separate departments. Albert V. Osterhout was appointed Graduate Manager of Athletics while Dr. Dana L. Fransworth was named Director of Health. Revealed at this time was the fact that Walter F. Sheehan would join the faculty in June '46 as the new Director of Athletics. At the beginning of the academic year 1946-47, Dr. Urmy replaced Dr. Fransworth, who was called to M.I.T.

Football

dinals, it must play inspired football. Comparative scores give Wesleyan about a five-touchdown edge, but, as always, and more so in Little Three Competition, comparative scores are not a true gauge.

Ephs Have 3-3 Record

The Purple enters the game with a mediocre 3-3 won-lost record. Victories over Norwich, Champlain and Tufts are balanced by defeats at the hands of Trinity, Bowdoin, and Union last week, 19-7. The only common opponent is Bowdoin, who beat the Purple 34-0, but was topped by Wesleyan, 13-0.

Williams, however, does not intend to put much stock in the pre-game dope. The Ephs will be at near top strength for the engagement 7 counter, and will put up a good scrap. Captain Dick Whitney, who has had a bad knee, is on the doubtful list of actives, and tackle Marty Detmer is out for the season.

Purple Cow

The Purple forward wall will consist of Bud Cool, or John Raynolds if the game starts defensively, and Mitch Fish at the ends. Sophomores Bron Fargo and Bob Geniesse man the tackle posts while place-kicking Ernie Mierzejewski, backed by Hank Strong, and John Stillwell, or Don Ratcliffe, fill the guard slots. Dan Mahoney is at the pivot post, with line-backing assistance from Dan Roach.

In the backfield, Stu Duffield will pass, kick and run from his tailback position, and Pete DeLisser, with help from Pete Smythe, Whit Fiske, and Fritz Zeller, handle the wingback assignments. Pete Fisher, aided by Cliff Farmer, is at fullback, and blocking back duties will be carried by Howie Smith.

Cardinal

The Wesleyan line will outweigh the Williams line three pounds to a man, the formers average being 192. Their backs are seven pounds lighter per man, weighing only an average 174. Charlie Mead, at 168, is the ball-handling quarterback of their T-attack. He shares passing duties, as a southpaw, with halfback Harry Forbes. Co-captain Frank Wenner, at right half, and Adair Robinson, at fullback, round out the backfield. Forbes and John Meyer do the kicking. Playing-manager Don Burdick does the place-kicking.

In the line Dan Robertson and Don Joffray, or Stubby Hayles, are the ends. Co-captain Jack Geary and Pete Wichowski take on tackle duties, while Neil Keller and Gil Bowles plug the guard slots. Wally Burnett or John Ford play center.

Other Wesmen who will see action are: Bill Firstenburger, broken field speedster, and lightest man on the squad, weighing a

As a result of the recent class elections, several new appointments were made to committees in the Undergraduate Council. Bob Geniesse '51, Sophomore Class President, was elected to the Discipline Committee. John Griggs '50, Junior Class President, and Pete Geier '49 were elected to fill vacancies on the Entertainment Committee and Bill Swan '49 was made a member of the Scholarship Committee.

Last week's request by Wally Barnes '49 for the UC to handle the cost of the WMS broadcast of the Bowdoin football game was reconsidered. The Council decided to pay the eighty dollar expense with UC funds, rather than to tax each social unit for a small amount.

Dean Robert R. R. Arthur Hellman, Director of Sales, Employment, and Training for the Tremco Manufacturing Company of Cleveland, Ohio, will interview seniors interested in sales work on Thursday, November 11 at the Placement Bureau. The business operations of the Tremco organization deal with the manufacture and distribution of products used in the maintenance of buildings and structures and in their construction. Mr. Hellman offers a salary of approximately $225 a month to start with a geographical location in the eastern half of the United States.

can win the Gold Bars of an Army Officer

TWO NEW WAYS TO JOIN THE RANKS OF AMERICA'S YOUNG LEADERS

DIRECT COMMISSION

A commission as second lieutenant in the Officers' Reserve Corps with a 2-year initial tour of active duty is ready for you if you meet these requirements: one year of honorable service in any of the Armed Forces between 7 December 1941 and 30 June 1947; have completed two years at an accredited college or university; U. S. citizenship; AGCT score of 110 or better; not more than 32 years old; physically fit. Once commissioned, you'll be assigned to a 3-month officers' training school, and, on successful completion, you'll be free to compete for a Regular Army Commission if you meet the competitive tour age requirements. Go to your nearest U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station for complete details at once.

OCS FOR HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

If you've graduated from high school or can pass an equivalent examination, are between 19 and 28 years old, are a U. S. citizen, and have necessary physical qualifications, apply now for enlistment for Army OCS. After your application is approved, you'll be enlisted as a Sergeant and given basic training if you have not had it already, then sent direct to Officer Candidate School, subject to quotas, of course. Upon graduation, you'll be commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Reserve, and placed on two years of active duty. Top OCS graduates are commissioned in the Regular Army—all others may compete for a Regular Army Commission. Get all the facts about applying for OCS entrance at your nearest U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station without delay!

Exhibit Given Of Williams Architecture

Photographs Indicate Past Development Of Local Buildings

A disturbing element in the minds of Williams undergraduates has been presented in the hall outside the Reference Room of the Stetson Library during the past couple of weeks. Disturbing in two ways; first, it was an eye-catching exhibition depicting the chronological development of the architecture of the college through a series of photographs, that turned them aside from their good intentions to study; and second, these students as they turned away from their ten to fifteen minute perusal of this interesting display, wondered at the changes wrought since the old days.

The changes, which over the years have been gradual, seem marked with respect to our time. Old buildings have been remodeled, moved or torn down while new buildings have been put up with succeeding years. West College has had its face lifted and new entrances put in. South College was fixed up, moved and rechristened, Fayerweather Hall, Goodrich Hall, which used to be the chapel has relinquished this duty to the beautiful Thompson Memorial Chapel, and is now relegated to class room work. The first little gym, dwarfed now by the commodious Lasell Gymnasium, was to the first men that used it a luxury, seeing that during the infant years of Williams College there were no such facilities.

There is a picture in the collection of the old Greylock Inn when it was in its heyday. Now it is but a semblance of its old self, just one bare wing that stands on the corner of North and Main Streets.

As the eye travels over the display it finds pictures of new buildings that have been erected since 1900 like Williams, Sage, Chapin, Lehmann, Morgan, the Lasell Gym and the Adams Memorial Theater to mention a few. The exhibition, in other words takes you through the architectural development of the college so that you see the Williams of today emerge, through photographs, from the Williams of yesterday.

Hamlet - - -

the foolish and long-winded Lord Chamberlain was carefully brought out was indicated by the audience's hearty laughter during most of his speeches. Polonius sometimes appears as a rather dry and dull old bore; it is good to see him properly presented as a ridiculously conceited fool. I was also glad to note that, despite the example of Sir Lawrence Olivier, Miss Webster had not cut Rosencrantz and Guildenstern. These two fawning fops always add much to the enjoyment of Hamlet, and were ably played by Frederick Rolf and Dion Allen. Another extremely well-presented portrayal was that of Frederic Hunter, who played that arch-courtier and "fashion's own knight," Osric.

The part of Gertrude was adequately performed by Carol Goodner, while Joseph Holland, although in the early scenes he resembled a choleric businessman, created a dignified but evil Claudius. Lee Paynant's Laertes, although seeming unconvinced when he bade farewell to Ophelia, improved as the play progressed. With Mr. Ryder he turned in a first-rate fencing match in the last scene.

Virginia McDowall gave us an attractive Ophelia who, as was proper, remained well in the background. John Behney was good as Horatio, the rather colorless confident and friend of Hamlet.

Combat Buskins

Due to technical difficulties, the company did not have all its scenery for this performance. Although this did not, to my mind, detract from the production, the lack of lighting rehearsals was noticeable and unfortunate. The musical background, while at times too loud, was good, and added to the atmospheric effects. The somewhat unusual costumes were on the whole effective. The lack of any definite period in dress was intended to convey the universality of the play's theme. It seems to me that this is self-evident from the dialogue, and that emphasizing it in this manner is adding unnecessary art to the excellent matter. In any case, I'll bet a pair of chartreuse ski pants that this is the first time that G.I. Combat boots have appeared as the buskins of the tragic actor.

Truman Explains Mistake Of Pollsters

"The pollsters are down but not out, both for unavoidable reasons and for reasons of their own making," commented David B. Truman, political science professor and public opinion expert, in reference to what he termed "flagrantly large errors" in the prediction of the results of the presidential election last week.

The two basic reasons for the seven and thirteen percent errors in the respective predictions of George Gallup and Elmo Roper were, in Professor Truman's opinion, the type of sample used in these polls and factors connected with the national vote which dropped by two million and over six percent of the voting age population between 1944 and 1948.

Samples

Public opinion poll takers may sample the population in either of two ways. In the first, a central office assigns each interviewer a list of names or exact descriptions of people he is to interview. The lists have been so constructed as to include a statistically correct proportion of people in each of several social and economic classes.

The second method, which is less expensive and therefore more generally used by commercial polling organizations, allows the individual interviewer to determine the status of the persons he interviews. Interviewers seem invariably to overestimate the number of people interviewed in the predominantly Democratic voting lowest income groups.

For this reason, election polls almost always give a less than average indication of Democratic strength. In 1944, Truman pointed out, the major polls underestimated the Roosevelt vote in all but seven states by as much as four percent. Some, but not all of the error in the 1948 election predictions can be attributed to this factor.

Vote Decrease

Invariably, Professor Truman explained, less people vote than say they will when interviewed for public opinion polls. This expected drop, which is absolutely unpredictable from the point of view of numbers, was undoubtedly heavier for the Republicans than for the Democrats. One of the more obvious reasons for this was the quiet, but effective, campaign of organized labor to get the vote out for the 1948 election.

"Neither of these two reasons can more than partially explain the egregiously large errors (eleven and nine percent respectively) which Gallup made in Iowa and Wisconsin," he emphasized. "The errors of interviewers could not have been that great, and the vote drop was small in both these states."

There were other errors which might have accounted for unavoidable error in several states, Truman claimed. He attributed a large part of the nine percent error which Gallup made in Massachusetts to militant opposition by largely Democratic voting people to labor and birth control referendums on the state ballot. These would undoubtedly account for a larger Democratic turnout than polling devices would show.

Henry Wallace actually polled about eight percent of the vote in New York state, while Gallup predicted that he would get about twelve percent. Truman theorized that people voting for minor parties in a two party system such as ours have highly unstable opinions, and claimed that this accounted for a large part of the Wallace drop in the state.

College Seeks Talent For Television Show

Williams undergraduates will be given an opportunity to demonstrate their talents over a New York City television network if tentative plans for a series of college-sponsored broadcasts go through. Fifteen or twenty Eastern colleges and universities have been invited to consider sponsoring half-hour programs of student attractions if sufficient quality and quantity of talent is available. Men interested in performing in some capacity on a half-hour Williams College program some time during the present college year are requested to contact Mrs. Allen in the President's Office as soon as possible.

Ad'phic Union Holds Tryouts For Freshmen

Prof. Connelly, Alberti Announce Schedule; Seven Attend Meeting

Seven freshmen demonstrated the proficiency of their persuasive powers, last Thursday evening in Griffin Hall, when the Adelpic Union held tryouts for the Freshman Debating Council. Each debator gave a four minute talk on either the affirmative or the negative side of the question "Resolved: That the federal government should adopt a policy of equalizing educational opportunity in tax supported schools."

Those advocating the affirmative, recommended additional federal aid to education in order to banish illiteracy and promote the growth of prosperity. The proponents of the negative contended that this would be unconstitutional and that it would lead to governmental domination.

Varied Program Planned

Professor George Connelly of the Public Speaking department, and Charles Alberti '50, Vice President of the Adelpic Union, briefly outlined the extensive program planned for this school year. There will be at least two debates against some of the leading prep schools in the east. Possible opponents in this category include Hotchkiss, Choate, Kent, Taft and Deerfield.

Traditional rivalries will be preserved in debates with the Amherst and Wesleyan frosh, and in

AMT Season Ticket Sales End Friday

Lohrke Reports Great Demand By Students

Theodore Lohrke '49, Business Manager of Cap and Bells, announced today that Friday will be the last day on which students may purchase season tickets for all Cap and Bells and Adams Memorial Theatre productions. From all indications, this year's sale of season tickets will exceed last year's total.

In urging students to avail themselves of this opportunity, Lohrke emphasized that the cost for six plays is only $4.80, a saving of $1.20 over last year's price. Besides insuring holders of seats for all productions, season tickets also enable their owners to purchase additional tickets in advance of box office sales.

Wesmen Top Ephs, 28-7; Frosh Victors At Pushball

But Defeated '51 Absconds With Spheroid

Outmanned Sophs Take 1-0 Loss In First Contest Of Series

by Clark Kent

A vastly outnumbered sophomore class held the freshmen to a 1-0 score in the newly inaugurated pushball contest Saturday before scores of alumni, guests, wondering upperclassmen and a few puzzled Middletownies at Weston Field.

Despite numbers, however, laxity and indifference in the class of '52 has lost the pushball itself. It is at present under the watchful surveillance, lock and key of a handful of anonymous sophs.

A thorough investigation by The Williams Record revealed Sunday that no freshman is able either to state the whereabouts of the six foot high ball or its sinister disappearance after the Wesleyan game. The photo on page 4, this issue, was left on the Editor's desk with an explanatory note defying the freshmen to recover their ball.

Under deep consideration by D. Light de Moon, Record criminologist, is a plan to send the fingerprints on the photo to be checked with FBI files in Washington. de Moon, however, is waning as regards this impulse inasmuch as it is highly, although not altogether doubtful that a member of the class of '51 would be listed in government criminal files. A vigorous attempt to shed light on the affair will soon get underway, de Moon asserted.

In substance, the note accompanying the pictures indicated that the pushball and its absconders were photographed on the road to North Adams.

The bitterly waged contest was sparked by deft handling and cagey plays on the part of both sides. Officiating were cheerleaders and members of the Undergraduate council. At the start of play, the ball was placed in the middle of the field and each team lined up at either end. The field was marked off in ten yard stripes, and the object of the play was for one team to convey the ball across the other's goal line. As the official

President Baxter Inaugurates Freshman Orientation Talks

Emphasizes Importance Of Selecting Faculty For Teaching Ability

Speaking informally before the class of 1952 in Jesup Hall Sunday night, President James Phinney Baxter III discussed the "Place of the liberal arts college in American society". Introduced by Albert Keep, Dean of Freshmen, President Baxter inaugurated a series of half-hour talks designed to orientate this year's freshmen to college life.

"The main difference between the small college and the university," said President Baxter, "is the principle on which they select their staffs." While the University is primarily concerned with choosing a man who is an outstanding scholar in his field, the small college, meaning Williams, selects its faculty on the basis of their ability to teach undergraduates.

Dean Warns Car Owners Against Reckless Driving

In a statement to the Record today Dean Brooks called attention to the fact that there have recently been several serious automobile accidents. One of these cost a life and others have resulted in heavy damage to cars although the occupants miraculously escaped injury.

"These accidents have several things in common," Dean Brooks said. "In no case has drinking been involved. In most instances excessive speed was not a factor. But all of them resulted either from momentary inattention or narrow errors of judgment. They focus attention upon the difficulties involved in having so many student cars registered at Williams."

I have the following observations to make:

1. If accidents continue to occur at the high rate of the last three weeks, it will cast doubt upon the wisdom of the present rules governing eligibility to drive.

2. It has been made clear that the College is correct in insisting that all drivers, whether they have a car of their own or not, register at the Dean's Office and present evidence of liability coverage.

3. Two of these accidents raise grave doubts as to whether the owner of a car should allow it to be driven by anyone else.

4. Although the College does not now require that collision insurance be taken out by registered

Pastors Visit Social Units

Embassy To Feature Religious Discussions

The Williams Christian Association's annual Embassy will bring to the various social units eight ministers and theological students to lead informal discussions on contemporary religious problems, after dinner next Monday and Tuesday.

The Embassy program will start formally Sunday evening with a panel discussion at Chaplain Grant Noble's home for all those interested in the ministry as a career. Teas for the Embassy leaders will be held Monday and Tuesday at the homes of President and Mrs. James P. Baxter, 3rd, and the Reverend and Mrs. Grant Noble, respectively.

Guest Lecturers

The guest speakers are mostly Williams graduates of the past ten years who represent every possible type of experience in the ministry—army, navy and college chaplains, preachers, teachers and students.

The Rev. Lawrence Whittemore '39, is Assistant at Trinity Church, Hartford, Connecticut. The Rev. William Spurrier '39, Assistant Chaplain at Wesleyan University, served as an army chaplain during the last war. The Rev. Gerald B. O'Grady '40, is Chaplain at Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut. The Rev. Sidney W. Goldsmith, Jr. '40, served in the war, after which he completed his course at Virginia Theological Seminary. This fall he came to St. John's Church, Williamstown, as Assistant.

Other Speakers

Mr. William Schram '48 (ex-'44), and Mr. John Angevin '47 (ex-'45), are both, at present, studying at Union Theological Seminary in New York City. Professor John A. Hutchinson, of the religion department, here at Williams, Rev. George Bealby, Pastor of the First Congregational Church, Williamstown, and the Rev. Denney Williams, Chaplain at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, are also among the Embassy leaders.

Visits To Houses

Fighting Eph Eleven Trails At Half, 7-0

Williams Line Outplays Card Forward Wall; Roach, Mahoney Star

An inspired Williams football team turned in its best performance of the current season on Weston Field Saturday afternoon, but the best was not enough to prevent Wesleyan University's redhot Cardinals from chalking up their twenty-first consecutive victory to the tune of 28-7.

Held to an almost imperceptible 7-0 lead in the first half, the visitors managed to add another touchdown in the third quarter and then clinched the win and the Little Three Championship with an additional fourteen points in the final stanza. But too much credit cannot be given to the hard-fighting Ephs for their stand against the heavily favored Wesleyan eleven, which only two weeks before had beaten Amherst 27-0 and had rolled to successive triumphs over Bowdoin, Coast Guard, and Swartmore before that.

During the greatest part of the encounter the Purple line completely outfought and outplayed their opponents, and not until the final period did the Cardinals' ground attack function with any real degree of success. Line-backers Dan Mahoney and Dan Roach were tremendous defensive bulwarks all afternoon, stopping many a Wesleyan ball-carrier at the line of scrimmage.

After a series of punt-exchanges in the opening period, the Ephs drove to the Wesleyan 4 before they were stopped by the surprised Cards. Three passes thrown by Stu Duffield had put the ball on the 50 but two more aerials went astray in the end zone and Mierzejewski's field-goal attempt was wide of the mark. Midway through the second period the visitors blocked a Williams punt and recovered it on the 1, from where Forbes plunged over for the score.

The visitors came back fast after the half-time intermission, as quarterback Medd threw three completed passes starting from midfield and finally plunged over from the 1 himself. Then in the final quarter the Wesmen started to roll on the ground and pushed to the Eph 7, with Medd tossing to Velieu for the TD. The latter intercepted a Williams pass a moment later and scampered thirty yards to pay-dirt. Burdick kicked his fourth extra-point.

Williams finally scored late in the period on a sustained drive from their 30 to the Card goal-line. Pete DeLisser went around his right end from the six to score. Line-ups:

Miscellany

Editorials usually grind one axe at a time. There are times, however, when the situation doesn't merit any axe grinding, and we merely like to write about a few extraneous things that have come across our desk. Individually and collectively they are important and sometimes of considerable interest.

A STORY

A friend of ours in North Adams was telling us about listening to the Williams-Wesleyan football game. Apparently, during the initial period of the game, the crowd made a terrific racket over the radio. After we missed our first chance at a touchdown by a few scant yards, however, the racket lessened considerably and never did perk up. It appears that our spirit is just like that touchdown—almost.

LITTLE THREE

Speaking of football and our Little Three rivals, or the Potted Ivy league as The Herald Tribune calls us, we have a problem. In the past few years, considerable damage has been done to the potted colleges on the eve of a big game. So much so that the various administrations feel it necessary to cancel any future games if this recurs. This is not an idle threat based on a few innocently white-washed store-fronts. Two years ago, an Amherst delegation caused damage which mounted into the thousands of dollars to the pillars of the Wesleyan library. A future recurrence will be unfortunate to the extent of the cancellation of the series between the traditional rivals.

ANOTHER MORAL

Recently, another accident has happened to a Williams Student. There are none of the tabloid's lurid details to broadcast. Only the simple fact that there was an accident. The old maxim about a word to the wise should be sufficient in this case. The college policy concerning the driving of cars is certainly liberal enough for general consumption. Few people have a hard time getting a ride on any particular week-end to a designated spot. If the accident rate continues, however, this travel-bureau service will be seriously curtailed because of the noticeable lack of cars on the Williams campus. This is not a prep-school attitude. There are several large universities which have a ruling forbidding all students the use of a car.

MISCELLANY JOTTINGS

The winner of the push-ball game was to retain possession of the ball for one year, and if freshmen, attempt to retain possession of the ball by winning again next year. It appears that the freshmen won the contest—but they don't have the ball. What is wrong with the class of '52. Let's get on the ball.

Recently, the UC officially rejected the NSA. We have no gripe with that action. The money allotted to the NSA, however, was promptly incorporated into the UC budget. Why? As long as the SAC executive committee is looking into such matters, we suggest they take a short look at this transaction.

The results of the recent merging of the Lecture and Spring Conference committees will soon become apparent. With the innovation of several good speakers, speaking on topics which interest a majority of the students, the improvement should be immediately noticeable.

U C Meeting Held Following Supper Given By Brooks

Two-Piano Team In First TCC Concert

Tomorrow night at 8:15 p.m. in Chapin Hall the Thompson Concert Committee will present the duo-piano team of Luboshutz and Nemenoff in the opening concert of the 1948-1949 season.

Luboshutz and Nemenoff have received wide acclaim as being pre-eminent in the field of two-piano playing. They are leading Victor recording artists and have appeared as soloists with all major symphony orchestras of the country including the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Serge Koussevitzky.

Although a large number of season subscriptions have been made, there is still opportunity for those who wish to save up to 100% to contact Alexander M. Clement '49, Treasurer of the TCC for reservation of a seat for the series. Tickets for the Thursday concert will be on sale at the door.

Regular Undergraduate Council meeting procedure was waived Monday evening as Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Brooks played host to the Council members for supper at their Bee Hill home. A brief UC meeting was held immediately following the meal.

Dean Brooks brought up the subject of student automobile accidents and said that the five mishaps of the past three weeks are more than the number that have occurred in the last few years. He said that in no case was drinking to be mentioned in connection with any of the accidents, and urged that undergraduates driving to Amherst Saturday use care in doing so.

In the light of certain occurrences at the Alumni House this past weekend, Alfred L. Jarvis, Alumni Secretary, has requested that only undergraduates who are guests of an alumnus use the facilities of the Alumni House in the future. Following this announcement, Sandy Shaw '49 brought up the question of the alumni and how to impress upon them the significance of the new College Rules. Various recommen-

The Thunder Bolt

by Seth Bidwell

For a long time, I have desired to break precedent and at some stage of the game drop the editorial "we", and speak strictly for myself. The purpose of this is not to merely have the pleasure of breaking precedent, but because the opinions reflected throughout the remainder of this column are strictly mine. I do not desire to inadvertently rope the other members of The Record into upholding my opinion if they violently disagree. It is in the journalistic code for members of the paper to uphold the policy of the paper or retire, quietly or otherwise, from the scene. Regarding this particular column, the code is cancelled. I hope, however, they will agree with the content.

The cause for this column will be found in the United Press release which follows:

Amherst House Pledges Negro, Battles National Fraternity

Amherst (UP)—A Negro sophomore at Amherst College refused to comment today on plans of a college fraternity to pledge him despite a "postpone-it-because-he's-colored" request from the fraternity's national office.

Thomas W. Gibbs, 19, of Evanston, Ill., was pledged by Phi Kappa Psi and then deplored at request of the organization's national office. National officials said they wanted to poll other chapters of Phi Kappa Psi throughout the United States before permitting the popular athlete and good student membership.

Gibbs referred all questions about the case to college officials. They said the case was being "worked out" between the local fraternity and its national officers, including Howard L. Hamilton of Columbus, Ohio, president.

Gibbs was pledged last June but deplored later when the national fraternity intervened. The local chapter still intends to admit Gibbs even if the national poll shows the other chapters do not want Negroes admitted to membership.

In tradition bound colleges, tradition has been broken. The veneer of Little Three fraternities has been cracked. Many people unfortunately believe that it is an ugly crack and should be sealed as quickly and quietly as possible. To the contrary, I feel the crack should be made considerably larger.

We all feel that the fraternity system at Williams is superior to that of Amherst. We like to be associated closely to one group. We feel that eating in our own dining room is superior to the tin trays and chow lines of Amherst's Valentine Hall. These are very definite advantages, and I agree with them all.

A major disadvantage at Williams, however, is the fact that the veneer regarding admittance is much thicker. It is a hard blow to admit, but it is nevertheless true.

Many people love discrimination and I am numbered in the ranks of those that do. We all discriminate. Even the minority groups that bear the brunt of most discrimination, discriminate themselves. It is the natural thing to do because all men cannot possibly be compatible with all other men. It would be a boring, dull, and unprogressive world if they could.

And if this is so, why then do we bother with any discussion of discrimination. We are vitally concerned because certain types of discrimination are unhealthy and undemocratic. Giving lip-service only to democracy is actually defeating democracy. We must all be ready to take action with something besides our lips. If fraternities are not to sing of their own weight, besides our lips. If pared to accept changing social standards. If it is possible for us to view a hypothetical case objectively, let's do so now.

James Jackson, a negro, comes to Williams. Jackson is an athlete, a scholar, and a gentleman. Throughout his four years at Williams he has partaken of most of the activities which are usually attributed to a Gargoyle compet. Unlike a Gargoyle compet, however, Jackson liked what he did, and did it well. He graduated Cum Laude, left college, and never returned.

Why should he? During his four years stay his associations were limited to a few. He had no reason to return because he had few acquaintances to re-new freindship with, and even the few he had would be strained after several years seperation.

Admitted, this is an extreme case. Jackson, however, is not at fault because he has a pigment in his skin which White people do not have. He had all the other necessary attributes; he was shunned because of the pigment. Is this right?

Obviously, in my opinion, it is a rhetorical question. The galling part of this whole topic to my mind, however, is the fact that this has happened innumerable times at Williams. And not necessarily to Negroes alone.

What I suggest doing about it will appear in this column Saturday, November 13.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor of The Williams Record

The Director of Athletics at Wesleyan asked me to send him a bill for any property damage on Weston Field caused by Wesleyan undergraduates before or after the game last Saturday. The money to pay the bill would come from athletic funds which are used to purchase equipment and provide for other expenses for all teams. As you know there was no property damage, therefore, no bill and no athletic funds used for unnecessary repairs. Everybody had a good time.

We have the same understanding with Amherst for this Saturday. I suggest that we back the team in whatever damage it can do to the Amherst football record, but leave Pratt Field intact.

Frosh Finish Second Unbeaten Season, Smother Union, 40-6

Kulsar, Cramer Pace Attack; Blocked Kick Sets Up First T D

Scoring in the third play of the game, the freshman football team never stopped crossing the Union goal line as they crushed the Garnet yearlings 40-6 to complete an undefeated season which saw them win the Little Three crown and become the second straight unbeaten frosh ballclub in the last two years. Halfback John Kulsar paced Dale Burnett's team by scoring three touchdowns and playing an outstanding defensive game.

Union was in trouble from the moment they got the ball. Pete Callahan blocked a third down punt in the third play of the game and repeating his performance as in the Amherst game, Bill Callaghan dove on the ball in the end zone for a T.D. Jack Morrison converted. A few plays later speed merchant Paul Cramer and Kulsar worked the ball up to the Union four where fullback George McAlleen scored on a straight buck to make it 13-0.

In the second quarter the game's picture play developed. Cramer faded back to the Williams thirty, flipped a fifteen yard screen pass to Kulsar who evaded two tacklers, and cut for the sidelines to sprint for fifty-five yards and paydirt. Morrison's conversion made it 20-0 at the half ended. Kulsar went off tackle and off guard for twenty and twenty-five yards, scoring two more touchdowns which gave the Purple a 33-0 bulge as Cramer converted once.

Undefeated In Two Years

A fumble in the Williams backfield led to the sole Union score late in the game but soon after this a Cramer to Curtis pass put the ball on the Union four and Morrison scored on a wide end sweep, then kicked the extra point to complete the scoring. The great 1946 Wesleyan freshman team was the last team to beat a Williams frosh team and the yearlings have been unbeaten in nine straight games over a three year period, tying Amherst 7-7 in '46 and St. Michael's 13-13 this year.

Watters Builds Great Record

Teams Won 165, Lost 25 At White Plains

by Norm Wood

When a high school football coach transforms a team which is suffering from an acute victory famine into one which reaps one of the richest victory harvests in the country, he makes a name for himself, and usually winds up coaching college ball. Such is the case with Len Watters, present football coach, who, although lured by big college offers, was content to stay at White Plains High School until he decided to accept Williams' offer last winter.

Watters looks at his new job with enthusiasm. "The biggest honor I have ever received," says Watters, "is being selected for the Williams job with the hope that we can bring football at Williams to its proper level."

Westchester Juggernaut

Given time, Watters will no doubt do this. It is a certainty, if his record at White Plains is any indication of the kind of team Watters puts on the field. For from 1929 to 1947, excluding three years while Watters was in the Navy, his teams won 165, lost 25, and tied 7. That's better than eight out of every ten over a sixteen-year period.

Bell Captained '30 Team

While Watters was at White Plains, his teams won eight Westchester County Interscholastic Championships. In eight years, 1930-1, 1934, 1937-8, 1940-1, 1946, they were undefeated.

In 1930 Frank Bell, now assistant coach here, played his second year of end under Watters. He captained this undefeated team which represented New York's metropolitan district in a game against an All-Florida team, picked by the Associated Press of Florida. This game, played in Miami, was the original Orange Bowl game. Since then, White Plains has become one of the top high school teams in the country.

Captained Springfield in '21

Len Watters was born in Dubuque, Iowa. His family moved to South Bend when he was twelve, and there he played guard and tackle on the football team for four years. He also played guard on the basketball team and catcher on the baseball team for three years. Watters then entered Springfield College, and played varsity ball his first year. When war broke out, he enlisted in the Navy, and served twenty-two months on transport duty.

He returned after the war to graduate with the class of 1922. He played three years of football, basketball, and baseball. The 1921 team, of which he was captain and left end, handled a heavy eleven-game schedule, playing Army, Holy Cross and Boston College within the short space of eight days. Watters broke both shoulders in the first game of the season, had a special shoulder brace which built the height of his shoulders up to his ears, and played the last six games of the season.

After college, Watters coached in Oneida, New York, for six years. He played pro ball, as coach and left end, for Utica in the New York State league. In 1923 he played on the Buffalo All-Americans of the National League. One of Watters' teammates that year was Benny Boynton. Williams '21 All American back.

After coaching a year at Baldwin High School, Long Island, and racking up a 9-1 record, he moved to White Plains in 1929.

Since then his record has been one of the outstanding feats of high school football coaching. The second World War saw Watters back in the Navy, this time for slightly over three and a half years. In 1944 he coached a Bunker Hill, Indiana powerhouse to a 8-1 record. That team, says Watters, was really loaded with talent. A few of the players, were Mal Kutner, Chicago All-League end, Billy Dewell, Cardinal captain and end, and Vic Schwall, Cardinal quarterback.

His Biggest Thrill

Len Watters' biggest thrill? Strange to say, it is no single playing or coaching episode. "It has been watching young football players develop into college athletes and make good in later life. It has been more of a thrill to me than anything I have done personally."

Purple Booters Swamped, 5-1; Salaun Stars For Wesleyan

Scoring three times within four minutes in the last quarter, Wesleyan's soccer team broke up a tight 2-1 ball game, and proceeded to swamp Williams 5-1, in a Little Three game on Cole Field Saturday.

Despite the lop-sided count, the game was not as uneven as the score indicates. There were several occasions when the Ephs were inches away from scoring, and just missed. Were it not for the three quick counters in the last period two of them by Cardinal Co-Captain Henri Salaun, the game might have gone either way.

Johnston Scores

A shot by Bob Johnston after a pretty center by Rick Fowie, midway through the first period put the Ephs out to a 1-0 lead. They failed to hold it however, as Hank Salaun came back a minute later and scored the first of his three goals on a pass from center-forward Dan Taylor after a fast break to tie the score at 1-1. A scoreless second period followed.

Playing with a strong wind at their backs, the Purple had their best chance to win the ball game at the start of the second half. Once again, however, they were caught napping on a fast break, and Wesleyan's Taylor scored to put the Cardinals ahead 2-1. The Purples almost tied it up a minute later, when Tom Kent drilled a shot at the goal, but the ball bounced off the top of the nets, just missing.

Ball Deflected

Going into the last quarter behind 2-1, and with the strong wind against them, Williams once again almost tied the game up, when Ted Prescott and Bob Johnston worked the ball in to scoring range, only to have Prescott's sure score deflected away from the Cardinal goal by Johnston's foot. After this heartbreaker, the Ephmen weakened, and Wesleyan's three quick goals put the game on ice.

Outstanding for the Purples in the losing cause, were halfbacks Johnny Bowen and Jim Crosby. Bowen time and again came through with some good defensive play, while Crosby played a very aggressive game. Perhaps the big difference for Williams was the inability of Captain Frank Donnelly to hit his usual stride.

The center of the Wesleyan line played a very good game which the home line could not match. The combination of Taylor and Salaun accounted for all the Cardinal scoring; Salaun, particularly was all over the field.

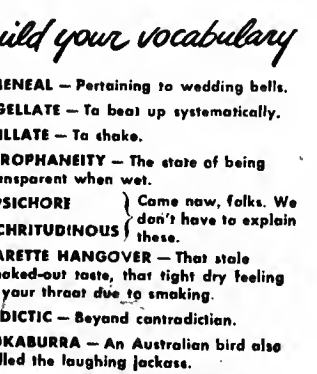

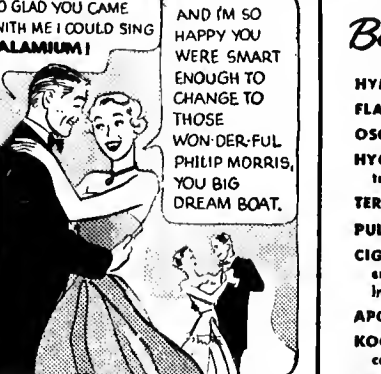

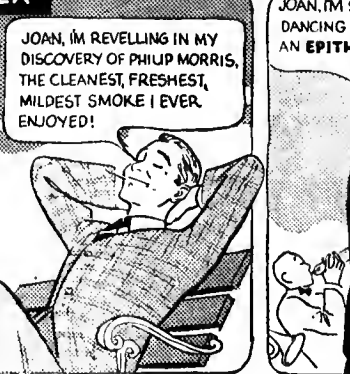

Although the Eph halfbacks looked better than the Wesleyan combination, the Purple forward line could not get going; their play was ragged and their passing weak all the way through the game. The combination of an off day for Frank Donnelly, the high wind, and an off day for the team as a whole, was too much for the home team. Although they apparently had the better team, they came out on the wrong end of the score.

cial's whistle blew, both teams rushed buffalo herd-like towards the spheroid with intent in their visages. Rules were made up as the contest progressed.

After six minutes of pushing and moaning, the ball slipped into the air, and by mutual agreement of both sides, ensuing play consisted of suspending it on their hands in the air and attempting to swat it collectively towards the enemy goal.

This procedure caused the ball to fly out of bounds on many occasions, arousing consternation among the spectators and necessitating several face-offs, but after fifteen more minutes of play, the frosh had swatted the ball to within scoring position of the soph's goal. The sophs put up a valiant defense, but after one out-of-bounds, the ball was pushed over. The ball was then returned to the midstripe and the contestants changed sides, but before either team could begin a new offensive, time ran out. The frosh won, 1-0.

Sophomore President Bob Genesse was apparently unaware of the ball's theft by members of his class. He asserted, however, that the class of '51 has definite intentions of winning the ball back.

Mardi Gras At Amherst

Tonight's Proceeds Go To Chest Fund

Concluding a sports-packed weekend at Amherst will be the second annual Mardi Gras in the Pratt Field House from 8-12 p.m. tonight. The first feature of the four hour program will be a faculty show followed by a performance of the newly formed "Amherst College Bango and Mandolin Association." Several of the leading undergraduate magicians will demonstrate their feats of sorcery before the scene shifts to the college swimming pool.

Verdeur Exhibition

Joe Verdeur Olympic breast-stroke champion from LaSalle College in Pennsylvania, will swim an exhibition 200 yard breast-stroke race, against a two-man Amherst relay team. A number of other nationally known swimmers and divers will also perform, the exact nature of the rest of the show has not yet been announced. After the water exhibition the Amherst College Double Quartet will sing a medley of numbers.

Rounding out the evening's festivities will be a raffle, with several large prizes, including a complete ski ensemble, to be given away.

Dance In Gym

In addition to this varied bill of entertainment, throughout the entire evening there will be a dance taking place in the Alumni Gymnasium, with music provided by the Jeff Jesters, the Amherst undergraduate orchestra. There will also be twenty concession booths set up in the fieldhouse; eighteen operated by the various fraternities at Amherst, and one each to be operated by undergraduates of Mt. Holyoke and Smith Colleges.

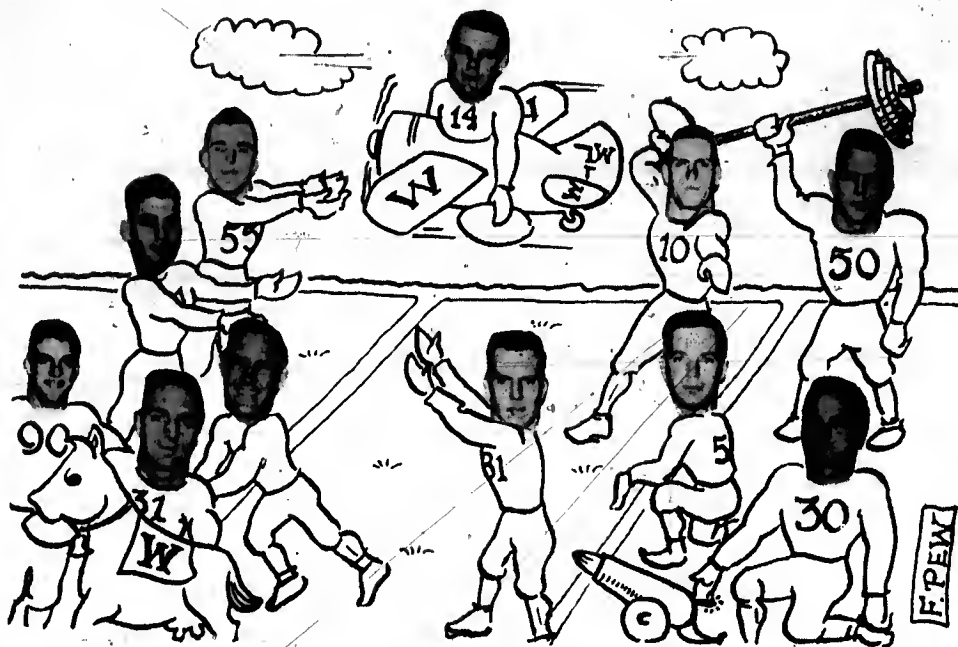

According to the Amherst College Chest Fund Committee, all proceeds from the Mardi Gras go to charity.

Superintendent Post Given Bryant

Local Man Takes Over New Job This Week

Williams College announced today that William C. Bryant of Water Street, Williamstown, has been appointed Acting Superintendent of Grounds and Buildings at Williams College. Mr. Bryant succeeds the late Perry A. Smedley. Mr. Bryant has been on the College Maintenance Staff for the past thirty years. He is a veteran of both world wars. In World War I, he served as a private in a machine gun battalion, 12 Division, and fought in France. In the second World War, Mr. Bryant was an aerial photographer, attached to the 8th Air Force as a technical sergeant. He saw action in the European Theatre, principally over England, France, Germany, Austria, Belgium, and Italy.

Born in Williamstown, Mr. Bryant is a graduate of the Williams-town High School. After graduation, he taught Physical Education in the High School for two years. He will assume his new duties at the College this week.

Although this article only includes one end and five-backs, these are the men who will see action today. Missing is End Bud Cool a doubtful starter because of an injured leg. Poll Indicates Drama Likes

Students Want Modern, Amusing Productions

Results of the poll conducted by the Adams Memorial Theatre last week concerning student drama preferences, and the conclusions based on the facts were revealed Wednesday by Theater Director David J. Bryant.

In replying to the question regarding the use of the AMT, nine percent of the undergraduates said that it should be used for vocational training, thirty-seven percent thought that it should be employed for entertainment or amusement, while fifty-four percent realized that it should be an outlet for students' creative ability.

Bryant said that the theater ought to present note-worthy drama which is unable to be found outside a college community, and hence will give a stronger impact to the teaching of other courses. In opposition to the student belief that the theater should be an outlet for creative ability is the result of the poll question inquiring into what works undergraduates would like to see presented at the AMT. Most of the titles recommended were of fairly modern, light, and entertaining plays such as "John Loves Mary", "The Man Who Came To Dinner", and "Born Yesterday".

Liked Phinney's Rainbow

According to the statistics, over half of the student body saw "Phinney's Rainbow" and "Golden Boy" last year, and of that number, eighty-eight percent liked the former and eighty-seven percent liked the latter. Other Cap and Bella favorites include "Night Must Fall" and "Oedipus" which were liked by seventy-five percent of those who attended.

Half of the comments answering the last question dealt with the high cost of tickets for the AMT productions, and at the same time the poll revealed that seventy-four percent of the individuals polled enjoyed the theater more than the movies. The financial difficulties could be easily remedied in one way, for from the results of the survey it was seen that fifty percent of the undergraduates go to the movies one to three times a month, and that forty percent go four to six times a month.

Fromm Gives First Lecture

Psychoanalyst-Author To Speak Monday

Eric Fromm, noted psychoanalyst and sociologist, will be the first lecturer to appear here under the auspices of the recently combined Lecture and Spring Conference Committees. Dr. Fromm will speak in Jesup Hall on Monday night at 8 o'clock.

Despite its imposing title, "Psychoanalysis and Anthropology," the talk promises to be of great interest to all students and faculty, particularly those interested in any phase of political science, psychology, or philosophy. Most of Dr. Fromm's work has been directed toward finding insights into the nature of normal individuals and their relationships to society and culture.

Bennington Lectures

Both Dr. Fromm's books have received critical acclaim. The first, "Escape from Freedom," an analysis of the psychology of Nazism, appeared in 1941. "Man for Himself" was published less than a year ago. In this country he has delivered lectures at the University of Chicago and Columbia, and is now engaged in a series of weekly classes and psychological tests at Bennington.

Band To Play At Jeff Fracas

Musicians Will Render Numerous Specialties

When the Purple takes to the field this afternoon, it will have the "spirited" Williams College Band along in the stands to come through with "Yard by Yard."

Under the direction of students Wally Oleson and Marty Luthy, the brass cheering squad will provide a variety of marches and specialty numbers designed to offer added lift to team and spectators. Especially popular with football enthusiasts which will most likely be played again today on request is a jazz composition of "Tiger Rag". It features the trombone and trumpet sections in which Neal Bolens '49, of Delta Phi, and Irving Shainman, faculty adviser to the band, set the tempo. An unusual version of the "Fight Cheer," composed by band directors, will again be offered today as an aid to Williams cheerleaders.

The band has increased greatly over recent years in both size and, according to impartial observers, quality. It has had an average of thirty players at each game, all of whom will be present this afternoon. At the last session of the band in its weekly Monday night meetings members voted by unanimous decision to play for basketball games.

Improved Williams Eleven Conceded Upset Possibility

Ephmen Lead In Grid Wins

Past Games Marked By Bitter Rivalry

by Dick Duffield

"The Amherst and Williams football elevens play at Williams-town today. According to the local papers Frank Williams of Williamstown has invented a flying machine, of which great things are expected."

These few short lines which appeared in the Springfield Republican, November 1, 1884, heralded one of keenest and hard-fought gridiron rivalries of American football — that between the Ephmen of Williams College and the Lord Jeffs of Amherst. No other series has been packed with more competition, aggressiveness, and spirited playing than that between these two small colleges.

Williams Leads Series

When the Amherst football team first came to Williamstown in the fall of 1884, there began an almost unbroken skein of contests of which today's battle on Pratt Field is the sixty-first. While the series has been decidedly favorable to Williams — The Purple winning 35 and tying 4 — there have been many close games, and when these two antagonists clash on the field of battle, anything can happen and usually does.

At the time of the inception of the series, however, not even the most ardent undergraduate could have conceived the proportions to which this rivalry would grow. It was only our second season of intercollegiate football — the first consisting of the one game of 1881 with Wesleyan which we lost — and on the campus enthusiasm for the new sport was just beginning to bud.

Mugwump Campaign

This was also the year of the great Mugwump campaign between Cleveland and Blaine. On the night before the first Amherst game the local Democrats held a torchlight parade with fire works and speeches, which about 200 Republican students tried to break up by blowing horns and making themselves generally conspicuous. When the procession stopped in front of Professor Perry's house for a speech, the boys yelled him down, but were finally scattered by the cavalry.

When Captain Field's eleven ran on to the field the following day, they were gunning for their third straight victory. They had already shut out M.I.T. on the home turf and crushed Trinity by a 51-0 margin. According to the Athenaeum "The day was inauspicious, being wet, and the ground in that delightful condition which is so well known to Williamsmen."

Purple Takes Two

Nevertheless, the Purple eleven rolled over the hapless Jeffmen to the tune of 15-2, the game being mercifully called so that the visiting Amherst squad could catch the last train home. Among the stars of the Williams' forward wall that day was one Harry A. Garfield '85, whom Williamsmen grew to know better later on.

Nor was the Purple team kind enough to let the Jeffmen off with one sound trouncing. After a 19-0 defeat at Cambridge by the lads in Crimson, the Ephmen travelled to Amherst where they scuttled their outclassed opponents, 11-0. The game started at three o'clock See HISTORY, page 3

by Dick Heuer
When the Williams eleven and the thousand loyal sons of Ephraim invade the Sabrina's happy hunting ground at Pratt Field at 2 p.m. this afternoon, they will be on the short end of most pre-game calculations. Dopsters supposedly in the know rate the Jeff's better season record of five wins as against two losses sufficient evidence to give the arch-rivals squad a slight pre-game edge.

There are two sides to every story, however, and local personages venture to predict a Williams victory on the grounds of the team's steady improvement during the year, their great showing against Wesleyan last week, and the comparative scores of their mutual opponents. But seasons records traditionally mean next to nothing in Little Three rivalries. The spirit is usually the deciding factor in these contests, and the Ephmen have displayed plenty of it during the year.

Amherst Upset Bowdoin

Early in the season Bowdoin played one of their best games of the year when they pulverized the traveling Eph squad 34-0, whereas the Jeffs, after they were consistently stalled on the ground, lined up behind ace passer Lew Hammond and fought through the air to a 27-19 victory. This, however, was early in the season and is the only case where comparative scores against their four common opponents favor Amherst.

Last Saturday an undefeated Trinity team mopped up Pratt Field with the weary Lord Jeffs by a 46-0 margin and never gave Hammond a chance to connect with ace receivers Jordan, Scholtz, and McGrath. Hammond connected on only six of twenty attempts. Earlier in their schedule, however, the Williams eleven gave Trinity their toughest competition to date, even though they did come out on the very short end of a 33-6 count.

Jeffs Held Scoreless

Against Wesleyan the story is the same. Both teams took it on the chin by goodly margins, but Williams, as they did against Trinity, displayed their scoring punch even against the strongest of their opponents, whereas Coach Lloyd Jordan's men were forced to See FOOTBALL, page 3

Eleven Honored In Phi Beta Elections

Greater Campus Role Chapter Aim In '49

The Phi Beta Kappa chapter of Williams has just announced the election of eleven new members to the honorary society. The newly elected group was chosen late in October but will not be initiated until some later date in the year.

At the same time the chapter announced that plans are being formulated to increase Phi Beta activities. The chapter is attempting to determine how Phi Beta Kappa can contribute to scholarship here at Williams.

The list of newly elected members is as follows:

- Williams H. Adkins II
- Wallace Barnes
- Peter Gutmann
- Richard Grover Jones
- James B. McClements
- Colin W. McCord
- Hal F. Reynolds
- Harry M. Scoble Jr.
- John W. Thoman
- Stanley L. Whetstone Jr.
- Robert D. Worley

Few Words

Although not expressed exactly in our terms, the content of the first two letters in The Letters To The Editor Column expresses our feelings. The betting line on the game is Amherst and twenty points. If we don't support the team all the way, however, the sharks will be making lots of money.

Letters To The Editor

Spirit And Cheers

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

In regard to your editorial, "A Story" on November tenth, I believe that many of the onlookers at Saturday's game noticed the same lack of cheering in the last half as the radio listeners did. Several times these past two years a Williams team has kept up a strong offense during most of its game, only to "fold" in the last minutes and lose by an embarrassing score.

I believe the fault here lies directly with the college members in the stands. I don't see how you can make a team really try for a touchdown when there is dead silence from its supporters—a silence of indifference rather than of anxiety. Possibly the players have failed us on occasion, but certainly I can't blame them for not getting excited enough, or caring enough, to win, when the whole attitude is one of "what does it matter, we're heading for another loss, anyway."

The team showed us last Saturday that it is good enough to win, and can tackle as well as run, and we showed the team that we could cheer—on occasion. I think it's time we started to win consistently. I think it's time we stopped being shy about filling in the hulls with our own voices, or laughing at the lonely cheer in the middle of a silence. I think it's time we started being completely "Clicheed" and cheering most when the game is most hopeless, so that we can feel a little less ashamed or disgusted when the game is over, by being able to say that we did our best.

Spirit And Song

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

I have just returned from one of my rare pilgrimages back to our Berkshire valley where I saw a Williams football team bow gamely to a Wesleyan powerhouse and enjoyed everything about the day—except, of course, the score. I say "rare" because in the nature of my job here at Taft I have great difficulty getting away weekends, or any other time.

One thing about the game troubled me in a mild sort of way, however. There was no singing of our rousing "battle" songs during the game, nor even of "The Mountains" at the end. Everyone, like the Arabs, quietly folded up his tent and stole away. Otherwise, the spirit in the face of defeat was splendid, I thought.

Undergraduates, or at least recent graduates, seated near me in the stands said that it is no longer done at football games. Why, therefore, do they bother to print the words of "Yard By Yard" and of the Alma Mater in the program? Is this a sort of vestigial remnant of a once mighty spiritual stimulant?

No Cuts At All

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

In the October 23rd edition of The Record, in the Paragraphs in The News column located on page 1, mention was made of the change in the requirements for the Special Cut List. The faculty in a recent meeting, had voted to raise the requirements from 3 B's over 2 C's to straight B's, thereby making the standard the same for the Special Cut List as it is for the Dean's List—this is to become effective next semester.

Since that time, no further mention of the matter has been made in The Record or in any other college publication. Around the campus, however, it is being discussed to varying degrees. Most students, though disappointed by the change, are convinced that nothing can be done to alter the situation and that it is merely another manifestation of the restrictions which the administration and faculty combined are imposing upon the students.

The consensus of student opinion is that this change is not a good thing. The feeling is that this raise in the requirements for the Special Cut List will have a profound effect upon the incentive of the average Williams man.

Most of us have passed out of the stage in which we worked for grades. On account of the strict cut system in use here, however, a student will often expend more than his normal amount of effort, in order to make the Special Cut List and avoid the restrictions imposed upon him by the cut system.

Making 3 B's over 2 C's is within the reach of the average student. Making 5 B's, however, is an entirely different matter. It necessitates the abandonment or curtailment of athletics and extra-curricular activities. Consequently, the attitude of the average 2 over 3-3 over 2 man is: "Well, guess I've seen unlimiteds for the last time. I don't even have a play for them now."

It seems that, in their anxiety to increase attendance at their classes, members of the faculty did not consider closely enough the effect which their decision will have upon student interest in class and effort put forth outside of class. Next February's figures will indeed be interesting.

An Accident Rectified

Dear Mr. Graef:

With further reference to your letter of October 26, reporting an incident at Williamstown Station of Sunday afternoon, October, (See RECORD- Sat. Oct. 30, 1948)

Our investigation indicates that the length of time this train has for its station stop is not sufficiently long to permit a large number of boys to enter the cars with their departing guests to see that they are seated and to take care of their baggage for them. Our crew tried to explain this and attempted to discourage the boys from getting aboard, but were not entirely successful. Unfortunately, the crew thought that everyone had left, only to find that some had remained aboard until the train had started and jumped off while the train was in motion.

Our Operating Department has reviewed this situation with our train and engine crews, and all possible efforts will be made to prevent

The Thunder Bolt

by Seth Bidwell

Somewhere along the line last week, we dropped the ball in attempting to get the following sentence in print. It should have read, "If fraternities are not to sink of their own weight, they must be prepared to accept changing social standards." Just as we dropped the ball, fraternities have long been dropping the ball by refusing to do just what the sentence implies. And to re-emphasize a point, not necessarily to Negroes alone, but to various religious groups also.

In my last column, I boisterously said I would suggest doing something about it. Well, with not too many objections thus far, here goes.

Superficially, a constitutional or paper matter should be promptly disposed of. The gist of this step is, for the fraternities which have definite discriminatory clauses in their charters, to take immediate action to see them erased. Admittedly, in some cases, this is not as easily done as it is to sit here and pound these type-writer keys. It is, however, an important step. It would appear to me that in the most difficult cases, the chapter should be able to secure some action from the national organization regarding the particular Williams chapter, although not giving carte blanc powers to the entire national fraternity. This is a method, and although not entirely satisfactory, it is a small step which would greatly affect Williams. And possibly affect many others later.

Secondly, all attempts for the individual fraternities to secure advance information concerning a rushee's religious status should be stopped, discouraged, and forbidden. It is, of course, at this stage of the game where we pass from the material to the mental outlook. Consequently, we begin talking of abstractions and, unfortunately, this abstraction is the fundamental correction that must be achieved. I hesitate to say at this point, "what we are trying to achieve." To accomplish this goal, and believe me, it is a goal, the only method by which to make the transition is, to put it in a phrase of Conrad's, "Immerse yourself in the destructive."

For those who dislike the thought of a Negro, a Jew, and in some cases a Catholic, included in the fraternity system, the only solution for them is to get lost in a society of that which they dislike. Unlike most abstraction, however, I have a concrete method by which you may do this.

During the summer months, there is a charity, interracial camp for children situated in Winchester, New Hampshire. Because it is a charity camp, the work must be donated, which in many cases is unfortunate. The opportunity is here, however, of those who are vitally interested, or dare to take the chance, want to try it.

Experiment and see, and your outlook will change. The transition will be accomplished in a few, and the few will affect the many, and a step toward the goal will be accomplished.

For anyone that is interested in following the above suggestion, write to Rev. James A. Robinson, 360 W. 122nd St. New York City, or contact me.

any recurrence of such a situation.

We are, of course, disturbed when incidents of this kind occur, and I assure you we want to do everything we can to prevent their happening, but it cannot be done without the cooperation of the students.

Hopeful Williams Soccer Team Meets Amherst Eleven Today

Jeffs Favored To Win; Purple Forward Wall Riddled With Injuries

Winding up the 1948 season, Coach Bullock's soccer team goes into action at Amherst this morning against strong opposition. Boasting five wins in six encounters, the Jeffs seem to have the edge again this year. The outcome is by no means certain, however, as comparative scores conflict and the Williams' squad, in spite of injuries, has good chances for a victory.

Stoltzfus Back

Jeff Captain Ben Stoltzfus, at center-forward, forms the nucleus of seven veterans from last year's team which downed Williams, 3-1, on Cole Field to gain the Little Three title.

Their line-up, though not yet certain, will probably place Dave Eaton and Kell Smith at the inside and Crowther and Beebe outside. Coon and Griffiths may also fit into the forward line. Whit Spaulding, Fred Hollister, and Don Dunbar form a veteran bloc at the half-back positions; the fullbacks include Hamill and either Rosenthal or Hawkins. Don Nesbitt, their capable goal-tender rounds out the team playing his third year in that slot for the Jeffs.

The Purple and White launched their season with a decisive 7-0 victory over Tufts. The following weekend they received their only loss from Harvard, 3-0. After downing MIT, 4-0, the Jeffs defeated Wesleyan 2-1. Out of revenge, these Cardinals defeated Williams 5-1 last week-end.

The only other mutual adversary, Mass U., was defeated 3-1 by Amherst and 3-0 by the Ephs. The comparative scores, therefore, give dubious indications of the relative strengths.

Two Eph Injuries

In addition to George Kneass, out for three weeks with an ankle injury, left outside Dick Manning is also unlikely to play. Manning's leg was injured in the first minutes of the Wesleyan game. Either Rick Fowle or Dave Fall will fill this position today.

The rest of the forward line will remain, with Tom Kent as center-forward, Ted Prescott at outside right, and Cy Mayahark and Bob Johnston left and right insides. Frank Donnelly, John Bowen, and Rollo Palmedo make up the half-backs; George Kneass may be able to alternate with the latter. The defense trio remains unchanged with Rog Dickinson and Jerry Page at fullback and Jerry Palmeri in the goal.

Booters Seek Fifth Victory

Since November 1922, when a coachless Williams soccer eleven first trotted onto Amherst's Hitchcock Field and trotted off at the short end of a rather lopsided 5-0 score, the hometown booters have been able to eke out but four victories against their counterparts from Amherst in a twenty-four game series.

An aura of gloom was cast over that first Little Three soccer contest by the "Record," when, in the issue following the game, the news paper bewailed the booters' inability to score and the fact that the Amherst aggregation was "not the equal of several already played this season." However, in an apparent face-saving gesture for the team the "Record" failed to mention the fact that the Eph men had been rather soundly trounced in each of the other four games on the 1922 schedule.

Campus sentiment apparently was all in favor of nipping the new sport in the bud, for the then newly-appointed athletic director Gueron Messer, saw fit to write an article for the same issue which, while admitting that the season was possibly not as successful as it might have been from See SOCCER, page 4

Eph Harriers Finish Seventh In N. E. Meet

Kelton, Delany Snare Low Places In Title Running At Boston

Matching their seventh place finish of a year ago, the variety cross country team closed out its season at Boston on Monday in the New England Championship meet. Several of Coach Tony Plansky's harriers finished the four and a quarter mile Franklin Park course well in the field of over one hundred thin-clad and seventeen teams.

Rhode Island State garnered the championship honors for the fifth time in a row by scoring a low total of 51 points. Showing the way to the victorious Rams was Bob Black, individual winner for the third consecutive year. Mass. State took second in the team scoring followed by the Coast Guard Academy, Tufts, MIT and Springfield before the Purple snared seventh with 182 points.

Kelton, Delany Shine

First man to cross the line for the Ephs was Junior standout, Bill Kelton, in 14th place. A few seconds ahead of his time of 23:16 minutes was Johnson of Wesleyan, Little Three Champ, in 13th. Then twenty yards behind Kelton finished Kev Delany in 16th place with a 23:21 clocking. Delany ended in 10th position in last fall's New England but he turned in slower time doing it.

Not far behind his teammates in the crowded race was Captain Paul Cook in a good 27th place. The fourth and fifth Williams men to complete the circuit were George Dorian in 51st position and Ernie May in 82nd place. Pete Sylvester became the sixth purple finisher as he copped the 92nd place. The showing of the team against high caliber competition was creditable while the definite lack of balance and depth in numbers throughout the season makes it even more so. Prior to Monday the hill-and-dalers posted four dual triumphs, including three third straight Little Three title, against two losses.

Champion Betas Amherst - Bound

Face Polar Bear, Jeff Titlists In Playoff

This morning at 8:45 Beta Theta Pi will take the field at Amherst to represent Williams in the first annual intramural football tournament. Vieing against the Billville squad will be the beat Amherst and Bowdoin College have to offer in tough football teams.

The Betas earned the right to make the trek down to Amherst by trouncing the Saints, 24-6.

Betas Draw First Blood

The Betas started fast and furiously, scoring three quick T.D.s before the Saints could find their way to the goal line. Wally Olesen chalked up the first 6 points on a long pass, and Shay Lynch quickly followed up with a thirty yard run after grabbing one of quarterback Burt Dean's passes out of the air. Bill Coldwell intercepted and zig-zagged along the sidelines, eluding would be Saint defenders to score T.D. number three.

The second half was played on more even terms with both teams crossing into paydirt once. St. Anthony scored their only touchdown on an interception followed by a pass to Hank Estabrook, who crossed into the end zone untouched. Ronnie Chute made the interception and pass. The Betas stormed back to counter on some razzle dazzle running and laterrally by Burt Dean and Jim Shay. Dean made the T.D., his first one of the season.

Defense Keyword

Perhaps more than anything else, the outstanding defensive work of the Betas helped them to their eighth straight win of the year. The Saints seemed helpless to dent a lineup which had Jeffery, Shay, and Dean in the backfield. Chuck Pusey and Shay Lynch on the ends, and Olesen, Coldwell, Halleck, Hoeck, and Brad Pusey in the center of the line.

The games this morning at Amherst may prove unfamiliar to the local representatives, for Sabrina rules stipulate that the intramural football competition be played with full equipment and that regulation football rules apply. Note worthy is the fact that for the first time this year the intramurals will play under rules where blocking is allowed.

Brother will be pitted against brother at Amherst, for representing the down state college in the round-robin is the Amherst Beta chapter.

Cremeans, Perry Win Football Pool Prizes

By picking ten out of ten football games correctly last Saturday, Jack Cremeans '50, became the owner of a case of beer, and Blair Perry '51 received a Dunhill cigarette holder. Both prize winners were the first entrants in the "Pick Your Winners" football contests at Cal King's and Hart's Drug Store.

Twenty-three people picked ten games right last week, while only one predicted a Williams victory over Wesleyan.

History - - -

on a perfect, still day and was called because of darkness. Unfortunately, the serenity of the fall afternoon was "marred by frequent fist fights among individuals". Feeling was so strong after this strife that the Athenaeum advised the Amherst referee to "pursue foot-ball rules as an elective study."

Champions In 1885

So confident were the Ephmen of the strength of their team that they petitioned for membership in the league of Amherst, Tufts, and Tech. Romping over Tufts and Tech, the Purple squad subdued Amherst with equal ease and won the championship in 1885. The Williams Gul of 1893 gives the following colorful account of Williamstown the day they copped the crown: "Another bad day this proved to be but it brought another victory and we won our first championship. Williams was ablaze with bonfires and enthusiasm and the team was accompanied home See HISTORY, page 4 mark a large goose-egg in their score book. The Cardinals crossed the TD stripe four times against both opponents.

The Tufts game is a good indicator of the relative strength of the two teams. On a gala house-party weekend, the Duffield to Cool pass combination and the end sweeps of speed-merchant Pete Delisser sparked a spirited Eph eleven into pulling a losing cause out of the fire and they finally emerged with a narrow 14-13 victory. The following week the Jeffs overcame a two touchdown deficit to pull an identical feat with a Hammond to Jordan aerial combo and the stellar line plunging of fullback Dick Simon.

Amherst Lineup

In a nip and tuck affair, Ernie Mierzejewski's magic toe turns the odds in favor of the local boys. Jordan, the Jeffs specialist in the extra-point department, has a record of 12 conversions in 18 attempts while "Ernie the Toe" has failed only once.

The starting lineup for the Sabrinas will probably see Scholtz and Neimeyer on the flanks and Parsons and Geraghty filling up the tackle slots. Co-Captains Gardner and Flower will be at the center and guard positions, respectively, and Barnes is slated to fill the other guard post. In the backfield, the Jeff's single wing offense is built around pass slinger Lew Hammond at left half, with Barry at the other halfback position. Rousch will be bucking the line from the fullback post and both Keith and Jordan will see a lot of action at quarterback.

covering AMT admissions may be indicated by the answers to the question regarding such a tax. The results did not indicate approval of a blanket tax to provide free student admission to all productions, but over half of those people answering the question approved of a two dollar tax which would provide for reduced admission prices for the undergraduates.

Of Mice and Men Readied
Preparations are now being completed for Cap and Bells' presentation of "Of Mice and Men", which will combine the elements of both a popular modern drama, and a notable literary work.

The first production of this season, will be presented at the Adams Memorial Theatre next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. AMT Director Bryant announced today that the various stage crews are finishing their work in anticipation of the play's successful weekend. Also aiding him in last minute details are Assistant Director James VanWart and Technical Supervisor Edgar Noyes.

H. Prescott Wells '49 has directed the scenario group which has been working steadily to complete the four different sets. Helping him in this department are: Andrew Bacharach '51; John Cremins '51; Roger Hunt '52; William Anderson '51; Robert Haven '51; Joseph Powell '52; Peter Oaks '52; Richard Critterden '52; and Richmond Williams F-'50.

As usual the lighting crew is the largest single group involved in the actual production of the play.

Peter Candler '49 heads this crew for "Of Mice and Men" and has been assisted by: William Anderson '51; Frederick Withington '52; Vincent Fuller '52; Alexander Robertson '52; Hannibal Madden Jr. '52; Samuel Graybill '49; Paul Smith '50; Adam T. Stovall III '50; James Irish '51; Lawrence Woolson '51; Joseph Hastings '51; David Andrews '52; William Smith '52; Richard Williams '49; Robert Walmsley '50; Peter Mezey '52; Earl Henderson '51; David Fay '51; Daniel McNally '52; Roger Hunt '52; Peter Leake '50; Richard Critterden '52; William Redfield '52; Joseph Powell '52; David Fischer '52; Peter Oaks '52; Oliver Chisholm '50; Randolph Cooper '51; and Theodore Curtis '51.

Helen Kelley Has Make-Up
Mrs. Betty Dissell has been preparing the costumes while Mrs. Helen Kelley is in charge of make-up. The job of handling all props is entrusted to Thomas Taylor '50 and the remainder of his crew including: David Muhlenberg '51; Benjamin Jaffray '51; Herbert Poole '51; David West Jr. '50; Howard Green Jr. '50; and Charles Kennedy '50. The sound men for this production are George Cherry '51 and Robert Hellawell '52.

Supervising the business arrangements is Theodore Lohrke '49, Business Manager of Cap and Bells. Those on his staff are: Assistant-Theodore Congdon '51; John Walthour Jr. '51; John McCombe '51; John McAloon '52; William Mill '51; Richard Welland '51; Edward Fox '51; Richard Weber '49; Dean Webster '51; Richard Chapel '51; and Thomas Evans '51. McCombe is also the official photographer.

Soccer ...

the standpoint of victories, state that because the game helped to teach the fundamentals of sportsmanship it was here to stay.

First Victory

As it turned out, the undergraduates had to wait a few years, six to be exact, to see one of the expected victories against Amherst materialize. A eulogy in the 1928 Gul. described the occasion in glowing terms: the soccer team "brought her season to a vengeful and triumphant close, scoring a scintillating 4-2 win over our hitherto superior rivals at Amherst."

Although the opposition of those students still anxious to see soccer run off the campus as an official school sport had probably been broken by the 1928 victory and consequent tie for the Little Three crown, the team had to wait until 1937 to beat Amherst again. This time, the Ephmen overcame a tricky pass attack and a formerly undefeated team to score a 2-1 upset and take undisputed possession of the Little Three Championship for the first and only time.

Wins in 1940 and '46 and ties in 1931 and '32 were the only other bright spots in the cloudy history of Amherst-Williams soccer games. When our team trots onto Hitchcock Field again today, they will be sporting the singularly unimpressive cumulative record of four wins, seventeen losses and two ties in a series which has gone unbroken, except for the recent war, for a period of twenty-six years.

History ...

by a number of jubilant spirits. And that is how it all began. An auspicious beginning for the Williamstown in a tightly contested series. But when the two elevens face each other on Pratt Field today, the records of the past will not count. The outcome of today's battle will rest solely on the merits and spirits of the men in uniform.

Cap And Bells Presents First Show Of Year

John Steinbeck's Play "Of Mice And Men" To Open Thursday

"Of Mice And Men", John Steinbeck's sordid drama of itinerant agricultural workers in California, and Cap and Bells' first production of the current season, will open for a three-performance run tomorrow evening at 8:30 in the Adams Memorial Theater.

Martin Luthy '51 plays Lenny, the giant halfwit whose inability to keep out of trouble results in the tragic ending of the play. George, a small, sharp-faced ranch hand who acts as Lenny's friend and guardian, is played by Dominick Dunne '49; while Caroline Bidwell, as the wife of Curley, the ranch superintendent's son, supplies the romantic interest.

Difficult Characterization
Richard Chinman '51 plays The Boss, superintendent of the ranch while James Dissell '49 plays Curley. The parts of other ranch hands are played by Dixon White '50 as Candy, John Lasell '50 as Slim, Llewellyn White '50 as Crooks, Thomas Brittingham '51 as Carlson, and Arthur Levitt '52 as Whit.

AMT director David C. Bryant, who is staging the play, emphasized the fact that these characterizations are as difficult as any Cap and Bells has yet attempted, since "Of Mice and Men" deals with a way of life and a dialect entirely foreign to the average Williams man.

Realistic Scenery
Mr. James E. Vanwart is assisting Mr. Bryant in the direction of the play, while Otto Seibert '50 is serving as production manager and W. Gilbert Spencer '50 as stage manager. Assistant stage manager Howard Cadmus '50, lighting director Peter Candler '49, business manager Theodore Lohrke '49, director of props Thomas Taylor '50, and publicity director Bayard Stockton '51 round out the list of those involved in the actual production of the play.

According to Mr. Bryant, John Hopkins '50 has done a remarkable job in designing and constructing realistic scenery for the play's extremely difficult settings.

WOC Carnival Set For Late February

Ski Meet To Highlight Houseparty Weekend

Billville will frolic in its first post-probation houseparty on the weekend of February 18th, 19th, and 20th, according to word received from WOC carnival chairman Paul Mort.

Billed as "the biggest winter carnival ever", the event will be highlighted by a ski meet similar to the one last winter. Strong attempts are being made to lure the Intercollegiate Ski Union junior division championships to Williams for that weekend; and if Middlebury, the host college for the I.S.U. finals, consents to stage their meet the following weekend, the deal can be swung.

In an unprecedented attempt to satisfy the student body as to the type of all-college dance desired, the Outing Club will circulate a poll throughout the campus. The poll will tabulate preferences on the price of admission, the type of band desired, and whether the dance shall be for-

Baxter Urges Rushing Check

NSA Given Chance To Show Merits

A plea by President James P. Baxter 3rd for possible improvements in the post-season rushing system, and a re-instatement of the Williams Chapter of the National Students Association by the UC composed most of the business at Monday's two-hour Undergraduate Council meeting.

President Baxter opened the meeting by expressing the hope that present arrangements for post-season rushing gave the non-fraternity man the greatest advantage possible if he wanted to join a house. He said that he thought that there might be a chance of improving the post-season rushing arrangements, and he said that he hoped that the situation would be looked into. After consideration by UC members of house quotas, house eating facilities and other factors entering into the rushing picture, Alan Harter '49 recommended that the matter be turned over to the Rushing Committee. The UC decided to let this Committee consider the matter and to suggest possible improvements in post-season rushing.

NSA Here Again
The subject of the NSA and its place on the Williams Campus was re-opened in the light of objections made by its temporary Chairman Harry J. Finke '50 to last week's UC move to abolish the organization from campus. Henry Strong '49, UC President, asked what the NSA has done in the past and what it could do in the future. Finke replied that he felt that the organization had not done what it should have in the last two years but that he was confident that with publicity to stir up student interest, it can bring benefits of various sorts to Williams undergraduates.

A motion was made and approved that the NSA be allowed to continue at Williams until February, with Finke as Chairman, at which time its national dues will be required and the UC will decide whether or not to keep the organization in College. During the interim the NSA must make every effort to familiarize the students with the organization, without any financial support from the UC.

Andy Heineman '50 announced that the Winter Carnival weekend will be February 18 and 19, and will be sponsored by the Outing Club. The Council formed a Bowdoin Plan Committee to handle the foreign students' activities, and will consist of Professor Robert J. Allen, Harry Finke, NSA Chairman; Bill Swan '49, Scholastic Committee Chairman, and Dick Wells '49, UC Treasurer.

Dartmouth Seniors Write Male Guide

Label Typical Ephman "Country Gentleman"

In their latest book, "Weekend", a girl's guide to men's colleges, Dartmouth seniors Bill Jones and Dick O'Riley describe the typical Williams man as a "country gentleman." "He always manages to look as though he has just been out for a stroll to see how the new colt is faring, or how the new spaniel is shaping up for the next season's duck shoot."

The detailed guidebook tells about the special activities at ten men's colleges, what the girls should wear, what they should expect from their escorts and what their escorts expect from them. To get information for the book, the two students spent almost every weekend at one of the men's colleges getting facts or at some girls college getting the feminine point of view.

Besides Williams, the big league of eastern colleges includes Amherst, Princeton, Yale, Brown, Harvard, West Point, Cornell, Dartmouth and Annapolis. Of Yale, the authors say "A young thing from Vassar once described the typical Yale football weekend as one continuous cocktail party punctuated by an occasional dance and an afternoon of sitting in the cold to sober up."

Two years ago Jones and O'Riley collaborated in writing "For Men Lonely, a Guide to Twelve Women's Colleges."

Weak Selection Of Program Mars Duo-Pianists' Concert

by Dan Pugh

In Chapin Hall last Thursday evening before an audience of over 800, Pierre Luboshutz and Genia Nemenoff, duo-pianists sponsored by the Thompson Concert Committee, gave a beautifully played but impoverished program.

That the ability of the two artists is more than striking need not be questioned: the firm and precise integration of their playing and the inherent capabilities of each, were apparent from the first phrase struck. One could see that the timing was the result of their subtle direction as of appreciation for the very sounds each played. This, in combination with the interesting arrangement of several of the selections by Mr. Luboshutz was the saving essence of the evening.

Bach Fugue

The first part of the program consisted of a Bach fugue, "now Comes the Gentle Savior," and "Variations on a theme by Beethoven" by Saint-Saens. The former with its voices and counterpoint well played, but the selection itself seemed to lack any sus-

Art Museum Holds Exhibit

Display Features French Masters

The second exhibition of the 1948-49 season at the Lawrence Art Museum, Williams College, features 19th century French Master Drawings of figures and animals. The Fogg Art Museum at Cambridge, Mass. has lent 19 drawings from its famous collection, the Rhode Island School of Design at Providence has contributed 4 drawings, and the Lawrence Art Museum, 5 from its own collection, which rounds out the exhibit.

Delacroix is represented by pages from his sketch book of horses and figures, and by animal drawings. Among them is a powerful "Crouching Lioness" in black crayon, considered one of the finest Delacroix drawings in America. The two bronzes by the well-known animal sculptor, A. L. Bayre, are exhibited beside the drawings for comparison. Delacroix and Bayre were great friends, and frequently went to the Paris zoo together to study the animals.

A beautiful Ingres pencil portrait of Mme. d'Haussonville from the Fogg Museum is a study for the portrait in the Frick Collection in New York. The verve and vitality in a drawing by Degas of a standing woman foreshadows his later work. Two early figure studies by Corot show a classic control and detachment. In contrast is a wash drawing by Constable of a lady, possibly the Empress Eugenie, on horseback, in which elegance and style are the predominant characteristics.

Also included in the exhibition are a study of a horse, and a wash and pencil drawing of an Arab soldier by Gericault; a portrait by Chassériau, who was a pupil of Ingres; a drawing of an oriental soldier by Decamps, strongly influenced by Delacroix; an unusual allegorical subject, an offering to Pan, by Millet; a peasant head by Gauguin, which was done in France after his first trip to Tahiti, but showing the Melanesian influence; two drawings by Meissonier; and a self-portrait by See EXHIBIT, Page 4

Fromm Speaks On Psychology

Inter-relation Of Culture And Character Topic

In a lecture entitled "Psycho-analysis and Anthropology", in Jesup Hall Monday evening, Eric Fromm discussed the inter-relationship of the individual and the cultural pattern of a society, as revealed by psycho-analysis. Dr. Fromm is a noted psycho-analyst, sociologist, and lecturer at Bennington.

He reviewed the history of psycho-analytic answers to this problem from the time of Sigmund Freud. Freud thought that human actions are the results of innate instincts, of which the drive for life and the drive for destruction are two of the most important. On this basis Freud explained war as a manifestation of the destructive instinct, and said, if it was not manifested in this way, it would seek an outlet in masochism or sadism. Freud's theories failed to take into consideration the political, and social conditions which cause, at least in part, such phenomenon.

"Diaperology"

As the first to expound psycho-analytic theory, Freud inevitably made several errors. The modified Freudian approach has as its basic assumption the idea that character traits are formed during early childhood as a result of frustration or satisfaction of various instincts or drives. In order to understand a culture therefore, it is necessary to study the methods by which children are brought up. As a result of this, many parents assume that if they follow all the newest methods and techniques of child-raising a normal child will result.

Dr. Fromm said this concept shares the basic Freudian error. Love and respect, the most important conditions for proper development, are never listed under these child-raising techniques. He quoted one of his colleagues who aptly called this modified Freudian approach "Diaperology."

Fromm's Approach

Dr. Fromm's socio-psychological approach starts with the basic assumption that a man's culture is determined by the role that is demanded of him by society. For example, a cooperative society can only exist if the majority of people tend to be cooperative. The family, through childhood training and the impact of the parents' character, transmits the demands of society to the child.

Most members of a society must have traits which make them want to do what they have to do.

This theory raises an ethical problem. Besides "socially immanent ethics"—those rules necessary for the existence of any given culture—there is an underlying framework of ethical rules, stemming from human nature, which are valid in all cultures. Therefore a culture must produce men who will not only do what is necessary for the existence of that culture, but what is necessary for the existence of their species.

Third-Quarter Scoring Drive Sets Up Win

Williams' Stew Duffield, Amherst's Hammond Pace Rival Elevens

After sixty minutes of hard-fought battle, the Williams eleven finally went down to defeat last Saturday afternoon on Pratt Field, when Lew Hammond spearheaded a third-period touchdown drive to give Amherst the victory, 13-7. Williams followers found little consolation in the fact that it was only the twenty-third Jeff victory in sixty-two encounters.

A quick look at the statistics of the ball game shows that the Ephmen outgained their traditional rivals by an almost 2-to-1 ratio on the ground and through the air. The outcome was little short of unbelievable, and for Len Watters, in his Amherst-Williams debut, it was a heart-breaker.

After a scoreless opening period, first the Ephmen and then the Jeffs pushed over a touchdown in the second quarter, and the Williams squad led 7-6 at half-time by virtue of Ernie Mierzejewski's conversion. But in the third quarter the Williams line was no match for an Amherst aggregation that drove quickly down the field to chalk up seven points and held a 13-7 margin to the end.

Duffield, Hammond Star

Neither team played consistently good football under adverse conditions of the field and the tension of the encounter, but the game was featured by a duel between two terrific tailbacks, Stu Duffield of Williams and Lew Hammond of Amherst. The latter completed only two passes all afternoon, but his kicking continually set the Ephmen back deep in their own territory and his ball-carrying paced the Amherst attack. Duffield played his usual brilliant game, passing, punting, and running in great form, as well as quarterbacking the team.

The first period was little more than a kicking contest between Duffield and Hammond, with neither team picking up much yardage on the ground. But in the second stanza the Williams machine began to roll, as Duffield and DeLisser, carried for a first down on the Amherst 33 and from there Duff out loose with a long pass to Bud Cool down the right side-line, putting the ball inside the 1. Cliff Farmer plunged

Pushball Still Undiscovered

Speculation Of Location Widespread, Indefinite

Speculation as to the whereabouts of the notorious missing pushball was widespread but indefinite on the Williams campus last week, and as the Record went to press the locality of the elusive spheroid was still unknown. The North Adams Transcript advanced the theory Thursday that the pushball, symbolic of victory in the freshman-sophomore contest held on Weston Field before the Wesleyan game, November 6, might be under lock and key somewhere in North Adams.

The only clue to the mysterious disappearance of the six-foot sphere yet brought to light is a photograph in last Wednesday's Record showing the ball on its way to N. A., with the help of three supposed sophomores.

Unlimited Cuts

In their first meeting of this year, the faculty was presented with a group of statistics concerning the operation of the cut system during the spring term of 1948. On the strength of these figures they promptly concluded that the unlimited cut privilege was being carried to a "ridiculous extreme" and immediately raised the requirement for the Special list from an average of 3 B's over 2 C's to a straight B average. Knowing the majority of students are opposed to their decision, we here present a little food for their thought—considerations in support of the faculty. We withhold judgment until a more thorough statistical study is made.

Let us start by discussing the theory of cutting. There are two extremes, either every student has unlimited cuts or, to the greatest practical extent, no man may cut at all. Both of these positions are untenable; the first because at Williams it would result in a drastic reduction in educational standards, the other because it does not take into account the duty of the college to allow those students who are capable of self-responsibility to exercise that ability. Clearly some kind of compromise is necessary. But where should the line be drawn? It should be drawn, if possible, at that point above which the great majority of students are capable of exhibiting enough self-control to regulate their class attendance so that it has no harmful effect on their scholastic achievement, as evidenced by their grades. The faculty believes that this point is a 4.0 average.

During the term for which this study was made, 28 students on the Special List cut over fifty classes for various reasons, excused and unexcused, one of them missing all of 84 classes. Of this group, one-third were the college brains and still got over a 4.0 average, one-third were lucky, and the scholastic standing of the remaining third sunk so low that they failed to make the Special List the following term. The last third of this group carried the cutting privilege to the extreme and their grades show the result. Theoretically, this demonstrates their lack of responsibility. But no valid judgment can be made on this except in relation to figures telling the fractions of students not on the Special List whose grades fell to a corresponding degree. Raising the requirement to a straight B average will cut the Special List in half and impose upon those who fall by the wayside the control they have shown, again theoretically, to be necessary.

One factor that the faculty did not take into consideration is that responsibility generally comes with age. We believe that the senior is better able to regulate his cutting responsibility than is the sophomore, and that this difference should be taken into account in any set of regulations.

The loudest criticism of the change comes from those who claim that it will destroy the incentive of many who worked a good deal harder than they would otherwise have done, just because they wanted to make unlimiteds. Theoretically, every man comes to Williams to pursue an education to the greatest extent of his ability. For the few men of which this statement is true, and who prove it by getting over a 4.0 average, unlimited cuts is a reward and a privilege. Of those of whom it is not true, who don't come to Williams to get as much education as is humanly possible for them, and whose incentive to work is something outside of the pursuit of education itself, i.e. unlimited cuts, we must ask why they want this privilege. Is it so they may spend less of their time in the process of gaining an education and more in leading a full social life, especially now that athletic cuts are free? Blushingly, we must admit that it is so, and that we are as guilty as the rest.

This rule cannot force a man to get an education who doesn't care about getting one, but by at least forcing him to go to class it can prevent him from throwing away all opportunity for it. Rather than be allowed to subordinate his future to the pleasures of the moment, he is forced to do what, in his better moments, he would be very willing to do.

The claim that students should have more cuts because many classes can be cut without loss to the student, and that one may often make better use of his time by doing so, seems groundless. The greatest part of the student's education is received in the classroom by an instructor's interpretation and application of ideas found in books. If it were otherwise, it is incredible that some college president has not hit upon the economy measure of eliminating classrooms and teachers entirely in favor of supplying the students only with dormitories, eating halls, and a large library.

All this, however, is idle theorization and biased opinion. No great profusion of speculation can decide the matter. Fact, and fact alone, can settle the question to the satisfaction of all. The faculty decision was taken with very little consideration and on the basis of a general impression and spacious and insignificant statistics, but this alone does not invalidate it. The only thing that can do so is a comprehensive statistical study offering conclusive proof that their decision will not raise the scholastic standing. Such a study is possible and should be undertaken.

The most important of its many facts would show a comparison of the percentage of those on the Special List whose grade average dropped during the term with the percentage of the rest of the college that dropped. If it is found that a student's scholastic average is more likely to drop if he is on the unlimited cuts, then it is the direct result of the cut system, and if we desire nothing more than scholarship, it should be remedied. If the added increment of the percentage of men on the Special List whose grades dropped is concentrated in the 3.5-4.0 range, then the faculty action is justified. If, however, the lower average is spread throughout all those on unlimiteds, there is no reason for the arbitrary 4.0 distinction. In this case, the 3.5-4.0 group has shown themselves as capable of regulating their cutting as the higher group. To make the present change would be to sacrifice the development of self-responsibility to the end of increased scholarship in the 3.5-4.0 bracket. It is a question, then, of which one we think is the more important.

At this point, in conclusion, we inject a depressing note of objection to the faculty action. It was taken, either deliberately or not, as if the UC's Committee on Scholarship were non-existent. This is most unfortunate, as we believe that this undergraduate group could have given the faculty many pertinent suggestions and valuable insights into the nature of enlightened student opinion on the subject. We recommend, therefore, that this committee make the statistical study herein referred to and submit a report of its findings, with its recommendations, to the faculty Committee on Education Policy.

Uncle Eph's Worm Farm

by D. Light de Moon

Now that the tenseness has left the air, and the grandstand quarterbacks have given their decisions, a word of credit is due to the football team and the student body which went down to Pratt Field enmasse Saturday to back them up. When we headed south at noon, there was one car visible on fraternity row, — a derelict abandoned by part of the Wesleyan contingent the previous weekend.

The penalty statistics gave Amherst 55 yards against 20 for the Purple, but the outcome of the ball game might have well been included in the Williams column. The age-old Sunday morning solace of the defeated, however, may be of some comfort this time. Things will be different next year.

The best comment on the game, it seems to us, appeared in "The Amherst Student," a sheet which amazed journalists more than somewhat by reaching the stands early Saturday evening with complete game coverage. The lead story, announcing the Jeff victory under a banner head, began:

Saturday, November 13—Amherst outslugged Williams 13-7 this afternoon on Pratt Field before a capacity crowd.

We did notice a few things, off the playing field, which the Williams AA might do well to look into. The first was the free parking inside the gates.

Of more interest to us here at Williams were the programs. These displayed the same trite, stock covers which characterize ours, but on page 3 the similarity ended. People at football games have little time or use for anything in a program except pictures and the day's line-ups. Printed matter gets secondary, if any, attention. Such features as individual pictures of the members of the team and action shots of previous games might well be adopted by Williams concessionaires.

The one heartening bit of news from the Amherst campus this weekend was the announcement that the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity had pledged, and plans to initiate, a negro student in defiance of the national organization. After unpledging the man upon orders from the national executive council, the chapter reversed its decision a week ago Saturday. They were subsequently suspended for "unfraternal conduct."

AS OTHERS SEE US— We here at Williams have been called a lot of things by a lot of people in the last year, but there are some new ones in a recent volume entitled simply, "Week-end". The book was written as a guide to men's colleges for houseparty females by the two Dartmouth seniors who did a similar job on the girls some time ago. Their analysis of the social behavior of the Williams male may shock, amaze, or disappoint its subjects.

"The Williams man can best be described as the potential country gentleman," says the article. "Informal to a degree, the Williams man is tweedy, pipey, and sporty as an Abercrombie and Fitch adv."

Socially, we seem to present something of an enigma. "On the one hand, some girls just can't say enough about these nicely mannered men — these gentlemen of the old school who jump to fulfill your slightest wish. And on the other hand you hear things like, 'Party? My Gawd, we never went to bed!'"

Even disregarding the last comment as the result of natural modesty, we still have something to live up to. Come on you Fashion Plates, let's start vibrating and jump to fulfill!

IN WILLIAMSTOWN— We hear Doctor McWilliams performed a miraculous piece of surgery down at West's filling station the afternoon of the Wesleyan game. It is said he had at least one returning Alumnus in stitches.

EXPENSIVE GAL— They're telling the story about the enterprising senior who sold a date with a Bennington Belle to one of his buddies for a penny. We wonder if she was worth it.

Don't raise your hopes too high, but the day may be approaching when two Cadillacs will be able to pass on Spring Street without trading paint jobs. Money has been appropriated to finance a "study" of the current traffic situation with an eye to widening the Street.

ATTENTION, CHAS. ADDAMS— The staff at Rudnick's are still speculating about the laundry left there last week by a student. The bundle contained 2 shirts, 2 undershirts, 2 drawers, 1 towel, and 32 socks.

Letters To The Editor

To the editor of The Williams Record:

In reference to your squib in the November 10th issue of the Record, you mention that the grant originally designated for the NSA was promptly incorporated into the UC budget as soon as the latter organization was dropped from the list of sanctioned undergraduate activities. You further suggest or imply that the SAC Executive Committee was unaware of the transaction, all of which brings us to make this suggestion to you.

Get acquainted with the mechanics of your own student government and before making such a statement in the future, find out the facts first. Here are some: (1) The SAC is the financial committee of the UC, and all SAC action is subject to final approval by the UC and vice-versa. (2) Furthermore, the original portion of the budget which the UC allotted itself, when all activity budgets were approved, included the NSA sum which amounted to $200.00. When the NSA was voted out of existence at Williams, the UC felt that that amount should be kept intact as did the Chairman of the SAC Executive Committee who was present during the proceedings and who has the power to speak for the SAC. He is a full-fledged member of the UC to boot. Anyway the reasons for the action seem pretty valid.

$110 was appropriated for the purchase of the Frosh-Soph pushball, which, as you will recall, is currently giving your paper some feature material. A couple of hundred students participated in this spirited brawl, a number far exceeding any that ever joined in the nebulous activity of the NSA. It did much to foster class spirit and enthusiasm. The other $90.00 was voted to help pay for the Bowdoin football broadcast in Williamstown, a thing which benefited all those undergraduates who were unable to make the long trek to Brunswick, Maine. Both these allotments were made in the interest of the student body.

Finally, one of your own Record Reporters was on hand during the entire proceedings. We are surprised that between the two of you, you failed to see the senselessness of printing the ignorant statement you did.

Beta Team To Play Amherst As Coin Toss Decides Match

Game To Determine Intramural Champ

In the first football game on record to be won by the flip of a coin, the Beta Intramural football team emerged as one of the finalists in the first New England Intramural Athletic play-offs, between Williams, Amherst and Bowdoin. The Beta's tied the Bowdoin Chi Psi's 0-0 after three overtimes, and the loser of a dramatic coin toss had to play the Amherst Beta's. The Chi Psi's lost the toss and then lost again as the Lord Jeff Champs took them 14-13. Consequently, next Friday the Beta's will face their fraternal nity brothers from Amherst at Hitchcock field for the cup. The scoreless Bowdoin game was a rather dull contest as the confusing Amherst rules made the vaunted Beta aerial attack ineffective. Bill Coldwell ran a Bowdoin punt back to their ten, but here the Beta attack bogged down and their best scoring chance went for naught. Beta Pledge Rick Jeffries was a tower of strength on defense all day and should be considered as the outstanding ball-player unveiled by the three teams. The Bowdoin-Amherst game was a thriller as the Amherst Beta's scored on a long pass in the last thirty seconds and then won the game on a spot pass for their second conversion.

Coach Muir Preps Eph Swimmers For Defense Of New England Title

Missing only one man from last year's swimming team, which swept to its fifth consecutive New England Intercollegiate title, Coach Bob Muir's natators are already working hard in preparation for a seven-, and possibly an eight-meet schedule, and the defense of the New England crown in March.

Only diver Al Hydeman is absent from last year's array, and his place should be adequately filled by Cliff Stowers. The added experience and practice make this winter's team fully as strong as the '47-'48 outfit and definitely a power in swimming circles.

Dartmouth Loaded
Whether the Purple will again be undefeated, however, is another matter. Dartmouth, topped by Williams, 48-27, last year, is considerably more powerful, being bolstered by the beat of a freshman team which twice beat the varsity in intra-squad meets. Army is the second strongest Eph opponent, also aided by a good Plebe team. Springfield, as always, will have a good team. Although there are only seven meets, plus the New England's, on the schedule now, there will no doubt be added an eighth team.

Co-Captains Ray Baldwin and Hank Wineman lead the Purple team. Baldwin swims the 100, 220, and freestyle relay; Wineman, the 150 backstroke and medley relay. The 50, 100, and freestyle relay are capably handled by Chick Brashears, Moe Murray, and Bill Rueckert, with assistance from George Coale and Jim Burbank.

Distances Strong
Bob Reid and Sandy Lambert, last year's captain, give plenty of strength to the distances, the 220 and the 440. Wineman and Ted Lamot give speed to the backstroke. Swede Svenson, John Snyder, last year's freshman breast-stroker, and Dick Lippincott, the frosh captain, swim this event, and Stowers, seconded by Bill

Cagers Preparing For Trinity Game

Nine Returning Players Form Squad Nucleus

With the opener against Trinity four weeks away, formal practice for the varsity basketball team started on Monday. Chances of bettering last winter's six won and nine lost record appear extremely bright with a nucleus of nine returning lettermen as well as a number of promising candidates from last year's unbeaten freshman club.

After the initial contest with Trinity at Williamstown, a formidable schedule faces Coach Dale Burnett's squad, including home games with Fordham and Rutgers and road meetings with Army and Yale, all considered first rate in basketball circles. Other teams that the cagers will play are Union, Hofstra, St. Michael's, Mass. Univ. and the traditional home matches with Amherst and Wesleyan.

Wealth Of Material
Among those who saw service on the squad of a year ago are highscoring Captain Jack Mason, set shot artist George Dittmar, who averaged fifteen points a game last season, Jerry Page, Bud Cool, Jack Wideman, Bill Kaufman, Bob Johnston, Howie Taylor, Frank Baldwin, Ralph Mason and George Bush. They made up the greater part of a team that performed well on the home court, ed to give the lettermen a fight which floundered on the road, beating only Amherst though Rutgers and Fordham were given a good battle.

Undoubtedly many of last year's topnotch yearlings can be expected to win five out of seven, but for their positions. Some of the more outstanding prospects are Bob Larson, Dave Jackson, Brad Pusey, Jack Fraser, Bill St. Clair, Chuck Pusey, Harry Sheehy, Fritz Zeller, Shay Lynch, Dewey Fagerburg and Chuck Hoffer. Their cub team ran through seven opponents with little trouble.

Legion Post Places Memorial In Gym

Commemorates Athletes In Two World Wars

On Thursday, November 11, Armistice Day, the Williamstown Post of the American Legion erected a memorial of flowers in the Lasell Gymnasium trophy room, commemorating those Williams athletes who served in the two world wars.

The flowers were placed under the picture of Charles F. Seeley, one of the first commanders of the Williamstown American Legion post, who at one time, was the oldest post commander in the state of Massachusetts. "Doc" Seeley was Physical Director at Lehigh University, from where he was called to Williams in 1893. He served as Director of Gymnasium until appointed Instructor in 1922. In 1924 he was made Assistant Professor of Physical Education, and up to the time he retired, in 1938, he had served as track coach for forty years.

The alumni had the portrait of Mr. Seeley done by Dwight C. Shepler '29, an artist who has gained national recognition, particularly for his naval pictures.

over for the touchdown on the next play, and Mierzejewski automatically booted the extra point.

Jeffs Bounce Back
The Jeffs came back to score late in the period, as Hammond tossed two completions to Scholtz for first downs on the 25 and 8. The Williams line then dug in and held for four downs, but on the last one the whistle blew for a holding violation, and with a first down on the 2, Simon bucked over. Stisser's hurried placement was wide.

Lloyd Jordan's eleven pushed over the game-winning score in the third quarter after Williams blocked a Hammond punt at mid-field and recovered the ball, but lost it after the whistle blew. Starting on the Eph 42, the home team went over in eight running plays, with Simon again plunging over from the 1 and Rosendale converting.

Duffield filled the air with punts and passes for the rest of the game, but twice had aials intercepted in the final minutes, and Hammond's punting kept the Eph-See FOOTBALL, Page 4

Penalty Kicks Give Jeffs Two Goals

The Jeff booters downed a hard fighting Williams team 2-0 at Amherst last Saturday morning. Action in this disappointing game ranged back and forth through the mud with both teams dominating the play periodically without exhibiting any scoring punch. The two Amherst goals came on penalty kicks in the first half.

Intermittent rain all through the game spoiled much of the play and made conditions on the field almost impossible. Time and again the teams would bring the ball into scoring position only to lose it by slipping and sliding in the mud in front of the goals. In spite of this, Captain Frank Donnelly, playing his last game for Williams, turned in his usual outstanding performance. He was supported by fine play from halfbacks Jim Crosby and John Bowen, along with fullback Rog Dickenson.

Stoltzbus Scores
The first period saw the play of the game. Both teams were aggressive in their attacks, which were sparked by the hard driving halfback lines. Midway through this period, with Amherst pressing the Williams goal, a foul was called on one of the Eph defense men giving Amherst a penalty kick. The kick was successfully made by center forward Don Stoltzbus, who was on last years All American team.

The second quarter was dominated by Williams. The Purple line kept possession of the ball the majority of the time but could not seem to penetrate the Jeff defense. Amherst came within inches of scoring twice in this period on fast breaking plays that drew the Williams goal out of position. The first try bounced off the goal post but on the second a goal was only averted by Rog Dickenson who got in front of the ball. In doing so, however, he gave Amherst their second penalty kick. Stoltzbus again completed the kick to make the score 2-0.

Play in the third quarter was evenly contested. Again it was the halfback lines that dominated the play. By this time the ball had become wet and soggy. Consequently, the team play was ragged and few shots were taken at either goal.

The last period saw the tempo of the game pick up a determined Williams team made an all out effort to score. The Jeffs were outfought throughout this quarter, but their defense was able to withstand the onslaught.

CAREERS AT GENERAL ELECTRIC

General Electric is not one business, but an organization of many businesses, offering opportunities in virtually all the professions. Here three G-E men brief the career possibilities for the technical graduate, the mechanical engineer, and the chemical engineer.

TECHNICAL SPECIALISTS: MEET YOUR HOST

M. M. Boring (Colorado), manager of the Technical Personnel Division: It's my job to contact young men who are interested in technical careers and start them through our training programs. This year we have hired more electrical, mechanical and chemical engineers, more chemists and physicists, than ever before.

MECHANICAL ENGINEER

H. P. Kuehni, of the General Engineering and Consulting Laboratory: Much of my work has to do with such hurry-up calculating machines as the differential analyzer. For the engineer with a bent toward mathematics, such machines offer exciting possibilities in problems whose complexities have heretofore discouraged study.

CHEMICAL ENGINEER

Gil Bahn (Columbia), graduate of the G-E Advanced Scientific Program: A graduate of this program wonders which of the company's diverse fields offers the greatest opportunity. My choice was plastics, particularly the manufacture of synthetic phenol, and I'm convinced it's one of the most fascinating jobs I could find.

There is good possibility that a night torch-skiing exhibitions similar to the "winter evenings" of prewar Winter carnivals, can be presented. In addition, the Cap & Bells production of "Julius Caesar" is scheduled for that Saturday night, and in Lasell Gymnasium the basketball team will take on Hofstra College that evening. President Baxter Appointed To Poll Analysis Committee

Research Council Plans Investigation

Committee To Examine Cause Of Poll Error

President James Phinney Baxter III has recently been appointed one of the seven men composing the Committee on Analysis of Pre-election polls and forecasts by the Social Science Research Council. This committee plans to find out the why's and wherefore's of the presidential poll's errors. The three largest polling agencies have opened their books to inspection by the group. It will study both the methods and records used by these agencies.

Purpose Of Investigation

The president of the research council, Dr. Pendleton Herring, said that the benefit of this examination would be for the public, the industries, and large retail organizations which to a great degree base their shaping of manufacturing and sales policies on these polls. The committee will try to find out why the polls went so far wrong, and if there is any danger of a similar error in other public opinion fields which would more directly concern the status of these concerns in their various positions.

Dr. Herring also named: Dr. Samuel Wilks, director of the section of mathematical research at Princeton University; Dr. Carl Hovland, chairman of the psychology department, Yale University; Dr. Isador Lubin, chairman of the Committee on Statistical Standards of the American Statistical Association; Dr. Frank Stanton, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System; Frederick Stephan, professor of social statistics at Princeton; and Dr. Samuel Stouffer, professor of sociology at Harvard.

ADA Reviews Truman Win

Foreign Policy Changes Discussed By Group

Possible effects of the Democratic victory in the recent national election on government domestic and foreign policy were considered by the members of the Williamstown chapter of Americans for Democratic Action last Wednesday evening, November 17.

According to reports made by various members of the group, the results showed a clear victory of the "liberal" Democratic party over the "reactionary" Republican party. Assistant Professor of Economics Chandler Morse interpreted the victory as a "clear mandate for the Democratic domestic policy" which he and Dean Robert R. Brooks later defined as including: repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, increased social security legislation, higher minimum wage guarantees, an increased housing program, a public health law, and more public power projects similar to TVA.

A basic disagreement over foreign policy developed between Prof. Morse and Mr. Bernard Tauter, an author residing in Bennington. Morse contended that the government must try to decrease "international tension" and arms expenditure in order to follow the domestic policy mandate. Mr. Tauter held that we should rearm Europe and strengthen ourselves militarily so that we can live up to our "promises based (now) on nothing in real power" and be in a better position to negotiate and compromise with Russia.

The basic dilemma, as both men saw it, was the problem of re-arming sufficiently to be able to bargain effectively without indulging in an arms race.

Where Is Pushball?

Sphere Worth $100

The question "Where is the push-ball?" remains unanswered. Attempts to identify the three anonymous sophomores shown pushing the ball toward North Adams in an exclusive Record photograph printed two weeks ago have been completely unsuccessful, despite the prevalence and variety of rumors on the campus.

When the Record went to press, no reward for the return of the mysteriously borrowed sphere had been offered, but upperclass spokesmen have evaluated the missing ball at over $100. Rumors persist that the ball will reappear on the campus in the near future under sophomore auspices.

WOC Building Warming Hut

Many Facilities Benefit Sheep Hill Ski Fans

Frosted skiers will be able to thaw out this winter in the warming hut now being erected on Sheep Hill under the auspices of the Williams Outing Club. Roger Potter '49, chairman of the club's Sheep Hill Committee has announced. The upper slope and a new 850 foot section of the ski tow will also be available for use.

Five picture windows will be included in the 19 by 28 foot warming house. Three of them will look up the hill from the hut's position south of the tow house, while the other two will face the tow. An oil heater, toilet facilities, and a refreshment booth will be located in the building.

Four Hundred Hours

Work on the tow and the upper slope has been progressing at a rapid rate, said Potter; more than four hundred hours have been put in by student volunteers in clearing the upper slope for use this winter. With this addition of the upper portion of the tow, a 2000 foot lift up the hill will be available. Declared Potter: "The lower part of the hill could be used tomorrow if it snowed tonight, the upper tow should be ready by Thanksgiving." Both tow houses See WOC, Page 2

Navy Department Plans Interviews

Math Majors Offered Career Opportunities

Representatives of the Navy's Research and Development Program will be at Williams Monday, Nov. 29 to interview junior and senior science and mathematics majors interested in obtaining positions with the Navy Department. Placement Director William O. Wyckoff disclosed recently.

Seniors are required to pass an entrance examination before admission to the program, while for members of the junior class the Navy has positions open for summer employment in its Research and Development Laboratories. The latter may be obtained without entrance examinations. Upperclassmen interested will meet the Navy's representatives at 4 p.m. in room 16 of the Thompson Chemistry Lab on Nov. 29.

Vocational Guidance

Dean Paul S. Andrews of the Syracuse University Law School is scheduled to give the first talk in the '48-'49 Vocational Guidance series on Thursday, Dec. 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the Chi Psi Lodge. Dean Andrews will welcome all undergraduates interested in the "advantages and disadvantages of a law career."

1949 Gul To Feature Sports, Informal Shots

"Williams Through the Camera Eye" will be the theme of the 1949 Gul. Editor-in-Chief Sidney Stewart '50 announced that the newest edition of the College Yearbook will follow its predecessor by putting its main emphasis on photographs.

Pictures make a book interesting and give it life, explained Stewart. Undergraduates in the past have unanimously favored a yearbook which features informal shots of events and faces around campus. For this reason the Gul is spending one third more on photoengravings this year than last.

Fresh Sports

Gul photographers have been working in Williamstown all fall, covering sports events and social affairs. For the first time in its history the Gul will carry pictures of all the freshman athletic teams. A special section will be devoted to the activities of the AROTC. An attempt is being made to put out a book of the greatest possible interest to all classes.

An arrangement has recently been made with Life magazine to include the full color spread on Williams in the Gul. The article with pictures taken by LIFE photographer Ralph Crane during a three week visit to Williams last winter, is scheduled to run for eight and one half pages in the January 24 issue. It will make the 1949 Gul unique in the publication's history, and will greatly increase its interest to undergraduates, their families, and Alumni.

Large Sales Expected

Advertising Manager George Razook '50 is planning to make the advertising section more colorful by running pictures of the local institutions which buy space in the book, and which Williams men will remember as part of their college life.

An unexpected demand last year resulted in a shortage of copies, and nearly fifty mail orders remained unfilled. Business manager Schuyler Brooks '50 expects that the new features will bring an even greater demand. Although extra copies have been ordered, all who want Guls for themselves, their parents, or friends, are urged to send their orders to circulation manager John Griggs at the Kappa Alpha House as soon as possible.

"Time" Magazine Runs Story On Football-Playing Conways

Williams' Tim, Jim Two Of Seven Collegians In Gridiron Family

Although most of the sports fans on the Williams campus have read the article in last week's Time magazine on that gridiron family, the Conways, the true Purple rooter, will want to know more about the two sons of Dad Conway who chose to come to Williams for their education.

Football comes naturally to the Conway boys. In his day Dad Conway was a pretty hot football player in his own right. Although he weighed only about 150 pounds, he was a star back on a local amateur team. To this day he still retains an active interest in local athletics in Cleveland, now backing the Class-F league for sandlot baseball players.

Like many other boys throughout the land, the Conways grew up with footballs and baseballs in their hands. In the big backyard

Ten Ministers Lead Embassy Bull Sessions

God And Church, Faith Are Topics Discussed In House Gatherings

The relation of God to the church was the main topic of discussion during the Williams Christian Association's annual Embassy according to the ten ministers and theological students who came to Williams Monday and Tuesday to lead informal bull sessions on religious matters in the various social units.

Reverend A. Grant Noble, college chaplain, explained that while many men who attended the discussions found that they had a faith in God, they failed to see any meaning or value to a real, vital Christianity in a formal church service and asked why churches were necessary.

Several of the clergymen reported that undergraduates had asked questions such as, "I don't have a faith; I feel that I need one, but how do I go about getting it?" The relation of Christ to modern Christianity, other than as a great man and a moral teacher, was also brought up often during the course of the discussions.

Morals

Many of those at the bull sessions asked if there was any absolute standard in morality and ethics or whether these concepts were changing and developing as civilizations progressed.

Scientific attacks on various biblical doctrines led many students to question the validity of the Bible on all matters, the ministers reported.

Due to the interest expressed by many students, plans are now underway to carry the work of the Embassy on by a series of informal discussion groups which will meet once a week between Thanksgiving and Christmas. The discussions will probably be led by Professor John A. Hutchinson, Chaplain Noble, Reverend Sydney W. Goldsmith, Assistant at St. John's Church in Williamstown, and Rev. George Bielby, Pastor of the First Congregational Church, in Williamstown.

Yacht Club Acquires Two New Dinghies

Commodore Wally Davis announced the donation of two penguin class dinghies to the Williams Yacht Club at a club meeting Tuesday night. The dinghies which formerly belonged to a Boston yacht club will be put into service on Lake Pontussac near Pittsfield next spring. Davis expressed the hope that the club would be able to acquire two more so that it could hold regattas next year.

SAM Polls Stress English

Composition Needed For Success In Business

According to business men who were polled by the Society for the Advancement of Management the most essential college course for students who intend to enter business is English composition.

Although it was agreed that a broad cultural education is needed, business men suggested that more education concerning business be added to the present college curricula.

Two Polls Taken

Over a period of two years the Society has taken two polls of 5,000 heads of business concerns and executives, and at the same time has contacted 500 professors, deans, and instructors on the various aspects of business education. The conclusion was that students who planned to go into business after graduation neglect those qualities necessary for success in the field of business management.

Business men listed twenty-three subjects which they felt would give students well-rounded preparation for commercial careers. Among those offered at Williams are the following listed in order of importance: English composition, literature, and public speaking; economics, general accounting, types of industrial and business organization, labor relations, government, psychology, general chemistry, physics, algebra, geometry, and calculus.

Schuman Lecture Scheduled Monday

Fed Advisor Tabbed For Federalism Talk

The Williams chapter of the United World Federalists will present Professor Frederick L. Schuman lecturing on "The Case For World Government" Monday evening at 8 in Jesup Hall. Professor Schuman, a member of the National Advisory Board of United World Federalists, has been a close associate with the movement both here at Williams and nationally.

The lecture, beginning with an explanation of the nature of the problem of peace and concluding with a survey of the present day prospects for world federalism, will include discussions on the inadequacy of the United Nations and the League of Nations as world organizations and the similar inadequacy of armaments and alliances in maintaining peace. Professor Schuman will explain the principles of federalism and illustrate them with a discussion of international control of atomic energy. To further clarify federalism several quotations from "Federalists Papers" and from the See SCHUMAN, Page 4

Actors Get Critic's Bow, But No Bow For Steinbeck Mice

by Robert Scott Taylor

The curtain line of the first scene of the last act of Steinbeck's play, currently appearing at the AMT is as follows:

"The poor bastard!"

And that's what the play is about — the boards creak with poor bastards.

But Cap and Bells, given a dull chisel and a ragged chunk of granite, are managing to carve out a pretty nice statue — and they deserve a great deal of credit for it. "Of Mice and Men," an aspirant tragedy, is unfortunately scaled to the level of mice, rabbits, dead puppy-dogs and other expiring canines who "ain't no good no more" (or words to that effect). In addition to the mice, rabbits etc., there are nine men and one woman in the play who the audience, in one way or another, is required to pity.

Now pity is a word worth examination. Webster defines it in part as "a thing to be regretted;" the dictionary-man may be speaking subtly. It's all right to pity crushed mice and puppy-dogs with broken backs, but when man is placed in that category, he is denied too much. He is denied, for example, the possibility of tragedy.

Pity can be like a piece of wet toast: there is food-value there, but if one tries to assimilate it, he is likely to be nauseated.

Credit To Actors

But, as previously stated, it is a good show — partly because of the internal structure of the play (always conscientious, sometimes too clear), and partly because of the actors.

The lead character (Nick Dunne) is a man named George, the guide and frustrated mentor of a semi-moron, Lennie. Nick is extremely good; he plays the part with as much honesty and conviction as Steinbeck permits, and there are only moments when he seems more angry than the immediate situation demands. Moments of this sort generally manifest themselves in the bunkhouse, where there reigns perpetually an intense, dramatic irritability with which Steinbeck habitually endows his characters. It might be suggested that such smoldering peevishness is the natural result of the pity — or perhaps the See AMT, Page 4

Science Club Hears Dr. Emslie Lecture

At a meeting of the Science Club last Tuesday afternoon Doctor A. J. Emslie spoke on Micro-Wave Optics. This was the second lecture delivered to the Club this season. The first was given by Professor S. A. Mathews who talked on Thyroid Glands in Fish. At the next meeting of the Club on Tuesday Dec. 14, Professor Charles Compton will speak on the Chemistry of Color.

Doctor Ralph Winch is President of the Science Club and Professors Miser and Aspinwall are Secretary and Treasurer, respectively. Membership in the club is open to both students and faculty.

This Spring the Science Club will send representatives to the Connecticut Valley Student Scientific Conference. Those interested in attending should contact Professor Foote.

NUMBER 39

Amherst, Williams and Referees

Last Saturday afternoon, the young men from Lord Jeffery's Young Men's Seminary, with the unble assistance of three guys named Joe, proceeded to beat Williams in the Traditional Grid-iron Rivalry. Now we are not pulling a "sour grapes" routine because we were beaten, but merely wish to start this narrative with an example. If the Traditional Rivalry is to proceed along fairly amicable lines, we would suggest that the Little Three acquire referees which will leave the outcome strictly to the members of the various teams, coincidental with the strict interpretation of the rules.

Basketball between Williams and Amherst last winter degenerated at times to the caliber of an intramural game because of the flagrant neglect or incompetence of the Officials. The number of cross-body blocks, flying tackles, and stray-elbows-in-the-groin which were overlooked is inconceivable. This is no condemnation of the bucketeers. When a referee lets a game get out of hand, any facsimile to a basketball game is strictly coincidental. In reality, it is self-defense.

In baseball, the same thing has been the case. There has been an atrocity by the name of Winters, supposedly umpiring Williams-Amherst baseball games for the last three years, who doesn't know a foul-ball from third base. Why, must we be so afflicted?

The reason for this harangue is fairly simple. Both schools have had their share of official thievery cost them ballgames. There have been few games in any sport between the two colleges in the past few years where the cry, "Kill the ump," hasn't arisen. Obviously, this is not the best condition for collegiate competition. Neither school is consequently willing to admit defeat because there has often been, and rightly so, some extraneous clobberhead which can be blamed for calling or not calling the right rule at precisely the wrong time. This is obviously most undesirable.

We therefore propose the following solution. Pres. Baxter has long been bemoaning the fact that various colleges have attempted to rob him of the faculty. We now suggest that Williams and Amherst proceed to rob somebody else—their umpires and referees. It appears to be a practical solution.

Therefore, this week-end, when the mass exodus takes place for Harvard, Princeton, and other equally ridiculous places, one could conceivably arise from it. All the Monday morning quarter-backs, can and should, make a complete report to the Record on just who were the good referees. Be sure and get the names and addresses, and we'll attempt to foster a steal-the-umpire-week.

A Reply

In the last issue, an enterprising Associate Editor crowded up this column so that the Editor couldn't get a word in edgewise. Undoubtedly, it was a welcome change, however, a certain epistle was in that issue, theoretically written by the Executive Committee of the SAC, necessitates a reply from this corner.

In discussing the UC budget, we thought a conclusion would be easily understood by an impartial observer, but apparently, it is necessary to be specific, so here goes.

Point One of the author's letter says, the SAC approves the UC, the UC approves the SAC, and vice-versa. From the writer's letter, it appears that no-one is the final authority. Be that as it may, we assume that the UC is the final authority. It is possible to determine that from the writer's letter although he accused us of not knowing the student government. Or is it possible they haven't got a final sanction? This merely in passing.

The point in issue, however, is covered in the writer's second point. He states that in the original UC budget, $200 was included to cover the NSA. When the NSA was discontinued, naturally (?), the $200 reverted to the UC because it belonged to them in the first place. Superficially this is a logical deduction. However, fundamentally, it isn't.

When the UC budget was drawn, it was precluded that $200 would go to the NSA. So, theoretically, of their $480 budget, the UC was to actually receive $280 for UC functions. Therefore, it does not really seem logical that the UC budget should be boosted because they saw fit to disband a certain organization. This would appear to have shades of Boss Tweed.

The important point, however, is the plain and simple fact that the UC tax supposedly includes twenty cents for the NSA, which is now defunct financially as far as the UC is concerned. We merely wonder how many other twenty-cents are being sidetracked or over-looked. And just how much the UC tax might actually be reduced.

Our letter-writer might consider us ignorant. We merely relied on the intelligence of our readers to imply the specifics of the conclusion we pointed out a week ago. We hope there is no doubt now.

We Applaud:

Coach Len Watters: for the just-closed football season. With three wins we're batting 375, making us 375% better than last year, in the stiff field of competition which prevailed throughout the year. The Tufts game for example shows what can be done when things are going right. For making them go right we are mighty glad that you're with us. Instead of despair or disgust the Williams under-grad has pride and hope—proud that we have Len Watters as coach and hope for the coming seasons when Williams through your efforts will be where it belongs in the football world.

The Williams Outing Club: for the coming winter carnival. Gauging by the success of the one held last winter and the predictions of the officiating men of the club, this year's winter frolic should be a great addition to the social life of cut-off-from-civilization Williams men. The friendliest competition in all its phases seems to be found at such winter affairs. The skiing is individual yet team-

WOC PLATTERS

Something new has been added with regard to this week's column. Instead of reviewing all records released by the more popular companies, we're going to pass along some information on recent discs under lesser-known labels. In general, we were disappointed by these recordings by some of our favorites.

KING COLE TRIO

Pitchin' Up A Boogie

I'm Lost

Don't be deceived by our rating here since a "B" for the King Cole Trio is not sensational. PITCHIN' moves at a moderate tempo and includes some fine piano-guitar harmony by Nat and probably Oscar Moore. But it also includes a pathetic vocal chorus by the group as well as an average Cole vocal. The reverse presents Nat singing the way he should, making full use of his distinctive style. Although the instrumental work isn't outstanding, Nat deserves credit for his singing. (Excelsior 2966)

CHARLIE BARNET

Cherokee

The New Redskin Rhumba

Hats off to an improved Barnet crew! Although there is still room for improvement, we believe this band is the finest group Charlie has ever assembled. Ray Noble's CHEROKEE receives the usual Barnet treatment highlighted by Charlie's own tenor. Most encouraging sign here is the close harmony of the sax section as contrasted with the brass which is shallow in spots. REDSKIN, a take-off on Charlie's theme, is another of his attempts to sound like the Duke; and, we might add, this is a good attempt. The arrangement is most worthy of praise since it deviates from the original theme to feature more band work. Charlie has his work cut out, but this disc is a step in the right direction. (Cardinal 25001)

BENNY GOODMAN

Shirley Steps Out

The World Is Waiting For The Sunrise

We had to listen to a disc waxed by a well-known company, Capitol in this case, before hearing some great instrumental work. Needless to say, Benny is his usual brilliant self here and is backed by a fine sextet. True, on SHIRLEY his clary is not inspired, which combines with some mediocre guitar work to offset Red Norvo's vibes, but SUNRISE is indeed an "A" record. Mel Powell and Norvo as well as Benny himself collaborate to produce some thrilling moments. (Capitol 15069)

CHUBBY JACKSON

L'Ana

The Happy Monster

These two sides are particularly disappointing as we expected far greater things from Chubby's band. L'ANA is spoiled by dull tenor, guitar, and trumpet work following an equally bad opening bop vocal. The few bright spots include a fair piano chorus and an interesting unison riff. MONSTER also suffers from poor solos which are passed around after an initial melody chorus set to a rhumba tempo with a bop twist. Once again we appreciated the unison work more than individual performances. Also—there wasn't enough of Chubby. (H-G-M 10228)

SID CATLETT

Just You, Just Me

Henderson Romp

As in the case with other records above, this disc is another disappointment considering the fine musicians heard here. JUST besides being played too slow, is not aided by Joe Guy's so-so trumpet or Al Casey's uninspired guitar which combine to overshadow Big Sid's usual terrific drumming. The reverse features a piano-guitar riff ending by composer Horace Henderson and Al Casey along with Illinois Jacquet's unusually subdued tenor and John Simmons' solid bass. Still we find little to really rave about. There are exceptions, but as a whole the band sounds as if they had been assembled for the recording session about five minutes before they started waxing these sides. As a result they do not do justice to the fine musicians who participated here. Perhaps Sid will redeem himself in the near future (Capitol 15177)

Announcement of a second Holyoke outing this weekend at the Harris cabin on Mt. Greylock has been made by WOC President James Dorland '50. Tentative plans call for a steak fry, square dancing, and singing during the affair.

Time . . .

in 1946 when he changed his major from engineering to economics. In prep school he had played on the football, hockey, and baseball teams.

During the war Tim served as an ensign in the Navy Air Corps and at the same time played on the undefeated St. Mary's Pre-flight team in Oklahoma. At Williams Tim alternated at center with Gene Detmer, backing the line on defense while Gene handled the ball on the offense.

According to the men on the team and the fans, Tim's greatest game was the hardfought 6-0 Wesleyan victory in 1946. He was a tower of strength on the defense that day, making about 70 per cent of the tackles. At present Tim has just finished a course in an insurance school in New Haven,

Jim Conway

In 1947 the second of the Conways—Jim—came to Williams. Following the Conway tradition, Jim had been a star center on the University team. Like his brother Tim, he had been a strong man behind the line. In his senior year Jim was accorded the school's most valuable player award.

At Williams Jim played in the backfield his freshman year, but this year he switched back to his first love, the line. Right now the efforts of the Williams Conways, Tim and Jim, are directed at influencing their brother Jerry to come to Billville. Jerry is this year's star back of the University team. So far Jerry seems headed for Yale, where his brother Bill captained this year's squad. But loyal Ephmen are counting on Tim and Jim to bring their younger brother to the Williams campus and into Coach Len Watters' fold.

like in spirit; the fraternities expend their energies in building snow statues. Everybody's too cold to do much besides sit and be happy. And thanks too for the poll on what the students want in the way of entertainment. That's the smartest play this year concerning houseparties.

The Thompson Concert Committee: for the admirable work its members have done. Both in the line of getting the students interested and in getting good artists signed for appearance. There have been many opinions aired about the usefulness of this organization to the well-being and common weal of Williams but the efforts of this year's club has left little room for disparagement. For example the number of season tickets sold this year is 100% over that of last year. Of course there is a great deal of attendance from buyers of individual tickets, but these too have advanced proportionately. That the artists are better is self-evident, we wish you continued success.

Nine Lettermen To Strengthen Squash Squad

Season's Outlook Good Unbeaten Freshmen Compete For Varsity

With nine lettermen returning from last year's well balanced team, plus the presence of several outstanding players from last winter's undefeated freshman squad, the outlook for Coach Clarence Chaffee's varsity squash aggregation is extremely bright. Including a difficult schedule of nine matches and the Intercollegiate Championships, the Purple opens with an exhibition match against McGill University at Montreal on December 11.

Following the McGill trip, the racquetmen start their regular slate against MIT in Boston on December 17, then play what are most likely to be their three toughest opponents in Harvard, Princeton, and Yale, none of whom have ever been beaten by Williams. Other clubs which Coach Chaffee's men, Little Three champs for the past two years, will face before travelling to Princeton March 4-8 for the Intercollegiate are Wesleyan, Trinity, Army, Dartmouth, and Amherst.

Donnelly Captains Squad of last season's returning lettermen, all are not certain of making this year's nine-man outfit. Those who hold the first nine slots at this time include Captain

Bowling Tournament Underway Tuesday

Eleven five-man bowling teams, including a faculty aggregation headed by Landon G. Rockwell, will launch Tuesday night the first in a series of bowling matches to be held each week throughout the remainder of the fall and spring terms. Using ten pins, a cup is to be awarded the kegler team totaling the most in the win column at the end of the tournament.

Those already represented are: Phil Gam, Theta Delta, Phi U, Delta Phi, DKE, Chi Psi, Beta, DU, Phi Sig, Garfield Club and the faculty. Other houses wishing to be represented contact Jerry Reed at the Bowlitorium or Joel Freedman, 8 Fayerweather. "Act now or it will be too late," Freedman urged.

Frank Donnelly, George Kneass, George Wright, Jerry Dresser, Bill Mikell, Stu Robinson, Randy Thomas and two members of the '51 team, George Muller and Rich Allen, runner up to Wright for the college title last winter. Among those trying to break into first string positions are lettermen Bill Riegel and Andy Goodrich along with Bud Treman, another yearling standout of a year ago.

Other factors pointing toward a stronger team are the Little Three crowns captured by the junior varsity and the freshman squads last season, and the 9-0 win over Yale posted by the 1951 team. Allen and Muller should definitely strengthen the first five positions on the varsity.

by Bill Barney

The officiating in the Williams-Amherst football clash last Saturday stunk! I had to see the movies to back up what I thought I saw on that gridiron, but, unfortunately, my eyesight was pretty accurate. In one instance, it took the "officials" several minutes to determine the legality of an obvious clipping penalty. (Most of the fans were only too willing to straighten them out); in another case, and one of the most flagrant, one man fell on the ball, the whistle blew, and while the unsuspecting fellow turned to get up, an opponent jumped on the pigskin—result—the opposition got the ball after the signal had been given which absolutely made the ball dead. Still another time, one of our ends snared a pass in the Jeff end-zone during the first half only to have the ball brought out just short of the goal line—and so it goes, in fact anything seemed to go, but why continue?—My blood pressure can't take it, they obviously didn't know from deep center field. Let's get down to the crux of this distasteful situation.

When anything out of order occurs in the keen Little Three rivalry, it's only natural to place the blame on the other fellow. However, this monumental exhibition of "misofficiation" cannot justifiably be attributed to either college, and there are no grounds for a direct gripe at Amherst. Rather it should be slung at both colleges for failing to secure the very best officials for this all-important tussle. This has happened before in other sports as well, it may happen again, but if it does, I'll feel most certainly will skyrocket to the boiling point and what has been a beloved and deep-seated tradition will suddenly evaporate.

Medical Examinations

At Williams College Physical examinations are given when a freshman enters and annually if he is on the football team. This is fine, but it so happens there are fifteen (15) other sports on this campus, some of which require as much if not more physical strain than football. At Amherst, a man cannot receive athletic equipment until he has been given a physical, and this goes for every season.

One member of this year's eleven had acquired a bad kidney condition, this turned up in the physical, but what would have happened of this guy had been on the wrestling squad? Chances are it would have gone unnoticed and serious consequences might have resulted.

How many men are now participating in sports who are risking their health? If there is just one, it's one too many! Williams is behind the times in this respect, and it's time to put things on the right keel. Let's give the athlete every possible chance by being SURE he's fit to play!

Athletic Smoker

It seems to me that sense of unity in sports is much needed around here. Official recognition for an athlete's efforts is a positive move toward achieving this. Last year two such smokers were attempted but missed fire due to poor planning; that is, all the coaches talked, covering a long period of time, and when the guest speaker's turn came, the audience was unconditioned, and the whole thing dragged. Nonetheless, this should only serve to make the coaches, Purple Key, and Athletic Department devise a better setup.

Other colleges do, why shouldn't we, or don't our teams feel the need for this sort of compensation? It would be my guess that they do.

Ski Captain

Three Meets For Ski Team

Paced By Capt. Finlay Al Trudell To Coach

Pete Finlay '49, varsity skiing captain, announced recently that the Ski team has a definite three meet schedule with several tentative schedules on the fire. The '48-'49 winter season marks the first for which the Ephs have had a special ski coach. Al Trudell has taken over the job temporarily held last year by Landon G. Rockwell.

The season opens with two away meets with Rutland Junior College and St. Lawrence on Jan. 15 and Feb. 3 respectively. The Williams Winter Carnival on Feb. 17 will provide the climax of the season, the B division of the Eastern section of I.S.U. Tentatively set for that date.

Three Graduate

Losing last year's captain, Dick Brown, an all around standout, Gordon Volkman, cross country star, and downhill expert Dick Merryman by graduation, five members of last year's squad, paced by captain Finlay, compose the nucleus of this year's team. These are jumpers Hank Strong and John Brinckerhoff, and slalom and downhill veterans Casey Prime and Dunc Campbell. Finlay disclosed the freshmen material to be an unknown quantity, but comprising "some good material we hope to develop."

Eph Grapplers Begin Practice For '49 Tilts

Vets, Frosh, Strengthen Mermen For Defense Of N.E. Championship

With practice starting Monday, the purple wrestling team launches its seven-meet 1949 season. The schedule, Coach Bulluck revealed last week, includes such potential teams as Hofstra, Brown, and Coast Guard. The latter two were not included in last year's championship season and promise tough competition for the Ephs this winter.

Prospects are good for the Ephs however, as all but three of last year's team remain. To add, there is additional talent from last season's undefeated New England Championship freshman team.

Opener with Tufts

On January 8, the grapplers face Tufts in a home opener, with another home meet with Brown the following week-end. As yet, little can be said on the strength of the opponents other than comparisons based on last year's records.

The Coast Guard encounter, scheduled at home February 12, should prove the matmen's toughest obstacle. Their team, picked favorite for the New England, was edged into second place by the Williams-men last year. On February 19 and 26, Hofstra and Wesleyan respectively play host to the Ephs—both seeking to avenge decisive defeats in 1948.

The Amherst match March 5 rounds out the dual meet program. On the same day last winter the Jeffs handed our house-party-ridden squad its only defeat by a one-point margin, 14-13.

The New England this year are scheduled at Springfield March 11 and 12. This week-end will see Williams defending its title against MIT, Springfield, Tufts, Coast Guard, Wesleyan, and Amherst.

Eight Lettermen

Two New England champions, Captain Paul Cook, 128 lbs., and Bill Leitzinger at 145 lbs., form the backbone of a veteran squad. With all but three of last year's team remaining, Lettermen Bill Kelton, John Stillwell, Hank Hall, Harry Neave, Ed Reynolds, and Chuck Turpin are powerful assets to the success of this year's squad.

Pete DeLisser, Scrubby Perry, Paul Shorb, and Green Carleton, all Freshmen N.E. Champions, are expected to be strong contenders for varsity positions.

Jannotta Wins Beer

Picks Eight For Ten

Frank Jannotta '51 won a case of beer at Cal King's, picking eight out of ten contests right in last week's RECORD football poll. Of the twenty-eight entries turned in, Jannotta was the twenty-first, but he was the only contestant to pick eight winners, missing only Brown-Harvard and Ohio State-Illinois. Four contestants picked seven winners on the poll.

self-pity — which motivates the entire drama.

Martin Luthy plays the part of Lennie against tremendous odds. The Lennie-type has been mercilessly — and too easily — satirized, and Luthy gets laughs where there shouldn't be any laughs. If only the spectator could find some reason to like Lennie! But he can't — he can only pity him, and the two are not compatible.

"Curly" and "The Boss" (James Dissel and Richard Chinman) are unqualifiedly disagreeable people whose type would appear more common to "romantic-realists" who write plays than to anybody else. The roles are handled adequately, although Dissel runs the risk of becoming ludicrous when he stalks on stage for about the third time demanding wildly, in an over-course voice, who the son-of-a-bitch is that's hiding his wife.

The most sympathetic person in the cast, almost without question, is "Slim", played with control and understanding by John Lasell. Slim — a little too tired to be bitter — is the only individual in the play who quite knows what he is doing. Lasell conveys admirably this character.

"Curley's Wife" is well portrayed as a little tramp by Caroline Bidwell, but the power of her most dramatic scene (with Lennie in the hay) is unhappily etified. Neither character pays any attention to the other — they soliloquize to opposite walls — and consequently the audience can never feel any sympathetic relation between them. This is an unfortunate interpretation of the scene because it reduces the should-be climax of the murder to emotional insignificance — makes it seem even a bit phony. The murder is accidental, to be sure, but it should somehow mean enough so that it does not get lost.

But this is only a bad moment, and there are other moments that are good — scenes between Slim and George, for example, and Curley's Wife's display of herself, and Llewellyn White's characterization of Crooks, a Negro hunchback — singularly un-African, but who manages, nonetheless, to be genuinely moving.

"Of Mice and Men" may not be "great entertainment" as advertised, but it is extremely well worth seeing. Cap and Bells has begun with a promising performance.

Coach Watters Gives Review Of '48 Season

Names Duffield, Fish Most Improved Men

by Steve Blaschke

With the 1948 football season behind us, the time has come for a looking back and a glance at the future. There is no better man to do this than headcoach Len Watters, whose first college football team did so much toward re-establishing Williams as a small college football power in New England.

We caught the coach just long enough between a review of the Amherst game movies and one of his frequent chicken a la king speaking dates to get him to say that "the 1948 football season, though not satisfactory in the won and lost column, has been encouraging. The men on the squad were excellent to work with, improving tremendously and never quitting in the face of adversity. Their spirit was excellent and they gave 100 percent. I believe large strides have been taken toward better years ahead."

Duffield And Fish

On the question of how small college football compared with good High School ball the coach thought that "there is not a wide difference and that, even though, the players are older and the scouting is more intensive in college ball, the all around offensive and defensive play is much the same." As far as standout competition was concerned he felt that Union fielded the best team while the Wesleyan line stood out as the most opportunistic. Union's great center Ken Whalen was his choice as outstanding line man and he considered Wesleyan's left handed passer Harry Forbes as the best all around back.

While the coach was handing out orchids he said that although all of our ball players improved during the season, improvement was most marked in the case of triplethreat half-back Stu Duffield and end Mitch Fish.

Princeton In '50

"What about next year?" was our almost inevitable next question. "In all probability we'll be abandoning the single wing for the Missouri T, which the freshmen used this year. Perhaps it will be a combination of the Missouri T and the single wing." The coach also felt that six or seven members of Dale Burnett's undefeated freshman team should fit in very well and, of course, that "Soldier Joe" Ferri, who is eligible as a transfer student this year, will be of great help. "He is a fine all-around runner and will give us what we lacked this year—a break away back."

In substantiation of widely spread campus rumors Len Watters announced that we would definitely play ex-Williams coach Charley Caldwell's Princeton club in 1950 and that, if it is within the rules, he would like to have a five week spring football session for those ballplayers not engaged in other spring sports.

"How about your plans for the rest of the year?" "Well, I'm planning to teach some P.T. classes, talk to alumni groups, organize the '49 campaign, review the '48 movies, and coach spring football." With this modest program in mind, Len Watters headed for his next speaking date, hoping perhaps to discover a 200 pound fullback who gets straight A's, has never heard of Yale, Dartmouth or Princeton and would just love to spend the next four years in and around Weston Field.

WCA Directs Charity Drive

Many Groups Benefit From Fund

Volunteer workers will canvas the campus during the week of December 8-13 in a determined effort to make this year's Williams Christian Association Community Chest go over the top. The goal of $7950, set by WCA Committeemen, is approximately the same as the one which last year was undersubscribed by over two thousand dollars.

This year, however, according to a Chest Fund spokesman, hopes are high that "the only charity drive on the Williams campus" will net enough contributions proposed allocations to fifteen benefactors.

$1700 to Boys Club

Local charitable agencies are being given a much larger slice of the proceeds of this year's drive than ever before. The Williamstown Boy's Club will receive the largest share of funds allocated for use in the surrounding area. If the goal of the drive is met, Boys' Club hopes for a new building and improved equipment will be enhanced by $1700.

A lump sum of $815 will go to Williamstown welfare, the beneficiaries being any local charitable institution in need of finances. Of the total, $550 will be given to campus aid. Of this, $350 will help cover WCA operating expenses for the year, and $200 will go to the Community Chest Student Aid Fund. This is a sum used for emergency cases of individual need on the campus which might not be able to wait for administrative channels.

The $300 Disaster Fund is a small nestegg kept in case an unaided and worthwhile charity should proposition the college for a donation later in the year; the money may also be used in the event of a disaster striking this area.

Nine Benefit Nationally

Nine well known national and international charities benefit from the college drive. The largest single item on the Chest Fund budget is the World Student Service Fund. See WCA, Page 4

WMS Offers New Shows To Listeners

Quiz, Drama Highlight Latest Productions

WMS is branching out! In addition to the new program of recorded music which has been making students wake up cheerfully during the past week, the Billville station will soon unveil a musical quiz show and the first of a live drama series.

"Stop the Music" is the inspiration for the musical quiz program, scheduled to start early in December. The first listener who correctly identifies the tune and phones WMS will win a case of beer contributed by Cal King.

Plays Midget

"The Little One," a semi-tragedy with an abrupt surprise ending, will inaugurate the new live drama series at 9:30 p.m. on Dec. 2. Howard Erskine '49, WMS program director, takes the leading part in this initial production, playing the unusual role of a midget married to a woman of average size.

This drama series, successor to the recorded Orson Welles version of Macbeth which has been running for the last three weeks, is to continue on a weekly basis throughout the year. The direction of different players is open to both students and faculty. Though no original plays are on the schedule at present, WMS is seeking plays by student writers that can be adapted for broadcast.

UC Alarmed By Accidents

Council To Be Severe With Next Violators

An urgent plea by Undergraduate Council President Henry Strong '49 for safe and sane driving by Williams students was the most important of the few items considered by the Council members at Monday night's short meeting.

President Strong said that due to the recent wave of automobile accidents of the past several weeks and especially in the light of the serious accident on the Bennington road Saturday night, the UC is going to "clamp down" on improper automobile operation by undergraduates. He said that Williamstown people are upset over the accident situation, and that if student driving is not improved it may lead to anti-auto action by the Trustees.

Strong urged the various social unit representatives to tell members of their houses who are not eligible to drive not to do so. He also requested that all eligible drivers be warned to drive carefully and intelligently, for he said See UC, Page 4

Dog Reprieved By AMT Play

"Big" Dies Many Times Before His Death

One member of the cast of the recent Cap and Bells production, "Of Mice and Men" owes his life to the performance of the Steinbeck Tragedy. "Big", a Springer Spaniel owned by Mrs. Frank Mason, Simonds Road, had been scheduled for death until he was chosen for the part of pet to "Candy", the old ranch hand in the play.

Director David C. Bryant, spotted the twelve year old dog early in September as almost perfect for the play and asked permission to use him. Although Mrs. Mason had planned to kill Big early this fall in order to spare him the hardships of another Williamstown winter, she consented to his "stage career".

According to Mrs. Mason, the dog's inability to use his left rear leg was the result of a knife slash which he received about four years ago from a "malicious" assailant. Ironically, Big was "killed" each night the play was performed. His fourth and final "death" will come before winter sets in.

One-Act Tryouts Completed; Bryant Selects Three Casts

With the memory of last week's dramatic success still fresh in his mind, Adams Memorial Theatre Director David C. Bryant announced the results of the casting tryouts which were held recently to determine the actors and actresses who will participate in a series of three one-act plays to be presented at the AMT on December 17 and 18.

Included in this production will be Clifford Odet's moving drama, "Waiting For Lefty," a realistic story of the problems faced by laboring classes following the depression. Those in the cast are: Charles Jarrett, Richard Verney, Helen Bryne Kelly, George Hopfenbeck, Otto W. Siebert, II, Llewellyn White, Marjiam Rouse, Gerald O'Brien, Jack Anderson, Steve Sondheim, Martin Detmer, Arthur Levitt, Eugene Foley, Dominick Dunne, and Don Sanford.

Frances Chaffee and John Lasell will be featured in "Auto-Da-Fe," another in the long line of Tennessee Williams' successes. This particular play is a psychological thriller involving a typical Williams nagging mother and her immature son.

Lady Augusta Gregory's comical "Spreading The News" is the third selection. The playwright was one of the founders of the Abbey Theatre in Ireland and has gained worldwide fame for her "I let laughter have its way with the little play," attitude toward her plays. Included in the cast are: George Cherry, Rosamund Bell, Jack Walther, George Sumner, Harry McDaniel, Ernie Lehmann, Josephine Miser, Betty Dissell, Charles Hollerith, and Peter Oaks.

Tickets for this production will be placed on sale shortly after the Thanksgiving vacation with season ticketholders being given first preference.

Federalists Go To Convention

Represent Chapters At Minneapolis

Three Williams undergraduates—Dick Goodman, Ted Curtis and Bob Carrington—were delegates to the convention of the United World Federalists in Minneapolis, Nov. 11-14, representing chapters of the organization in New York and Western Massachusetts. The purpose of the convention was to formulate policy and action for the coming year, through the fundamental purpose of the organization remains the same—to establish a world federal government.

While at Minneapolis, Goodman was elected to the National Student Council of the Federalists and also served on the organizing committee of the student convention. Curtis was a member of the nominating committee of the convention, while Carrington was elected chairman of the convention Publicity committee.

National Recognition

"The Williams chapter is now recognized nationally as one of the most active in the country," Carrington said. "So far this year, approximately 125 new members have been signed up by the chapter outside the college, and seventy-five more in Williams."

To gain the two hundred new members for the Federalists this year, the Williams chapter has shown movies and given lectures in a number of nearby schools and half a dozen church and Rotary groups. To date, it has also reached half the campus fraternities in its membership drive. Local chapters have been formed in every one of the schools and groups approached outside the See FEDERALISTS, page 3

College Book Store Marks Centennial

Store Occupied Same Building 95 Years

Raymond Washburne's College Book Store celebrated 100 years of selling books to Williams men at a luncheon given by Miss Marion Dodd of The Hampshire Book Shop in Northampton last week. The exact date of its founding is uncertain, but the business was in operation as a combined book store and drug store when Nathan Franklin Smith, the first owner, returned to Williamstown with his bride in 1848.

The store occupied the same building, which now stands in front of the gym, for 95 years, although it changed location three times. It was first built on the site of the Congregational Church. The business moved across Spring Street to its present building in 1943.

No Change

Students in the good old days had the same troubles that exist today. In 1889 a college publication called The Athenaeum charged Mr. Smith with having a book monopoly. Later owners were labelled "book barons".

The Book Store, God, bless 'em, advertised early in the old Williams Quarterly. The following appeared in 1864:

Prof. Schuman Favors World Federal State

United Government Only Solution To Current International Issues

Speaking before a crowd of 250 in Jesup Hall Monday night, Professor Frederick L. Schuman, Woodrow Wilson Professor of Government, called upon Americans to embrace world federalism or else face eventual destruction. In stressing the need for an international state, Professor Schuman declared that a world federated government is the only peaceful answer to a solution of current world problems. Professor Schuman, who is also a member of the National Advisory Board of United World Federalists, argued "The Case For World Government" with a detailed analysis of present difficulties and a picture of the consequences if we fail to adopt world federalism.

Loss of Sovereignty

To achieve this lofty goal he declared that the only possible method, excluding futile war, would be the voluntary and complete relinquishing of sovereign rights now clung to by various nations, since conquest is obviously no way of settling this question and since man instinctively will require too long a period to bring about the desired results. Professor Schuman forecast that the present atomic arms race would only succeed in hastening the end of civilization, possibly within ten years.

However, he does not regard the situation as hopeless. A limited surrender of sovereignty, he pointed out, has already proved feasible in the federal structure of the United States, the U.S.S.R. and the United States of Mexico. Professor Schuman outlined the principles which he feels necessary in such a world government and included two spheres of law—international and national with international decisions having preference over those of the member nations.

Dual Citizenship

He emphasized that dual citizenship was required as a means by which the world government can reach down to the individual. Referring to collective security as a "myth," Professor Schuman decried the overall adherence to such policy by the United States. At the San Francisco Conference in 1945 he believes we came closest to achieving a world federated government, but any progress made here was nullified a year later by the U.S. — Russo disagreement over atomic power.

Russia and Federalism

In explaining the workings of a "World Government," Professor Schuman solved the problem of punishing aggressors by stating that such aggressors should be punished by an international government, not by sovereign governments. He asserted that our present arms race with Russia can lead only to a disastrous war. Following the conclusion of his lecture which was broadcast by WMS, he answered several questions from the audience. In response to a listener who wished to know if Russia would embrace world federalism, Professor Schuman replied that if this new government were shown to be non-discriminatory, Russia might join the proposed union, but even if she refused, it is possible for a world government to function, for a time at least, without Russia.

Uncle Eph's Worm Farm

by D. Lighto de Moon

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

In regard to D. Lighto de Moon's reference of Wednesday Nov. 17 to the Williams football program, we should like to present a few facts in an effort to point out that this reference was made without consideration of any existing and obvious facts, and without any acquaintance with conditions affecting the make-up of the programs. To simplify matters, we should like to compare the programs of the "big" games, i.e., Amherst-Williams and Wesleyan-Williams.

Mr. de Moon seems to imply that our program contained, among other things, fewer action pictures, more printed matter getting "secondary, if any attention," and that all in all ours was inferior to the Amherst issue. If one cares to examine the two issues, he will discover the following:

1. pages of printed matter	-	Amherst, almost 3	Williams 1.5
2. action pictures	-	Amherst 1	Williams 9
3. pictures other than individuals and coach groups	-	Amherst 6	Williams 10

Only in photographs of individuals and of the visiting team did Amherst outdo us, and for this there are very good reasons. First, the Williams program made several sincere efforts to obtain pictures from Wesleyan for publication. A request was sent to Wesleyan two weeks before publication, but in return we received only a referral to the printers of the Wesleyan program. An urgent request by telegram to the printers was rewarded by neither an answer nor any pictures.

Second, whereas the Amherst program was both financially and physically able to print many fine pictures of individuals (and we admit that this is a highly desirable feature of a football program) we were simply unable to do so. The attendance at Amherst home games was greater than ours, and consequently program sales and income from sales were higher than ours. For the first three Williams home games income from program sales failed even to cover printing costs, and only thanks to the Wesleyan game did income finally cover costs. In addition, the Amherst program had a considerably greater amount of advertising, thus receiving a larger income from this source. The larger amount of money made available to Amherst by greater sales and advertising revenue enabled them to add eight pages (at additional cost) to their program, and also to pay for the cuts made of the individual pictures. Unfortunately we could afford neither the extra space nor cuts, even though every effort will be made to do this next year. Finally Amherst received cuts for one and one pages of pictures from the Williams program, thus saving them an additional expense.

As for the "printed matter," we have reason to believe that it is quite widely read. If this were not so, neither the Athletic Office nor the President's Office would bother to inspect and approve the articles before publication.

Had the author of your article taken the trouble to compare the two programs, he would have discovered that there was no similarity whatsoever even before he reached page three. We sincerely believe that a full-page team picture and an action shot (Williams) are more attractive on pages two and three than a full page of advertisements and a photograph of a gate (Amherst). Far from being "trite", all four covers used by Williams this year were acclaimed almost unanimously as very attractive and well chosen.

Therefore, it seems to us that the reference in your paper was unfair, uncalled for, and unsupported by fact.

In closing, may we make the observation that is an excellent idea to clean up your own backyard before criticizing your neighbors. If you care to examine your issue of Nov. 17, you will find but ONE picture, few articles of genuine interest, and no less than 40% of the four pages made up of ads. The back page is certainly not a masterpiece of arrangement with its 90% of advertising and 10% of left-over printed matter.

After studying the student newspapers of colleges similar to ours, we wonder why some much needed improvement is not introduced into the Record, when there is so much room and need for betterment.

Bill Kleinhandler
Cyrus Mayshark

This letter arrived last week from the Managers of the Football Program, who evidently took a cursory glance at the comments on their publication which appeared in this column.

We like to get letters, especially nice, long ones. It lets us know that someone is reading our column, and that it is not getting "secondary, if any attention," like the printed matter in the football programs.

Wrong Numbers

Bill Kleinhandler and Cy Mayshark start with a few nice, factual, erroneous figures. The Wesleyan program, instead of running 1.5 pages of printed matter, covered pages 4 and 5 with print and a little thing which looks as if it might represent a football. Back in the program somewhere are a couple of half-page sections, slightly dented by objectionable ads, which contain cheers and songs. Cheers and songs are very footballly and collegiate, so maybe we ought to overlook the fact that some of the cheers are obsolete, new ones are missing, and only one of the songs is regularly sung at games.

Of the nine "action" pictures in the Wesleyan program, three showed the team in previous games, the type of shot we suggested. The soccer and cross-country pictures were swell, but we were under the impression that it was a football program.

Bill and Cy credited their full-page montages to the Alumni Review. They were unaware, perhaps, that most of these shots were taken for The Record by photographers on Record assignments, and many of them had previously appeared in this paper. (The Program misspells two names in one caption.)

Nice Try

Bill and Cy deserve a great big pat on the head for trying unsuccessfully to get a single picture of the Wesleyan team or anyone on it. But these foresighted editors must have been aware, earlier than two weeks before the game, that they were going to have to put out a Wesleyan program.

We can't understand why they were "physically" "simply unable" to print individual pictures. Surely the photoengravers in North Adams are as good as the ones in Amherst. Financially, if the editors had made one page of individual cuts, they could have eliminated the cost of setting up a new page of type for every program. With the present football squad, all but one or two of these cuts could have been used next year, and many of them the year after.

Ads — Good or Bad?

Bill and Cy first complain about the lack of ads in their program, and then about their presence in The Record. We think ads are fine in The Record. We even encourage them. The difference might possibly lie in the respective business departments.

As for the covers, we have discovered no one to date who is willing to call any of Lon Keller's garish atrocities either "attractive" or "well-chosen." Any approval has been accompanied by the feeling

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

Your Reviewer of "Of Mice and Men" might like to glance at Kingsley R. Fall's review of the same production which appeared in the Berkshire Evening Eagle on Friday.

I suggest that he carefully note the following of Mr. Fall's remarks:

"... It is one of the finest pieces of dramatic endeavor, professional or amateur, that has ever been given on a Berkshire stage.

"To translate such a message—which, it should be remembered, could almost be called a by-product, for Steinbeck is first, a magnificent story-teller—would tax the resources of the most affluent professional company. That Williams College student actors can bring it to round, full life is an achievement of an extremely high grade. Cap and Bells has to its credit many a worthy production, but none, I think, better than this one."

November 21, 1948

James VanWart

Assistant to the Director, Adams Memorial Theater

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

I feel that the recent Record Review has done a great injustice to the superb Cap and Bells production of John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men." The reviewer, by his comments, has chastized not only those of Cap and Bells who are well qualified to choose those plays produced, but also certain actors who along with the whole cast, gave very professional and moving performances.

Specifically, I disagree with the reviewer on the following issues: First, the review defines pity as "a thing to be regretted." I am not saying that the reviewer may not define pity in any manner he chooses, but I feel that his reasoning from this definition leads to the conclusion that since man is so obviously placed in the same category as crushed mice and dead puppy dogs, that therefore man is to be regretted. I would suggest, there, another definition of pity: "of sympathetic and kindly sorrow excited by the sufferings and misfortunes of another."

Secondly, I feel that it is ridiculous to say that when man is pitted he is consequently denied the possibility of tragedy. Despite modern contentions, that the early Greeks, for example, were trying to excuse, or, possibly, to justify the particular pleasure which some men feel in witnessing the tragedy of others, I do not feel that we can deny that the fundamental impact of this experience is the excitement of the emotions of pity and terror. Pity to me then, is fundamental to the concept of tragedy. The flaw in this argument is, that in this play we take a group with whom it is sometimes difficult to identify ourselves to the required degree, but I would suggest that there is enough similarity for us in the fate of those who see their dreams shattered to bits, to make the identification possible.

I rather question the reviewers capacity to judge Steinbeck's penetrating analysis of characters and their presentations on the stage. November 21, 1948
Wentworth Williams, Jr. '50

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

I would like to add my hearty applause to the few scattered hand-clappings for Bob Taylor's review of "Of Mice and Men." Most criticism of the review revolves about a single point—that he takes it upon himself to criticize an accepted and established play and subordinate an appraisal of the acting and the interpretation by the director until the end of his review.

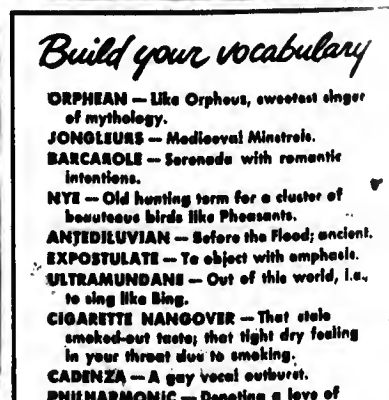

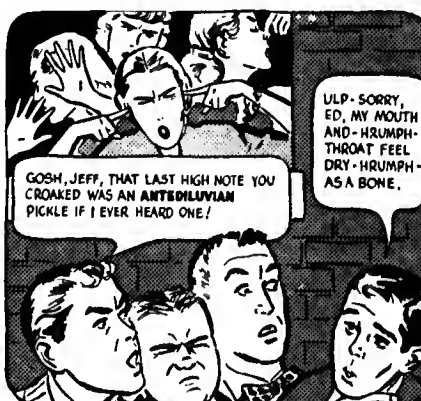

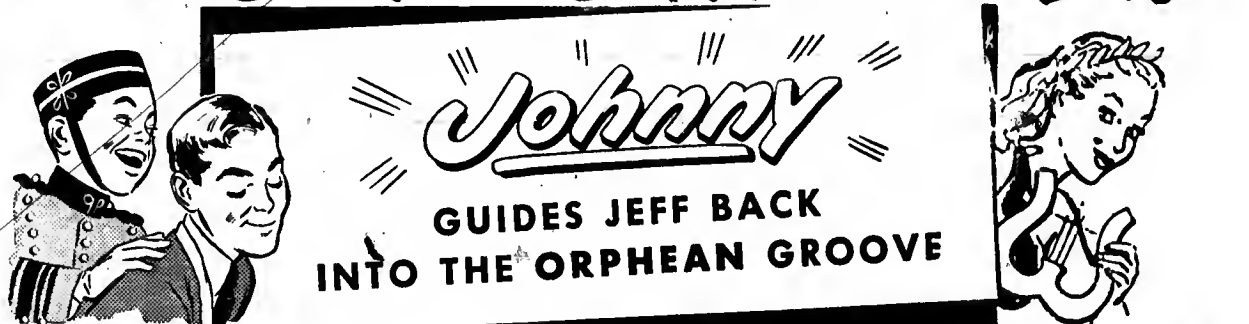

It is accepted practice to criticize what you feel most needs criticizing. The most important thing is that Steinbeck's play stinks, and to explain why. It is of much less import that the acting was superb and the play's message put across with power. His deleterious criticism of these two factors is the direct result of the bone he has to pick with Steinbeck and do not cast their shadow over the cast or Dave Bryant's direction. To understand it, it is necessary to understand his aversion to the play as such, and to its meaning.

In taking Steinbeck to task, he preaches a much-needed sermon to those who find "great entertainment" in the reviling of mankind. The audience should have emerged from the AMT with a sober realization that they, respectable human beings, were responsible for the animal-like condition of these men. Most students, however, applauded the third curtain call with a sigh of relief at the absolution of all responsibility. With jubilation, they cried "If we are no better than mice, we can be held responsible for no more than mice." They praised its realistic dramatization of the idea that all men are really no better than animals.

Their pity for George and Lenny was elicited by their own self-pity, not by a feeling of compassion for those who have been trampled down to the level of mere mice, rabbits, and dead puppy-dogs by an evil society. Some even liked Lenny. This could only have been because they felt themselves to be in the same boat—a piece of drift-wood tossed about by the eddying current of society. They wallowed in the degradation of themselves and of mankind.

I felt no more pity for Lenny than I did for the mice he killed. November 21, 1948

Betas Succumb In Touch Final

Amherst Rules Hamper Ephmen In 8-0 Loss

Playing under unfamiliar rules on Amherst's Hitchcock Field last Friday, Beta Theta Pi, 1948 intramural football champions, dropped an 8-0 verdict to the Amherst Betas. The Lord Jeff win was the final chapter in a series of round robin games between intramural champs of Bowdoin, Williams, and Amherst, begun November 13th at Amherst. The Purple representatives reached the finals by virtue of winning a toss of the coin after playing Bowdoin's Chi Pals to a standstill for three over-time periods. Amherst also disposed of the Polar Bears in a 14-13 thriller.

Safety on First Play

Actually the game was decided on the first play from scrimmage when the Jeff line trapped the ball carrier behind the goal line, scoring the two points awarded for a safety. Amherst later increased this margin, crossing the goal line late in the second half on a long pass thrown by a quarterback named Muller. Muller incidentally was the outstanding player of the game, virtually leading his team mates single handedly to their championship win.

The local Betas came back strong after the intermission, and it looked for a while as if they might pull the game out of the fire. Beta linemen Donoho, Luthy, Coldwell, Halleck, Philcrantz, and Olesen consistently outrushed the opposition at the line of scrimmage, and Purple backs Dean, Shay, Stewart, Avery, and the two Jefferys tore off large gains throughout the third and fourth quarters.

However, they don't pay off on yards gained rushing and passing. It is the touchdowns which count, and at the goal line the local champs seemed helpless in trying to cross into paydirt. Result—the final score, 8-0.

Blocking Allowed

The Amherst rules in effect for the contest hampered some what the wide-open, razzle-dazzle style of the Ephmen, who seemed a little ragged compared to the fine football they have displayed all season down on Cole Field. The Sabrina regulations allow blocking, and permit passing only behind the line of scrimmage. In addition helmets are used to prevent injuries which might occur in the blocking. With the exception of the substitution of tagging for tackling, the game, as played at Amherst, is virtually the same as regulation football.

Hockey Team Awaits Ice

Harvard, Dartmouth, Army On Schedule

Impatiently awaiting the arrival of cold weather, the Williams hockey team is eagerly looking forward to its rugged eight-game schedule, hoping to cheat winter's tardiness by practicing at Springfield after Thanksgiving. Plans are still indefinite on that score, however, and meanwhile the Purple sextet remains idle.

Dartmouth, Harvard, and Army are the big-time opponents on a schedule which also offers St. Lawrence, U. of Massachusetts, Union, and home-and-home with Middlebury. Besides trying to pick up a couple more regular matches, the team would like to arrange some Christmas vacation and between semester games.

Eph Hoopsters Display Power In Prelim Win

Capt. Mason Leads Tall Purple Five In Romp Over N. A. Teachers

Coach Dale Burnett's varsity basketball squad is rapidly rounding into shape after preliminary workouts which started last Monday. Friday afternoon the Eph hoopsters completely outclassed a North Adams State Teachers' College five in a practice game on the home floor, 56-19, with twenty-four men seeing action for the Purple.

Looking terrific at several stages of the game despite the lack of previous organized practice, the Williams ball club gives every indication of developing into a high scoring unit before the 1948-49 season ends. Coach Burnett has one of the tallest squads to perform on the Lasell Gymnasium floor in several years and the team should go through a schedule of tough opponents with reasonable success if it lives up to its potentialities.

About thirty men reported for practice early last week, but it is expected that the squad will be cut to eighteen or twenty within a few days. Led by Captain Jack Mason, six men who saw considerable varsity service last year and a dozen members of last season's unbeaten Freshman ball club are now fighting for positions.

Height Helps

Against the Teachers' College aggregation Friday afternoon, last year's high-scorer George Ditmar, diminutive sharp-shooter George Bush, and sophomore giants Bob Larson, Chuck Pusey, and Harry Sheehy led the Burnett-men in the scoring department. The latter three men form a skyscraping trio that should be able to control the backboards, a phase of the game in which the Williams hoopsters were notably inept last year.

Holdovers Jack Mason, Jerry Page, and Howie Taylor showed some good floor-work in the course of the encounter and also are assured of berths on the squad. Other sophomores who have been outstanding in practice so far include Dewey Fagerburg, Jack Fraser, Dave Jackson, and Bill St. Clair of the 1947-48 frosh quintet, while three who did not see action with the freshmen—Joe Como, Chuck Hoffer, and Walt Morse—are making strong bids for places on the squad.

Veterans Bud Cool and Ralph Mason and sophomore star Shay Lynch are currently on the disabled list.

Several practice clashes with local basketball teams are planned for the next few weeks, with the official opener coming against Trinity here on December 11.

something done," said Carrington. "The tone of the convention was both very optimistic and very energetic." The World Federalists are working in a businesslike way, using competent people in the fields of economics, history and political science, all of whom are working efficiently, he said.

Need More Members

The main job at the moment is to form more chapters and gain more members, Carrington continued. Also an attempt is being made to organize the First Congressional District so that it will become effectively World Federalist. The organization is to be accomplished through the established political parties, he added. "Educate, Mobilize, Elect" is the aim of the work, Carrington said that a large number of Congressmen already sympathetic to the cause of world government were present at the convention.

In this country, the World Federalists are now trying to mobilize a million votes so that the foreign policy of the United States will include official efforts to obtain world federal government. The movement towards world government, Carrington said, is considerably stronger in many European countries than our own.

would seem to have a wealth of talent to draw from. Co-captains Charlie Huntington and Tom Benson, and Tom Healy form one returning line, with Doug Coleman, Marc Reynolds, and Bucky Marchese making up another. Bill Swan, Joe Roberts, and Steve Wyer are three more capable forwards.

Dud Irwin, Don Ratcliffe, and O.B. Owen are veteran defensemen, and Dave Pyncheon is back as a net-tender. From last year's freshman team, Captain Mitch Fish, Jim Brown, and Dave Humphrey are potential linemen, Cubby Snively and Bob Cremin, defensemen, and Herb Poole and Teddy Childs, goalies.

vice Fund. WSSF, allocated $2620 by the budget committee, helps students in war-ravaged countries to help themselves and to help others. Hospitals, food, clothing, and the rehabilitation of university life all are eventual goals of this allocation.

The Save The Child Federation, The Tuberculosis Association, the Cancer Fund, the Infantile Paralysis Association, and CARE all are included in the budget, and if the drive is a success will receive a mighty useful $250 per agency.

Lingnam University, the unofficial "Williams-in-China," will receive $400 to help in needed repair and re-outfitting. The Grenfell Mission, maintaining hospitals and missions in Newfoundland and Labrador, again benefits from the Williams Community Chest. The budget allocates $300 to the institution founded by Dr. Grenfell. A small but important item is the $50 destined for the Student Christian Movement. This will help maintain operating expenses of the national organization of Christian Associations.

In Italy, for instance, there are four million World Federalists, while there are only forty thousand paid members in the United States.

"For the entire time of the convention, we seemed to be doing something every second," Carrington commented. "We met people from all over the country and learned how they were working in their chapters. We were very impressed by the competence of those running the organization," he said.

that they could have been a lot better. In 1942 the Williams-Amherst program sported a three-color, home-drawn cover, showing a monstrous purple bull charging down on a quivering Amherst man, which was nothing short of terrific.

Eye for an Eye

Bill and Cy feel it necessary to boost their own egos by adding a few snide digs at The Record to the end of their letter. Refraining from criticism of others until you have reached perfection yourself is a particularly unprogressive idea, one which is especially in keeping with the spirit of the 1948 Football Programs.

These concluding remarks are not only "unfair, uncalled for, and unsupported by fact," but show a truly remarkable lack of observation. Bill and Cy complain about the single picture in last Wednesday's issue of The Record. If they will look at the November 13 issue, the same day on which their program appeared, they will find it contained thirty-two pictures. Count 'em boys.

They were right, however, about the percentage of ads. Last Wednesday's issue contained 42% advertising and 58% copy, (including stories of dubious "genuine interest" on the football and soccer games with Amherst, the Cap and Bells show, Winter Carnival, an SRO lecture, interfraternity touch football, and the swimming team.) What Bill and Cy neglected to mention is that the figures were exactly reversed in the Wesleyan game program.

In concluding, we repeat that we really did enjoy that letter. But let's continue this through the mail, fellows, and give the readers a break.

Committee Reports

Bowdoin Plan Committee Chairman Jim Finke '50 reported their recommendation that the Bowdoin Plan students move from unit to unit for their meals as scheduled, and not be allowed to eat at one social unit all year. The subject was brought up last week when several houses wondered if it would be possible to have a foreign student as their guest for meals for the remainder of the year. The UC accepted the recommendation since it was felt that the Plan called for moving, and that other houses should have a chance to meet the foreign students.

Bill Barney '49, Student Activities Council Chairman, asked if there was any way in which the collection of the UC Tax might be facilitated. Pete Geier '49 suggested that a one dollar per month additional tax might be imposed upon individuals for the length of time they failed to pay after a certain date. This suggestion was discussed and will be cleared through President Baxter for consideration later.

Letters To The Editor

Discrimination

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

No fraternity man should have felt anything except shame and regret on reading the decision of the national committee of Phi Kappa Psi to disaffiliate its Amherst chapter for pledging a Negro. The favorite criticism of those who oppose the fraternity system is lent credulity by this indefensible act by a "tiny group of wilful men".

The national committee of Phi Kappa Psi knew that its action would be contrary to the wishes of most of its chapters, and was careful not to put the matter to a vote. However, no amount of criticism is going to change its decision now. Its members hold the upper hand and it gives them a feeling of importance to stand alone in a storm of criticism. It is unfortunate that there will be some people who mistake bigotry for independence and pigheadedness for courage.

To the Amherst chapter of Phi Kappa Psi should go the congratulations and best wishes of every forward-thinking Williams man.

Country Gentlemen?

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

As former Editor of The Record, I resent the characterization of Williams men contained in the attached release. However, it may be that the breed has degenerated and lost its virility since my day!!

Manchester, Vermont William Loeb
November 19, 1948 President, Union Leader Corporation
(Excerpt from "Weekend," by Bill Jones and Dick O'Reilly)

Williams: "The Williams man can best be described as the country gentleman. He always manages to look as though he has just been out for a stroll to see how the new colt is faring, or how the new spaniel is shaping up for the next season's duck shoot."

Critic's Critic

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

I would like to take this opportunity to make a reply to the article calling itself a criticism, which appeared in last Saturday's Record.

I too would like to quote the curtain line of the first scene of the last act of Steinbeck's Of Mice and Men (but I won't here for the sake of discretion), and if Robert Scott Taylor calls himself a critic of any sorts, this line becomes applicable.

Speaking of "wet toast" and being nauseated, I would also like to quote from Webster's definition of pity:

"...usually implies sorrow or a melting of the heart with tenderness for one who is suffering or unhappy."

That pity denies a man the possibility of tragedy, and that to like and pity simultaneously are incompatible, are thoughts too stupid to warrant any discussion.

I believe I attended the same performance of this play as did Mr. Taylor, and I do not deny that Marty Luthy received a certain number of laughs on his lines, but how anyone could be so insensitive as to be unable to discern the change in the tone of the laughter from amused to sympathetic, is beyond me. Ask the many, many people in whose eyes tears welled throughout the third act and see how amused they were.

The final point depicting Mr. Taylor's lack of knowledge both in criticism and drama is his remarks concerning the murder scene between Lennie and Curley's wife.

"...but the power of her most dramatic scene is unhappily stifled. Neither character pays any attention to the other — they soliloquize to opposite walls — and consequently the audience can never feel any sympathetic relation between them. This is an unfortunate interpretation of the scene—makes it seem a bit phoney."

Now I quote Steinbeck's stage direction for the scene.

"In the following scene it is apparent that neither is listening to the other, and yet as it goes on, as a happy tone increases, it can be seen that they are growing closer together."

The critic's knowledge of the play seems unbounded.
November 22, 1948 Howard W. Erskine '49

Steinbeck - Good Or Bad?

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

After reading your "review" of the Cap and Bells production of John Steinbeck's "Of Mice And Men", I have found it necessary to rebuke some of your comments publically and to question several of your remarks in the November 20th issue of the Record.

First, and this is my main protest, you were assigned by the Record to review the current production of the Steinbeck play as given in the Adams Memorial Theater. Instead, you have steered away from the physical Cap and Bells production and have spent nearly your entire "review" on whether Steinbeck's subject matter is good or not from the literary angle. I don't know how qualified you are to dissect Mr. Steinbeck's works and it doesn't seem to me that it matters. The point is that you are questioning and condemning an already-established and highly praised piece of dramatic literature as one would a play by Shaw.

As a critic, you certainly have the right to question Cap and Bells choice of plays to be presented and your opinion of the play—but not in the questionable and lengthy detail with which you reviewed this show. It may interest you to know that Brooks Atkinson, dean of drama critics, considers that "Of Mice And Men" is the quintessence of commercial theater and it is also a masterpiece." So far as the subject matter of your review was concerned, Mr. Atkinson thought that "the economy of the story, the unity of the mood, the simple force of the characters, the tang of the dialogue are compactly dramatic, and 'Of Mice And Men' is not theater at second hand. But the supreme virtue of the story, on the stage as well as in print, is the lyric perfection of all these rude materials—the violence springing naturally out of the situation and the bawdy dialogue tumbling without self-consciousness out of the mouths and minds of 'bindle-stiffs'. Although you may resent the tragedy and the harrowing of your feelings, you cannot retort that it is false or gratuitous. To be technical about it, 'Of Mice and Men' is a perfect work of art." Nuff said, Mr. Taylor!

Secondly, there are two smaller details you mention in your "review" which I question. You consider this play as "an aspirant tragedy" and you maintain that the characters are to be pitied.

But you say that when Man is pitied to the extent that you believe him to be in this drama, he is denied "the plausibility of tragedy". I don't conceivably see how you reach this conclusion. Going to your own source book, Mr. Webster defines tragedy as a "dramatic composition which excites pity and terror by a succession of unhappy events, and in which the leading character is by some passion brought to catastrophe."

Lastly, you state that in the barn scene, "neither character (Lennie or Curley's wife) pays any attention to each other—they soliloquize to opposite walls—and consequently the audience can never feel a sympathetic relation between them." Had you been familiar with the script as one presumes a critic should be, you would have been conscious of the author's direction in the reference to the playing of the scene between Lennie and Curley's wife in the big barn. I quote for your benefit from Mr. Steinbeck's stage directions in that scene: "It is apparent that neither is listening to the other and yet it goes on, as the happy tone increases, it can be seen that they are growing closer together."

So, I suggest that in the future, if you should ever "review" a play again, that you devote your energy to the physical production at hand and leave Critics' Prize Plays, from a literary viewpoint, to the public's conscience.

Holidays

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

The rather odd and inconvenient date for the beginning of the Christmas holidays makes one wonder if perhaps the administration is trying to force upon the student body the idea that the college controls the student body and can make it remain on campus as long as those in command desire. This is not meant as a bitter attack on the administration but rather as an inquiry regarding the postponement of the vacation till the twenty-first—a Tuesday.

What basis there is for holding the college over a whole weekend merely for the sake of two days of classes we fail to see. Those in charge of setting the vacation dates cannot possibly believe that these two days following the weekend will add any great material value to education at Williams College. The only results will be a great increase in the number of pre-vacation cuts, half completed assignments, and increased hostility between student body and administration.

Other colleges are almost all given vacations which include the weekend before Christmas. We realize that there is nothing we can do to rectify this administration error. However, we feel that in the future better plans can be made.

Many, many more desired to sign this letter, but we felt that those names at the bottom aptly express the sentiments of the entire student body.

More On Rules

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

It seems to me that the recent discussion of rules regarding student behavior, especially in regard to drinking and women guests has almost entirely missed the point. The only necessary rule is that "The College and the Undergraduate Council insist on good taste (and) gentlemanly conduct...." Any and all attempts to elaborate on or define this principle can result in nothing but confusion and evasion.

If "it is the aim of the College to develop in its students a sense of personal responsibility for good order" the student should be allowed to formulate his own decisions as to what these principles consist of in practice. Attempts at defining gentlemanly conduct, spelled out in detail, can never work. The Student and Faculty Discipline Committees, composed as they are of gentlemen, should have no difficulty in determining whether the circumstances of any case transgress the limits of good taste and gentlemanly conduct.

Also, if personal responsibility "is desired, attempts to impose collective responsibility on the social units, can do nothing but frustrate this stated aim of liberal education. If a student is individually guilty of offenses against "good taste" and "gentlemanly conduct" he should be individually punished. If guilt can not be attached to any individual or group of individuals, no one should be punished. It is one of the cherished tenets of our free society that guilt is individual and that it is better that the guilty should escape harm than that the innocent should suffer unjustly.

It seems to me that drinking in the public rooms of a social unit is not by any stretch of the imagination per se evidence of ungentelemanly conduct. If the circumstances surrounding the action make it so, the situation can be dealt with by the discipline Committee. This is only one of the many possible illustrations afforded by the recent regulations.

It is therefore my contention that the rule requiring good taste and gentlemanly conduct is the only rule needed to control disciplinary infractions of the type dealt with by the new regulations concerning student conduct. If the assumption that the student body consists of responsible individuals capable of deciding for themselves what gentlemanly conduct consists of fails; then the College is not the liberal arts institution it claims to be.

sians have declared the Western currency illegal in their zone of Germany. Gessner pointed out that all illegal currency is confiscated by the Russians, who use it to purchase goods from the Western zones. They have blockaded Berlin in an attempt to make their currency the standard currency of the city.

Four political parties arose in Germany after the Allies authorized the organization of parties. Gessner spoke of the Russian attempt to merge the Social Democrats, the most powerful party and, with the Christian Democrats, the controlling party, with the German Communist Party. This merger was strongly rejected in the western zone by the Social Democrats, though it naturally succeeded in the Russian zone.

German Production
In reply to questions Gessner said that, while there was production in the Western zone, there was none in the Western sector of Berlin because of the blockade and because the Russians curtailed electric power in the zone. The small output of the eastern zone went to Russia as reparations.

Replying to another question, he said that there had been no reconstruction of Berlin. Only the streets were clear of rubble.

I.R.C. Elections

Following the discussion I.R.C. president Art Sprung conducted elections for the vice-presidency and the secretaryship. Jack Belding and Mo Murray were chosen to fill these respective posts.

Attending an I.R.C. conference at the University of Vermont this weekend are Art Sprung and Dan Calhoun. Representatives will also be sent to the conference on the future of Germany being held by the Bowdoin I.R.C. on the weekend of December 11.

Five Students Represent Eph

World Federalist Talks
 Take Place At Yale

Five students are representing Williams' United World Federalists this weekend at a conference being held at Yale University.

Bob Carrington, Pete Kent, Ned Stebbins, George Muller, and Len Jacob are attending the conference of Federalists chapters from New York and New England. One of its main purposes will be to elect more representatives to the National Student Council which handles current problems for the Federalists. Two weeks ago Dick Goodman was elected to the Council while attending the national convention at Minneapolis.

Money Collection Falls

At a meeting Monday night, Carrington stated that much of the money the chapter had hoped to collect over Thanksgiving had failed to materialize. "We did not make as much as we had previously hoped," he said. (Two weeks ago in the Record, Carrington said that prospects were good for collecting as much as $1000.)

The UWF is reviving its drive for new members in the social units and is initiating a follow-up program in those already visited—about one half the total number. The group is now contacting alumni in its expanding drive for members outside of the college. "We wrote letters to all the alumni in Bronxville," Secretary Kent said, "and many expressed an interest in our work and wanted to know more about it."

ment to help in maintaining its operations.

Chest Fund officials are playing up the idea of associating the drive with the Christmas season in their determined efforts to top the goal in this, the 1948 drive. According to Charman Stites the hope is that undergraduates will look upon their contribution as a Christmas gift—giving to charity in the same spirit as if they were buying a gift for under the Christmas tree.

To meet the $7950 goal the Chest Fund is asking every student to join in the Christmas spirit with a gift of ten dollars. The contribution can be made either in cash or in the form of a pledge to be paid later in the year.

Frosh To Hear Weston Speak

Topic Of Second Lecture
 "Williams Traditions"

On Tuesday evening at 7:30 Dr. Karl Weston will speak in Jesup Hall as the second lecturer in the freshman orientation meetings. Dr. Weston's topic will be "Williams Traditions."

President James P. Baxter 3rd delivered the first talk of the series on Nov. 7 when he spoke on "The Small Liberal Arts College in Modern Society." On Jan. 11 Dean Robert Brooks will speak to the freshmen on "Student Government in Education." After Dean Brooks there will be two speakers at each meeting. Mr. Richard Newhall and Mr. Kermit Gordon on Feb. 1st will discuss "The Place of the Social Sciences" in education. On March 1st Mr. John Hawley Roberts and Mr. Winthrop Root will speak on "English and a Foreign Language and Literature." On April 12th the topic for Mr. Franzo Crawford and Mr. James Curry will be "The Age of Science." The final meeting will be held on May 3rd when Mr. Lane Faison and Mr. John Miller will discuss "Cultural Coordination Through Art and Philosophy."

These meetings which have been inaugurated and are presided over by Freshman Dean Albert Keep, are designed to orient the freshmen in regard to possible choice of courses, and to give them a better understanding as to what they are accomplishing at Williams and what Williams is trying to achieve for them. Attendance at these meetings is required for all freshmen.

Eph Debaters Win At UVM

Fall Only To Army
 In Four Debates

Williams debating specialists emerged victorious in three out of four debates at the University of Vermont tournament, November 19th and 20th. The topic of debate was "Resolved that the Federal Government should adopt a policy of equalizing educational opportunity in tax supported schools by means of annual grants."

On the speaker's platform for Williams Adelphe Union were Dave Brown '51 and Jack McConnell '50. Of the more than twenty colleges and universities represented, Dartmouth, Wesleyan, and Syracuse were thoroughly outdebated by the two Williams men. Only the boys from West Point marred their near perfect record in the Vermont tournament.

The next debates for Williams will include Amherst, Brown, Princeton, Columbia, and Harvard. Tryouts for these will take place in room 9 Goodrich at 7:30 on Thursday evening, December 9th. The speakers may take either side of the question on education or of the question "Resolved that the nation would benefit from 'Civil Rights' legislation." The speeches should be no more than four minutes long.

Co-Captains Of Hockey, Swimming, Track For 1948-1949

Benson

Tom Benson has been a member of the Williams hockey team since his sophomore year and has done a standout job in holding down a wing position. He was elected co-captain along with Charley Huntington at the end of last season.

Benson lives in Windsor, Connecticut and was graduated from Loomis School in 1945. He is a member of Psi Upsilon, and during his junior year he was secretary of that fraternity. As a senior he is vice-president.

Huntington

Charley Huntington was the center on Snively's ice contingent last year and was the captain. He graduated from Exeter in 1943 and entered Williams in 1946 after a three year army stretch. He's been on the team three years.

A member of Chi Psi, Huntington is a senior and has played varsity baseball during his sophomore and junior years. He has also been a member of the Williams Christian Association for three years.

Wineman

Hank Wineman holds the college backstroke record, and just missed making the Olympic Team last summer, but was voted All-American for his fourth place performance in the Nationals last year. He is New England champion in this event.

Coming from Buffalo, New York, Hank is a member of Zeta Psi, and chairman of the Junior Advisors. He is also a member of the Undergraduate Council and is a cheerleader. Wineman is a junior this year.

Baldwin

Ray Baldwin is a graduate of the Kent School '45, and lives in Bridgeport, Connecticut. He has been a mainstay of Muir's championship teams, swimming the 220, 440, and the relay which last year set a new record.

Baldwin is affiliated with Chi Psi and has played baseball for two years. He is also a member of the Williams Christian Association, and Williams radio station WMS. Ray is a Junior Advisor, and will graduate in 1950.

Barney

Bill Barney has competed in winter track for three years and is captain of varsity spring track team where since his freshman year, he has participated in the 100, 220, 440 yard dashes and broad jump. He has won the Lehman Decathlon for two consecutive years.

Last summer Barney finished third in the National Pentathlon Championships. A resident of Cleveland, Ohio, he is a member of Alpha Delta Phi, President of the Student Activities Council, the News Bureau, editor of the handbook, and sports editor of the Record, and a member of the UC.

Smith

Gordy Smith was graduated from Choate School in 1944, and since he entered Williams in 1946, he has been active on both the winter and spring track teams as a quarter and half-miler. Last spring he was unbeaten in the latter event.

Smith comes from Princeton, New Jersey, and is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. During his prep school days running spring track, Gordy was also a member of the Choate cross country team. He graduates this June.

Polo Team Nips Harvard

Hudson, Heerman Pace Extra-Period Thriller

The polo team won its first game of the season by scoring a 12-11 extra-period victory over a hard-riding Harvard outfit last Saturday night, November 27. The game was played in the Squadron A Armory in New York City before a crowd of 2000 spectators.

The starting trio for Williams consisted of Chuck Gunther, Bill Hudson, and Vic Heerman. Josh Coste, who played polo here before his graduation last year, substituted for Gunther in the third chukker and played until the end of the game.

Coste's Goal Wins

The contest was tied at 11-11 after the final period, following a thrilling fourth chukker in which the Williams squad fought back to overcome a four-goal deficit. It was Coste who scored the winning goal in the additional "sudden death" period, in which the first tally wins the game.

Other contributions to the Williams scoring column were made by Hudson, who paced the team with five goals, Heerman, with four, and Gunther, with two.

It was the team's initial win in two starts. They lost their opening encounter to Cornell three weeks ago on the opponents' field. The score was 18-8. A game with Yale is tentatively scheduled for next Saturday, December 11, at New Haven.

College Plans To Build New Board Track Costing $4000

By virtue of a recent Athletic Council legislation, plans are now set for a new board track to replace the badly dilapidated structure that has stood behind Rudnick's cleaning plant for about the last twenty years.

Just when the new outdoor track will be ready for use is not known but there is a good chance that the structure will be completed by the end of the Christmas vacation. That would permit the relay men two weeks practice on it before the first meet in Boston, January 22. The old one is already being dismantled and Mr. William C. Bryant, Superintendent of Buildings, is in the process of awarding the new job to a contractor. It was decided that to repair the ancient track as in previous years was not practical since the expense to the college in the long run would be greater.

Eleven Laps

Although the planned track, on which up to four thousand dollars are to be spent, will be erected on the same location as its predecessor, it will include several new features. It calls for eleven, instead of the old twelve laps to the mile. This change has been made since both Boston Garden and Madison Square Garden have eleven lap ovals.

A second innovation is that the new spruce track will be removable. When not in use the structure can be taken up in sections and stored in a spot unaffected by the elements. With this possible, the new track should remain in good running condition for many years.

Coach Muir's Champs Win
'48 All-American Positions

Coach Bob Muir's five-time New England swimming champions received additional laurels recently upon the receipt of two All American and four Honorable Mention swimming certificates.

All American positions, chosen by the College Swimming Coaches Association of America for placing either first or second in the National Intercollegiate or National Amateur Athletic Union meets, with Honorable Mention slots going to the third, fourth and fifth positions, go to three members of the '48 squad.

Lambert, Wineman, Reid Cited
Andy Lambert '49, the Williams man copping two nation-wide berths, placed second in this year's National AAU 1500 meters event with the time of 20:26.4 to receive a straight All American bid. Swimming in the '48 National Intercollegiate, Andy emerged fifth from a field of thirty-one in the same event, enough to capture an Honorable Mention.

Hank Wineman '50, backstroke extraordinary with a 1:36.7, placed fourth in the '48 National AAU meet to also gain an Honorable Mention.

The third member of last season's aggregation to achieve national recognition was Bob Reid '50, who, in the same National AAU meet, swam fourth with 4:53.2 in the 440 freestyle to gain an Honorable Mention award. Bob took a second in the Eastern Championships, missing first place by .1 of a second, and a first in the New Englands.

Relay Men, Maclay Take Prizes

Under the auspices of the National Intercollegiate at Yale in March of '47, the Eph freestyle relay team swam the 400 yards in 3:35.1 to take a third. In this time, the four men equaled their New England championship time set in the home pool earlier that spring. Honorable Mention certificates were presented to Morgan Murray '50, Dick Bacon '47 who was co-captain in his senior year, Chick Brashears '50 and Archie Maclay '47.

All American honors go to the Purple's '48 captain, Dave Maclay '46, for capturing a first in the 1500 meters freestyle. Dave splashed to victory in that season's National Intercollegiate Championships in 20:28.2.

Swimming Family

Williams coach Muir, an assistant Olympic swimming coach for the '48 United States team, is also a past president, '43 and '44, of the College Swimming Coaches Association. Bob has three times, '24, '36 and '48, been one of seven to judge men and women's diving events at Olympic trials.

Mrs. Muir is at present serving on the National AAU Women's Selection Committee, and acted as chaperone for the U.S. Olympic squad in '36.

Cardinal Squad Places Five
On Eph All-Opponent Eleven

Five Wesleyan gridmen won starting posts on a Williams' All-Opponent Team, as picked by the Williams team itself. Trinity and Bowdoin each placed two men on this dream team; Amherst and Union had one starter apiece. Bowdoin and Trinity, three men each on the hypothetical second team.

Leading the balloting were Union center Ken Whalen and Trinity fullback Frank Eblen, both of whom were unanimously elected to their posts. Whalen is best remembered for his first-half out-of-bounds kicks, on the 1, 3, 4, and 9-yard lines, which kept the Purple deep in its own territory. He was also an excellent line-backer. Eblen did his damage to the Williams cause by racing on two touchdown jaunts, one, 41 yards, the other, 85.

The closest voting was in the left halfback slot, with Wesleyan's Harry Forbes, Bowdoin's Dick Rosse, and Amherst's Lew Hammond separated by only two votes. His punting, left-handed passing and beautiful running, aided by an uncanny ability to pick up blockers, gave Forbes the nod, but fleet-footed Rosse and triple-threat Hammond were not far behind.

Amherst's sole representative, Andy Scholtz, caught the two completed Amherst passes in the touchdown march at the end of the first half. Three members of Wesleyan's strong forward wall won berths on the team. Co-captain Jack Geary and Pete Wichowski were the tacklers, and Neil Keller, one of the guards.

Trinity-Wesleyan Backfield

Quarterbacking this team was Trinity's Whitey Kunkiewicz, whose passing and field-generalship netted him most of the votes in his position. Wesleyan's second man in this backfield was co-captain and right halfback Frank Wenner, who, along with Forbes, made trouble for Purple defenders all afternoon.

Trinity Dec. 11Veterans, Sophs Battle
For Starting Berths

Having cut his squad to a more workable twenty men, varsity basketball coach Dale Burnett is now up against the problem of picking a starting team for the opening home game with Trinity a week from today. And from the looks of things on the Lasell Gym floor this week, it will be almost as difficult a task as was that of choosing the best twenty men to keep on the varsity roster.

A real battle is being waged for places on the first two teams, with a number of dark horse candidates threatening to displace some of the favorites in the basketball limelight. Seven men with varsity experience are on the squad as it now stands, but every one will have to go some to grab a first ten berth. Veterans George Dittmer, Captain Jack Mason, and Howie Taylor, and sophomores Chuck Pusey, Bob Larson, and Harry Sheehy appear to have an edge on their competitors at the moment. Three smaller but speedier sophomores—Joe Como, Dewey Fagerburg, and Chuck Hoffer—have displayed an uncanny eye for the hoop in practice sessions this past week, and are sure to be heard from if they keep it up.

Teamwork Necessary

George Bush, Bud Cool, Pete Goodfellow, and Jerry Page are the other squad members with varsity experience, and all four rate high consideration, while sophomores Brooks, Fraser, Jackson, Lynch, Morse, Brad Pusey, and St. Clair round out the squad. The fight for top positions is still wide open, and any one of these men may be in there December 11. Don Speck also made the squad list, but has been sidelined by an attack of appendicitis.

Apparently Coach Burnett's only solution will be to try out several different combinations of five men in practices next week, in order to determine which units function together most smoothly. Chief difficulty encountered so far is the inability of last year's varsity players and those from the 1947-48 freshman team to work together as well as they should.

The Williams coach also will have to strike a balance between height, and speed and scoring ability. Larson, Pusey, Sheehy, and Cool are big enough to control the backboards fairly well, but several shorter men are more adept at putting the ball through the hoop consistently. The amount of height on opposing teams will, to a certain extent, decide the outcome of the game.

YOUR TELEPHONE must take hard knocks as they come—and go on working.

To make sure it can, we test samples of each day's production and put telephones through the equivalent of years of service in a few hours or days. For example: we drop handsets into their cradles 22,000 times—equal to 4 years' normal use. And not just once, but from 16 different positions, we drop sample telephones from desk-top height onto a hardwood surface. We even check their feet to be certain they won't scratch your table.

Here at Western Electric, we've been making Bell telephones since 1882. But telephones themselves are only about 6% of the equipment used in your service. The other 94% includes wire, cable, switchboards, trucks, poles, tools, office equipment. With the exception of buildings, we make or supply almost everything Bell telephone people use—and test it with utmost care.

Guarding the quality of things used in your Bell telephone service is one way that Western Electric helps to make it the world's best.

Living Experiment

Shows Flick Monday

A meeting of the Experiment in International Living will be held for students and faculty Monday evening at 8 p.m. in Jesup Hall. The Experiment sound movie "Where Peace Begins," filmed in Europe this summer, will be shown.

Members of the experiment will describe their work which has promoted mutual understanding among young peoples of twenty different countries since 1938. There will be discussion of what the Experiment in International Living has to offer today in the post-war world, and of plans for the summer of 1949.

In distributing more of the Chest Fund budget to local relief this year WCA officials felt that since it is these people with whom we are in contact throughout the year it is fitting that a good amount be set aside for help here in Williamstown. When you give to the Chest Fund, you will not only be giving to help someone in a far off land, but you will also be opening up your heart to make next year a happier one for some family right here in Williamstown.

Scoring Punch

All together, the varsity squad has shown some terrific scoring punch in pre-season work-outs to date, particularly for so early in the season, but ball-handling and defensive play have looked poor by comparison. This year's ball club should emerge as vastly superior to the 1947-48 quintet, however, and if the right men are "on" on the right nights, the Ephs can chalk up a fine record on the court this year. The presence of thirteen sophomores, five juniors, and only two seniors on the squad speaks well for the future also.

Local fans will see such basketball powers as Rutgers, Fordham, Hofstra, and St. Michael's on the home floor this year. The first three games will be played here, against Trinity, Union and Rutgers in that order.

In a scrimmage with RPI at Troy, N.Y., before Thanksgiving, the Williams combine came out on top, 86-62. No fouls were called in this informal clash and both teams took advantage of the fact to show some good blocking and tackling. Ditmar, Pusy and Larson were the Williams high-scorers, with almost everybody contributing a few points during the evening.

Collectors Give Contributors Purple Feathers, Seals, Pins

Student Organizations, Spring Street To Aid In Chest Fund Drive

The eyes of fifteen purple feather agencies are upon Williams-town this week as the 1948 edition of the College Chest Fund gets under way.

Inaugurated Monday evening at the annual Collectors' Dinner, the drive has set a goal of ten dollars from every student and $7500 from the entire undergraduate body.

A Chest Fund contributor can be easily picked out by a purple feather pinned on him. The feather has been chosen as the official symbol of the drive, and they are being distributed along with one sheet of Tuberculosis seals and a TB pin for every donation.

Purple Feather Week

The WCA, directing the drive, hopes that every student will wear his purple feather so that the "Give a Christmas Gift to Charity" message will circulate around campus.

Cooperation of local merchants and town officials, plus hard work by the Chest Fund publicity committee have made Spring Street a veritable carnival of posters, banners, and thermometers.

The giant thermometer embraced by the rather scantily clad damsel at the head of Spring Street will register from day to day the climb of the drive toward the $7500 goal. As the drive moves forward, the thermometer will climb, and the young lady will gradually take shape and be clothed by Chest Fund artists.

Female Form Grows

The WCA is adding to its "Give a Christmas Gift to Charity" appeal a further plea to help the thermometer and its embracer assume full stature.

The large banner suspended above Spring Street plus the illustrative posters displayed in the windows of local merchants and in every social unit are further efforts to make this Christmas a happier one for needy peoples the world over.

In addition the full facilities of the RECORD, the Advisor, the Taconic Theatre, and radio station WMS have been enlisted to help push the drive over its goal.

Bob Hope Show

Highlighting the publicity is a special fund benefit radio show direct from the home of comedian Bob Hope. The broadcast, to be aired tonight over WMS, will star Hope, and is backed up by a fine array of talent.

Don Wilson is slated as MC, and the Pied Pipers, Peggy Lee, Andy Russell, Jo Stafford, the King Cole Trio, Jack Smith, Johnny Mercer, Margaret Whitling, Gordon Mac Rae, the Clark Sisters, and the orchestras of Paul Weston, Benny Goodman, and Frank De Vol fill out a half hour of star-studded entertainment.

Williams, Smith Present Concert

Nation-Wide Broadcast Features Glee Clubs

The Williams Glee Club in conjunction with the Smith College Glee Club sang over nation-wide Mutual Broadcasting System for thirty minutes last Saturday afternoon preceding an evening concert given by the two groups in the John M. Greene Hall at Smith College.

Said Williams Glee Club President, Alex Clement, "the joint concert and radio broadcast were extremely successful and the Glee Club sincerely hopes to sing with Smith again next year."

Future joint concerts this year are with Vassar, Emma Willard, and Wellesley, the last being held here in April. Solo concerts will be given in Town Hall, New York, and in Bronxville.

Frazier, Perry Win Football Pool Prizes

By picking ten out of ten winners on football games on Saturday November 20, Blair Perry '51 and Harry Fraser '51 won that week's RECORD "Pick Your Winners" football contest. In the poll sponsored by Cal King's and Hart's Drug Store, Perry received a Weber Virgin Natural Pipe, while Fraser was given a case of beer at King's. Although eight people picked all ten winners correctly, Perry and Fraser were the first to return their entries. This was the second time this fall that Blair Perry was a winner in the contest.

Dean Andrews Discusses Law

Vocation Crowded; English Best Aid

"Young men who are considering entering the legal profession should review their decisions very carefully," Dean Paul S. Andrews of the Syracuse University Law School advised a group of undergraduates at the Chi Psi Lodge Thursday evening. The talk on the legal profession was one of the current series of vocational guidance talks sponsored by the Placement Bureau.

First among the reservations affecting a decision to go into law given by Dean Andrews was that "today, as never before, the bar is a very much overcrowded profession." There are, however, always places for outstanding men near the top, he said, but emphasized that the top is a hard place to reach.

Big Money

"Second," he emphasized, "law is not a profession to enter in the hopes of making a fortune." He pointed out that according to a survey taken in 1936, about twenty percent of the lawyers in New York City earned less than $1000 a year. Only one or two percent earned what he considered "big money."

The profession is one of the most exacting occupations that exist, the dean stated. You must be willing to work until you have found the "rock bottom answer." If you "do that you will be a successful lawyer without any doubt whatsoever. Don't go into the bar for a pleasant, leisurely life" for you will find yourself staying up until late at night or perhaps all night to complete a case.

"If you can feel that you can with real sincerity put your client's interest above your own" and if you "get fun out of using your mind," you can be happy as a lawyer, the dean declared. "If you don't get a kick out of contacts with all kinds of people, don't go into law."

Requirements

By far the most important pre-law requirement, Andrews stated is English, the knack of being "able to say what you mean and no more than you mean." Great lawyers "pack their English words full of meaning and make them sweat." Political science, economics, mathematics, psychology, and philosophy will all be helpful in law school, while accounting will be of great value after graduation.

In a short question period following the talk, Dean Andrews told the group that entrance to most law schools depends largely on the four year average of grades in college. A well-rounded man, however, will make a better lawyer in the long run. He told students to attend home-state law schools only if they are as good as the best one that they can attend.

Council Urged To Aid Drive

Progressive Fines Will Hit UC Tax Evaders

Announcement of the opening of the 1948 Chest Fund Drive, and an Undergraduate Council decision to impose a progressive fine on delinquent UC Tax payers were two of the more parts of the UC business at Monday night's meeting.

Pete Stites '49, Chairman of the Chest Fund Drive, introduced Sidney W. Goldsmith, Assistant Rector of St. Johns Church, who said that in the past the drives had not been over subscribed, but that he hoped that everyone would realize the special need this year and would subscribe their fullest. Stites said that with the drive starting Monday he hoped that social unit presidents would back it to the fullest and try to attain an average of eight dollars per man.

A new rule regarding payment of the UC Tax arose from an inquiry by Bill Barney '49, Chairman of the SAC on the collection of part of this year's tax still outstanding. The ensuing discussion resulted in a UC resolution that a one dollar fine be added to the UC Tax for men not paid up by the middle and end of each term. By this, delinquent undergraduates at the end of this term will find their tax increased by one dollar. The UC recommended for the future that the tax be placed on the first social unit bills of the year, but where not possible the first recommendation will apply.

Brooks Explains Vacation

Dean Robert R. R. Brooks commented on the many questions he has been asked regarding Christmas vacation by saying that the two-week holiday is set a year in advance by the Trustees. He said that there would have probably been as many complaints if the holiday began on Saturday and ended the day after New Years. It was announced that Wallace Barnes '49 and Wilber M. Swan '49 had been elected to the Tyng Scholarship Committee by the Senior Class. Colin W. McCord '49 is the automatic appointment from Alpha Delta Phi and is the third member of the Committee.

Modern Church Art Exhibit Seen For First Time At Museum

A controversial exhibit of modern church art is currently being seen, for the first time in the United States, at the Lawrence Art Museum. The works, which received widespread publicity when they were first commissioned by a protestant church in England and a Catholic Church in France, are being seen here under the auspices of the Museum of Modern Art of New York.

Two of England's foremost artists, Henry Moore and Graham Sutherland, were commissioned by the Reverend Hussey and his congregation in Northampton, England, to create works of art for St. Matthews Church. At the same time, W. H. Auden, one of Britain's leading poets, was commissioned to write a litany and anthem, while Benjamin Britten was asked to compose a festival cantata for choir and organ.

French Artists

With the financial help of friends and the active support of Pope Pius XII, Father Couturier of Assy, in the French Alps, commissioned leading French artists to decorate his new church. Among the works commissioned were a mural by Leger, a tapestry by Lurcat, a bronze door Braque, a painting by Bonnard, stained glass windows by Rouault, and a virgin in bronze by Lipchitz.

Student Travel Plan Outlined

Harter On Experiment In International Living

The plans and purposes of a European travel program known as the Experiment in International Living were outlined to a small group of interested undergraduates Monday night in Jesup Hall by several students who participated in the project last summer.

Alan Harter '49, who spent last summer in Denmark, described the way in which the summer trips are organized. He was followed by Walt Palmer, Dick Weber, and Tom Beal, who related their experiences in the three countries they visited, and "Bob" Dannfelt, a Swedish student who took part in the Experiment on the other end. Color movies, including an account of Palmer's stay in Belgium, were shown.

Live In Homes

Harter stated that over 1900 American students had participated in the plan in the last eighteen years, learning international tolerance and understanding in nineteen foreign countries. The groups usually consist of ten students and a leader. When the members arrive at the foreign port, they are met by the families in whose home they are to spend their first three or four weeks. One member of each family is of the same sex, approximate age, and interests as their visitor.

During the second month the groups get together again and take a bicycle or mountain climbing trip through the country with their new friends, visiting the major cities and places of historical and cultural interest.

Requirements

The major requirement is $700, which is not as bad as it sounds, since it covers all expenses outside the United States except spending money. Some trips have language requirements of one or two years, but there are others, to Scandinavia or the British Isles, with no such prerequisites.

In closing, Harter emphasized the fine time and invaluable experiences had by all members of the group. He urges all those interested in the Experiment to start making plans now, and to contact him for additional information.

Birdsall Reviews Development Of Western Union Proposals

Billville Aerial Views On Show In Library

A group of striking aerial views of Williamstown and vicinity are on exhibition at the Williams College Library. They have been lent by Mr. William B. Brown of North Adams, former Register of Deeds in Adams. Included in the exhibit are views of South Williamstown and New Ashford, Mt. Greylock, Williamstown and Mt. Hope Farm, Williamstown, Blackinton, Greylock, and the Taconic Trail. The photographs are interesting not only for detail but also for the idea they give of wooded areas, meadows, farm land, and diagrams and planning of towns. They are exhibited in cases on the ground floor of the Library. The public is invited.

Speaker Condemns Apathy Of British

In a lecture Friday evening, Mr. Paul Birdsall, former Dean of Williams and Military Attache in the Paris embassy, said that a union of the sixteen Marshall Plan countries is "almost nonsense." Speaking on the "Politics of Western Union", he said the five powers that signed the Brussels pact are a much more logical locus of union.

In an account of the development toward union in these countries, he said that ERP and the Russian reaction to it have provided powerful stimuli, but that many obstacles have yet to be overcome before western union becomes a reality.

Franco-British Differences

The divergent psychologies of the French and British stand in the way of a centralized union of these nations. Although Churchill is the outspoken advocate of union, Mr. Birdsall noted that the labor government has little respect for his views. The British, therefore, do not share the enthusiasm of the French, who would not be adverse to casting their country's lot in with that of the United States.

Mr. Birdsall stated that western union is the next thing on the Washington agenda, and that to put it across, the State Department must capitalize on the immediate impulse for union that exists in regard to indications of Russian aggression. He foresees an important role for the United States in the proposed union and thinks it "absolutely essential that we give some sort of military guarantee" to the countries involved.

British Apathy

Referring to the periodic meetings of ministers provided for by the five-power pact, Mr. Birdsall described the break-up of the February Hague conference, due to British labor government apathy, and the eventual compromise resolution in May which decided in favor of a constituent assembly to consider a possible constitution.

Since that time the British have stifled all proceedings by their refusal to attend meetings. In October, however, an inter-governmental committee was finally set up to consider three plans: an assembly of the sixteen European nations, a preparatory conference of the five powers to form an European assembly, and a British proposal for a council of governments to consider mutual problems.

Princeton Chaplain Delivers Sermon

Speaks Of Inner Force Inherent In All Men

The Reverend Dr. Donald Aldrich, Dean of the Chapel at Princeton University, delivered the sermon Sunday evening at Thompson Memorial Chapel. The theme of Dr. Aldrich's sermon was that a man can achieve success in life only through yielding to that propensity toward good which is within him.

God is an inner force which is constantly urging each individual toward the proper course of action, and a man must subordinate himself to this force if he is to realize his potentialities. It is only through accepting the concept of God as a "living, personal force" that a man can identify himself with those high principles which produce true happiness and a worthwhile life.

Moses was the first one to recognize this truth. After he had delivered the people of Israel from the Pharaoh's tyranny, they asked

Big-Time Band For Carnival

Ski Meet, Play, Square Dance Also Features

An informal dance featuring a name band, square dance, and a five dollar admission charge for the Winter Carnival were chosen by the Williams' student body in the poll circulated to social units recently, according to WOC Carnival Chairman Paul Mort '50.

Charley Barnett, Carmen Cavalero, and Johnny Long are the orchestra leaders currently being contacted by the WOC dance committee, headed by Bill Hutton F-'50, for the weekend of February 18-20. The chosen band will perform on Friday night in the main gym of LaSalle Gymnasium. More energetic entertainment will be provided in the wrestling room, where Floyd "Pappy" Moon will swing out with square dance music.

If dancing doesn't appeal to the week-enders, various other modes of entertainment will be available. William Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" will be produced by Cap and Bells in the Adams Memorial Theater on both Friday and Saturday evenings. Activity on Saturday afternoon will include a varsity basketball game against the powerful Hofstra squad.

In an attempt to make the three days a true "winter weekend" rivaling pre-war affairs, the WOC is trying to bring the eastern junior division championship meet of the Intercollegiate Ski Union to Williams on the 18th and 19th. If the efforts are successful, ski enthusiasts will be able to watch stars from colleges as Bowdoin, Harvard, MIT, and Yale perform on Sheep Hill. The winning team will be entitled to a crack at the senior division championships at Middlebury the following weekend. Biggest stumbling block at present is the proximity of the weekend to the date of the senior championships. If snow conditions were bad at carnival time there would be no junior division winner to compete at Middlebury.

Torchlight Skiing

In line with the emphasis on winter, the carnival committee has planned torchlight skiing on Sheep Hill for Saturday evening. Tentative arrangements call for transportation by sleigh to and from the hill for both skiers and on-lookers. The WOC will again sponsor the annual sculpturing contest with the "Koveted Keg" as grand prize.

Mort urged that houses begin now to work on house motifs for the week-end. Post-probation rules will hold away over house functions during the affair. It is expected, he said, that houses will revert to the custom of individual dances on Saturday evening.

Scholastic Policy

It has been some cause of wonder to the undergraduate body what has been, and what is now, going on in the minds of the faculty and the administration. Since the war they have been waging a never-ending drive to stimulate, promote and increase scholarship here at Williams.

This policy, carried to a certain degree, is a good thing, and most of the students agree that high scholarship at a college is absolutely necessary. Graduation and a degree from Williams mean more than four-years' residence and a piece of parchment. They mean more than forty term courses with the marks necessary for their successful completion. Williams standards are considered high all over the country. Alumni are proud of this situation, and hope that it will continue. And the undergraduate today is becoming increasingly aware, as he must, of his being such an integral part of the scholarship at Williams.

Our Present Condition

But in post-war Williams this scholastic emphasis is fast changing to a fanaticism. The problem can be resolved to: Where are we now? Where are we heading? The former question is quite clear; the latter can be understood only in terms of what the faculty and administration have in their minds.

If the average Williams man is getting lower marks, and if the general standards are not as good as they were, then there would cause for alarm in Hopkins Hall. A falling-off of standards is a sign of impending weakness and places the future in a gloomy light. But judging from facts and figures, this is not the case.

The exact opposite is true. The college average from the fall of 1939 to the winter of 1943 was 3.2435, and the peak for that period was 3.2722, in 1941-42. During 1946, when there were but a few students, the average rose to 3.52. Since college resumed a more or less normal pattern in the fall of '46, the average has hovered around 3.4, falling below that mark, only once — in February, 1948. The college average for last June was 3.4003.

Easier Marking

These figures mean that before the war the average undergraduate's marks were one B and 4 C's. Since the war the average Williams man's marks are two B's and three C's. One professor noted that the "gentleman's marks" used to be C's, but that now they are B's. For a college with standards as high as Williams, no one will deny that two B's and three C's are high marks.

The question then arises as to whether the faculty is lowering its marking standards. These, of course, are extremely intangible, and a position might be maintained that the cause for higher marks is easier marking. This, we most firmly believe, is not true, and can not be true at Williams today, for two reasons. (1) If the faculty and administration are as extremely anxious to raise standards as they appear to be, then they would be defeating their own purpose by lowering marking procedures. (2) If the faculty was handing out higher marks, how do they explain the large number of warnings at the recent mid-term warning period?

Warnings And Cuts

No less than 49.5 per cent of the entire student body received at least one warning. There were 950 warnings, or close to an average of one for each of the 1123 students; stated another way, 17.5 per cent of all grades were in the D and E categories. The percentage of men with warnings in the years preceding the war ran just about as high, but the average student then had one less B and one more C.

Before the war the undergraduate had to maintain a 3.5 average to be placed on the Unlimited Cut List. After the war the college continued this policy, until recently it announced that starting in February, 1949, a 4.0 average, or all B's, would be a requisite for this list. The list has been greater the last two years than before the war. But now the faculty and administration suddenly feel that a man who gets three B's and two C's is unable to regulate his own class attendance. We question what is in the minds of the faculty and administration on this move.

The Solution

Where does the solution lie? We don't know, and we are wondering what the faculty and administration are thinking. Are they making an attack on athletics and extra-curricular activities? Even now the average undergraduate finds it difficult to do a reputable job in his studies and carry much in the way of extra-curricular activities. An often-heard comment is: "I don't know whether I'll go out for that; I've got to be sure my marks are OK." If the college is trying to dampen sports and outside activities, this policy is highly unpopular and immensely unwise. Every student feels that any college should have something more to offer than scholarship alone.

The college's position can hardly be called clear. The faculty and administration have raised scholastic standards and have not lowered marking procedures. The Williams student has responded; he has earned higher marks. What next? If the policy is toward increasing scholarship, ad infinitum, then it is time to pause a moment, and take stock of our present position. It is time to examine the future possibilities of such a policy, and then determine if that policy is the most desirable one for Williams.

Letters To The Editor

To the people who keep writing to the Editor of the Williams Record: The "Of Mice and Men" controversy is wearing a bit thin; I think you protest too much.

As far as the barn scene is concerned, of course "neither is listening to the other"—that's the point. But it is more the point that each is trying to make himself understood to the other; that is what gives meaning to the fact that neither is listening. They were, but should not have been "soliloquizing to opposite walls." Soliloquizing means talking to oneself; it has nothing to do with listening. As a result of it, it is not seen that they are "growing closer together." It baffles me that you are unable to grasp this point. I have explained it now as though to a child. I wish that all of you collectively, and Mr. Erskine individually, would make an honest effort to be less obtuse.

About pity; you admit that pity is not enough to make tragedy—that terror is also required. In my review, the discourse on pity was intended to show that Steinbeck has placed his characters in the same category as rabbits, dead mice and puppy dogs. This he has done; their common characteristic is a profound conviction of their own futile ineffectual animalism, and pity is the only possible emotion here which will stand self-criticism.

Medea, Jesus Christ, King Lear, Abraham Lincoln, Captain Ahab, Winston Churchill and Thea Kronberg, to take as large a chunk of time and variety of characters as possible, are people who represent the stature necessary for tragedy. There are many more, of course, in and out of literature. If you think that George, Candy, Lennie, Crooks, etc. have the personal force required for the achievement of that stature, I must say that I disagree with you. I might add that I feel sorry for you. If I "resent the tragedy and harrowing of my feelings," as Brooks Atkinson anticipates, it is largely because Steinbeck requests me to wallow with him in this cesspool where I do not happen to feel that I or any other man belongs until we each make the distinct and separate decision to go there and wallow.

As far as what Brooks Atkinson says (and, incidentally, what the drama critic for the Berkshire-Eagle says), I find it all well and interesting, but I do not see just why I should feel compelled to say exactly the same thing. From my point of view, "Of Mice and Men" is revealing as a historical document, perhaps worth studying as a piece of craftsmanship, but non-existent as a tragedy. It would be awfully sentimental, I think, to weep over a rat which fails to understand the maze and hence misses his dinner of cheese, although of course, such an accident is not amusing. An appreciation of Steinbeck's play demands just this sort of response; man is first reduced to rat-level ("The best laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft a-gley"), then the maze is complicated beyond his measure of comprehension. I do not think, as Steinbeck does, that this is either Tragedy or Truth or Necessity. I tried to make that point clear in my review because I think it's important both to an understanding of the play and to one's understanding of his own reaction to the play.

It might be said that if there is any tragedy involved in this whole issue, it is the tragedy of a great many people taking seriously Steinbeck's estimate of mankind and accepting futility and helplessness as their lot in place of a "raison d'etre". That, certainly, was the tragedy of the "Lost Generation," but I will not believe that it need be the tragedy of this one.

I did not think at the time I wrote the review that I could make any clear statement of how good the acting and direction were until I made my statement of the level on which the play should be understood. I still don't, but in the future any over-all analysis I may make of a play will be separated completely from the review of the actual production. Perhaps then it will become more clear just what it is that you people keep complaining about.

One more thing: it is interesting to note that in all the letters which have been published censuring me for my various "failures," no one has spoken of the only thing for which I myself would like to apologize. I speak of the omission, made necessary by space limitations, of any mention of the sets in "Of Mice and Men." I should like to offer my belated congratulations to John Hopkins for having done an excellent job.

Warnings

When a Toper isn't toping in extremis,
 And a toper can't be toping all the time,
 He likely is the Spark Plug of the party
 And with Co-Eds does the best of pantomime.
 We even like the way he wears his hair cut
 And the way the Rudnick Brothers press his clothes,
 But when it comes to handing out the warnings
 These charms, it seems, the Warner never knows.
 When a Hiker isn't lucky making hitches,
 (And you surely know he isn't manytime)
 He often stands and shivers in his britches
 And wishes Williams had a warmer clime.
 But as the hitchless cars roll quickly by him
 There comes a matchless opportunity for thought
 And sometimes he's inclined to muse and wonder Whether dates this way are not too dearly bought.
 When a Freshman isn't pushing on a Push Ball,
 Even though he's occupied with sweet repose,
 One can always rouse him with a cry of "fire"
 Or at least a cry of "Man the fire hose."
 He likes to see the stairways flowing water,
 But on this, it seems, the Dean doth sterily frown.
 He must protect the sophomores from a hosing,
 For fear the hapless '51 may drown.
 When sage J.A.'s are not advising Freshmen,
 Or meting out their punishment for crime,
 They often sit in sessions filled with wisdom,
 Propounding rules for conduct that's sublime.
 With skill they can distill the College Spirit,
 On rules of Sport their knowledge is complete.
 But when you look at them a little closer,
 You sometimes see the clay upon their feet.
 When a Cutter's very busy cutting classes,
 Or a sleeper is engaged in making sleep,
 Who knows what priceless knowledge he is winning,
 Or what a harvest of emotion he may reap?
 You can never tell what you'll forget in classes,
 But from a date you may remember lots,
 So why should Freshmen waste their time in classes
 When they can dream up sweet forget-me-nots.
 When the Warnee isn't busy getting warnings,
 Or reading lengthy yarns of love or crime,
 He often fills the Williams Halls with laughter,
 Or invents a scheme to make an extra dime.
 Now if Duty's call were just a little louder
 And Exhuberance were not so loud and crass,
 Perhaps, who knows, his college education
 Would have lasted somewhat longer than it has?

Association Selects Donnelly, Dickinson

Two Williams men, Frank Donnelly and Roger Dickinson, were selected last week for the All New England Soccer Team. Donnelly, picked one of the star halfbacks, captained this year's team and turned in an outstanding performance in every encounter at that position.

Left Fullback Rog Dickinson, our other representative, has the added distinction of being one of the few sophomores selected. Playing consistently well through out the season, his work in the Amherst and Springfield games was particularly outstanding. These selections are made from votes by the teams, coaches, and referees.

Cage Captain

Jack Mason, one of the two seniors on the 1948 varsity basketball team, captains this ballclub with three years of varsity experience behind him. Jack hails from Sandy Hook, Connecticut.

A twenty-one year old six footer, he gained his first basketball experience at the George School where he played three years of varsity ball, captaining the team his senior year and breaking the existing school scoring record.

Squash Captain

The 1948 squash team is the second Williams team captained by Frank Donnelly, who also led this fall's varsity soccer team.

This fall Frank's outstanding leadership and talent as a half-back on "Uncle Ed" Bullock's soccer team led to his selection for the All New England Soccer Team which is chosen by the teams, the coaches and the referees and may well lead to further recognition on the All American team, yet to be selected.

Hoopsters Win In Scrimmage

Purple Five Rehearses For Trinity Opener

Dale Burnett's Sophomore-laden basketball team added the North Adams Crusaders to their list of pre-season scrimmage victims last Wednesday as they took them 75-59 in a practice game. This was the dress rehearsal for the home opener with a veteran Trinity ballclub on Saturday night.

Still looking for a perfect combination, coach Burnett used eighteen men in the game. Fifteen took part in the scoring which was led by six foot six Harry "Squid" Sheehy's eighteen points. Sharpshooting George Dittmar put the Ephmen into the lead by swishing four of his first five shots but after this it became a tight struggle as the deft ball-handling and play-making of the Crusader center opened large holes in the purple defense.

Sheehy Shines

However, Captain Jack Mason, Chuck Pusey and Sheehy chipped in with sixteen points to give the varsity a comfortable halftime lead. Early in the second half the hookshot artistry of the Crusader center cut this lead to a mere three points but at this stage Sheehy took over. In less than ten minutes he scored twelve points on sets, lay-ups and hooks from all corners of the floor to sew up the ballgame.

Perhaps the game's most significant feature was the fact that at one point coach Burnett had a quintet on the floor which averaged slightly over six foot three. It was made up of Sheehy, Pusey, Bob Larsen, Pete Goodfellow and Bud Cool and still left several six footers on the bench.

Odds And Ends

Fresh Football star John Kulsar's refereeing was reminiscent of Pat Kennedy's colorful Madison Square Garden style and left no doubt as to who was in charge on the floor...Captain Mason looks good at his new guard position, he and Dittmar may well turn out to be the best pair of backcourt operatives in our league... The fine floorwork of veterans George Bush and Jerry Page is making the highly touted sophomore stars hustle for spots on the first ten.

Bob Carrington Elected Mass. Representative

Election of Robert Carrington '51 as Massachusetts representative to the National Student Executive Council of the United World Federalists highlighted the regional meeting of New England colleges at Yale University on December 2, 3, and 4.

Carrington joins Dick Goodman '49, president of the Williams chapter, on the governing council of 35 members. Goodman was elected as a representative-at-large at the recent national convention of the Student Federalists. The Executive Council formulates policy for the 10,000 members of the organization.

The purpose of the meeting was to organize and coordinate regional activities and to inform the various representatives of Federalist activities through seminars, two of which were conducted by Ned Stebbins '51 and Carrington. Len Jacob '51 also attended.

"A great deal of work was done in organization," said Carrington. "The Williams chapter has apparently achieved an excellent national reputation." He went on to say that the local chapter was delegated the leadership in student federalism in western Massachusetts, principally in helping weaker student chapters and in starting new student and adult chapters.

Pro. Lehmann, Noted Arch'ologist, To Talk

Will Lecture On Excavation

Color Slides To Show Greek Island Work

Karl Lehmann, noted archaeologist and art historian who is at present a Professor of Archaeology at New York University, will speak on the topic "Excavations on a Greek Island" on Monday evening, December 13 at 8 p.m. in Jesup. This will be the third lecture of the "Williams Lecture Committee's series.

Mr Lehmann is now directing an excavation on the Greek Island of Samothrace and has unearthed a sanctuary where members of mysterious cults of the ancient Greeks came to pray. His lecture, which will concern these discoveries, will be illustrated by color slides taken on the scene by Mr. Lehmann.

Makes Rocks Interesting

Prof. William Pierson, of the art department, who studied two years under Lehmann commented, "He has a dynamic personality—the sort of lecturer who keeps you perched on the seat of your chair, even when he's only talking about a pile of rocks."

Professor of Archaeology at Munster University until 1933, Mr. Lehmann left Germany at that time because of Nazi pressure, and settled in Italy, where he worked on a book on Pompeii until 1935. He then left Europe to accept appointment to the University of Fine Arts of N.Y.U. as Professor of Fine Arts.

Excavations Begun in '37

Appointed director of the Archaeological Research Fund in 1937, Mr. Lehmann began Samothrace excavations, which, because of the war, were not completed until last year.

Recently Mr. Lehmann, who has written on Pompeian architecture, the reliefs on the Column of Trajan and other archaeological subjects, has published a book entitled "Thomas Jefferson, American Humanist". This work is especially noteworthy in view of the short time Mr. Lehmann has spent in this country.

Mr. Lehmann, who had one son in the class of '48 and who has another, Ernie, in the class of '51, will speak on Tuesday before the American History and Literature Seminar on Jefferson and before the Art 1 course on Roman Insular Architecture.

"Comment" To Hit Campus Dec. 18

Second Feature Issues Essay On Citizenship

Editor in Chief John Hopkins '50 has announced that "Comment", the youngest Williams publication, will make its second appearance on campus on Friday, December 17.

This issue's lead article was written by Professor Richard A. Newhall and is entitled "Citizenship In A Democratic World Power." The format is somewhat larger than it has been in the past and much of the artwork is printed in color. The emphasis has been put on fiction and art rather than non-fiction, predominant in the last issue.

The magazine still sells for thirty-five cents per single copy.

British Expand '49 Summer School Plans

Many Subjects Offered Overseas Students At Reasonable Cost

Encouraged by their success during the past two years, British universities, in cooperation with the Institute of International Education, New York, and the British Council, are expanding their program of summer schools for overseas students in 1949. The number of courses will be increased and provision will be made for a larger number of American students.

Nine universities are arranging schools for next year, to be held from July 10 through August 20 in various parts of England and Scotland. Most courses will offer field trips and will afford opportunities for American students to see a great deal of Great Britain, as well as to meet students from other nations.

Wide Range

The courses will range over a wide field, covering studies of English social life, English literature, democratic government in Britain, British industrial development, town planning, modern European civilization, and ancient Greece. They are intended primarily for graduates and teachers, but in some cases students in their junior and senior years with good academic records will be able to attend. At some universities special assistance will be given to students preparing theses in their subject.

Arrangements are being made to accommodate an overall figure of 780 United States students, who will live either in colleges or in university hostels. Although food is rationed, the supply is adequate.

The cost of the courses, including tuition and maintenance for the six weeks, will be $216 to $264, in addition to the cost of travel. See BRITISH, Page 3

Chest Fund Drive On Campus Heads Toward Finish Dec. 13

Canvass Social Units; Goal Set At $7950

Collectors will close their books Monday evening as the 1948 Chest Fund winds up a campus-wide canvass to raise $7950 for fifteen local, national, and world charities.

Although no definite reports are yet available on the amount of contributions solicited, Treasurer Ben Farrington '51, reports that steady progress is being made in the drive. If the goal is attained, WCA will be able to sign the fifteen proposed Christmas-gift-to-charity checks early next week.

Pledges Due March 1

In spite of the drive's emphasis on paying now by check or cash, a large proportion of the undergraduate body, because of present financial difficulties, have chosen the pledge plan. These promises to pay are due March 1, 1949. Checks should be made out to the Williams Chest Fund Drive and mailed to Treasurer Ben Farrington, c/o Chest Fund Drive, Williams Christian Association, Williamstown.

Collectors for the drive have been appointed on a social unit basis, one man from each of the sixteen social units being in charge of collections in his territory. The exception to this is Freshman contributions, which are being solicited in the dorms.

Take It Easy Over Vacation

Speed Will Leave Room For More Frosh In '49

by Dan Pugh

Anybody who isn't waiting expectantly for Christmas vacation is non compos mentis. These last few days don't contain too much of the sublime joy-of-going-to-school. Here we sit, finishing up our time and wondering about the approaching final hour test which the so-and-so of the such-and-such department foisted upon us. Come December 22nd and we'll be the hell out. But quick! A lot of guys will take the train.

A lot more will drive a car; and those who are still beating the dust from their trousers picked up from the Boston and Maine will be eager to hop into the family jalop. Not too many hours will be spent in telling the kid sister the straight poop on "Gee, it must be sub-well to be in College!" Ninety per cent of us hope to avoid that sort of thing; the first party is always the best possible thing to a Williams hermit. But there are a couple of insurance companies out in Chicago who seem to be a trifle worried over some repercussions of "Wheel Party — Party". They sent us some figures. Maybe they've got a point. You be the judge.

Weston Talks To Freshmen

Lecturer Reviews Williams Tradition

Williams' history from Fitch to Baxter, concluded Professor Emeritus Karl Weston in the second of the freshman orientation talks last Tuesday night, has been key-noted by progress through the interpretation of tradition. The lecture was entitled "Williams Traditions."

Though he lamented briefly over the passing of such traditions as that of "Mountain Day", saying he regretted that the students had "turned from the trails in the purple hills to concrete highways leading to Smith and Vassar", Dr. Weston dwelt mainly on living rather than past traditions.

Academic Freedom

Academic freedom has long been a principal tradition at Williams, stated Dr. Weston. Since the turn of the 19th century, when Williams was an oasis of Federalism in a stronghold of Jeffersonian Democracy, underwent repeated local journalistic attacks, the college has met and survived frequent criticism of its policy of academic freedom.

President Baxter, in defending Professor Schuman's right to speak, is echoing the attitude of President Garfield, who refused to dismiss a member of the faculty for speaking on "The justification of the Bolsheviks". Those who do not approve of this academic freedom, said Dr. Weston, label Williams "red".

Haystack Monument

Dr. Weston, who confesses to have taught under five of Williams' ten presidents, referred to the development of two seemingly opposite traditions at the college. The Haystack Monument was erected to commemorate a secret prayer meeting that resulted in the founding of the American Board of Foreign Missions by a group of students in 1803. This society, first of American foreign missions, is strongly supported by the college today. Oddly, Williams was one of the first colleges to emphasize scientific education. Spurred by Amos Eaton, who popularized science in this country as well as at Williams, and later by Professor Albert Hopkins, builder of the Hopkins observatory, Williams has maintained a high standing in the scientific world.

Williams has had many "firsts". Among the "firsts" pointed out by Dr. Weston were the first college scientific expedition to a foreign country, the first college catalogue, the first college alumni society, and the first college gym.

Varsity Gives Potter, Bell, Watters Gifts

Watters Plans Informal Spring Practice; Fitch Manager Next Year

Last Tuesday evening at the annual football banquet given by President and Mrs. James P. Baxter, 3rd, the fifty members of the squad unanimously elected Stu Duffield '50 as Captain of the 1949 Williams football team. Retiring captain Dick Whitney '49 announced the thirty-four letter winners for the past season.

Commenting on the outlook for next season, Coach Len Watters said "Next year we'll make them all sit up and take notice." He also announced that there would be an informal spring practice for all those men that were not going out for any other sport.

Gifts To Coaches

President Baxter, Coach Watters, Whitney, and Captain-elect Duffield all made short speeches, and Whitney presented gifts to the members of the coaching staff on behalf of the varsity.

It was also revealed at the dinner that Larry Fitch '50 would succeed Jack Stephenson '50 as Football Manager and that Blair Perry '51 has won the competition for Assistant Manager. Jack Gibson '50 will continue as Field Manager, while Ted Halprin '51 moves up to the position of Freshman Manager, replacing Bill Chesborough '50.

Captain Duffield is a member of Phi Gamma Delta and came to Williams from Cranford High, Cranford, N. J., where he was an all-state back in his senior year. Duffield acted as game-captain this season after Dick Whitney was hurt in the first game, and he led the team in total offense. This was his second year on the varsity in addition to playing one year for the freshmen. He also played freshman basketball. In his first year at Williams, Stu was president of his class and served on the Undergraduate Council.

Discuss Modern Art In Religion

Based On Lawrence Church Art Exhibit

The relation of music, art, and poetry as exemplified by the current exhibit of modern church art at the Lawrence Art Museum will be the topic of a discussion to be held in Lawrence Hall Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. Cluett Professor of Religion, John A. Hutchinson, Prof. Hallett D. Smith of the English department, and Professor Emeritus Karl E. Weston of the art department will lead the discussion.

According to S. Lane Faison, Director of the Lawrence Museum, the current exhibit is an attempt to show that the question, "can modern art contribute to religious experience?" can be answered in the affirmative. The discussion, which will be held in the exhibit room, will attempt to coordinate the varied reactions which are expected as a result of the exhibit.

NUMBER 43

An Administration Conspiracy?

The date for the beginning of the Christmas holiday has evoked much criticism and talk about the campus this year. It has even been characterized in a letter to the RECORD as an attempt by the administration "to force upon the student body the idea that the college controls the student body and can make it remain on campus as long as those in command desire."

Is this a true characterization? Perhaps it would be expedient to examine the situation. The college calendar is tentatively made up more than a year in advance by the administration and approved by the trustees. So far, however, the calendar has never been made up with an eye to correlating it with the calendars of other colleges. Perhaps the major error lies in this fact.

Two Week Vacation

Traditionally, the Christmas vacation lasts for two weeks. This two weeks is placed so that, in the minds of those who draw it up, the best possible relation to New Year's and Christmas is maintained. The administration, drawing up this year's calendar, thought that the two weeks would be better spaced in relation to the New Year and Christmas if three days were given on each side of these holidays, rather than having five days off before Christmas and one day off after New Year's which included the weekend before Christmas in the vacation would entail. It is unfortunate that this decision did not coincide with the majority of other colleges.

The dates of the vacation, however, are certainly not an attempt on the part of the administration to "rub things in," or to make life unpleasant for the student. Rather, it is an earnest attempt to give the students the best possible vacation, and is in no way an attempt on the part of the administration to exert its force and power on the unfortunate student.

What To Do?

What can be done about this? For the present—nothing. It is too late to change the dates of the present vacation. It certainly seems that it would work out better in the future, however, if the administration, in making out the calendar, would check with other colleges and attempt to correlate the Williams' vacations with those of other colleges, so that the present difficulties would not arise again. The administration is attempting to do just this.

The whole attitude of the student body on this subject and cuts and attendance in general, seems to indicate a feeling of commercialism on the part of the student body. There is a tendency to regard the whole process of college life as a business, with the college out to cut the students' throats, rather than to provide an education.

$1.50 Per Class

If the student stops to think a moment, that he is paying almost one dollar and fifty cents for each class he goes to, would this same attitude prevail? The college calendar is made up so that each class will meet forty to forty-two times each semester. Would the student like to go to less classes, and have more and longer vacations? Would it make him happier if he got less for his money? Less classes would certainly make for easier work for the administration and the faculty. If the student thinks he is getting too much for his money, then, perhaps, we ought to look into the matter of having less classes and prolonged vacations.

WOC Tickets On Sale Soon

Slight Increase In New Season Rates

Announcement of prospective outings at Amherst and at Heart Lake in the Adirondacks and the circulation of the second issue of the WOC Yodeler, highlighted the meeting of the Williams Outing club Thursday night, December 2.

The Amherst outing will begin with hiking on Mt. Toby this afternoon, followed by a song fest and square dance tonight featuring the calling of Lawrence Loy. Sunday's plans are still indefinite. Dartmouth, Smith, Mt. Holyoke, and other New England colleges are sending representatives to Amherst. Although a quota of six has been established for the full outing, any number may attend the dance tonight.

"Wishful thinking" was the term used to describe the proposed Adirondack "Winter College Week" beginning December 18. Due to the conflict with the college schedule, little enthusiasm was shown for the intercollegiate outing planned at Adirondack Loj, eight miles south of Lake Placid.

A six page issue of the "Yodeler" marked the second journalistic attempt by WOC members. The newspaper contained descriptions of the two Mt. Holyoke outings, an article on the new Sheep Hill warming hut, and several previews of coming WOC events and projects.

Uncle Eph's Worm Farm

by D. Lighto de Moon

Now that the smoke of battle has cleared and the struggle between Bob Taylor and the local drama fans seems to have ended in a verbose stalemate, there is a little room on this page for a few letters to this column.

We get quite a few letters. Some of them say we stink. Others are content to say they haven't laughed yet, and we ought to leave Josiah T. S. Horton well enough alone.

But every once in a while we get nice heartfelt letters from folks in trouble who need advice. They don't slander anything or anybody. Neither do they want to use the column as a showcase to display their icy wit and biting sarcasm.

All they desire is the help of one whose sincerity and sagacity is a weekly (with luck) guiding star in their lives.

(D. Lighto de Moon caught in typical mad moment of the kind of pre-martial bliss which so eminently qualifies him to speak on affairs of the heart.)

We do our best to counsel these poor lovelorn ones, and lead them back to the path to happier and better adjusted lives. Here is a recent letter from a little girl down at Smith which touched us deeply. She writes:

Mah Deah Mr. de Moon:

Ah'm a delicious I'll platinum blonde with a body that would rate a donation to anybody's chest fund. It so happens that last summer I went swimming and met a potential country gentleman from Williams, a lush from Amherst, and a swimmer from Wesleyan. I subsequently fell in love with, and became engaged to, all three. Such lovely boys!

They are all coming home this Xmas vacation and all want to get married on New Year's Eve. The trouble is that I have since fallen desperately in love with a Mohammedan who was just elected captain of the Princeton football team.

My problem is this, Mr. de Moon! What color wedding dress do you think would look best with my hair, which is a gorgeous platinum blonde?

Confused Gorgeous Platinum Blonde

ANSWER: Dear Miss Confused Gorgeous Platinum Blonde:

Better see Mr. Rosasco about boats leaving soon for South America.

We got this letter only last week from a young lady up at Bennington. We take this opportunity to answer her heartrending plea. She writes:

Dear Mr. de Moon,

Last week I read a note in your column which disturbed me very much. It said that some "hand"-some potential country gentleman from Williams had actually sold a date with me for a penny.

You awful fellows just don't realize what you are doing to a poor young girl's reputation. All my friends are calling me One-Cent Piece, and I haven't had a date in a week.

Please, please, Mr. de Moon, give me the benefit of your long experience. What would you do if you were in this situation?

Perplexed

ANSWER: Dear Miss Perplexed,

We'd bid two cents.

These next two letters just arrived in tonight's mail. We haven't had a chance to open them yet. Let's see. This first one reads:

Dear Mr. de Moon,

We recommend that the Scalper's Trophy, Annual Award for the Year's Worst Barber, be given in 1949 to Don "The Ripper" Wyman. Other awards for supporting roles go to Earle "Hacker" Spencer, Pete "Straight-jacket" Smythe, Berry "Blunt Instrument" Smith, and Phelps Edwards. The best frat bros a guy ever had.

The boys deserve the highest recognition for the fine job they did last Wednesday night. Thanks to a hasty first-aid job by Armand St. Pierre, their handiwork was quickly camouflaged.

Baldy

This next envelope smells funny. "Make-Out" at $22.50 an ounce. It is postmarked Poughkeepsie.

Dearest, darlingest, cutest little D. Lighto my life,

I read your column every week, four or five times. I think you are simply the smartest, cleverest, most intelligent, most wonderful person I have ever known.

Here is a picture of me aboard our yacht off Aca-pulco. All my friends say I'm heaven on wheels.

And speaking of wheels, my daddy just sent me up a little old Cadillac convertible to celebrate his 500th oil well. But I think there must have been some mistake, because I found a whole case of Scotch in the trunk.

I'm just dying to meet you, Delighto. I want to give you the most fabulous, vibrant time you've ever had. I long to hold your pulsating body in my smooth white arms. If you want anything, just pucker up an

(Editor's Note: This week's Worm Farm was not in when the rest of the paper went to the printer. We went to D. Lighto de Moon's room and found this unfinished story still in the typewriter. D. Lighto was nowhere to be found. A passerby said he had suddenly sprinted through the door, jumped in his car, and roared off in a clot of mud. He was heard to mumble something about spending this weekend at Vassar.)

Just to give your voice a lift

When you make a long distance telephone call, your voice would soon fade out were it not for vacuum tube repeaters. They give your voice a lift whenever needed—carry it clearly from coast to coast.

Vacuum tubes and other electronic devices are playing an ever-growing part in your Bell telephone service. As the manufacturing unit of the Bell System, Western Electric makes millions of these intricate little things.

To produce them to highest standards of precision and at lowest cost, Western Electric has just completed its new Allentown, Pa., plant—latest addition to vast telephone making facilities in 18 cities. Now, and in the years ahead, this new Western Electric plant will help to make your Bell telephone service better than ever.

Driving - - -

18-24 year age group, which in proportion to that range limit is the highest of any. And the yearly mileage covered by Williamsites and their collegiate brethren is a lot less than that of persons in older groups. "But", you say, "I'm a good driver, I've never been in an accident." All of which is very true. You are a good driver, your reaction time is better than most, you have the feel of the car. And you've never been in an accident. Neither had 40,000 other people till last year.

Now, several things flash through our minds when we step on it a little or have a couple at Uncle John's house before supper. We think somebody said that you don't make up so much time by speeding, and that you are a bit sower even after one drink. But beyond that flash, little more takes place. We're all from Missouri. OK. Take heed, ye dolts.

Two and half times more deaths occur in accidents where the car has been going over fifty miles per hour than in the next highest speed group (40 to 50). A test recently conducted in Kansas City produced the following results: a car driven for 295 miles at top speed of 65 averaged 49 mph and passed 126 others. The same car went the whole way again at top speed of 50, averaging 43, and passing 62 others. The first time the trip was covered in 6 hours and 25 minutes, the second time was 6 hours and 50 minutes. By saving 25 minutes, the driver increased his chances of missing the cocktail party at Uncle John's by a substantial amount, and he used 11 per cent more gasoline. That extra ten miles an hour doesn't pay a bit, and your chances of survival are decreased way out of proportion.

One fifth of all deaths last year were due to drinking. According to most authorities, you are sober if the alcohol content in the blood is less than 1/20 of one per cent. You're soused at anything over. Two shots of Uncle John's hootch bring it up to 1/20 of 1 percent. The old reactions start to slow up even though you aren't aware of it. Even if you walk away from the mangled aftermath the two insurance companies who are issuing their word of precaution aren't going to help you out for the freight.

Seniors Elect Committee

McCord, Swan, Barnes On Scholarship Group

Three members of the Senior Class, Colin McCord, Wilbur Swan, and Wallace Barnes, have been elected undergraduate members of the nine man committee to administer the Stephen H. Tyng and Stephen H. Tyng Jr. Foundation. The foundation provides a group of unique scholarships which are, at present, giving aid to twenty Williams students and eight Williams graduates at various Universities throughout the country.

Realizing that many men of great ability but of limited means were forced to spend so much time working to meet expenses beyond those covered by the normal scholarship, Mrs. Juliet A. Tyng provided in her will that a fund be set up in memory of her husband and son to provide funds to support such students at Williams. The actual amount of the grant is adjusted to the individual's financial need; if necessary, it will cover all his expenses.

The scholarships are administered by a nine man committee composed of three alumni, three college trustees, and three members of the Senior Class, one of which is elected by the members of Alpha Delta Phi, and the other two at a meeting of the entire Senior Class. McCord represents the AD House, while Barnes and Swan were elected by the Senior Class as a whole to serve on the committee.

So consider well; all the stuff you hear about "those crazy college kids" isn't entirely bologna. Tell the guy in the back seat that your girl knows that you are a good driver, that you don't have to show her, and that junior in the rear should go back to his business at hand. And tell Uncle John after the second round (he, now giving birth to a litter of kittens) that you've had enough: you're the luckless guy who has to drive home. A lot of families will have a merrier Merry Christmas that way.

Aptitude Test Free To Vets - Wyckoff

Those Interested Apply At Placement Bureau

Vocational aptitude tests of the Veterans Administration, placement Director William O. Wyckoff announced Monday, may be scheduled for Williams veterans through the Placement Bureau at no cost to the veteran. The tests will be given at the R.P.I. Guidance Center, Troy.

Wyckoff advises those interested to bring their "C-number" and service serial number, and fill in the form letter at the Bureau requesting appointment. "Possibly a two to four weeks delay will follow the filing date due to the usual governmental red tape," the Placement Director continued, "but don't let that scare you off." Interested non-veterans may take the same tests at the same place without delay, but at a cost of $25. Those desiring the aptitude test are requested to report at the Placement Bureau for instruction.

By interviewing all seniors between now and the Christmas holidays, the Bureau is accomplishing a two-fold purpose: to furnish employment leads to be examined during the recess, and to check each individual writeup for future use in employee bulletins.

Plans for the nineteenth annual Mid-Winter Homecoming to be held February 12-13, are "maturing rapidly," according to Albert V. Osterhout '08, chairman of the committee planning the reunion. "An impressive sports program, the alumni luncheon, and fraternity initiations will be feature attractions of the reunion," he said.

The sports program will include an Amherst basketball game, Williams-Springfield swimming meet, hockey with Middlebury, Coast Guard wrestling match, and squash with Wesleyan.

President James P. Baxter 3rd, will preside over the alumni luncheon Sunday, February 13. Mr. Osterhout, who originated the Mid-Winter Homecoming plan in 1931, urged all alumni with sons in school to bring them to the affair.

At the luncheon, the James C. Rogerson Cup and Medal will be presented. The gift of Mrs. Rogerson and the Class of 1892, the trophy is awarded for one year to an alumnus or outstanding member of the Senior Class for service to the college and "distinction in any field of endeavor." The Rockwood Tennis Trophy, the Belvidere Brooks Memorial Medal to the outstanding football player of the year, and the Meredith Wood Alumni Fund Trophy, given for one year to the class agent whose class has the highest percentage of contributions to the alumni fund during the previous year, will also be presented.

According to the reunion schedule, fraternity initiations will be held Friday and Saturday, February 21-22.

Ephmen Gird For First Attack Against Strong Trinity Quintet

Dale Burnett's varsity basketball team faces Trinity College of Hartford, Conn., in the season's opener at 8:00 p.m. tonight in the Lasell Gym. The Trinity aggregation will already have one game under its belt, a clash with MIT at Hartford Wednesday night.

It promises to be an interesting battle between two evenly-matched quintets, and a sizable crowd should be on hand to take a look at the Ephmen in their 1948-49 debut. Trinity, which won eleven and lost six last year, has six returning lettermen and can field an all-veteran quintet tonight, but will miss Red Faber, considered the finest all-around hoopster ever to perform for the Hilltoppers, who graduated last June. Faber, now playing pro ball, and returning Ron Watson starred as the Trinity five knocked off the Purple 58-36 last winter at Hartford.

Starting Line-up

up for tonight is tentatively set with Captain Jack Mason and George Dittmar at the guards, pivot-man Chuck Pusey at center, and Howie Taylor and Bob Larson at the forward posts. Pusey and Larson are sophomores, while Mason is one of the two seniors on the squad.

Sophomore Harry "Squid" Sheehy, biggest man on the squad, will see plenty of action during the evening if his height is needed under the backboards, and Burnett probably will use as many other substitutes as the score permits, in an attempt to see what the squad looks like under game conditions. At the moment, the Williams second team consists of George Bush, Dewey Fagerburg, Dave Jackson, Jerry Page, and Sheehy, with Bud Cool, Jack Fraser, and Pete Goodfellow not far behind. Chances are strong that most of these men will be in the ball game tonight if the starting five fails to click as it should.

Trinity Strong

Bill Pitkin, who set an all-time Trinity scoring record with 30 points against Union last year, will be at center for the visitors. Captain Joe Ponsalle and veteran Jack Mahon are slated to open in Coach Ray Oosting's backcourt, with Watson at one forward berth and perhaps Don Boyko or Bill Leahy at the other. All of these men played varsity ball last season, with Pitkin and Watson averaging better than ten points a game, and they are backed by several promising sophomores who undoubtedly will see action.

It may develop into a battle of giants tonight, for both ball clubs will have some big men on the floor. Larson and Pusey each stand 6'4" while Sheehy is just under 6'6". For the visitors, Watson is the tallest starter at 6'5", and Boyko and Pitkin hit 6'3". But Williams chances nevertheless rest largely with Captain Mason and George Dittmar, last year's high scorer. These two men seem to be the essential cogs in the Williams machine this year, and will have to provide the steadying influence if things go wrong.

Muirmen Face B.U. Terriers

No Records Expected In Today's Opener

by Norm Wood
This afternoon Williams will have a first look at its 1948-49 swimming team, when the latter meets an improving Boston University team in Lasell Gym pool at 3 p.m. Since it is the season's opener, spectators should not expect the team to turn in times and performances similar to the ones at the end of last year. The Muirmen have plenty of slashing talent, and should go a long way this year, but it is just too early to expect record-breaking and low times.

B. U. Improved

Boston University is better than it was last year. The Purple did not meet the Terriers then, except through the New England, in which B.U. received no points. This does not necessarily mean that the Terriers are powerless; it means that last year they had no individual stars. Williams is, however, too strong for them.

The curtain-raiser event, the 300 medley relay, will see Ted Lamot, John Snyder, and Bill Rueckert doing their back stroke, breaststroke, and freestyle legs. Co-captain Ray Baldwin, Bob Reid, and Chick Brashears should be in the 220, with the latter Moe Murray, and George Coale doing honors in the 50.

Cliff Stowers and Bill Sperry are the divers, and Murray, Rueckert, and Baldwin, the 100 freestylers. Co-captain Hank Wine-man, and former frosh captain Dick Lippincott will do the back-paddling, and Snyder and Swede Svenson will handle the breast-stroke. Reid, Sandy Lambert, and Brashears will swim the marathon 440. In the final event, the 400 freestyle relay, most likely performers are Brashears, Murray, Rueckert, and Baldwin. Coale and Jim Burbank may well get in on this one.

Squash Takes Pre-Seasoners

Last Practice Meet At McGill This Weekend

In two practice meets last week end Coach Chaffee's squash team initiated their season with victories over the Williams Club and the Bronxville Field Club. On Saturday afternoon the raquetmen won 7-3 over the New Yorkers; the next day, in another informal match, Bronxville also lost 6-3.

Although four varsity men; George Kneass, George Muller, Bill Mikell, and George Wright didn't make the trip, the sixth through tenth positions were aptly filled by John Worcester, Art Treman, Bill Reigel, Rollo Palmedo, and Tom Kent. The other regulars; Rich Allen, J. T. Dresser, Randy Thomas, Frank Donnelly and Al Goodrich played in the first through fifth slots.

Playing the Williams Club, the Ephmen met a strong contender in Maulsby. At the number one position, he downed Allen in four games. Donnelly and Worcester also bowed in this match to Warner and Boyce.

The Bronxville Field Club match followed generally the same pattern. Rich Allen, however, defeated their top man, Mulowney, 15-11, 15-8, 15-11.
Opener Dec. 17
Winding up their pre-season encounters, the squash team's next objective is McGill University at Montreal this weekend. Little is known of the Canadians' strength but the results of last weekend point up success for this year's squad in the face of its large and difficult schedule. The raquetmen open their official season on December 17 with an away game at MIT. Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Army, and Dartmouth are also slated in later on this winter.

Today's Line-up

The probable line-up arrangement against McGill today will be; Rich Allen playing number one with George Wright and Bill Mikell numbers two and three respectively. Dresser is number four; Thomas, five; and Muller, number six. Captain Frank Donnelly, Kneass, and Goodrich fill in the seventh, eighth, and ninth positions.

Makepeace Approves New Board Track

Construction of a new board track to replace the old one, which is too far gone to be repaired, has been formally approved by Charles D. Makepeace, Treasurer of Williams College. The contract has been awarded to D. McNab Deans, Williamstown contractor. The new track will be constructed over Christmas vacation and will be ready for use on January 5, when the holidays are over.

Basketball Inaugerates 50th Year At Williams Tonight

First Purple Squad Won Wide Fame

When Coach Dale Burnett's Purple quintet steps on the polished floor of Lasell Gymnasium tonight, they will inaugurate the 50th anniversary of basketball at Williams College. For it was in 1898, at the height of the glorious "gay-nineties", that basketball, now America's most popular sport, first hit the Williams campus.

Although the college at Springfield, then known as the Y.M.C.A. College, was the birthplace of basketball in 1891, the game did not seep through to Williamstown until seven years later. It then met indifference and even hostility on the part of the college as a whole. The first court enthusiasts could not even gain permission to use the gymnasium for practice until old Goodrich Hall was condemned unsafe.

Lack of Teamwork

The crusading force in the college for the introduction of basketball was the Williams Weekly.

HOLIDAY

An Adventure in Good Smoking

Noting that the new game had found wide popularity in colleges throughout the country, the Weekly argued that public basketball games would be a welcomed treat to the undergraduates who were restricted at that time to viewing exhibitions of gymnasium work.

In response to this appeal a basketball club was formed which organized class teams and held a series of games for the championship of the college. After Lasell gymnasium had been renovated for the game and a coach had been secured, the teams practiced there every evening. The following is an account from the Weekly describing one of the early tilts: "There were many spectators at the game in the gymnasium last Saturday evening. The game was hotly contested and the teams showed improvement, yet there is absolutely no team work. It seems evident that the players never think of the other men on the team but simply try to play the whole game by themselves. The only indication of team work was between Broadhurst and Hunter, and two goals were the result." Undoubtedly, the reader will wonder just how much teamwork Broadhurst and Hunter displayed.

Low Scoring

But basketball was a very low-scoring game in 1898 as compared with today. In fact, in the final game of the season, in which the Senior team defeated the freshmen, the score was only 11-9. There was such a marked improvement in teamwork, however, that the game promised to become a permanent fixture of the winter term.

The following year the Weekly agitated for a continuance of the inter-class rivalry. Since the gym wasn't prepared for the game until late February, however, no league was organized that year.

Freshman Team

In 1900 basketball took great strides in establishing itself at Williams. An unrecognized team of undergraduates was formed which was successful in most of its games. Because of the creditable showing it made, there was a strong feeling among interested circles that basketball ought to be recognized by the college at large.

During the Christmas vacation of 1899 an informal freshman aggregation played several games, but through no fault of their own offended the dignity of the upperclassmen. Unfortunately, the news papers made the mistake of referring to the freshman squad as the "Williams" team, a fact which irked the upper classmen no end. They were aroused so far as to say "it is adding insult to injury to give the name of the college to an unauthorized team, and then to be ingloriously beaten by the world renowned teams of North

Outing Today At Amherst

Singing, Dance Tonight; Hiking On Mt. Toby

Williams ski enthusiasts will be able to buy Sheep Hill season tickets at their social units during the coming week, according to Hank Meagher '50, chairman of the Sheep Hill publicity committee of the Williams Outing Club.

Although there has been a slight increase in the cost of the tickets, skiers will be compensated by an organized and sanctioned ski patrol, a warming hut, and an 800 foot tow on the upper half of the hill, all new features on the Eph ski slope. Active WOC members will pay $10, for a ticket, associate WOC members $11, and the general student body $12. Faculty members buying single tickets will pay $10, but married members may purchase two tickets for $12 and pay only $4 for each additional one. Provisions have been made for rates for townspeople and for local school children. Daily rates are $1 for week days and $1.50 on weekends.

To Sign Register

"Security" plans have been devised by Sheep Hill authorities to prevent transfer of the non-transferable season tickets. Each season ticket holder will sign his Adams and vicinity."

Defensive Skill

Not until the fall of 1900, when Max B. Berking became the manager and arranged an eleven game schedule, was basketball a recognized sport at Williams. And suddenly the new team won almost national recognition in basketball circles. For after two tune-up sessions with Drury High School, the Purple hoopsters went on to defeat Dartmouth and Harvard who had hitherto been the titans among the New England colleges. The Eph cagers continued to beat all their opponents except Amherst and Dartmouth in a return engagement.

James W. Vose was the first captain, also the second and the third. Under his leadership the team lost only seven games out of forty six. For examples of good defensive basketball, this year's team might refer to the 46-0 victory over Hamilton and the 52-0 triumph over Cornell, in 1903 and 1904 respectively. There was also a fairly decisive victory over Brown, 51-1. The culminating score of our history was a 77-12 rout of Fordham in 1909, a high figure even by comparison today.

Without a doubt, basketball has come a long way at Williams from those first informal evening practices in the gymnasium. But reputations are difficult to gain and easy to lose. So basketball fans at Williams will be expectantly watching to see if this year's team can perpetuate the fame of the past.

THE Bell Telephone Laboratories is known as a leader in communications engineering. On its staff are 1,622 engineers and scientists with college degrees. Among them they have 7,200 years of college training . . . and they are still learning.

They study many things. How to speed your voice across the street or around the world. How to keep your voice natural in tone and volume. How to make central office equipment capable of switching your call even faster. How to produce in laboratories the materials which are hard to get in their natural form—quartz, for instance. How to conserve the scarce metals which go into wire and cable, by making one circuit carry many conversations.

From such studies they learn how to make your service better and better, and keep its cost low.

Music Library Tops In U.S.

Bulk Of Whiteman Records Arrive

With the recent arrival of the bulk of Paul Whiteman's music library, the Whiteman collection in the Stetson Library has become the largest single collection of modern concert and dance music in any American college or university.

Begun in 1935 with a gift to Williams College of some 500 phonograph records, the collection was increased in subsequent years by hundreds of scores and parts of the Whiteman orchestra.

The aim of the collection now is to enable students of popular music and musicologists to study the development of many forms of modern music, especially the progress in arranging for large and small orchestras.

For the student of jazz the collection includes the actual parts played by such famous Whiteman alumni as the Dorsey brothers, Bing Crosby, and Morton Downey. The collection will eventually include instruments used by the Whiteman orchestra.

The student of modern concert music will find in the collection pieces commissioned by Paul Whiteman and other larger works of unusual interest. The most notable works included in the collection are those of George Gershwin.

for the assistant manager's berth on the varsity. Perry also won his numerals as a manager of last winter's frosh basketball team, was on the Freshman Honor Roll and the Dean's List, and is a member of the Record staff.

Jack Gibson, a member of Phi Gamma Delta, came to Williams from Brighton High in Rochester, N. Y. He was manager of the freshman football team in his sophomore year, and this year was field manager of the varsity, in which capacity he will continue next fall. Manager of the freshman basketball team last winter, he also is an upper-class adviser, a member of the Record, News Bureau, Eph Williams Handbook, president of the Purple Key Society, and a member of the Athletic Council.

Ted Helprin belongs to Phi Sigma Kappa and came to Williams from Choate School. He lives in Riverside, Conn. Helprin was a freshman football manager, and belongs to Cap and Bells and the Yacht Club.

Ditmar's Shot Late In Game Clinches Win

Mason Plays Well

Hoopsters Meet Union Today In Lasell Gym

By Blair Perry
With George Ditmar's swishing one-hand shot in the final minute of play providing the winning margin, varsity basketball coach Dale Burnett's promising ball club produced a thrilling 54-53 victory over Trinity on the Lasell Gym floor here Saturday evening before a capacity first-night crowd. The second in a series of thirteen such productions by the Williams players this season will be presented at 8:00 to-night in a like setting, Union College furnishing the opposition. Both teams were quite unconvincing from the foul line, the Ephmen caging only 10 in 24 tries, but aside from that it was an exceptionally good show for opening night. The visitors had rolled to a 74-44 win over MIT three days before.

Ditmar, Pusey Star
Ditmar and sophomore Chuck Pusey, with 14 points apiece, were the heroes of this two-act melodrama, while Lanky 8'5" Ron Watson of the Hilltoppers played the part of the villain to perfection, hooping 22 points during the evening. High Harry Sheehy was superb in the role of rebound-retriever, Captain Jack Mason gave a fine all-around performance, and the stratospheric work of Bob Larson and Bud Cool contributed no little to the Williams victory. Trinity coach Ray Oosting and his dynamic captain, Joe Ponsalle, meanwhile contributed a touch of comic relief with their attempts to evoke pity from the refs, Costing being particularly adept in his tense portrayal of the wronged coach.

Belated applause also must go to officials, Joe Richards and George Keenan, who did an excellent job in trying circumstances. Less competent men might have lost control of this game in the opening minutes, but they kept things in good order and at the same time showed some sharp whistle-blowing, calling a total of 41 personal fouls.

Slow Start
Action was slow and uncertain at the start of each half, but once the show got under way, thrills were a dime-a-hundred. The Williams five lost a thirteen-point lead early in the second half, went back in front by six, and then fell behind in the final minute. Ditmar's accurate toss saving the day.

Trinity's towering five took an early lead and was ahead 9-2 when Harry Sheehy entered the scene, and the complexion of the play changed completely. Chuck Pusey, sophomore pivotman, sparked the first Williams comeback with four fast hoops, three of them from underneath, and the Ephmen were out in front 20-14 with ten minutes gone. Trinity bounced right back with three charity tosses and a long set, making it 32-23 with two minutes left in the first half. At this point Pusey committed his fourth personal—you're allowed five—

Ancient Shrine Lecture Topic

Dr. Lehmann Describes Aegean, Excavations

An expedition led by him to excavate the temples of an ancient Greek mystery cult on the mountainous Aegean island of Samothrace, where "Poseidon once sat to survey his surrounding domains," was the subject of a lecture by New York University Professor of Archaeology Karl Lehmann Monday night. Although Samothrace is today a rocky, isolated island, overgrown with underbrush, it was the site of a thriving seaport when the Apostle Paul landed there 2000 years ago. Then, one of the most famous of the Hellenic mystery shrines, located in a mountain valley about seven miles from the seaport, attracted people from all parts of the civilized world to the island.

Winged Victory
Strangely enough, after its decline in the early Christian era, the island was "put on the map again, only through an accident." Around 1850, a French consul and amateur collector, stranded by a storm on the island, was guided to the site of the temples by a local fisherman. His accidental discovery there of the "Winged Victory of Samothrace" led the Austrian government to send an expedition there in 1870. Armed with an artists conception of the buildings uncovered, by the Austrians, Professor Lehmann first headed an expedition to the island in 1938. He returned after the war only to find that local

Eph Horsemen Score Again

Polo Team Tops Yale JV With Late Rally

Staging a determined second-half rally, a Williams polo team came from far behind to nose out Yale's JV squad 11-10 on the latter's home grounds last Saturday. The Williams team was composed partly of varsity and partly of JV players.

For the Eph horsemen Chuck Gunther '50 was in the number one position, Bill Hudson was at number two, and Vic Heerman '49 took over the third slot. Hudson was high scorer for the Ephmen, pushing home five goals, while Gunther and Heerman contributed three apiece.

Yale's aggregation consisted of Wick Wickwire, George Webster, and Chuck Gurey, at numbers one to three respectively. Webster's five goals enabled him to tie Bill Hudson for top scoring honors, Gurey chipped in with three, and Wickwire accounted for the other two. Getting off to a fast start, the Eli forces led 9-1 at half-time, only to have the fighting Three Horsemen of Williams rebound for their narrow victory. Unexpected excitement resulted when the Ephmen's Gunther was spilled from his unruly mount in the fourth period, and the stands were rocked with hilarity when another equine participant balked at leaving the field at one point in the afternoon's action. Encouraged by this hard-fought triumph, the Purple squad will take the field in a varsity match at Cornell-January 8.

Entire College Invited To Attend Letter Awards' Presentation Friday

With the culmination of fall sports activities, athletic awards will be presented at a smoker to be held in the Taconic Theater at 4:00 p.m. Friday afternoon, Jack Gibson, Purple Key president announced.

Football, soccer and cross country captains will distribute college emblems and class numerals to members of the varsity and freshman squads at this time. Featuring the introduction of new and larger athletic certificates, plus an improved "letter", the program includes football moving pictures of the trouncing of Princeton by Williams in '42, short action shots of the great Eph team of '35 as they rolled to victories over Amherst and Princeton, a twenty minute reel on "Football Highlights of '47," and possibly a Disney cartoon on "How to Play Football."

Students and members of the faculty are invited to attend, and with free cigarettes on hand, smoking will be permitted in the theater.

UC Suggests Mar. Elections

Frats, Activities Elections Set For Same Time

A recommendation to have the election of SAC representatives and social unit officers occur at about the same time in the Spring term was the most important item considered by the Undergraduate Council at Monday night's meeting. The recommendation came from William R. Barney '49, Chairman of the SAC, who said that if all of the activities represented on the SAC elected their officers and representatives at approximately the same time in the spring term, it would make organization of the new group easier and would eliminate confusion. He also applied his suggestion to UC reorganization in the spring, and said that the new Council would become an efficient working body if social unit presidents were elected within a short time of one another. The UC approved the general suggestion and set March 1 as a tentative date for the necessary elections.

JV's Recognized
UC President Henry Strong '49 read a letter from Jack Gibson '50, President of the Purple Key Society, requesting UC approval of the society's desire to award class numerals to participants in junior varsity athletics. The same regulations that cover freshman and varsity sports would apply. The Council approved this request provided the teams are recognized by the Athletic Department. It was announced that vocational guidance talks would be held like last year at the social units commencing in February.

Thompson Concert Committee Presents Rochester Orchestra

by Dan Pugh
Last Sunday afternoon in Chapin Hall, the Thompson Concert Committee presented the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Erich Leinsdorf before an audience of over 800 people. The well-varied program was interesting and quite successful, although there were several disappointing spots in the performance. These spots left one feeling that they could have done better, perhaps because it was their last night on the road. At the start there was a complication. The musicians were there, the audience was nearly all there, the Thompson Concert Committee ushers were all there too, but no music. The Berkshire Instrument-carrying facilities had missed the boat; no horns. But without too much

UWF Extends Chapter Work

New Structure Set Up; Goodman Re-elected

At a meeting in Griffin Hall Thursday evening, the Williams chapter of the United World Federalists announced a completely new organizational structure and elected the officers necessary for the administration of its widely increased activities. Richard Goodman '49 was re-elected chairman of the chapter while other chapter officers were elected as follows: Peter Kent '51, vice-chairman in charge of Williams; Robert Carrington '51, vice-chairman in charge of field service; Frederick Loney '51, secretary; and Christopher Wright '50, treasurer.

Statewide Work
There are two principal factors which necessitated this reorganization. First, the chapter's scope of work has been greatly expanded, and the emphasis has shifted to statewide work. This is due mainly to the fact that at the recent regional meeting of New England colleges, the Williams chapter was authorized to take the lead in western Massachusetts by helping weaker chapters and by attempting to gain added support in this area. A second reason is the rapid growth of the chapter's membership. According to statistics released by the Federalists there were roughly 120 members, and to date only one half the social units have been covered by the membership drive.

Executive Board
Under the new structure, the executive board of the local chapter will consist of the following: See FEDERALISTS, Page 4

Music By McKinley At Little Three Dance

December 27 has been designated as Little Three Nite at Frank Dalley's Meadowbrook in northern New Jersey. Ray McKinley and his dance band will provide the music for the annual affair which is open to students of Amherst, Wesleyan, and Williams, exclusively. The McKinley Band boasts some of the outstanding musicians in the country, and featured along with Ray McKinley, who is himself one of the world's best drummers, are vocalist Jeannie Friley and trombonist Verne Friley.

All those who wish to make reservations should contact Dave Evans '52 at Theta Delta Chi.

Ad'phic Union Laws Outdated

Debaters Deliberate On Revised Constitution

Harry McDaniel '49, president of the Adelpic Union, introduced the draft of a new constitution at the society's meeting last Thursday night. If the constitution is approved, a "cabinet" will be created composed of each committee and its head.

At present, the Adelpic Union is operating under a "common law system"; the only set of written rules connected with the organization is an ancient and outmoded document dating back to 1858, when the Adelpic Union was a literary society. Harry McDaniel expressed hope that, "If this new constitution is adopted, the Adelpic Union will become a living organization, not just a front for the debating team. Through the creation of a cabinet to carry out executive functions, we will achieve a unity of purpose and action which heretofore have not existed."

Membership
Under the new constitution, anyone desiring membership in the Adelpic Union will be placed on trial for eight weeks; during this period he will be provided by the cabinet with facilities for studying public speaking and debating. After a few "examinations," in which the candidate will be expected to give speeches and answer questions, he will be judged on a basis of interest, ability, and desire to contribute. Any upperclassman who has had preparatory school experience in debating may be admitted to the Union immediately after an examination, without any trial period.

Coming Meets
Debating teams for several meets to be held during the next few weeks have been selected by Associate Professor George Connolly on the basis of tryouts. Fred Peyser '50 and Ed Stack '51 will go to Columbia and Princeton, where they will debate the question of whether a Liberal Arts education can better be obtained at a college than a university. Charles Jensch '50 and Jack McConnell '50 will debate on repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act at Wesleyan and Amherst. Dave Brown '51 and Baird Voorhis '51 are scheduled to discuss the question of federal aid to education with Brown debaters, while Mike Robbins '49 and Hugh Hudson '49 will try to persuade a pair from Smith that "A Woman's Place is in the Home."

Leading Sports Writers, Coaches, And Former Captains Attend Rally

by Bill Barney

Last Thursday evening at the Williams Club in New York City, 138 people were on hand to honor Coach Watters and to start Williams rolling back to the football glory of yesteryear.

Under the superb piloting of Chairman Harry Fisher '25, Clint Butler '26, and Burt Bossi '28, and an ardent alumni group put on a show unprecedented in Williams' history. If the enthusiasm exhibited that night is any indication of things to come, the Wesmen and Little Jeffery have an unexpected surprise in store, and that's putting it mildly.

Fisher Introduces
As the dinner progressed, Master of Ceremonies Fisher introduced Chick Meehan, president of the Touchdown Club, Doug Lawson, former Williams coach, Joe Brooks erstwhile Colgate-American, Ed Fargo '21, captain of the Purple's only undefeated team, and President Baxter, a late arrival, as was Bob Kane, director of athletics at Cornell University.

The overall program, though spotted with humor and witticism, had an underlying air of seriousness which might be summed in Harry Fisher's words that "the alumni and the college are 100% behind Len Watters and Williams football."

Capitalizing on the installation of a loudspeaker system, the group heard the comments and praise of many luminaries in the sport's world. Among the leading sports writers present were Red Smith, Bob Cooke, and Ed Sinclair of the New York Herald Tribune, and Frank Graham, sports editor of the NY Journal-American, who is an honor guest member of the Williams Club. Other sport specialists were Bill Hines of NY Sun and Vic Hanson.

Rev. Roberts Gives Sermon

Pleads For Rejuvenation Of Christian Ideals

In last Sunday's sermon Reverend David Roberts of the Union Theological Seminary asked that the Christmas Story be considered as a contemporary event so that such Christian ideals as forgiveness, generosity, and decency may be renewed in men's minds.

Too often these days God is shut out of men's lives because men "selfishly triumph over each other." As long as there are millions of starving people in the world, and those who are rich pay little attention to these people, "there is no room for God" on this earth; however, God's saving power comes into the world in the form of Christ—at Christmas. Therefore, at least once a year mankind is awakened to these Christian ideals of forgiveness, generosity, and decency.

Reverend Roberts went on to say that if Christian faith is to be reached at all, mankind must employ "humble imagination." Men must not concentrate so much on being prepared to oppose others who might take advantage of them, but rather prepare themselves for a decent, forgiving life.

Play Review Policy

In columns two and three of this page, there is a review by Bob Taylor of the three one-act plays to be presented by Cap and Bells this Friday and Saturday evenings. This reviewing of the plays themselves, before the actual production, initiates a new drama-review policy that will become a permanent feature of this paper.

Before each Cap and Bells presentation, we will run a critical analysis of the play itself, and will then follow-up the actual AMT production with a critique of the acting, scenery, and direction. This change has been motivated by several considerations. We feel that reviewing the plays and the production separately will not only expand our news coverage, but will give our drama critic greater freedom to expound his own views. Although this is definitely not a conscious effort to placate the critics of Taylor's last review, most of whose criticisms we feel were unjustified, it may possibly have that effect.

It will not, of course, satisfy Peter Candler, who in his Letter to the Editor in the issue of December 4 took Taylor to task for "questioning and condemning an already-established and highly praised piece of dramatic literature," and it is not meant to. We want our critic to judge a play on what he sees to be its literary merit, not on its reputation among the mass of Broadway play-goers and critics. If our reviews were meant to echo the opinions of New York columnists, we would send an inexperienced freshman to the library to paraphrase the New York Times, rather than assign the job to a person whom we consider to be a qualified judge and have him express his own opinions.

Furthermore, we feel that a criticism of the plays themselves is more important, from both an educational and a news standpoint, than a critique of the acting and direction that has been of such excellent quality in the past Cap and Bells performances. Some prior knowledge of the content of a play and of what the author is trying to put across greatly enhances one's intellectual appreciation and understanding of the actual performance. Most local play-goers have the ability to judge the performances turned in by the actors, but a much smaller number possess the ability to interpret and judge a play's meaning.

The proficiency of the Cap and Bells personnel has improved so greatly during the past year that no mere superficial pointing out of glaring inadequacies is possible, so now our critic must present a more subtle and penetrating analysis of the production. For such an analysis to be understood, it is necessary that the reader first have a knowledge of the critic's particular interpretation of the play, for his critique of the acting and direction will be the direct result of what he considers to be the meaning and purpose of the play.

and left the game, but Mason threw in two rapid one-handers to leave it 36-23 at intermission.

Lead Lost

Dale Burnett's charges again started slowly in the second half, and the visiting blue-clad ball-hawks racked up 11 straight points before Ditmar hit with a one-hander and Bud Cool made good on a pair of free throws, to retain a 40-34 margin. Pusey counted on a tap-in of Ditmar's set, but Watson and Mahon tallied for the visitors, and sophomore Moon Curtin, after demonstrating some rough-and-tumble tactics on Jack Mason, sank a free throw to cut the Eph lead to 42-41 with 11 minutes left. Ditmar connected from the foul line, but Mahon's long set-shot was good to tie it up, and Pitkin's free toss put Trinity out in front.

Pusey contributed a push-shot good for two points just before leaving via his fifth foul, and Sheehy dropped one in for a 47-45 lead. Bob Larson then tallied twice in quick succession on a tap-in and a jump-shot from the circle, but Ponsalle scored from underneath, as did Watson a minute later. Williams 52-Trinity-51, with a minute and twenty seconds remaining.

Here Watson again came through, this time with a pretty hoop from the pivot post, putting his ball club out in front 53-52 with less than a minute left. But Ditmar's toss from the left side swished cleanly through the hoop, and after Trinity missed one scoring chance with 35 seconds remaining, the Williams five hung onto the ball for the rest of the game as the visitors fouled desperately in a futile attempt to get control. Final score: 54-53.

bandits had stolen a railroad he had constructed to move rubble, and that Bulgarian troops had demolished twenty building blocks from one of the temples for a building of their own.

New Discovery

Just before abandoning a hunch which had led him to dig in a spot which had not previously been touched, a workman found a tablet proclaiming "whoever has not been initiated may not enter here." Working on this discovery, he uncovered what was apparently the original building, an initiation hall, built around 500 B.C., 300 years earlier than the other buildings uncovered.

Adjoining this, the largest circular building of the ancient world was discovered. Digging deeper into the foundations of this rotunda, he found an even earlier shrine, apparently from the seventh century B.C.

Using knowledge that had previously been discovered about Greek mystery cults, and making deductions from plans of the buildings sacrificial alters and other material found in the excavations, Dr. Lehmann was able to conclude much about the rites of the cult, and, among other things, that it was first founded by Greek settlers and the original inhabitants of the island to worship both Gods of the underworld, and a primitive asiatic nature Goddess, and that there were two orders in the cult, both attained mainly by the payment of large sums of money.

Reviewer Calls One-Act Plays Challenge To Actors' Prowess

by Robert Scott Taylor

The three plays to be given next Friday and Saturday nights at the AMT are "Auto-da-fe," by Tennessee Williams, "Spreading the News," by Lady Gregory, and "Waiting for Lefty," by Clifford Odets. This is quite a trip for one evening, the plays being just about as different as plays can get.

"Auto-da-fe"

"Auto-da-fe" is a very short tragedy, written in the style rather characteristic of Williams — a neurotic kind of eloquence suggesting dark intensity and violence. The drama takes place in New Orleans, and the two characters involved, a mother and her thirty-five or forty year old son, intone their conversation with the mystic poetry of religious fanatics. Eloi, the son, is passionate in his appeal for an angry God; his demand is for the burning, for the purification by fire — for all the religious agonies of the inquisition. The Vieux Carre, where they live, is a nest of foulness, of vice and crime, which Eloi wants destroyed, razed, condemned and demolished because it is evil and because these are the terms in which he thinks; he has defined himself in the language of Old Testament Force.

But Eloi acquires, quite by accident, a pornographic picture, and through it he discovers a heretofore unadmitted Force — the force of uncontrollable lust and lewd desire inside himself. He burns with sexuality; it reduces him to an agony of guilt, and he has no choice but to destroy this evil force which has become a part of his being — destroy it together with the apparently innocent boarder whom he has reasoned, with the insane logic of the guilty and ashamed, into the position of one not only spying on his conscience, but also one who is directly connected with the pornographic picture, the filthy inspiration of his lewdness. The play is climaxed sharply with Eloi's wild act of destruction — Eloi's auto-da-fe.

Viewed coldly, "Auto-da-fe" is incredible — the characters, the background, and the plot develop at a rate of speed that is quite impossible. It is a difficult play — one that will be either very bad or very good; there can be nothing halfway here.

But if done well, "Auto-da-fe" will be beautiful. If the actors, in the short time allotted them, can move steadily and smoothly, without jarring the audience, from their general smoldering intensity to their very specific frenzy, the play will be a triumph. "Auto-da-fe" is a challenge; it can, if acted and directed with extreme care and sensitivity, make last month's performance at the AMT look like a boy scout picnic. Otherwise, it will be the sort of thing that embarrasses the audience.

"Spreading The News"

"Spreading the News", by Lady Gregory, may not be the worst play the AMT could have chosen, but it is certainly in there plugging. There is a chance, of course, that it might be saved by very good character acting, since "character" seems the greatest interest of the playwright. Without that, it will be a total loss.

The play is in Irish dialect and deals with the astonishing growth of a false rumor which spreads until, at the end of the play, an innocent man is arrested for murdering another man who shows up on the stage and is in turn arrested for impersonating himself. This sequence, of course, cannot possibly be a surprise to anyone. "Spreading the News" was written around 1900 in Ireland and, certainly, that is some justification for the plot sequence being stale. But from a viewpoint of 1948 America, and without due consideration for the ravages of time and difference in place, it is the sort of thing one might expect to see in a movie-short starring Leon Errol who, to make matters worse, speaks in an Irish accent.

"Waiting For Lefty"

Obviously, the AMT has figured "Waiting for Lefty", by Clifford Odets to be the piece de resistance of the evening. This is a high-paced, episodic drama — very powerful with the kind of sledgehammer power that might be identified as "good-Odets." There are brutal moments, poignant moments, stirring moments — there are few moments that should not call up an immediate and sincerely-felt emotion in the audience.

The play depicts the honest working-man sweating under depression, callous capitalism and dishonest union officials in 1935. It is frank, and very effective, propaganda, written from the bitter center of that most bitter decade. The play relies on outraged honor, hungry children, brutality — on villains and on heroes — for its emotional effect. And it gets that effect — quite uncritical, quite unreflected upon — it gets it.

The play soars to a climax when all the workers, strong men and honest men who have been crushed by inequalities, unite for action, shouting defiance, in unison, in the face of their dishonest union boss. This is a stirring moment — it makes chills, and it makes your blood run faster, and your own fists tighten up a little. It makes you say, "These are good men, and what they want is what I want!" It is what one calls "good theater."

Odets has done admirably what he tried to do — his play is like a Sousa March. One can hear a Sousa March and it will stir him — one can hear the great brass music pounding at him, and grow excited, and realize suddenly how good it is to march. Where? It doesn't matter where, with Sousa's music.

Mix that with a little social injustice, and you have Odets. He makes you feel, he wants you to act, and any questions or reflections seem impertinent.

But they aren't impertinent — they are necessary. Odets is a theater experience, in the way that any effective propaganda is experience, and it is important that one analyze this experience to find out just what he is responding to; it is important to one's understanding of the theater, as well as of other elements in his experience, that he examine critically the stimulus presented to him, and the emotional response inside himself. Otherwise, propaganda can lead to perfectly astounding things. It can, for example, make fifty million fists clench, or fifty million right arms raise, or fifty million voices shout "Hell!" It's the same emotional response — it's good theater.

It might be worthwhile to mention here that a difference exists between "good theater" and theater that is great. The former, of course, is much easier to get across the footlights than the latter. Hollywood, to take one obvious example, is well aware of this.

were shown.

Many former Williams players and captains showed up. Benny Boynton, Williams only All-American was to have come, but due to the illness of his mother was unable to be present.

Speaking of the Wesleyan contest, the Ephmen displayed a spark of football there that has been lacking around here for sometime, and it looks as though it ignited a fire that's not going to be extinguished for a long while. The score was no indicator, but the Williams eleven more than showed its ability to take it and dish it out against a top team. I don't believe Williams ever took a defeat so gracefully, and for this reason: the players, the students, and the alumni were girded to the hilt with spirit and genuine enthusiasm. That's how it is going to be from now on.

Powerful Williams Swimmers Top Boston University, 55-19

New England Champs
Capture Eight Firsts
In Season's Opener

Sweeping eight firsts in nine events the Williams swimming team opened their 1948-49 season at Lasell Pool by overpowering Boston University 55-19. In running their string to 26 consecutive dual meets without a defeat Coach Bob Muir's men performed without the services of Co-captain Hank Wineman who had just been released from the infirmary after a case of intestinal grippe. Bob Reid and Sandy Lambert provided one of the highlights of the afternoon with their close race in the 440. With three laps to go in their eighteen lap race Lambert led by five feet, but with the pressure on Reid closed the gap and edged in, the winner. The race between John Snyder and Swede Svenson in the 200 yard breaststroke was the closest of the entire meet. Svenson moved ahead by two feet on the second lap and maintained his lead going into the last twenty-five yards when Snyder with a burst of speed pulled up and passed him, and came home the winner by inches. Co-captain Ray Baldwin and Chick Brashers swam their usual good race in the 220 placing first and second respectively, and Mo Murray copped the 100 with Jim Bur-

Hockey Squad Beats Weather

Travels To Springfield For Practice Contest

Due to a lack of home ice, Coach Frank Bell's varsity hockey squad twice journeyed to Springfield last week for its initial practice sessions. With their first match scheduled for January 12, a practice scrimmage with the Springfield Rifles, a top amateur club in these parts, has already been arranged for this Friday afternoon.

About thirty candidates for team positions made the long trip for the first workouts. However, Coach Bell has hopes that either the Cole Field rink will be ready for use in the near future or that he can locate a more convenient practice site.

With so few glimpses at the material on hand, Bell has been unable to decide as yet which men will comprise the team. The strength of the squad was dealt a heavy blow recently when George Owen an outstanding defenseman last season, was declared ineligible for competition until next term due to scholastic difficulties.

Skiless Skiers

Captain Pete Finlay leads the varsity ski squad in a pre-season cross country practice.

Alpha Delt Paces Fraternity League

Two dark horses are setting the pace in the intramural basketball leagues as all sixteen teams moved into the final two weeks of play. In the vanguard at present are the Alpha Delt and with 4-0 and 3-0 records respectively.

The undefeated, League A leading AD's latest conquest was a thrilling overtime victory over the previously undefeated and favored Phi Delt. Fred Scribner, ex-varsity cager, scored thirteen points, as the AD's handed the Phi Delt their first regular season loss in two years. Scribner's final basket came in the overtime period and provided the 31-30 margin of victory.

Tied for runnerup position are the Phi Delta and Dekes. Topped only by the Phi Delt, 35-21, the Dekes notched victory number three Thursday, trouncing the Zetes, 35-21. In other games Thursday, the Phi Gams boosted their average to five hundred by scoring a 22-21 upset over the highly regarded Kaps and Psi Upsilon broke into the winning column at the expense of the tall-end Saints 18-10.

Williams Boosts Ski Facilities By Sheep Hill Improvements

Ski Patrol Unit, Ski Bureau Now Formed By Eph Outing Club

In line with the increased emphasis on skiing at Williams, a Ski Patrol Unit and a Ski Bureau have been formed this year. In addition, the Outing Club has expanded its activities with the organization of several new committees.

The Ski Patrol Unit, which will patrol the skiing on Sheep Hill, has been formed under the direction of Rollo Palmado '50. Some thirty students are taking first-aid courses to prepare them for duty with the patrol. The Ski Patrol will have final authority on the hill, taking care of all accidents, checking ticket holders, and checking dangerous skiing on the hill. They will wear first-aid belts and armbands for easy identification. This patrol should be of great aid not only in administering first aid, but also in insuring proper and safe use of the slopes by all skiers, and by beginners in particular.

Snow Report Service

In order to give students easy access to ski information in New England, a Ski Bureau, under the direction of George Hutton '51, has been formed. It will provide ski information through its headquarters in the Outing Club Office in Jesup Hall, where folders on ski areas and food and lodging information will be listed. In addition, the ski Bureau will run a snow report service, to be handled through the News Bureau, which will post snow reports every Saturday morning.

Publicity for the new set-up will be handled by a committee under the direction of Henry Meagher '50. This committee will also take care of the sale of season tickets and poster distribution.

Open 1-5 P. M.

Operations on Sheep Hill will be taken care of by a committee headed by Jonathan Belknap '49. Both the tows on the hill will run from 1-5 p.m. on weekdays, and from 10 a.m. to dark on weekends.

Thus, Sheep Hill and skiing is taking its place as one of the foremost attractions at Williams. The potentialities of the college and the hill as a skiing center are finally being realized. While the eventual aim is to produce top-notch competitive teams, more important still is that all 1100 undergraduates at Williams, as well as the faculty and townspeople, can take advantage of this fine slope.

Tow, Warming Hut, Land Make Slope Top Skiing Center

Williams has become ski-conscious. With a new program inaugurated this year, including some $5000 worth of improvements on Sheep Hill, the purchase of seventeen acres of new land by the college, and the appointment of a ski-coach, Williams bids fair to take its place as one of the top skiing centers in the East.

With the addition of a new 850 foot tow, a new warming hut, rebuilt jumps, and various other improvements, Sheep Hill becomes one of the top one-slope areas in this area. Besides making the new tow possible, the purchase of the land on Bee Hill, above Sheep Hill, makes future expansion possible.

New Tow

Plans for the new tow, which was just completed this fall, were first conceived in the fall of 1947. Combined with the original tow, there is now a total run of 1850 feet with a vertical drop of over 500 feet.

The appointment of Al Trudel as ski coach is the first step in building first-rate ski teams at Williams.

Of the $5000 spent to improve the hill, $3000 has gone to build a new 19x28 foot warming hut. The new hut, which includes a snack bar, has a shed roof and five picture-windows. Additional funds have gone into the improvement of the 15 meter and the 30 meter jumps, the former being completely rebuilt.

750 Hours

All the improvements, except the building of the hut have been accomplished entirely by student labor, with members of the Outing

CAREERS AT GENERAL ELECTRIC

General Electric is not one business, but an organization of many businesses, offering opportunities in virtually all the professions. Here three G-E men brief the career possibilities which the company offers in business, in electrical engineering and in sales engineering.

HE WANTS TO START YOU IN BUSINESS

R. J. Canning (Michigan), Director of the G-E Business Training Course: Every year I interview and select seniors interested in G-E business careers. Our training course gives to business administration and liberal arts men practical experience in business procedures as well as evening classes in company accounting and financial operations;

ELECTRICAL ENGINEER

A. H. Lauder (Wyoming), Assistant Manager of a G-E division: I don't think opportunities were ever better for the engineer who takes his engineering seriously—who concentrates on it and avoids the temptation to swerve off into administrative work. In my 26 years here, I've found variety and opportunity for creative thinking.

SALES ENGINEER

P. C. Shirkey (Princeton), G-E sales representative: The company needs many men to do the kind of work I'm doing—that is, to keep up with new apparatus and find economical and practical applications for it among G-E customers. The company runs its own course for us, with studies in engineering as well as in sales methods.

Close behind are the Betas, DU's and Garfield Club in a three way tie for runner up. The Beta's were well on the road to continuing their football success until they ran into Delta Upsilon Wednesday. Tied at halftime, the DU's made it too hot for the Betas in the second half, winning 15-13. The Club meanwhile disposed of the Phi Sigs, present tenants of the cellar. In the only other game played Wednesday, Chi Psi came from behind to edge Delta Phi by two points.

The former's difficult passages and hair-tearing entrances were generally done justice, but there were ragged spots scattered a little too liberally in places, especially in the second part. Yet the arrangement of this ballet was good. "Till Eulenspiegel," the concluding piece of the evening, was the best as far as the technical production of music is concerned. There were few flaws.

That the Rochester Symphony Orchestra is a talented group can not be denied, but Sunday's performance could have been better. They were good, yes, but a little disappointing.

"Auto-da-fe" Interpretation Hit By Critic; "Lefty" Uneven

by Robert Scott Taylor

Because Mrs. Frances Chaffee and John Lasell are most professional seeming actors, and because, when they are on the stage, one feels that the situation is in good capable hands — because these actors present the audience with personalities that are real and convincing, and because a somewhat abnormal mother-son relationship is especially well communicated—"Auto-da-fe" will be seen as a fine, dramatic incident, extremely well presented.

But because John Lasell (a good actor who presents Eloi, an anguished character, in such a way that the Anguish is very real)—because character in terms of too general Anguish, the essential power of Eloi is diminished, and it becomes possible to dismiss him as a mere neurotic. It is true that Eloi is neurotic, but he is more than that.

Force

Eloi is the battleground for the oldest conflict between the oldest forces in the history of the world—the force of God, and the force of Evil. God, for Eloi, is a pure and mighty thing; Evil is a vile chance—the filthy unspeakable Lust which has grown up inside him. Eloi's reaction to both these forces is, to be sure, an anguished one—but each force demands a different kind of anguish. Lasell has given us a character whose anguish is only general, and on this ground he is to be criticised. There should be an element of ecstasy in Eloi, and that element is not seen. Resentment, fear, suspicion, anger—all the subordinate elements are there, well portrayed and convincing—but not the element of ecstasy. Ecstasy is in the lines (where Eloi demands the condemnation and the demolition of the foul Vieux Carre), and it's in the sequence of events, but Lasell does not give it to us.

Mrs. Chaffee performs excellently in a complicated role. One particularly difficult section of the play—where she tells Eloi the "very simple rules of hygiene"—is masterfully done, and her ancient, mother-like, unawareness

WMS Catches Holiday Spirit

Gives Stephen Benet's "A Child Is Born"

With vacation-time approaching, WMS has become imbued with the Christmas spirit, as evidenced by Thursday and Friday nights' holiday programs.

On Thursday night the Cap and Bella Dramatic Workshop of the Air presented Stephen Vincent Benet's "A Child Is Born." The cast included: Dick Bell '52, narrator; Larry Lewis '52, innkeeper; Mrs. S. Bidwell, innkeeper's wife; Mrs. J. Dissell, Leah; Mrs. J. Stephenson, Sarah; Roger Corwin '52, perfect; George Cherry '51, Dismas, the thief; Stanley Peirce '50, shepherd; Harry Lamborn '51, Joseph. This work, which has been proclaimed an outstanding Christmas drama for our time, was first presented on DuPont's "Cavalcade of America" program, starring Helen Hayes.

Last night "the voice of Williams College" aired a full hour edition of the "650 Club". The program featured Christmas carols by a student trio composed of Pete Bigler '50, John Stone '52, and David Hastings '52.

Students At Missouri Want More Vacation

University of Missouri students who felt that their Christmas vacation was too short staged a mass demonstration before their University President's house on December 9. They wanted their vacation to begin on Saturday, December 18, instead of Thursday December 23.

After burning a Christmas tree taken from Jesse Hall, the administration building, they marched on the home of President Frederick Middlebush and the Administration Building, and disrupted morning classes for three hours.

The deans of the various schools took action against what was estimated at more than 500 students. They passed an ex post facto law, saying that students did not have legitimate excuses for cutting certain classes, and would be punished accordingly.

Jeffs Exposed By Smith Poll

Amherst Students Not Ideal Dates

By Bill Widing

Amherst students, proud of the fact their houseparties have not provoked a curfew similar to the one at Williams this fall, have had their weekends characterized as practically nothing but sitting and talking and drinking by a revealing poll of Smith girls, published in the Smith College "Scan."

Moreover, fifteen of the fifty girls polled had unfortunate experiences at Amherst in their freshman year. Six girls, for instance, were left by dates who had "drunk too much," and five were "left standing at the bus stop" to wait for a bus back to Northampton.

Other Amusements

Besides drinking, some of the other amusements on an Amherst weekend as listed in the Smith paper are "moving from one beer cellar to another, singing, sitting, and playing Buzz." "One out of every three girls said that closed rooms and blacked-out territory were "hard to avoid", but the other two-thirds commented that a certain amount of savoir-faire got them "safely" through the evening.

According to the poll, about half the girls had drunk only beer. The remaining half had not only had beer, but hard liquor as well. Except for prom weekends, this liquor came from their date's "private supply." Just how much fire-water is contained in the average Amherst man's "private supply" is not stated, but with every date having his own cache, the retail liquor trade in Amherst must make Cal King and The Square Deal together look like rank amateurs.

Blind Dates Risky

From the Smith point of view, a blind date at Amherst appears to be an extremely risky venture, for only one out of every eleven girls was "lucky." In regard to blind dates, the "Scan" defines luck for a Smith girl as going out again with the same man (even if he is from Amherst).

Of the entire number of girls

Ad'phic Union Ninety- Four Per Cent Of Students Pledge Average Of $7.67 To Chest Fund Drive

Constitution Approved; Only One Since 1856

In a move designed by president Harry McDaniel, '49 "to give new life" to the organization, the Ad'phic Union Thursday night adopted its first written constitution since 1856. Its most far-reaching provision, subject to SAC approval, would make it mandatory for any person representing Williams in inter-collegiate debates to be a member of the Union.

Under the present system of debating, a man need only be chosen from the tryouts held before each debate in order to represent the college in that debate. If the new constitution receives the approval of the SAC, after the beginning of the new term in February, anyone wishing to represent Williams will have to be a member of the Ad'phic Union.

President McDaniel explained that since the society does all the preliminary work and arranging of the debates, they feel that only members of the organization should be allowed to participate.

Luther Resigns

A letter submitted to the president was read to the meeting before the discussion of the constitution began. In it, Mike Luthed '51, secretary-treasurer of the Union said that he was opposed to the constitution because he felt that it was too strict, and that if it was ratified by the members, he was resigning his position.

After the approval of the constitution, Fred Wiseman, '51 was appointed corresponding secretary until new elections can be held next term.

Reviewers Of "Comment" And "Cow" Report One Excellent, The Other Foul

Comment's Second Issue Is A Big Step Up Purple Cow's Edition Is A Big Jump Down

By Stefan F. Blaschke

"Comment's" second issue made its appearance on campus today, showing no signs of the proverbial sophomore jinx as it presents "Man Of God", an unusually fine short story, a thought provoking lead-article and a new, tasteful, red, black and white color scheme which enables the magazine to rise far above the promise offered by its original appearance.

As in the first issue, the lead-article is written by a faculty member. "Citizenship in a Democratic World Power" by Professor Richard A. Newhall is a historian's plea for an attempt by the American people to see themselves, politically, as others see them. Professor Newhall feels that, even though we have dropped many of our ready-made opinions about all things foreign in the past fifty years, and have become world-conscious in a more realistic way, that the peculiarities of many of our political institutions constantly leave the world in doubt about our actual policy. Thus, Professor Newhall establishes our task as a problem in bridging a two-sided lack of understanding. It is a well constructed essay, documented convincingly by simple everyday social and political happenings. However, it seems to leave this rather important question unanswered—If our political institutions leave the world in doubt as to our true policy, what can we do to eliminate this uncertainty?

Pete Stites, chairman of the Chest Fund Committee and Ben Farrington, the treasurer, watch Dixie White apply finishing touches to the Spring Street Thermometer in recognition of the successful conclusion of the drive this year.

Chest Fund Workers Praised For Charity Drive Success

For the first time since before the war, the Williams College Chest Fund Committee reported late Monday night that the College Chest Fund Drive had exceeded its quota. Treasurer Bob Farrington '51 termed the achievement "truly remarkable" in expressing his thanks to Bob Smith '50, Dave Ellis '51, Harry Fraiser '51, and George Hopfenbeck '51 who helped him with the final counting which lasted into the early morning hours.

These five men were only part of the more than forty undergraduates, including Chairman Pete Stites '49, to whom credit is due for the success of the drive. These workers include collectors, artists and publicity men who deserve high praise for their part in making the 1948 Chest Fund Drive a success. Behind the work of the group was drive chairman Pete Stites '49, coordinating and directing the campaign.

Early Beginning

Plans for the Fund Drive began in September before most of the college knew anything of it. Volunteers for the job got together throughout October and November and gradually got the vember and gradually got the work parcelled out to several committees.

Co-chairmen of the publicity committee were Dick Weiland '51 Dave Ellis. Working under them in the job to spread the news of the drive throughout the campus were Ted Prescott '51, who handled the secretarial end of the campaign, George Hopfenbeck of radio station WMS, Harry Frazier of the Record business staff, and Ted Jones '51, who kept the wires clear for feature and news stories in the Record.

Artists Add Color

Contributing tremendously in the job to put the Chest Fund Drive across to the college were five who volunteered their services in the art end of the publicity committee. Jack Lund '51 and Dixie White '50 were responsible for the painters touch lent to the thermometer and its feminine companion at the head of Spring Street. Paving the way for and preparing the displays in the windows of local merchants were Bill Tuttle '51 and Grange Otley '51 who completed the roster of Spring Street Billboards by painting the banner hanging above the main artery of Billville. Bud Treman '51 and Dan Bickford '52 were in charge of preparations for the informal band serenade or "German Pop Concert" which toured the campus during the middle of last week.

Collectors Came Through

Not to be forgotten is the fine work of the collectors, who in the end, were the ones really responsible for soliciting the money and making the Chest Fund a success. Others influential in promoting the campaign were Al Schlosser '51, George Buller '51, Ted Fox '51, Elt Williams '50, Ted Carver '51, and Walt Feigenhals '51.

Drive Breaks 1946 Record

The Williams Chest Fund concluded its most successful drive in history Monday night with a new all-time high total of $7963.50.

The total, which may eclipse eight thousand when several late contributions are tabulated, puts the Chest Fund over its goal for the first time since before the war. Last year the drive missed by over two thousand dollars.

Officially a Success

Superb cooperation was received from the student body in officially bringing the Fund to a successful conclusion.

Out of a student body of 1123, 1057 or roughly ninety-four per cent, subscribed to the Christmas Gift-to-Charity appeal, making contributions anywhere from one dollar to one hundred dollars. An average of over $9.00 per-person in several social units boosted the all-college average to $7.67 per-student.

The eight thousand dollar total tops the former high mark of $7579.60, which was set in 1946. Previous to that time a record contribution of $7550 had stood unmarred since 1925.

Students Praised

Chest Fund Chairman Pete Stites '49 was happily amazed over the unprecedented success of the drive, and offered his sincere thanks and hearty praise to the undergraduate body for its wonderful cooperation in putting the Chest Fund over its goal.

Christian Association members directing the Chest Fund will now be able to sign fifteen Christmas-Gift-to-Charity checks and fulfill promises to local, national, and world agencies. The quota of $7950 was divided with $2315 destined for local relief, $3820 going to world relief, $915 assigned to national relief, and $900 for aid here on campus. The largest individual slice of the budget goes to the World Student Service Fund. WSSF will receive $2620

The Business Board of the Williams Record takes pleasure in announcing that the following men have won positions on the Business Staff: B. Benepe '50, J. Comfort '50, J. K. Whitney '50, A. Bell '52, D. Bickford '52, D. Evans '52, W. Hatch '52, S. Humes '52, C. Nason '52, E. Sikorovsky '52, W. Smith '52, W. Thomas '52.

Chest Fund

Probably the most heartening news of the week is that the Williams College Chest Fund Drive quota was not only reached, but was surpassed. Contributions from 1057 students, or 94% of the college, made up the largest sum ever collected. Furthermore, it was the first time since the war that the Drive has reached its announced quota.

The factors which were responsible for the Drive's success were many. Organization of the Drive and all its details was carefully planned and efficiently executed. Chairman Pete Stites did an excellent job in coordinating all the branches and handling the diverse behind-the-scenes activities. Ben Farrington, as Treasurer of the Drive, did just as tremendous a job in running the financial matters. But there were more than a few tied up with the Drive. There were those connected with newspaper publicity, posters, displays in Spring Street windows, singing reminders on WMS, thermometer-filling, and a number of committees. There were thirty-seven collectors, whose role, of course, was one of the most essential of the whole campaign. And finally, there were the contributors, whence came the actual funds. Many hours, during the day and night, were generously given to the Drive.

To us the outcome of the Drive indicates not only that the college can work together, but that the Williams student is perhaps now becoming unselfishly aware of his responsibility to the college, the community, the nation, and the world.

Sheep Hill

Speaking of progress, the Williams Outing Club has been extremely active this fall, and when the snow comes, everyone will have a chance to see the tangible results of the club's work.

Sheep Hill facilities have been increased to include a new 850-foot tow, a new warming hut with a snack bar, and rebuilt jumps. With the additional purchase of land on Bee Hill, above Sheep Hill, there is a chance for future expansion. Along less material lines, the Outing Club has set up a Ski Patrol Unit and a Ski Bureau. The former will be acquainted with first-aid, and will have full authority on the hill; taking care of accidents, checking ticket-holders, and preventing dangerous skiing. The latter will give the students easy access to ski information about the slopes around New England.

The whole movement should make skiing at Williams a greater attraction than ever before. It will certainly make Sheep Hill one of the top ski areas in these parts. For handling the expansion in a sensible and effective manner, the Outing Club members who spent so much time and energy deserve more than just a passing word of congratulation. They have begun to fulfill a long-desired need at Williams—a top-notch slope only a short distance from the campus.

Basketball

After the basketball victory Wednesday night many Williams men realized that the team has definite potentialities, and could go a long way this winter. It is true that the cagers just squeezed by Union, but the latter had already taken the Wesleyan quintet by ten points, and defeated a reputedly good Brooklyn Polytech club by fourteen. We hope that Dale Burnett and his men will continue their winning ways.

This basketball business brings up an interesting problem. The formal dance for Winter Houseparty is on Friday night, February 18. The team plays Hofstra here on Saturday, the 19th. If the gym floor is waxed for the dance, it can not be reconditioned in time for the game, and good basketball can not be played on a waxed floor. (The reason this has never happened before is that Winter Houseparties do not usually occur in the middle of the basketball season.) This situation means that the dance will have to be held elsewhere, probably in the upstairs gym. If this circumstance should come about there will be some grumbling on the campus. It should be noted here, however, that every Williams man is proud of a winning team, and he should not begrudge the sacrifice of a little elbow room Friday night for a far better brand of play Saturday.

Houseparties

Even at this early date undergraduates are looking forward to the above-mentioned Winter Houseparties. Curtailed somewhat in our activities this fall, we are soon going to have a honest-to-goodness houseparty. Much has been planned for the weekend—everything from Cap and Bells' "Julius Caesar" to torchlight skiing on Sheep Hill. And there's plenty in between.

But aside from the pleasant side of the houseparties, there is another angle which we should not overlook. The fraternities have rules and curfews; the college is almost on a type of probation. If the students go completely "haywire" with the return of "real" houseparties, the Administration is likely to step in with authority. The fraternities and undergraduate government will have failed, and the jokes about "Williams Prep School" will cease to be funny. It would be a shame to find ourselves next March in a far worse predicament than anything we witnessed this fall. It could happen.

A Christmas Guide To Broadway

by John Hawley Roberts

(This list does not include plays opening later than December 13.) A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE. Tennessee Williams' fine play about a morally disintegrating female. Wonderfully acted by Jessica Tandy and Marlon Brando and wonderfully directed by Ella Kazan. The best thing in town. Worth standing through.

ANNE OF THE THOUSAND DAYS. Maxwell Anderson's successful return to the stormy days of Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn. Violent and lusty and immensely moving.

ANNIE GET YOUR GUN. Ethel Merman is still very funny, very loud, and not at all subtle.

AS THE GIRLS GO. Bobby Clarke, probably the funniest man in the business, is even less subtle than Ethel Merman.

BORN YESTERDAY. An amusing story of a dumb girl growing up politically. Excellent comedy.

BRAVO! A cluttered and disappointing play about DP's in the world of the theatre. Should be better than it is.

EDWARD, MY SON. Regarded very highly by everyone but me. I found it cheap and phoney both in writing and acting. But nearly everyone else thinks Robert Morley is magnificent.

GOODBYE, MY FANCY. The lovely Madeleine Carroll in a satisfactory story about academic liberalism. She ends up by marrying a Life photographer instead of the college president.

HARVEY. That rabbit is still invisible except to alcoholics. A long-run hit that has outlasted several casts. About to close.

HIGH BUTTON SHOES. Decorative musical, if you like that sort of thing.

INSIDE USA. Even without very good material, Beatrice Lillie is still the world's funniest woman. Dressy and slick.

LIFE WITH MOTHER. A sequel to the old "Life with Father". Costume comedy, somewhat less spontaneous than its predecessor, but still good.

LIGHT UP THE SKY. An entertaining satire on theatre life back stage.

LOVE LIFE. A curious mixture of vaudeville and chronicle play, saved by good music and dancing and by the charm of Nanette Fabray.

MAKE MINE MANHATTAN. Decorative musical, if you like that sort of thing.

MISTER ROBERTS. See this (if you can get in) and call it a season. Navy life has never before been so amusingly and touchingly portrayed. Commercial theatre at its very best.

MY ROMANCE. Old fashioned musical.

PRIVATE LIVES. The redoubtable Tallulah making her own brand of hash out of Noel Coward and selling it hot to a loving public.

RED GLOVES. A muddled play, ascribed to Sartre, about contemporary political ideologies, almost rescued by Boyer's fine performance.

SMALL WONDER. Clever, intimate, witty topical revue, done by a lot of youngsters, some of them from Yale.

SUMMER AND SMOKE. Another Tennessee Williams study of confused feminine psychology. Not as good as "Streetcar" or "Menagerie."

THE MEDIUM and THE TELEPHONE. Twin Menotti operatic bill. Extraordinary performance by Marie Powers: macabre and terrifying. (She "cuts" matinees.)

THE SILVER WHISTLE. The story is dreadfully corny, but the stage is filled with amusing character sketches, performed by excellent actors, headed by Jose Ferrer.

WHERE'S CHARLEY? Those who think "Charley's Aunt" is the raison d'être of the theatre had better go see Ray Bolger dance his way through this musicalization of the ancient farce.

MOVIES

HAMLET. In spite of the fact that Sir Laurence is a young man who could not make up his mind as to what Shakespeare intended, this is a very fine movie version of the great play. Especially notable are the closet scene, the graveyard scene, and the camera's roving record of life at Elsinore.

P.S. TO THE CHICAGOANS

Excellent road companies of A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE and of MISTER ROBERTS are playing in Chicago, as is the HAMLET movie. Maurice Evans opens there Dec. 26 in MAN AND SUPERMAN, a thoroughly delightful revival of the Shaw comedy. And most important of all, Judith Anderson is appearing there in MEDEA, the most exciting theatre event of this or any other season.

Uncle Eph's Worm Farm

by D. Lighto de Moon

Well kiddies, it's here again! That old Christmas Spirit is in the air! You can sense it all around campus. Tom Walsh sports a wider leer over a new bow tie. The troops in the back of psych 1 twitch into consciousness. The WCA has even put its Fund Drive over the top.

By this time most of the furriners will be stretched out in club cars on the Orange Blossom Special and the Super Chief. In another day or two the rest of us will throw our last Berkshire binge of '48 and take off for the Big City and two weeks of wine, women, and hangovers which promise to be the biggest in years.

Once again Williams men will be on the town, chasing the girls through Roseland and the Rialto, under the clock at the Biltmore, down Third Avenue, and into the New Gardens. So here it is, fellows, the clue you make-out kings have been waiting for. It's the one and only—

Guide To Old "Broad" Way

(This list may include some spots which have been padlocked later than December 13.)

A BROAD NAMED DESIRE. A morally disintegrating female. The best thing in town. But hardly worth standing through.

ANNIE OF THE THOUSAND G-STRINGS. Annie's successful return to the stormy days of Aloha Schultz and the Hawaiian Wiggles. The longest show in town, but you'll love every minute of it. Violent and lusty and immensely moving, but a little bumpy.

ANNIE GET YOUR GUN. Look out for this one. Very funny, very loud, and not at all subtle.

INSIDE ANNIE. How unsuited can you get?

AS THE GIRLIES GO. So goes Yale. You'll have some trouble with the white-buck-and-hot-foot set on this one. But Williams men have always done all right in the past.

BORN YESTERDAY. An amusing dumb girl growing up. Not so hot now, but give her time.

HIGH BUTTONS. Not nearly as good as zippers. But decorative, if you like that sort of thing.

PRIVATE LIVES. But who likes that sort of thing?

MAKE MINE MANHATTAN. Regarded very highly by everyone but me. Definitely not recommended for the gin-and-water crowd.

LIFE WITH MOTHER. Old fashioned.

P. S. TO CHICAGOANS

Excellent company of all kinds is on the road in Chicago. If you can't find it in Cicero, try the stockyards.

Book Stresses Christian Life

Test By Alumnus For Students Of Religion

In his new book, "Power for Action", William A. Spurrier, Williams '39, now a member of the Wesleyan University Religion Department, explains the problems of Christian ethics from a fresh and non-technical viewpoint.

After graduating from Union Theological Seminary, Mr. Spurrier began instructing in religion at Amherst College where he became convinced that text books on the subject were either too puerile or too abstruse. He determined then to write a book on Christian ethics that the college undergraduate could comprehend.

Personal Action

Interrupted in his work by a stretch in the Armed Forces overseas, Mr. Spurrier found time to write when he was transferred to a small western town after V-J Day. By working steadily for three weeks, he was able to finish the first draft, the final form of which was published by Scribners last October.

"Power for Action" presents the basis for Christian ethics in the See BOOK, page 6 stories; the article itself adds hopes that someone will buy their little "mag", and there appears a full page advertisement on page 30 asking that they do this. It certainly looks as if the Cow is gasping for life. As well it should. For example, jokes about a Christmas goose appeared three times; they really are scraping the bottom of the barrel.

Birmingham's "Lady of the House" is an attempt at serious writing which seems to be the child of partial informations garnered from the Art and English Departments. It is greatly overdone. Our character is nouveau, all right, no need to hit us over the head with it at every opportunity. (Opportunities occurring somehow among the splurge into color . . . "bifurcated eagles . . . "intense yellow . . . fine garnet threads . . . Paisley shawls" and the like). May I ask what is the point of it all? The masterpiece entitled "Social Going — On From All Over" is just so much dead wood. Something was "stunning", "simultaneously". As I read it I was simultaneously stunned that it should ever have reached the printer. The Christmas poem section — doesn't the Cow know that kidding the English department has been so thoroughly worked over as to be barren of humor? Come now Mrs. Cow, let's have something newer.

A. S. Peabody Jr. in "Williams 70 Anybody 0" wrote three pages of dull, uninteresting, idea-less, laugh-less, boredom. The Williams scene from little Johnny's point of view is a good idea but it was executed completely lifelessly. No, leave it with "it was executed." "A Moral Xmas" is a five column story, suitable for framing as an example of witless "humor", with a striking resemblance in style to some of Robert Benchley's less funny works, especially his "Another Uncle Edith Christmas Story". Rackerby's cartoons aren't bad, but I have seen him do much better ones in Religion class. "My Favorite Role" is smile-provoking until you read the squib written beneath the picture. "Friends and Neighbors", placed badly under an advertisement on page 15, is much overdone — the character of Gin is made too unreal. Fifty per cent of the amount of space used to show his unreflective practical joking would have built

Church Art Spurs Professors To Present Panel Discussion

Quarterly Seeks Collegiate Work

Dartmouth Magazine
Has National Coverage

"The Dartmouth Quarterly," "America's only national undergraduate magazine" is looking for stories, poetry and articles, from undergraduates in colleges throughout the country. Accepted material will appear in the Quarterly and be presented to the public via the news stands.

The magazine offers token payments of $10 on stories and articles, and $1-10 for poetry. Its main function, according to its editors, is to bring undergraduate ability to the attention of publishers, editors, and successful writers, and to serve as a ready means for the comparison of the individual's work with the best done in American colleges.

The Quarterly will notify Contributors within six weeks. All manuscripts are to be sent to "The Dartmouth Quarterly, 4 Robinson Hall, Hanover, New Hampshire, with a stamped, self-addressed envelope if they are to be returned. All material must be submitted in typewritten, double-spaced form.

him up in a much more convincing manner.

The middle spread — "A Brief and Dismal Historie . . ." is a nice filler for the center of the issue. It prevents it from appearing as just a blank page. That it does well. For humor — no. With the satire on Mr. Barrow those who have studied under him at last have found something in the Cow which they can at least enjoy, and perhaps even laugh at. But what about all those persons who have never had a course with Mr. Barrow?

This being the general tone of the issue as I feel it, can there be any surprise that I fear for the future of the Cow's life. To be found so completely fruitless is to have a jolly good start on the road to the abattoir.

Hutchinson, Weston,
Smith Give Talks

Prompted by the recent display of religious paintings in the Lawrence Art Museum, three Williams professors gave a panel discussion Wednesday afternoon in Lawrence Hall, reaching the conclusion that impressionistic art which gets away from conventional symbols transmits a far more vivid religious message than "respectable" Church paintings.

John A. Hutchinson, Cluett Professor of Religion, said that religious art does not necessarily have to be concerned with a religious subject, but may be classified as religious art of the expressed content" has religious significance.

Poignant Message

Professor Hallett D. Smith of the English department expanded this viewpoint to the conclusion that religious art which omits common symbols is more poignant than the respectable, often, meaningless paintings on Christianity which we usually associate with Church art.

Professor Emeritus Karl E. Weston strengthened this argument through the example of Sutherland's "Christ On The Cross," which depicts the Saviour writhing in agony. In contrast with the conventional and comparatively uninspiring image of Christ in ecstasy, this painting gives a reaction first of shock and then of pity, emphasizing the idea of Christ's sacrifice.

polled, only one said that Amherst students were willing "to do something else besides sit and drink" (closed rooms and blacked-out territory, perhaps) but that their dates (Smith girls et al.) were often enthusiastic about anything else. Williams men will shudder, thinking of the poor innocent Amherst men being led astray by their thirsty dates. Maybe that was our trouble too.

PROVE CAMEL MILDNESS FOR YOURSELF!

Prove for yourself what throat specialists reported when 30-day smoking test revealed

NO THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS!

MAKE YOUR OWN 30-DAY CAMEL MILDNESS TEST.
Smoke Camels, and only Camels, for 30 days. Prove for yourself just how mild Camels are!

Hundreds of men and women, from coast to coast, recently made a similar test. They smoked an average of one to two packs of Camels a day for 30 days. Their throats were examined by noted throat specialists. After a total of 2470 examinations—these throat specialists reported not one single case of throat irritation due to smoking Camels!

But prove it yourself . . . in your "T-Zone." Let YOUR OWN TASTE tell you about the rich, full flavor of Camel's choice tobaccos. Let YOUR OWN THROAT give the good news of Camel's cool, cool mildness.

Money-Back Guarantee!

Try Camels and test them as you smoke them. If, at any time, you are not convinced that Camels are the mildest cigarette you ever smoked, return the package with the unused Camels and we will refund its full purchase price, plus postage. Purple Quintet Survives Late Union Rally, 57-55

Loses Large Lead In Closing Minutes Of Ragged Encounter

Ditmar High-Scorer, Sophomores Star

by Blair Perry

Allowing a fifteen-point lead to vanish into the thin air of Lasell Gymnasium in the last five minutes of the game, Dale Burnett's varsity basketball team gave an overflow crowd some unexpected thrills Wednesday night before emerging with a narrow 57-55 win over Union College.

Leading 33-17 at the half, and still ahead by eight points with only three minutes remaining in the contest, the Ephmen seemed a cinch to take their second ball game in as many starts this year. But a Union five which couldn't connect at all in the first half then suddenly found the cover had been taken off its basket, and threw everything but the officials through the hoop in the closing minutes. Apparently they would have liked to have done that, too, if Coach Pete Nistad's side-line moanings meant anything.

Poor Exhibition

With a minute left, Williams still led by six, 57-51, but Pemrick and Kusnawski heaved in two quick ones, and it stood 57-55, twelve seconds remaining. At this point the Ephmen had time to take two potential foul shots in from the side-lines before a traveling violation was called, and Union then didn't have time to get a shot away before the gun sounded.

It was a poor exhibition of basketball. Neither team handled the ball well. Shooting was erratic, and at times the contest became a near riot. Nor was it a particularly good job of officiating on the part of Mr. Bush and Mr. Perry, who let the game get out of control near the end, and thereby partially accounted for the rat-race style of play which prevailed in the second half.

Ditmar Gets Twenty

About the only bright spots for Williams were the fine all-around play of George Ditmar, who was high-scorer with 20 points, and the first-half control of the backboards by Burnett's trio of sophomore giants — Larson, Pusey, and Sheehy. George Bush and Bud Cool also showed some good ball-playing for the second team, and should be seeing more action in the future.

Williams had a tremendous advantage in the matter of height, and made good use of it in the first half, but Union's faster and more aggressive ballhawks wouldn't even let the Ephmen bring the ball up the floor in the last ten minutes of the game. And if the visitors had been hitting on the almost unlimited number of shots they took in the first half, it would have been a very different ball game.

Early Lead

Building up an early lead, the Williams five had a relatively easy time of it in the first half. Ditmar scored from underneath on passes from Pusey and Mason at the start of the game and, after Union had tied it up, he sank a foul shot, Larson scored, and then Larson and Sheehy each hit with a fancy hook shot for an 11-4 lead. Union cut this to 11-7, but Mason, Ditmar, Larson, and Mason again, tallied to give the Purple a 20-13 advantage after twelve minutes of play had elapsed. Ditmar and Pusey then hit with one-handers and Sheehy scored with a tap-in and a free throw, for a substantial 29-13 lead. A basket by Mason and two foul shots offset hoops by substitutes Roberts and Shea of Union, and the first half ended 33-17. Twelve points by Ditmar and eight by Mason had paced the Williams scoring.

With three minutes gone in the second half and the score 34-19, Coach Burnett put his second team into the game. Cool tapped in a rebound, Jerry Page sank a tricky underhand shot, Howie Taylor connected from the foul line, and Page threw in another to make it 41-28 when the starters returned to the floor with ten minutes left to play.

Lead Disappears

Mason, Pusey, and Ditmar scored while the visitors were connecting for four baskets, for a 48-36 count. Ditmar hit with a one-hand toss and set-shot, and Watch That Shot!

Captain Jack Mason takes to the air to sink an underhand shot against Union. Other Williams Players are Chuck Pusey (3), and George Ditmar (15). Union men are Jim Carmichael (4), and Jim Pemrick (10).

Sheehy's accurate free throw made it 53-36, the biggest lead of the night. But by this time Union's pressing-defense was bothering the Ephmen, and the visitors were beginning to get their share of the rebounds.

And at this point, with five minutes left, to k'a utes left, the Union hoopsters suddenly got red-hot. In fact, they outscored the Williams five, 19 to 4, in the short time that remained. Speidel scored on a lay-up shot and a free throw, and then on a one-hand shot, and Carmichael hit with a one-hander. Kusnawski threw in an underhand jump-shot and then heaved a hook-shot through the hoop from the circle. Carmichael scored again, so Ditmar's tally for Williams left it at only 55-51, less than two minutes remaining, after Pemrick tossed a running set-shot from the right side.

Here Jack Mason missed a pair of free throws, but then sank a neat one-hander to make it 57-51 with a minute left. Union scored twice in rapid succession, as described before, and it ended 57-55. See UNION, page 6

Basketball Squad Plans Xmas Trip

Schedules Four Games With N.Y. Opponents

Victorious over Trinity and Union in its first two games this year, the varsity basketball team will play a four-game Christmas-trip schedule before meeting Rutgers January 8 in the next home encounter.

The Christmas trip is a completely informal affair, being financed largely by the players themselves, that included clashes with Hofstra, Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, Iona, and Adelphi, all in the New York City area. Although not counting in the regular varsity schedule and records, these four games will afford the Williams hoopsters valuable practice and experience that may come in handy later in the season.

Hofstra is the first opponent to be faced, December 29 at Hempstead, N. Y. This game is scheduled before, and it ended 57-55. See TRIP, page 6

Winter Track Team Faces Tough Meets

Barney, Smith, Delany To Form Nucleus Of Indoor Relay Teams

With three of last year's runners returning the Winter Relay Team, Little Three Champs for the past two years, is in a good position to continue its dominance over traditional rivals, Amherst and Wesleyan. Co-captains Bill Barney and Gordy Smith and two year letterman Kev Delany form the nucleus of this year's squad. Although competition is still wide open for places on the team it appears that Barney, Smith, and Delany will be three of the runners when the Ephmen open up their season at the Knights of Columbus Meet in Boston on January 24th. The fourth runner will be either Andy Bacharach, Walt Ziegenhals, Dan Spaeth or Schuyler Brooks all of whom have showed up well in recent practice sessions.

Time Improved

In the time trials that the members of the Relay Team have taken to date, the results have been better than were reached at the peak of last season, Barney's 1:11.6 being the fastest time turned in for 800 yards. If the results of the time trials are an indication, the team should be turning in even faster performances when they are able to practice on the new 11 lap board track which the contractor has promised to have ready by January 5th. The runners are working out in the gym until they are able to go outdoors.

Winning Team

Last year in the Invitational Meets the Relay Team twice downed Amherst and Wesleyan, and also defeated Bowdoin, Middlebury, Holy Cross, Boston University, while losing only to Colgate. In an unofficial meet in Cleveland the runners were victorious over the University of Miami, and Ohio Wesleyan while losing out to Michigan Normal and Baldwin and Wallace in times the team had bettered the season.

Squash Team Plays Crimson

Allen, Mikell Hold Top Positions On Ladder

Coach Chaffee's squash team opens its official season with a away meets against MIT and Harvard on Friday and Saturday. In their practice match last Saturday the Ephs downed a McGill squad 7-2 making a perfect 3-0 score in their pre-season encounters. This weekend's meets, however, will offer stiffer competition, particularly from the powerful Harvard group.

Despite the decisive score, the McGill match was fairly close. Williams won in the first six and ninth positions, with only one of those, Dresser's at number four, being won in three straight games.

The Purple will need all of the practice they have had when they encounter the Crimson Saturday. So far this year the Harvard squad has downed Amherst, 7-2, and Dartmouth, 8-1. This indicates their potentiality has not decreased since they took the Ephs 7-2 last year. MIT, on the other hand, is a smaller threat; their only match so far this season was an 8-1 defeat by Wesleyan.

Positions Rearranged

This week's challenge matches have rearranged the Williams line-up considerably. Allen and Mikell are still numbers one and two. Dresser has moved to three; Wright and Thomas are four and five. Donnelly is six; George Muller, seven; and Worcester and Goodrich eight and nine respectively.

Once in a blue moon, suggestions made in this column are followed up by someone in authority. For the most part the results are discouraging, but even so this typewriter still has a little incentive left, though I'm not sure just why. The health department of the college is planning a program whereby athletes participating in the more strenuous sports will be given preseason physicals.

During the Wesleyan weekend an alumnus expressed a desire to see the picture of a team he had once captained at Williams. Well, he got his wish. Jimmy MacArthur dug up a stepladder, climbed 20 feet up the side of the Lasell gym wall directly to the left of the Spring St. entrance, and hauled down a musty looking photograph. In short, Williams College has never made any provision for an athletic gallery where pictures of athletic teams can be posted in chronological order for the benefit of sentimental alumni (most of them are) and undergraduate inspiration. Nor are there any posted records of track and field events, nor lists of past captains, special award winners, etc. Most up to date colleges have such a set-up, and without any great expense, only a little initiative by those in charge, we could achieve the same thing. Right now all we've got are a lot of pictures thrown up against the walls around the stairway, which you can't see anyway, and even if you could they're all out of order, presenting a scene flavored with confusion and negligence. The swimming records are located at one end of the swimming pool, impossible to see from the grandstands. Here's one answer:

The passageway from the locker room to the squash courts is an ideal location. Forming a corridor about 150 feet long, the pictures record shields would be placed at eye level in rows of twos or threes. In this way athletes on their way to Weston Field would get a substantial eyeful, and the alumni would have one place in which they could take in the history of athletics at Williams instead of the scattered neglected arrangement now available.

The Purple Key, a rather lethargic organization to date, is about ripe to supervise something along this line. It might be a sort of redemption for them, but more important, there would be a definite advantage to posterity and a certain element of respect for former Williams athletes.

Ski Team Strengthened By Returning Lettermen, Coach; Await Sheep Hill Snow

Strengthened by a nucleus of five returning lettermen, and the appointment of an official coach for the first time in Williams history, the ski team is looking forward to its 1949 season.

A five-meet schedule, climaxed by the Williams' Winter Carnival on February 18-20, is on the agenda for the 1949 season. Though the team is presently handicapped by a lack of snow, about twenty men have been engaging in daily workouts, in preparation for the season.

Five Lettermen

The team will be built around the five returning lettermen, headed by Captain Pete Finlay, a three-event man. These veterans include Case Prime, Dunc Campbell, Johnny Brinckerhoff and Hank Strong. Finlay competes in the downhill, slalom and crosscountry, Campbell and Prime in the downhill and slalom, while Brinckerhoff and Strong handle cross-country and jumping.

Other skiers who have shown promise in the past are Dick Catell who spent the summer in Switzerland, John Hitchcock, back from a year in Europe, Stan and Russ Bourne, Hank Meagher, Rollo Palmedo and Cliff Farmer.

Experienced Jumpers

The team should be strong in the downhill and slalom, and fair in the jumping and cross country. This is the first year that the team goes into the season with experienced jumpers. Brinckerhoff who just started jumping last year, showed remarkable improvement, finished eighteenth among some of the best jumpers around, last year at the Dartmouth Winter Carnival.

Trudel Coach

Al Trudel, an excellent skier himself, who is a member of the National Ski Patrol and used to run the patrol at Bromley, will be on hand to provide the sorely-needed coaching that has been missing in the past. Coach Trudel also has hopes of getting some assistance in coaching cross-country and jumping from some of the outstanding skiers in the country, and may hold some sort of ski-clinic here later in the year. Until the snow comes, the team will be limited to conditioning work. A squad of about twenty men has been running around the golf course, with poles, twice every afternoon to get into shape.

Freshmen Out

Over a dozen freshmen have come out for skiing this year. Several have had experience in cross-country and jumping.

After a New Year's Eve vacation period, Dale Burnett's men will play Iona, considered one of the strongest teams in the New York area, at New Rochelle on January 3. Starting time is set for 8:30 p. m. The fourth and final game will be played at Garden City, N. Y., January 4, with Adelphi College.

One Acts . . .

of Elol's actual condition is magnificent.

In both Lasell and Mrs Chaffee, the tinge of southern dialect is consistently interesting and effective. The play, as presented in the AMT is what might be called "successful theater;" the set, as designed by H. Prescott Wells, helps considerably because it is atmospherically flawless.

It is terribly difficult to write a review of "Spreading the News." If it is to be understood as conventional comedy, it fails at the AMT because it isn't very funny—not conventionally, at least. If it is supposed to be a folksy sort of comment on peculiarly Irish characteristics, it fails at the AMT because so few people know enough about Irish tradition to understand it. One keeps having the feeling that, Lady Gregory must have had something more in mind than one sees—that there must be something there—but one can't see it.

The set is very picturesquely handled by Otto W. Siebert—he gets a nice fairy-tale quality, strongly suggestive of lepechauns etc. which is really a big help to the play. Acting honors go to George Cherry and Ernie Lehman, the former for his bewilderment (in excellent brogue), the latter for his bedraggled melancholy (in a black overcoat). Rosamond Bell also does a nice straight acting job, but Harry McDaniel and Chuck Hollereth (Tim Casey and A Policeman) get a bit wearisome with their not-very-inventive comedy of exaggeration. All in all, wearisome is a good word for "Spreading the News".

There are moments in "Waiting for Lefty" that are good; there are moments that are bad; the performance is uneven. Here is a good moment:

Jack Anderson, who plays the part of a company spy, is so effective that he makes one feel as though there were slimy things crawling in the theater. The sequence in which he is involved might well be the high-point of the evening; it is hard to imagine any way in which he might have bettered his performance.

Here is a moment that is bad: Joe (Dick Verney) is a taxi driver who can't make any money, whose children are starving, and whose wife is about to walk out on him. Joe is desperate—at least he should be; but when he addresses the union meeting, the audience finds itself liking the villain almost better than the hero. Harry Fatt, the union boss (Charles Jarrett) whom everyone thinks is a big, fat, sloppy, dirty, crooked bastard, looks more like a Hollywood G-man, and when Joe addresses the audience (immediately after Fatt) in Fatt's exact tone of dictatorial irritation (rather than any kind of sympathetic desperation), it is upsetting.

Nick Dunne (Dr. Benjamin) does a much-better-than-adequate job of representing frustration; his characterization is more three-dimensional—he is more of a person, somehow—than most of the other people in the cast.

But the nicest things should be said about Steve Sondheim for his skillful handling of the climax would be worthwhile if it had done nothing but print Record drama critic Robert S. Taylor's "Man Of God". It is a grim and powerful short story about an egocentric, self-hypnotized preacher who is destroyed when he is brought face to face with the hypocrisy of his life. Taylor wastes no words and needs no props to set the scene for the preacher's logical and terrible downfall. "The Mirror" by Joseph E. Dewey is another convincing argument for "Comment's" new "more fiction" policy. Dewey skillfully uses a mirrow as the narrator of his story by letting it literally reflect the characters of four people, as well as presenting a disturbing glimpse into a certain way of life. Unfortunately "An Interlude" and "Sentimental Journey" do not live up to this high standard as both stories set up a mood, a character, and a problem, and then fail to develop any of them further.

Revised Curriculum Proposed
The issue's finest poetry is contributed by Russell Bourne's "On Trying Not To Think Of You". These three variations on a theme of "Waiting for Lefty." Without Sondheim's sensitive understanding of voice, the play would be pretty ragged. As it is, he brings it together much better than, at various moments in the performance, one has any right to think possible (despite the fact that Sondheim's lines approach the ridiculous), and if all is not entirely well that ends well, this evening in the theater is considerably improved. Which is a help.

are not only beautiful individually, but present a tragic whole in the speaker's obvious inability to carry out the resolve stated in the title. Richard O. Weber's two poems are a type of popular word exercise in which I see little beauty of purpose, but are still more sympathetic than James C. Waugh's untitled, uncapitalized, and ungrammatical poem. This e.e. cummings type of Studs Loniganism does not seem to fit into a magazine which advertises its good taste by printing John Field's excellent art work and stories like "Man of God".

"Should The Curriculum Be Revised" by James B. Greene Jr. is the final contribution and, like the other non-fiction material, it is provocative and carefully constructed. Agreement or disagreement with the author will hinge largely on the reader's reaction to the article's conclusion that "even superficial knowledge may be preferable to no knowledge at all".

Muirmen Take Strong Colgate In Close Meet

Wineman Shatters Pool Backstroke Record; Jordan Paces Losers

by Norm Wood

Sweeping six of the nine firsts, and placing well in all events, the Williams swimming team collected its second triumph of the season Friday night, as it conquered a strong Colgate team, 47-28. Highlights of the meet were close races in the 220 and 440, Colgate's Purdy Jordan's double victory in the sprints, and Co-captain Hank Wineman's lowering of the Lasell Pool record in the backstroke in a thrilling race.

In the 220, Bob Reid, pacing himself beautifully, swept from third place at the three-quarter mark to a slight lead with twenty yards to go. In the last few yards, he widened the margin to about twelve feet. Sandy Lambert jumped to an early lead in the 440, lengthened it to about six feet, with forty yards left. Reid sprinted hard in an effort to catch Lambert, but the latter had too big a lead, and won by two yards.

Wineman Shatters Record

Purdy Jordan's twin victory in the 50 and 100, both with excellent times, made him high scorer for the evening. At the end of 100 yards in the 150 backstroke, Wineman held a slim two-foot lead over the Red Raiders' Ralph Coxhead, but Wineman's pace over the last 50 proved too much for his opponent, and he won by several yards. His time, 1:37.0, was .9 seconds lower than the pool record, set by Bowdoin's Adin Merrow last winter.

Coach Bob Muir's men took both relays with a little to spare. Co-captain Ray Baldwin swam a

Eight Win Honors In Bridge Contest

Await Qualifying Round Of National Tourney

Twenty bridge addicts held a duplicate tournament in the Garfield Club last Sunday night to determine who should represent Williams in the qualifying round of the 1949 National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament. After three and one half hours of play, four teams emerged with top honors.

Pete Thexton '49 and Harry Sutton '50 won the East-West competition, with Bob Jeffrey '50 and his brother Rick '52 the runners-up. Art Singer '50 and Bud Blakey '50 made the highest North-South score, while Bill Wolf '50 and Roger Vogler '50 took second place by winning a flip from John Thoman '49 and Bill Ward '50.

The qualifying round is scheduled for February 24, and will consist of eighteen trial hands selected by the Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament Committee and mailed to Williams and the other 23 New England colleges which are participating in this tournament. The two New England teams which are selected on the basis of these hands will be given free transportation to Chicago, where they will play against teams from other parts of the country on April 23-24. Williams has been represented in this tournament each year since it was initiated in 1947. Last year, Bob Jeffrey '50 and Jack Collins '49 placed seventh in the nation.

Students Harm Winter Dance Dorm Phones

UC Insists Penny, Slug Usage Cease

A plea for proper treatment of dormitory telephones, and one for payment of the UC Tax by still delinquent undergraduates composed the greater part of Undergraduate Council business at Monday night's twenty-minute meeting.

Speaking for Dean Robert R. Brooks, UC President Henry Strong '49 requested that social unit representatives instruct the members of their houses living in dormitories to treat the telephones in the buildings in the proper manner. Strong said that there have been too many telephones torn from the walls to please the telephone company, and that those torn down will not be replaced.

Strong said that another phase of this same problem which the Dean mentioned was the fact that the use of slugs and pennies in the dormitory telephones had also become popular this fall. He said that if too great a number of pennies or slugs are found in a coin box by the telephone company, then that phone will be removed.

Tax Increases Soon

The second plea issued came from the UC Treasurer Richard Wells '49, who said that there are still a number of undergraduates who have not paid their UC Tax for this year as well as a few delinquents from last year. Wells said that Saturday, January 22 is the current deadline for payment. Students not paid up by that date will have a fine of one dollar added to their tax.

According to the regulations, individuals who have not paid their UC Tax are prohibited from participating in any extra-curricular activities. William R. Barney '49, Chairman of the SAC, announced that a list of the names of non-taxpayers had been presented at the last SAC meeting. He said that beginning Tuesday January 11 delinquents will be banned from activities in which they are participating until they pay their UC tax.

An inquiry was made regarding the pre-vacation announcement that the Friday night houseparty dance could not be held on the main gym floor for fear of ruining the court for the next day's game. Strong replied that he had heard no definite decision as yet, but he said that he thought that in all probability the dance would be held in the wrestling room, with the upstairs gym put into service as well.

Winter Dance In Main Gym

Four Teams Have Accepted Ski Meet

The Winter Carnival dance will definitely be held in the main gym of LaSalle Gymnasium, according to Paul Mort '50, Winter Carnival chairman. Other plans for the weekend have been developing rapidly.

Previously it had been thought that the dance would have to be held in the wrestling room to prevent the waxing of the basketball floor and destroying its condition for the game against Hofstra the next day.

A choice between three name bands, Gene Krupa, Johnny Long, and Skitch Henderson, will be made before the end of the week, Mort said. Floyd "Pappy" Moon has already been engaged to play for the square dance.

Four ski teams have accepted invitations to the Eastern Junior Division Ski Championships of the Intercollegiate Ski Union to be held here houseparty weekend. Yale, Harvard, Vermont, and MIT will definitely be here and it is expected that Princeton and Amherst will also accept. Weekenders See WOC, page 2

Comment, Museum To Award Prizes For Student Art Work

Comment Magazine and the Lawrence Art Museum have recently announced a Williams College Student Art Exhibit for 1949 in conjunction with the fifth Western New England College Exhibit at Springfield, Massachusetts. A total of $50.00 in prize awards will be given to the Williams students submitting the best work.

Directing the exhibit is Mr. S. Lane Faison, director of the Lawrence Art Museum, while Mr. Stephen McNicol, the assistant director, has charge of hanging the entries. The names of the three judges, including artists not residing in Williamstown, will be announced as soon as their acceptances have been received.

Two Categories

All students should submit their material, clearly marked with the artist's name, medium, titles, sale price, etc., to the Lawrence Art Museum between the 16th and 23rd of February. Artists are limited to three entries apiece. The judging will take place on the afternoon of February 25th. Entries may be made in two categories, painting, and studies

Purple Key's Grid Smoker Draws 350

Movies, Baxter's Talk Highlight Program Held In Taconic Theatre

Presentation of fall athletic awards, an interesting series of football and basketball movies, and a brief but pointed talk by President James P. Baxter III highlighted the fall smoker sponsored by the Purple Key Society on December 17.

Over 350 undergraduates and faculty members gathered in the Taconic Theatre for the program, which saw a total of 143 men receive letters and class numerals for their work in football, soccer, and cross country during the fall season.

Larger and better award certificates, another innovation sponsored by the Purple Key, were presented for the first time. Letters which had not arrived will be distributed by team captains and managers as soon as possible.

Jack Gibson '50, president of the Williams managerial association, presided over the smoked, at which free cigarettes were offered to the crowd and the theatre's "no smoking" rule was overlooked by special arrangement with the management.

The program opened with a short speech by President Baxter. Williams spent $101,193 on intercollegiate athletics last year, he said, pointing out that this was 40 per cent more than Wesleyan spent on these activities, and 20 per cent over Amherst. Moreover, added Mr. Baxter, Williams sponsors two more sports than either of its Little Three rivals, and each of the sixteen sports loses money.

Tuition pays half the cost of athletics here, with the student athletic tax, and gates and guarantees, each supplying one-fourth of the funds. "We have in my opinion a very fine set of coaches," observed Mr. Baxter, emphasizing that the money was well-spent and that college athletes tend to do better scholastically when participating in some sport.

Hatchett's Second Half Spree Crushes Williams Upset Hopes

Williams Five Plays New Britain Tonight

The basketball team will attempt to rebound after their 70-59 defeat by Rutgers when they line up against New Britain State Teachers College on the Lasell Gym floor tonight at 8 p.m.

New Britain, a physical education school, will send a first-class outfit to Williamstown. They are a high-scoring aggregation of top-notch talent which recently racked up a 98-38 win over Fort Devens in Boston Garden.

Visitors Hand Eph First Home Defeat

Rutgers Overcomes Ten Point First Half Deficit

by Blair Perry

Williams got one foot in the doorway to "big-time" basketball Saturday night, but was pushed right out again by a high-class Rutgers quintet, which came from behind and won going away, 70-59. An overflow crowd jammed Lasell Gymnasium to see "Bucky" Hatchett, the visitors' stellar Negro center, toss in 22 points in the second half and pace his team to victory after it trailed 24-27 at the intermission.

It was the first home-floor defeat for Dale Burnett's Ephmen, whose record now stands at three wins and four losses. Rutgers, however, had triumphed over such teams as Columbia, Princeton, and Western Reserve.

Hatchett Terrific

Leading by ten points late in the first half, the Williams five looked ready to spring a major upset, but was once again the victim of a second-half slump. It was all tied up at 50-50 with seven minutes to go in the ball game, when Hatchett took over and turned it into a runaway by scoring twelve quick points before the gun. Playing less than half of the first twenty minutes, in which he hooped only six points, Hatchett put on a real show after half-time and wound up the evening with a total of 28, including ten foul shots in a dozen attempts.

Goldovsky Performs

Commentary, Playing Charm Large Audience

The Thompson Concert Committee presented as its third concert of the year a piano recital of Chopin in Chapin by Boris Goldovsky last Monday evening before an enthusiastic audience of approximately 700 people.

Mr. Goldovsky was in rare form. The entire concert from beginning to end held the constant attention of the audience which reacted very warmly to the ready wit and engaging sense of humor of the virtuoso. And his playing of the several Chopin selections was of the best. While the passages which he presented were generally not those noted for their extreme difficulty, the effortless grace of his interpretations were conclusive enough proof of his great ability as musician and technician. But as Rudolf Elle said, "In his playing Mr. Goldovsky reveals his true stature as an interpretive artist. His playing is a means to an end, and not an end in itself." This, in fact, was the keynote of the entire performance. The artist seemed to give much of himself to each selection. It was not merely a Horowitz-like display of technical ability, but it contained all the feeling and subjective taste of the true performer.

The program was a music lesson. Using examples of many of son. Using examples of forms employed by Chopin in his revuere, Mr. Goldovsky took the audience on a conducted tour of "Types of Chopin." To intensify this method he followed the themes of Chopin the Lover, the Virtuoso, the Poet, and the Patriot. By this device he was able to give unity to his diversity. The opening selection was the legato from the Concerto in F minor. A short commentary before this informed the listeners of the circumstances under which it was written, and thus increased the appreciation for the majority.

That Mr. Goldovsky is well qualified to do this is shown by his being the Metropolitan Opera Broadcast Commentator in his time off from directing the operatic department of the New England Conservatory of Music which undoubtedly is the source of some of the best operatic work today. The legato was followed by an etude, a scherzo, a nocturne, and Chopin's Fantasia, F minor. This first half of the program was on the whole better than the second portion mostly due to the brilliance of its last selection. Included in the latter half were a sad waltz, a patriotic mazurka, See GOLDOVSKY, Page 4

Royal Purple Firm Swept Into River

No Student Clothes Lost In NA Flood Disaster

by Dick Heuer

At high tide in North Adams the afternoon of December 31, a section of the Petri Cleaning plant, to which the Royal Purple Cleaners sublet their work, proceeded to become distributed, brick by brick, over the wide stretches of the lower Hoosac River valley. The floodwaters, nine feet above their normal level, undermined a retaining wall that held up one side of the Petri plant, causing it to collapse into the rampaging river.

Petri suffered damages estimated, for insurance purposes no doubt, at $70,000 and sustained the largest personal loss in the North Adams-Williamstown area. The student cleaners, however, escaped without a scratch. All the clothes of the Williams "country gentlemen" had been hustled out of town in bulging suitcases in preparation for the vacation-time spree, and no local casualties were reported.

The Royal Purple organization has surmounted all difficulties, however, and advertises "business as usual." Petri has maintained his business via a Pittsfield establishment, but in order to maintain their 24 hour service, the student cleaners has concluded a working agreement with another North Adams plant.

Repairs to the Petri plant cannot be started until after the high water in the spring.

Winter Athletics

Despite the fact many of us feel that Williams College tends to under emphasize athletics in favor of the higher learning, the Purple still does all right. The past weekend is proof of that.

Although it is poor policy to predict winners, the odds seem to point toward a repeat in New England Championships for the swimming and wrestling teams. Coach Muir's tankmen showed no strain in snapping back to top form as they defeated a strong Colgate team, and Potter's proteges had little trouble in showing Tufts who was boss. If wrestlers don't grow on bushes, they at least crop up occasionally in PT classes. It seems that one Ev Smith was coaxed into trying out for the varsity mat squad last week. Saturday he decisioned his opponent 9-7 to win the 128 lb. class and the first wrestling match of his life.

The basketball team finds itself on the short side of the win-loss ledger, but it's no easy task to whip quintets like Hatchett & Company from Rutgers. The skiers and icemen are finding pleasant diversion in pingpong and bridge tournaments these days, as they nibble their fingernails to the bone in anticipation of the ice and snow that fails to show. Must be that they don't live right, or rather in the right place. Coach Plansky's trackmen have at last seen their dreams fulfilled as the outdoor board track was completed yesterday. The runners encounter their first competition a week from Saturday in the Boston Garden, and although the opponents are not yet known, chances are that the traditional rivals Wesleyan and Amherst will help fill the bill.

All in all, the winter season has just begun, and we're off to a flying start. Last year's freshman teams have left more than enough talent to fill the gaps made by the graduation of last year's seniors, and from all indications the Purple is headed for a better than average season all the way around. Let's hope our teams have the backing that appeared during the football season. By that we do not mean just the cheers and enthusiasm from the student body, but from the faculty and administration as well.

Notes and Comment

There has been some unofficial discussion of the reviews of COMMENT and THE PURPLE COW in the December 18, 1948, issue of The Record. COW sympathizers have criticized both the manner of the review and the way in which The Record handled the articles in their make-up.

The tone of Dan Pugh's review may have been a little intense, but it was a signed story which, in the opinion of the editors, represented legitimate criticism. As for the juxtaposition of the two reviews, this struck the editors as being an extremely apropos and logical arrangement, since the two college magazines did hit the newsstands at approximately the same date.

It has also been stated that The Record has no business printing such an unfavorable criticism of a campus publication so soon after its appearance. What, then, is the duty of a newspaper's literary review staff, if not to get a competent and opinionative review of a current publication to its readers as quickly as possible?

The statement was based on the theory that an unfavorable review in The Record would seriously hurt the COW's newsstand sales and therefore prevent them from meeting costs, a matter of extreme concern to any undergraduate publication, especially here at Williams. Any magazine which depends on newsstand sales to break even is operating either inefficiently or in poor advertising local. If there is any substantiation for this reference to the influence of opinion appearing in The Record, we accept the compliment and express our thanks.

Turning to the constructive side of the problem, the fact remains that, whether the undergraduate body realizes it or not, there is on the Williams campus a first-class undergraduate literary magazine, entitled COMMENT. By first-class we mean intercollegately first-class.

No undergraduate need fear that COMMENT is too highly intellectual for understanding or enjoyment. The initiative and imagination of its editors is demonstrated by the art contest which they are sponsoring (see page 1) as well as in the magazine itself. It is a literary and artistic effort which deserves the support of every student.

rebound retrieving, were thus almost eclipsed by Hatchett's performance. Sheehy, George Ditmar, and Bob Larson shared the scoring honors for the home team with 12 points apiece while Chuck Pusey tossed in 11 and figured in some good work off both backboards.

Andy Sivess with 16 points, and Howie Konrad with 14, kept Rutgers in the ball game until Hatchett got warmed up. Baker and Cohan meanwhile turned in a superlative job of officiating, the best seen here in quite some time.

Purple Leads

Both teams started slowly, but four successful free throws gave Williams an 8-7 advantage for the first eight minutes. Ditmar then stole the ball and dribbled in for a score, then hit with a set from the side and Larson counted on a tap-in.

At this point, with ten minutes elapsed, Hatchett entered the game and tossed in a pair of foul shots. Pusey and Larson made good on rebounds, but Sivess and Kruger tallied for Rutgers and two more gift throws by Hatchett made it 19-16, Williams ahead.

Pusey scored from underneath and added a free throw, and George Bush swished in two quick set shots. But in the last two minutes of the half, Sivess hit twice with one-handers, Hatchett tallied on an easy lay-up, and Konrad tossed in a one-hand shot, to cut the Williams lead to 27-24.

Letters To The Editor

Rumor Stopped

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

In the December 18th issue, under the heading "Basketball" on the editorial page, the RECORD stated that it would be impossible for the Outing Club to hold the Winter Carnival Dance in the main gym. Although there was some rumor to that effect, we are pleased to announce that the decision has been reversed, and the administration has seen fit to let the dance take place in the gym after all. We commend the RECORD on its just praise to the team and hasten to add that the floor of the gym will be taken care of in a way that will not hamper the Billville quintet when it goes out to beat Hofstra on Saturday night.

Sincerely,
Paul Mort

Williams Hitching Post Proposed

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

After fourteen weeks or so of attendance at Williams College, I hope it will not be considered premature or out of place for a Freshman to write a letter to you — there being no one else to whom it seems appropriate to write — to make a suggestion.

One of the things which has impressed me most about Williams College environment in 1948 (not 1908, or 1918 or 1928 or some other year before Freshmen were born, but 1948, that is after the beginning of the fourth year of explosive nuclear fission) to be brutally frank, is the lack of motorized transport for Underclassmen. Why the younger sons of Ephraim should be so deprived has puzzled me every time I have attempted to substitute other means for a personally owned and operated automobile. I have personally piloted high-octane buggies over a good part of the United States and Canada without damage to persons or property, and I am sure that many other Freshmen and Sophomores have done the same or more.

In spite of the fact that the no-automobile policy seems to me to be a substitution of regulation for education, my observation is that for the most part Freshmen have nevertheless obeyed the ruling of the Authorities, and attempted to fill the gap by undertaking an intensive laboratory course in the Theory and Practice of Hitchhiking. Now undeniably Hitch-Hiking has its charms. You meet such interesting people. The trouble is you don't meet them often enough and in the interval you feel very much like a Displaced Person and consume an inordinate amount of more or less valuable time.

The purpose of this letter is to suggest a method of cooperation among the students of the College to make Hitch-Hiking somewhat more efficient. It would be a very simple thing to set up, say in Northampton, Bennington, North Adams and all the other neighboring Femmevilles, a Williams Hitching Post. In each appropriate town a place could be designated at which all Williams cars able to take on one or more passengers would agree to stop and pick up Williams men wishing to return to Williamstown. If such a custom were once established not only students but parents, alumni, faculty, and other friends of Williams College and Williamsmen would also provide many rides.

There should be no difficulty in selecting the "Posts." A drug store, hotel, beanery, filling station or gin mill would do. Preferably the place selected should be open late at night so as to provide some shelter or refreshment or both in cold weather. It should be located as centrally as possible in each Femmeville, on the main artery of traffic to Williamstown, and convenient to the local source of femininity. The presence of a telephone at such a place would also be a desirable feature. Many angles could be developed in operation, which are premature to discuss here.

The problem is to designate the spots and get the custom started. I am optimistic enough to believe that any Williamsman who is authorized to drive a car will gladly go to any necessary inconvenience to help a stranded fellow Ephman home.

Eph's Briefs

By C. Sharp

Freshman Lament

The Senior has a brilliant look,
Knows every answer in the book,
His watch-chain bears a key of gold
His slightest gesture, we are told
Is magic with the girls.

He truly sets our Fashion's mold
He paces thought for young and old

When in his mortar-board and gown
He is our Symbol for Renown
The Apple of our Eye.

His sterling qualities are known
Wherever Merit's product's shown
He knows his Science and his Art

We can't believe he'll soon depart
This Realm of Student Years.

He drives the latest Pacillac
In politics he's Quarter-Back
He is the soul of College Wit.
There is no doubt that he'll soon sit
Within our Hall of Fame.

Would I exchange my Freshman jeans
My Hike-mobile, my idle dreams
My Freshman Cap, my unknown lot

To occupy the Senior's spot?
You bet I would!

Sheehy Stars

The second half was close and hard-fought until the closing minutes. Larson scored twice for Williams at the start of play, but the visitors quickly cut the Eph lead to 33-32. Here, with five minutes gone, Sheehy got hot. High Harry threw in an accurate hook and, after Pusey and Konrad scored for their respective teams, hit with a long one-hand set and two more hook shots for a 43-36 lead.

Mason and Ditmar added free throws, but three more hoops by Hatchett tied the score at 45-45. Each team then came up with a basket and three foul shots to make it 50-50 with seven minutes left.

Hatchett then gave the visitors the lead they never relinquished, with another pair of accurate free throws. Aided by Konrad's two hoops, he paced the Rutgers quintet with ten more points as it

Pucksters Sack Georgetown In Vacation Opener, 6-0; Bow To Westchester Twice

by Ted Jones

Coach Frank Bell's varsity hockey squad opened the 1948-49 season during Christmas vacation with a trio of games, facing Georgetown once and the Westchester County All Stars twice. They won one game and dropped two decisions.

The Purple pucksters initiated the season's hostilities against the Hoyas of Georgetown College, December 28th, at Norwalk, Connecticut. The Ephs looked exceptionally strong in turning back the Washington sextet to the tune of 6-0. Bucky Marchese drew most blood for Williams, assisted by Mark Reynolds. Coleman and Reynolds combined to dent the Ephs two minutes later, and Captain Charley Huntington followed up with the third goal of the evening.

Continuing their barrage of the Georgetown nets, Jim Brown, Bill Swan, and Tom Healy chalked up scores four, five, and six, assisted by Steve Wyer, Ronnie Chute, and Huntington. While their mates were giving the Georgetown goalies more business than he could handle, Williams defensemen time after time throttled the attempts of the much-publicized Cassidy wins and their teammates to bring the puck down the ice. Final score, 6-0.

Westchester Triumphs

It was a different story two nights later, however, as the skaters met the formidable Westchester County All-Stars at the Playland Arena in Rye, New York. In spite of the scoring of Reynolds, Coleman, and Swan, the Purple was unable to check the crack metropolitan sextet in a 7-3 game. The Williams team managed to stay abreast of the All-Stars for the first period, holding their adversaries to a 2-2 tie. Westchester went ahead in the second period, 4-3, and then turned the heat on in the final stanza to notch the victory.

Mark Reynolds suffered the first casualty of the season in the second period, receiving a severe cut on the right foot. He was taken to the hospital where he received five stitches, but official word has it that he will be back in action within a week or so.

Overtime Loss

Westchester and Williams squared off again the following Wednesday night with the All-Stars again emerging victorious in a 6-5 overtime game. The pucksters showed their best form of the trip in forcing the New Yorkers to extend themselves to the limit. Two quick goals by Huntington with assists by Radcliffe and Co-captain Benson gave the Purple a 2-0 first period margin.

The All-Stars came storming right back with three second period scores, and it was 3-2 going into the final fifteen minutes. Doug Coleman tied up the game with a goal, assisted by Marchese and Fish, and then the Ephmen matched Westchester goal for goal on scores by Marchese and Chute. Coleman and Wyer were credited with assists, and defensemen Radcliffe got his second and third assists of the evening — an unusual feat for a defenseman Radcliffe got his second overtime, the sharpshooting All-Stars scored a quick goal to win, 6-5.

The Westchester team is scheduled for another game between semesters in New York. St. Lawrence University plays Williams here today to provide the first post-vacation opposition for Coach Frank Bell's charges.

Tall Sienamen Edge Out Frosh

Purple Yearlings Lead At Halftime

Powerless to defend themselves under the backboards, an undersized Williams freshmen quintet bowed to a taller Siena College squad 49-41, in Lasell Gymnasium last Saturday afternoon. Though the Purple yearling cagers fought hard to overcome this disadvantage, the superior height of the Siena team eventually wore them out.

Following the opening basket made by Captain Bob Detwiler on a hook shot from the foul line, the Williams five rolled to a commanding 9-0 lead in the early minutes of the game. Coach Bobby Coombs' squad maintained this margin throughout the half by their speed, aggressiveness, and impenetrable man-for-man defense, leaving the floor with a 24-13 advantage.

Opening Jitters

John Kulsar started the second half auspiciously for the Purple quintet with a hard driving lay-up. At this point, however, Williams developed a case of opening game jitters, and the Siena five utilizing their great height advantage, closed the gap between the two teams. Then they forged ahead to the final 49-41 lead in the closing stages of the fray.

Siena's Bissell was the high scorer for the afternoon with sixteen points, but it was the long set shots by Ed Shuddt, Williams high man with twelve, that excited the crowd.

In the first half Coach Coombs' boys committed grand larceny right and left, sometimes stealing the ball before it crossed mid-court. They made amends by missing eleven foul shots. Eight would have tied the game. Next Saturday the frosh tackle Wesleyan at Middletown.

Wrestlers Win Initial Match Over Tufts

Lose Only Two Decisions In Taking 20-8 Win; Kelton Gets Only Pin

Defeating Tufts College 20-8, the Williams wrestlers opened their 1949 season before a large post-basketball crowd in the Lasell Gym last Saturday. Bill Kelton at 121 lbs., tallied the only pin for the Ephmen while decisions were gained by Ev Smith, Scrubby Perry, Paul Shorb, Green Carleton, and Bill Leitzinger. The only Tufts scores came in the last two weight classes long after the Purple victory was assured.

The curtain-raiser got off to a fast start when Kelton dropped and nearly pinned the Jumbos' Berkai in the first period. The fall came, one minute, fifty seconds into the second period, gaining an initial five-point lead for Williams.

Ev Smith, wrestling 128 pounds in the place of the injured Captain Paul Cook, met Grant in an even, active match which featured three reversals and four escapes. With a 9-7 count, Smith took the decision. Scrubby Perry and Powers' encounter at 136 pounds was also even but entirely without serious action until the third period. Helped by two points time advantage Perry won 5-2.

Outcome Decided

At 145 pounds Paul Shorb overpowered Tufts' Co-captain Dom Lamberto in a one-sided fight. A few escapes were the only thing the latter could manage and the decision went 10-3 for Shorb. Still more uneven was Green Carleton's match with Doyle. Falling three times to make the pin, Carleton settled for a 15-2 decision. With this victory the score reached 17-0 and the match outcome was assured.

At 165 pounds the Leitzinger-Burlingame struggle was also decisive. In this nine-minute bout N. E. Champion Bill Leitzinger had the distinction of gaining time advantage—being on top for all but thirteen seconds. A 6-0 decision gave Williams its sixth, and last, victory.

Two Losses

Bart Conant met Johnson in the 175 pound class and, after a close, active encounter, dropped the decision 5-4 through two points time advantage gained by the Jumbo. At unlimited, Al Hatch and Ange-ramo provided a perfect foil to the opener as the Tufts' Co-captain made his fall in four minutes, sixteen seconds.

Although the Tufts team has improved since it lost to the Ephs 29-3 last year, it is far less powerful than other opponents on this year's schedule.

The match showed a weakness in the heavyweight divisions, which will have to be overcome for a successful defense of the Rockwood Cup and the New England Championship.

Theta Delt-AD Lead Race

Both Division Crowns Still Hotly Contested

Alpha Delta Phi and Theta Delta Chi still hold sway in the hotly contested intramural basketball race. The A.D.'s have won five straight and need only to top the Deke's (5-1) to clinch undisputed possession of the championship in the A division. In the other division the Theta Delt's have rolled over all opposition except a strong Garfield Club quintet.

The latest Theta Delt victory came at the expense of the Phi Sigs in the first post-vacation intramural encounter, 22-19. The Park Street cagers ran up a 16-4 halftime margin and then coasted in to nab a close decision from the hapless Phi Sigs. The Delta Phi team meanwhile kept up the hot pace they had been setting before vacation by nipping the Betas in a close struggle. D. Phi still holds a mathematical chance of catching the league leaders, depending on whether the Betas can whip the Theta Delt's in their all-important encounter tomorrow.

Dekes Have Chance

Delta Kappa Epsilon is the only team in the other league with an outside chance of tying the undefeated A.D.'s for the top spot. These two crack quintets meet today in the regular season finale for both squads. Should the Dekes win, a playoff battle will be necessary to determine the championship. Both teams won in their last time out, the A.D.'s racking up win number six against the cellar-dwelling Saints.

The Garfield Club and the D Phi's are now tied for second place in the "B" league. Should the Betes down the Theta Delt's, either of these teams might win the crown.

Conquers Hofstra By 59-57 Margin

Loses To Strong Iona In Last 45 Seconds

Dale Burnett's sophomore-laden varsity basketball team returned from its first post-war Christmas trip with a victory over hitherto undefeated Hofstra, a near upset over highly rated Iona, and losses to Brooklyn Poly and Adelphi.

The opener at Hofstra saw the Ephmen sport a comfortable halftime lead, only to have Hofstra, which had won its six previous starts knot the score at 55-all with a minute and a half remaining. Bob Larsen's one-hander and a Hofstra set tied the score again, and it took Captain Mason's lay-up, which beat the gun by ten seconds, to ice the contest, 59-57. Chuck Pusey's 18 points and Larsen's 12 were high for the night. Carnival week-end will see Hofstra invade Lasell Gym for a return contest.

First Williams' Loss

Brooklyn Poly's giant five tumbled Williams from the ranks of the undefeated as their minute floor, coupled with a tall club, aided in their 63-52 victory. This was accomplished despite George Ditmar's sensational 24-point performance. Iona needed a brilliant finish to take the next ball-game by a 53-49 count for their eighth victory. With 45 seconds remaining, Williams got the ball with Iona leading 50-49. But a speedy Iona forward stole the ball at mid-court and drove through to score the winning basket. Harry Sheehy topped a fine performance with 13 points while Ditmar and Larsen chipped in with 11 apiece.

Williams was visibly tired the next night as they lost 54-50 to Adelphi in a listless contest. The Purple led 23-21 at the half, but even Ditmar's 15 points were not enough to stave off the onrushing Adelphians.

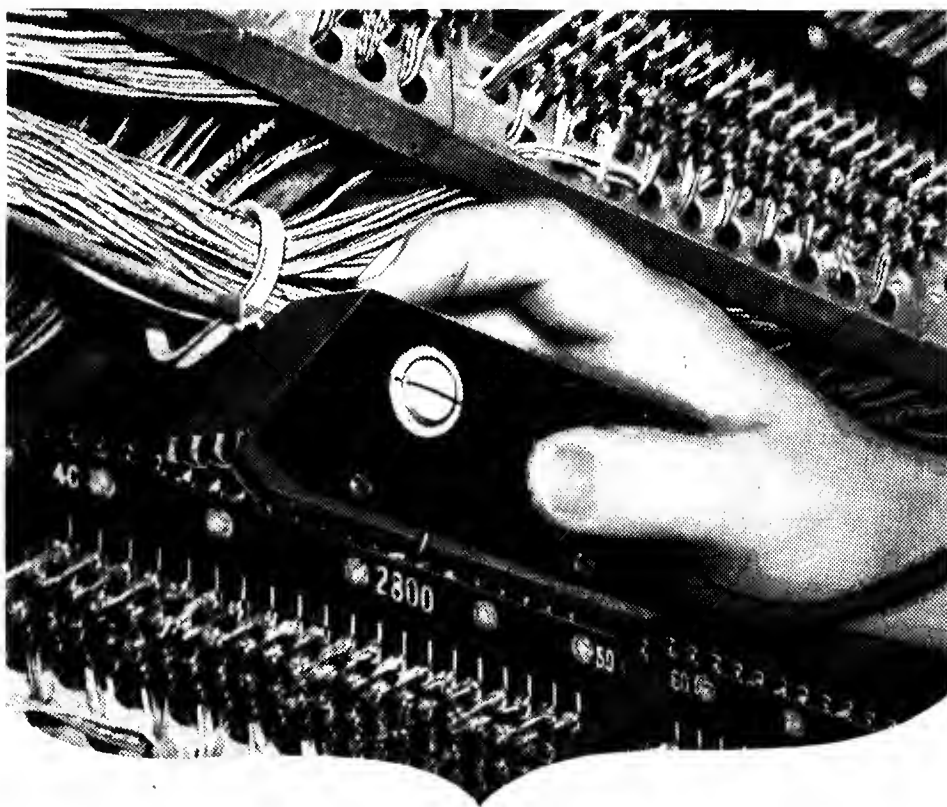

Foul Shooting Improves

Ditmar led the trip scoring with 54 points for a 13.6 game average. See QUINTET, page 4

Polo Team Loses 20-10 At Cornell

The Williams varsity polo team traveled to Ithaca last Saturday and were soundly trounced by the Cornellians, 20-10. Throughout the first half the Purple horsemen managed to hold their own, leaving the field at halftime with the score tied, 7-7. After the intermission, however, the Williams team, tired from their long trip, fell to pieces as Cornell galloped over them.

Bill Hudson led the Eph scorers with five goals, while Sam Cook and Vic Heerman shared the runner-up posts with three and two, respectively. The turfsters will be gunning for better luck two weeks from now when they meet the University of Miami in the famous Orange Bowl in sunny Florida.

New Britain Teachers Top Ephs' 68-47

Pusey Leads Williams Hoopsters With 23 Points In One-Sided Defeat

by Blair Perry

Dale Burnett's varsity basketball squad had the satisfaction of seeing a really fine ball club in action here Wednesday night, but that was about all they had. New Britain State Teachers College, without a doubt the classiest hoop team seen here in several years, romped to a one-sided win, 68-47, after the Ephs played over their heads to stay within striking distance for the first fifteen minutes.

Featured by the spectacular hook shots of big Bill Massa and bigger Burr Carlson, the Teachers just didn't miss. They worked the ball with speed and finesse, shot with unerring accuracy from all over the floor, and held the purple scorers well within bounds throughout the game.

Pusey Stars

Chuck Pusey had a big night for the outclassed Ephs, scoring 23 points to prevent a complete rout, but both George Dittmar and Bob Larson had "off" nights. Harry Sheehy scored only one point, but the big boy contributed some invaluable work off the backboards.

Massa scored 23 for the visitors, and Carlson had 16, while Captain Eddie Rosmarin, 5'6" guard, chipped in with ten points and was the outstanding spark-plug and playmaker of the Blue Devils. Coach Ross Merreck also had a wealth of material on the bench, and was able to send in substitutes that were on a par with the starters.

Score Easily

The visitors worked largely with a modified double-pivot offense built around Massa and Carlson, who set up themselves, their teammates, and each other with the greatest of skill. And when the Teachers couldn't get the ball in under the hoop for an easy shot, they swished from outside with consistency.

Last year the Blue Devils, best teachers' college team in New England, compiled a 17-5 record and went to the second round of the NAIB tournament in Kansas City before losing to Xavier.

Pusey Hitting

It took both teams a few minutes to get warmed up before Larson broke the scoring ice for Williams and Massa, Carlson, and Anderson tallied for the visitors in quick succession. Pusey hit with a pair of one-handers and a foul shot, but Massa and Carlson each scored twice for New Britain, and they led 17-12 midway through the half.

Pusey then swished with two pretty jump shots. Sheehy tossed in a free throw, and Pusey tallied from underneath on a perfect pass from Sheehy, tying it up at 19-19 with eight minutes remaining.

Visitors Pick Up

But in those eight minutes Massa and Rosmarin combined their talents for a 35-23 New Britain lead at the intermission. Massa scored with two hook shots, a one-hand toss, and a free throw, while Rosmarin hit with a long See BASKETBALL, Page 4

Action Against New Britain Teachers

Chuck Pusey (number 3), Williams center, goes up for a layup in the first half of Wednesday night's game against New Britain State Teachers College. Pusey scored 23 points in the contest.

Careers Open In Air Force

Aviation Cadets To Explain Program

"The opportunity for pilot training and a career as an officer with the United States Air Force which is open to qualified college men will be explained to Williams College men on January 24 and 25 by a special Air Force Aviation Cadet Team," Lt. Colonel Robert E. Gury, First Aviation Procurement Officer, said today.

"Married or single men, 20 to 26½ years old, and physically fit, with two or more years of college, will have the opportunity to provisionally qualify for the flight training immediately when the traveling Aviation Cadet team meets here at Chapin Hall," Lt. Col. Gury said. The team, headed by Maj. Ben M. Terry, will be prepared to administer the Air Force aptitude examination to applicants.

Successful applicants receive flight training at the Air Force Bases in Texas, Arizona, and Louisiana, and upon graduation are given 2nd Lieutenant commissions in the Air Force Reserve, aeronautical ratings as pilots, and are assigned to active flight duty.

New sessions of Aviation Cadet classes begin eight times each year, and the top graduates of each class are given direct commissions in the regular Air Force. All graduates are asked to agree to serve a minimum of three years on active duty, and during the active duty period all have the opportunity to qualify for a regular commission.

Earnings after only 12 months of training are approximately $4000 a year, and the officer-pilot also is entitled to numerous benefits.

Trustees To Meet January 21 - 22

Baxter, Makepeace, To Attend Quarterly Confab

President James P. Baxter 3rd and College Treasurer Charles D. Makepeace will journey to New York next week to attend the meeting of the Board of Trustees on January 21-22. This meeting is one of the regular quarterly meetings held every year.

President Baxter said that the various committees of the Board would meet on Friday, January 21, and that the complete Board meeting would be held on Saturday, January 22, at which time more college-wide problems and situations would be discussed. A member of the Administration, other than President Baxter and Mr. Makepeace, may also be appointed to attend the meeting before the date occurs.

Study Abroad Offered Again

Zurich Summer School, U. Of Oslo List Costs

American students again have the opportunity to study at a European university or college this summer. Summer study is being offered by both the University of Oslo in Norway and the Summer School of European Studies at Zurich, Switzerland.

At the University of Oslo the summer session extends from June 27 to August 6, and the total expenses (including transportation) are estimated to be at least $650. Six credit hours are given, which are "in most cases transferable". The Summer School of European Studies offers five weeks of courses in either Political Science or German from July 18 to August 19. Expenses for that, including transportation, amount to approximately $180. An excursion in the Swiss Alps is available for $35, to anyone wishing to remain there an extra week. Both of the above schools are approved by the Veterans Administration.

For further details concerning the above summer plans, one may consult the Record files on any Wednesday or Sunday afternoon. There is also, in the files, information on the Boston Globe's foreign scholarship competition, and pamphlets describing various "Junior Year" and graduate courses at European schools.

Want A Bangle? Letter From Africa Gives Unusual Chance

by Charles Utley

All thrill-seeking, daring, incurable romantics take note. A letter addressed to a prominent member of the senior class has been turned over to The Williams Record as a means of contacting individuals interested in "The Dark Continent".

This masterpiece of epistolary form originated from the Connaught Agencies of 52 Caledon Street, Cape Town, South Africa. It is truly enough to stir the blood of the most lethargic Williams undergraduate, as well as thrilling opportunity seldom experienced by anyone. Individuals with three to fifteen dollars in their pockets are urged not to read any farther. The letter follows, with comments by an early reader: "Dear Friend, (Don't assume too much.)

This letter has travelled 10,000 miles across the seas from the shores of Africa, to call on you in America.

Is it not thrilling to get mail from the "Dark Continent", that makes you think of Big Game and Negro War Dances and Black Magic? (No, I guess I'm not in the right frame of mind.)

Through our help you can get an even bigger and more lasting thrill. (Wham! Where is it?)

Brooks Talks To Freshmen

Says Williams Must Retain Standards

"The maintenance of the present high educational standards at Williams is the only basis upon which Williams, and similar institutions can justify its existence in the post-war period," said Dean Robert R. Brooks in addressing the freshman class in Jesup Hall last Tuesday evening. In this way, a degree from Williams will mean more commercially, socially, and educationally than one from an institution where there has been a dilution of the education.

In the third of a series of freshman orientation lectures Dean Brooks stressed that the most powerful idea in our world is the idea of freedom and equality. Freedom means the opportunity to rise with one's abilities, and nowhere has opportunity as a corollary to freedom been implemented as in the United States.

He emphasized that, nowhere has the ladder of opportunity been maintained as freely available as in our educational system. In this way, Dean Brooks remarked, the educational system in this country is unique from other countries.

Since the war the subsidization of colleges by the government, the increase in the level of income and production, and the penetration of the idea of education where it was formerly foreign, have doubled the college population. This increase in enrollment has brought a corresponding increase in college problems of staffing the faculty and housing the students.

Now that the college education is a mass phenomena due to the expansion of the great universities and the development of junior colleges across the land, it becomes doubtful if the small New England college, which is very expensive, can survive. To do so, said Dean Brooks, it must maintain its academic standards above that of the mass education.

Then he stressed the importance of the curriculum in maintaining the educational standard of a college. Comparing the problems of good curriculum to those of good lighting, Dean Brooks discussed the importance of the student's initiative and the teaching which he receives.

$3 Increase By Term End

Class Of '49 Must Pay To Graduate

By joint legislation of the Undergraduate Council and the Student Activities Council last Monday night, definite rules have been approved to facilitate collection of the current $3 Student tax.

Bill Barney, SAC president pointed out, "The present ruling seems the best yet devised for what has always been a difficult and sometimes painful but necessary process."

Fine Imposed

For all persons not paying the tax by January 22, a fine of one dollar will be imposed. Those delinquent after April 2 will be charged another dollar. Again on May 28, the hold-outs will be charged still another dollar if the tax has not been paid, the result being that the bitter-enders will have to pay a total of $6 instead of the $3 which was due November 1. All undergraduates owing their tax will be barred from all extra-curricular activities until payment is made.

Beginning with the class of 1949, all students are required to pay their yearly assessments in order to receive their diplomas. For this reason, some seniors who are on last year's backlog are being charged for that as well as the current tax.

Acting as UC collectors, the social unit treasurers in thirteen of the groups have added the tax to the monthly bills, all of which has done much to simplify the task.

Four houses are completely paid up, but there are still 214 bills outstanding.

Tax Justified

Barney asserted that there have been a few complaints about the $3 assessment, but he asserted for the most part they are not justified. In the first place anyone who does not understand the tax or has a complaint against anything in undergraduate life is represented on the UC either by social unit or class presidents. To date no gripes about the tax itself have been registered through the representatives.

For what a student pays, the returns are great. The tax covers the administration of both the UC and the SAC, the band, rallies, the Adviser, not to mention the budgets of non-profit-making activities. None of the tax goes to profit groups such as WMS, the Record, and the Purple Cow. Rather these latter organizations turn in a percentage of their profits to bolster the UC returns and to help the non-profit budget.

Next year the fine system will be continued so that a student who fails to meet the tax levied will be fined accordingly. This year's tax must be paid in full so that activities may operate according to the budget appropriated by the UC last year.

Checks or cash should be paid to the Undergraduate Council. Address to Dick Wells, UC Treasurer at the DKE house.

Prof. H. Smith Heads West

To Assume New Duties At Caltech Next Fall

The appointment of Dr. Hallett D. Smith, Professor of English, to the position of chairman of the Division of Humanities and Professor of English at the California Institute of Technology, was announced January 12, by Dr. Lee A. DuBridge, Caltech President.

A native of Chattanooga, Tennessee, Dr. Smith received his B. A. degree from the University of Colorado and his Ph. D. degree from Yale University. He is an authority on Elizabethan literature and has earned a national reputation as an outstanding scholar in his field.

In 1941 he did research work at the Huntington Library in Pasadena under a Guggenheim fellowship on the history of Elizabethan non-dramatic poetry. He is the author of a number of articles which have appeared in various publications, and he also collaborated in the editing of "The Golden Hind", published in 1942, and "The Critical Reader", published in 1948.

Dr. Smith, who has been a member of the Williams faculty since 1931, is an amateur violinist and a member of the Williamstown Symphony Orchestra. He will go to Caltech following the summer school session at Columbia University, where he will give two courses in the Graduate School.

Glass Backboards

Last Saturday night's basketball game with Rutgers attracted quite a crowd. The stands downstairs were full, and the rails of the track were lined, in many places, with two rows of spectators. The game with New Britain State Teachers College on Wednesday night was just as well attended. Yet of all those people who had seats downstairs, about one-third of them missed a good portion of the action. They were the people who sat at either end of the court.

For those who sit at the end of the court the center of action, the ball, is completely hidden at one basket, and those who sit in the upper rows, and in the middle of the stands, have trouble watching the action at the other basket. The cause is quite obvious; the backboards on the basketball court are not transparent. The result is that if the approximately 750 persons with seats on the ground floor, one out of every three gets a distorted picture of the game.

Spectators and Players

The remedy from the spectator's point of view, is quite simple. Glass backboards. The stands at the ends of the court actually are not bad seats. The observer has a good chance to see the passes and plays being set up, but when the ball leaves the shooter's hands, the spectator has to wait until it drops through the hoop, or until a player gets the rebound, before he knows whether it is even close to a basket. Glass backboards would solve this problem. They would allow about 250 more people to see the whole game, rather than just parts of it.

From the players' standpoint, too, it would be helpful. The quintet plays some mighty good teams — teams that could well be called big-time — Brooklyn Poly, Rutgers, New Britain State Teachers, Army, Fordham, Yale. When the team plays away, and with glass backboards, they are not used to them, they do not feel at home with them. If the team is good enough to tangle with big-time competition, it is good enough to have relatively modern equipment.

The Cost

It is in fact quite surprising that glass backboards have not appeared at Williams before now. If the job which the change would require was large, or if the expenses to be incurred were heavy, then we would not expect the new backboards to become a part of Williams equipment at this time. The job, however, is small, and the expenses light.

The total cost to the college for the whole change would run to about $150-$160. This includes the installation of the boards, as well as the boards themselves. Surely this is a small sum, and it is all smaller in view of the much larger appropriation for the new board track, another improvement, incidentally, for which there was a long-felt need.

It seems to us that the Athletic Council could set aside the necessary $160 for glass backboards. Sitting behind one of the present backboards is not experience for a privileged few. It could conceivably happen to every Williams student at least once during the course of the season. It is our conviction that the Athletic Council would have to go a long way to find another $160 improvement which would benefit such a large number of people, both players and spectators, to such a great extent.

Rushing Committee Advises Abolition Of House Quotas

Considers Post Season Period For Three Weeks From Feb. 14

Bert Dean '49, Chairman of the UC Rushing Committee, announced Friday that the committee will recommend abolition of all house quotas at the UC meeting next Monday night. The committee will also recommend that post-season rushing be conducted over a three week period commencing Monday, February 14th.

In establishing the recommendation for the abolition of quotas, the committee presented the following points. If the rule is enacted, it will do away with houses having to refuse men whom they mutually agree upon but are unable to pledge because of the present quota system. Secondly, the lifting of the quota will allow more men to become members of a fraternity.

Refuting the argument against lifting the quotas, the committee also pointed out that the new ruling would not cause too great an inequality "in that strength does not lie in numbers, and that it will not generally make an increase of more than five men due to the lack of facilities."

Both of the committee recommendations are subject to UC approval, and will not become a part of the rushing procedure until such approval is granted.

"Purple Platters" is back again after a month's vacation for academic reasons. During that time we received many ideas for improving the column. Some readers favored shorter reviews, while others expressed a desire for a lengthier type of review. Certain quarters urged us to change from a record to a general entertainment column. But for the present we intend to continue our reviewing pattern—at least until the second term when we may make some changes in accordance with readers' wishes; so drop us a card listing any ideas you have for "Purple Platters."

Ban Lifted

Before proceeding with this week's records, here's some news on the latest happenings in the record world. As most people know by now, the recording ban was lifted last month when record companies agreed to pay 3% of their disc receipts to the musicians' union for a reserve fund. As we understand it, this 3% charge is levied to offset the monetary loss to union members who are thrown out of work in favor of juke boxes. The terms here are similar to those in the former contract. With the lifting of the ban musicians hurriedly headed for the studios in order to be among the first to record new sides.

Along with this encouraging report on the recording situation came equally discouraging news about some of the greatest names in the band business. Stan Kenton, following a successful engagement at the Paramount Theater in New York, gave his men the usual two weeks' notice. His reasons for disbanding—poor working conditions. Later from the West Coast his agent disclosed that Kenton was definitely "quitting" the music field to study medicine. Coming on the heels of Stan's choice as the No. 1 Band of the Year by "Metronome" readers, we find it hard to believe that Stan is gone for good. Other band breakups included Gene Krupa for a month's vacation and Buddy Rich in order to organize a new, "less boppish" group.

Davey and Stan

But the saddest notes of the year were struck in December as Davey Tough and Stan Hasselgard died. It's difficult to say enough about either of these men—Davey, the diminutive drummer from Chicago who we think reached his greatest heights with the Herman Herd in 1945, and Stan, the youthful Swedish clarinetist who had been in this country only a year, but showed promise of becoming a truly great artist, second only to the immortal BG. To say that these two greats will be sorely missed by a weary music world is an understatement.

On the brighter side of life we notice the joyous return of Benny Goodman to the band-leading profession. After a short theater trip through the "hinterlands," Benny and his boys followed Kenton at the Paramount. Judging from reports, the King has himself a fine orchestra featuring tenorman Wardell Gray and of course BG on clarinet. For surprise of the year we nominate and applaud Duke Ellington's selection "Downbeat" readers as Band of the Year. And now for the latest discs.

DIZZY GILLESPIE

Good Bait B
I Can't Get Started B—
Our first impression of this record was gathered over the vacation at a Gillespie concert in Hartford when he plugged his new recordings. On second hearing we feel that BAIT is a well-written and arranged bop number—all credit due to Count Basie and Tad Dameron. Based on a subdued sax riff, it moves along at a nice bounce tempo. Some inspiring instrumental work by Trummy Young on trombone and Diz on trumpet are partly spoiled by Don Byas' shrieking tenor. However, the fine unison bop choruses pull the side up to a "B". STARTED presents a different Dis with a full tone. Although we're partial to Bunny Berrigan's version of this song, Dis does demonstrate why he ranks with the top hornmen in the business. But the arrangement here leaves much to be desired. Make no mistake—Dis has a good group. (Columbia 30147)

COUNT BASIE

Seventh Avenue Express C+
Ready, Set, Go! C
Most comforting fact here is the Count's personal piano improvement. Departing from his former infant's tinkling style, the Count takes the intro on EXPRESS and follows later with an 8-bar solo. Other solos worthy of mention include a fair trumpet chorus and some interesting tenor work, possibly by Buddy Tate. Most disappointing spots were provided by the band in its poor group work. The reverse features the voice of Jeanne Taylor. We reviewed an earlier record of hers and this indicates little change in our original opinion that once she overcomes her tendency to flat certain phrases, she may develop into a good vocalist. The band is not very exciting and doesn't approach the standards of previous Basie bands. (Victor 20-3003)

TOMMY DORSEY

After Hour Stuff C+
Until C+
STUFF is exactly the opposite of Basie's EXPRESS and features some fine band work in contrast with poor soloists. The tune is a simple 'sax riff backed by a brass filler and is well played by the group. Also Charlie Shavers comes through with a better-than-average trumpet chorus. Too bad his work and that of the band is ruined by poor tenor and piano passages. UNTIL shows off the Dorsey band at its smoothest and also gives Tommy an opportunity for a typical TD solo, played very straight, but with much finesse. Voices featured here include Harry Prime, The Clark Sisters, and The Town Criers, but Prime is the only one deserving of praise. (Victor 20-3061)

THE PAGE CAVANAUGH TRIO

I Want A Little Girl C+
Gee, But It's Good To Be C
Neither side is sensational; in fact, we found The Trio quite disappointing. Unlike the King Cole Trio, Cavanaugh and his group concentrates more on vocals, rather than on straight music. Perhaps this is the best style for them since on GIRL the piano work does not even approach Nat Cole, while the vocal arrangement is done very cleverly by the entire trio. However, on GEE Page's vocal efforts fall short of expectations while the instrumental work does not improve over GIRL. We hope this is one of Cavanaugh's poorer sides because it definitely is a big disappointment. (Victor 20-3016)

GENE KRUPA

Calling Doctor Gillespie B+
Up An Atom B
Hats off to Gene and his boys for the best record of the week! GILLESPIE is a smart bop arrangement with good solos and better unison work highlighted by some intricate rhythms. Starting at a fast pace with a sax chorus this number includes some wonderful bop solos, particularly by Gene's tenorman. Then the band comes through with a climatic riff which is very skillfully arranged. ATOM also is played at a fast tempo. Among the better solos are Krupa's own break, followed by trumpet and alto choruses, however, we do not find anything to rave about in the tenor and trombone solos. Once again the band steals the show with a frantic windup. We were greatly impressed by the fact that this Krupa outfit is so bop-conscious. Not only is the unison work played in a bop vein, but the same can be said of individual performances. From all indications this Krupa group is (or was) one of his best. (Columbia 36382)

Wrestlers, Swimmers Face Strong Bruins

Matmen Meet Brown Today

Opponents Appear On A Par For Struggle

At 3:30 in the Lasell Gym this afternoon Coach Bullock's wrestlers encounter Brown University in the season's second meet. Brown, one of the Purple's toughest opponents, has downed both Dartmouth and Tufts this season and feature an imposing lineup. Comparative wrestling scores, however, usually mean little and the Ephmen have at least an even chance of coming off victors.

Also, at 3:30, Harv Potter's yearling team meets Kent School in their opener.

In the 121 lb. match Bill Kelton faces the Bruin's Mastrangelo; both matmen have a perfect record of pins to date. Dick See MATMEN, Page 4

Purple Skaters Play Bulldogs, Tigers Away

The much traveled Eph hockey team, playing their first five games of the season away and forced to practice at Springfield due to a liquid home rink, engaged the Yale stickmen last night on foreign ice and face Princeton tonight in hastily scheduled matches.

The Purple pucksters split with Princeton last year, cracking the Tigers' vaunted defense for a 3-2 victory to climax a brilliant season which included a tie with Army. This year, Coach Frank Bell's men have blanked Georgetown 6-0 and fallen before the Westchester County All-Stars by 7-3 and 4-3 scores.

Relaymen Bacharach, Delany, Smith, Ziegenhals and Barney get set to try out the new eleven-lap board track.

Outdoor Track Now Finished

Heavy Schedule Faces Winter Track Squad

Strengthened by the addition of a new $3900 outdoor board track, the Williams winter track team launches its 1949 schedule one week from tonight at the Knights of Columbus games in the Boston Garden.

Ditmar Leads In Individual Scoring

Sheehy Sports Best Free Throw Average

Compilation of individual records of the varsity basketball squad, through the Rutgers game last Saturday, shows George Ditmar, last year's high-scorer, again leading the Ephmen in point production from his guard post. George has thrown in an even 100 points in the first seven games, with 40 field goals and 20 free throws to his credit.

Sophomores Chuck Pusey, Bob Larson, and Harry Sheehy follow in the scoring parade with 88, 61, and 51 points, respectively. These records include the Christmas trip, but do not extend through the New Britain game here Wednesday night.

Average 54 points Captain Jack Mason has scored a total of 42 points, while George Bush has tallied 23 in relief roles. No other player has scored over nine.

Dale Burnett's basketballers have scored a total of 380 points in the seven games, an average of 54.3 per night while opposition teams have tossed in 407 points, for a slight edge. Top individual single-game performance to date is Ditmar's 24 markers against Brooklyn Poly during the Christmas trip. See DITMAR, Page 4

Squash Team Ready For Princeton Match

Eph's squash team will seek to avenge last year's 7-2 defeat when Princeton's racquet-teams invade the home courts this afternoon at 1:30. "We expect to do well," predicted Coach Clarence Chaffee. "The boys will go after them, and the result should be close."

Princeton beat Wesleyan 8-1 in their last meet while the Purple were succumbing to Harvard by a 9-0 score after early season victories over McGill and MIT. The tigers boast an experienced squad including five lettermen, but Eph can counter with such veterans as Captain Frank Donnelly, Bill Mikell, and George Wright.

Ephs Favored Over Brown

Visiting Mermen Have Crack Medley Relay

by Norm Wood

Fresh from its victory over the Colgate Red Raiders, the Williams swimming team tangles with the Brown Bears Saturday afternoon in Lasell Gym Pool at 3 p.m. The meet should be a good one, with the prospect of several close races, but the New England champion Muirmen appear to be a bit too strong for their visitors from Providence.

Brown has had three meets so far, of which they have won two and lost one. They topped Tufts, 42-33, and MIT, 43-32, but bowed to a powerful Army team last Saturday. The West Point encounter, however, was not decided until the final relay. This Army won, and with it the meet, 44-31.

Tight Medley Relay

This is one meet where it won't pay to be late. The 300-yard medley relay, as leadoff event, has every indication of being a tremendous race. Against Army last Saturday, the Brown medley turned in a 3:03.5 time, compared with 3:05.7, the Williams time against Colgate. It may be remembered that the Brown medley relay of last year nosed out the Williams trio by inches in the New England.

This year Brown has two great breaststrokers. Duncan Gray has joined Milt Brier to give the Bruins a potent one-two punch in this event. In the backstroke, Ollie Patrell and Ted Lamot should wage a close battle.

Purple Performers

In this, the eleventh meet between the teams — Williams has won four, Brown five with one tie — the lineup of performers will be similar to that last Friday night against Colgate. Co-captain Hank Wineman, John Snyder, and Co-captain Ray Baldwin will handle the 300 medley relay; Bob Reid and Chick Brashears, the 220; Sandy Lambert and Reid, the 440; Moe Murray, George Coale Bill Rueckert, and Baldwin, the sprints; Wineman and Lamot, the backstroke; Snyder and Swede Svenson, the breaststroke; and Murray, Brashears, Rueckert, and Baldwin, the 400 freestyle relay.

Brown mermen who will bear watching are Boreo, Patrell, Gray, who aside from swimming the breaststroke, swims anchor man on both relays, Win Wilson in the distances, and Val Gates in the dive.

Hoopsters Seek Little Three Win

Dale Burnett's varsity basketball team will be gunning for its fourth victory of the year and the first leg of the Little Three championship when it takes the floor against Wesleyan tonight at Middletown, Conn.

The Williams' hoopsters, who feel that this is their year to snag the Little Three honors, will be going all-out to take this one, and also will be seeking revenge for 28-58 and 45-52 beatings at the hands of the Cardinals last year.

But the Ephmen's tendency to play nothing but close ball games — five of the eight games so far have been decided by less than five points — and the indisputable fact that in Little Three competition anything can happen and usually does, may keep tonight's score much closer than the Purple's followers would like to see it. If they play the brand of ball of which they are capable, Williams should win with a little to spare.

Wesleyan Dangerous

Wesleyan, on the strength of its won-and-lost record this season, appears to have a hot-and-cold team. The Cardinals had taken two and dropped four up to their clash with Coast Guard Wednesday night, having won once at home and once on the road. Only one comparative score is available: Wesleyan lost to Union 48-56, while Williams edged that team by a 57-55 count a week later, January 15.

After the Union game the Wesleyan five lost a squeaker to RPI, 58-59, trounced a mediocre Bates aggregation 66-55, and made a fine showing in losing to Connecticut's powerhouse, 38-42. A trip to Maine last week-end netted the Cards a defeat at the hands of Colby 59-68, but the following night they nosed out Bowdoin 34-28 in a low-scoring affair.

Ephs Doing Well

Williams meanwhile has put together a 3-4 record against somewhat stronger opposition. Trinity and Union were nosed out by narrow margins in the first two games at home, but Rutgers and New Britain Teachers, both outstanding ball clubs, won here Saturday and Wednesday nights.

A Christmas trip to the New York area saw the Purple hoopsters shade Hofstra 59-57, but lose three close ones to Brooklyn Poly, Adelphi, and powerful Iona. Iona, incidentally, has won nine games and lost only one in pretty fair metropolitan competition this season. See PURPLE, Page 4

Taconic Shows Foreign Flicks

French Film First Of Thursday Evening Pix

The management of the Taconic Theatre has designated every Thursday evening as "Special Attraction Night," and on these days many outstanding motion pictures, both American and foreign will be presented. The foreign studios are producing better pictures than ever before, especially the French, and as all foreign movies will be accompanied by English subtitles, Billville moviegoers will have an opportunity to enjoy the best in international entertainment.

Future Productions

A few of the forthcoming productions are:

Jan. 20- "Confessions of a Rogue", a French picture starring Louis Jouvet and Suzy Delair.

Jan. 27- "Revenge", featuring Anna Magnani, the great Italian actress who starred in "Open City."

Feb. 3- "Lysistrata", a fine German production.

Foul Shooting Fair

The squad has an overall foul-shooting average of .568 so far, with 88 successful shots in 155 tries from the line. A 21-for-27 effort against Iona helped this record considerably.

Sheehy and Ditmar have shown the best eyes in the free-throw department, and boast .648 and .645 averages in this all-important phase of the game. Sheehy has made good on 11 out of 16, while Ditmar has come through 20 times in 31 tries.

Bush Leads

Among the other regulars, Pusey sports a .556 record, Mason has made good on half of his chances, and Larson has sunk 11 of 23. Bush, however, is the nominal leader, with five out of seven.

On the other side of the picture, the Williams ball club has been charged with an average of 18 personal fouls per game. Larson, Pusey, and Ditmar each has had over 20 called against him in the first seven games, but only three players have been lost via five personals in these contests.

set and a hook from close in. Pusey's shot at the start of the second half cut the margin to ten points, but New Britain then quickly forged ahead. Burr Carlson scored four times in the space of about three minutes, Massa and Rosmarin contributed two-pointers, and Cogan and Carlson hit with almost unbelievable hook shots. Pusey again, Mason, and Fagerburg scored for Williams and it was 53-34 with ten minutes left in the game.

Lead Maintained

From here on, everybody got into the act for the blue-clad visitors. Massa scored three more times from the floor with beautiful shots, John Canavari threw in two baskets, and Ed Russell came in to finish it off with two quick scores before the gun.

For the Williams crew, Chuck Pusey continued to shine in the closing minutes, scoring three field goals and adding a pair of foul shots to end a busy evening. Mason and substitute Jack Fraser each contributed a pair of free throws to the losing cause, and the game ended 68-47 in favor of New Britain.

Deans last Tuesday. Closely approximating the track at New York's Madison Square Garden in shape, the new layout has eleven laps to the mile. According to Co-capt. Bill Barney, the new track "far surpasses the old one", which was removed last fall to make way for the new construction.

Veterans Return

The 1949 six-man squad includes three holdovers from last year's team, which went through a full season of Eastern invitational meets, losing only to Colgate.

Among the Purple victims were Holy Cross, Boston U., St. Johns, Middlebury, Miami, Amherst Wesleyan, and Bowdoin. Although Coach Tony Plansky has yet to decide on the quartet he will send into the K of C games at Boston next Saturday, it is highly probable that starters will include veterans Gordy Smith and Bill Barney, and Kevin Delany. Schuyler Brooks, Walt Ziegenhals, and Andy Bacharach are sprinting it out for the fourth spot in the relay.

Matmen - - -

Ferenbach, Gray Michael, Captain Sam Beachen, and Dave Michael take the next four positions, all having won both encounters in Brown's previous meets. Marshall and Travison handle the 165 and 175 lb. slots. Jack Rill has also recorded two wins at Unlimited. Against Tufts the Providence squad racked up a 23-3 count in contrast to the Williams 20-8 victory last week-end. In their December 11 opener, Dartmouth was handed an 18-14 defeat.

Same Line-up

Besides Kelton, Ev Smith and Scrubby Perry fill the 128 and 138 lb. categories; Paul Shorb is at 145 lbs., Green Carleton at 155 lbs. the 165 and 175 lb. classes are handled by Bill Leitzinger and Bart Conant while Al Hatch is at Unlimited.

Freshmen Opener

At the same time as the Varsity Brown meet, the Freshmen wrestling team takes on Kent School. Trials for the cub positions were in progress this week and the entire line-up is still indefinite.

This squad, which Coach Plansky says should easily break 3:30 in the relays this season, will represent the Purple in other important winter games in New York, Boston, and Cleveland.

Purple - - -

son, but had to go some to beat Dale Burnett's ball club 53-49 two weeks ago.

Same Five Starting

Coach Burnett is expected to start his regular five consisting of sophomores Chuck Pusey and Bob Larson at the forwards, Harry Sheehy at center, and George Ditmar and Captain Jack Mason at the guard posts. This quintet averages a neat 6'2 1/2" and has shown some fine work off the backboards this season.

Substitutes George Bush, Bud Cool, Jerry Page, and Howie Taylor, all of whom boast plenty of varsity experience, and sophomore Dewey Fagerburg are slated to see action in reserve capacities.

Tough Ones Ahead

Tonight's game will be followed by clashes next week with Army and Fordham, a very formidable pair of opponents. A glance at other teams' records to date shows that the Ephmen still face a tough schedule of eight games before March 5.

Including the games of last Saturday, January 8, Fordham has a 6-2 record; Hofstra, 6-3, including a 57-59 loss to Williams; and St. Michael's, 4-2. Yale has won six, including victories over Rutgers, Penn, and Cornell, while losing four.

Swimmers, Wrestlers Defeat Bruins Saturday

Matmen Take Brown, 21-12 For 2nd Win

Wins By Kelton, Shorb Spark Home Victory Against Strong Team

by M. C. Behre

Brown University underwent another defeat last Saturday at the hands of Coach Bullock's wrestlers. With a 21-12 count, Williams decisively gained their season's second win against the previously undefeated Bruins. Wins made by Bill Kelton and Paul Shorb sparked the victory while decisions were earned by Scrubby Perry, Bill Leltzinger, and Bart Conant.

Against the Providence squad, the purple took an early lead with Bill Kelton's four minute, forty-seven second fall over 121 pounder Ed Mastrangelo. A half-nelson body press climaxed the one-sided fight. Dick Ferencbach got swift revenge in the next event pinning Ev Smith in one minute, six seconds.

Shorb Outstanding

At 138 lbs. Scrubby Perry took a well-earned 4-0 decision from Gray Micheal after a long hard fight. Without doubt the high point of the meet was reached in Paul Shorb's short match with Brown's Captain Sam Beachen. Beachen, winning the takedown was working for a fall when Shorb suddenly reversed, got a half-nelson crotch hold, and finished the bout in two minutes, eight seconds.

Clinched by Leltzinger

Green Carleton, working at 155 lbs., met Dave Micheal, a familiar adversary, and matched him for a slow 1-1 tie. Setting the score at 18-7, Bill Leltzinger's 3-0 decision over Alex Marshall won the match for Williams with two events to go. With only a one-point lead, Leltzinger made two more on time advantage in the last period.

Bart Conant, in the 175 lb. slot, allied the last Williams victory over the Bruin's Travlaon. The 4-1 decision was gained after a hard fight in which Conant had complete control. Woody Dickerman, a switch in our line-up resulting from last week's trials, met Chernak at Unlimited. A-See MATMEN, Page 2

UC Discusses 49 Calendar

Abolition Of House Quotas Suggested

Proposals concerning the house quotas and next year's college calendar highlighted the UC meeting Monday night. The rushing committee recommended that house quotas be abolished, while Dean Brooks discussed the subject of the college calendar.

A recommendation was drawn to be submitted to the faculty committee on Educational Policy which suggested that if Christmas falls on either Sunday or Monday, school will commence two days early, thus allowing sixteen days at Christmas and eliminating the two-day week of classes which was in effect this year.

The rushing committee recommendation will be voted on at the next UC meeting, while the college calendar suggestion was brought before the committee on Educational Policy yesterday.

Skiers To Get Refund-Maybe

WOC Promises 15 Ski Days Or Money Back

Currently number one on the Williams Outing Club Hit Parade is that old favorite "Let It Snow, Let It Snow." Due to the lack of "that fleecy, white substance," the WOC Advisory Committee met in special session Friday to consider the possibility of granting rebates to those who have purchased season tickets for skiing on Sheep Hill.

As a result, the committee agreed to make some financial adjustment if the ski tow does not operate fifteen days.

An indifferent weatherman has thus far prevented use of the tow by diverting snowstorms to the north or south of Williamstown. If refunds are necessary, they will be computed on a percentage basis according to the number of days out of fifteen that the tow does not run.

In a telephone conversation with an observer at the Pittsfield Weather Bureau Saturday, the RECORD uncovered the reason why pastures in this area are still green. Our informant disclosed that the storm track has remained north of Massachusetts, thereby exposing this sector to the warmer air from Gulf Stream winds. Ordinarily during this season, "we are north of the storm track," he said, "but instead this year the majority of storms have been coming here from the north, not the south."

Although records in Pittsfield do not extend back far enough to make any startling comparisons, he pointed out that only two minor snowstorms have been recorded this winter. Temperatures are also unseasonably high with the January average running eight degrees above normal. And in case Williams ski enthusiasts are hopeful of better things to come, he added that on Saturday there were no large snow areas in the country which would affect this section.

Bourne Heads Lecture Board

'49 Spring Conference Cancellation Revealed

Announcement of the new Joint Spring Conference and Lecture Committee board coincided with the disclosure that there will be no Spring Conference this year. According to Hugh Hudson '49, retiring chairman, this is due to "high costs and lack of student interest."

Russell Bourne '50 will head the new board, with Edward Stackhouse '50, vice-chairman; Charles Miller '50, secretary; and Lenard Jacob '51, treasurer. Arthur Sprung '50, Robert Carrington '51, and Edward Stebbins '51 round out the board, although two posts are as yet unannounced.

So far this year, the lecture committee has presented Paul Birdsall, Eric Fromm and Prof. Karl Lehmann. Cord Meyer, president of the UWF, will lecture some time this Spring, and Senator Robert Taft may come next fall.

To date, "The Overlanders" is the only movie which has been shown in accordance with the committee's plan to give Williams students a chance to see the best foreign films, but "Paisan," "Shoeshine," and "Brief Encounter" are scheduled for this Spring. They will be shown in the AMT with no admittance charge.

Survey Reveals Opposition To Deferred Rushing Plan; Present System Felt Fairer

Compiled by Chuck Utley and Phil Collins

Five of the eight persons interviewed by the RECORD replied in the negative to the question, "Do you favor deferred rushing?" The question was asked in dormitory rooms and in houses, and the results seem to indicate that freshman rushing is generally preferred as a means of leveling the strength of houses over the years.

Theodore R. Lamotte '50, KA, Philadelphia: "I do not think deferred rushing is a good thing, especially from the standpoint of the houses, since ninety percent of the freshmen will show their true personalities on first meeting them. Early rushing tends to keep houses even, for a house can improve or fall off in a few years. With deferred rushing, strong houses would tend to remain strong and the same with weaker houses. A deferred rushing period would put a strain on everyone all the time. The freshmen would try to be at their best, and the houses would have to be on the look-out all year long."

David B. MacLachlan '52, G.C. West Newton, Mass.: "I favor deferred rushing because it allows the freshman to know the houses better that he might want to go into. You might have to put a restriction on the number of times a fraternity may entertain a freshman. Also a plan might be arranged for a rotation feeding system for all freshmen, so that every man would eat at every house. With changes in the composition of each group, individuals would meet many more of the other freshmen. I do not like the feeding as it is done in Valentine Hall at Amherst. Certain financial problems would be posed by such a system, but some sort of arrangement could be worked out with the Administration."

Thomas M. Leous Jr. '50 DK E, Buffalo: "No. Deferred rushing would tend to promote freshman cliques from which more people might be hurt. If only part of such a group was accepted by a house than would be under the present system. I feel that nine out of ten fellows make adequate choices of houses. Besides, with deferred rushing, freshmen will miss a lot of their college career by being forced to be aloof from everyone else for one year."

James B. McClements, 3rd '49, Zeta Psi, Pittsburg: "I do not. I feel that by having deferred rushing a house that is low will have a difficult time rising. It has been seen in the past that with freshman rushing low houses have pulled up and that strong houses have dropped. The trouble is that there is no chance in the present set-up for the retiring sort of person to show up during rushing. There is a need for a looser form of post season rushing for the benefit of these men, and not the strict three-week period at the beginning of the second term as there is now."

Frank A. MacManus '52, AD, Wellesley Hills, Mass.: "I would oppose deferred rushing. It might give houses a better chance to find the men they want, but even though there is an honor system of sorts, freshmen could not help making friends and it would be hard not to dirty rush. Also it would keep freshmen from making the valuable friendships they do now with upper classmen. I think the present system permits a better social life and indoctrination to Williams College. A successful early rushing season makes you feel you have accomplished something, and that you are part of the college."

Gordon B. McWilliams '51 Delta Psi, Williams-town: "I think that a short period of deferred rushing would increase some freshmen's chances of getting in a house. I think that a mid-year rushing period would be good, but having it at the beginning of a fellow's sophomore year would be too long a period to wait. This short period before rushing might be an incentive to better marks and increased participation in extra-curricular activities on the part of freshmen. If it were possible, having a class eat together for two or three months would foster strong class spirit and lead to a better college."

Frank R. Thoms, Jr. '30 Rushing Arbitrator, Haller Inn: "Academically speaking, fraternities are a great distraction, and having freshman rushing and getting it over with early minimizes that distraction. Also I think that with deferred rushing there would be a tendency for the so-called strong houses to keep strong and for the so-called weak houses to remain weak. You would have rushing all year, and no matter what rules and regulations, some dirty rushing would exist which would engender ill feeling between houses. Deferred rushing was attempted for a time before the war, and because of this situation, freshman rushing was reinstated."

"I am afraid that those persons favoring deferred rushing base all of their arguments on high hopes which cannot be realized. The argument that it would allow freshmen to make better decisions does not seem to me to be an advisable one. Freshmen might know better what groups are more nearly like themselves, but this would lead to the typing of houses. I feel that such a situation would not be beneficial to the fraternities, and on the contrary, is static, non-developing and un-democratic."

William M. Heinman '49, DU, New York City: "Naturally I feel that there are valid arguments for both sides of the question. However, if the draft goes into effect and takes a man out of college for a period of twenty-two months or two years, I feel that a deferred rushing system would be preferable. Under the present system a man would come back to college and to a house in which he was a stranger. With deferred rushing, in a man's sophomore year, he would make his choice after he returned. If the national situation does not change greatly, and if a draft is not instituted which would disrupt the college, I see no reason for changing from the system we now have to deferred rushing."

Burns Writes Okinawa Book History Describes Famous Struggle

Okinawa: The Last Battle, the first of more than ninety volumes in the official history series, the "United States in World War II", reanimates one of the most savage encounters in history, one in which the Japanese had to be routed from every foot of ground by "blowtorch and corkscrew."

According to Asst. Prof. James M. Burns, one of four co-authors of the book, it inaugurates an entirely new form of military history, since the men who wrote it were actually on the scene and saw much action.

Tactical Plans

The book neglects no aspect of the struggle. The historians were given all American tactical plans before the battle and were therefore able to place their observers at the best possible vantage points. In addition to actual observations, they interviewed key commanders and men, and accumulated action pictures, two hundred of which appear in the book. The historians later returned to the scenes of the conflicts to sketch maps of the battle fields, and finished their study in Washington, where they had access to all journals, documents, and captured enemy documents pertaining to the battle.

"Okinawa: The Last Battle" paints a vivid picture of the furious fighting in that Pacific area. The Japanese were deeply entrenched in a system of fortified caves and tombs in the coral rocks of the island and clung tenaciously to every position. Ten Japanese soldiers died for every American in the final collapse of the island's defenses but as the campaign drew to a close, the victors lost Lt. Gen. Simon Buckner, commander of the U. S. Army Tenth Division.

Burns

Prof. Burns was the chief assistant to Lt. Col. Stevens, commander of the army's historians. After graduating from Williams in 1939, and receiving M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard, he served with various branches of the government and saw army service with the 66th, 27th, 7th, and 77th Infantry Divisions in the Pacific. He has also written on the Guam, Saipan, and Kwajalein campaigns for the "Armed Forces in Action", a series on World War II which preceded the one of which "Okinawa: The Last Battle" is a part.

Army Is Full; Draft Stopped

Lowered Ceiling, More Enlistments Fill Quota

The local draft bait can rest in peace for a while, because the Army has decided to stop its fishing. Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall announced last week that as a result of the lowered ceiling on Army strength and the increased rate of voluntary enlistments the draft machinery would be "frozen" for February and March.

Indications are good that this policy will continue past that date. Although it was not long ago that the Army was begging for a draft law to meet its manpower needs, officials said Army strength has already reached the new ceiling of 670,000 officers and men. This was the limit recommended.

Sickness Hurts Losers; Medley Record Falls; Oppose Army Today

by Norm Wood

Smashing a record in the first event, the New England champion Williams swimming team rolled on to victory over a somewhat weakened Brown squad last Saturday afternoon, submerging the visitors in Lasell Pool, 48-27.

The loss, through sickness, of Brown's 100 yd. freestyler and anchor man of both relays, Dunc Gray, and backstroke Ollie Patrell, made the meet more lopsided than it otherwise would have been.

Record In Medley

Brown entered its second team in the 300-yard medley relay and it wasn't even a race. The trio of Co-captain Hank Wineman, John Snyder, and Co-captain Ray Baldwin whipped over the distance in the record time of 3:03.0. This was six-tenths of a second lower than the college and pool record set here last February.

The Bruins edged up on the Purple in the scoring column, until the count stood at 21-20, in favor of the Ephs, at the end of the 100. This had come about after Win Wilson of Brown had won the 220.—Chick Brashears, second; Bob Reid, third—two blanket finishes, in the 50 and 100, and the dive, in which Williams just missed a first and third but took a second. Cliff Stowers' total was .15 shy of Val Gates', and Jeb Kreimer nipped Bill Sperry by .48 points.

Sprints

In the 50 there was about a yard between first and fourth, with Moe Murray winning it. In the 100, it was almost as close, Murray taking second, inches behind Jim McKelvey.

Wineman tied his own record, 1:37.0, made last week against Colgate, as he won the backstroke with ease. Lemo Lamotte was second. Bruin Milt Brier turned in a time several seconds slower than his time in the New England's last year, but won the breaststroke. Swede Svenson and Snyder raced down to the wire for second. AMT Casting Now Complete

CAESAR Will Be Carnival Production

David C. Bryant, director of the Adams Memorial Theatre, has announced the plans and cast for Jullus Caesar, the next production of the Adams Memorial Theatre Committee. The play will run, for two nights the weekend of winter houseparties, February 18-19.

The production promises to be an unusual one technically with the innovation of many new methods of staging and lighting devised by Mr. Bryant and the advanced drama class. These innovations will be in keeping with the experimental nature of the offerings of the AMT Committee, since theatrical experimentation is one of the primary functions of the committee as a producing unit.

The costuming will be done in modern dress, but Mr. Bryant pointed out that the Williams production will not emphasize the modern political implications of

FRATERNITIES - Pro and Con

The question referred to in the poll on page one is both old and new. It is old in respect to the fact that it was once a topic of intense conversation on the campus and elsewhere. It is new to the present group of students because it hasn't been openly discussed in recent years. In light of the recent blast at fraternities, we feel a re-institution of the question at this time would be beneficial to all concerned with the so-called fraternity problem.

Journalistic procedure has recently been pre-occupied with presenting the black-eyed, boogie-man, fraternities to the public. In most newspapers and magazines, and most recently in COLLIER'S, the fraternity system has come out on the short end. As we have noted in previous columns of this paper, the fraternities are not void of certain unadvised and unjustified practices. Fraternity Row, however, is not evil carte blanche. If it is, it would not have existed for approximately a 125 years.

Because of this, we feel that the fraternity side of the question should be presented. It has been a constant source of amazement to us that the impartial press should neglect to present both sides of this controversial question. We, therefore, intend to pick up the loose ends that many of our cronies have strewn around the discussion table.

Our basic philosophy concerning the value of fraternities may be found in a column by Phil Collins on this page, entitled Discrimination—Yes. Our feelings about specific discrimination may be found in past issues under The Thunder Bolt column.

In this issue and in forthcoming issues, The Record will concern itself with fraternities and the fraternity system as it exists at Williams. The remainder of this particular column will be an attempt to consolidate the issues of deferred rushing and to pass judgement on which we deem the correct procedure.

DEFERRED RUSHING - Pro and Con

As we see it, the arguments for deferred rushing are rather simple and compact. The primary benefit to be gained from deferred rushing seems to be that the freshmen will have a greater chance to investigate the fraternity system and certain houses in particular. Correlated to this idea is the fact that reticent freshmen would have to blossom forth and the house would have time to see and weigh the merits of individuals.

Secondly, and possibly we have the value of these items reversed, the fraternities would be required to pledge more men in the upper three classes in order to keep the houses on their feet financially. The value of this, we feel, may only be decided by personal opinion. It is a hypothetical question which is answered only by personalities. We are not hedging on this question, but merely stating a fact, the interpretation of which depends upon the individuals conception of the word "fraternity". To us, one of the values of fraternities is the fact that the member gets to know, and in some cases is required to know, the other members of the house rather intimately. If the fraternities are enlarged, this factor is, of necessity, lost because it is a physical impossibility to become well acquainted with a large group of men.

The arguments against deferred rushing are equally as precise and simple as those in favor of it. If we had deferred rushing, the essence of the system would merely mean a prolonged rushing period. The freshmen would be confronted with the fact for a longer period of time which would in most cases affect scholarship and study-habits. Secondly, a deferred rushing system would have a strong tendency to develop several strong houses and leave the others in a mediocre or weak condition. Such a result would tend to make more people dissatisfied with the rushing system than we have at present. Possibly, this is one reason why the anti-fraternity league is so strongly in favor of the idea. Please note here that I said the system and not the actual fraternity itself. Any dislike of the particular fraternity could then be placed strictly at the feet of the rushing system, and not the particular house.

In last position, because this could be overcome if deferred rushing proved feasible, the college would be faced with the problem of facing several hundred additional men for the period of deferred rushing. This obviously involves an expenditure of money which the college is in no position to make at the present time.

With all these considerations in mind, it seems apparent to us that the answer to the question, "Do you favor deferred rushing?" is obviously negative.

Smith-Amherst Circus Clicks

Smith beauties and Amherst freaks made the January 18 issue of "Look" in an article on SCADS, the Smith College Anniversary Drive for seven million.

Scads of money may not have been raised by the wild circus production, and certainly not seven million, but there were scads of shapely Smith dancers prancing around the stage encased in slinky black tights, and if the success of the show were to be gauged on a basis of whistles instead of dollars, it was a smashing triumph.

Forgetting their prejudices against Amherst men whom they had denounced in a recent poll as "unwilling to do anything but sit around and drink," the Northampton nymphs asked a group of Jeffs to come down and join the show. Judging from the pictures in "Look," the Amherst boys might well have been guilty of hitting the bottle, but they didn't do much sitting around. Dressed in loin cloths, leopard skins and zoot suits, the Jeffs cavorted about the stage in a manner which suggests that Smith-Amherst relations may be somewhat less inhibited in the future.

Discrimination? - Yes

(A reply to Howard Whitman's article, "The College Fraternity Crisis," which appeared in the January 8 issue of COLLIER'S magazine.)

by Phil Collins

"The snobs who dominate our fraternity system disgusted the students who came back from the war. The campus campaign against racial and religious discrimination was on!" So writes Howard Whitman, author of the latest anti-fraternity blast appearing currently in COLLIER'S magazine.

The self-righteous liberals who dominate the articulate press on the subject of discrimination have disgusted us for some time. The sensational journalism campaign against the fraternities comes served piping hot from typewriters like Mr. Whitman's at 15c a word, straight to the waiting public, who, for 15c a copy, can sit back and hiss at the "pink-cheeked youths."

The Other Side

"When the smoke cleared, — — —," continues Mr. Whitman. The trouble is that the smoke has not cleared, and it is people like Mr. Whitman who will keep the problem forever lost in a cloud of cliches, sensationalism, and sentimentality.

An intelligent, unfevered examination of the situation will reveal that discrimination must be allowed to exist on college campuses as well as in other social groups. It is a corollary of democracy, nay, a prerequisite of democracy, that it should exist.

All community in a free society is based on discrimination of one sort or another. Our system of government is based on the principle that every man has the right to develop freely along the lines of his own personality. This development includes the choice of one's associates. Self-advancement must continue uninhibited as long as it does not interfere with the free self-advancement of others. It is at this point of potential economic and political conflict that government steps in and defines the region in which a man may move independently.

Race and Creed

Since it is evident that social discrimination must be allowed to exist wherever free men desire it, if our expressed democratic principles are to remain consistent, it follows that it must be allowed to exist upon any basis which free men may desire. These basic include race and religion.

While discrimination because of race or creed must be allowed to exist on our campuses, it does not follow that it should go either disregarded or unopposed. Insidious social discrimination based on accidental circumstances is as alien to our moral precepts and to the democratic viewpoint as it seems to be to Mr. Whitman's.

The Situation At Amherst

The means of bringing about improvement, where such means are advanced at all by the howling writers, are not nearly as legitimate as the ends they seek. Amherst has been held up by Mr. Whitman and others as the shining example. There have been two major developments to date in "the college fraternity crisis" at Amherst. First, in 1946 the board of trustees ruled that the fraternities must either remove discriminatory language from their constitutions or get off campus by February, 1951. Second, Phi Kappa Psi defied its national organization by pledging a Negro and was subsequently ostracized.

The actions of the students at Amherst were considerably more admirable, and more effective, than those of the trustees. It may very well be that the members of Phi Kappa Psi felt an added security in the knowledge that by 1951 the whole campus would be in their position when they pledged Thomas Gibbs. We like to think, however, that they would have had the guts to pledge him anyway.

Threats Ineffective

The fact remains that no man or group of men has the right to legislate the feelings or beliefs of others. The purpose of legislation is the enforcement of community — defining will, not the attempted prevention of what would otherwise happen if there were no laws. Furthermore, such legislation is ineffective, as has been demonstrated on an international scale only too recently. Discrimination is not something that can be wiped out by the removal of a few words from a piece of paper. Discrimination exists in the minds of those who practice it and nowhere else. Just as Phi Kappa Psi would probably have pledged Gibbs even if the trustees' threat had not been in force, so discrimination on the Amherst campus will not decrease one iota, though every fraternity should meet the requirements before the deadline.

Force vs. Criticism

Cub Matmen Down Kent

Heavyweight Victories
Take Opener, 22-14

In a match running simultaneously with the varsity encounter, Harv. Potter's yearling wrestlers won their opener with Kent School, 22-14. The results of the freshmen bouts formed a curious pattern with Kent completely dominating in the lower weights and Williams mopping up in the last matches.

Aaron Katcher and Fred Pew, 121 and 128 lbs. respectively, lost with two falls to their opponents, Tooker and Hoerie. The next two matches, Fred Toppan with Kent's Captain Whiteford, and Tom Evans with Hamilton, were both ties gaining two points each for both teams.

With the score a 14-4 deficit for the purple, the cub heavyweights took over. Bill Callaghan started the trend at 155 lbs. with a 5-0 decision over Dick Stanley

Eph Basketball Team Beaten By Wesleyan Quintet, 49-38

By Blair Perry

Williams lost its sixth straight varsity basketball game Saturday night, falling apart in the second half to hand a mediocre Wesleyan five a 49-38 win at Middletown, Conn.

Dale Burnett's ball club played a hopeless and almost hopeless brand of basketball in losing the first lap of the Little Three race to a team that they should have beaten with ease. Unless the Ephmen show some radical improvement, they will run their winless streak to eight straight this week, playing at Army tonight and facing Fordham here Saturday evening.

Defense Absent

The first part of the game was reasonably close, and the score was tied at 17-17 at half-time. But in the second half Wesleyan quickly pulled away to a six-point lead, which they maintained for several minutes and then increased as time ran out.

Williams looked really bad on the defense, with Wesleyan men wide open under the basket most of the night, and made good on only thirteen of over seventy shots taken during the game.

Center Chuck Pusey was the only Williams player who was hitting at all, and he scored 13 points on five field goals and three free throws. Substitute Jack Fraser took second-place in the scoring department, throwing in three quick baskets while playing only a short time in the second half.

Little Scoring

Seven other individuals scored from one to five points without thrilling anybody. George Bush was the only one of these who played anything like a good floor game, and he wasn't in there very long.

With almost no scoring in the first ten minutes, neither team could forge far ahead in the first half. Wesleyan led 4-3 after five minutes of play and was in front 5-3 at the ten-minute mark. Williams then tied it up and went ahead 10-7, the home team bounced back to take a 17-14 lead, and the Purple five tied it at 17-17 as the half ended.

Pusey put the Ephmen out in front at the start of the second half, but Wesleyan quickly took a 24-19 lead. Pusey then scored twice more, but two baskets by Wesleyan's Robertson ended that rally, and the Cardinals were showing the way 31-25 midway through the half.

Coach Burnett then inserted the Williams second team and put on a pressing defense, but in two minutes the first team was back in with a ten-point deficit. That was the ball game. Dittmar's set, four free throws, and Fraser's two hoops were off-set by Wesleyan tallies that made the final score 49-38.

Squash Team Loses To Princeton, 6-3

The Williams varsity squash team bowed to a superior Princeton club by a 6-3 margin last Saturday afternoon, in their first match on the home courts this season. Captain Donnelly was outstanding for Coach Chaffee's men, sweeping over his Tiger opponent in three straight sets, 15-12, 15-11, 17-15. George Wright and George Kneass also turned in victories for the Purple racketmen. With this loss the intercollegiate record for the season was evened at two victories and two defeats, the squad having previously won over McGill and M.I.T., and lost to Harvard. The next match on the schedule is with Yale at New Haven this Saturday.

Frosh Quintet Defeats Cards

Wesleyan Falls, 57-43
As Cramer Excels

Paced by the fine all-around performances of Bob Detwiler and Paul Cramer, the freshman basketball team defeated the Wesleyan Cubs 57-43 on the latter's home floor Saturday evening. The Williams team led by only four points with four minutes left in the ball game, but then pulled away to win by eleven, as Cramer scored five and Detwiler, Salmon, and Manning contributed late field goals.

Cramer led the Eph scorers with 17 points and set up many other baskets, while Detwiler chipped in with 13 and was invaluable in controlling the backboards. John Kulsar added nine points and played his usual steady floor game.

Lead At Half

Wesleyan's fast-breaking offense gave the Purple five a bad time early in the first half, but Williams improved defensively as the game progressed and was considerably more accurate in shooting from the floor.

The home team took an 11-8 lead with about eight minutes of play gone, but Detwiler, Shudt, and Cramer scored in quick succession for a 14-11 advantage. A pair of lay-ups by Kulsar helped to make it 23-17 when, with three minutes left in the half, Coach Bobby Coombs sent in his first substitutions. Cramer hooped a long one-hander and stole the ball for another score to put the Ephmen out in front 28-23 before the half ended.

Wesleyan Threatens

Williams' second team went in with the count 32-27 early in the second half, and went out with an eight-point margin, 41-33, with ten minutes left in the game. At this point Wesleyan started getting the rebounds more consistently and pulled to within four points of a tie, but Detwiler scored with a lay-up and a jump-shot to keep Williams ahead. With only four minutes remaining, the Ephs slowed down the play and gradually added to their total before the gun.

Hockey Drops Tough Meets

Princeton, Yale Down
Ephs Last Weekend

Williamstown's June-in-January climate took its toll Friday and Saturday as the practice-less Williams hockey team dropped close decisions to Princeton and Yale by 3-2 and 6-3 score respectively.

The Purple's Friday evening invasion of Tiger-town was a knock down and drag-out affair, somewhat similar to last year's game when the Ephs emerged 3-2 victors. It was a different story this year, however, as the tenants of Baker Rink reversed the score on goals by Roberts Clarkson, and Schluter. The latter, incidentally, is the brother of Williams defense man John Schluter.

Bucky Marchese led the way for the Purple skaters with goals at 5:00 and 7:30 of the second period, but the Tigers fought back to score the winning goal at 13:15 of the same period. Mark Reynolds and Doug Coleman with one & two assists respectively turned in very creditable performances.

Yale On Top

Saturday night the Purple mixed it up with the Yale Blue at the New Haven Arena in another nip and tuck battle. For the first fifty-five minutes Eph and Eli matched scores, but in the waning moments of the final period, the home squad caught fire and scored three quick goals to sew up the verdict.

Watson Bray popped in the first goal at 9:44 of the first period, but Mitch Fish quickly countered, unassisted. Second period scores by Yale's Clapp and Williams' Healy, with an assist by Benson, kept things even going into the last canto.

Purple Tires

Armour sent one past goalie Dave Pynchon at 8:04 of the third period, and then, with only two minutes remaining, the roof fell in for the tired Purple pucksters. Armour knocked in his second. See HOCKEY, Page 4

Discrimination . . .

Many would agree with this analysis and yet maintain that the removal of discriminatory clauses by legislative threats constitutes a step in the right direction.

This point, too, is debatable. Under the Amherst system a fraternity has two choices. Either they may submit to the college ruling or they may stand by their rights and be disbanded. In the first case, the coercion brought to bear on the members will only aggravate the attitude of discrimination in those who already practice it. Forcing them to do something against their wills will only make them belligerent. Discrimination will continue as before.

The Necessity of Education

If the fraternity is forced to disband, on the other hand, it will lose all contact with the forces which might bring its members around to a more liberal viewpoint. Each man will go his separate way with his separate prejudices, and the individuals who could have exposed them to democratic influences will never be able to reach them as a group again.

To obtain a rational view of the problem it is necessary to distinguish between social discrimination which can be critically opposed on moral grounds and that which can justifiably be opposed by law. Basically, the question is this: should discrimination in fraternities be fought with legal force and threats or by a long and often painful process of education and social evolution? The latter is the only answer which is democratically consistent and psychologically effective.

Polo Team Elects New Officers For 1949

In the first change of officers since its organization in 1946, Victor Heerman, '49, has replaced Charles Gunther, '50, as president of the Williams College Polo Association, while Sam Cook, '50 will succeed William Hudson, '50 as team captain. The polo team has compiled a good record, garnering victories over Harvard and the Yale jayvees so far this season. Remaining on this year's schedule are matches with Princeton, University of Miami, and the Intercollegiate Polo Tournament in March.

Offer Ad Men Aptitude TestsGuidance, Job Openings Given In Advertising

The New England Chapter of the American Association of Advertising Agencies has announced that the third annual A.A.A.A. Examination for Advertising will be held in Boston February 19 and 26. The tests provide realistic guidance for those seeking careers in advertising, and good test records are frequently of assistance to candidates in obtaining advertising jobs.

The examination, which will be given in fourteen cities throughout the country, is open to college students in their senior year and anyone else not employed by an advertising agency.

Applications may be obtained from the A.A.A.A. Examination Committee, Room 413, Statler Office Building, Boston 16, Mass., and must be returned to the committee by February 1.

SAC Orders Student Book Store Closed

Mismanagement Cited; Lack Of Cooperation Forces SAC Action

By action of the SAC the Student Book Store is now defunct and in the process of liquidation. The activities of the store were halted for three reasons: (1) its lack of cooperation with the SAC, (2) its woeful mismanagement, and (3) it was no longer contributing to the welfare of the students.

Both the Williamstown Bank and the SAC had $1000 loans staked in the group. The SAC had requested payment several times, only to be met with the reply that it was still financially impossible to do so. Because of grossly inadequate bookkeeping by the store and lack of periodic financial reports which are demanded by the SAC of all student organizations, it was impossible for the SAC to check on this situation.

Contempt For SAC
According to William Barney, SAC head, the store's apparent contempt of any SAC regulation of its finances and concern for the safety of its own investment motivated the action. Since that time testimony by Clair Rublee '50 and Jack Hendee '49, two former officers of the organization who resigned in protest to its management, and investigation by the SAC has revealed the grossly inefficient business practices of the managers, the Mahoney brothers.

It was found that as a result of the inefficient management the store actually could not have repaid its loans except through a process of liquidation. Poor buying resulted in large sums of money being tied up in excessive inventory and unnecessary credit with publishers. Because of the unexpected ease of liquidation (Washburne is buying much of the inventory at cash value), an unexpectedly large proportion of the book value of the organization can be turned into cash.

Loans Repaid
The $2000 in loans has already been repaid and the SAC is now computing the profits of the group. Barney, although not hazarding an estimate of the amount of these profits, has revealed that they will be sizeable. The SAC will See SAC, Page 2

Watercolor Show Opens At Museum

Offers Works Of Four 20th Century Artists

A preview of Early 20th Century Watercolors by four outstanding American artists, John Marlon, Charles Demuth, Preston Dickinson, and Charles Sheeler opened at the Lawrence Art Museum Wednesday afternoon. The exhibition is open to the public from January 20 from 9 to 12 and 2 to 4 on weekdays and on Sundays from 2 to 5 through February 13.

The watercolors belong to the famous Ferdinand Howard collection of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts and are being loaned for national tour under the auspices of the American Federation of Arts. Twenty-four important examples of the work of these leading watercolorists, illustrating different approaches to subject-matter and widely different techniques, are included.

SAC Tax Still Unpaid By 136 Undergrads

As of noon January 19, there were still 136 students who had not paid their SAC tax. The week before, 214 payments were still to be made. The tax has now been raised to $4. Payments outstanding are:

WOC Movie Thrills Skiers

Brooks To Choose Carnival Queen

Synthetic thrills were provided for frustrated Williams skiers Thursday night at the monthly meeting of the Williams Outing Club. After promising snow for the Winter Carnival, club officers showed ski movies, outlined plans for the February 18-20 weekend, and announced an emblem contest to occupy the time of snow enthusiasts.

Informality will be stressed at the Friday night dance of the Carnival with Tommy Reynolds' smooth rhythms prevailing in the main gym and Floyd "Pappy" Moon's square dance music setting the tempo in the wrestling room. A search for beauty among house-party dates will be climaxed at the dance when Dean Robert R. Brooks chooses and crowns a Winter Carnival Queen. Each social unit is being asked to choose one girl to compete for the honor.

Adelphic Union Plans Smoker

McDaniel Announces Seven New Officers

Adelphic Union members approved a newly created executive cabinet and discussed plans for a smoker after seeing a movie on the Philippine Islands, Monday night.

Under the new constitution, which went into effect December 16, President Harry McDaniel '49 announced appointments to seven newly created offices. New officers are: Donald Sanford '51, librarian; Baird Voorhis '51, program chairman; Bill Hollister '51, management committee chairman; Roger Dickinson '51, constitution committee chairman; Jesse Brown '51, freshman adviser; Leonard Gordon '50, publicity chairman; and Bradley Seager, Jr. '51, treasurer.

Much time was devoted to discussing the smoker planned for February 14 in the Garfield Club lounge. Plans for the smoker include movies, refreshments, and reviews of committee activities. As an added feature, WMS will broadcast directly from the meeting. New members are welcome at the meeting.

John Jay Due February 7 As New Athletic Director

Newcomer Is Renowned Ski Writer, Lecturer, Color Photographer

Renowned in fields of photography and skiing, Williams graduate John C. Jay '38 is slated to arrive in Williamstown Monday, Feb. 7, to assume his new duties as Director of Athletics.

While an Undergraduate, Jay was a member of the Gargoyle Society, won varsity letters in football and hockey, and, in addition, acted as the unofficial captain of the Rowing Club. Upon graduation he received a Rhodes Scholarship to the University of Oxford.

Lecturer, Writer, Photographer
Completing his studies in England, Jay joined the staff of Henry Luce's "March of Time." Because of his unusual talent for photography on skis, he was called upon to produce a prize-winning color motion picture of ski-mountaineering in the Rockies of Banff, Alberta, for the Canadian Pacific Railway. Jay's next assignment was a picture for the Grace Line on ski exploration in the South American Andes. On the same trip he also filmed the Inca ruins of Peru for Panagra Airways. The U.S. State Department selected him to be manager and photographer for the Chilean Ski Team visiting North America.

Mr. Jay is widely known in American ski circles for his lecture films on this sport, and was Official Photographer for the United States Olympic Team in the '48 Winter Olympic games at St. Moritz, Switzerland. He is also the author of "Skiing The Americas", a volume covering the winter sports of both North and South America, and several additional color films which include: "Ski Patrol," produced for the War Department; "Hickory Holiday," acclaimed for preserving the "winning charm" of the peaks of Colorado; "Skis In The Sky," a documentary of the western United States during the winter months. Jay is the author of numerous articles on travel sports and photography in "Harper's Bazaar," "Town and Country," "Holiday," and many others.

ROTC Plans Unique Exhibit

To Display Land Mines, Booby Traps In Cage

An exhibit featuring American and foreign land mines and booby traps will be open to the public in the cage on Monday, January 24 from 9-11 a.m. and 1-5 p.m., the ROTC Department has announced. The exhibit was used for instruction in the first year basic course in ROTC.

Included in the display are the latest types of fuses, anti-tank and anti-personnel mines, a number of which have been developed since the war.

-Exhibit Unique-
"This exhibit is almost unique," said Sergeant Clarence B. Smith, in charge of the exhibit and the course, "because only one other college in the country offers its students instruction in mines and booby traps." The exhibit has been kept longer than originally planned to allow time for interested students and faculty members to see it.

In addition to the most recent American mines, German, British, Italian, Dutch, and Japanese mines are represented. Large scale cut-away models of American fuses are exhibited to give the observer an understanding of how these devices operate in setting off the main charge.

Smith Originates Course
Yale University is the only college at which a similar course is offered, the course there also originated by Sergeant Smith.

Entering the Army in '41 as a private, Jay was honorably discharged in January '48 with the rank of Major. As intelligence officer with the newly formed 10th Mountain Division he received official recognition for his part in the test expedition which made the first winter ascent of 14,408 foot Mt. Rainier. Another official commendation came from his work in Arctic research with the Royal Canadian Air Force — some of which took him within a few miles of the North Pole.

At the close of the war Jay was stationed in Manila as Chief See JAY, Page 2

Did De Vere Pen 'Hamlet'?

Purple-Cow Poet Slams Shakespeare Tradition

by George Kinter
Williams students, don't let your English professor lull you into the belief that William Shakespeare wrote the plays commonly attributed to him. Gelett Burgess, the man who hoped never to see a purple cow, comes to your rescue with proof that Edward De Vere, 17th Earl of Oxford, is the man responsible for Hamlet.

Excerpts from this intelligent appeal to American youth from the hand of the associate editor of the "Lark" and authority on the Purple Cow follows:

"Dear Editor and (I hope) Friend . . . And yet the traditional fictitious Stratford biography is still being taught in American schools and colleges. Not only do English professors refuse to acquaint their students with the recently discovered historical facts which indicate that Edward De Vere, 17th Earl of Oxford, was the author of the Plays and Sonnets, but, almost without exception, they decline to accept, criticize, or refute them, even to cognize them.

What is this but academic non-feasance?

No prominent Shakespearean scholar of the orthodox canon has yet consented to debate the question of authorship with an Oxfordian. The usual reply is ridicule, elusion, sophistry, silence or a resort to the equivocation, See SHAKESPEARE, Page 4

'Life' Feature Hits Billville

Nine-Page Spread Has 21 Pictures

by Herb Mohring
"Life" Magazine's color feature "Williams College", complete with several pictures taken just after a two foot snowfall, finally made its long awaited appearance in snowless Williamstown yesterday, almost a year after photographer extra-ordinary Ralph Crane littered the town with flash bulbs and otherwise disrupted the college scene in the pursuit of none too reluctant undergraduate subjects for his camera.

The feature, a followup on the University of California story which appeared last year, uses Williams as an example of a small privately endowed college, and attempts to explain why it wants to remain small. The nine page story digs into the endowment problem, fraternity life, the way Williams is run, the number of married and single veterans, school traditions, the faculty, and student government.

Studies?
All in all, the Life "photographic essay" paints a rather rustically informal, although opulent picture of student life in the backwoods of Massachusetts. Almost the only sign of adversity in the entire feature is a photograph of a group of Williams men trying to push a then new Ford out of a drift in the Sig driveway.

Although the first picture in the feature shows an English 5-6 class in Lawrence viewing slides of Eighteenth Century literary notables, only five of the series' twenty-one photographs are vaguely connected with academic endeavor. One photograph pictures a faculty dance at Dean Brooks' uncompleted home, while another shows someone mixing a drink for Professor Grimm behind a canopied bar in one of Lehman Hall's walnut paneled studies.

Houseparty
The houseparty last winter came in for its share of publicity too. Harry Hart, the Saints' now departed cook, is shown giving a See LIFE, Page 4

Yachters Elect New Officers

Bardes Succeeds Davis As New Commodore

At the annual elections held last Tuesday evening, Williams Yacht Club members chose Bart Bardes '50 as the new Commodore to succeed retiring head Wally Davis '50.

Bardes will be assisted as head of the Williams yachtsmen by Ronnie Moir '51, new vice-commodore. Mike Luther '51 was choice to remain as secretary of the Club, and Pete Debevoise '51 was elected to fill the shoes of Dave Barker '50, retiring treasurer.

Two More Boats
During the meeting it was announced by the executive council that tentative plans include the purchase of two more boats in the future to augment the present Yacht Club fleet of two Penguin Dinghies, secured from the South Boston Yacht Club last Fall.

"Six regattas are already on the schedule for racing next Spring and there is a definite possibility of three or four more being added to fill out the season," secretary Luther revealed.

Army Victory In Relay Kills Skein At 28

Medley Sets College Record As Muirmen Win Only Three Races

by Herb Mohring
Although the trio of Wineman, Snyder and Baldwin pushed the Williams varsity to an early lead with a college record breaking 3:01.2 medley relay victory, a crack Army swimming team forged ahead in the final race to beat Bob Muir's men 39-36 in one of the most thrilling meets of recent years Wednesday afternoon at West Point.

The Muirmen were able to take only three first places from the Pointers, but by accumulating six of seven possible seconds, and a sizable number of thirds, they managed to hold a slim 36-32 lead going into the final event, the 400 yard freestyle relay. The defeat broke a win streak of twenty-eight consecutive dual meets for the Eph swimmers.

Medley Record
Only five-tenths of a second short of New England record time, the medley relay team chopped almost two seconds from the college record they set last week against Brown. When breaststroker John Snyder managed to hang on to the commanding eight-foot lead Co-captain Hank Wineman gained in the first two laps, Jim Smyly, the Army's ace sprint man, couldn't overtake Co-captain Ray Baldwin.

Jack Craigie, star of the Army plebe team last year, hit 2:16.7 to beat Chick Brashears and Bob Reid in the 220. After Moose Irwin nosed out Mo Murray in the 50, and a somewhat partisan Army official awarded Bill Lambdin a third over George Coale, the score stood 12-11 for Williams. Cliff Stowers had an off day, and could do no better than a third against two very good Army divers.

Smyly Wins
Jim Smyly erased the defeat in the 100. Mo Murray took an easy third. The Army first string backstroker and captain, Ed Townsley, is also a fast man in the sprints. Realizing that his swimmer didn't have a chance against Hank Wineman and would have a tough time taking second from Ted Lamot, Army Coach Skinny Chalmers decided to save him for the 400 medley. Hank and Ted had an easy time against the remaining Army backstrokers.

Clarke Allison touched the wall a split second before John Snyder, and Dick Stuart nipped Swede Svenson to give the Army first and third in the 200 yard breast stroke in what was probably the best See SWIMMING, Page 3

Formation Of Purple Rugby Team Planned

With Rugby rapidly coming into its own in this country, the formation of a Williams team has been suggested. The Ephmen have already been offered a home and home series with Harvard, and games could most likely be arranged with Princeton and Yale. Cornell, Dartmouth, M.I.T. and Syracuse are also trying to start teams, and if the sport continues to climb in popularity, it might well develop into a colorful intercollegiate attraction. Anyone interested in this venture should contact Bronson Fargo '51.

SAC Control

We would like to congratulate the SAC for its action against the Student Book Store (see page 1) and assure it of our strong support and, we hope, of the support of the entire student body in any action which it may deem necessary to insure an equitable settlement of the problems which have arisen.

The SAC is, and must necessarily be, in complete control of the finances of every college organization. This rigid supervision is necessary for two reasons: (1) It is the only way in which the financial status of the non-athletic activities may be periodically checked upon, and (2) it is the only way to prevent the unexplainable disappearance, either deliberate or inadvertent, of funds from the coffers of these groups. Experience has shown this to be necessary in the past, and it has done so again.

In spite of numerous requests, nay demands, by the SAC, the Book Store failed to submit adequate financial reports. This was the result of the store's grossly inefficient bookkeeping which, in spite of repeated commands by the SAC, the store's managers found no reason to improve. Their action was an outright repudiation of SAC supervision, in spite of the fact that they were operating on a $1000 SAC loan and under a constitution which recognized this control.

As a result of the store's business practices, large amounts of money or books could have disappeared from the store with no one being the wiser. Auditors have been unable to make head nor tail of the few books which were kept, so there is still no adequate check on the money which passed through the store. This condition should not be allowed to exist in any organization at any time, and any action whatsoever, no matter how strong, should be taken to prevent it.

Under these circumstances it is no small wonder that the SAC has exercised the full extent of its power and ordered the complete liquidation of the store. To our knowledge it is the first time this has ever become necessary and we commend the members of SAC for their recognition of their duty to the students and to the college. What is more important, we hope they continue to realize this obligation and their ability to fulfill it. R.J.H.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

The following communication was received by me today concerning the Williams-Wesleyan basketball game last Saturday. It is from a buddy of mine at Wesleyan and it offers an interesting commentary on the game.

"Dear Don,

Herewith follows an unbiased report of Saturday's game. My present title for this work is "The I Don't Want It You Can Have It Game." This fraud on the American sporting public opened with some deft footwork; so deft in fact that at the completion of the first quarter the score stood 5-5! Then things began to move; Wenner picked up a first down on a spinner off the left tackle position. Robinson "pogoed" to the Williams five yard line, but unnecessary breathing set the Cards back 15 yards. Undaunted, the men of Wesleyan gritted their false teeth and held the visitors to a 17-17 draw at halftime.

During the intermission a Relief to Stricken Basketball Players Society was seriously considered, but the return of the "F" men led by "Which Way Did They Go" Sheehy brought the crowd to its feet.

At the outset of the second half, the Aiphonse-Gaston act was resumed once more. As the game progressed anguished moans were heard in the background. Then suddenly the Rangers brought the puck past the blue line. This so moved Dale "Emporia" Burnett that he rushed in a flock of substitutes. Wesleyan added 10 points to the score, despite the Cards' determined efforts to do otherwise. The Williams first team consequently returned, Ditmar struck out the side, but not before Citation stole home with the deciding 11 point margin.

Triumphantly,

Jack

entertainment at the dance Carnival Chairman Paul Mort '50 declared. The ever-popular Williams Octet will perform at the intermission, and door prizes will be awarded. Top Billville snow artists will be rewarded for their efforts when the "Koveted Keg" of beer is given to the winner of the annual snow sculpting contest.

Seven optimistic ski teams have accepted invitations to the Intercollegiate Ski Union junior division meet to be held here on the weekend. Harvard, Yale, Princeton, MIT, Vermont, Hobart, and Williams will compete in four events for the privilege of entering the senior division championships at Middlebury the following weekend.

Among general items of interest about the weekend was the announcement that free cuts would not be given for Saturday morning classes. George Hutton '51 announced that Carnival programs would be sold at the Friday night dance, at the two productions of Julius Caesar, and at the Hofstra basketball game on Saturday evening.

Skiing on Mont Tremblant and in the Swiss Alps was shown in the two movies. Artists among WOC members are now at work designing arm patches and emblems for which prizes of a ski tow belt or an army rucksack are being offered. The next meeting of the Outing Club will be on March 1.

On our weekly visit to Tom Walsh's we uncovered some fair records, but even more important was the news regarding the latest dispute in the recording field—an attempt on the part of Victor and Columbia Companies to produce new, long-playing phonographs and the accompanying discs. Already Columbia has flooded the market with its modernistic machine which revolves at a rate of thirty-three turns a minute in comparison with the usual seventy-odd revolutions. Meanwhile RCA Victor is experimenting with a victrola of forty-five revolutions per minute which plays records from the inside outward. Just what effect this battle-royal will have on the recording industry, is as yet undetermined, but if these new machines become popular, their popularity will insure a reduction in the size of records from ten to seven inches. More on this later—now on with this week's reviews.

RED NORVO'S NINE

Hollyridge Drive B—
 Under A Blanket Of Blue B—
 DRIVE, a Benny Carter original, moves along at a slow bounce tempo with solos being passed around to several great artists including Red, Carter, Eddie Miller, and Bobby Sherwood. However, their solos are not by any means thrilling with the exception of Red's topflight performance on the vibes which pulls the disc up to a "B—". The other side has similar weaknesses with Bobby Sherwood's fine cornet solo being offset by some mediocre section work. (Capitol 15083) thanks to his very limited range and bad tonal quality. Not only is the arrangement dull, but even BG fails to approach his usual performance. Emma Lou Welch's rendition of HATE also leaves much to be desired, but this is due more to her inexperience than anything else. Wardell Gray comes through with a fair tenor chorus, but please Benny, let's have no more discs like this. (Capitol 15208)

SID CATLETT

Just You, Just Me C+
 Henderson Romp C+
 Considering the all-star group assembled here, the results are rather disappointing. Both sides are highlighted by Al Casey's spotty guitar work which is not helped by poor acoustics. Most interesting part of JUST comes on the final riff as Big Sid does his usual terrific backup job on the drums. Casey improves on ROMP, but other solos are not sensational, leaving an unsatisfied feeling at the end. (Capitol 15177)

GENE KRUPA

How High The Moon B+
 Tea For Two C+
 Pardon us if we seem too Krupa-conscious, but once again we think that Gene and his boys have waxed the side of the week. Despite many recordings of HOW HIGH, we find Gene's refreshing since it incorporates many of the good passages from other arrangements. Although the soloists are not tops, a limited use of chord progressions combines with some tasteful bop riffs to produce another Krupa hit. The band's subsequent letdown on TEA and Anita O'Day's sub-par vocal drag this side down. (Columbia 38346)

Fast-Breaking Fordham Five Invades Lasell Gym Tonight

Fordham, third major basketball power to invade Williams in as many home games, will take the floor against the Williams varsity at 8 p.m. tonight in the Lasell Gym.

Dale Burnett's sophomore-led Ephmen will be trying hard to snag an upset victory in their first game before exams, which necessitated a two-week period of inactivity.

Local fans may be sure that the Williams line up tonight will differ somewhat from that of the recent Rutgers and New Britain teachers home games. Coach Burnett will sacrifice some of the purple's surplus height for speed and scoring ability, two qualities which have been noticeably lacking of late.

Fordham Formidable

At latest reports, the Williams first and second teams consist of varying combinations of Bush, Ditmar, Fagerburg, Fraser, Jackson, Larson, Mason, Page, Pusey, and Sheehy. Any one of these men is a potential starter under present conditions, but center Chuck Pusey is the only one who is assured of a first-string berth on the basis of past performance.

Fordham, assuming that they lost Wednesday night to Tony Lavelli and his Yale contemporaries and beat RPI last night, will bring a record of eight wins and four losses onto the Lasell Gym floor. The Williams ball club won three straight at the start of the season and then dropped seven in a row up to Wednesday's game with Army, an account of which appears elsewhere in this issue.

Rams Fast-Break

Although the visiting Rams have lost one-sided games to Columbia, 38-74, and to Villanova, 35-64, they also have beaten such teams as Brooklyn College, John Marshall, and St. Peter's. No comparative scores are available, the rival ball clubs not having played a common opponent yet.

Having little height and not too much of anything else this season, the Rams usually just run, run, run. And unless the Fordham cagers wore themselves out against Yale and RPI, tonight's ball game could be a race to see which squad first drops from sheer exhaustion.

Williams reserves will see plenty of action, for the 1949 team has shown repeatedly that it cannot play at a rapid pace for 40 minutes.

Bach Gone

Lack of height and the graduation of star pivot-man John Bacharach will lead off, and Kevin Delany will run the anchor leg. Although times were not made public, all four men turned in performances within a few tenths of each other, and the quartet as a whole did better for the mile distance than at any time during the last two seasons.

Relay Team Runs Tonight

Barney, Delany, Smith, Bacharach Compete

Coach Tony Plansky's winter track team opens its 1949 schedule tonight at the Knights of Columbus games in the Boston Garden, where a quartet of Williams' speediest sprinters will square off against crack mile relay teams from other eastern colleges. K. of C. officials expect a capacity turn out.

Plansky has been working hard to get the locals in shape for this event in a long winter circuit of track meets, which will close with the Cleveland K of C games some time in March. Since the completion of the new board track January 11th, the relaymen have been practicing daily on the outdoor oval.

Starters Disclosed

Last Wednesday, Plansky disclosed the team that will be sent into the Boston Garden tonight. As a result of midweek time trials, Co-captains Bill Barney and Gordy Smith will run in second and third positions, while Andy Bacharach will lead off, and Kevin Delany will run the anchor leg. Although times were not made public, all four men turned in performances within a few tenths of each other, and the quartet as a whole did better for the mile distance than at any time during the last two seasons.

The squad is built around lettermen Barney, Smith, and Delany, all of whom performed on last year's crack outfit which numbered among its victims such foes as Holy Cross, Wesleyan.

Purple Sextet Tops U. Mass.

Marchese Leads Attack As Team Plays Well

Sparked by Co-Captain Tom Benson, Bucky Marchese, and Doug Coleman, each of whom knocked in three goals, the Williams hockey team trounced the University of Massachusetts 12-5 last Tuesday afternoon at the Springfield Coliseum.

Marchese, who starred at Springfield's Classical High before coming to Williams, chipped in with two assists during the game, which made him top man with five points for the game.

The University of Massachusetts goalie had sixty-nine shots aimed at him in the course of the contest and made the save fifty-seven times. Williams goalie Dave Pyncheon had twelve saves, while Herb Poole, who relieved him in the last period, stopped the puck six times.

Co-Captain Charlie Huntington, Mark Reynolds and Bill Swan rounded out the Williams scoring, each contributing one of the goals in the last period.

The Williams Line-up:

Pyncheon, Irwin, Ratcliffe, Huntington, Healy, Benson, Brown, Coleman, Chute, Fish, Marchese, Martin, Poole, Reynolds, Schluter, Swan, Cremin, Wyer, Roberts, White, Peabody, Harrison.

Calling Marchese the outstanding performer for the Purple sextet, the Springfield Republican continued to say that he proved "a demon playmaker as he set up no fewer than four markers for his teammates." The Ephmen, according to the Republican, were "a rugged opponent that excelled

West Point Quintet Crushes Williams Five 72-45 At Army

Second Half Rally By Army Nullifies Chuck Pusey's 14 Points

A hot Army second half rally, led by a little guard named Mosny, and an early second half slump by Williams combined to give the Purple a resounding 72-45 triumph in the gigantic West Point field house last Wednesday. It was the seventh straight loss for the victory-starved Ephmen while the win broke a three game losing streak for the future lieutenants.

Army's football playing basketballers started off with a vengeance as left guard Rawers hit for seven quick points, right tackle Barnes chipped in with four and quarterback Galiffa scored on two fouls while Chuck Pusey's five points comprised all the Williams scoring. The referees kept a judicious silence while the West Pointers relied on their football techniques to give them control of the backboards as well as stopping the obviously red-hot Pusey.

Fraser Ignites Spark

After Jack Mason's set made the score 15-7, Jack Fraser took over at guard and it was his inspired defensive work and play-making which kept Williams in the ball-game for the rest of the first half. Pusey's seven points and George Ditmar's two one-handers kept the Army lead down to six points until Galiffa's hook in the waning seconds of the half made the score 31-23.

The less said about the second half the better. It was all Mosny, a little guard who'd only scored five points in the first half but suddenly got hot and scored thirteen quick points, most of them on seemingly impossible driving lay-up shots.

In the first nine minutes of the half the cadets lengthened their lead to an unsurmountable thirty points as the Burnettsmen fell apart at the seams. Mosny sparked this drive which netted twenty-five points while Williams collected a mere three points on foul shots. Jerry Page's lay-up finally ended this dirth of field-goals but the damage had been done. The reserves of both teams began to make their appearance and for the rest of the ballgame the Ephmen held a 17-16 edge. Little Bill St. Clair hit for five points, Bob Larsen flashed some of his freshman year form while Bud Cool and Dave Jackson controlled both boards.

Jottings Chuck Pusey's 14 points give him a one point lead in the scoring race. He has 118 points to Ditmar's 117. . . . The cadets made twenty-nine out of ninety-two shots from the floor while Williams bucketed fifteen out of sixty-four attempts. These twenty-eight extra Army shots indicate the lack of defensive rebounding which has hurt the Ballclub in the last three games.

Craigie Pulled

Realizing that no matter who won the 440, the meet would be decided in the final relay, the Army coach decided to use distance ace Jack Craigie in the final event. Bob Reid and Sandy Lambert easily placed one-two in the event to give Williams a four point lead.

Coach Chalmer's strategy paid off in the relay. Hank Prosser took an early lead for the Army from Mo Murray, and Ed Townsley, Jack Craigie, and Jim Smyly extended it even further. The final time, 3:35.0 is five seconds better than the Williams team of Murray, Brashears, Rueckert and Baldwin have been timed in yet this year.

Summary: Medley Relay, won by Williams (Wineman, Spyder, Baldwin); 3:01.2 (Williams record); 220 won by Craigie (A), Reid, Brashears (W), 2:16.7; 50 yds, won by Irwin (A), Murray (W), Lambdin (A); 24.0; Diving, won by Rogers, Howard (A), Stowers (W), 97.7; 100 free, won by Smyly (A), Baldwin, Murray (W); 53.0; 150 back, won by Wineman, Lamot (W), Wood (A), 1:37.0; 200 breast won by Allison (A), Snyder (W), Stuart (A), 2:42.5; 440 free, won by Reid, Lambert (W), Knittle (A), 5:00.4; 400 yard relay, won by Army, (Prosser, Townsley, Craigie, Smyly) 3:35.0.

Smoke a LUCKY To feel your LEVEL best!

Luckies' fine tobacco picks you up when you're low . . . calms you down when you're tense!

Luckies' fine tobacco puts you on the right level—the level—to feel your level best, do your level best.

That's why it's important to remember that LUCKY STRIKE MEANS FINE TOBACCO—mild, ripe, light tobacco that makes a thoroughly enjoyable smoke. No wonder more independent tobacco experts—auctioneers, buyers and warehousemen—smoke Lucky Strike regularly than smoke the next two leading brands combined.

Light up a Lucky! Luckies' fine tobacco picks you up when you're low, calms you down when you're tense. So get on the Lucky level where it's fun to be alive. Get a carton and get started today!

Shakespeare - - -

"It doesn't matter who Shakespeare was." This is a denial of scholarship, an abrogation of the art of Biography which they apply to no other author.

Therefore I am making this appeal to a younger generation, less fettered by tradition and fear of stultification and loss of professional prestige — a generation more liberal, progressive, willing to examine without prejudice the only scientific approach to the Shakespeare mystery.

Ask your English professor; but be advised of what evasive answer to expect.

Yours Vere-ly,

Gelett Burgess

The English Department took this threat to their foundations calmly. Professor J. C. Hunt ascribed the accusations of such men to their snobbish belief that a man of Shakespeare's background couldn't have produced the plays he did and commented that "an enormous number of people seemed to combine in the 16th century a mass plot to put a hoax over on posterity."

Professor H. Smith evasively answered, "I'm familiar with the Shakespeare Fellowship Quarterly and its claims that new evidence had indicated that Edward De Vere wrote the plays of Shakespeare. These claims are fantastic, absurd, and without any historical validity whatever. They convince only retired druggists, superannuated ship captains and other comedians."

Relay - - -

Amherst, Bowdoin, St. Johns, Middlebury, Boston U., Miami, and Ohio Wesleyan.

Judging purely from past performances it would appear that the Eph quartet should hit some where around 3:29 in the race tonight.

Fordham - - -

Bach, now with the Boston Celtics, have forced Fordham coach "Bo" Adams to replace last year's pivot attack with the fast-break system. Last year the Rams hung up a 16-6 record, one of their wins being at Williams' expense, 71-54, on the Christmas trip.

Like Williams, Fordham has a young, predominantly sophomore squad. Coach Adams seldom starts the same five two games in a row, and takes full advantage of the squad's speed and depth with liberal substitutions.

Key figures in the Rams' lineup are sophomore Gerry Moye and Captain Gerry Smith. Moye, 6'4" center, is the high-scorer of the team and is counted upon to control both backboards, being used as the "post" of the fast-break attack.

The Saints, apparently, were the most eager. Three of the twenty-one pictures were taken in their house, while the DU's, and Sigs managed to get their faces in two.

Classes

Although studying is far from the most emphasized Williams' activity in the article, in a weak moment, the magazine let pictures of a round table political economy discussion in Griffin, a lonely individual studying in the stacks, and a class in creative writing in Professor Lamson's living room creep into the story.

A picture of President Baxter, with a discussion of the financial difficulties of a small college, and photographs of three famous graduates: poet William Cullen Bryant, college president Mark Hopkins, and United States President James Garfield, close the article.

Monica Lewis To Perform For Carnival

Three Ski Teams Added As Weekend Plans Progress

Monica Lewis, beautiful singing star, has been signed to appear at the Winter Carnival Dance next Friday night, according to Carnival officials. The talented lass will sing a variety of numbers during the evening accompanied by the music of Tommy Reynolds' orchestra.

Described in Billboard, the trade paper of show business, as a "versatile, deep-throated throber with poise a-plenty," Miss Lewis began her career in radio. Her singing attracted the attention of Benny Goodman, who offered her a chance to sing with his band during an engagement at the Astor Roof.

Replaces Hildegard

Monica's career in radio progressed quite rapidly. She replaced Hildegard on the "Beat the Band" show for the summer of 1948. That fall she was chosen to co-star with Johnny Johnston on the Chesterfield Show for 39 weeks. She has appeared as guest star on numerous radio programs, including a show with Bob Hope, and has had her own radio program "Monica Makes Music" aired over the Mutual Network. Besides recording for Decca, she has made personal appearances at many nightclubs.

She is described by her agents, "The Music Corporation of America" as a "brown-eyed, ash blonde, with flashing dimples and a beautiful smile." She is now making a personal appearance at the Paramount Theater in New York.

Direct From New York

Tommy Reynolds will come to Williams directly from an engagement at the Roseland Ballroom in New York. Tommy's band plays in a soft and subdued style which has made him popular with college people. He has appeared at Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, Ohio State and at many other places.

Job Interviewers Arrive Thursday

To Talk To Seniors On Teaching, Business

Beginning February 17 and lasting until the Spring Recess, eighteen representatives of business and teaching will arrive in Williamstown to interview seniors for positions with their respective organizations. William O. Wyckoff, Director of Placement, announced this week.

"Approximately twenty-five additional interviewers are expected to visit Williams between April 10 and the term's end," Wyckoff added.

The schedule of interviewers for the following week, Feb. 13-19, is as follows:

Thursday- Frank B. Conklin '37 and Russ A. Miller '36 of the Deerfield Academy are seeking June graduates for teaching positions at the prep school level.

Friday- Edward H. Fleer, Director of Education for the Providence Washington Insurance Company, Providence, R. I., will attempt to recruit seniors for positions at $225 a month to start.

R. Allan Clapp, who is Headmaster of the Blake School of Minneapolis, will interview those interested in teaching in country-day schools.

Six New Appointments Made; Leaves Granted To Faculty

Leaves of absence to several faculty members were approved by the Board of Trustees at their meeting in New York on January 22, while six new appointments to the faculty were voted.

Professor Alan Sweezy of the Economics Department will be excused for one year, Professor Bertrand Fox of the Economics Department has been given leave of absence for the Spring term, and Assistant Professor Kermit Gordon of the Economics Department has been excused until he finishes work on his Ph.D. Professor Volney Wells of the Mathematics Department will be excused for the next year, and Professor Winthrop Root of the German Department will be excused for the Fall term of 1949, while Professor Elliott Grant of the Romance Languages and Instructor Corning Chisholm of German have been given leaves of absence for the Spring term of 1950.

New Appointments

Two new instructors were appointed to the Department of Romance Languages: Mr. Anson C. Piper, Williams 1940, for one year from July 1, and Mr. John Savacool, Williams 1939, for the second semester, 1949-50. Mr. Piper comes to Williams from the University of Wisconsin, where he has been a member of the Department of Spanish and Portuguese. Mr. Savacool, who was Instructor of Romance Languages at Williams in 1948-49, has been living in Paris, where he was a correspondent for "The New York Times", contributing articles and reviews on the theatre in France.

Samuel Graybill, Jr., a member of the present Senior Class, was appointed Graduate Assistant in Art for one year, and Dudley S. Taft, who received his B.A. degree from Williams in 1948, was voted Graduate Assistant in Physics for one year. Henry N. Flint, Jr., Williams 1944, has been appointed Advisor in Undergraduate Affairs and Executive Secretary of the Student Aid Committee for one year from July 1, and Alvin B. Kernan, a Senior who graduated in February, has been made Assistant in English for the second semester of this year.

Associate Professor George Connolly was promoted to Professor of Public Speaking and Instruction. See TRUSTEES, Page 3

Plan Guidance Series Talks

Williams Graduates To Speak On Vocations

Under the supervision of the Undergraduate Council and in collaboration with the Placement Bureau, the annual series of vocational Guidance talks will be held at 7:30 on successive Monday evenings throughout the remainder of the spring term. William O. Wyckoff, Director of Placement, revealed Tuesday.

"Consisting of prominent Williams graduates in the fields of teaching, industry, personnel, export-import, and accounting, each talk," Wyckoff indicated, "will be held at the various social units and is open to all undergraduates."

Many Fields Represented

Beginning Feb. 28 and running through Mar. 28, the schedule of speakers is as follows:

Feb. 28- Williams College President James P. Baxter 3rd '14 and Walter F. Sheehan '33, former Dean of Freshmen and Director of Athletics at Williams, will speak at the Kappa Alpha Lodge on "Teaching" at the college and prep school levels respectively.

Mar. 7- Representing the petroleum industry, Alex H. Chapman '22 of the Arabian-American Oil Company of New York, and long experienced in both domestic and foreign oil business, will talk at the Sigma Phi Place.

Mar. 14- At the Beta Theta Pi house, William S. Simpson '39, Personnel Director for the Raybestos Division of Raybestos-Manhattan Inc., Bridgeport, Conn., will discuss personnel work. Mar. 21- Discussing Export-Import, John E. Stark '38 of the W. R. Grace Company, New York, will be at the Phi Gamma Delta House.

Mar. 28- David B. Mathias '28 of the Auditing Department of the Bankers Trust Company of New York will be at the Zeta Psi House to speak on the fields of accounting.

Cagers Ready For Jeff Five

Williams Team Favored In Little Three Game

Williams will be a heavy favorite when the varsity basketball team clashes with Amherst at 2 p. m. today in the Lasell Gym, with a large gathering of alumni and undergraduates expected to be on hand.

The Ephmen will be shooting for their fourth win of the year and their initial Little Three victory, after breaking a seven-game losing streak at the expense of a formidable Fordham five on January 22, three weeks ago.

Nothing Certain

But the bitter memory of a 38-49 upset in the Little Three opener at Wesleyan January 15 is still fresh in the minds of Coach Dale Burnett and his Williams hoopers. That contest was added proof that anything can happen in Little Three competition, and in Amherst-Williams games this rule holds particularly well.

In the last three years Williams has compiled a record of five wins and only one loss against the Jeff basketballers. This afternoon's rivals will meet again at Amherst on March 5.

Coach Burnett probably will start the five men who played most of the Fordham game together, with Chuck Pusey at center, high-scorer George Dittmar and Captain Jack Mason at the guards, and sophomores Bob Lanson and Dewey Fagerburg in the forward positions.

Jeffs Unimpressive

Social Studies Are Analyzed

Gordon, Newhall Give Fourth Frosh Lecture

by R. E. Jones '52

One of the foremost purposes of a study of social sciences, according to Professors Richard Newhall and Kermit Gordon, is to teach prepare students to be intelligent citizens of a democracy. Introduced by Dean Albert Keep, the professors presented the fourth in a series of six freshman orientation lectures in Jesup Hall Tuesday evening.

On a program entitled "The Place of Social Sciences in a Liberal Education," the instructors discussed the merits of history and economics in fifteen-minute talks.

"History is a continuous success story, if studied in sufficient detail," said Dr. Newhall. A knowledge of the past can give "social and political know-how" for the present, he asserted.

Economics Defined

To define economics, Professor Gordon adopted the title of Adam Smith's thesis, "An Inquiry Into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations." The teacher has a great task, he claimed, to "distill prejudice," to change the pre-existing opinions of pupils.

In Mr. Gordon's estimation, economics is a "junior-grade science." He explained that it utilizes the scientific method and attitude, but that it cannot control the experiment, as by "putting a man in a test tube and applying corporation taxes." Even See FROSH, Page 3

Caesar Actors Plan Review

To Present Show In North Adams

The cast of "Julius Caesar" will give a preview performance of the production on Monday morning at the State Teacher's College in North Adams. The studio performance will be a shortened version of the script that is to be used when the play opens at the Adams Memorial Theater the following Friday, February 18, for two performances.

The script has been cut so that the performance will not exceed an hour. Most of the small parts have been eliminated. The performance will be confined to the portions of the play centering around Brutus, Cassius, Caesar and Antony.

Value To Actors

The acting department of the teacher's college has consistently shown an interest in the work at the AMT, and it has been hoped for some time that an arrangement could be made to exchange shows. This type of studio performance is of great value to the actors as it gives them the chance of playing to an audience before the opening performance, and to judge where the play needs to be strengthened.

The experimental scenery has been completed and is being utilized now in rehearsals.

The acting area is handsomely constructed on several different levels, and the main action will be confined here. To offset the severity of the unit, William Tuttle '51 has designed five abstract designs of Roman symbols which will be projected on the cyclorama by the linnebach lens as background for the action. Tuttle, who studies painting at the Cranbrook School in Detroit, designed the surrealist set that was used last year in "The Infernal Machine."

Lasell In Lead

Among the actors prominent in the cast are John Lasell who will play Brutus. This will be Lasell's first lead since he performed so ably in "Oedipus the King" last year. This year he has appeared as Slim in "Of Mice and Men" and Elmer in "Auto da Fe," the Tennessee Williams one act. Stephen Sondheim, who appeared briefly in "Waiting For Lefty" last month will be seen as Cassius, the foil to Brutus. Sondheim played the part of the sex murderer, Danny, in "Night Must Fall" last Spring. At the present time he is also working on his new musical which is still untitled but in rehearsal. The title role will be played by James Dissell.

The theatre has announced that all student reservations that are not season ticket reservations must be picked up by noon on the day of the performance or they will be cancelled. In other years it has proved to be the case when plays were given on houseparty weekends that students often have not called to pick up their reservations. The box office opened on Wednesday and will be open every day except Sunday from 10 until 4. Reservations by phone will be accepted.

19th Annual Alumni Affair Begins Today

Luncheon, Full Sports Program, Fraternity Reunions In Spotlight

Informality will be the rule rather than the exception this week end as Williams undergraduates play host to well over 100 returning alumni who are celebrating the 19th annual Midwinter Home-Coming. A full program of social and athletic events has been planned, climaxed by the Alumni Luncheon Sunday at the Garfield Club.

According to Student Adviser Albert Osterhout '06, more than 250 alumni, faculty members, and undergraduates are expected to attend the Luncheon meeting which will be presided over by President James Phinney Baxter, III. Among those expected are fifty alumni-fathers and their sons who are now enrolled at Williams, along with twenty sons of deceased alumni.

Jay To Speak

Several awards will be made during the course of the program including the James C. Rogerson Cup and Medal to an alumnus or a senior who is of outstanding merit, for service and loyalty to the college, and for distinction in any field of endeavor. Also to be awarded at this time are the Belvidere Brooks Memorial Medal to the football player whose playing during the past season has been of the greatest credit to the college and the Rockwood Tennis Trophy which will be presented to Stuart Robinson '50, winner of last fall's college tennis tournament.

John Jay '38, who recently assumed his duties as Director of Athletics, will be introduced to the group after which he will probably outline his aims in this new post. Entertainment for the occasion will be provided by the Williams Octet and Tommy Safford '92 at the piano.

Sports Program

A cordial invitation has been extended to the Alumni to visit classes today and Monday while other activities of interest to the See ALUMNI, Page 3

Debaters To Hold Smoker Monday

Start Drive To Augment Freshman Membership

The Adelpic Union will hold a smoker in the Garfield Club lounge, Monday evening, February 14, at which time an attempt will be made to familiarize students with the activities of that organization. All interested students are invited. It is hoped that new men will be attracted to join the steadily increasing membership ranks.

The organization is out to gain a large membership, particularly from the freshman class as freshman members will be the backbone of future groups. A large number of debaters is also necessitated by a change in the debate trial procedure. Up to now, prior to each debate, trials have been announced which were open to all. Soon, however, a new system will go into effect, under which trials will be open only to members of the Adelpic Union.

Monday night's program will include entertainment and refreshments, in addition to a review of the organization's more recent work.

Concerning Dismissals

President Baxter's article in "Faculty Forum" points out the very warped situation which has resulted from the pyramid of completely false rumors concerning dismissal for low scholarship. There has been no faculty or administration plot to cut down on enrollment. More than this, there has not even been an unusually large number of students leaving school because of scholastic deficiency.

A check with the dean's office reveals that there has not been any more than the normal amount of dismissals for low scholarship. Of the five upperclassmen who have severed connections with the school, two were ready to go of their own volition, anyway. No freshmen at all flunked out last semester, which is, contrary to rumor, an out-of-the-ordinary fact. Several students have left school for health and financial reasons, but here, again, the number has not been unusually great.

COLLEGE RULES

There has been no attempt by the administration or faculty to "crack down". Rather, the Committee on Academic Standing has adhered strictly to the rules for dismissal for low scholarship, which have not been changed over a period of years. To clear up any misunderstanding, the rules are herewith quoted from the college catalog:

It is the policy of Williams College not to permit students to remain in residence after it has become evident that they are either unable or unwilling to maintain reasonable standards of work.

Freshmen who fail to pass three courses in the first semester have not matriculated, and are not allowed to continue. At the end of the freshman year any student who has not secured five semester grades as high as C will be considered for dismissal. Any matriculated student who fails in two courses in a semester is seriously considered for dismissal.

... Students are permitted to continue only if they have shown promise of being able to do satisfactory work in a major and in the major examination. In carrying this policy into effect, any student is considered for dismissal at the end of the sophomore year who:

- (1) has failed to attain as many as ten semester grades as high as C;
- (2) has failed to qualify for a major;
- (3) has fallen off seriously in scholarship during his second year.

At the end of each semester the Committee of Academic Standing surveys the records of the whole student body and may place on academic warning any student whose work is considered unsatisfactory.

Rumors Unfounded

The rumors, then have been completely unfounded. The rules concerning dismissals have not been altered in any way, and the number of those withdrawing has not been unusually large. The infirmary is not filled with mental cases — rather it is empty of such cases. As far as can be ascertained, there has been no conscious attempt by any department to stiffen its courses.

It is a rather sad situation, then, when rumors of dismissals and breakdowns have circulated to such a great degree and grown to such proportions that the whole undergraduate body is accusing the college of bad practices. This is especially sad and even foolish in the light of the fact that there is, upon close investigation, not one degree of truth in the rumors. W.P.S.

Freshman Ham Rigs Station; Sends From Room In Quad

by Phil Collins

"This is Station WXAR, The Voice of Williams '52, 1160 on your dial, signing off until tomorrow afternoon." And so WXAR, a new radio station run by freshman Dan McNally, leaves the air at the end of one of its irregular broadcasting days.

McNally lives in the top of Entry C of Sage Hall and does all his broadcasting from equipment in his room. He told Record reporters that he has been on the air since shortly after Christmas, but with a signal of varying intensity. Unlike WMS which brings its programs into the dorms over power lines, Station WXAR emanates from an antenna atop Sage Hall and reaches surrounding receivers through the ether in the regular way.

Mostly Music

McNally originally started the station for his own amusement and as a service to nearby entries in Sage. He plays records from his own large collection almost exclusively, with occasional comments by himself or one of a number of neighbors who help out by announcing or supplying their own discs.

Since the early days, however, McNally has constantly boosted his output until he now has coverage as great as WMS, including the Berkshire Quad and Fraternity Row. The station still concentrates on popular music, some of which McNally records himself from other programs.

No Schedule

McNally has the approval of Dean Keep on his project. A former WMSer and veteran engineer of the "Coffee Time at Mike's" show, he has an unwritten agreement with his former bosses to refrain from broadcasting while the official college station is in operation. Station WXAR maintains no regular schedule but airs its programs whenever McNally has some spare time, usually early in the afternoon or late at night.

Faculty Forum

by James P. Baxter, 3rd

In World War II each belligerent resorted to psychological warfare to confuse and dishearten its opponents. Rumors were set a-drift on enemy territory which the faint-hearted among one's opponents could be trusted to spread and indeed to multiply. To counter such rumors we Americans developed the technique of the "rumor clinic", in which falsehoods of enemy origin were analyzed and reduced to an absurdity.

No hostile forces are engaged on the Williams campus, and no enemy is at work to undermine confidence or to lay a stymie in the path of progress. Myths do arise, like the hardy falsehood that the college has refused on one or more occasions the gift of a hockey rink or, worse yet, has accepted such a gift and spent the money on something else. This yarn may have some connection with the fact that, when offered an administration building ten years ago, I persuaded the donor to give us instead our theatre and music building.

When Seth Bidwell asked me last week to contribute to the Faculty Forum of the Williams Record, I decided to apply the technique of the rumor clinic to a more recent myth that has disturbed the peace of mind of many an undergraduate. Some have suffered who normally look under the bed only for their shoes or their slippers.

This rumor concerned the impending slaughter of forty — some said forty-five — innocents in the midyear examinations. The latest version adds that eight or nine undergraduates are housed in the Thompson Infirmary as a result of nervous breakdown. For the benefit of the many parents who read the Record let me state that when I visited the infirmary Sunday afternoon to leave some recent detective stories for two skiers, not a nervous wreck was to be found or had been there in recent memory.

All versions of this rumor which have come to my attention start with an undoubted truth: that we intend to reduce the size of the college beginning in 1950. According to stories the Faculty said: "eventually, why not now," and concluded to eliminate forty men this midyears. Since we usually drop more than twice as many men in June as in February, the slaughter in June might thus exceed a hundred.

When the stories reached Mike, the owner of the College Restaurant, he rejected them with healthy skepticism. He argued that if we cut down our enrollment when the present juniors graduated, we would do so by curtailing admissions. How right he was.

In January Dean Brooks gave me an estimate that we would lose only thirty-five men from all causes except graduation, between January and September. When the Committee on Educational Policy met last Friday it dropped not forty men but four.

I am sorry we lost four upperclassmen, and glad that our losses are at an all-time low. They have run low since the war, for we have had such a heavy application that we have taken few boys who were ill prepared. It will always be possible for men to flunk out here through neglect or overconfidence. Meanwhile, if any undergraduate feels short of worries and is troubled by it I will gladly share some of mine, which are unfortunately more substantial.

Letters To The Editor

Discrimination

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

In regard to the somewhat muddled article, "Discrimination? — Yes!" which appeared in the January 19 issue of the "Record", I would like to point out some basic ideas that Collins must have overlooked.

He states that "social discrimination must be allowed wherever free men desire it," which is certainly as nice a platitude as I've heard in a long time. He seems to assume throughout his article that the majority of Williams students do indeed desire discrimination in general and discriminatory clauses in particular. I saw no quotes on a poll taken to establish this fact. Was there one? As a matter of fact, the people who control such matters (clauses relating to racial discrimination) in my house are not the undergraduates, but a very small group of older men, the heads of the national fraternities. Several times the discrimination clause in our constitution has been up for removal, and each time this group squashed the matter at national conventions before it could be brought to a vote. If Collins feels that no group of men has the right to legislate the feelings or beliefs of others, what about these national fraternities governing bodies? If it were the privilege of the undergraduates in each house to choose their members, I would agree that the time had not come to fight prejudice by education and social change, but at the present time such is not the case. The Amherst Chapter of Phi Kappa Psi can afford to toss away national membership since they had to leave college anyway, but what about fraternities at Bowdoin, Trinity, Union, Williams, etc.? Is Collins naive enough to think that they will democratically select and pledge a negro? Of course they won't. They can't afford to risk disbarment from the national and the ensuing loss of graduate support and revenue. I know that the alumni of my house have stated that they will support any stand that a majority of the undergraduates take. But how long would they support the house as a local? I don't think we can afford to find out.

In short, we, as undergraduates, are handcuffed. The discrimination clause in our constitution is a whip welded, not by the majority of the active house members, but by the minority, the national heads. By removing these clauses, Amherst has not violated "democratic principles", but has placed the whip where it belongs, with the majority of the undergraduates. By supporting Collins' stand, you betray the members of your own group, and take sides with a group of elderly strangers whom you have never met or even seen. They are strange bedfellows. I hope you rest comfortably with them. January 24, 1949
Williamstown, Mass.

Yours truly,
Hilbert Schenck '50

Contradiction

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

In the January 19 issue of the RECORD you take stands on two different but related issues: discrimination and deferred rushing.

You say, "It is evident that social discrimination must be allowed to exist wherever free men desire it." — that is, discrimination in the sense of free discretion or the right to judge and choose. I agree. Social discrimination is a natural result of three or more people in a society.

On the other hand, you favor the present system of early rushing because it tends to equalize the fraternities by letting everyone make choices blind-folded. Admittedly, we have the right to choose, but neither rushee or rusher has time to exercise judgement or discretion. By the very existence of the present system discrimination is prohibited. Furthermore, since fraternities and discrimination run hand in hand, the basis for fraternities is destroyed.

Let us admit one or the other. We either approve discrimination and fraternities (and therefore deferred rushing) or disapprove both. I leave this as food for thought.

Winter Sports Teams Face Stiff Tests Today

Matmen Meet Coast Guard

Match Expected To Be Hardest Of Year

After the basketball game in the main gym, this afternoon the varsity wrestling team goes into its third round against a strong Coast Guard squad.

The New Londoners, known for consistently good wrestling teams, took a close second in the New England last year.

An informal, Non-scoring Practice match was run off down at Springfield last Tuesday to bridge the gap between the last match, a victory over Brown a month ago, and the unrecorded results against the Gymnasts gave all but two of our grapplers the nod over their opponents. Besides Captain Cook, John Stillwell at Unlimited weight, one of last year's regulars, also rejoined the team for the season.

Aside from these two, the lineup is unchanged. Bill Kelton starts at 121 lbs., Scrubby Perry and Paul Shorb handle the 136 and 145 lb. positions. Green Carleton is at 155 lbs., while Bill Lettinger and Bart Conant take the 165 and 175 lb. slots.

Kelton, Delany Lead

'49 Harrier Squad

At a recent meeting of the cross-country team, the 1948 Little Three champions elected Bill Kelton and Kevin Delany, both Juniors, Co-Captains for the coming season. Kelton, a member of Delta Phi, comes from West Hartford, Connecticut and is a graduate of Loomis School. He has been number one man on cross country teams for three years, first as Captain of the freshman squad and then on the varsity. Besides running the two mile in the spring, he competes in the 121 pound class for the varsity wrestling team.

Delany, a Deke, hails from Brooklyn, New York and prepared at Brooklyn Prep. He has run varsity track and cross country for three years and anchored the winter mile relay for three years. He is Co-Editor of the Handbook and an associate editor of the Record.

Winter Track Men

In Boston AAU Meet

Bill Barney and George Steinbrenner were Williams' sole entries in the New England Amateur Athletic Union track and field championships Thursday night at the 101st Infantry Armory in Boston.

Barney competed in the 600 yard run vying for honors with 42 entries from various colleges and athletic clubs throughout New England. Steinbrenner took a stab at the 50 yard high hurdles.

Anticipating an invitation to the New York A.C. Games, the relay team did not submit its entry.

Hockey Trims Larries, 5-4

Defensemen Spark Favorite's Defeat

The Williams hockey team opened their home season Wednesday night by whipping a favored St. Lawrence team, 5-4. Taking advantage of their superior size, the Ephs persistently pressed the attack into the visitors' zone. The Larries' goals came after sudden rushes which caught the Ephmen off guard. However, during the third period, the home team back checked to advantage and successfully repelled the desperation scoring attempts of the Red Shirts.

The game opened with the first two lines of Williams keeping the puck in the visitors' zone. But an intercepted pass turned into a three man rush with Gunthrop converting an Ander pass into a goal at 5:47. After a St Lawrence player had returned to the ice from a two minute penalty, Tom Benson converted Capt. Charlie Huntington's rebound shot into a goal. Williams continued to press the attack and Benson again scored unassisted at 17:28. A minute later the second line joined in the scoring with Doug Coleman caging a pass from M. T. Reynolds. Williams continued to press, but the Larries broke lose with another rush and Weeden scored on a pass from Capt. Mac Nardello at 19:02, making the first period score 3-2.

Rough Play

At the outset of the second period, the Red Shirts kept the disk in the Williams zone but

Eph Squash Team To Meet Wesleyan

Chaffee Revises Line-up In Seeking Third Win

Wesleyan's racquetmen invade the home courts at 3:30 this afternoon to open Little Three rivalry for the current season. The Ephmen will be defending their Little Three crown as they seek to even the season's record at three wins and three losses.

After early victories over McGill and MIT, the Purple were crushed by Yale and Harvard, but fought stubbornly against Princeton's powerful team in their last meet before finally succumbing, 6-3, the best showing any Chaffee team has made against the tigers. Coach Clarence Chaffee will throw a revised lineup at the Redbirds: Bill Mikell has taken over number one spot, followed by Randy Thomas, Rich Allen, George Muller, Jerry Dresser, George Wright, Captain Frank Donnelly, George Kneass, and Andy Goodrich.

Goalie Dave Pynchon was equal to the occasion and came through with a pair of beautiful saves. Then the two stalwarts of the Purple defense, Don Ratcliffe and George Owen, were put off for two minutes each and Garbers passed to Gerard for a St. Lawrence score at 4:54. Soon after, a fight started in the center zone with the result that the two captains, Huntington and Nardello, received five minute penalties. At 14:10, Tom Healy beat Goalie Del Vecchio on a pass from Huntington.

After a series of rushes by both teams, Gerard dented the nets on a pass from Garbers with four minutes remaining in the second

Muirmen To Swim Against Springfield This Afternoon

Raynolds Rises In Ring Try

Enters Semi-Finals In Golden Gloves

While most Williams men were hitting the books last week Sophomore John Raynolds was hitting a young Irishman named Francis Lyons hard enough to fight his way into the semi-final round of the New England Golden Gloves tournament. Next Monday night and the Boston Arena will be the date and scene of Raynolds' next fight.

Raynolds had to wait until a quarter of twelve at night before getting his first crack at the coveted title. However, the wait did not seem to faze the 173 pound football letterman as he came out swinging with the sound of the bell. He kept the offensive throughout the first round, punishing Lyons continually until he had him obviously backing away at the end of the round. During the free-swinging melee Raynolds was hit a couple of times but still was in far better condition than the battered and perplexed Bostonian when the round was over.

T. K. O.

The first blow of the second round settled the issue as Raynolds came out fast and let Lyons have it with a right which opened a deep cut over his eye. It bled so badly that the ref stopped the fight fifteen seconds later, awarding Raynolds the victory on a technical knockout.

Raynolds has been working out in Lasell Gym for the past few weeks with the able help of Chuck Jensch and Bill Campbell, his sparring partners. He got his first boxing experience at the Blake School in Minneapolis where he won the middle weight tournament in his sophomore year and became heavy weight champ the following year. As far as it is known Raynolds is the first Williams undergraduate ever to have fought in the Golden Gloves.

Meet Promises To Be Hard Fought

by Norm Wood

A once-beaten, well-balanced Springfield swimming team invades Lasell Pool this afternoon to meet Coach Bob Muir's New England champs at 4 p.m. The Maroons finished second to Williams in last year's New England, and with the bulk of that team swimming again today, figure to give the Muirmen some good competition.

The Williams team, of course, was not weakened through graduation, but was rather strengthened by the addition of John Snyder, a breaststroker, and Dick Lippincott, a backstroker. Sparked by veterans of two year's experience, the team has won three of its four meets.

Army Trips Purple

After drubbing Boston University, 55-19, and sinking Colgate and Brown by nearly identical scores, 47-28 and 46-27, Williams suffered a 39-36 heart-breaking defeat at the hands of a potent Army team just before mid-years. A combination of factors gave West Point the victory, which put an end to Williams' record of twenty-eight consecutive dual meet triumphs. Yale beat the Purple in 1944.

This year Yale is the only team to have beaten Springfield, and to more than balance the loss, the Maroons have victories over Tufts, R.P.I., McGill and Wesleyan. Wesleyan had lost only to Army and Dartmouth, before it bowed to Springfield, 38-37. In this meet the Maroons' Al Mathan swam a 4:58.5 time to set a 20 yard pool record in the 440. He also turned in a good time in the 220.

Purple Splashers

Other visitors to watch are the incomparable diving team of Manuel Sevilla and Captain Bill Campbell, or Tom Rew, and a sprinter named Ash. The whole team is well-balanced, however, and should make a good bid for Springfield's fourteenth victory in the twenty-sixth dual meet of the series.

G. R. BENNETT —Psi U, '50. Going to Rudnick is a habit with me. It is convenient to get my laundry and cleaning done at the same place and it makes bookkeeping easier.

JOHN STILLWELL —Saint, 49. I like the usual fast service at Rudnick's. My Laundry is picked up when I want and delivered two or three days later.

HANK VAN ANDA —Beta, '51. The appearance and "smoothness" of my shirts are actually improved by George's careful and considerate treatment.

BOB DETWILER —DU, '52. My laundry bills for the first semester totaled less than $24, INCLUDING EXAM WEEK. I know that is the lowest price for comparable service, and that's why I Let George Do It.

SCOTT WARNER —Deke, '51. When I went through Rudnick's plant, I realized why they do the best work. I saw my shirts being washed in net bags to avoid unnecessary wear and tear, and I saw the modern equipment that does the good job on my clothes. Ever since, I have been a regular at Rudnick's.

BARRY BENEPE —Sig, '51. SANITONE is a nationally known cleaning process and I depend on it to restore that "new" look to my clothes. Only at Rudnick's am I sure of getting this superior SANITONE service.

Time Sense Needed

Two requirements for studying history, Dr. Newhall outlined, are a knowledge of facts and an imagination. With these, people can acquire a sense of time and a sense of the "continuity of social conditions." He emphasized a quotation of Conant, "To be ignorant of what occurred before you were born is to be always a child."

Seeking the truth behind economics, one encounters a "conflict between disinterested analysis and the desire to reason," said Mr. Gordon. In addition, complex assumptions must be simplified. As daily headlines prove, economics is a "dog bites man" problem. It has one advantage over either social sciences, however, since it is a quantitative study, he stated.

Library Gets New Books

Two Works Acquired Now On Display

Now on display in the Stetson Library are two recently acquired works, "The Lark", and "The Private Papers of James Boswell." The former is two volumes of this magazine, published in the late 1890's, and the latter is an eighteen-volume work containing the letters, journals, and other manuscripts of Samuel Johnson's biographer.

"The Lark" is of interest to Williams students because in that magazine there was published the famous quatrain, "I never saw a purple cow, I never hope to see one, but I can tell you anyhow, I'd rather see than be one." Its author, humorous poet Gelett Burgess was editor of "The Lark." From this much-parodied verse the Williams undergraduates of 1907 chose "The Purple Cow" as the title of their humorous magazine.

"The Private Papers of James Boswell" on display is the only published version of the Boswell Papers to date. Considered one of the greatest literary finds of modern times, the "Papers" reveal the life and character of Boswell even better than Boswell's famous "Life" reveals Dr. Johnson.

Not only do they concern Boswell, but they are also rich in comment on the social, political, and literary scene, in England and on the continent, over a period of nearly forty years. They serve as both a fine example of modern bookmaking and as a source material for students of the latter half of the eighteenth century.

"When the recent war brought your talents were immediately acquired by your nation, as Director and later as Historian of the Office of Strategic Services. Your brilliantly written history of the contributions of American scientists to the winning of the war published under the title 'Scientists Against Time', won the Pulitzer Prize in History."

"You have long been a lecturer and authority on naval science, and this recent work has brought you into contact with the other sciences as well. Union College, proud of her long established associations with Williams, now takes deep satisfaction in having you as the historian of America's new world of science, and as therefore entitled to the honorary degree of Doctor of Science."

Fordham Falls To Eph Five

Hoopsters Win 60-52 In Pre-Exams Game

by Blair Perry

Staging a late rally while holding their opponents scoreless in the last six minutes of the game, Coach Dale Burnett's varsity basketball team emerged with an impressive 60-52 victory over Fordham University on Saturday evening, January 22, on the L-sell Gym floor.

This was a "big" victory for the Ephmen in every sense of the word, breaking a seven-game losing streak that included an upset at the hands of Wesleyan the previous Saturday. The triumph, which also marked the return of George Dittmar and Harry Sheehy to high-scoring ranks, was the first win over a major opponent this year, and proved conclusively that the current edition of the Williams hoopsters can play top-notch basketball if they once get started.

Defense Better

Closer team-work, a vastly-improved defense, and the ability to get most of the rebounds off both backboards were the chief factors that netted the Ephmen their fourth win of the season, against seven losses.

Fordham's fast-breaking offense never upset the Williams defensive strategy, and the Rams seldom had a man break loose down floor or under the hoop. Only by caging 14 of 15 free-throw attempts in the first half were they able to stay in the ball game, as the Ephmen led 36-28 at the intermission.

In justice to the Fordham squad it must be pointed out that they had played Yale Wednesday night and RPI on Friday, both high-scoring games. And the Rams lost three key men on fouls late in the contest, after leading 52-51 with six minutes left.

Nine Men Used

Coach Burnett used nine men for the Williams cause and all nine played good ball. He substituted skillfully, keeping a good balance between height and speed

Soccer Captains For '49 Elected

John F. Bowen and George B. Kneass, Jr., class of 1950, were elected Co-Captains of the 1949 soccer team at a recent meeting of last year's squad. Bowen comes from Oneida, New York, and prepared at Andover. A member of Zeta Psi, he has played the varsity left halfback position for three years.

Kneass lives in Berwyn, Penn., and attended Episcopal Academy. He is a member of Saint Anthony and has two varsity years at right halfback. He also is a member of the varsity squash team.

at all times, so that the big boys were still fresh at the end.

Jack Fraser started the game at one forward, dividing the post with Dewey Fagerburg, and these two boys put a little more hustle into the Eph quintet. Dittmar led the team in scoring with 13 points, Harry Sheehy, alternating at center with Pusey, had 11, Pusey scored 9, and Fagerburg and Larson 8 apiece. Captain Jack Mason, Bush, and Page were the others who saw action.

Fordham Captain Jerry Smith put on a fine offensive show for the visitors, hitting with six field goals and eight out of nine free throws for a total of 20 points. Baker and Cohan pleased the crowd with their dramatic and effective show of officiating.

Williams Leads

Williams led most of the way, trailing for a short time early in the first half and again late in the contest. The game was closely fought for the first seventeen minutes, with Williams leading 25-24 at this point, but the Ephmen then went on a scoring spree and led 36-28 at the intermission.

Fordham climbed back into the ball game at the start of the second half, and stayed in it until the final minute of play.

With the home team leading 43-35, the Rams' Smith sank two long set-shots, made good on a pair of foul shots, and scored another basket to make it 47-46 for the Ephmen with ten minutes left in the half.

Close At Finish

Fordham then tied it up at 49-49 and went ahead 52-51, but here they began to lose men via personal fouls, and did not score again in the game. Sheehy's tap-in and Larson's free throw gave Williams a two-point lead as Fordham called time-out with three minutes left, and Pusey sank a one pointer to make it 55-52 with 1:17 remaining.

Jay Assumes Athletic Reins

New Director Pleased With General Setup

Stating that he is "perfectly satisfied" with the Williams athletic setup at present, although he hopes to see minor things run a little smoother in the future, John C. Jay, Williams '38, assumed his duties as the new Director of Athletics on Monday. He is concentrating for now on getting acquainted with his new post and expresses himself as having in mind no radical changes in the sports field.

As far as working conditions are concerned however, Mr. Jay has already made a substantial change. He has moved his Director of Athletics headquarters from its familiar corner in Hopkins Hall across the street to the Gymnasium offices.

Experienced Staff

The well known photographer, author and lecturer feels especially fortunate in having such a capable and experienced staff under him. Of particular value is Miss Mahoney, who has functioned from her office in the Gym through the reign of three Williams College presidents. There are a few loose ends that will require tying up by Mr. Jay, since the job which calls for a full time attention has been handled for the past term by only Acting Directors who have naturally been unable to devote their complete efforts toward it.

Mr. Jay feels that the number of sports that are supported at Williams are almost too many for the quite overtaxed budget, but he emphasizes the great value and desirability of having such a well rounded competitive program as a necessary part of the small college education. Due to See JAY, Page 6

Mile Team Gains Impressive Wins

Spill In Boston Brings Only Board Defeat

Losing their initial race in the Boston K of C meet January 22 due to an unfortunate spill, Coach Tony Plansky's mile relay has rebounded in its last two encounters to rack up the fastest time in eight years for the indoor distance by a Williams team.

In the Boston meet, Gordon Smith, running in third position, tripped and fell, which put the Ephmen 30 yards to the rear of Amherst who managed to hold the lead throughout. Despite this deficit, the Jeffs barely edged out the home team as anchor man Delany followed Scott to the tape with two yards to spare. The time was a poor 3:33, although Bill Barney was clocked in 51.5 for his leg. Wesleyan and R.P.I. finished third and fourth respectively.

Runners Revenge

The next Saturday night at the Millrose Games in New York was a different story. Coach Plansky switched his running order with Barney replacing Bacharach in the leadoff position and Walt Zeigantals taking over the second spot. That night the Purple was in front from the beginning and their nearest rival, Amherst, was out of sight 50 to 60 yards behind. As the runners broke the tape in 3:29.7, Wesleyan and Middlebury were distant also-rans.

The clocking for the Millrose relay was the first time a Purple contingent has fractured 3:30 since the star-studded quartet of Victor, Schumo, Peck and Van Cott in 1941.

Gil Dodd's Team

By virtue of their good time in the New York contest, The Boston Athletic Association took the Planskymen out of the small college class for the BAA Games last Saturday night, and pitted See RELAY, Page 6

Many Fields

John Jay comes to Williams in the midst of a varied and colorful career in a number of fields. After earning letters in football and hockey, as well as being elected to the Gargoyle Society, Jay, upon receiving his Williams diploma, went on to a Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford. Since his sojourn at Oxford, he has spent his time as, among other things, a ski photographer, an author of many magazine articles on travel, sports and photography as well as the famous book, "Skiing The period. Not long after, Reynolds scored, beautifully assisted by Coleman and Hector Marchese. The second period ended with Mitch Fish of Williams and Westerborg of St. Lawrence drawing match misconduct penalties.

The last period started with each team short one man because of the penalties imposed as the second period closed. A St. Lawrence player drew a minor penalty but the Ephs failed to capitalize on the opportunity. Then with the teams evened up the Larries broke through with sudden rushes. The Williams defense of Ratcliffe, Owen and Dud Irwin was superb, and the Red Shirts failed to score. With about ten minutes remaining the tide reversed and the disk was constantly in the Purple zone. Finally, with about two minutes left in the game, St. Lawrence put six forwards on the ice to try to tie the game. But Williams held until the final horn and the game was won, 5-4.

The closeness of the game is witnessed by the fact that Pynchon made 35 saves while Del Vecchio made 33. The play of both goalies was outstanding and the Williams back checking in the third period and their all-around rougher play made the difference in the final score. This was the second victory in the two starts of the teams regular season, they having beaten Massachusetts, 12-5. Marchese is the season's high scorer with fourteen points.

Saturday afternoon the pucksters will take on Middlebury at the Colé Field Rink. They have been beaten only by Army in four starts this season. Williams fought the Blue and White to a 6-6 tie last year.

Hoopsters ...

Williams missed another free-throw, but Dittmar scored the clincher on a tremendous court-long pass from Pusey, with thirty seconds left. Fagerburg then sank another foul-shot and Bush hooped a long set just before the gun, to make the final count Williams 60, Fordham 52.

them against Wheaton College of Illinois, a highly-touted team coached by Gil Dodds, king of the American milers. The other contenders were Brown University and Amherst. Using staggered lanes the thirlfads got off to a quick start as Barney copped the lead at the first turn an advantage that Williams held throughout the race. Positions remained virtually the same as Wheaton finished a comfortable 15 yards behind Delany. Then came Brown followed by Amherst who faded on the first leg and never gave a challenge during the race.

Ticking off a rapid 3:27.7, the Purple trackmen clipped a full two seconds of their best previous time. Barney, Zieganhals, and Delany had split times of 51.8, 51.7, and 51.6 respectively, while Smith was timed in 52.6. With further practice, Coach Plansky thinks there is a possibility that the team may do better than 3:26 before the season is over. George Steinbrenner, in his first invitational competition, snared a fourth place in the preliminary heats of the 45 yard hurdles, a fair enough showing since he was up against the country's best.

Purple Hoopsters Nip Jeffs Before Homecoming Crowd

Mason, Ditmar Spark Second Half Surge For 38-36 Triumph

by Steve Blaschke

It was impossible to determine whether the wrestling match had started early or the basketball game had begun late, but when it was all over, Williams had stumbled its way to a 38-36 victory over Amherst in a scheduled "basketball game." This ineptly executed Little Three victory was witnessed by a large and loyal homecoming crowd.

The tone of the game was set early as Amherst found difficulty in bringing the ball upcourt while the Burnetts appeared completely baffled by the Jeffs' zone defense. Four foulshots gave Williams a 4-0 lead but this was soon cut down by Ed Kelley's one hander. It took six minutes before the Purple scored from the floor. This was accomplished by George "Swish" Bush's set. Then Kelley took over with his onehanded shot and soon the Jeffs led 12-9. Another Bush set narrowed the margin but again Kelley matched it. Bud Cool then sank a beautiful long onehander for Williams third and final first half goal, and Amherst left the floor at half time with a 17-13 lead. It had easily been the sloppiest twenty minutes of basketball witnessed in many a year.

Enter Captain Mason

The second half began on the same musical comedy note as the first, and soon Amherst led 24-14. At this point, however, Ditmar swished a onehander, and Chamberlain fouled out. Kelley and Geraghty soon followed Chamberlain via the foul-out route, and the Purple began to control the boards. Coach Burnett ordered an all court press and it worked. A onehander by Cool and a lay-up by Jackson cut the Amherst lead to five points, and so with ten minutes left, Williams began to look like the team that had beaten Fordham.

Jack Mason was the hero of this re-awakening as he hit with two lay-ups and a set within a space of two minutes. Pusey and Ditmar chipped in with six more points and the Purple kept a 38-36 lead until Nesbitt's onehander swished as the gun went off.

Paragraphs In The News

Even the alumni tried their hands. Williams athletes were doing well, and were determined that no one should doubt that fact. The Alumni Squash contenders were soundly trounced by the Williams varsity last Sunday morning by a match score of 7-2. Only Thomas and Donnelly duffed.

The slow squeeze has evidently been placed upon "Jim Lee's Laundry" at 46 State Street, Wang Foo, prop., by the advent of the Machine Age and the Bendix Washer, for Wang has silently stolen away to far Cathay having folded his final shirt. He plans to retire later in California.

Climbing on the bandwagon of "Williams Wins Weekend" the oft-times chuckled-at Williams Polo Team defeated the Princeton Varsity by a phenomenal recoup in the final chukker, having entered this period in the red at 10-2, leaving it at 11-10.

The second competition for Freshmen and sophomores interested in writing for the RECORD will begin next Wednesday, February 23 at 7:30 p.m. All kinds of writers—sports, news, and feature—are needed. No previous writing experience is necessary.

Wyckoff To Conduct Career Clinic Monday

Conducted by Placement Bureau Director William O. Wyckoff, a "Career Clinic" will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday evening in the Garfield Club lounge. Especially designed to advise men "What to do and what not to do when being interviewed by 'recruiters', on the campus or elsewhere," said Wyckoff, "the clinic gives such tips as how to prepare for such interviews, deportment, dress, etc."

Williams Five Plays Benefit

N.A. Teachers Foe Tomorrow Night

North Adams State Teachers College, one of the better basketball teams in this part of the country, will clash with Dale Burnett's unpredictable Williams five in a game for the benefit of the March of Dimes at 8 tomorrow night in the Lasell Gym.

A large crowd of basketball fans from both Williamstown and North Adams should be on hand to see an interesting game and contribute to one of the worthiest causes of these times. The work done with the contributions to the March of Dimes speaks for itself.

Everyone will pay the full price of admission—sixty cents—and the officials will donate their services. Student athletic tickets will not be honored for this game.

Teachers Strong

Although they are not in the same class with the Williams team at its best, the visitors have compiled a fine record in teachers' college competition in northern New England this season, and may be expected to make a real battle of it tomorrow.

Lilly, French Good

Two former college players, center Ed French and forward John Lilly, are the outstanding men in the State Teachers' lineup, which is composed almost entirely of Berkshire County scholars. Lilly, who starred for St. Joseph's High of North Adams, played two years at Niagara University, and French put in a season at Oklahoma before entering the service.

The prospective teachers will present a fairly tall team, that can hold its own under the backboards. French, Lilly, and forward Lou Parisien all stand well over six feet. A number of men who formerly starred at Drury High in North Adams, Adams High School, and other local institutions round out the squad.

Eph Trackmen Run In Boston, N.Y.C. Meets

Bill Barney and George Steinbrenner both garnered places in the New England AAU Track Championships in Boston last Thursday. Barney, handicapped by a chest cold, won his heat of the 600 yard dash in the fastest qualifying time, but could do no better than fifth in the finals an hour later. Steinbrenner, showing good form, paralleled the performance by taking fifth in the 50 yard high hurdles.

Running for the Baltimore Olympic Club in the New York A. C. Games at Madison Square Garden last Saturday, Barney ran his leg of the mile relay in 50.8 seconds as that team took third place a yard behind the N. Y. Pioneer Club and the NYAC.

Eph Natators Dunk Maroons

Purple Scores 45-30 Win Over Springfield

by Norm Wood

Performing before a packed gallery of appreciative alumni and undergraduates, the Williams swimmers overwhelmed a surprisingly strong Springfield squad, 45-30. Throughout the first seven events, the Ephs and Maroons took turns sweeping the first and second slots, gathering eight points with each sweep.

Going into the 440, Williams had a scant one-point lead, the score being 30-29. Sandy Lambert grabbed an early lead in the marathon event, and held it until Bob Reid poured on the steam at about the 325-yard mark. Reid passed Lambert at 350, and won by a couple of yards. Springfield's distance man, Al Malthaner, was third.

Sevilla Sets Record

That clinched the meet, but the 400 relay quartet paddled home the winner, to bring the point total to 45. Earlier, the crowd witnessed what was probably the best race of the day, the 200-yard breaststroke. The lead had changed hands several times, and when the swimmers came down to the wire, Springfield's Herb Hoefler had a two-foot lead over teammate Jim Weaver, and Swede Svenson was a slim two feet behind the latter.

The Springfield divers put on their usual amazing show. Both captain Bill Campbell and Manuel Sevilla broke the pool diving record, 100.8 points, set last winter by the latter. Sevilla was extremely consistent, doing his less exacting dives with a shade more finesse. He amassed 112.15 points Campbell, 101.7.

Dartmouth This Afternoon

The 300 medley relay trio won the opening event, and co-captain Ray Baldwin followed with another Eph victory in the 220. Ray was never headed as he sped in. See SWIMMING, Page 2

Squash Team Slaps Wesmen

Yields Only Five Games In One-Sided Triumph

Dropping only five games, the Eph squash team rolled over Wesleyan's visiting troupe last Saturday by a lopsided 8-1 score. Crippled by the loss of their regular number two and three men, the Redbirds could salvage only one win as their ace Salaun over-powered Bill Mikell with tricky corner and alley shots.

Rich Allen, although below his usual form, had little trouble running off a straight game victory in the number two spot as he outstepped his inexperienced opponent with careful placements. Randy Thomas took the offensive immediately against the Wesmen's number three player and quickly hammered out a 15-12, 15-9, 15-11 triumph. Over-anxious to make put-aways, Jerry Dresser, faltered in the second game of his match, but steadied down and took advantage of his opponent's weak forecourt play to run off the last two games.

Superior Depth

Coach Chaffee's men showed far superior depth as they stunned the remaining Redbird players with swift conquests. George Muller, Captain Frank Donnelly, George Wright, and John Worcester all came through with straight game victories, while George Kneass lost his first game, but came back strongly to crush his opponent 12-15, 15-10, 15-4, 15-3.

Summary: Salaun (Wesleyan) beat Mikell (Williams) 15-11, 15-8, 9-15, 15-6. See SQUASH, Page 2

Dance Theme Features Snow

Penguins, Skis, Icicles Create Wintry Effect

Winter Carnival dancers will caper in a "Winter Wonderland" on Friday night, according to Carnival Chairman Paul Mort '50. Festivities Saturday evening will take place in nine social units.

In line with the wintry theme of the houseparty, the decorations in the main gym will feature snow mountains, and penguins on a blue background, with icicles hanging overhead. A purple and gold backdrop with crossed skis and poles on it will emphasize the bandstand which will have attractions of its own in the form of Monica Lewis and Tommy Reynolds' orchestra.

Intermission Entertainment

"Besides the excellent entertainment to be provided by the bands and the vocalizing of Miss Lewis, a variety of events will help to make the dance worthwhile," Mort stated. Top feature of the intermission entertainment will be the crowning of the Carnival Queen by Dean R. R. Brooks. Announcement of the winner of the coveted Keg of beer in the annual snow sculpturing contest will also be made, as will the awarding of various door prizes. The Williams Octet will provide intermission entertainment. The admission price for the dance has been set at $4.80.

Saturday evening's activities include the varsity basketball game with Hofstra, the second performance of "Julius Caesar" at the Adams Memorial Theater, and dances at nine social units. The Garfield Club, Delta Phi, Psi Upsilon, and Phi Sigma Kappa are planning individual dances; Theta Delta Chi will be at Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta and Phi Gamma Delta at DKE, Chi Psi and Saint Anthony at Kappa Alpha, Alpha Delta Phi at Delta Upsilon and Zeta Psi at Sigma Phi.

Wrestlers Pin Coast Guard

Third Straight Victory For Undefeated Team

Scoring their third straight win, the Williams wrestlers downed Coast Guard Academy, 21-10, last Saturday before a large, noisy audience. Captain Paul Cook and John Stillwell scored falls for the Purple while Scrubby Perry, Green Carleton, and Bill Leitzinger took decisions in their matches.

Retaining four men from last year's team, the New Londoners made the bout far closer than the score indicates. The outcome, in fact, was in doubt until Bart Conant's draw near the end.

The 121 lb. match gained five points for Coast Guard when Carbonette made his three minute, fifty-four second fall over Al McLean, a last minute pinch-hitter for injured Bill Kelton. The next round was even faster and more spectacular. Paul Cook pinned Hall in two minutes, forty-four seconds with a well-executed split scissors hold to tie the score.

At 136 lbs., Scrubby Perry fought Semple for an easy 6-0 decision. Al Rynick, New England Champion, wrestling at 145 lbs. again tied the score by overpowering Paul Shorb by an 8-1 count.

Two Williams Decisions

The 155 lb. bout between Green Carleton and Thompson was also an 8-1 decision, this time for the Purple. Carleton had complete control throughout the fast match. The next fight at 165 lbs. brought the total score to 14-8 for Williams as Bill Leitzinger took his third decision of the season over See WRESTLING, Page 2

Baxter Presides Over Homecoming Finale Attended By 300

Some 300 alumni, faculty members, and undergraduates gathered at the Garfield Club Sunday to pay tribute to "Uncle Ed" Bullock, Ralph Perkins '09, Stuart Duffield '50, and Stuart Robinson '50. Presentations to these four Williams notables highlighted the program of the 19th Annual Alumni Luncheon which climaxed Home-Coming Weekend's numerous activities.

Easily the most surprised man at the meeting was Uncle Ed who received a dedicatory scroll and photographic equipment from his admirers as a token of their appreciation for his 25 years' service to Williams. W. Putnam "Put" Livingston '26 made this presentation on behalf of all those Williams men who have played for Uncle Ed during this period.

Perkins Honored

President James Phinney Baxter III who acted as master of ceremonies for the affair, announced that the James C. Roger-Cup and Medal would be awarded this year to Ralph Perkins '09. This award, given annually to the senior or alumnus who has been of great service to the college or has been outstanding in any field of endeavor, was presented to Ralph Perkins for his aid in establishing the Alumni House.

As Dr. Baxter pointed out, the original idea belonged to Perkins who was also given the honor of making the first contribution towards its establishment. In receiving the cup and medal, Perkins reminded those present that credit for this idea should not go to him alone since there were many others who were instrumental in making the Alumni House a success.

Awards To Duffield, Robinson

Undergraduates Stuart Duffield '50 and Stuart Robinson '50 were honored as the recipients of the Belvidere Brooks Memorial Medal and the Rockwood Tennis Trophy respectively. Duffield's medal goes annually to the member of the football team whose playing during the season has been of greatest credit to the college while Robinson's trophy is awarded to the student winner of the fall tennis tournament.

President Baxter also paid tribute to Student Advisor Albert Osterhout '06 who has been responsible for the organization of the Alumni Luncheons since their inception nineteen years ago. A bouquet of flowers was presented to Mrs. Osterhout in commemoration of this service.

Jay Speaks

Perhaps none of the speakers at the Luncheon made more of a hit than Williams' new Athletic Director, John Jay '38. He brought See ALUMNI, Page 2

Thief Breaks Into Rudnick's And Bastien's

Crime struck Williamstown last Thursday night when a thief (or thieves) broke into Bastien's Jewelry Store and the office of Rudnick's laundry. Eleven women's watches valued at $635 were stolen from the former. Apparently the thief found nothing of value at Rudnick's, for that store was unmolesed.

Technique Similar

In both cases, entrance was gained through the front door either by picking the lock or the use of a key. In each store the rear doors had been unbolted by the thief after he entered in order to provide a ready means of escape. Evidence of the burglar's nervousness or haste is seen in the fact that several watches were left untouched after the glass show-case had been successfully pried open at Bastien's.

According to Police Chief Royal, fingerprints have been obtained in both stores, but it has not yet been positively determined whether they are the thief's or an employee's. Chief Royal implied that he has more information on the case the disclosure of which would not be discreet at this moment.

"Ap'tment In Tokyo" At AMT Tomorrow

"Appointment In Tokyo" is the title of a documentary film to be shown in the Adams Memorial Theatre on Thursday, February 17 at four o'clock.

The film, presented by the Williams College Air ROTC, vividly describes the progress of the United States Forces across the Pacific to keep the "Appointment In Tokyo."

Scenes from captured Japanese films describe the infamous "Death March of Bataan" and the suffering of the Philippine people. The geographic and logistic aspects of the war in the Pacific are also portrayed.

Faculty members and students are cordially invited to attend.

period ended with no further scoring.

The third period opened with Forbes of Middlebury drawing two minutes for charging. The Purple failed to take advantage of the penalty and did not score. But after Forbes had reentered the game, Co-capt. Charlie Huntington broke down the left side from the center zone and passed to Benson on his right. Benson faked the goalie out of the cage and put the puck into the right side of the nets at 3:15.

At 5:19, Paul Thompson and Grocott were put out for checking in the Williams zone. The Purple poured it into the Middlebury goalie and at 6:12, racing in from the blue line, high scoring Dudley Irwin rifled in the final Williams goal. The rest of the period was marked by desperation rushes by Middlebury, and more than a few crushing body checks were thrown. The Williams reserves were put in the game for the waning minutes and they prevented the Blue and White from taking more than a couple of shots at Dave Pynchon, who played his usual outstanding game. Pynchon amassed 26 saves while Guetens had 36.

How rhythmic can a rhythm song be?

You'll know when you hear Blue Barron's new waxing for MGM Records—"Powder Your Face With Sunshine"

The Barron has a foot-tapping arrangement here—a combo of Dixie, shuffle and 2-4 time. It's sure-fire styling for a danceable hit tune. And on the flip, Blue puts "Cruising Down the River" into fast waltz time. Blue Barron likes to mix his rhythms—but in smoking, he sticks to one brand—Camel. Highlights Carnival

460 Couples Attend Dance; Movie Shown

Spring Weather Causes Ski Meet Cancellation; Monica, Octet Sing

"Oh my", said Poo ruefully, "no more potted honey..."

All of which is the general sentiment expressed by those Williams men who squired some 600 sweet young things of varying shades of dress, sobriety and beauty at the "Winter Carnival" of the past weekend.

The beserk Berkshire weather unfortunately cancelled the planned ski meet, but this unexpected spring-time highlighted all the other activities, including basketball with Hofstra, the AMT's "Julius Caesar", movies by John Jay, and the college dance in Lasell Gym.

460 Couples

Any cooling effect from the icicle decorations of the gym at the college dance was purely imaginary, nor was the heat wave created by the 460 packed-in couples who listened to Tommy Reynolds, Pappy Moon, and the Octet, diminished by the torchy songs of Monica Lewis, who rendered some seven songs (at about $100 per warble). While the Tommy Reynolds Orchestra failed to give her good accompaniment she pleased the entire crowd with the singing of such numbers as "Far Away Places", "I'm in the Mood for Love", and "Embraceable You". Even wise-cracking Dan Mahoney was satisfied.

Except for the lack of rehearsal with Monica Lewis, the Reynolds combo delivered some very danceable dance music, keeping the emphasis on the "drifting and dreaming" style, but with enough of the other forms of music to leave nearly everyone content. The unrequited ski enthusiasts made up some of their disappointment by square dancing to the able calling of Pappy Moon.

Octet Sings

Intermission was the spot for the Octet, which called itself "decimated", but which actually gave good renditions of several songs, both new-to-Williams and traditional: "I Love the Ladies" and "She Had to Go Lose It at the Astor".

"Julius Caesar" was the AMT offering on both Friday and Saturday nights while John Jay's "Singing Skis" movie was shown there on Saturday afternoon. The basketball game and house parties rounded out Saturday night.

Until the inconsiderate rain of Sunday morning kept milk-punchers indoors, many of the gallant 600 reveled in walking about the campus and surrounding area; but eight o'clocks are eight o'clocks and another Williams Houseparty folded up.

Hopkins Hall Hot Seat

There was a hot time in the ladies' restroom in Hopkins Hall last Thursday at 12:30 p.m., when some unidentified person or persons tried to duplicate the Record's sensational Finne's Flat Fire by burning up the joint. The Gale, Hose Co. was on the fireball as usual, however. Arriving with fire extinguishers and cocktail shakers, they had the flames soused in a matter of seconds. The only damage was a charred toilet seat. No burns have been reported at the in-symary.

"Heights," last Monday evening. Produced by Harry Lamborn, '51, and directed by Peggy Lamson, the radio version of the nineteenth century classic stars Edward Stack as Heathcliff, Hacky Kelly as Kathy, and Howard Erskine as Lockwood. In the supporting cast are such Cap and Bells regulars as Mrs. Mariam Rouse and Stan Pierce, while Paul Williams of WMS does the announcing.

Original Scripts

Following the conclusion of the Wuthering Heights serial, there will be four weeks in which the Cap and Bells Workshop will produce original scripts. The broadcasts, which originate in the studios of WMS atop Jesup Hall and are delayed over to WMNB, are presented Monday evenings at eight o'clock.

Patrol in the country to be officially recognized.

Nine Williamstown boys made the grade, ranging in age from twelve to fourteen years. Coached by Mr. Alton Perry, local insurance salesman who also handles the Senior Patrol tests, they are well trained in "winter first aid" and preventative measures such as marking hazards.

The youthful skiers will patrol at the National Junior Championships to be held at Thunderbolt Hill on Feb. 26-27, and were also scheduled to assist at the Winter Carnival until mud clots replaced snowballs on the Williams campus. The nine members are Randall Kezan, Jr., Leonard Widen, Thomas Walsh, Jr., John Ceely, Fred Lancto, William Talbot, Richard Tworig, Carleton Parker, Jr., and Alton Perry, Jr.

The Linnebach slides, shown on the cyclorama and constituting the only scenery variation, were neatly and artistically handled by William Tuttle. It is to be feared, however, that the slides lost a great deal of their effect because of the massive Ziegfeld structure—a square-edged bit of architecture which sat on the middle of the stage throughout the performance with all the unbudging permanence of the Coliseum itself. One feels that one could have done with less.

Dissell Excellent

James Dissell, as Julius Caesar, was the most consistently excellent member of the cast; his handling of the part (not a particularly complex one) showed a control of voice and body movement which represent certainly his best performance to date. His arrogance in the lines alone, because it definitely was not in Jarrett's interpretation.

Caesar's wife, Calpurnia, was played by Helen Bryne Kelly in a way which was adequate, but not outstanding. The role isn't much of a challenge, and Mrs. Kelly had no trouble communicating the emotional meaning of the part, but her diction was not particularly good.

Chinman Interesting

Richard A. Chinman's performance as Marc Antony was quite interesting. His voice is naturally rich and clear, and when used well—as it was in parts of the funeral scene, for example—it was moving and impressive. His tendency, however, was to let it get out of control—to raise his

UC president Henry Strong pointed out that those who did not pay the UC tax are now required to pay a four dollar assessment. Several undergraduates have sent in checks for the original assessment, three dollars, he said. They will be listed as incomplete in payment until the additional dollar is paid.

A number of students still have not signed honor system cards, it was announced. The various house presidents have been given the cards, with the request that they be turned in within the next week. It was also announced that UC treasurer Richard Wells '49 has a copy of the UC Budget which is open for anyone's inspection.

Five Billious Players Bribed "Tweet" Heads Gambling Gang

Police Chief George Boli announced the indictment of Larry Teehee and four other Billious College basketball stars on charges of accepting bribes to throw seven basketball games during December and January. An arrest is expected after the Hofstra game tonight, the Wrecker learned late last night from the usually unreliable cop squad.

The five men allegedly accepted bribes ranging from $50 to $75 per game from a big-time gambling syndicate operating in Swillville, Soft Madams, and North Clowal, Vt. in return for assurance that the Fphmen would finish at the tail end of each contest.

Only the fervent pleas of Coach Dale Dammit have persuaded college authorities and representatives of the FBI to let the four unnamed men out on bail to play in tonight's game, their last in Billious Blue uniforms. "I feel that we owe that much to the girls," Coach Dammit explained yesterday morning. "The boys have promised to play clean over houseparty weekend."

Boli Seeking "Tweet"

Failure of the gambling ring to pay off after the local team blew a one-sided game to a weak Wrestling squad, on the night of January 15, led one of the dissatisfied players to report the affair to high authorities.

Cops through this area are putting on an extensive search for a mysterious character known to the confessed players only as "Tweet" O'Shinen, who was the pay-off man for the gangsters. The pay-off took place in a back room in Babe's Pool Hall. Babe is thought to be the local headquarters for the gambling syndicate. The pool hall is only an innocent looking front.

Where Is Finne?

The mysterious O'Shinen was occasionally seen accompanied by a short stocky man known as Finne, the Fphmen told Chief Boli. It is believed, however, that three brothers named on the police blotter only as Phil, Louie and Cy are the men behind the syndicate. These three brothers are said to run an establishment on Spring Street. "We think 'Tweet' works in close cooperation with these men," Boli asserted after intensive questioning by reporters.

Confronted by the DA and the Dean (R. R. R. Rivers) Wednesday evening, the five bribed players readily admitted their crime. "Duh, we coulda romped tru all seven games easy if we wanted to, but da college don't pay us enough," Larrt Teehee is reported to have commented.

Dammit Mystified

"I knew something was wrong when we lost the seventh straight, but I wasn't quite sure what," said basketball Coach Dammit when grilled by a Wrecker reporter last night. Further investigation showed that Dammit has

The Answers

Ossie Pflup, '49, Phi Sig.

"I've done a lot of stupid things for the girls. I bought one an expensive lock-et on the installment plan and I'm still paying for it, though another guy has her up for houseparty. At another time, I carried a Soft Madams girl for blocks through the recent flood and almost ruptured myself."

Piekles Bickelhaupt, '51 DKE

"I used to think I was quite the make-out king. No one could match me with the bimbo. I used to say, 'Any girl, who will hold hands, will kiss'. Then I went over-board for a bimbo at B-Town and now I'm a married vet. Yeah, if I wasn't so foolish once I'd be partying up this weekend."

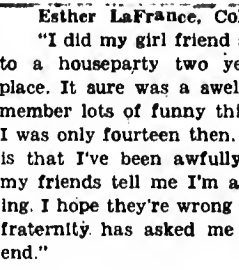

Shamus McGonigle, '52 Tainted House

"This particular babe pleaded for a kiss. I wasn't keen about her and besides she had a bad cold. Well, I'm a soft-headed slob, so after she pleaded awhile, I kissed her. I caught cold and a month later almost died of pneumonia."

Angie Angelo, '46-J, Phi Delt

"My big mistake was showing too much affection for a Pembroke lovelie. I gave her expensive houseparty favors threw wild parties in Scarsdale for her and showed my deep love in many other ways. Then one night she disappeared with a Zete pledge into this very goat room. As if this wasn't enough—I, in a true forgiving spirit, sent her a valentine and got back one with the brief inscription. Prexy Comes Out For Sex

Taint Lawn To Feature Moo Punch Parties

In an unprecedented bid to boost falling enrollment, Billious the communist college of the Berkshires, has gone co-ed. The college trustees, headed by prexy Backslapper, took the drastic move last Thursday at its annual meeting in the Richmond Grill. After discussing his work during the war as deputy director of the K-9 Corps, Backslapper said, "social life has long been neglected at Billious. A look at freshmen marks last term will show that the college is turning out nothing but lop-sided scholars. The new plan will bring this lousy state of affairs to an end."

Milk Punch Parties

Easing the difficulty of the school's present undergraduates to the new deal, the president announced plans for a series of Sunday morning milk punch parties on the Tainted house lawn. "Get them stinking, and they won't give me any trouble," he chuckled.

Hammers' prexy Mole admitted that his college had been left at the post by the Billious maneuver. Hammers has been forced to close down until plans for a merger with Myth and Bolledyoke go through. All three schools have suffered large losses of students since the plan was announced.

The Grim lunch plans to lure the trade of the new co-eds away from other Spring Street competitors by planning a planned fifteen-foot extension on its building into a powder room. Lace curtains and tea tables for ladies are also being added.

Faculty Over-Joyed

Dr. Grunt Nobull, college chaplain, was overjoyed at the prospect. See PREXY, page 11

AMT Movies Planned For Dazed Dancers

Already dazed by the great numbers of gorgeous girls here for the weekend and the success of last night's dance, Williams men accompanied by their dates are expected to overflow Adams Memorial Theater this afternoon in attempts to see John Jay's latest movie "Singing Skis."

Although Carnival Chairman Paul Mort last week predicted "a great blizzard before Friday," rain and bare ground forced cancellation. See SKIING, page 11

Prof. Jolly Smeller, Female Consort Die As Faculty Bangsters Fire Finne's Flat

There was a hot time in the old town last night. Finne's Flat, the Billious College Administration building on Main Street, broke into fierce flame, and was burned to a pile of ashes at approximately 12:42 a. m. Two persons, a college professor and his unidentified female consort, were burned to death, and four other persons received minor burns.

The cops, led by Chief Boll, arrived shortly before the fourth flabby wall collapsed, and were elated to find that there was no one to rescue. The Swillville Fire Department did their usual efficient job.

State Feature

The professor was identified by several gleeful students as Jolly Smeller, head of the Listless department. His female companion's body was too scorched and charred to be immediately recognized, but several members of the English department commented, with reservations, that she looked like a soft Madams State Feature. No one would make any definite statement regarding her identity.

Many students and faculty were present at the fire. Students were jubilant. Faculty, looking inane, simple, and slap-happy, were believed to be about half the number of people that were seen leaving the building on the dead run. The other half were females, bedraggled and punchy, running in the direction of the Belch Center.

Chief Boll Mum

When asked if he had found out who or what the cause of the blaze was, local cop Boll was cautious. He used the same sane judgement that he had used in the infamous Rocksinox Case with Hammers College in November of 1946. He said, "The only clue we have is still hazy. We know the lights are on every night in Finne's Flat. We are not sure what time they go off. When they do, we think the faculty invite questionable women to the Flat, and have 'reefer' parties." He added, "Oh, by the way, this business is strictly on the Q.T."

The flame and its supposed cause have had nationwide repercussions. Robert Twitchum, of recent tea-stick fame, in a statement to the PA, PU, and SIN, said, "They should have turned off the lights, and started the party earlier. I didn't mind my first night, except for the noise of the new inmates coming in."

Backslapper Comments

Commenting dejectedly on the destruction of the ancient and creaking edifice, Prexy Finne Backslapper said, "We have long realized that the building was for the birds."

According to reliable sources, the Administration has taken over Sal Fling's and the Raw Deal as its new offices. All old records and files were destroyed, and Dean R. R. R. Rlvers was overheard to say: "Our most valuable loss was the cut records of the students, but since it is early in the term, not many of them will get away with extra cuts."

Is she it? Unknown Beauty believed to be consort of Jolly Smeller at reefer party.

Thrilled With New Hangout

The girls in the Dean's Office were thrilled with the idea of their new hangout. Said one, "Cheez, now we can see more of the collich fella's. It oughta be swell."

There was much to be seen at the fire. Professors Gliser and Borden of the Bath department were seen chucking mechanical drawing equipment out the third-floor windows into the outstretched arms of Professor Witchmond. College Treasurer Charles Make-out and Assistant Treasurer Oleo Brawn were noticed scurrying from the Treasurer's Office with their arms filled with unpaid bills for broken windows in the frosh quad. The building was still smoldering early this morning.

460 Couples

Any cooling effect from the icicle decorations of the gym at the college dance was purely imaginary, nor was the heat wave created by the 460 packed-in couples who listened to Tommy Reynolds, Pappy Moon, and the Octet, diminished by the torchy songs of Monica Lewis, who rendered some seven songs (at about $100 per warble). While the Tommy Reynolds Orchestra failed to give her good accompaniment she pleased the entire crowd with the singing of such numbers as "Far Away Places", "I'm in the Mood for Love", and "Embraceable You". Even wise-cracking Dan Mahoney was satisfied.

Except for the lack of rehearsal with Monica Lewis, the Reynolds combo delivered some very danceable music, keeping the emphasis on the "drifting and dreaming" style, but with enough of the other forms of music to leave nearly everyone content. The unrequited ski enthusiasts made up some of their disappointment by square dancing to the able calling of Pappy Moon.

Octet Sings

Intermission was the spot for the Octet, which called itself "decimated", but which actually gave good renditions of several songs, both new-to-Williams and traditional: "I Love the Ladies" and "She Had to Go Lose It at the Astor".

"Julius Caesar" was the AMT offering on both Friday and Saturday nights while John Jay's "Singing Skis" movie was shown there on Saturday afternoon. The basketball game and house parties rounded out Saturday night.

Until the inconsiderate rain of Sunday morning kept milk-punchers indoors, many of the gallant 600 reveled in walking about the campus and surrounding area; but eight o'clocks are eight o'clocks and another Williams Houseparty folded up.

Hopkins Hall Hot Seat

There was a hot time in the ladies' restroom in Hopkins Hall last Thursday at 12:30 p.m., when some unidentified person or persons tried to duplicate the Record's sensational Finne's Flat Fire by burning up the joint. The Gale Hose Co. was on the fireball as usual, however. Arriving with fire extinguishers and cocktail shakers, they had the flames soused in a matter of seconds. The only damage was a charred toilet seat. No burns have been reported at the infirmary.

Produced by Harry Lamborn, '51, and directed by Peggy Lamson, the radio version of the nineteenth century classic stars Edward Stack as Heathcliff, Hacky Kelly as Kathy, and Howard Erskine as Lockwood. In the supporting cast are such Cap and Bells regulars as Mrs. Marlam Rouse and Stan Pierce, while Paul Williams of WMS does the announcing.

Original Scripts

Following the conclusion of the Wuthering Heights serial, there will be four weeks in which the Cap and Bells Workshop will produce original scripts. The broadcasts, which originate in the studios of WMS atop Jesup Hall and are delayed over to WMNB, are presented Monday evenings at eight o'clock.

Patrol in the country to be officially recognized.

Nine Williamstown boys made the grade, ranging in age from twelve to fourteen years. Coached by Mr. Alton Perry, local insurance salesman who also handles the Senior Patrol tests, they are well trained in "winter first aid" and preventative measures such as marking hazards.

The youthful skiers will patrol at the National Junior Championships to be held at Thunderbolt Hill on Feb. 26-27, and were also scheduled to assist at the Winter Carnival until mud clots replaced snowballs on the Williams campus. The nine members are Randall Kezan, Jr., Leonard Widen, Thomas Walsh, Jr., John Ceely, Fred Lancto, William Talbot, Richard Tworig, Carleton Parker, Jr., and Alton Perry, Jr.

The Linnebach slides, shown on the cyclorama and constituting the only scenery variation, were neatly and artistically handled by William Tuttle. It is to be feared, however, that the slides lost a great deal of their effect because of the massive Ziegfeld structure—a square-edged bit of architecture which sat on the middle of the stage throughout the performance with all the unbudging permanence of the Coliseum itself. One feels that one could have done with less.

Dissell Excellent

James Dissell, as Julius Caesar, was the most consistently excellent member of the cast; his handling of the part (not a particularly complex one) showed a control of voice and body movement which represent certainly his best performance to date. His arrogant in the lines alone, because it definitely was not in Jarrett's interpretation.

Caesar's wife, Calpurnia, was played by Helen Bryne Kelly in a way which was adequate, but not outstanding. The role isn't much of a challenge, and Mrs. Kelly had no trouble communicating the emotional meaning of the part, but her diction was not particularly good.

Chinman Interesting

Richard A. Chinman's performance as Marc Antony was quite interesting. His voice is naturally rich and clear, and when used well—as it was in parts of the funeral scene, for example—it was moving and impressive. His tendency, however, was to let it get out of control—to raise his

UC president Henry Strong pointed out that those who did not pay the UC tax are now required to pay a four dollar assessment. Several undergraduates have sent in checks for the original assessment, three dollars, he said. They will be listed as incomplete in payment until the additional dollar is paid.

A number of students still have not signed honor system cards, it was announced. The various house presidents have been given the cards, with the request that they be turned in within the next week. It was also announced that UC treasurer Richard Wells '49 has a copy of the UC Budget which is open for anyone's inspection.

460 Couples

Any cooling effect from the icicle decorations of the gym at the college dance was purely imaginary, nor was the heat wave created by the 460 packed-in couples who listened to Tommy Reynolds, Pappy Moon, and the Octet, diminished by the torchy songs of Monica Lewis, who rendered some seven songs (at about $100 per warble). While the Tommy Reynolds Orchestra failed to give her good accompaniment she pleased the entire crowd with the singing of such numbers as "Far Away Places", "I'm in the Mood for Love", and "Embraceable You". Even wise-cracking Dan Mahoney was satisfied.

Except for the lack of rehearsal with Monica Lewis, the Reynolds combo delivered some very danceable music, keeping the emphasis on the "drifting and dreaming" style, but with enough of the other forms of music to leave nearly everyone content. The unrequited ski enthusiasts made up some of their disappointment by square dancing to the able calling of Pappy Moon.

Octet Sings

Intermission was the spot for the Octet, which called itself "decimated", but which actually gave good renditions of several songs, both new-to-Williams and traditional; "I Love the Ladies" and "She Had to Go Lose It at the Astor".

"Julius Caesar" was the AMT offering on both Friday and Saturday nights while John Jay's "Singing Skis" movie was shown there on Saturday afternoon. The basketball game and house parties rounded out Saturday night. Until the inconsiderate rain of Sunday morning kept milk-punchers indoors, many of the gallant 600 revelled in walking about the campus and surrounding area; but eight o'clocks are eight o'clocks and another Williams Houseparty folded up.

Hopkins Hall Hot Seat

There was a hot time in the ladies' restroom in Hopkins Hall last Thursday at 12:30 p.m., when some unidentified person or persons tried to duplicate the Record's sensational Finne's Fiat Fire by burning up the joint. The Gale Hose Co. was on the fireball as usual, however. Arriving with fire extinguishers and cocktail shakers, they had the flames soused in a matter of seconds. The only damage was a charred toilet seat. No burns have been reported at the infirmary.

Original Scripts
 Following the conclusion of the Wuthering Heights serial, there will be four weeks in which the Cap and Bella Workshop will produce original scripts. The broad-casts, which originate in the studios of WMS atop Jéau Hall and are delayed over to WMNB, are presented Monday evenings at eight o'clock.

Patrol in the country to be officially recognized.
 Nine Williamstown boys made the grade, ranging in age from twelve to fourteen years. Coached by Mr. Alton Perry, local insurance salesman who also handles the Senior Patrol tests, they are well trained in "winter first aid" and preventative measures such as marking hazards.
 The youthful skiers will patrol at the National Junior Championships to be held at Thunderbolt Hill on Feb. 26-27, and were also scheduled to assist at the Winter Carnival until mud clots replaced snowballs on the Williams campus. The nine members are Randall Kezan, Jr., Leonard Widen, Thomas Walsh, Jr., John Ceely, Fred Lanco, William Talbot, Richard Tworig, Carleton Parker, Jr., and Alton Perry, Jr.

The Linnebach slides, shown on the cyclorama and constituting the only scenery variation, were neatly and artistically handled by William Tuttle. It is to be feared, however, that the slides lost a great deal of their effect because of the massive Ziegfeld structure—a square-edged bit of architecture which sat on the middle of the stage throughout the performance with all the unbudging permanence of the Coliseum itself. One feels that one could have done with less.
Dissell Excellent
 James Dissell, as Julius Caesar, was the most consistently excellent member of the cast; his handling of the part (not a particularly complex one) showed a control of voice and body movement which represent certainly his best performance to date. His arrogant dumb wonder — was to be found in the lines alone, because it definitely was not in Jarrett's interpretation.

 Caesar's wife, Calpurnia, was played by Helen Bryne Kelly in a way which was adequate, but not outstanding. The role isn't much of a challenge, and Mrs. Kelly had no trouble communicating the emotional meaning of the part, but her diction was not particularly good.
Chinman Interesting
 Richard A. Chinman's performance as Marc Antony was quite interesting. His voice is naturally rich and clear, and when used well — as it was in parts of the funeral scene, for example — it was moving and impressive. His tendency, however, was to let it get out of control — to raise his this is the weekend that Bennington opens its fall term as well as the weekend that the new musical will be staged.

 UC president Henry Strong pointed out that those who did not pay the UC tax are now required to pay a four dollar assessment. Several undergraduates have sent in checks for the original assessment, three dollars, he said. They will be listed as incomplete in payment until the additional dollar is paid.
 A number of students still have not signed honor system cards, it was announced. The various house presidents have been given the cards, with the request that they be turned in within the next week. It was also announced that UC treasurer Richard Wells'49 has a copy of the UC Budget which is open for anyone's inspection.

Highlights Carnival

460 Couples Attend Dance; Movie Shown

Spring Weather Causes Ski Meet Cancellation; Monica, Octet Sing

"Oh my", said Poo ruefully, "no more potted honey..."

All of which is the general sentiment expressed by those Williams men who squired some 600 sweet young things of varying shades of dress, sobriety and beauty at the "Winter Carnival" of the past weekend.

The beserk Berkshire weather unfortunately cancelled the planned ski meet, but this unexpected spring-time highlighted all the other activities, including basketball with Hofstra, the AMT's "Julius Caesar", movies by John Jay, and the college dance in Lasell Gym.

460 Couples

Any cooling effect from the icicle decorations of the gym at the college dance was purely imaginary, nor was the heat wave created by the 460 packed-in couples who listened to Tommy Reynolds, Pappy Moon, and the Octet, diminished by the torchy songs of Monica Lewis, who rendered some seven songs (at about $100 per warble). While the Tommy Reynolds Orchestra failed to give her good accompaniment she pleased the entire crowd with the singing of such numbers as "Far Away Places", "I'm in the Mood for Love", and "Embraceable You". Even wise-cracking Dan Mahoney was satisfied.

Except for the lack of rehearsal with Monica Lewis, the Reynolds combo delivered some very danceable dance music, keeping the emphasis on the "drifting and dreaming" style, but with enough of the other forms of music to leave nearly everyone content. The unrequited ski enthusiasts made up some of their disappointment by square dancing to the able calling of Pappy Moon.

Octet Sings

Intermission was the spot for the Octet, which called itself "decimated", but which actually gave good renditions of several songs, both new-to-Williams and traditional; "I Love the Ladies" and "She Had to Go Lose It at the Astor".

"Julius Caesar" was the AMT offering on both Friday and Saturday nights while John Jay's "Singing Skis" movie was shown there on Saturday afternoon. The basketball game and house parties rounded out Saturday night.

Until the inconsiderate rain of Sunday morning kept milk-punchers indoors, many of the gallant 600 reveled in walking about the campus and surrounding area; but eight o'clocks are eight o'clocks and another Williams Houseparty folded up.

The Gale Hose Co. was on the fireball as usual, however. Arriving with fire extinguishers and cocktail shakers, they had the flames soused in a matter of seconds. The only damage was a charred toilet seat. No burns have been reported at the infirmary.

THE WILLIAMS RECORD, SATURDAY, FEB. 19, 1949

GET RID OF HOUSEPARTY DATES EARLY SUNDAY — Setting the trend for Williams men with dates is "Canyon" Cushman, prominent senior, who bids his Skidmore date farewell at 5 a. m. Sunday morning. "She sure was a red hot date!" coughs "Canyon" through the smoke, "but there's no point in keeping her around all day Sunday when things drag so. There's not enough milk punch for everybody anyway."

Skiing ---

celebration of the scheduled ski meet and substitution of Jay's vicarious thrills. Olympic skiers and other experts will be seen flashing down the trails of ten ski establishments stretching from Stowe, Vermont to Sun Valley, Idaho. Cost of the technicolor flicks, starting at 3 p. m., will be "only sixty cents a head," according to Mort.

Smith Tops

Smith college's 68 beauties led the parade of 540 girls to Williamstown yesterday, followed by 34 from Holyoke and 31 from Vassar. The Garfield Club has the most dates, 87, and DU the second most, 41, while the rest of the houses averaged about 30 each.

Dancers last night were able to fit their moods to the music of Pappy Moon and Tommy Reynolds, as they alternated between the red-draped wrestling room and the less energetic relaxation to be found in the main gym. Feature attraction of the evening was Monica Lewis, singing a variety of numbers in a torchy style, while the crowning of the Winter Carnival Queen and the crooning of the Williams Octet added a great deal to the entertainment.

Festivities

Festivities will boom to a close tonight and Sunday with nine dances planned at various social units this evening and numerous milk punch parties set for tomorrow. The Cap and Bells production of Julius Caesar and the varsity basketball game with Hofstra will provide variety for the Carnival tonight.

pects of teaching the school's new course in advice to the lovelorn. "In the navy, I was a big help to the gobbies," he modestly said. "I know that I'll be able to do the same thing for the Billious boys and girls."

Prof. Hay Funt of the English Department locked himself in his room with fourteen jugs of corn whiskey shortly after the announcement was made. "I'm adding some laughs to my course in Restoration Literature," he said. "It needs a little sex for mixed company."

Spring Weather Causes
Ski Meet Cancellation;
Monica, Octet Sing

"Oh my", said Poo ruefully, "no more potted honey..." All of which is the general sentiment expressed by those Williams men who squired some 600 sweet young things of varying shades of dress, sobriety and beauty at the "Winter Carnival" of the past weekend.

The beserk Berkshire weather unfortunately cancelled the planned ski meet, but this unexpected spring-time highlighted all the other activities, including basketball with Hofstra, the AMT's "Julius Caesar", movies by John Jay, and the college dance in Lasell Gym.

460 Couples

Any cooling effect from the icicle decorations of the gym at the college dance was purely imaginary, nor was the heat wave created by the 460 packed-in couples who listened to Tommy Reynolds, Pappy Moon, and the Octet, diminished by the torchy songs of Monica Lewis, who rendered some seven songs (at about $100 per warble). While the Tommy Reynolds Orchestra failed to give her good accompaniment she pleased the entire crowd with the singing of such numbers as "Far Away Places", "I'm in the Mood for Love", and "Embraceable You". Even wise-cracking Dan Mahoney was satisfied.

Except for the lack of rehearsal with Monica Lewis, the Reynolds combo delivered some very danceable dance music, keeping the emphasis on the "drifting and dreaming" style, but with enough of the other forms of music to leave nearly everyone content. The unrequited ski enthusiasts made up some of their disappointment by square dancing to the able calling of Pappy Moon.

Octet Sings

Intermission was the spot for the Octet, which called itself "decimated", but which actually gave good renditions of several songs, both new-to-Williams and traditional, "I Love the Ladies" and "She Had to Go Lose It at the Astor".

"Julius Caesar" was the AMT offering on both Friday and Saturday nights while John Jay's "Singing Skis" movie was shown there on Saturday afternoon. The basketball game and house parties rounded out Saturday night. Until the inconsiderate rain of Sunday morning kept milk-punchers indoors, many of the gallant 600 reveled in walking about the campus and surrounding area; but eight o'clocks are eight o'clocks and another Williams Houseparty folded up.

Hopkins Hall Hot Seat

There was a hot time in the ladies' restroom in Hopkins Hall last Thursday at 12:30 p.m., when some unidentified person or persons tried to duplicate the Record's sensational Finne's Flat Fire by burning up the joint. The Gale Hose Co. was on the fireball as usual, however. Arriving with fire extinguishers and cocktail shakers, they had the flames soused in a matter of seconds. The only damage was a charred toilet seat. No burns have been reported at the infirmary.

novel, "Wuthering Heights," last Monday evening. Produced by Harry Lamborn, '51, and directed by Peggy Lamborn, the radio version of the nineteenth century classic stars Edward Stack as Heathcliff, Hacky Kelly as Kathy, and Howard Erskine as Lockwood. In the supporting cast are such Cap and Bells regulars as Mrs. Mariam Rouse and Stan Pierce, while Paul Williams of WMS does the announcing.

Original Scripts

Following the conclusion of the Wuthering Heights serial, there will be four weeks in which the Cap and Bells Workshop will produce original scripts. The broadcasts, which originate in the studios of WMS atop Jesup Hall and are delayed over to WMNB, are presented Monday evenings at eight o'clock.

Patrol in the country to be officially recognized.

Nine Williamstown boys made the grade, ranging in age from twelve to fourteen years. Coached by Mr. Alton Perry, local insurance salesman who also handles the Senior Patrol tests, they are well trained in "winter first aid" and preventative measures such as marking hazards.

The youthful skiers will patrol at the National Junior Championships to be held at Thunderbolt Hill on Feb. 26-27, and were also scheduled to assist at the Winter Carnival until mud clots replaced snowballs on the Williams campus. The nine members are Randall Kezan, Jr., Leonard Widen, Thomas Walsh, Jr., John Ceely, Fred Lancto, William Talbot, Richard Tworiz, Carleton Parker, Jr., and Alton Perry, Jr.

The Linnebach slides, shown on the cyclorams and constituting the only scenery variation, were neatly and artistically handled by William Tuttle. It is to be feared, however, that the slides lost a great deal of their effect because of the massive Ziegfeld structure—a square-edged bit of architecture which sat on the middle of the stage throughout the performance with all the unbudging permanence of the Coliseum itself. One feels that one could have done with less.

Dissell Excellent

James Dissell, as Julius Caesar, was the most consistently excellent member of the cast; his handling of the part (not a particularly complex one) showed a command of voice and body movement which represent certainly his best performance to date. His arrogant dumb wonder — was to be found in the lines alone, because it definitely was not in Jarrett's interpretation.

Caesar's wife, Calpurnia, was played by Helen Bryne Kelly in a way which was adequate, but not outstanding. The role isn't much of a challenge, and Mrs. Kelly had no trouble communicating the emotional meaning of the part, but her diction was not particularly good.

Chinman Interesting

Richard A. Chinman's performance as Marc Antony was quite interesting. His voice is naturally rich and clear, and when used well — as it was in parts of the funeral scene, for example — it was moving and impressive. His tendency, however, was to let it get out of control — to raise his

Did Equity Exalt?

by Lois Lane

A heart-burning tall, as it was told by lovely Lena Thighena to Lois Lane of the Record Staff.

It was a gay, mad whirl, that Saturday night in the Sig Phi Goatroom, an extravaganza of Clinking Glasses, Blaring Music, and Vibrant Youths swaying to and fro with their College Sweethearts. From the Dark Corners of the dimly lighted dance floor one could hear the Carefree Giggling of Carnival Cuties and the Heavy Panting of their Crooked Escorts.

Axelgrease Goofellow wouldn't have missed it for the world. Dancing in his Strong Arms was his Girl, the long, low, Lovely Lena Thighena, (see cut page 3) the Rosy Bloom of Innocence fresh upon her Painted Check.

Then suddenly like a Ravishing Hyena, Slinking from the Shadows, came Serutan Slob, Twirling his Mustache and caressing her Warm, Pulsating Body with his Wolf-like Gaze. Axel Struggled Vallantly to maneuver Poor Lena away from the Lynx-eyed Beast. But Too Late! SERUTAN CUT IN!

"Go Away, Go Away! You Dispicable Cad!" intoned Axel. "I know Your Kind, you Hideous Beast! You shall not Lay a Finger upon my Sweet Lena!"

"Go away, Sonny, You bother me!" sneered the Leering Serpent, as he enfolded Lena's Pliant, Sensuous, Body in his Greedy Embrace.

"Like to dance?" leered the Loathsome Snake.

"Oh yes!" cooed Lena. "I like to do it very much."

"Oh Neat!" the Sinful Fiend exclaimed. "That's even better than dancing." Lena looked at him reproachfully. A Short Silence ensued.

You may only be a Dry-Cleaner's Daughter, but you sure press well," smirked the Depraved Monster, showing his Yellow Teeth.

"You crease a pretty Hot Pair of Pants yourself, Big Boy," retorted Lena, who was always Quick on the Comeback. She had forgotten all about Axel.

That Sad-Eyed Youth Moped about with Downcast Visage. Laughter and Joy were not for him tonight. When his Frat. Bros.

tried to Get At the Root of the Trouble, he only replied, "Your Mother's T-Shirt!" and Skulked Away.

He made the Rounds after that. From Frat to Frat he Sunk Ever Deeper into the Depths of Depravity and Drunkenness. Oh, that this Terrible Thing should happen, and all because of that — shall I say it — that Silmy Serutan Slob. Ugh!

His Horrible Orgy brought him at length to that Den of Iniquity, that House of the Yellow Sin, Finne's Flat. IT WAS THE LAST PLACE IN WHICH AXEL WAS EVER SEEN ALIVE.

His Emaciated Body was Accidentally Discovered three months later on the ninth tier by Karl Sparkle. He was Sprawled Crazily, a bottle of Schenley's Black in one hand and his Schlick Ejector in the other. A Reefer dangled from his Bloodless Lips. His Life's Blood had Long Since flowed from his slashed Wrists and dried on the entire 1908-9 issue of the National Geographic, a bill for which was promptly sent by Otto Braun to Axel's Grief-stricken Parents.

As soon as Karl had Sufficiently Recovered from the Shocking Spectacle, he Summoned the Cops. Chief Boll was the First on the Scene. "What a spoiled boy Axel is!" the Chief Commented Briefly, keeping his best profile toward the Eager Camermen and Probing Reporters.

The Homicide Squad Quickly Traced the Suspect Villian to the Lair of Crime where he Hung Out on Lower Spring Street. Brought to Justice before Judge Izzy Booby, he had Only This to Say, "That kid was deadly! I only wanted to give the Babe a Good Time."

The Sagacious Judge Meted Out Justice with an Iron Hand. "You mebbe lay offa da veed for two weeks," he squeaked.

"You bet your sweet armpit," snarled the Foul Felon, flashing a needle Loaded with Coke. "Have a little shot, Judgey!" he hissed.

It's up to you, Dear Readers. Did Justice Triumph for Serutan Slob? Did he deserve Justice? Frankly, we couldn't care less.

Chopped!

We'd NEVER give you the AXE, Honey!

Picked-Up

Word of this subversity leaked out through a letter mis-sent to "Strife" magazine last week. Chief Boll, local commissar, immediately plodded into action, conscripting the Brownie troop and setting up picket lines along the Soft Madams border. At the end of the week's activity, the chief demurely commented: "Duh, Yeah, I'd like to see anybody try and tramp through our elms."

As a further precaution one of the more vulnerable elms — just south of Hopkins — was dismantled and is now being preserved somewhere.

Faculty Putsch

The faculty house, fringed with a police cordon and divested of the ringleaders, is now a local shrine in Northern Berkshire. In what will be known as the "Bowling-alley Putsch", clean-cut capitalist students made short work of the offenders over the issue mysteriously linked with some final examinations.

Hence, demonstrating the eternal preservation of the American Way of Life, Upper-Class Division, peace again reigns in the little valley nestled in the hills. Official observers stated it was uncertain where that gorgeous blond fit in, but she certainly made the case more interesting.

Hockey Faces Army Tonight

Lack Of Skating Hurts Eph's Win Chances

The Williams hockey team will take on the West Point cadets tonight on Army's Smith Rink in what should be a hard and closely played contest.

Due to the unseasonal weather, the Ephmen have not had the skating necessary to put them in top shape for the extra-large rink. Williams fought a 2-2 tie with the cadets last year, and both squads have most of last year's lettermen back. The Army team beat Middlebury, 5-2. Williams beat the same team last week, 4-0.

Coach Frank Bell will be banking for scoring on his first two lines of Co-capt. Charlie Huntington and Tom Benson, with Tom Healy on left wing; Doug Coleman will center Bucky Marchese and Mark Reynolds. Playing on defense will be Don Ratcliffe, Dud Irwin, and George Owen. Guarding the nets will be Dave Pynchon, who scored his second shutout of the season against Middlebury.

Last Wednesday afternoon the Purple trounced Suffolk at the Springfield Coliseum, 8-2. The second line led the attack with three goals. The first line and Ratcliffe each had two while the third line contributed one.

Ratcliffe opened the scoring with two unassisted goals in the first period. There was no more scoring until the second stanza, when Huntington scored, assisted by Benson and Healy. The first Suffolk goal came at 4:30 of this period when Bob Morgan, whose play for the visitors was outstanding, scored unassisted. After Williams goals by Marchese, Bill Swan, and Coleman, the period ended with the score 8-1.

Third period goals were scored by Benson, unassisted, and Coleman, assisted by Reynolds. A second Suffolk goal was added by Ryan to make the final count 8-2.

Squashers Play At West Point

Chafe Judges Match Outcome As Tossup

With their chance to make a racquet at the Carnival ball squashed by the necessity of playing away, Coach Clarence Chafe's men will vie with Army today. Encouraged by their recent 8-1 conquests of Wesleyan and Trinity, the Purple should meet the West Pointers on even terms, according to Coach Chafe, who predicted a 5-4 victory for one team or the other.

Rich Allen has returned to the number one spot in the Eph lineup, followed by Bill Mikel, Randy Thomas, Jerry Dresser, George Muller, Captain Frank Donnelly, George Wright, John Worcester, and George Kneass. The freshmen racquetters, headed by Tom Adkins and Laird Barber, will take on the Cadets' piebe team in an effort to even their season's record at one victory and one defeat.

Armpitmen Face Hofstra

Unbeaten Matmen In 4th Encounter

This afternoon at Hempstead, Long Island, the Varsity Wrestling team faces Hofstra College in their season's fourth encounter. A win today should mean an undefeated season for the Purple; Amherst and Wesleyan, the remaining opponents, are far outclassed by comparative scores.

Last year, the Ephs handed Hofstra an 18-13 defeat. Little is known of their squad's strength this year, Dick Fusco, DeAngelis and Suprina should give them their main power in the middleweight classes.

The Williams line-up will be: See ARMPITMEN, Page 14

Green Romps Eph Swimmers

40-35 Defeat Is Second Of Year

by Herb Mohring

A Dartmouth team that was much better than prior reports had indicated, a strange pool, and a few bad breaks combined to hand the Williams swimmers their second setback of the year, a 40-35 drubbing Wednesday at Hanover.

Even though Swede Svenson did his best 100 time of the year, Dartmouth's Frank Bruch was able to overcome Hank Wineman's early lead in the medley relay. The Green Sophomore star, Jack McIntyre, widened his slight early lead over Ray Baldwin to set a new Dartmouth record, 2:59.7.

Both Reid and Sandy Lambert broke 2:20 to take eight points in the 220, but Mo Murray missed the turn in the 50, the first bad break of the afternoon, and was never able to regain his early lead. The Dartmouth swimmers made a clean sweep of the race in 2:46, a time the Mo has bettered several times lately.

Three In Row

The Dartmouth divers, Bob Bowler and Dick Rogers were just too much for Cliff Stowers and Bill Sperry. When Chuck Ryan and Dick McIntyre took the third clean sweep in a row in the 100 freestyle, the meet was about over for Williams, Dartmouth led 30-11.

Hank Wineman, saving himself for the final relay, missed three turns, loafed through most of the race, and still managed to float to the finish two yards in the lead. Ted Lamot, however, a little too used to gauging his speed by his distance behind Hank held back too long, and only took third.

Solberg Romps

Chuck Solberg, the Dartmouth breast-stroke ace, romped to the finish over half a length ahead to sew the meet up as far as points were concerned, but Svenson again swam his best time of the year to touch out Dartmouth's Osbourne for second.

After Lambert and Reid finished 1-2 in the 440 as expected, a new Williams relay of Murray, Wineman, Rueckert and Baldwin managed to barely touch out a Green relay that didn't include McIntyre in the most thrilling race of the afternoon.

Runners Prep For IC4A's

Team To Run Longer Race In Fast Meet

With two clean cut victories out of three mile relay matches to their credit, Tony Plansky's winter batonmen are now working hard in preparation for the Intercollegiate Championships to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York, one week from tonight. However, instead of the usual mile relay effort, Coach Plansky has decided to enter his quartet in the two mile relay championship.

Next Saturday's races are the most difficult ones in which to place since the action consists of a number of elimination heats and then a final race to determine the best indoor college relay teams in the country. Up to now the Purple runners have been matched with other college outfits of their caliber but, in the IC4A meet on Saturday, it is winner take all.

Same Combination

The former mile relay team of Bill Barney, Walt Ziegenhals, Gordon Smith and Kev Delany is at present pounding the boards, so as to be ready for their half mile chores next week. Veteran sprinters Andy Bacharach and Scottie Brooks are entered in the 50 yard dash in the same meet. If the relay team does not hit expectations in practice, Plansky will run Barney and Smith in the 600 while Delany and Ziegenhals compete in the 1000 Yard Run.

Williams has not garnered an IC4A point since the crack mile relay of 1941 placed second in very fast company. Plansky feels that the team has an excellent chance of breaking eight minutes at the distance, which might be good enough for a scoring place. In their previous efforts this season, the relaymen started off the season by losing a close mile race to Amherst after third man Gordy Smith fell and anchorman Kev Delany just missed making up the necessary yardage to beat Scott of Amherst. This marked the first relay loss to a Little Three opponent in three years.

Decisive Wins

At the Millrose Games in New York the following week, leadoff Bill Barney put the Ephmen in front and at the finish, this lead had been lengthened to fifty yards. In their third start, the Boston A. A. Games, the batonmen topped their 3:29.7 Millrose time and led from start to finish for a fine 3:27.7 clocking.

Spring Weather Causes Ski Meet Cancellation; Monica, Octet Sing

"Oh my", said Poo ruefully, "no more potted honey..."

All of which is the general sentiment expressed by those Williams men who squired some 600 sweet young things of varying shades of dress, sobriety and beauty at the "Winter Carnival" of the past weekend.

The beserk Berkshire weather unfortunately cancelled the planned ski meet, but this unexpected spring-time highlighted all the other activities, including basketball with Hofstra, the AMT's "Julius Caesar", movies by John Jay, and the college dance in Lasell Gym.

460 Couples

Any cooling effect from the icicle decorations of the gym at the college dance was purely imaginary, nor was the heat wave created by the 460 packed-in couples who listened to Tommy Reynolds, Pappy Moon, and the Octet, diminished by the torchy songs of Monica Lewis, who rendered some seven songs (at about $100 per warble). While the Tommy Reynolds Orchestra failed to give her good accompaniment she pleased the entire crowd with the singing of such numbers as "Far Away Places", "I'm in the Mood for Love", and "Embraceable You". Even wise-cracking Dan Mahoney was satisfied.

Except for the lack of rehearsal with Monica Lewis, the Reynolds combo delivered some very danceable dance music, keeping the emphasis on the "drifting and dreaming" style, but with enough of the other forms of music to leave nearly everyone content. The unrequited ski enthusiasts made up some of their disappointment by square dancing to the able calling of Pappy Moon.

Octet Sings

Intermission was the spot for the Octet, which called itself "decimated", but which actually gave good renditions of several songs, both new-to-Williams and traditional; "I Love the Ladies" and "She Had to Go Lose It at the Astor".

"Julius Caesar" was the AMT offering on both Friday and Saturday nights while John Jay's "Singing Skis" movie was shown there on Saturday afternoon. The basketball game and house parties rounded out Saturday night.

Until the inconsiderate rain of Sunday morning kept milk-punchers indoors, many of the gallant 600 revelled in walking about the campus and surrounding area; but eight o'clocks are eight o'clocks and another Williams Houseparty folded up.

Hopkins Hall Hot Seat

There was a hot time in the ladies' restroom in Hopkins Hall last Thursday at 12:30 p.m., when some unidentified person or persons tried to duplicate the Record's sensational Finne's Flat Fire by burning up the joint. The Gale Hose Co. was on the fireball as usual, however. Arriving with fire extinguishers and cocktail shakers, they had the flames soused in a matter of seconds. The only damage was a charred toilet seat. No burns have been reported at the infirmary.

WHAT ABOUT YOUR HONEYMOON PLANS?

Are you searching for a place which will completely fulfill your honeymoon dreams? A beautiful spot, of course, with seclusion and privacy, yet a place where all are congenial young people of your own kind, all starting married life together. Of course, it's your vacation too, so you'll want rest and recreation, and plenty of tempting food (we serve breakfast until 11:00). The Farm is nestled in a valley which is high in the tranquil Poconos. It is a lovely old homestead, beside a mountain stream. Open all year. Rates include meals. A cottage all your own (heated with bath), or cozy, home-like rooms with bath. Mention dates if you wish our "Three Honeymoon Plans."

Wuthering Heights

"Wuthering Heights," last Monday evening. Produced by Harry Lamborn, '51, and directed by Peggy Lamson, the radio version of the nineteenth century classic stars Edward Stack as Heathcliff, Hacky Kelly as Kathy, and Howard Erskine as Lockwood. In the supporting cast are such Cap and Bells regulars as Mrs. Mariam Rouse and Stan Pierce, while Paul Williams of WMS does the announcing.

Original Scripts

Following the conclusion of the Wuthering Heights serial, there will be four weeks in which the Cap and Bells Workshop will produce original scripts. The broadcasts, which originate in the studios of WMS atop Jesup Hall and are delayed over to WMNB, are presented Monday evenings at eight o'clock.

Patrol in the country to be officially recognized.

Nine Williamstown boys made the grade, ranging in age from twelve to fourteen years. Coached by Mr. Alton Perry, local insurance salesman who also handles the Senior Patrol tests, they are well trained in "winter first aid" and preventative measures such as marking hazards.

The youthful skiers will patrol at the National Junior Championships to be held at Thunderbolt Hill on Feb. 26-27, and were also scheduled to assist at the Winter Carnival until mud clots replaced snowballs on the Williams campus. The nine members are Randall Kezan, Jr., Leonard Widen, Thomas Walsh, Jr., John Ceely, Fredman Lancto, William Talbot, Richard Tworig, Carleton Parker, Jr., and Alton Perry, Jr.

The Linnebach slides, shown on the cyclorama and constituting the only scenery variation, were neatly and artistically handled by William Tuttle.

It is to be feared, however, that the slides lost a great deal of their effect because of the massive Ziegfeld structure—a square-edged bit of architecture which sat on the middle of the stage throughout the performance with all the unbudging permanence of the Coliseum itself. One feels that one could have done with less.

Dissell Excellent

James Dissell, as Julius Caesar, was the most consistently excellent member of the cast; his handling of the part (not a particularly complex one) showed a control of voice, and body movement which represent certainly his best performance to date. His arrogant wonder — was to be found in the lines alone, because it definitely was not in Jarrett's interpretation.

Caesar's wife, Calpurnia, was played by Helen Bryne Kelly in a way which was adequate, but not outstanding. The role isn't much of a challenge, and Mrs. Kelly had no trouble communicating the emotional meaning of the part, but her diction was not particularly good.

Chinaman Interesting

Richard A. Chinman's performance as Marc Antony was quite interesting. His voice is naturally rich and clear, and when used well — as it was in parts of the funeral scene, for example — it was moving and impressive. His tendency, however, was to let it get out of control — to raise his voice to a shout. See CRITIC, Page 4

UC president Henry Strong pointed out that those who did not pay the UC tax are now required to pay a four dollar assessment. Several undergraduates have sent in checks for the original assessment, three dollars, he said. They will be listed as incomplete in payment until the additional dollar is paid.

A number of students still have not signed honor system cards, it was announced. The various house presidents have been given the cards, with the request that they be turned in within the next week. It was also announced that UC treasurer Richard Wells'49 has a copy of the UC Budget which is open for anyone's inspection.

Bart Conant at 175 lbs. won the meet by drawing J. Smith in a bout as even as the 2-2 score indicates. Conant got the takedown after two minutes of a confusing neutral tangle. Two seconds more time advantage for Conant would have won the decision.

The unlimited event featured Williams' second fall as John Stillwell wore down Thomas of Coast Guard and finished with a chancery and bar arm after eight minutes, fifteen seconds. This brought the meet's final score to 21-10.

Weary Hoopsters Gird For 3rd Night Stand

Basketball will take over where Monica Lewis left off when Coach Dale Burnett's varsity basketball team meets Hofstra at 8 tonight, in what should be a close and hard-fought game for a large houseparty crowd.

Williams defeated Hofstra, 59-57, on December 28, in the first of four contests on an otherwise unsuccessful Christmas trip.

This will be the third game in four nights for the Ephmen, and substitutes probably will see plenty of action in place of the tired regulars. Burnett's hoopsters played North Adams State Teachers' College in a March of Dimes exhibition Thursday evening, after performing at the University of Massachusetts the night before.

The same five men who started the Amherst game before a huge Homecoming crowd here a week ago probably will start tonight. Chuck Pusey at center, high-scorer George Ditmar and Captain Jack Mason at the guards, and sophomores Dewey Fagerburg and Bob Larson at the forward posts form a capable first five that can reach great heights if they ever all get started at once.

Set-shot artist Jack Fraser, 6'6" rebounder Harry Sheehy, and dead-eyed George Bush are only a step behind the starters. Bud Cool, Jerry Page, and Howie Taylor are experienced performers, and sophomore guard Dave Jackson has looked good in limited action to date. Any of these men could emerge as the star of tonight's contest.

Hofstra Strong

Although nosed out by the Williams five in late December, Hofstra has a strong team that will be hard to beat. The Long Island team crushed Amherst by a 72-44 count on the latter's home floor on January 19, and gave Manhattan College a good fight before losing 60-73 earlier in the season.

Williams Wrestlers Defeat Hofstra, 20-8; Cubs Win

Shorb's Pin Sparks Fourth Victory

Frosh Also Unbeaten; Down Mt. Hermon

by M. C. Behre

In two away meets last weekend both the varsity and freshmen won their matches to remain undefeated this season. Meeting Hofstra College at Hempstead, the varsity gained a 20-8 count while the cubs met Mount Hermon and triumphed 23-13. Paul Shorb's pin and decisions for Bill Kelton, Scrubby Perry, Green Carleton, Bart Conant, and John Stillwell formed the Williams score while the home team managed only one pin and decision.

The 121 lb. opener was an 8-4 victory for Bill Kelton. His opponent, Carman, gained an early lead but was worn down and easily out-pointed with time advantage. The next encounter, between Captain Paul Cook and Hofstra's Captain Dick Fusco tied the score when the latter took an 3-3 decision.

Perry, Shorb Triumph

The 136 lb. event was another Williams decision by Scrubby Perry. Although knocked out in the second period, Perry had control throughout and outpointed DeAngelis 10-2. The sole Williams pin was done by Paul Shorb fighting Cuitera at 145 lbs. With the fall coming after one minute, fifty-seven seconds of the first period, this event was the meet's shortest and most one-sided.

Meeting Hofstra's Kiely at 155 lbs., Green Carleton had little trouble and piled up a 14-6 score for the decision. Unfortunately, the 165 lb match shattered Bill Leitzinger's record at thirteen straight wins in nine dual matches and in the New England's. Supina his formidable opponent, made a fall by a crucifix hold in three minutes fifty seconds.

Bart Conant, wrestling Trinkle at 175 lbs., had complete control in his match and took a 6-0 decision to clinch the Williams victory. The last match between John Stillwell and Sibilla at Unlimited was about the same. Stillwell took the decision with a score of 6-2 setting the final count at 20 for Williams and 8 for Hofstra.

Record Competition Starts Tonight

The Williams Record is opening its second semester competition for positions on the editorial staff, at 12:45 today in the editorial office of the Record in Jesup Hall.

All types of reporting jobs are open - feature, news and sports. No experience is necessary. Any freshman or sophomores with a flair for writing or a nose for news should attend the meeting tonight.

Magical Show To Be Given

Program To Feature Mind-Reading Tricks

"Mystery Night" will be presented by "The Tuckers" on this Saturday at the Adams Memorial Theater in a benefit performance sponsored by the Congregational Evening Club of the Williamstown Congregational Church.

Betty Tucker, the mind-reader, and Tommy, her magic-making husband, are known professionally as "The Tuckers," and their performances are the result of fifteen years' professional experience both in this country and in more than a dozen others. Although their program appeals particularly to adults, the Tuckers have agreed to stage a special children's matinee Saturday afternoon. Tickets for the evening performance are available at the College Bookstore in Williamstown for $1.20 including tax.

Predicted Series

To quote from previous press notices - "In the middle of all the speculation regarding the outcome of the 1948 World Series Baseball Games, members of the Boston Press were astounded by a young and beautiful blonde gal who calmly announced that she could correctly predict the winner, the number of games that would be played, and the score of the final game. Furthermore, she did it. She even wrote it down in advance and left it with them to be opened after the final game. The prediction was sad news for the Boston ball fans, but nonetheless correct. Her explanation of how she did it: even more staggering than the prediction itself. She said it was easy if you read minds!"

Juniors Form Ski Patrol

Billville Boys To Help At National Ski Meet

Skiers on Sheep Hill two Saturdays ago who noticed a determined band of youngsters in black parkas struggling with a toboggan were witnessing the final testing of the first Junior Ski Patrol in the country to be officially recognized.

Nine Williamstown boys made the grade, ranging in age from twelve to fourteen years. Coached by Mr. Alton Perry, local insurance salesman who also handles the Senior Patrol tests, they are well trained in "winter first aid" and preventative measures such as marking hazards.

The youthful skiers will patrol at the National Junior Championships to be held at Thunderbolt Hill on Feb. 26-27, and were also scheduled to assist at the Winter Carnival until mud clots replaced snowballs on the Williams campus. The nine members are Randall Kezan, Jr., Leonard Widen, Thomas Walsh, Jr., John Ceely, Fred Lancto, William Talbot, Richard Tworig, Carleton Parker, Jr., and Alton Perry, Jr.

Purple Cow Presents Parody

"Smash Passion Mag Is A Vague Improvement Over Previous Trys

by Dan Pugh

The February edition of the college magazine, The Purple Cow, known to the laity as "Smash Passion" or "Heifer-in-Heat" gave the Williams reading public several bits of fairly good satire, but it also gave them quite a thorough taste of pugh; which is not unusual. But everyone should be extremely glad that some of the family Pugh didn't let them down.

For just see what a family of real writers can do! Oh, my oh my. No longer need there be any comments about the campus on the doubtful worth of the Purple Cow. No more sobbing nights for the past editors... we Williamsites have Lola, Zennmd, et al. (I'm sure we're all very fortunate to be living in such a wonderful age). Take section "Passionate Excitement" for example. I'm so glad that they said that about the telephone on Hazel's navel. Why, over at our frat, it got to be quite the rage over the Carnival Weekend; people were running all over the house trying it out. Dean Brooks and the New England Telephone Co. appeared worried, but A. T. & T. went up three points. Thanks heaps Lola.

But somehow the rest of the Pugh family didn't seem to do as well. The section "Passionate Science" turned out to be a fairly laughable parody of a Science pulp magazine, which couldn't have been what the author had in mind. Likewise with "Passionate Western" Ray Pugh missed the point entirely by writing good satire. How could the impeccable Pughs foul up so incredibly?

But such blights as these are relatively slight and no one should worry over them too much, for in the minds of all the readers is the underlying thought that they won't ever do it again. They will stay too close to the Purple Cow's south end to let that happen. So don't worry, dear Cow reader, Hazel and her phone will always be around.

Critic Commends Continuity Of "Julius Caesar;" Lasell, Sondheim, Dissell Praised

by Robert Scott Taylor

Last weekend the staff at the AMT avoided, with creditable nimbleness, a frightening number of pitfalls to turn out a performance of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" which was altogether more than adequate and, at moments, highly impressive. Perhaps the most commendable achievement was the successful handling of the play as a coherent unit, clean at the edges and much more clearly defined than most amateur performances of Shakespeare.

The Linnebach slides, shown on the cyclorama and constituting the only scenery variation, were neatly and artistically handled by William Tuttle. It is to be feared, however, that the slides lost a great deal of their effect because of the massive Ziegfeld structure—a square-edged bit of architecture which sat on the middle of the stage throughout the performance with all the unbudging permanence of the Coliseum itself. One feels that one could have done with less.

Dissell Excellent

James Dissell, as Julius Caesar, was the most consistently excellent member of the cast; his handling of the part (not a particularly complex one) showed a control of voice and body movement which represent certainly his best performance to date. His arrogant, the deliberateness with which he exposed his elegant profile, his Mussolini-like attitude on the platform—all his action helped make an extremely effective Caesar.

The performance of Casca, one of the conspirators (Charles B. Jarrett, Jr.), on the other hand, was most unfortunate. Jarrett made Casca a person who was merely stupid and rather irritable—a one-dimensional character utterly without interest. The superstition of him—the fact that he was filled with fearful dumb wonder—was to be found in the lines alone, because it definitely was not in Jarrett's interpretation.

Caesar's wife, Calpurnia, was played by Helen Byrne Kelly in a way which was adequate, but not outstanding. The role isn't much of a challenge, and Mrs. Kelly had no trouble communicating the emotional meaning of the part, but her diction was not particularly good.

Chinman Interesting

Richard A. Chinman's performance as Marc Antony was quite interesting. His voice is naturally rich and clear, and when used well—as it was in parts of the funeral scene, for example—it was moving and impressive. His tendency, however, was to let it get out of control—to raise his

Smoker Spurs Drive For New Members

A record new membership of twenty-three students signed up at the Adelpheic Union's Smoker held in the Garfield Club Lounge on Monday, February 14th.

The Smoker started with movies on Great Britain and her empire, after which President Harry McDaniel gave a speech on "What the Adelpheic Union means as an extra-curricular activity." In his speech, he referred to the aim of the Union as defined in the constitution—"To foster interest and improvement in debating among as many undergraduates as are interested", and he went on to say that such great speakers as Dale Carnegie owe a large amount of their fluency in public speaking to college debates in which they participated. McDaniel stressed the importance of such qualities as self-confidence which are a direct consequence of debating.

Refreshments Served

Following McDaniel's speech, the committee chairman spoke on the functions of their committees and their relationship to the Adelpheic Union. Refreshments were then served during which five upper-classmen and eighteen freshmen signed up for membership in the Union.

On March 28th it was announced that a debate with two English students would be held on the subject: "Resolved that Marshall aid shall cease." Eliminations for participation in this debate would consist of three-minute speeches on assigned topics. For those who wish instruction in debating the Constitutional Committee has asked Mr. Connelly to outline the essentials in debating.

Dean Praises Party At UC

Change In Rushing Quotas Delayed

"According to all reports, the houseparty last weekend was very successful and very well behaved," Dean Robert Brooks told the Undergraduate Council at its meeting Monday night. None of the few mishaps of the weekend, notably thefts from several houses and a stolen car which was left in the middle of Field Park can be blamed on Williams students, he said.

The UC Rushing Committee suggested that a new system be established whereby the Garfield Club would be allotted a quota of approximately 20% of each incoming class. One fifteenth of the remaining 80% of the class would be made the quota for each house. General approval of the idea was postponed until the new members of the Undergraduate Council take office.

Adelpheic Smoker

The Adelpheic Union held a smoker last Monday night in the Garfield Club Lounge at which beer was served without consulting the Entertainment Committee, chairman Andrew Heineman '50 reported. This is strictly against the Undergraduate Council rules, he emphasized, since all organizations planning such parties must receive approval from the committee. The council voted to reprimand the Adelpheic Union and to vote more severe penalties for future offenses since some general confusion about the UC ruling still exists.

May 7 was announced as the probable date for the Spring Houseparty. A suggestion was made that the Junior Class sponsor future spring houseparties in honor of graduating seniors, and that some other class be selected to sponsor the fall houseparty.

Soph Dance

The Sophomore Class is planning an informal dance Saturday March 19. It was pointed out that this is the weekend that Bennington opens its fall term as well as the weekend that the new musical will be staged.

UC president Henry Strong pointed out that those who did not pay the UC tax are now required to pay a four dollar assessment. Several undergraduates have sent in checks for the original assessment, three dollars, he said. They will be listed as incomplete in payment until the additional dollar is paid.

A number of students still have not signed honor system cards, it was announced. The various house presidents have been given the cards, with the request that they be turned in within the next week. It was also announced that UC treasurer Richard Wells '49 has a copy of the UC Budget which is open for anyone's inspection.

460 Couples Attend Dance; Movie Shown

Spring Weather Causes Ski Meet Cancellation; Monica, Octet Sing

"Oh my," said Poo ruefully, "no more potted honey..."

All of which is the general sentiment expressed by those Williams men who squired some 600 sweet young things of varying shades of dress, sobriety and beauty at the "Winter Carnival" of the past weekend.

The beserk Berkshire weather unfortunately cancelled the planned ski meet, but this unexpected spring-time highlighted all the other activities, including basketball with Hofstra, the AMT's "Julius Caesar", movies by John Jay, and the college dance in Lasell Gym.

460 Couples

Any cooling effect from the icicle decorations of the gym at the college dance was purely imaginary, nor was the heat wave created by the 460 packed-in couples who listened to Tommy Reynolds, Pappy Moon and the Octet, diminished by the torchy songs of Monica Lewis, who rendered some seven songs (at about $100 per warble). While the Tommy Reynolds Orchestra failed to give her good accompaniment she pleased the entire crowd with the singing of such numbers as "Far Away Places", "I'm in the Mood for Love", and "Embraceable You". Even wise-cracking Dan Mahoney was satisfied.

Except for the lack of rehearsal with Monica Lewis, the Reynolds combo delivered some very danceable music, keeping the emphasis on the "drifting and dreaming" style, but with enough of the other forms of music to leave nearly everyone content. The unrequited ski enthusiasts made up some of their disappointment by square dancing to the able calling of Pappy Moon.

Octet Sings

Intermission was the spot for the Octet, which called itself "decimated", but which actually gave good renditions of several songs, both new-to-Williams and traditional: "I Love the Ladies" and "She Had to Go Lose It at the Astor".

"Julius Caesar" was the AMT offering on both Friday and Saturday nights while, John Jay's "Singing Skis" movie was shown there on Saturday afternoon. The basketball game and house parties rounded out Saturday night.

Until the inconsiderate rain of Sunday morning kept milk-punchers indoors, many of the gallant 600 reveled in walking about the campus and surrounding area; but eight o'clocks are eight o'clocks and another Williams Houseparty folded up.

Hopkins Hall Hot Seat

There was a hot time in the ladies' restroom in Hopkins Hall last Thursday at 12:30 p.m., when some unidentified person or persons tried to duplicate the Record's sensational Finne's Flat Fire by burning up the joint. The Gale Hose Co. was on the fireball as usual, however. Arriving with fire extinguishers and cocktail shakers, they had the flames soused in a matter of seconds. The only damage was a charred toilet seat. No burns have been reported at the infirmary.

Houseparty Planning

Houseparties have passed, and the college is on its way back to normal. It was an unusual Winter Carnival, more nearly resembling, in many respects, the spring festivities. In the middle of last week, when the sun shone, the uncooperative clouds refused to precipitate, and the Carnival Committee realized that the ski meet had to be cancelled, it checked the schedule and saw that nothing was planned for Saturday afternoon except numerous cocktail parties. The Committee filled part of the gap by showing John Jay's technicolor movie, "Singing Skis". This helped, but the weekend was noticeably devoid of athletic contests. The home schedule consisted of basketball with Hofstra and Little Three fencing with Amherst and Wesleyan.

This lack of home contests on a houseparty weekend presents a situation which should be remedied. Most Williams students like to take their dates to the games. It is good entertainment and gives them a chance to let off a little excess steam.

But those students who play on a team which has an away game over houseparty weekend are the ones who suffer most. This weekend, about ninety students, including players and managers, representing varsity wrestling, hockey, and squash, and freshman wrestling, swimming, and squash had to be out of town for anywhere from a few hours to over a day. This means either that they can not have dates, or that if they do, they can not be with them for a good part of the weekend.

There has been considerable criticism of the administration and Athletic Department on account of this state of affairs. We feel that such criticism is unjustified, and does nothing to improve the status quo. We also feel that now is the time to analyze the situation and do something about it. It is no doubt impossible to do much about spring houseparty this year, but we can see that this dearth of sporting events does not occur again next year.

The Athletic office plans the schedules about a year in advance. This is obviously necessary. The Entertainment Committee does not choose their weekend until about three months beforehand — consequently until after the athletic schedules are made.

We feel that something should be done so that home games and houseparties coincide. As an idea, we suggest that the Entertainment Committee of the Undergraduate Council set the dates for all houseparties at least a year in advance. This would be all the planning necessary at that time; the sponsor of the dance, the band etc., could be handled later. Under any accepted plan for choosing the weekend, the decision would be reached through the cooperation of the UC and the Athletic Department.

We believe this bit of farsighted planning would make possible an almost all home-game schedule. We have no doubt that it would be an improvement. Other colleges have predominantly home-game schedules over carnivals and houseparties. They must plan ahead. Why can't we?

The most disappointing thing over the weekend was the slippery floor at the basketball game. Those who witnessed the game could hardly fail to realize how bad the floor was. Many times players fell, and many times, when players slipped, the referees called them for "traveling", and gave the ball to the other team. As it turned out, one of these times came at a crucial point in the game. Williams was freezing the ball, with a two-point lead, and twenty seconds to go. A Williams man slipped, the whistle blew, and Hofstra had the ball. They tied it up three seconds before the gun went off. The same thing could have happened against Hofstra. That is not the point. The basketball team should not have to play on the same floor the night after a college dance.

When the question, whether the dance could be held in the main gym on Friday night arose early this winter, the Athletic Department and coaches said they would rather not have it there. But the Dance Committee was given the green light by someone, presumably the administration. The Athletic Office knew what the game would be like, and it was right. It was fortunate that none of the players got injured. That nothing was done about this weekend does not mean that nothing should be done about similar games in the future.

If the houseparty weekend were decided a year in advance, the Athletic Department could schedule the game either Friday night or Saturday afternoon, with the dance on Saturday night. If the Dance Committee wanted the main gym, and did not want the dance on Saturday night, because of Massachusetts Blue Laws, then perhaps there would be no basketball game. Neither solution, a Saturday night dance or no basketball game, is particularly desirable, but we feel that there should not be a repetition of Saturday night's game conditions. It is a problem, but with the cooperation of the Entertainment Committee of the UC and the Athletic office, it could be solved.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

Concerning the misleading and libelous article written by a fraternity brother of two former members of the Student Bookstore, (RECORD, Jan. 22) there are many distorted facts that should be brought to the fore in order to re-shape the intentional attack on the integrity and managerial ability of the undersigned.

The writer of the article claims that the "activities of the store were halted for three reasons: (1) its lack of co-operation with the SAC (2) its woeful mismanagement and (3) it was no longer contributing to the welfare of the students." The SAC offered little or no co-operation with the bookstore, and its demands became so imposing and unreasonable that it was nearing an impossibility to co-operate and still maintain operations. One of such impositions was that to continually taking inventory. This is a very difficult and time-consuming operation in such a business with a high turnover ratio. Also, although the management was that of undergraduates and not full time experienced businessmen, the profits, speak for themselves in regard to the charge of "woeful mismanagement." Then too, having offered a 5% reduction on all texts, the third attack is absolutely absurd.

Loans Staked

It is true that both the Williamstown National Bank and the SAC had staked the group with $1000 loans. The SAC requested several times for repayment and were told justifiably that it was impossible to do so. Any student of elementary economics could easily understand the difficulty of doing a $15,000 business with $2000 capital—not to mention the physical impossibility of paying back long-term notes within a year. It is worth noting that the bank was more than willing to maintain the loan on our books.

The "grossly inadequate bookkeeping" charge has some validity due to the fact that Claire Rublee, a former manager and fraternity brother, of the writer, was the bookkeeper for a considerable length of time. His resignation in protest of the management is perhaps a resignation to his own inefficiencies or more justly inabilities.

Editorial Distorted

The editorial that Heuer wrote is worse than the first page article in its distortions, and he hints that there could have been some misplacement of funds. Our reply to this is that after our initial bookkeeper resigned, we had the books audited since then and they made complete sense to the auditors contrary to Heuer's assertion. If there is no check on all the money that was passed over, let's put the blame where it lies—on the bookkeeper and perhaps on all the managers due solely to their inexperience—and keep all undesirable connotations out unless there is some proof.

In conclusion, the treatment of the situation by the Record seems to have been grossly unjust. Following proposals of liquidation, the former managers came seeking a share of the profits. Feeling the possibility that their disloyal resignation might decrease their share of the profits, they presented the biased story to the SAC and to the Record in hopes that the SAC would guarantee them a certain amount. We had no chance to object to the presentation until after the Record had gone to print. The report of only one side of a conflict does not seem to be good journalism. We consider the issue a closed one, and only recommend (1) that in the future the Record make a thorough investigation of both sides of a conflict before reporting in order that a similar situation does not again occur, and (2) that the SAC have a better understanding of the nature of a business as large as the bookstore before again backing such an organization.

February 9, 1949

Williamstown, Mass

Very truly yours,

Robert M. Mahoney, Jr.

Daniel O. Mahoney

ED: FACT 1: "A year seemed enough time to produce some semblance of order in The Student Bookstore", quote from SAC President William Barney. Contrary to the assertion made in the letter, the books were never audited until this fall. At that time neither Albert V. Osterhult, Earl Q. Brown, nor the SAC were able to understand them. Rublee stopped keeping books over a year ago, before the present SAC took over, so their objections were not to his work.

FACT 2: Granted, financial reports are a lot of work, but the RECORD, an equally large and complicated business as a result of its bi-weekly issues and advertising, manages to comply. Complete books are a big help. During the entire term of office of the present SAC, and for an unknown time before that, no complete and satisfactory report was submitted by the bookstore. The manager's contempt of the SAC, evidenced by their failure to attend the SAC meetings, led the SAC Council to believe that it was not wholly the nature of the store's business that brought about this situation.

FACT 3: Rublee and Hendee did not present a biased story to the SAC in hopes of a certain percentage of the profits. The fact is that they concluded their testimony by recommending that the SAC keep all profits for themselves.

FACT 4: The bank could hardly be expected to recall the loan, for they were making 6% interest on it and it was guaranteed by the SAC in case the Book Store failed.

FACT 5: The profits do not "speak for themselves in regard to the charge of 'woeful mismanagement'." One of the forms which this mismanagement took was the inefficient buying procedures which tied up excessive amounts of capital in inventory and credits with publishers for extra books that had to be turned back. As a result, not even the amount necessary to repay the SAC loan, let alone any profits, could be realized except through a process of complete liquidation.

FACT 6: The RECORD did not print "one side of a conflict." All our information was garnered from the SAC, not from either testimony.

arms and shout too loud — and the emotional value of the voice was gone. At other times he would let it crack, as with grief, and again was unsuccessful simply because his voice was too big, too rich. Tricks that involve a complete change in the character of a voice are dangerous, and the greater the natural character of the voice, the more dangerous the tricks.

The roles of Brutus and Cassius, obviously the two most difficult in the play, could not have been better assigned. John Lasell played Brutus simply and with a sensitive honesty perfect for the part. Idealistic and unworldly, Brutus is torn by guilt and responsibility and grief, public and private, until his gentleness of heart no longer permits him to live in his world of conflict. Lasell did an excellent job of getting all this across to the audience in the necessarily undemonstrative way of Brutus — a delicate and difficult task for an actor.

Opposite Extremes

Cassius (Stephen Sondhelm) was involved with Brutus much of the time on the stage, and the two opposite extremes in personality balanced beautifully, one against the other — Cassius, intense and mercurial; Brutus, dreamy, careful. The scene between them (in which Brutus discovers Portia's death) contained the finest action in the play. There was a wonderful feeling there, too unusual in amateur productions, that these people were actually and importantly responding to each other.

Sondhelm, however, was inclined at times to slightly overplay his part. His gestures were a few too many, even for Cassius, and there was a certain tone of voice — a desperate kind of pleading — which he used too often, particularly with Casca, until finally it could no longer be believed. But Cassius is theatrical to begin with, and many-sided; altogether, Sondhelm did a good job of making Cassius understood, and of co-operating with Lasell to help him bring out Brutus' anguished frame of mind.

The rest of the cast, which included three or four percent of the student body, showed, as might be expected, some pretty tattered portrayals of "the" bit parts. Strato, servant to Brueus (C. Loring Brace), to cite one rather unkind example, spoke his lines as though the printing from the book had been stamped on his brain, and some of the off-stage voices, blessedly anonymous, sounded like the losers of the annual elocution contest held in the high school gymnasium of a small prairie community. (Luscius, boy-servant to Brutus (David Jenness) was easily the outstanding bit player. His singing voice was clear and sweet, and the scene with Brutus in which he falls asleep was gently, competently acted.

The AMT is to be especially congratulated for handling the stage-movements of the huge cast with such ease and lack of awkwardness. There were moments when more than ten persons were on the stage, and the effect could have been utterly chaotic, but all moved smoothly, and the possibility of other confusion was neatly diminished by the use of colored sashes to identify the characters — the eight conspirators, for example, allwearing the same off-purple shade.

Stage Gestures

There are two more remarks, left over somehow, that should be made. First, there is the business of gestures on the stage — people so often seemed to be raising their hands to Heaven for no apparent reason. One got the impression of stiff arms and stiff fingers moving about, joined to some body, but vaguely separate — not quite belonging to that body. It's an odd unnatural feeling, and doesn't really seem necessary.

Second, the purpose of having a single scene off the stage, near one of the side doors, is a bit obscure. If there were several scenes of that sort ... but there was only one, and the wisdom of breaking up a unity unnecessarily is to be questioned. Also, it was hard to keep from looking at the big red EXIT sign over the door, and the play was really not that bad. As a matter of fact, the play was quite good.

Cagers Clash With Wesmen Seeking Little Three Upset

Burnettmen Hope To Avenge Early Season Loss Tonight In Gym

Hoping to salvage a share of the Little Three title from an otherwise inauspicious season, the Williams varsity basketball team will clash with Wesleyan tonight at 8 in the Lasell Gym. Dale Burnett's squad has won five and lost nine so far this year, and one of those losses was to Wesleyan 38-49 at Middletown, Conn., on January 15.

The Ephmen must win tonight if they are to stay in the running for Little Three honors, since Wesleyan trounced Amherst 55-46 Saturday night at Amherst, and may be expected to repeat this performance at Middletown next Saturday. A Wesleyan victory tonight would assure the Cardinals of the top honors in any case.

Chances Good

Despite the loss at Wesleyan five weeks ago, chances for a Purple victory tonight are fairly good. The Williams five definitely had a bad night when they blew that one to the Cards, and they are due to get going and wallop somebody after losing to the University of Massachusetts by a 60-63 score last Wednesday and playing overtime contests with North Adams Teachers College and Hofstra in successive home games.

Wesleyan, on the other hand, has picked up considerably since the early part of the season, and has beaten Massachusetts, Coast Guard, and Trinity in recent outings. The two teams thus appear to be matched evenly on paper.

Army Defeats Squash Team

Ephs Lose Match 6-3; Frosh Topple Plebes

Dropping two bitterly fought matches by extra point scores in the fifth game, the Eph squash team bowed to Army 6-3 last Saturday at West Point. George Muller and Jerry Dresser battled their opponents on even terms right up to the wire, but weakened and lost by 15-13 scores in their final games to yield what might easily have been a 5-4 triumph for Williams.

Rich Allen and Bill Mikell were far outclassed by the Cadets' number one and two players, but Randy Thomas gave his opponent some stiff competition before losing 15-7, 17-14, 12-15, 15-9. George Wright, John Worcester, and Bud Treman all came through with 3-1 conquests, while Captain Frank Donnelly lost in straight games.

Freshmen Win

The frosh racquetmen brought a ray of sunshine into Coach Chaffee's otherwise bleak day by crushing the Army plebe team 7-2. Tom Adkins blew a 2-0 lead in losing to the Plebes' number one player by a close five game score, and Ray George dropped his match in straight games, but Pete Gurney, Laird Barber, Chris Thoron, John Malcom, Hank Norton, Jack Taylor, and Jim Harvey all vanquished their opponents to give Williams victory.

Hofstra Beats Purple, 61-57

Mason Snares 17 In Close Contest

by Blair Perry

Thirty years ago the game of basketball was played on the slippery, well polished floors of abandoned dance halls. The local version of the game reverted to that status Saturday night, when Hofstra slipped by the Williams varsity for a 61-58 overtime win here on the Lasell Gym court, left in woeful condition by the Houseparty Dance the night before.

Williams had a 55-53 lead and possession of the ball with 17 seconds left in the game, when a player slipped and fell with the ball. Hofstra took it over, and Matt Ernau drove in to score as the clock showed three seconds remaining.

Inspired by this unexpected reprieve, the visitors skidded around the Eph defense for two fast baskets in the overtime and clinched the win with a couple of late foul shots.

Foul Line Decides

With better accuracy from the foul line, where they made good on only 14 of 28 attempts, the Ephmen might have won with some to spare. They had beaten Hofstra 59-57 in an away game on December 29.

Captain Jack Mason paced the Purple attack, scoring 17 points before he fouled out early in the second half, while Bob Larson contributed 12 and Chuck Pusey added 10. Fraser did a good job of filling in for George Dittmar, who was nursing an injured knee and played only the second half

Frosh Swimmers Bow To Deerfield

Yearlings Lose, 42-24; Sutton, Jeffrey Win

Holding their own until mid-way through the meet, the Williams freshman swimming team finally bowed to a somewhat stronger Deerfield Academy team, 42-24, at Deerfield Saturday. The score after the fourth event was tied 18-18, but Deerfield victories in the 100, the dive, and both relays sewed up the meet.

The frosh were able to capture only two firsts out of the eight events, and these were the first two races. Owen Sutton took the 50 in the good time of :25.3, and Dick Jeffrey followed with another Purple triumph in the 100 yard breaststroke.

Sutton was high scorer for the yearling Muhlmen. Besides his first, he had a second in the 100-yard freestyle. John Belash, Arch Beard, and John Montgomery took seconds, and Ned Chastaney and Ghuck Hamilton won thirds.

while Sheehy and Pusey worked well off the backboards.

Close First Half

Hofstra took an early lead, 8-4, but spectacular shooting by the Williams starters pulled them into a 12-12 tie and then a 16-13 advantage. Six free throws kept Hofstra in the running until they had knotted the score at 20-20, and it was as close as that for the rest of the half. Hofstra led 30-29 at the gun.

Mason went on a scoring spree at the start of the second half and put the Purple into a 40-35 lead before he fouled out, scoring 9 of the 11 Williams points in that run. Larson and Pusey then

Ephmen Win Benefit Game

Defeat NA Teachers; U Mass Wins, 63-60

North Adams State Teachers College gave the Williams varsity basketball team an intensive laboratory course in zone defense and practical basket-making before succumbing by a 61-58 score in an overtime contest on the Lasell Gym floor here Thursday night.

The 412 contributors to the March of Dimes who turned out for this benefit clash saw what was probably the closest and hardest fought home game of the season. Neither team had a lead of more than six points at any time.

Playing an inspired brand of offensive ball, the visitors threw an effective 2-1-2 zone at Dale Burnett's hoopsters and were leading by four points with two minutes remaining in the five minute overtime period.

Williams led 30-27 at half-time, and was ahead 54-52 when Lou Parisien's one-hander tied it up with 68 seconds of regular playing-time left. But it finally took a hair-raising finish in the extra period to win for the Ephmen, as Harry Sheehy tapped in a rebound in the final minute for the winning 59-58 margin.

Parisien Stars

Chuck Pusey found himself free under the hoop while Williams froze the ball in the waning seconds, and dropped in a pass from Fagerburg for the clincher, making the final score 61-58.

Parisien had an amazing night for the Teachers, hooping 24 points on a variety of field goals and ten foul shots in eleven tries. Pusey paced the Williams attack with 13 points and Sheehy had 8, but only the set-shots of George Bush and Jack Fraser, who scored 9 points apiece, enabled the Ephs to crack the visitors' zone to any appreciable degree.

Burnett started a team of Captain Jack Mason and four sophomores — Fagerburg, Fraser, Larson, and Pusey. When this five fell behind 6-2, in went Cool, Page, and Sheehy, who with Pusey and Larson formed a team averaging just under 6'4".

North Adams was still in front 13-8, however, when the three smaller starters returned to the floor with Jackson and Bush. These men played most of the first half, using a closer, pressing defense, and the second half saw a better-balanced combination of height and speed account for the Williams victory.

Second Half Barrage

A hot second half by the U. of Mass. basketball team led to the downfall of Dale Burnett's varsity ball club on Wednesday as they lost a heart breaker by a 63-60 count. Holding on to a slim lead through-out the first half the

Benson, Radcliffe Score In Wide-open Game At Army; Pynchon Stars

by Coke Scofield

The Williams hockey team dropped a tight, rough game to the West Point Cadets Saturday night, 3-2, on Army's Smith Rink. Although the hockey was played about evenly, the laxity of the officiating allowed Army to get away with near-murder.

The first period opened with the Cadets taking the offensive and rushing into the Purple zone. The initial attack was foiled by a nice save by goalie Dave Pynchon. But at 1:25, Depew broke through and scored on a pass from Weber.

With the change of lines, Williams took the offensive and a good save by Goalie Moss averted a score. The Purple kept the puck in the Army zone for the next eight minutes but was unable to net a goal. At 10:40, Ronnie Chute was put off for two minutes for charging. Co-capt. Tom Benson and Charlie Huntington replaced the weary members of Chute's line, and took the puck into the Army zone. Huntington took a shot which Benson touched and Moss covered. Benson skated into the crease and poked the disk into the nets at 11:50.

The remainder of the period was marked by even play with the Williams defense playing outstanding hockey. Charlie Kuyk and George Owen each drew two minute penalties for slashing and interference. The period score was tied at 1-1.

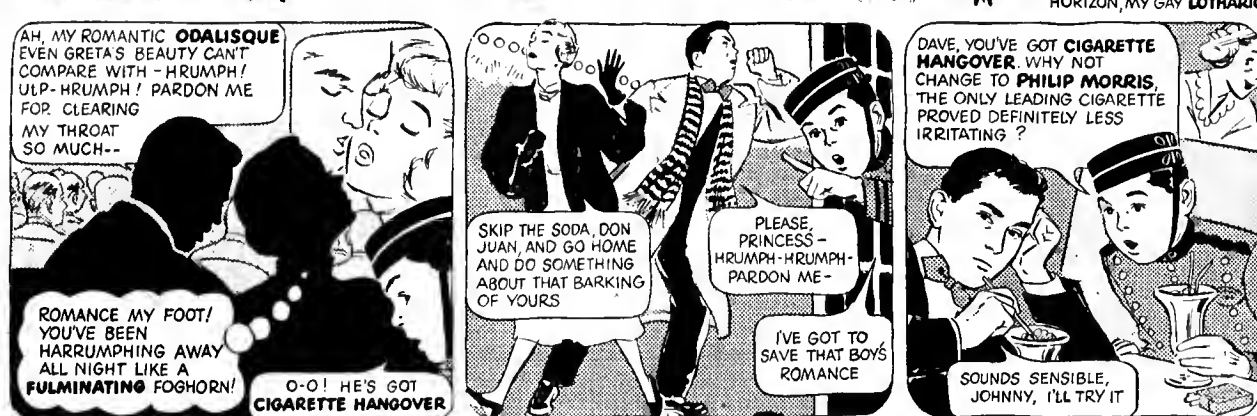

Defensive Play

For the first few minutes of the second stanza, the play was in the Purple Zone with Army pressing heavily. At 5:30, Tom Healy drew a two minute penalty for board checking. Depew followed him for tripping. For the next five minutes, play was even with both teams pressing. The defensive play was good, with very few shots being taken. At 13:30, Don Radcliffe skated in from the blue line and fired a shot into the upper right-hand corner of the cage for the second Eph goal. But Wayne Norby countered for the Cadets with an unassisted goal at 16:40. In the closing minutes of the period, Williams took the puck into the Army zone but good work by Moss prevented a score. The teams went to the dressing rooms with the score still knotted at 2-2.

The wild third period started with Bucky Marchese drawing a two minute penalty for tripping. Despite the disadvantage, the rest of the Eph second line, Doug Coleman and Mark Reynolds, continued to press and played good hockey. By now the lack of skating this season had begun to tell on the Williams players who found negotiating the mammoth rink a chore. With the teams even again, Army rushed and Dave Pynchon, whose play was outstanding, again averted a score with a beautiful save. The

Our Story Points a Real Moral

Our campus story has a definite purpose: to make you realize the genuine DIFFERENCE that PHILIP MORRIS possesses. We have full proof of that, but too extensive to be scientifically detailed here. We cordially invite interested students engaged in chemistry and pre-medical work, to write our Research Department, Philip Morris Company, 119 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y.

Purple third line with Chute, Bill Swan and Steve Wyer rushed the Army zone but was unable to cage a score.

Disputed Goal

Both teams were pressing the attack, furiously and at 9:50, Court Davis picked up the loose puck in front of the Williams goal. He skated in alone on Pynchon and fired a shot which was blocked. But he picked up the rebound and pushed it under Pynchon for the score. Many of the players and spectators heard the whistle blow before the goal was scored, but when Benson asked Referee Fleet about it, the official denied that there had been any whistle on the play.

In the closing minutes of the game, Williams kept pressing in the Army zone. Marchese and Johnson were put off for roughing and a few minutes later, Kuyk was penalized for charging. Army thwarted the Williams attempts to score by continually icing the puck and time ran out with the Ephmen unable to score.

The game was marked by defensive play, with Pynchon having only 18 saves compared to 19 for Moss. The pooriness of the officials gave the advantage to Army, who fouled flagrantly and at will, with few penalties being called. Army's meager skating ability caused them to fall over the rink and into the Williams players.

Williams has won five of its twelve starts this season, with the local lack of ice contributing heavily to the losses, several of which have been by one goal. Tom Benson is high scorer so far with 17 points. Doug Coleman is close behind with 16. The next scheduled game is this afternoon against Union on the Cole Field Rink.

Hofstra . . .

scored two baskets apiece and Ditmar tallied on a sleeper to make it 51 - 40 with several minutes remaining.

Four baskets by as many men put Hofstra back into the ball game at 54-49 with 1:27 to play, and here the fun began. Paveromo and Fowley scored for the visitors, Fraser added a one-pointer for Williams, and it was 55-53 with 39 seconds to go.

Freezing the ball, the Ephmen elected to take three straight fouls in from the side-lines. On the third one, a Purple man slipped on the worst part of the floor, and Hofstra had the ball, a tie game, and an overtime win, in rapid succession. Final Score: 61-58.

Basketball . . .

Ephmen could not keep up with the torrid outside shooting of the Mass. men late in the second half.

George Ditmar was injured early in the ballgame but Harry Sheehy took over George's high scorer role as he hit for 13 points in the first half and ended up as the Williams high scorer with his 17 point total. Ditmar, though injured, returned in the late stages game and chipped in with 14 big points, most of them on driving lay-ups. It was the fifth official defeat for the Ephmen who found that the unpleasantness of the evening was not over as they were forced to push the bus most of the way home over a very iced-up Mohawk trail.

Wrestlers . . .

The Freshman meet with Mount Hermon followed much the same pattern as their Kent victory last month. Dropping all the low-weight matches the score stood 13-0 for Mount Hermon before the Williams team took over.

At 121 lbs Katcher lost to Young by a fall in three minutes, eighteen seconds. The 128 lb. match was a default giving five points to the Hermonites. Fred Toppan at 136 lbs. lost a close 3-4 decision to Crawford after a good, well-fought match.

Four Straight Pins

The initial purple victory was made by Tom Evans at 145 lbs. His opponent, Wood lost by a 9-8 count. Four pins were made in the four remaining bouts; Bill Callaghan took Wells with a fall in five minutes, two seconds. J. Edwards pinned Whittaker in six minutes thirty-eight seconds. Jim Shanahan pinned Swanson after eight minutes, forty-two seconds. Jack Ordeman pinned Burdge in four minutes, thirty-two seconds.

CAREERS AT GENERAL ELECTRIC

General Electric is not one business, but an organization of many businesses, offering opportunities in virtually all the professions. Here three G-E men brief the career-possibilities for the engineer, the x-ray specialist and the business trainee.

ENGINEER IN MANUFACTURING

C. H. Linder (Texas), Ass't Manager, Apparatus Dept.: "An important part of my work is developing men for Manufacturing Management. For this we have a Manufacturing Leadership Program, in which we assign young men to serve 'personal apprenticeships' to seasoned, successful managers in varying phases of manufacturing."

X-RAY SPECIALIST

R. F. Wilson (Yale), of the G-E X-Ray Corp.: "For electrical and mechanical engineers, physicists, chemists, and industrial designers who enter x-ray work there's a double satisfaction—that of contributing to a technology having direct benefit to humanity, plus the challenge of unusual engineering problems."

BUSINESS TRAINEE

John McCallister (Indiana), of the Business Training Course: "Graduating as an accounting major, I had the usual choice: public or industrial accounting? I chose industrial with G.E., and, after a year of work in Tax Accounting and of study with the BTC, I'm more sure than ever that it was a good choice."

Seven Houses, Garfield Club Elect Officers For New Year

Following the customary procedure at this time of year, the social units across the campus are electing new officers for the ensuing year. Already seven houses and the Garfield Club have made their selections, and the rest will choose their officers shortly.

After a spirited campaign at the Garfield Club, Andrew Heineman, '50, and Walter Stern, '50, emerged as President and Vice-President, respectively, while David Brown, '51, and John Brody, '52, were elected Club Treasurer and Secretary. Heineman has been active on the UC, Cap and Bells, the Gul, and is a Junior Advisor.

Dekes, Chi Psis Elect Officers
Down on fraternity row, the Dekes placed Kevin Delany and Kim Whitney, both '50, in the two top positions in the house, at the same time naming Robert Jordan, '51, and Elliot Curtis, '52, as treasurer and secretary. Besides being an Associate Editor of the RECORD, Delany is Co-Editor of the Handbook and is a stalwart on the Cross Country, winter and outdoor track teams. Whitney is active with the RECORD business board, the World Federalists, the octet, and as player and manager of the golf team.

Next door to them at the Chi Psi Lodge, Alexander "Pete" Peabody, '50, and Cliff Farmer, '50, were chosen for the chief executive posts with William Campbell, '51, and Thomas Costikyan, '51, filling the treasury and secretarial jobs. Peabody, a member of the hockey team, has spent three years with WMS and the Purple Cow, and one with the UC.

AD's, Zetas Chose Heads
The Alpha Deltas, meanwhile, elected Tim Louis, Randall Thomas, and Phil Van Dusen, all class of '50 and all Deerfield men, as President, Vice-President, and Secretary, respectively. During his college career Louis has been associated with the Glee Club, Cap and Bells, WOC, and the swimming and track teams.

Next door at Zeta Psi, John Bowen, '50, and Henry Wineman, '50, were elected to be President and Vice-President at the annual turnover, while Sid Moody, '50, and David Ruder, '51, became the new Secretary and Treasurer. Bowen has been on the soccer team for three years and is co-captain elect for next season. Wineman, who is also a Junior Advisor with Bowen, is most famous for his exploits with the swimming team, of which he is the co-captain this year.

Pynchon Leads DU
David Pynchon, '50, and Daniel Roach, '50, are the new President and Vice-President at DU, while Bill Widing, '52, has been chosen Secretary with Richardson Fowle, '50, remaining as Treasurer for another year. Pynchon is on both the varsity hockey and lacrosse teams, a member of the WCA, and a Junior Adviser. Dad Roach, who hails from Buffalo, is one of many boys from that city who have become members of the varsity football squad.

At the Theta Delt house on Park Street, John Warren, '50, was named President in the recent election, while William Ward and Dick Williams, both '50, were chosen Treasurer and Secretary. Warren is also President of the Flying Club and is associated with SAC, WOC, IRC, and the Thompson Concert Committee.

Stuart Cool '50, will head the Sigma Phi next year, with Lansing Scofield '50 as vice-president and Peter Goodfellow '50, as treasurer. Cool, who made three baskets within a minute in the basketball game with Wesleyan Wednesday night, is also an end on the football team.

Wyckoff Gives Interview Hints

Be Neat, Pleasant To Job Recruiter

Placement Bureau Director William O. Wyckoff addressed a group of about thirty interested seniors on the subject of the interview with visiting recruiters at an informal gathering in the lounge of the Garfield Club last Monday evening.

Mr. Wyckoff opened his talk by mentioning the fact that it is highly desirable for seniors to take advantage of the Placement Bureau facilities, for interviews on the porch of the Old Faculty Club are in a more familiar location than those in the city office of a personnel manager. Besides this reason, an interview here will save a great deal of shoe leather.

The obvious hints for the senior were first noted by Mr. Wyckoff. He said that the person being interviewed should make as good a first impression as possible by being neat and careful of his appearance. He should also be prompt in meeting his appointment, and should not smoke unless invited to do so by the recruiter.

Don't Be Cocky
During the interview let the recruiter lead the discussion. Give information gladly and easily, but the important thing not to be is cocky. Mr. Wyckoff said that the senior being interviewed should know something about the company before going to be interviewed, as that makes an impression on the recruiter, and he should realize that he has to sell himself to the interviewer.

Mr. Wyckoff said that the person being interviewed should know whose move comes next on leaving a recruiter, whether it is up to the company or to himself to take the next step. The last bit of advice Mr. Wyckoff gave was to suggest that, on obtaining a job, the individual write thank-you letters to those people instrumental in his obtaining the position. The informal meeting closed with a discussion and question period.

WCA Elects New Leaders

Top Positions Go To Brashears, Stamper

As a result of elections held last Monday night, Charles Brashears '50 has been elected President of the WCA while David Stamper '50 is the new Vice-President. Brashears succeeds Edwin Maynard '49 to the Presidency.

Three other officers complete the executive committee of the Association. Geoff Bennett '50 is the new Recording Secretary, Robert Van Gorder has been elected Corresponding Secretary, while William Sauters is the new Treasurer.

Brashears, the new President is an AD. He was Co-Captain of the Frosh Swimming team, is on the varsity team now, and has been a Junior Advisor and a Cheerleader. Stamper, the new Vice-President is a Bete. He played freshman hockey, and was on the Gul and in the College Band.

News Bureau Elects Van Dusen President

At elections held last Tuesday night, the following Juniors were selected as officers of the Williams News Bureau and the Eph Williams Handbook.

Prea. - Phillips B. Van Dusen, Sports Ed. - John B. Gibson, Feature Ed. - Lon W. Homeler, Hometown Ed. - H. Nordon Van Horne, Hometown Sports - Stephen C. Wyer, Assistant Sports and Business Manager - Donald J. Miller, Handbook Co-Editors - Kevin F. Delany, Lon W. Homeler, Business Mgrs. - Thomas B. Healy, Jr., John S. Prescott, Jr.

Prof. Discusses Early Books

Cremeans Introduces Renaissance Display

Presenting a lecture introductory to an exhibit of Renaissance books that will be displayed through the month of March in the Chapin Library, Professor Charles Cremeans elaborated on the subject "The Renaissance Man in England" at the faculty lecture last Thursday.

In addition to the lecture Mr. Cremeans has also compiled a handbook in conjunction with the exhibit prepared by the librarian, Mrs. Richmond. This exhibit, which Mrs. Richmond hopes will be the first of a series that the faculty will help her to prepare, includes the work of Renaissance authors and a series of Holbein prints.

Professor Cremeans disagreed with those that believe that the advent of Henry VII heralded the beginning of modern institutions in England. The Tudors did not cooperate with the middle class to lay the foundations for parliamentary government, but rather, were divine right kings ruling with the people's consent. The middle class was not in the position to complain, either about this or about the hierarchical character of the aristocratic society of the Tudors.

Baxter, Sheehan Conduct First Of Annual Vocation Lectures On Monday Night

Beginning the annual spring term series of Vocational Guidance lectures, President James P. Baxter III and Walter F. Sheehan, ex-Williams College Athletic Director and Dean of Freshmen, will conduct a discussion on teaching at college and prep school levels Monday night at 7:30 in the Kappa Alpha house.

Under the supervision of the Placement Bureau, representatives of manufacturing, teaching and insurance firms are scheduled to visit Williams this coming week to recruit members of the senior class for positions with their individual organizations. The schedule for the week of Feb. 28 - Mar. 6 is as follows:

Mon., Feb. 28 - Arthur C. Hellman, Director of Training for the Tremco Manufacturing Company of Cleveland, is seeking sales trainees in building maintenance and construction products. Mr. Hellman offers $2700 per year to start.

Revenge Against Wesleyan

George Ditmar goes in for a lay-up against Wesleyan in Wednesday night's game in Lasell Gym. Dewey Fagerburg waits for the rebound. The Ephmen avenged their earlier defeat by swamping the Cards, 71-43.

College Average Down From Last Year; Garfield Top Again

Some major shifts in social group standings and a lowered college average highlight the recently published record of scholastic rankings for the college. Still in the top two scholastic places are the Garfield Club and Beta Theta Pi.

From a near record high of 3.41 achieved during the Spring term of 1948, the college average slipped to a not-so-bad 3.37. Of the present college enrollment of 1096, 22.03% had an average of B or better. Included in this percent are the 41 freshmen who made the honor roll.

Phi Gams Soar
Climbing from the number six spot in the 1948 Spring semester, Delta Upsilon now ranks third. Even more spectacular is the Phi Gam's climb from fifteenth to fourth. Among the also rose are Phi Sigma Kappa, Phi Delta Theta, Psi Upsilon, and Delta Psi.

In his lecture Professor Cremeans described at length the aristocrat of 14th and 15th century England, explaining that the aristocrat thought of himself as primarily a courtier. As such, he vied with others for the favor of See FACULTY, Page 4

Among the fallen mighty are the Sig Phi's who slipped from a high of third to rest among the mediocre at seventh this fall. Delta Phi passed the Sig Phi's on the way down, skidding from fourth place in last Spring's term to a halt at tenth.

The complete scholastic standings for the houses last semester are listed below:

Rank	Social Group	Ave.
1	Garfield Club	3.5487
2	Beta Theta Pi	3.4350
3	Delta Upsilon	3.3821
4	Phi Gamma Delta	3.3750

Art Contest For Students Begins

Comment, Art Museum Sponsor Competition

Sponsored jointly by Comment Magazine and the Lawrence Art Museum, a competitive exhibit of student art will open Tuesday in the Lawrence Museum and continue until March 12. A total of $50 in cash prizes will be awarded for the best pictures. The exhibit will be opened to the public immediately after Professor Newhall's lecture on stamp collecting in the museum Tuesday afternoon at 4:15.

Prominent Judges
Three well known judges have been procured to evaluate the pictures. They are Miss Marion Huse, a well known Vermont painter, Dr. Karl Weston, Director Emeritus of the Lawrence Art Museum, and Mr. Samuel Hunter, Williams graduate, art critic for the New York Times.

The prize winning pictures in the show as well as any honorable mentions will be sent to Springfield to be exhibited in the All-New England Eastern College art exhibit from April 3-May 1.

Ephs Hit Top Scoring Total As Cards Fall

Larson, Mason, Ditmar Pace Purple Offense; Lead By 20 At Half

by Blair Perry
Playing one of those rare games in which everything they did was right, Dale Burnett's varsity basketball team buried bewildered Wesleyan under an ever-mounting pile of points, 71-43, in the Lasell Gym here Wednesday night.

The Purple put on its greatest offensive show of the year to take a 20-point lead in the first half, while a tight man-to-man defense was holding the Cardinals to 15 points. And after some preliminary sparring against a Wesleyan zone defense in the second half, the Williams hoopsters proceeded to stretch their advantage to 28, also running up their highest point total of the season. It was a case of turning the tables on the Cards, who defeated the Williams five without much trouble 49-38, at Middletown on January 15.

Larson Stars
Controlling both backboards, working the ball around the pivot in great style, and fast-breaking on occasion, the Ephmen swept the visitors right out of the ball game in the first half. The Cards were plainly marked for defeat after ten minutes of play.

Everybody was hot for Williams. Playing a great all-around game, Bob Larson scored 13 points to take top scoring honors, while Captain Jack Mason and George Ditmar were right behind him with 12 apiece.

George Bush and Bud Cool entered the contest early in the second half to score 8 points each on some amazingly accurate shooting. Harry Sheehy's work in the pivot set up a lot of scores, and Ditmar was all over the floor until injured late in the game.

Robertson High
The three big sophomores — Larson, Pusey, and Sheehy — did a tremendous job of controlling the backboards while operating two at a time throughout the game.

Center Dan Robertson of the visitors was the high scorer of the game, however, throwing in 14 points, including 8 of the Cards' 15 in the first half.

The victory gives Williams a chance to tie for the Little Three hoop title if they win at Amherst a week from Saturday. Should the Amherst five upset Wesleyan in the remaining Little Three contest, Williams can wind up on top of the heap.

Sheehy Sparks Ephs
Williams jumped away to an early lead, which was never lost, as Bob Larson counted with a tap-in for the first score of the game, and Mason and Ditmar added two quick hoops before Wesleyan broke the ice.

After they had built up a 11-4 lead in the first eight minutes, Harry Sheehy came in to spark the Ephs to a 31-14 advantage with three minutes to play in the half.

Big Harry fed Mason and Ditmar from the pivot for rapid scores, and threw in three baskets of his own in that interval, as well as operating sensationally off both boards.

Mason Chips In
Captain Jack Mason also contributed three other baskets in this streak, one on a neat pass from Ditmar, and the latter tallied on a fast-break. Hoops by Larson and Fraser made it 35-14.

Invasion

Williams was invaded last weekend by groups from at least three other men's colleges. Some of the invaders attempted to wreck everything they could lay their hands on. One group raised havoc in the Deke kitchen; another wrecked a telephone booth in the AD house. Other fraternities lost items ranging from a mantle clock to a stuffed sword fish. The appearance of a damaged stolen car in Field Park can not be blamed on anyone at Williams.

While we can be righteously indignant about our treatment at the hands of these invaders, we must remember that at least twice in the past three years similar groups from Williams have been guilty of the same sort of invasions on Amherst. If these affairs do not stop, they may very well lead to a series of intercollegiate wars. Having once been on the receiving end of an invasion, we must realize that this must be stopped at all costs. H.D.M.

Letters To The Editor

Fraternity Perspective

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

In the consideration being given the question of discrimination in fraternities at Williams, some of the defenders of discrimination on racial and religious grounds are ignoring the fact that fraternities are not independent social institutions but creatures of privilege which Williams College has in the past seen fit to encourage and tolerate. The fact, however, that the college has permitted the fraternities the privilege of being discriminatory does not imply that the fraternities necessarily have the right to be discriminatory.

To talk of fraternity rights at all, seems to me, is to misjudge the position of fraternities in the entire context of the college community. So far as I know, the purpose of Williams College is to provide the best liberal education possible, and whatever organizations represent the college—athletic teams, newspapers, language clubs, fraternities—are, it is to be expected, to be judged and permitted in relation to the success with which they are contributing to the job of liberal education being done by the college. It would be difficult to argue that the social system at Williams does not need some overhauling before it contributes as fully as it might to that job, but merely because the fraternities as now constituted are tolerated, it should not be assumed that they have the right to thwart more perfect education functioning of the college. Whatever they do, they do with the indulgence of the college whose aims they were originally intended to foster.

Perspective Mandatory

It is an undoubtedly healthy situation which finds Williams fraternity men investigating their social system. They might do better, however, to gain some perspective on the investigation by viewing its validity in educational terms. A system which owes its existence to the indulgence of the college—and at the same time fosters a marked seventy-thirty percent division within the college—is not healthy educationally, nor is it a system which permits Williams to make the appeal to prospective freshmen which its other facilities and attributes allow. In interviewing men interested in Williams and in meeting the reactions of people whose first glimpse of Williams has been in the pages of LIFE, I have found a serious questioning of whether a system as strongly privileged and as apparently unjust, as that at Williams is either worth taking a chance on or defensible in terms of responsible educational practice. The RECORD might do well to consider the fraternity system, not as a social institution with rights, but as a part of the total complex on which Williams sells itself and validates itself in what is becoming an increasingly democratic society. The differences between a college and a country club should be large, yet most of the arguments which I hear in defense of the present system at Williams are more applicable to country clubs than to training grounds for a responsible citizenry.

February 15, 1949

Frederick Rudolph '42

(Editors Note: Fred Rudolph, who was editor of the RECORD back in 1941 and a member of the Williams faculty in 1946-47, belonged to the Garfield Club his freshman year, joined a fraternity his sophomore year, became its president, and is now a member of its alumni board of trustees and representative of the Williams chapter on the national board of the society.)

Mindszenty And Freedom

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

I have just finished reading an article about the trial of Cardinal Mindszenty and feel that a very clear lesson can be learned from it. Namely, that a cherished ideal, like personal liberty, or freedom from tyranny should never be allowed to be taken for granted by a people with the hope that their leaders will guard it for them. Human strength of character is a relative thing. When it is pitted against mechanical devices or medical drugs there is no assurance that this strength of character will come through with its integrity preserved. Cardinal Mindszenty, a strong, honest, determined believer in the Christian religion, was broken in forty days. His oft-stated belief in the continued separation of Church and state in Hungary with the corollary of the freedom of the clergy to attack the Communist-controlled state was destroyed by his captors. And some of the very people for whom he had become a martyr believed that his broken submission to Communist tyranny was the admission of a guilty man.

Our lesson—leadership in behalf of democracy is not enough. The citizens must be taught truthfully and forcefully what a wonderful experiment they are living under. As one of these people I wonder if this is being done here. It seems to me that most of the time our professors here at Williams are trying either to impress us with their own erudition rather than attempting to broaden ours, or trying to cram a certain number of facts down our throats, hoping that we have enough native intelligence to learn our own lessons from them. Maybe some of us do. But I am sure that some of us don't! Education should be a continual process of self-enlightenment coupled with the increasing ability of being able to think for oneself. But a good many of my fellow students appear to have reached a stage of stagnation where they have accepted a learned explanation of society and human progress as the final word. As soon as a person does this he is living in the past. He no longer can wake up in the morning and feel that today will bring him new experience and a new orientation of his thoughts. He has to fit in any new experience with the conclusion he has already accepted. As this would appear to be an impossibility he has the alternative of returning to the pursuit of new proof to sustain his past conclusion. Perhaps I am mistaken in thinking that many of our professors aid in this road to stagnation—I hope so.

In conclusion it is going to take the continued efforts of all of us in developing our own strength of character to the point where the rights of all men under God are important enough to us that it will never be necessary to have martyrs made out of priests. I am not saying that we all must believe in the same thing. But we all must be "big" enough to realize that human freedom doesn't just happen—it takes work. We must remember this if this country is to be the leader of the world in continuing to extend free thinking and intellectual progress under a democratic system of government to all of mankind.

Closed Houseparties?

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

This last houseparty struck a new note in my three years experience at Williams. The college was descended upon by the professional houseparty crasher. Williams men were made to feel uncomfortable in their own bailiwick by the crowding in of people who had no right to be there. If this is snobbery, all right. But, after all a Williams houseparty is for Williams men; not the professional party goer or the general public.

These professional crashers, since they have no ties to any segment in the college can be a dangerous element and cause trouble and taint us without being able to pin responsibility to them.

I would like to suggest that at the next houseparty, all alumni, friends, and students be issued a houseparty ticket of some sort. The social units would have to have a master at arms to act as doorman. This is the only way in which discourteous, on the make, free liquor chasing elements can be discouraged.

Those outside guests of a social group can be sponsored and register at the social group and thus gain "houseparty privileges." If this is snobbery, then it will have to be. Our houseparties are not public affairs. A little screening for our protection is in order. As flattering as it is to have our houseparties crashed, we still must put a stop to it. They are our girls and our liquor. We pay for it, and it is for us, not any person that feels like coming in. Our facilities are overcrowded as it is, and at houseparty time there is only room for ourselves and our friends.

I am not particularly perturbed, but somewhat annoyed at this damper to an otherwise perfect "proxio-spring" houseparty. The houseparty crasher may be a nice fellow, but he still does not belong.

Mahoney Profits

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

Congratulations on your excellent refutation of the Mahoney Brothers letter. However, the RECORD and the SAC have not gone far enough. By the Mahoney's own admission, a sizable profit was realized from the liquidation of the student book store. It is in regard to the disposition of this profit that I wish to speak.

Campus rumors estimate this profit to be about $2000. For the following reasons, I feel that this profit should go to the SAC rather than to the managers of the book store.

1) This is an excellent opportunity for the new SAC to demonstrate to student organizations that they should be run for the benefit of the student body, rather than for the financial gain of the student managers. On the surface, the enforced liquidation of the bookstore may appear demonstration enough. However, it is no punishment to the Mahoneys. Financially, they profited more from the enforced liquidation than they would have if they had continued to manage the book store through their graduation. To make this action meaningful, the liquidation should be profitable to the student body, not to a few individuals.

2) The student would benefit if the SAC took the entire profits which were realized from the liquidation of the student book store. This money could be used either to reduce next year's SAC tax substantially or to support new, worthwhile student activities. To what use are these profits being put at present?

I hope that all students who agree with these sentiments will approach their SAC representatives and urge immediate action along these lines.

Correction

Mason had racked up 11 points and Ditmar 9 in the first half, as Williams kept possession of the ball most of the time and the shooting ranged from good to terrific.

Coming back with a zone defense at the start of the second half, the Cards slowed down the Purple attack for a few minutes, and started to do a little scoring of their own. The home team missed 14 straight shots at the start of the half, but Wesleyan could not get closer than 14 points from the Purple, midway through the half.

At this point George Bush and Bud Cool started to hit from all over the court for Williams. Interrupted only by Pusey's free throw and three Cardinal baskets, these two men chalked up 15 straight points to stretch the Purple lead to 62-38 with 3:30 to play. Cool hit with three shots in a row in one stretch, to completely destroy any Wesleyan hopes.

Three quick hoops by Bob Larson and another by Jerry Page topped it off, sending the Cards home on the short end of a 71-43 score. Williams had outscored its traditional rivals by a two-to-one ratio in field goals, and had looked deficient only at the foul line, where the Burnettmen caged a mediocre 11 for 23.

Teams Meet Harvard, Yale, Wesleyan Today

Eph Five Encounters Elis, Tony Lavelli At New Haven

Opponents Rated 13th In Country

When the varsity basketball teams of Williams and Yale clash at New Haven, Conn., tonight, there will be five men on each side, but all eyes will be on fabulous Tony Lavelli, the nation's leading collegiate scorer. Yale will have the Tony.

If Lavelli gets 40 points tonight, as he did against Princeton three weeks ago, nobody will be greatly surprised. If he doesn't get 20, the basketball world will be amazed.

Capacity crowds pack Yale's Payne Whitney Gymnasium to see the accordion-playing hookshot artist chalk up double-figure scoring totals in every Eli game, while rival coaches go crazy trying to devise means to stop him. Apparently it can't be done.

Tony Not Alone
Tony now needs only 94 points to surpass George Mikan's record of 1870 for a major-college court career. Having averaged 21 a game this season, his fourth at Yale, the Eli captain should be able to crack Mikan's mark in his five remaining games. And having been held to a miserable 9 by three Holy Cross men last Saturday and to 14 at Princeton Tuesday night, he probably will pour it on against the Ephmen tonight.

But Yale, contrary to popular misconceptions, is not a one-man gang. Dick Joyce, Ted Anderson, Art Fitzgerald, and others, are top-notch players, who readily take up the slack when opposing teams concentrate on Lavelli and See EPH, Page 4

Ice Men Meet With Crimson

Lost Practice Fades Chances Of Victory

The Williams hockey team will meet the Crimson of Harvard at 3:30 this afternoon within the narrow confines of Eddie Shore's small Springfield Coliseum ring.

With one of the best teams in the East, Harvard is favored to take the Purple sextet, which has been hard-hit by the Spring-like weather. The Crimson has split in two games with Dartmouth and has beaten BU. West point succumbed to the Tide to the tune of 11-0. Harvard boasts an Olympic player in Lew Preston, who had been injured, but felt well enough to score against Dartmouth in their recent encounter.

With the team having had very little skating this week after a roughly played 3-2 defeat at the hands of Army, Coach Frank Bell will be banking on his big defense men Don Ratcliffe, Dud Irwin, George Owen, and Mitch Fish, with standout goalie Dave Pynchon to hold John Harvard in check.

The rest of the team will be at their usual posts. Co-capt. Charlie Huntington will center the first line, with high-scoring Co-capt. Tom Benson and Tom Healy at the wings. Doug Coleman will face off for the second line with Mark Reynolds at right wing and Bucky Marchese on his left. The third line will have Bill Swan, Ronnie Chute, and Steve Wyer.

Track Team At New York

Williams Enters Six In IC4A Contest

The eyes of Billville track fans will be focused on Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight as Coach Tony Plansky sends his indoor sprinters into the 1949 Intercollegiate Championships. The IC4A meet, top attraction of the winter circuit, is an elimination affair, pitting forty-six teams of all calibre against each other. Thus, the Purple, if they are to garner any points in the IC4A's, must match paces with the cream of the crop. Williams has failed to finish in the money since 1941, when the crack mile relay team took second.

According to Plansky, "Chances are that the way things look now Williams will run in the two mile relay." This will mean a new innovation for the batonmen, who up till now have competed in the mile relay event. In an unofficial time trial Tuesday all four relaymen were clocked in approximately 2:00.5 for the half mile route, which would mean that the quartet as a whole should hit somewhere around eight minutes flat in the relay. It is entirely within the realm of possibility that a time this fast would get the boys into the finals and thus mean perhaps a fourth, fifth, or sixth for the Purple.

Swimmers To Meet Wesleyan Ephs Again Given Advantage

By Norm Wood

Seeking their fourth consecutive Little Three crown, the Williams swimmers meet a better-than-average Wesleyan team in Fayerweather Pool at 2 p.m. this afternoon. The host team figures to give plenty of competition in several events, but does not have the overall strength to take the Muirmen in the first leg of their Little Three title defense.

The meet this afternoon is the thirtieth meet between the teams. Williams has won 19, Wesleyan 10. Starting in 1916, Wesleyan won the first seven meets, but since that time has had little luck against Williams, capturing only three victories. The last Cardinal triumph was in 1936.

More important, however, than the dual meet side of things is the Little Three championship. The Ephmen will be in quest of their thirteenth crown, and from all indications should notch the first half of it this afternoon. But Wesleyan has four men who should give the Purple some trouble.

Chip Stone has hit some very good times in the 220, and some average ones in the 100. Charlie Ash is a sprinter, who, early in the season turned in a :23.9 time in the 50. George Forbes swims the 200 breaststroke in the neighborhood of 2:33., and diver Rog Taylor has the accomplishment to his credit, that he has been beaten only by Sevilla and Campbell, the springboard twins from Springfield.

Cards' Record

The Cards have been having a good season, too. They bowed in their opener, to Dartmouth, 44-31, and more recently were edged out by Springfield. They were on the short end of a 51-24 score in a practice meet with Army. But they have beaten University of Massachusetts, MIT, Tufts, and last Saturday conquered Amherst, 40-35.

To match that record, Coach Bob Muir's charges have triumphs over BU, Colgate, Brown and Springfield, with losses to Dartmouth and Army. The line-up for Ephmen will be approximately the same as in the past.

At 4 p.m. the Williams frosh swim against the Wesleyan cubs. Nothing is known about the latter, except that they lost to the Amherst yearlings, 48-27.

Wrestlers To Face Cards

Purple Team Favored; Frosh Also Fight

This afternoon the Williams wrestlers, both varsity and freshman, travel to Middletown for the first round of the Little Three competition. The varsity squad appear heavy favorites for the encounter, while the cubs' outcome is more uncertain. Fresh from their Hofstra victory, Harv Potter's grapplers will again be at full strength today.

The Cardinals have had a mediocre season winning two, Tufts and MIT, both with 18-12 scores, and losing four. Springfield, Coast Guard, Harvard, and Amherst have all downed the Mazemen. From their last year's team, which Williams took 26-7, only two men remain. Captain Art Stemler at 145 lbs. is again the strong point of the team while Bellobuono may constitute a threat at 165 lbs.

Wesleyan Line-up

The lineup for the two teams should be: Bill Kelton facing John Silliman at 121 lbs., Captain Paul Cook against Bill Berkman, and at 136 lbs. Scrubby Perry and Brewer. Paul Shorb meets Stemler, Green Carleton is paired with Jack Dolph, and Bill Leitinger comes up against Bellobuono. At 175 lbs. Bart Conant faces Neil Keller and at Unlimited John Stillwell closes the meet with Wichowski.

New England's Best

Until upset by Princeton Tuesday night, Yale had rolled up 13 straight wins. Yet to be beaten by a New England team, the red-hot Blues currently boast an 18-5 record. They practically clinched an NCAA tournament invitation with a 60-52 victory over Holy Cross on Saturday.

Only games to mar the Eli record this season are upsets at the hands of Penn and Princeton, and three straight December losses to St. Mary's of California, Stanford, and N.Y.U.

The Elis were rated thirteenth in the country by Monday's Associated Press poll of sports-writers.

Zone Again?

Yale has used an effective zone defense in recent ball games. The Ephmen have an unfortunate tendency to run and hide every time a zone comes in sight.

With all this in mind, Purple hopes seem none too bright for this evening, but the squad is at full strength and anything could happen. If any one man is selected to play opposite Lavelli, Bob Larson or Harry Sheehy would seem the logical choice.

Track ...

In addition, Coach Plansky has announced that he will enter dash men Brooks and Bacharach in the 60 yd. dash. The Purple track and field mentor has also indicated that if the two mile relay quartet fails to shape up to early expectations, he may make a last minute change and enter the sprinters in individual events. In this case Ziegenhals and Delany would compete in the 1000 yd run and Co-captains Barney and Smith in the 600 yd event.

"In the nature of an experiment," according to Coach Plansky, the two mile relay will give the Williams runners a chance to race in an event which they feel will afford a much better opportunity to bring laurels to Billville. So far this season the quartet of Bill Barney, Gordy Smith, Kevin Delany, and Walt Ziegenhals has conquered Amherst, Wesleyan, Wheaton, Middlebury, and Brown in mile relays. In their last two previous outings the sprinters took relay wins at the Boston A. A. Games and at the Millrose Games, where the purple turned in their best time of the season, a 3:27.7.

This aristocracy was created from among the lesser nobility by Henry VII. This monarch destroyed the power of the most influential of the nobility. His successor, Henry VIII, wishing to keep a loyal class with enough wealth to support his policies, won the support of the lesser nobility by distributing confiscated monastic lands to them.

Italian culture had a strong affect on this aristocracy, but the most lasting affect was caused by Castiglione's book, the "Book of the Courtier". Among other prerequisites, the courtier should "play at cards not wholly for money's sake and not fume and fuss at losing" and "not run, wrestle, leap, or cast the bar with men of the country except when he is sure to gain victory". This is one of the many books to be displayed at the Chapin Library.

Stamp Designs Now Shown At Lawrence

An exhibition of "postage Stamp Design" sponsored by the Museum of Modern Art in New York City is currently having its first showing in the United States at the Lawrence Art Museum. This is the first attempt to present the subject of Stamp Design in the light of the stamp's manifold functions and special design problems.

The exhibition includes about 300 original examples of American and foreign postage stamps, beginning with Great Britain's historic Penny Black of 1840. From this first general issue, the varied subject matter that has appeared on stamps is followed to the increasing use in recent years for political purposes. The U. S. Post Office's 29 special stamps issued last year which caused widespread public criticism are also included. The exhibition which is open to the public, will continue through March 7. Museum hours are from 9-12 and 2-4 on weekdays, and 2-5 on Sun. In connection with the exhibition, Professor Richard A. Newhall will give a lecture entitled "True Confessions of a Stamp Collector" at the Museum on March 1 at 4:15 p.m., to which the public is invited.

People have been wanting more and more telephone service and we've been working hard to provide it. We've added nearly 9,000,000 new telephones in the past three years. Still more are needed and are on the way.

But that's not all that we've been doing to increase the usefulness and value of the telephone.

Telephone service has been extended to automobiles, trucks, boats, trains and airplanes... real progress has been made in expanding and improving rural telephone facilities... wire and radio relay networks have been developed and enlarged... research has started on new electronic devices which promise to bring even wider horizons of electrical communications within view.

All this means better telephone service for you... more people you can reach easily and quickly... more time in your day... a larger world in your grasp.

Wrestlers, Swimmers Drub Wesmen

Varsity, Frosh Wrestlers Win At Wesleyan

Matmen Easily Annex Little Three Victory With 23-3 Drubbing

M. C. Behre

With little serious opposition, the varsity wrestlers downed Wesleyan last Saturday, 23-3. Only one defeat, John Stillwell's at Unlimited, was taken in the lopsided contest while a pin by Green Carleton and six decisions comprised the Eph score. The ensuing freshman match, however, was a different story, resulting in a closely-fought 18-18 victory for Williams.

Bill Kelton's match with John Stillman gave the Cards their initial set-back. In a quick match with eight reversals the bout was decided 10-8. Captain Paul Cook then met Pitts at 128 lbs. and out-fought him 8-2.

Four Shut-Outs

In the next four events, Wesleyan was unable to score a single point.

At 136 lbs., Scrubby Perry blanked his opponent, Tony Brewer, 6-0 in a slow match with eight minutes time-advantage for Perry. Gambrell, wrestling at 145 lbs. in place of Stemler, was also downed 6-0 by Paul Shorb. Green Carleton climaxed his one-sided match with Jack Dolph by a head chancery pin in five minutes, forty-one seconds.

Still another 8-0 decision was gained at 165 lbs. as Bill Leitzinger outfought Wesleyan's Schultz. The last Williams victory was gained at 175 lbs. as Pete Smythe, in his first varsity match, downed Neil Keller 15-5. Bart Conant, the usual entry is out with an injured leg.

One Loss

With the score 23-0 for Williams, the Cards finally took over and Pete Wichowski beat Stillwell by a narrow 3-2 margin to avoid a shut-out.

The freshmen started out with a five-point bonus as Wesleyan had no 121 lb. entry. The 128 and 136 lb. bouts made up the deficit however, as Buckingham and Russell pinned Fred Pew and Fred Toppan respectively.

At 145 lbs. Sam Humea, a substitute for Tom Evans, was no match for Wesleyan's McKee. In avoiding a pin, nevertheless, he set up the Williams victory.

Bill Callaghan then took over and pinned Ed Dolph in five minutes, twelve seconds. Dick Edwards continued his perfect record of pins at 165 lbs. with a fall over Mayor in four minutes, thirty-four seconds.

At 175 lbs. Jim Shanahan beat James, 4-0, to decide the victory with an even, fast match. Jack Ordeman at Unlimited then dropped a 5-2 decision to Bill Cope-land. The final score was 18-16.

Schaaf, Voorhis New Outing Club Officers

Charles Schaaf '50 and Baird Voorhis '51 were chosen president and secretary-treasurer of the Williams Outing Club last Thursday evening.

Reporting on results of the houseparty, dance chairman Bill Hutton '50 stated that the club netted almost $400 on the dance. While the official attendance was 500 couples, he estimated that over 600 were there. Other statistics reveal that over 500 carnival programs were sold and that 403 people attended John Jay's ski movies.

WCA-IRC-SF Travel Meeting

Beecher To Lead Lisle Fellowship Discussion

Summer opportunities in community living will be outlined by Mr. Norman Beecher, representative of the Lisle Fellowship, and James Burbank '50 at a special combined meeting of the Williams Christian Association, the International Relations Club, and the United World Federalists in Jesup Hall this Friday evening.

The jointly sponsored program will include discussions of the Lisle Fellowship, of caravans and youth hosteling in Europe, and of other ideas for summer living. Any interested member of the student body may attend.

Lisle Fellowship is an organization whose purpose is to provide a "world perspective in community living to discerning students." Living in one of four centers in the country, about forty percent of the students in each group consist of foreign students studying in this country. By living and working with these people and a variety of Americans from every walk of life, the participating students will be able to gain a greater understanding of the world around them.

Leadership Training

Emphasis is placed in the program on leadership training. After spending the first week of the six week summer period in the center, students integrate the leadership training which they have received in discussion groups by doing field work in surrounding areas. Teams of four students spend four days a week during the rest of the period in working with established community groups. The ultimate result of the program, according to the Fellowship, is that "former students assume necessary leadership toward world understanding."

Youth hostel groups will spend the summer cycling around Europe and helping to rebuild hostels. The caravans are church-sponsored groups that will tour Europe, placing emphasis on work with church groups there.

Bete, D Phi Elect Shea, Robinson

Six More Fraternities To Choose Presidents

Wednesday night the Bete house elected James Shea, '50, and Louis Jeffrey, '50, as President and Vice-President. Shea holds the position of Interfraternity Sports Manager, and Bob Jeffrey is a member of the Yacht Club. Ronald Moir, '51, newly elected Vice-Commodore of the Yacht Club has been appointed as Secretary, while James Lynch, '51, has the office of Recorder.

Stuart Robinson, '50, has been chosen to head the D Phi house for next year. Robinson has been on the tennis team for three years and was winner of the Rockwood Tennis Trophy the last two years. David Kelly, '50, and William McGregor, '51, fill the positions of Vice-President and Secretary respectively. The Treasurers of both the Bete and the D Phi houses are yet to be appointed.

With the Bete and D Phi elections completed, there remain only the following houses which have yet to select their officers for the coming year: KA, Phi Delta, Phi Gamma, Phi Sig, Psi U, and Saint. Whereas the Saints are to hold their elections at some later date, it is expected that the other houses will have chosen their officers by the end of this week.

Alumni Dinner On March 10

Baxter, Taylor To Talk At N.Y.C. Gathering

President James P. Baxter 3rd and Brigadier General Telford Taylor '28 will be the speakers at the Annual All-Williams Dinner for All Williams Men at the Hotel Commodore in New York City on March 10. Charles D. Makepeace, '00, treasurer of the college, will be the toastmaster.

The Williams Dinner Committee, headed by Sheldon Coleman '22 made the announcement recently that all 8,000 Williams alumni were soon to receive notices of the Dinner, so that they might plan to attend. The Committee naturally hopes that this will be the largest of all gatherings of Williams men. President Baxter will deliver his annual report on the college during the evening, and General Taylor will also speak.

Presenting General Taylor

Taylor served as an instructor in History and Political Science during the first year after his graduation in 1928. He then attended Harvard Law School and graduated in 1932. After spending several years serving in various branches of the government in a legal capacity, he joined the Army in 1942 as a Major in Military Intelligence.

Serving until 1945 in the European Theater, he was assigned to Justice Robert Jackson's staff for the Nuremberg trials of Nazi war criminals. His present post is U. S. Chief Counsel for War Crimes. In 1945 he received the Distinguished Service Medal.

UC Announces Party Dates

Deadline On Final Bids Delayed Until Monday

Announcement of the dates for houseparties this spring and next year, an announcement that UC elections would be held next Monday night, and postponement of the deadline for turning in final post season rushing bids were the most important of the few items considered by the Undergraduate Council at a short meeting Monday night.

Entertainment Committee Chairman Andrew Heineman '50 announced that the Spring houseparty would be sponsored by the Junior Class as a Senior Prom on May 14 this year. He pointed out that all college sports except track and lacrosse will have home games that weekend. October 29 the weekend of the Union football game, February 25, and May 8 were announced as tentative dates for houseparties next year.

Deadline Postponed

Due to a misinterpretation of the new Council post-season rushing regulations, which call for a three week rushing period, it was decided to extend the deadline on final bids for another week. The new deadline will be next Monday night, and most houses will hold pledge dinners Tuesday.

SAC president, William R. Barney '49, told the UC that the now defunct Student Bookstore still has $900 in outstanding bills. He announced the $2 memberships in the store will be refunded as soon as these bills are collected.

Paul Mort '50, chairman of the Williams Outing Club Winter Carnival committee, told the UC that although the final financial report could not be submitted, the organization made a profit of between $350-$400 on the dance.

Business Staff Elects Officers

Prescott, Stackhouse Top 'Record' Board

Juniors John Prescott and Edward Stackhouse have taken over as Co-Business Managers to handle the business end of putting out the RECORD. Harold Frazier '51 moves into the job of Advertising Manager with Douglas Garfield '50 as his assistant. Edward Stebbins '51 is Circulation Manager and Robert Mill '51, Treasurer.

Prescott has had three years of experience in the business department as well as being active in the WCA, freshman swimming, and as Secretary of the Junior Class.

Stackhouse worked his way up through the advertising department, being its head this year. He is also on the SAC executive council and is slated Vice-Chairman of the Lecture Committee next year.

Many Activities

Frazier is on the News Bureau, WCA, and played intermural golf, while Stebbins' other activities include Lecture Committee, World Federalists, and Gul.

Treasurer Mill works for Cap and Bells, World Federalists and as squash manager. Garfield, assistant advertising manager, played football his first two years at Williams and freshman lacrosse, as well as working on the RECORD for three years.

Health Officer Reveals Faults

Expert Scores Houses On Sanitation Basis

"Dish-washing and disposal of waste food are the main general faults in social unit housekeeping", Mr. Leslie H. Abell, an officer of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, revealed to stewards, treasurers, and headwaiters of the various houses.

Invited by Dr. Thomas V. Urmy, Mr. Abell inspected campus facilities last December and reported his findings to the group on February 24.

During the inspection of food handling methods, scores were worked out for each unit. The average college rating was 70.5%. The highest rating was 80 per cent.

Eighteen Faults

Including all major and minor grievances, Mr. Abell listed eighteen points in the sanitation problem. These included cleanliness of employees, toilet facilities, refrigeration, ventilation, and lighting. In addition, floors, walls, and ceilings should be clean, doors should be self-closing, and windows should be screened.

He specifically mentioned that a tightly covered metal can, scrubbed daily, should be used for garbage. This would guard against mice, squirrels, and other rodents which were infesting several houses. A shed built especially for garbage cans would be best.

Sanitary Waiters

It is unsanitary, too, Mr. Abell pointed out, to allow waiters to smoke as they serve, since saliva can be transferred to dishes. All waiters should wash their hands frequently. Detergents, as cleaning agents and water softness, were recommended.

Poor construction, cleaning, and storage of equipment was also an important fault. Several social units were guilty in respect to the wholesomeness of meals prepared from left-overs.

Heuer Heads Edit Board

Wood, Mohring, Collins, Scofield, Stern Also Fill 'Record' Positions

The next issue of the Record that roles off the North Adams presses will be the product of new blood in the editorial department as well as in the business setup. When the annual promotions place the new six-man editorial board of juniors in the still-warm chairs of the out-going seniors, it will be Richard Heuer in the top spot as Editor.

Norman Wood and Herbert Mohring will be at the make-up desk as Co-Managing Editors and Philip Collins is to be News Editor. Lansing Scofield and Wallace Stern take over positions as Co-Sports Editors.

Heuer started on the RECORD his freshman year, has worked for Cap and Bells and the World Federalists, and has been on the Deans List for two years. He is on the golf team and has won the college golf championship for the past two years.

Wood has played on the football freshman hockey, and lacrosse teams, in addition to being a Junior Advisor and on the Dean's List for two years. He started on the RECORD in November, 1946. His cohort, Herb Mohring is now swimming manager and has also worked for the Gul, Cap and Bells Purple Key, and been on the Dean's List two years. This is his third year on the paper.

News Editor Collins is Managing Editor of the GUL, a cross country and track star, and has been on the Dean's List three years. He is relatively new to the RECORD starting in his sophomore year.

Scofield and Stern, in addition to being Co-Sports Editors are both vice-presidents of their respective social units, Sigma Phi and the Garfield Club. Scofield, who began writing sports last year, played freshman soccer and is now on the varsity lacrosse team. The "has beens" for Stern are track, Gul, Adelpic Union, and Spring Conference, while the "are nows" include soccer, Dean's List, and UC.

New Musical March '18-22

Cast Of 44 To Stage Sondheim Production

The forty-four man cast of Stephen Sondheim's new musical, "Beggars on Horseback," have set themselves the ambitious task of a four night stand. Directed by David Bryant, the show will be presented on March 18, 19, 21, and 22.

"Beggars on Horseback" is a musical adaption of the play by George Kaufman and Marc Connelly which ran on Broadway in 1924. It has two acts, a prologue, and an epilogue, making a total of thirteen scenes.

Rainbow Pair

Choreography will be handled by Ida Lightman Kay, with Stephen Sondheim acting as Musical Director. This is the same pair who collaborated last year on "Phinney's Rainbow". Gerald O'Brien will help with the musical direction.

Three of the seven leads are feminine: Caroline Bidwell as Mrs. Cady, Betty Ann Dissell as Gladys Cady, and Janet Foley as Cynthia. Ronald Moir will play the part of Neil McRae, with Howard Erskine as Albert, Martin Luthy as Mr. Cady, and James Dissell as Homer Cady.

Muirmen Sink Improv'd Card Squad, 43-32

Ephs Take Only Five Firsts As Slow Times Mar Little Three Tilt

by Herb Mohring

Despite a number of very slow times, and the inability to take more than five firsts the Williams swimmers had relatively little trouble capturing the first half of the Little Three championship Saturday afternoon when a better than average Wesleyan squad succumbed 43-32 at Middletown.

Although Hank Wineman, Swede Svenson, and Ray Baldwin did their slowest time of the year, a 3:05.6, the medley wasn't even a race. The Williams trio still managed to finish fifteen feet ahead of the Cards.

220 Close

The story was different in the 220 however. The Wes star, Chip Stone, managed to pile up an almost decisive lead of two body lengths against Bob Reid and Sandy Lambert in the first two laps of the race. He tired rapidly, however, and Reid was able to touch him out by inches at the finish.

Bill Rueckert made a false start in the 50, and was four feet off the box when the referee shot the gun. Thinking that it would be called back, Bill pulled up in mid air, and Mo Murray was left standing at the edge of the pool. Mo managed to catch up, but the start gave the Cards first and third.

Dive

Off his form, Cliff Stowers could only take a poor second from the Card's Rog Taylor. The competition was interesting for the erratic but impartial judging as much as anything else.

Up to this point in the meet, the Cards had managed to hold Williams to a slim two point lead, but after Ray Baldwin and Mo Murray took first and third in the 100 and Hank Wineman and Ted Lamot made a clean sweep of the back stroke, the Wes men were all but through. Both races were won in poor times, :55.4, and 1:40.2 respectively.

Although both John Snyder had healthy leads over the Wesleyan breast stroker, George Forbes at the 100, he pulled up steadily and won going away.

'52 Nominates Eight For Class Positions

Eight men from six different social units were nominated for President of the Class of 1952, at a class meeting in Jesup Hall, Friday February 25.

Delta Kappa Epsilon and Kappa Alpha demonstrated their power by each placing two men on the ballot, which reads as follows: Archibald Beard, Psi Upsilon; William Callaghan, Delta Kappa Epsilon; Edward Chastaney, Kappa Alpha; Paul Cramer, Phi Psi; Rudolph Garfield, Phi Delta Theta; Richard Kraft, Kappa Alpha; Larry Lewis, Delta Psi; and George McAleenan, Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Final elections will be held Thursday evening at 7:15 in Jesup Hall. The three men receiving the greatest number of votes will be elected President, Vice-President, and Secretary-Treasurer.

The Death Of An Editor

Editors, like salesmen, have dreams. In the course of putting out a newspaper, however, many of the dreams never materialize. The critics are always the roughest; your friends always speak the softest, and the least often. Under our direction, The Record has been labeled libelous; we have been declared virtually illiterate by a member of the English department.

As we prepare to write our last thirty, we merely hope that we have done justice by the majority of our readers. It is time now, however, to quell a rebellious voice. With this issue we pass the battered typewriter on to a new editor and a new board.

We wish them the best of luck.

A Note to John Jay and Mike Churchman, Editor of the Wesleyan Argus

Our last suggestion.

Although Lavelle and Yale figuratively beat the ears off Dale Burnett's hoopsters the other night, we still think Williams is head and shoulders above the rest of the Potted Ivy league. It must be noted, however, that when Wesleyan's Frank Wenner dumped in a long bucket last Saturday to down Amherst, the best we can now do is tie for the Little Three basketball crown when we beat Amherst.

To us, and to most Williams men, this is most unsatisfactory. It happens, however, quite frequently in the basketball and baseball circuit that such ties occur. We propose, therefore, presuming that Williams beats Amherst next Saturday, a Williams-Wesleyan championship playoff game. We further propose that the Little Three colleges take immediate steps to make this standard procedure in all future cases of ties in Little Three competition.

Seth Bidwell

UC President

When the presidents of social units, classes, and the SAC, plus the Club delegates, — supposedly representing the cream of the Williams crop — get together Monday to elect a UC president for the coming year, their choice ought to be a well-reasoned one based on investigation into the capabilities of each man and founded on considerable discussion in house bull sessions.

The reign of Hank Strong and cohorts during the past year has put the UC on the Williams map, so let's keep it there. The job of UC head cannot be given to the man who slaps the most backs, serves out the longest list of platitudes, and represents one of the "best" houses, without doing great harm to the interests of every Williams student. The man should be one with experience, strong personality, quick wit, ideas, and plenty of aptitude for long, hard work.

President of the UC is not just the highest honor that can be bestowed upon an undergraduate; it is the job which, more than any other in the long list of undergraduate activities, can directly and importantly affect the interests of every student. A selection of the proper man to fill the post should be made accordingly. R.J.H.

Dirty Kitchens

In the recent health inspection of social unit eating facilities, (see Page 1) the college average, 70.5%, was roughly the same as the average for all public eating houses throughout Western Massachusetts. That's the average though, and it means that many units were much lower — that is, dirtier and less healthy than Mike's, the Gym Lunch, and the various North Adams cafes. Two social units, in fact, hit close to the bottom of the 17-category rating system with a dull thud — a flat 58%. No editorial comment on these facts should be needed in order to point out just how bad the situation is.

Of the 16 social units, 13 rated zero for dirty dishes, glasses, and silverware, 14 for violating rules for waste disposal, and 15 for tolerating conditions favorable to rodents. Inspector Leslie H. Abel made recommendations to treasurers and stewards for specific action to be taken to alleviate these conditions, and these should be discussed and, wherever practicable, passed in the next full meeting of each social unit.

Long Live The King!

The regal poise of Williams students was solemnly reaffirmed last week in the student chapel of Elmira College (a school for sweet young things in Elmira, N.Y.) when Gorgeous John MacNeill — his picture that is — was elaborately unveiled and he was proclaimed king of the Elmira campus. Gorgeous John was chosen king of the campus in a contest sponsored by the freshman class when his picture (supposedly submitted by his ever-loving little sister) was chosen as that of the most "distinctive individuality and king-like appearance" from over 120 photographs submitted.

Magnificent MacNeill, the campus king, is — naturally enough — a Williams undergraduate, member of the Class of 1951, whose royal mein sheds rays of beauty under the stately elms of Williamstown, and especially under those in front of the Phil Doodle house. Testimony from some of his friends, however, reveals embarrassing speculation concerning the validity of the Elmira girls' appraisal of his kingliness. (see picture) They expressed hope that Gorgeous John did not take advantage of the rights given him by the girls' solemn proclamation, especially the one which states that "he may call on the loyal students of Elmira College to do his will at all times, and may demand complete obedience of his humble subjects."

The text of the proclamation is as follows: "Hear ye, hear ye! Let it be known that on this day, February twenty-third, in the year of our Lord, 1949, that the King of Elmira ascends his royal throne and becomes the absolute sovereign of all Elmira College domain. He has been chosen for his distinctive individuality and king-like appearance. To him we give the power to rule over us for the next year. He may call on the loyal students of Elmira College to do his will at all times, and may demand complete obedience of his humble subjects. May his rule be long and prosperous. Long live King John MacNeill!"

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of the Williams Record:

For going on three years now I have read and enjoyed the RECORD very much, but there is something missing from it that I think would be of interest and to the benefit of most of your college readers, and that is a review of the flicks to be offered by the Taconic Theatre, in particular, and the movie houses in N. A.

It seems to me if you can afford the time and space to review newly released platters that are of interest to only a comparatively few, especially since the price of the darn things is almost prohibitive, that it would be a great service to the student body and other local subscribers to furnish either a first-hand critical review of the coming attractions or compile a consensus opinion from men and women who make their living writing such reviews.

Of course I realize that should you pan too many of the "flickers" you might find yourself losing some advertising business from the neighborhood movie palaces, but on the other hand you would be performing a valuable and honorable service to the local community nestled here in the bosom of the scenic Purple hills — and I should think that would be one of your primary journalistic aims. ED. We agree and plan to start as soon as practicable.

To the Editor of The Williams Record:

I have delayed in writing this letter in answer to Mr. Collins' column of January 19th on "discrimination" because I had hoped that a reply might be made by a fraternity member. Unfortunately none has appeared. I had also feared placing myself in Mr. Collins' ill favor as a "self-righteous liberal" particularly since I am not receiving "15c a word" for these lines. Since I feel very strongly on this subject, however, I feel compelled to make a few observations about the points he has made in defending discrimination here at Williams and to state my disapproval of the college's failure to take any action.

Mr. Collins makes much of the need for absolute freedom in campus social relations and gives this as an argument against any restriction by the college of the fraternity's right to discriminate. He fails, however, to take any cognizance of the fact that a member's right of free association is severely restricted by discriminatory clauses, over which he has no control, in his fraternity's charter. The poll taken last Spring by the UC's Committee on Undergraduate Social Relations indicated that the vast majority of the fraternity men polled opposed discrimination against Negroes, Jews, and Catholics, and find it contrary to the best interests of Williams College. In spite of this sentiment, in no case involving discrimination has any action been taken.

Mr. Collins says further that racial and religious discrimination should be allowed but opposed. It is not being opposed. It continues to exist on the Williams campus, and the situation shows no sign of improvement. As most of us are aware, however, much progress has been made at Amherst. Mr. Collins bitterly attacks the action of the Trustees of that college in forbidding discriminatory clauses in fraternity constitutions but offers no constructive alternative. The fact remains that this action has resulted in the democratization of the social system on the Amherst campus. Phi Kappa Psi's courageous action might never have been possible were it not for the support given the chapter by the college ruling. There is no reason why similar action could not be equally effective if taken by the authorities at Williams. No fraternity would be forced to take any student which it did not want, but merely aided in removing all obstacles to the selection of any student it desired to pledge, regardless of race, creed, or color. That social units can function effectively without any discrimination is demonstrated by the Garfield Club. There, those principles of democracy which are so essential a part of an effective liberal arts education are learned through everyday practice. In the Club, Negroes (when present among the student body) and Whites, Jews and Christians, rich and poor students, live together without animosity or feelings of superiority or inferiority.

I am not questioning that there is a place for both fraternities and the Garfield Club on the Williams campus, but there definitely must be some positive action to liberalize the fraternities if they are to be a useful part of a liberal arts education and a preparation for life in a free and democratic America.

Squash Team Beats Indians

Eight Ephmen Defeat Dartmouth Opponents

Swordfish and typewriters aren't the only things Dartmouth boys have been taking from Williams; their racquetmen headed back to Hanover Saturday night with an emphatic 8-1 drubbing administered by a Purple squash team that looked sharper than it had at any previous point this season.

The Ephmen triumphed in the number one spot for a change as Bill Mikell abandoned his usual slam bang tactics and played with a studied offense that paid off in the final points of a close five game match. Rich Allen broke his opponent's confidence with a nice comeback in the first game and coasted to a 3-1 victory.

Dresser Impressive
Randy Thomas lost to the Green's number three man in a four game match, but Jerry Dresser looked impressive in outpointing his opponent almost two to one. Jerry played coolly and accurately and had complete control of the court. Roger Dickinson crushed Dartmouth's Hulbert, giving him only five points in the first two games.

George Wright, George Muller, and Captain Frank Donnelly were all forced into extra points at least once, but they were tough to beat with the pressure on, and none of them lost a game. Suddenly discovering that he could play the corners much better than

Mich. State, Syracuse Top Relay In IC4A

Williams' quartet of indoor relayers failed to garner a point in the 1949 IC4A track championships at Madison Square Garden, Saturday night. Running in company with fast-stepping Michigan State and Syracuse, the Ephs finished third in their qualifying heat of the two mile relay and thus were nipped out of an appearance in the finals.

Co-capt Bill Barney led off for the Purple. Walt Ziegenhals was next to lug the baton around the Garden oval. Co-capt Gordy Smith was number three runner, and Kevin Delaney was anchor man of the quartet. It took Williams exactly eight minutes, five and two tenths seconds to break the tape, but this was not quite good enough to finish in the money.

Michigan's Spartans went on to take first place in the finals of the two mile relay, and Syracuse was not very far behind in the number three slot.

Dashmen Brooks and Bacharach were also eliminated in their trial heats. The two sprinters ran third in respective heats of the 60 yard dash.

his opponent, Bud Treman came from behind in the number seven spot to gain a 3-2 conquest.

Summary:
Mikell (W) beat Ringe (D) 15-9, 7-15, 15-11, 11-15, 18-15.
Allen (W) beat Kurr (D) 15-13.

Harvard Stops Eph Sextet; Coleman, Pynchon Excellent

by Coke Scofield

After gaining a 2-0 lead at the end of the first period, the Williams hockey team faltered and dropped a close 5-3 decision to Harvard last Saturday afternoon on the Springfield Coliseum rink.

The first period was all Williams with the Purple skaters outplaying the Crimson. After Harvard had kept the puck in the Williams zone for a short time, Tom Benson and Tom Healy skated in on a lone Harvard defenseman, but missed connections on a pass and failed to score. A solo shot by Don Ratcliffe missed the cage by inches but at 6:14, Doug Coleman converted a pass from Mark Reynolds into the first Williams goal.

The puck spent most of the next few minutes in the Williams zone. George Owen broke down the ice alone, but his shot hit a defenseman's pad. Soon after, Coleman rifled a shot which bounced off Goalie Phil Clark's pad, but Reynolds was on hand to slip the disk into the cage at 17:40. The first period ended with the score in Williams favor, 2-0.

Roof Falls
The first three minutes of the second stanza were the downfall of the Williams team. Harvard Captain Dave Key broke from the face-off and passed to Lew Preston who scored at 0:25. The same combination repeated 35 seconds later, with Preston passing to Key for the second Harvard score. The Williams defense remained lax and Tom Moseley scored unassisted at 2:58 to put Harvard in the lead. The Crimson's offense was strong as they pressed constantly in the Williams zone while Dave Pynchon contributed many beautiful saves to prevent further Harvard scores. The count at the end of the period was 3-2.

The third canto was also to the Purple's disadvantage, with four Ephmen being put off the ice within the first nine minutes. Williams continued to hold its own even though short one player most of the time. Benson's shot was foiled by Goalie John Chase, and Reynolds' solo shot bounced off the pipe. At 12:07, Moseley scored the fourth Crimson goal on a pass from Myles Huntington, brother of Williams Co-capt, Charlie. This provided incentive for the Purple, for two minutes later, Coleman skated in alone on Chase and slipped the puck past him. But Bill Garrity added Harvard's insurance on a pass from Key at 14:41, and that was the game.

Lavelli Modest After Triumph

Credits Success To Team's Help

by Blair Ferry

"Well, they were feeding me quite a lot." Such was Tony Lavelli's modest reply when we found him in the Yale locker-room Saturday night and inquired how it felt to score 52 points in a college basketball game.

Terrific Tony, the nation's leading collegiate scorer, had just left the basketball floor of the Eli's Payne Whitney Gymnasium, after breaking his own one-game Yale record of 40 points and shattering the gym record, against an outclassed Williams five.

This remarkable exhibition had virtually assured Tony of breaking George Mikan's college-career mark, and had further justified his selection on numerous All-America teams.

Tony Not Excited

"Williams has a great shooting team," added the tall dark-haired magician as he removed a knee-guard and tossed it into his locker. "We didn't underestimate them at all." Lavelli spoke quietly and thoughtfully, hardly elated for a man who had just put on his amazing performance.

No glare of photographers' flash-bulbs or jubilant shouts filled the Yale dressing room.

Without the big blue number "8" on Tony's white satin jersey, a stranger would have found it difficult to single him out from his fellow players.

Lavelli Really Great

And then all at once you realized that here was one of the great basketball players of this era, a sincere young man who took it all in stride and thought nothing of scoring 52 points in a game. This was old stuff to Tony Lavelli, finishing his fourth year of college basketball in the Yale uniform. To his mind, he simply had had a good night, his teammates had set him up, and he had thrown the ball through the hoop.

"They have a great pivot man, really great. He would go on any ball club," the Eli captain asserted. See LAVELLI, Page 4

Yale Star Approaches Mikan's All-Time High In Individual Scoring

by Steve Blaschke

Tony Lavelli is the greatest shot in collegiate Basketball today! That just about tells the story of the Yale game which saw the slim Eli captain rack up 52 points on a baffling array of hooks, one-handers and lay-ups to crush Dale Burnett's game but outclassed Williams five by an almost unbelievable 100-64 count.

The huge Italo-American crowd went wild as its hero scored his own scoring record, the Payne Whitney gym record and came within 42 points of George Mikan's all-time collegiate scoring record. Lavelli threw in 20 field-goals and made good on 12 of his 12 tries from the foul-line. Thirty three of his points came in the second half when the Yalles, paced by Art Fitzgerald, did nothing but work the ball to Lavelli and listen for the swish.

Williams Leads 14-13

The game started off like any other tight collegiate ballgame. Chuck Pusey drew first blood on a one-handed set which was followed by a set and a lay-up by Ditmar while only Lavelli's foul-shot had spoiled the shutout. The lead then changed hands five times until Ditmar's foulshot gave the Purple a 14-13 lead at the ten minute mark. Then it happened! The Yale fast break began to click and the Elis scored ten straight points before Larson's onehander temporarily stemmed the tide. At half time Yale had piled up a 46-29 lead with Lavelli contributing 19 points to the total. From the second half's opening whistle the crowd smelled a record and every time Lavelli glided into his hook slot a hush fell over the gym only to give way to a tremendous outburst when the almost inevitable two points were registered on the scoreboard. The five black jerseyed guys who were gamely trying to stop the deluge were completely forgotten, even though, they were making shots and setting up plays which would bring the house down on any other night.

Larson Scores 13

With about four minutes to go Lavelli stopped proceedings by breaking his own 40 point scoring record on a blind hook from the right side. Yale then called time out and with a 36 point lead Howard Hobson, who coaches La-

Crash Cagers At Home Swimmers Crush Wesleyan Foes

Lack of height was the costly factor as the Williams freshman basketball team lost its third game of the season to a taller and sharper-shooting Springfield five, by a 42-36 score Saturday in the Lasell Gym.

Playing in spurts, the Ephs were in the ball game most of the way, but could not control the rebounds at all, so never could quite match the Maroons. Behind eight points at the half, they then fought their way back into contention with four quick baskets at the resumption of play and kept it close until four minutes from the end, when the Maroons opened up a five-point lead with which the home team could not cope.

Jack Ellicker was high man for the Ephs with nine points, while John Kulsar and Paul Cramer hit for eight apiece.

Swimmers Sweep

Coach Bob Muir's freshman swimmers looked like the team to beat for the Little Three crown as they skimmed through Wesleyan waters Saturday to trounce the Cardinals, 49-26 John Belash and Owen Sutton dominated the four free-style events, each snaring two firsts.

The medley relay team set the theme in the first event as Dick Jeffrey built up a lead the Redbirds could not overcome. Also outstanding for the Purple were John Montgomery, who won the dive, and George Balkind, who took a first in the 100 yd. breast stroke. Other Eph point getters included Ed Chasterney, John Lane, Ted Garfield, Tenny Schad, Archie Beard, and Charlie Hamilton.

Tony ...

velli and Co., called for an all court press so that Tony could better pile it on. Thus, not only were records broken, but a new low in sportsmanship was also reached. This is not sour grapes but it was not necessary because Lavelli would have scored more even if they'd removed the backboards and narrowed the rims. It was just that hot, or rather, he's just that great a ballplayer.

Strange as it sounds, the Purple played one of their finest games to date. Captain Jack Mason's spirit, Dittmar's play-making, Pusey's and Sheehy's pivot-play and Bobby Larson's 13 points were good enough to win any ballgame but this one because this one just happened to belong to Tony Lavelli and there was no room for any double billing. The box score:

ed when we asked his opinion of the Williams players. He evidently was referring to Chuck Pusey, who had scored a dozen points as the Purple's center. "And the guards, very good guards," he pointed out.

We inquired about his plans for the future. "I'm going to graduate school," he said, but had made no definite plans to play pro basketball as yet.

A white-clad teammate rushed up with programs to be autographed for three young ladies outside the door. Tony borrowed each one in a minute and handed everybody out, please". Intoned a voice of authority from the rear of the room, evidently that of Coach Howard Hobson. We added our congratulations to those of thousands, probably millions, of Tony Lavelli's well-wishers, and beat a hasty retreat.

"WILL IT RAIN TONIGHT?"

... everyone wants to know, but military and air-line pilots must know and know promptly!

To help transmit this information, the Bell System maintains the largest facsimile transmission system in the world ... a network nearly 20,000 miles long.

Over these wires the United States Air Force, in cooperation with the United States Weather Bureau and other government agencies, is able to send up-to-the-minute weather charts and maps to many points simultaneously. Each receives a faithful reproduction of the originals. The chance for error is eliminated, valuable time is saved.

This network is a part of America's vast communications system—the finest in the world. The job of maintaining and improving this system, of keeping the cost of telephone service as low as possible, never ends.

How 'torchy' can a song be?
Hear Fran Warren singing—
"What's My Name?", a new RCA Victor disc
... and you'll know!

Titian-haired Fran Warren, with tears in her voice, sings a tuneful lament about love. The title of Fran's new disc, "What's My Name?", leads to another question, "What's Your Cigarette?" Fran answers, "Camel!" As Fran sings it, "Ever since I made the 30-day mildness test, Camels are my cigarette."

How MILD can a cigarette be?
SMOKE CAMELS FOR 30 DAYS
—AND YOU'LL KNOW!

In a recent, coast-to-coast test of hundreds of men and women who smoked only Camels for 30 days—an average of one to two packs a day—noted throat specialists, after making weekly examinations, reported:

NOT ONE SINGLE CASE OF THROAT IRRITATION DUE TO SMOKING

CAMELS

Money-Back Guarantee! Test Camel mildness for yourself in your own "T-Zone." T for taste, T for throat. If, at any time, you are not convinced that Camels are the mildest cigarette you've ever smoked, return the package with the unused Camels and you will receive its full purchase price, plus postage.
